UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1917.

No. 1

R. A. FALCONER, PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, HONOURED BY KING GEORGE V.

Created a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George in His Majesty's Recent Birthday Honours

In addition to all the honours Varsity has received, especially for the past three years, during which period hundreds of its graduates and undergraduates have been honoured on the field of battle, one of the greatest honours of all, has been conferred on this University, when President Robert Alexander Falconer, M.A., D.D., LL.D., C.M.G., was this summer created a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George as a mark of recognition for his splendid work in patriotic endeavours by His Majesty King George V in his recent birthday honours.

He is the second president of the Toronto University to be knighted. The only other president upon whom the same honour was conferred was Sir Daniel Wilson, who served as head of Varsity from 1881 until the time of his death in 1892. He was knighted in 1888 in recognition of his services in education and literature.

"I consider that our University is destined to become one of the greatest educational institutions in the world," said Sir Robert a year previous to the war. Since then about 4,500 of her graduates, undergraduates, and members of the staff have enlisted in the service of their country. Sir Robert, with his strong personality, high ideals and strong convictions has exercised an extraordinary amount of influence in guiding men in their actions by a sense of duty. His motto may be summed up in one word, "service". With this single word, Dr. Falconer has had, since 1907, a more far-reaching influence on the life of our Varsity students than any other University president before him.

The Daily Star in one of its editorials dated December 9, 1914, on the Toronto University, says:

"Whatever may be our views as to the question which now arouses great public interest, we are all friends of the University of Toronto, and we all hope that it may play an increasingly great and useful part in our country. . . . As Canadians, we have reason to be proud and grateful that we can command the services of such men in a public capacity—thoughtful men, men of high ideals and strong convictions, men guided in every action by a sense of duty. It is especially a matter for congratulation that such a man should be in a position to exercise a powerful influence over young minds and characters that are being formed in a great educational institution."

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE HAS MADE MANY NEW STAFF APPOINTMENTS

F. C. A. Jeanmeret is Now Registrar in Place of J. S. Will

Several important changes in the faculty of Arts have been made for the year 1917-1918. Prof. E. A. Dale, M.A., Edinburgh, has been given an appointment in the Latin department. For the past year he was acting professor at Queen's University, Kingston, and previously he lectured in Latin and Ancient History at University College.

The Italian and Spanish department has been fortunate in securing Prof. J. E. Shaw, Ph.D., said to be the foremost authority on Italian on the continent. He is coming to Varsity from the John Hopkins University and will take the place of Prof. Northrup, who has gone to Chicago University.

Prof. Samuel Beatty, Ph.D., has been promoted to the assistant professorship in mathematics.

*F. C. A. Jeanmeret, who has been lecturer in French, has been appointed registrar of University College, taking the place of Prof. J. S. Will.

The Latin department which has been depleted since last year owing to the death of two professors, the late Prof. Fletcher and Dr. Johnston, has obtained W. D. Woodhead, Ph.D., a graduate of Oxford. For the past year he has been at the University of Chicago. Previously he was on the faculty of the University of Alberta at Edmonton.

UNDERGRADUATES, GRADUATES AND STAFF HAVE WON HONORS

4052 Men Have Gone to Front from This University

"God of our fathers known of old
Of our far-flung battle line,
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine,
Lord God of hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget—Lest we forget."

However others may think, we of Varsity do not need any proof that our University is doing its duty in this great world war. Not gladly, but as surely as it was necessary, the finest of our men have left us and now on foreign soil are making a new tradition, not only for Canada, but also for our Alma Mater. The teaching Staff has given some 127 of its members, the graduates 2,794, the undergraduates 1,319, former students 279, F.O.E. 133, making in all a total of 4,052, who are bearing the "Blue and White" into a new game on the fields of France and Flanders. Of these, 260 have crossed "the great divide", while 400 wounded bring the casualties up to 660.

Many have, and are still showing the world that Varsity produces men who can line our walls with other trophies than those of the gridiron and track. From June to the time of going to press the following have been added to the list.

Victoria Cross—Major T. W. MacDowell.

C.M.G.—Lt.-Col. C. H. Mitchell, Brig.-Gen. V. W. Odlum, Col. C. S. MacInnes, Col. D. W. McPherson.

MacDowell, Major C. S. McVicar.

SIR ROBERT A. FALCONER
President of the University of Toronto

UNIVERSITY DINING HALL IS NOW IN THE POSSESSION OF R.F.C.

Not Likely that it Will be Opened to Students this Year.

"Drop two on" piped a custodian of the dainties at Bowles. "Beans with" announced another white-coated gen. Two "studies" picked up above-mentioned edibles, took them over to a chair, placed them on the arm of the chair, set down on the chair and ate their mid-day meal.

An ordinary observer would notice nothing very peculiar in this procedure, but to the "studies" themselves it was one of those tragedies with which life is filled. It signified that the University Dining Hall was closed as far as the men were concerned.

This is indeed a hardship for the undergraduate who has in the past been used to getting his meals at the Dining Hall and it will likely be a long time before he finds a place where he knew that if he slipped in at 8.45 a.m. he could make a 9 o'clock lecture. It is true that he sometimes complained about the similarity of the meals, but nevertheless he knew that every day he could get quick accommodation. Although the price was raised last year it was still very reasonable, 21 meals for $3.75.

R.F.C. CADETS IN POSSESSION.
The dining hall, however, is still being used. Every day three meals are served to over two hundred and fifty cadets of the Royal Flying Corps. These men take turns in waiting on the tables, thereby decreasing the staff to a considerable extent. About fifteen are now employed. The number was around twenty-five last term.

Miss Riley is still in charge although she also has taken over the duties of the General Organizing Dictation of the military hospitals in Canada. Her assistants are the Misses J. J. Whyte and M. Wilson look after the Dining Hall in her absence.

It is not likely that the Dining Hall will be open for the accommodation of the Students this year, and probably not until the end of the year.

Mentioned for Valued Services—Lt.-Col. J. A. Amyot, Brig.-Gen. E. C. Ashton, Capt. G. C. Bonycastle, Lieut. H. W. Cheney, Major O. K. Gibson, Lt.-Col. P. G. Goldsmith, Capt. T. F. Graham, Major W. R. Greene, Capt. H. C. Hall, Capt. J. E. Holmes, Lt.-Col. G. S. Hume, Capt. O. N. Leslie, Lieut. G. N. Kennedy, Major R. C. Harcourt, Capt. T. W. Lawson, Lt.-Col. A. A. Magee, Capt. F. R. Mallory, Capt. V. C. Marshall, Capt. G. V. Morton, Lt.-Col. R. Parkes, Capt. L. M. Rathlun, Major J. R. Roaf, Col. R. D. Rudolf, Major B. J. Saunders, Capt. L. P. Sherwood, Capt. H. A. Simmons, Capt. S. D. Sively, Lt.-Col. C. L. Starr, Capt. D. D. Welson, Major E. E. Wodehouse, Major S. H. McCoy, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, Col. C. S. MacInnes, Col. D. W. McPherson.

REPORTERS AND LOCAL EDITORS WANTED

THE VARSITY needs reporters and local editors. The Staff has been seriously depleted by the graduation and enlistment of its members. As a result the opportunities for advancement on VARSITY are unprecedented. There are two main reasons why a student with journalistic ability should associate himself with THE VARSITY now. In the first place it is the duty of every student to help "do his bit" to keep "student institutions" up to the standard, and the College newspaper is not the best of these institutions. The second reason is the benefit a young man receives from the journalistic experience he is sure to acquire as a member of THE VARSITY. So make up your mind to try for THE VARSITY today. Prospective applicants will report at the VARSITY office, third floor, west wing, Main Building, at the Editorial rooms, to-day, from 11-12 a.m.

PROF. T. W. JOHNSTON CLASSICAL SCHOLAR HAS PASSED AWAY

Has Been Associated With Staff of University Since 1907.

Prof. George Wesley Johnston, well-known educationist and professor of Latin at the University of Toronto, died July 15, at 319 Brunswick Avenue, of meningitis. Prof. Johnston had been ill for nearly two months. His illness first took the form of an attack of a gripe and bronchial trouble, and gradually became more and more serious until meningitis developed.

Prof. Johnston was born near Caledonia, Ont., in 1864. He was educated at Caledonia High School, Hamilton Collegiate Institute and the University of Toronto from which he was graduated with honours, as Bachelor of Arts in 1886. He was for some years classical master at Brampton High School but resigned from that post to take a post graduate course in Latin, Greek and Sanskrit at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md. There he won great distinction. He was university scholar in the term of 1892-3; fellow, 1893-4, and fellow by courtesy in 1894-5. He took his degree of Ph.D. in 1895. During 1895-6 he was assistant professor of Latin at Cornell University and while there was president of the Canadian Club of the University. He was later appointed lecturer in Latin at the University of Toronto, and in July, 1907, was made associate lecturer. Some time after he was named professor of Latin. In December, 1908, he was appointed secretary of the Department of Canada, Archeological Institute of America.

He is survived by a widow, two sons, Harold and Minton Johnston, and one daughter, Miss Doris Johnston.

PRESIDENT FALCONER GIVES ANNUAL OPENING ADDRESS ON "FIRST FRUITS OF VICTORY"

Urges Boys who Intend to Take Up Professional Careers to Enter University as Early as Possible

The opening of the fourth session since the outbreak of the war of the University took place this afternoon in Convocation Hall. The President, Sir Robert Falconer, addressed his colleagues on the staff and students on "The First Fruits of Victory," as follows:

"As was to be expected, the attendance at the University during the forthcoming session will be very small. The three years of war have borne upon us with increasing stress, and no institution in the land has felt their effect with more poignancy, but only after some time shall we appreciate the extent of our sacrifice when, in days to come, the ranks of the professions will be discovered to be irreparably depleted.

"The introduction of conscription, however, has made a change, and now the supply of men will, we hope, be assured. Since the lower limit of age has been set at twenty years, from now on boys who intend to take up a professional career should pass from the schools at once to the University, and accomplish as much as they can of their course, meantime preparing themselves by military training for their future service. Then such of these as return will have the comparatively easy task of finishing their course—instead of taking up a new career after the lapse of several years since leaving school. The United States Government, learning by our experience, has urged this procedure upon the youth of their country who have academic and professional aspirations, and will save their people from a serious loss."

The President then referred to the order of the Board of Governors and the Senate whereby every male student proceeding to a degree is required to take a course of military instruction.

Continuing, Sir Robert referred to Varsity's Staff losses by death.

The President then read these names of members of the University who have fallen since last May, totaling fifty-one: Coleman Boyd Adams, Thomas William Edward Allen, William Alan Bishop, Albert Edward Bright, Russell H. Britton, Fraser Macpherson Bryans, William Percy Buchanan, George Walter Call, Andrew Russell Campbell, William Mackay Carlyle, Adam Peden Chambers, William Henry Clipperton, Walter Henry Cooper, Harry Lawrence Crowe, Basil Lancelot Cumpston, Gordon Parsons Davidson, Lester Jerome Deacon, Hubert Samuel Dowson, George Rivers Sanders Fleming, Franklin James Foster, William Robert Green, Orville Dwight Haist, William Teasdale Hall, Webster Henry Fanning Harris, Charles Edward Harrop, James Cuthbert Hartney, John Hatley, James Henderson, Lewis Brock Henry, Henry Lawrence, Thomas Allan McComb, Lorrie Hastings McCurdy, Robert Blayne McGuire, Henry Lawrence Major, Albert von Holt Mitchell, Harry Reid Nicholson, George Reginald Parke, Murray Hume Paterson, R. Douglas Patterson, Frederick Charles Peppatt, Matthew Rae, Ellis Vair Reid, William Percy Richings, Rupert Flynn Rivers, Evan Rylie, Charles Bevers Scott, Ernest Zavitz Sturteet, Charles Ellet Sutcliffe, Hugh Douglas MacIntosh Wallace, Harold Reid Wilkinson, William Jonathan Wright.

J. FLETCHER, M.A., LL.D., HEAD OF LATIN DEPT. DIED DURING SUMMER

Was Joint Author of Several Greek and Latin Text Books

Prof. John Fletcher, M.A., LL.D., one of Toronto's leading educationists, died at his home, 532 Huron Street, May 4, 1917, in his 84th year, after having suffered for some months from a complicated internal trouble.

Born in London, Eng., Prof. Fletcher at an early age came to Canada; he was educated at Upper Canada College, and was "head boy". He graduated from Toronto University with the degree of B.A., taking the gold medal in classics in 1872. For three years he filled with success the post of principal of Yarmouth Seminary in Nova Scotia, which he redesign in 1875 in order to prosecute classical studies under more favourable conditions in Balliol College, Oxford. In 1879 he was appointed professor of classical literature in the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, holding this post until 1881, when he left to accept the classical chair at Queen's University, Kingston. Fourteen years later, in 1895, he became professor of Latin, Toronto University. He was elected a member of the Ontario Advisory Council of Education in 1909, and was a senator of the University.

Prof. Fletcher was the joint author of several Greek and Latin text books. He is survived by his wife, daughter of the late Andrew Inches, Deputy Surgeon-General of Nova Scotia; one daughter, Miss Margaret Fletcher, and four sons, Grant and Hugh, Toronto; Alan, Montreal, and Capt. Ormund Fletcher, medical officer, home on furlough from Salonika.

TORONTO, SEPT. 26, 1917.

Congratulations!

Elsewhere in to-day's issue the students are reminded of the fact that among those honoured by the King, on the occasion of his last birthday, was the President of the University. The President, at that time, was created a K.C.M.G., and THE VARSITY takes its first opportunity of offering to him its congratulations.

Since the outbreak of the war the President has been active in directing the attention of the students to the vital issues involved at the present time; and whatever contribution the University has made to the cause of the Allies during the past three years has been due, to no small degree, to his efforts in this regard. His interest has been especially noticeable in the establishment of the C.O.T.C. in this University; the formation of the University of Toronto Base Hospital; the authorization of the Overseas Training Company and the 67th University of Toronto Battery; the organization of the University for the purpose of assisting the Patriotic, Red Cross and various Relief Funds; the introduction of National Service and in giving the military authorities the use of all available University buildings. The result of these endeavours is that the University is regarded as a centre of war service.

That the war work of the University has now been officially recognized, by the knighting of the President, ought to be a matter of pride to all students; and all should join with THE VARSITY in tendering to the President the hearty congratulations of the University.

A New Term

The commencement of lectures to-day marks the beginning of another term—the fourth under war conditions. Due to additional enlistments, and participation in national service work our numbers are even more depleted than they were last year; and also there is every indication that before long the number of male students will again be considerably reduced. When that time comes the University will be operating on a real war-time basis.

To those who are left comes the challenge to justify their presence at Varsity; and the knowledge that the eyes of our friends, both far and near, are upon us, and that the general public will be watchful of our attitude ought to make each one determine to meet this challenge. To do this satisfactorily all that should be necessary is for each one to remember that in these days the reputation of this University is being made not so much in Canada as overseas.

Whatever we may accomplish here will add little if anything to this reputation. By our actions, however, our present good name might be marred; and, while THE VARSITY is confident that this will not happen, still we ask all to remember their responsibility. If this is done, and each student attends to his work in the right spirit the term of 1917-18 may be justified; and all who have the interests of Varsity at heart will be able to consider the year's work successful.

G. R. JONES, S.P.S. '07 IS NOW CONNECTED WITH MISSION IN CHINA

That the S.P.S. has some of its graduates and undergraduates serving their country in various remote corners of the world is quite evident. One of them, G. R. Jones, of the class 1907, became connected with the Methodist Mission at Schuen, China. He is now on active service in France in charge of the Chinese troops, which are being sent there. His home is in Brantford. Another S.P.S. graduate, Cadet V. Topping, has just received his commission with the R.F.C., and expects to leave for overseas shortly.

News of Our Student SoldiersVICTORIA MAN WINS
MILITARY CROSS

In the terse words of the official report, Lieut. Nellis Victor Buchanan won the Military Cross by "maintaining a forward post under heavy fire, and going out often into the open." Lt. Buchanan, who is a son of the Rev. J. C. Buchanan, of Edmonton, graduated at Victoria College in 1915, where the annals say "his efficiency brought him innumerable tasks on the class committees." He evidently took this quality in his "old kit bag" when he went overseas, after training with the O.T.C. He is attached to an artillery unit in France, and was wounded last month.

Professor D. R. Keys has received word that Lieut. David Keys, who went over the first year of the war with a reinforcing draft to the "Princess Pats", is now in London recovering from a gunshot wound that severed the nerves of his wrist. This is his third casualty, but the first that has taken him to England. He has met several of his old classmates in London, among them being Major Wilfred Mavor, who has been making such fine progress since he was wounded that he expects shortly to be out walking again.

"I have a surprise for you," wrote Capt. Ronald Wallace Catto, in a recent letter to his father, Mr. James A. Catto, 21 Roxborough street east. He did not give particulars, but an official list of decorations to Canadians gives the name of Capt. Catto, who has been awarded the Military Cross. Capt. Catto has his B.A.Sc. from the University. He enlisted two years ago and went overseas as second lieutenant in the Royal Flying Corps, later transferring to the C.A.S.C., after which he was promoted to captain. He has thus far escaped wounds.

Flight Lieut. Neil J. Taylor, of Regina, a member of this year's graduating class at University College, is missing. He enlisted with an Officers Training Company of the University, and went overseas with a draft. He trained in England for the aerial branch of the service.

MANITOBA UNIVERSITY
ADOPTS COMPULSORY
MILITARY TRAININGProspects for Freshman Class
Are Unusually Bright

The Board of Governors of the University of Manitoba has taken no action on the proposal to exclude from registration all male students eligible for military service. Registration will therefore proceed as usual when the academic year opens. Lectures in all departments will begin to-morrow morning and reports from the registrar, W. J. Spence, indicate that there will be no falling off in the registration of students for work in the first years of the several faculties. The matriculation class of the year just gone, in fact, was the largest in many years, so that the prospects are bright for an unusually large freshman class.

Through some misunderstanding, a report has gone abroad to the effect that courses would not be offered in the departments of engineering and medicine. The work of these two departments will be continued as usual during the coming year.

At the first meeting of the university faculty held last week, it was announced that time-table provision had been made for military training, which on the action of the council last spring, is obligatory for all male students enrolled in the university this year. Prof. Osborne has been invited to deliver the opening address to the students and faculty.

LITERARY SOCIETY.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Literary Society this afternoon at 4.30 in the Union. Owing to the unavoidable absence of several of the committee every member is requested to make a special effort to be present as there are many important matters to be discussed.

WOMEN'S UNION AGAIN
OPENS ITS DOORS TO VARSITY'S FAIR CO-EDSMany Back and Good Year
is Expected

Once more the house at 85 St. George Street resounds with the merry laughter of sophisticated sophs, jolly juniors and staid seniors—yes, they do laugh sometimes. As yet the fair freshettes enter the sacred precinct with fear and trembling, but soon they too, will find a little corner in Union life and become familiar with its mysteries. Every woman in University College belongs to the Union, and if those in the Medical College wish to join they may, by paying the usual fee of $4 which gives them free use of the house and many other privileges. Meals will be served again this year and College societies will be allowed the use of the common-room as formerly.

WOMEN'S RESIDENCES
EAGERLY THROGGED
BY HOME SEEKERSSt. Hilda's, Annesley Hall and Queen's Hall are Rapidly Filling

Reports from all the women's residences indicate that the fair sex will largely predominate in the co-educational colleges. St. Hilda's is full to the utmost the freshmen and senior years arriving yesterday and the second and third to-day.

Miss Livingstone, superintendent of Queen's Hall, will have this year the following assistants: At No. 4 Queen's Park, Miss Mary Curry, of McGill, who holds an open fellowship in the department of botany; at 184 College street, Miss Jennie McFarlane, who is another Ph.D. student and a demonstrator in botany, while Miss Pantou assists at No. 9, the Queen's Hall Annex. It has been impossible to accommodate all the girls attending University College in these four residences, although provision was made for thirty more last term.

No applicant of less than a year's standing need hope to gain admittance to Annesley Hall or its annex. Parties of freshettes, conveyed by girls of the upper years, have been haunting South Hall, the new Victoria College Women's Union, for the past two days, signing application cards and eagerly studying the lists of approved boarding places provided by the Head. Already the rooms are taking on a very homelike aspect, and luncheon was served yesterday for the first time in the large bright dining room, where quartette and octette tables accommodate seventy four.

VARSITY STUDENTS FIND ACCOMMODATION
FROM THE Y.M.C.A.Those Seeking Rooming Places
Are Greatly Helped

An innovation marking convocation preliminaries this year was the stand established by the University Y.M.C.A. in the east alcove, just off the rotunda of the Main Building. Here was done a land office business helping students, whose residences are no longer available, to find another roof tree. Lists of certified boarding places were in great demand and none too plentiful, as many desirable houses have been closed on account of the high cost of living.

"The enrollment seems much better than I expected," said a "Y" worker yesterday afternoon. "It was thought that 40 per cent. of normal would be about the limit, but I should say now it may go up to 60 per cent." Tuesday, of course, saw a bigger rush, not only because it was literally the eleventh hour for registration, but also owing to the arrival of students who had waited to spend one more week-end at home.

Customer: "Well, I guess I have the right to change my mind."
Clerk: "Certainly! You can change and unused goods!"

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

MILITARY TRAINING WILL BE COMPULSORY TO MALE STUDENTS

Physically Unfit will be Obligated to Take Courses to Fit Need

Early in the present session the attention of the Senate, the Caput and the Faculty of Arts was directed to the question of military instruction for the students of the University of Toronto, and resolutions from each of these bodies were sent forward to the Board of Governors. After most careful consideration, in view of the present emergency and the conditions brought about by the war, the board has established a course of military instruction and training.

The Department of Military Instruction will consist of a director and such assistants as may be necessary. The course of instruction will be defined by the Senate and will apply to all the faculties of the University.

MUST ALL BECOME FIT.

Each male student proceeding to a degree must undergo a physical examination under the direction of the Physical Director of the University in order to determine his fitness for such military instruction. Each student deemed unfit must take such a course in physical training as will meet his special case.

Following the issue last spring of the above the following appears:

REQUIRE MILITARY TRAINING.

Some of the fre-ies were rather surprised to see an official notice by Registrar Brebner, to the effect that each student proceeding to a degree must have military training. It was previously thought that this only referred to the Meds and S.P.S. students. All students will be examined by Dr. J. W. Barton, who will determine their fitness. If found fit they will have to drill, if unfit they will be obliged to take a course in athletics, etc.

With the appearance of the above announcements comes a flood of memories—mostly unpleasant—of the C.O.T.C. of last year. Indecision and fustian is the curse of any institution and the C.O.T.C. of last year proved no exception. We do not know who was to blame last year, but the fact remains that the C.O.T.C. as a whole was a bungle. And so it is with a great deal of thankfulness that we see that that mistake is not going to occur again, that authorities know who they are going to allow to train and what they are going to do. We hope that this decision now made will be carried out as befitting the honour of Varsity in a vigorous and whole-hearted manner.

HART HOUSE TO BE CENTRE OF INSTRUCTION FOR ALL DISABLED SOLDIERS

Mr. E. A. Bott, Ph.D., will Carry on Work Under Direction of the Military Commission

The Hart House on the University of Toronto site is, through the kindness of the Trustees of the Massey Estate, to be made available for work of the Military Hospitals Commission. With this building the Commission is enabled to undertake on a large scale the very important work of re-educating the men suffering from physical and mental disabilities. Mr. E. A. Bott, of the Department of Psychology, University of Toronto, has been carrying on some of this work on a small scale in the Psychological Laboratory in this building, and will with his three of a staff, transfer their activities to Hart House and work under the direction of the Military Commission and the Army Medical Corps.

UNIVERSITY HAS RECEIVED MANY PRIVATE BENEFACTIONS

Several Thousands of Dollars
Have Been Given

The University of Toronto has been fortunate of late in receiving a number of private benefactions, including the following:

Twenty-five thousand dollars bequeathed by the late E. C. Walker, to be used for residence purposes.

Annual revenue from $100,000, to be devoted to maintenance of the department of household science, bequeathed by the late Mrs. Massey Treble. This is additional to the original gift of the building of this department and other gifts and bequests to Victoria College.

Five graduate fellowships of $500 given, two by Sir Edmund Osler, one each by J. W. Flavelle, Col. R. W. Leonard and the alumni resident in the United States.

Ten thousand dollars for the foundation of the George Kennedy Scholarship and the Sarah Kennedy Scholarship, bequeathed by the late Dr. George Kennedy.

One thousand dollars given to found a scholarship in connection with the first year science course in the Faculty of Arts and open to University College students, donated by Mrs. Jane Balmer, in memory of her daughter, the late Jean Balmer, B.A. This donation has been made to carry out the wishes of another daughter, the late Eliza Balmer, B.A.

The new antitoxin laboratories, given by Col. Albert Gooderham.

The Riddell Scholarship in the department of modern history of $200, with free tuition for two years, making a total value of $280.

The Matthews Scholarship in the department of modern history of the value of $100, with free tuition for two years, making a total value of $180. The last two scholarships have been given for three years by the Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell and Wilmot D. Matthews, respectively.

First year students met last night at the University Y.M.C.A., and were addressed by J. Bacon Brodie, a fourth year arts student, and president of the Y.M.C.A.

THINK AND SMILE

From the Dictionary—as revised by Room 32:

Athlete—A dignified bunch of muscles unable to roll the tennis-court or play cricket.

Cauliflower—A cabbage with a college education.

Dance—A brisk physical exercise, invented by St. Vitus.

Hearse—A handsome vehicle in which the man who has always been a tail-ender is finally permitted to lead the procession.

Laundry—Where they turn silk shirts into carpets, and collars into water-wings.

Manicure—The only person who can beat a carpenter soaking nails.

Mosquito—A small insect designed by providence to make us think better of flies.

He: "Will you call for help if I attempt to kiss you?"

She: "Yes, if necessary; but I don't see why a big strong man like you should require any help."

Recruiting Sergeant: "Well, are you going to fight for your country?"

Frosh: "No; I live in the city; why should I fight for the country?"

Two fair munition workers were discussing their personal affairs.

"Got a fellow, yet, Madge?" inquired one.

"Yes, and he's a regular dude."

"Is he very refined?"

"Rather! Why, he took me to a restaurant last week, and when we had coffee he poured it into his saucer to cool it, but he didn't blow it like common people would, he fanned it with his hat!"

At the foot of thy crags, oh sea!

But though you've been breaking for ages past,

You're never as broke as we.

"Gee! I was out shooting the rapids on the Humber on Sunday."

"What kind of a rifle did you use?"

"That professor has such an academic look."

"That's due to the pupil in his eye."—Ex.

Freshman—"How long can a person live without brains?"

Master: "I don't know; how old are you?"

Wycliffe

Wycliffe College has announced that their Alumni dinner will be held on Wednesday, October 3, at 6 p.m. About seventy-five graduates are expected to be present at their Alma Mater. They will have three luncheons, commencing tomorrow at one o'clock, and on Thursday.

They do say the city water is perfectly safe to drink. Public opinion long ago decided the water was perfectly rotten to wash in. All of which makes us glad that it is good for something.

NOT A "FAIR WEATHER FRIEND"

There's a sundial in a garden near Toronto, faultless in form and amidst beautiful surroundings. Deeply engraved on its stone base is the following:

"Let others tell of storms and showers,
I only count the sunny hours."

It's only a "fair weather friend". It serves you while the sun shines, but in the time of adversity—storms and showers—it is not in evidence.

Ryrie watches are not "fair weather friends". They tell the time truthfully in sunshine and shadow, day and night, at home or abroad, or land or sea.

As low as $6.00, as high as $750.00—there's a watch to fit any man, woman or child.

Guaranteed, of course.

Women's Smart Separate Coats

At $35.00 Each

You can get along without two evening dresses, these days—you can manage very nicely without a hat for each costume, now that "thrif" is the slogan—but certain things are indispensable—even war time can't alter that fact.

Among "indispensables" must be numbered the Separate Coat, the big, loose, cover-all garment that is easily slipped on, and that furnishes endless comfort as well as the much-desired smartness.

Granted that you need the coat—Suppose you are prepared to pay about $35.00 for it. Then without doubt you'll be interested in hearing about such models as these:

WOMEN'S SEAL PLUSH COATS, luxurious looking models in various styles, hanging loose from the shoulders or belted, with big collars in square back or cape effects. Each coat is satin-lined throughout and the value is exceptionally good at $35.00

WOMEN'S CLOTH COATS, a number of smart models in velours and homespun. One specially smart coat is in beetroot velours; another in navy homespun with taupe squirrel collar; a third in brown velours with taupe squirrel collar and cuffs. Exceedingly smart coats each priced at $35.00

PRES. FALCONER'S ADDRESS

Touching on the changes in the war situation since last year, the President said: "Having been so often disappointed as to the yielding for, we have come to distrust heavy headlines and conjectures of neutral observers with regard to the internal condition of Germany." Comparing the present with earlier stages of the war, he continued: "We shall never again see the like of those far-off days; we are now calmly confident, and with reason, that victory will be ours. Since Germany did not win in the first year, she will never win; but the victory which we will accept may still need many months to bring completion, and we require high resolve in abundance and that endurance which is the finest courage."

"The immorality of German diplomacy and trade will work for decades throughout the recovery of her position throughout the world."

"Part of the victory will be the conditions which the struggle itself will have brought."

Other fruits of victory referred to by the President were the new relationships formed by such a marshalling of forces as we have now, and the changing of the world's boundaries. Many of these permanent changes have already taken place, and are "the essence of our victory."

"What we see dying now is the last of a powerful and injurious system, and it is dying hard."

The President spoke of absolutism, a very evil thing despite its present brilliant workings in Germany. It led to the atrocities in Belgium. "Its diplomats weave falsehoods to entangle the world and pervert a neutral like Sweden to their own mean and inhuman methods. If this war had been quickly won we might not have realized how horrible a foe absolutism can be."

In regard to Canada the President thought "it is doubtful whether in Canada we know profoundly the soul of the evil thing with which we are grappling. Our democracy is being put to the test. For us in Canada the momentous question to-day is whether we shall endure with patience and work unceasingly to the end. Having suffered so much, being under such obligations to our friends who have done noble things on our behalf, the name Canadian signifying such courage and self-reliance on the field, it will be an eternal shame if at the end we slacken, drop sail and, after uncomfortable tossing, have to be towed into harbour by one of the victorious belligerents. We must, with self-sacrifice on the part of all, continue to spend ourselves without stint until this cause is definitely and irrevocably won."

The President congratulated Cols. Roberts, C.P., and Hendry, D.S.O., and their staff, upon the excellent service they had rendered to the University Base Hospital in Salonica which has now returned to England.

"When I addressed you a year ago, the strain of the war, unrelieved for two years, had begun to infect many a mind with depression and to test the steadfast qualities of our character. After another year we are still entrenched, though the situation has changed greatly for the better."

"At this great crisis, alas, men seem to be ranging themselves on party lines, when we need united effort to smite our deadly foe and to continue to smite him hard until he is no longer dangerous, for in fact we wrestle not merely with flesh and blood, but with principalities and powers and spiritual wickedness in high places."

ENROLMENT IN HISTORIC QUARTERS SO FAR IS SMALLThought that Men are Waiting for Military Service
Developments

The enrolment in the Department of Surveying and Geodesy at the University has been very small so far. It is thought, however, that a number of men may be awaiting final developments of the Military Service Bill before making their plans for the year. This department is a comparatively new one in Canada, the work at the University dating back only to about 1905. Their faculty headquarters are of special interest as being the old Toronto Observatory, which was transferred, stone by stone, from its original site to the present location just east of the Main Building. Professor Lewis B. Stewart, head of the department, has a fine library there, including the United States reports on surveying and geodesy for as far back as 1850.

Professor J. E. Shaw has been appointed professor of Italian from July 1, 1917, and the resignation of Assistant Professor G. T. Northup, department of Italian and Spanish, has been accepted.

VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT WILL AGAIN APPEARCo-operation of Students is Asked in Publishing this Important Work

In addition to the Official Roll of Service to be issued by the University, the Students' Administrative Council will publish this year the Third Varsity Magazine Supplement, to complete, as far as possible, the record of the University of Toronto in the great war.

As proceeds from the 1916 Supplement, the Students' Administrative Council has paid $6,000 to the Canadian Red Cross Society as the cost of the two ambulances for service at the front; $2,000 to the University of Toronto Hospital Supply Association; and about $3,000 to the University Training Company and the University Battery. The proceeds of the 1917 edition will be likewise devoted to patriotic purposes, and the students of the University are asked to support the work which the Council is doing as their representative.

The Editor, Mr. Sidney Childs, will be glad to receive any personal letters of men at the front, which would be of interest for publication. These may be left at THE VARSITY OFFICE.

It is proposed to publish in this Supplement a special photographic Honour Roll of those of our comrades from old Varsity who have fallen; and also the portraits of all those on active service whose photographs did not appear in the 1916 edition.

Owing to insufficient directions, many of the circular letters have been returned, and unless the students endeavour to cooperate with the Council to the extent of making enquiries at the office regarding their friends who are overseas, the photographs of many soldiers who are entitled to a place in this record will be unavoidably omitted. Many of the books will find their way to the trenches, and a complete record would give great pleasure to the men overseas. Any information concerning University men on service will be gladly received at THE VARSITY OFFICE, if handed in on written form, or sent in by mail.

MODERN LANGUAGE.

We have a Modern Language Club which meets on—such a date, to which each co-ed should belong. Join now! You may be late.

RETURNED SOLDIERS
CALL AT SERVICE OFFICE

Members of the University of Toronto who have returned from active service overseas are asked to call at the Roll of Service office, Room 15, Main Building. Also, readers of THE VARSITY will kindly forward the names and address of all members of the University who have returned to Canada from overseas, to Prof. G. O. Smith, Editor of the Roll of Service.

IN FULL SWINGEnthusiastic Welcome Extended to New Men.

Early last spring before College closed, the Y.M.C.A. held a "Get-together Conference," the effect of which we call on all to watch during the coming year. It was held at Clarkson's, a snug little place situated between Port Credit and Oakville. Here a new spirit was inaugurated and such was its success that it was unanimously decided to hold another one in the same place before College re-opened in order to round off the plans for the coming season.

This was done from Friday, Sept. 21st, until Sunday evening. Men from the various faculties gathered in deep and earnest consultation. The Summer must have repented of its attitude during the past three months and come back for those two days. The numbers were depleted, naturally, but the "pep" was there. An information booth stands in the rotunda. Delegates are awaiting new-comers at the railway stations. While a ready welcome awaits anybody at the

WORKING ONE'S WAY THROUGH

In the eyes of people off the campus the man who "works his way through school" is a hard-grubbing individual who crawls into his attic room after a day of toil and tries to keep his weary eyes open long enough to study the next day's lessons by the flickering candle-light.

But those of us who are better acquainted with the man, know that he is as often as not one who gets out of college life the most that it has to give.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

51 GRADUATES AND UNDERGRADS OF THE UNIVERSITY HAVE MADE THE SUPREME SACRIFICE SINCE MAY

For Corresponding Period Last Year Number was 68

Since May of the present year fifty-one men, both graduates and undergraduates, of the University of Toronto, have given their lives for their King, Canada and the University. Daily, those who once frequented the Halls of Varsity, long before the struggle was ever thought of, and also since it has commenced, are making the supreme sacrifice. The Varsity extends its sincerest sympathy to the friends and relatives of these heroes. The following is a list of those who have died since May.

PRESIDENT FALCONER WILL GIVE THANKSGIVING SERMON ON OCTOBER 14

Many Prominent Men will Preach Here This Year

The Thanksgiving sermon at Convocation Hall will be preached on October 14 by President Falconer.

Among the prominent men who will come to Toronto in the course of the year, are such well-known personalities as the Rev. Fookes Jackson, Prof. Peabody of Harvard, Prof. Sharler Matthews of Chicago, Dr. Robert Speer of New York, Dr. W. T. Grenfell of Labrador and President Mackenzie of Hartford Seminary.

"The Varsity" Needs You.

In all the faculties the Freshmen year is so far apparently the largest. In our last issue we called for reporters and local editors but the response was not as large as expected. We appeal to all but to the Freshmen and Sophomores especially. The former are commencing their College course and the latter have been here long enough to find their way around and it is these men and women who should now try to get on the Varsity Staff. The reason is that since they have three and four years ahead of them they will have excellent opportunities of working their way to the best positions on the paper. Possible freshmen think it would be presumptuous for them to undertake to keep the records of Varsity's activities during the war, for such is the function of THE Varsity now, but all will be welcomed and given a try out. Not only is news wanted of the Colleges and faculties situated around the campus but of all the faculties which are connected with the University. Many a brilliant journalist owes his start to THE Varsity. Apply at Room 1 THE Varsity office, west wing, Main Building, to-day between 11 and 12.30.

FRASER HOUSTON
who has won the D.C.M.

FRASER HOUSTON, S.P.S. '19, HAS WON D.C.M. FOR BRAVERY ON BATTLEFIELD

Was Surrounded by the Enemy but Fought His Way Out and Captured Prisoners

Another name, Fraser Houston, has been added to the ever-growing list of honours won by the undergraduates of the University. "Fat" was a member of Science '19, and will be remembered by all who witnessed the rugby games of 1915, when Junior School won the Mulock Cup. Fraser joined the 201st as a sergeant at its formation, and went over to England with the 198th American Legion. He was then transferred to the 116th with which regiment he went to the front. He was first wounded on July 23, and was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for "conspicuous bravery on the field," and was also recommended for a commission. Sergeant Houston was in command of an outpost, when he and his party were surrounded. With dogged persistence, they fought their way through the enemy, capturing prisoners and one machine gun. Although wounded he remained on duty but on September 17 was hit again. He is now in a hospital, "somewhere in France". All his Science friends wish him every success and a speedy recovery.

DRAFT OF O.T.C. WILL GO OVERSEAS SHORTLY

L. B. Calnan, Ex Local Editor of "The Varsity" is Selected

The ninth Imperial draft from the Overseas Training Company is about to leave for Britain. University men who will go are: E. B. Lowndes U.C. '20; A. M. Anderson S.P.S. '20; L. Purdon U.C. '19; L. M. Campbell U.C. '20; N. M. McCorkindale U.C. '13; J. A. Eyres Vic. '19; and L. B. Calnan Vic. '19. These men are candidates for Imperial commissions in various lines of the service.

Last year's Staff of THE Varsity is represented in this draft by L. B. Calnan, who very capably held the positions of local editor.

HART HOUSE USED FOR MILITARY PURPOSES

EYESORES REMOVED

Returned Men Given Medical Attention; Indoor Exercise Proves Beneficial.

There does not seem to be any inquiries these days concerning the proceeding of the work at Hart House. Students who have been in attendance at Varsity for some time have quite given up the idea of ever walking through the finished corridors and halls, of ever sitting down to first-class meals in the large dining-hall. In fact they hold out no prospect of using any part of the building for any purpose whatever, either for pleasure or service. At the present rate of building, when few men are employed in structural work it will probably be very near two years before the completion and opening of the House. Freshmen to-day will likely be on hand some time in the future for the inauguration of the House as a benefactor in the lives of University men.

A visit to the edifice to-day shows that much work has been done since last spring. Work is especially speeded up now to prepare rooms for the men of the flying corps. These men have nearly all come from Fort Reilly U.S., and have enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps. Situated at Convocation Hall on the opening of the University they were shifted over to their present quarters, which occupy practically the whole north side of the building.

The other portions of the House apart from those being decorated and put into shape are given over to the use of the Military Hospitals Board. Returned men from the various convalescent hospitals throughout the city come each day for special treatment along certain lines. About sixty-five men receive foot and arm treatment every day. A rest room is provided for the men, a gymnasium downstairs gives the men ample opportunity to exercise the muscles, joints and movements of the body. Volleyball, basketball and several new games are engaged in.

Leaving the building one notices that the ugly fence which formerly blocked one's view of the south front of the House has been removed, the ground cleared up. Levelling, grading and rolling of the ground so exposed to view will make the approach to the building compare favorably with the grounds nearby.

FAIR WAR-TIME ATTENDANCE AT VARSITY THIS TERM

Science Faculty Hit Hardest; Arts up to Average.

Contrary to all expectations the attendance at the University of Toronto for the session 1917-1918 will not be much lower than last year. Up to noon on Wednesday the registration figures were as follows: Arts: first year 373; second year 263; third year 244; fourth year 201; total 1,081. Last year there were 1,389 registered in Arts. There doubtless will be more added to this number as students were still registering after the above figures had been given out at the Registrar's office.

The enrolment in Medicine this year totals 421 made up as follows: First year 123; second year 82; third year, 69; fourth year 53; fifth year 94. The total for last year was 546. Last year's total for Applied Science was 196; this year so far 112 have registered. By years they are enrolled: First year 52; second year 32; third year 18; fourth year 10. This faculty has suffered cruelly from the war; the average enrolment in pre-bellum days was around 800. The total this year for the three faculties is 1,624; last year 2,131.

University officials say that the military service act helps the attendance as young men under twenty are free to enrol without anyone questioning their action.

of hearing equally distinguished speakers, this year.

Early next week the initial meeting of the Club will be held. Every man in second, third and fourth year Commerce and Finance and Political Science should plan to be a member.

PRESIDENT'S GREETING TO WAR TIME STUDENTS

September 26, 1917.

To the Undergraduates of the University of Toronto.

I am glad to be able to send you a greeting at the opening of another academic year. Those who belong to the higher years will find it difficult to conduct many of the old activities with which they are familiar on account of the small number who will be in the classes. You will miss many familiar faces of those who were with you at the beginning of your courses, but their memory will continue to be a source of pleasure not only now but in the future. Those of you who are in the earlier years, and particularly those entering for the first time, come to the University when it is so changed that former students would hardly recognise it. But, you have the compensation of beginning your education at a time when around you men and women are most earnest in the performance of their duties to the State. I hope that even in the midst of these very extraordinary conditions you will be able to throw yourselves with vigour into your academic work, and reap the advantage of these years the influence of which I am sure will always remain with you.

R. A. FALCONER,
President.

THREE VARSITY MEN HOME ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE FROM FRONT

S. D. Gardiner, F. H. Macallum and D. H. Storms Got Back Recently

Three Varsity men are home on leave of absence from the front. They are S. D. Gardiner, F. H. Macallum, and D. H. Storms.

F. H. Macallum was born at Smith's Falls, 1889. He graduated from University College with the Class of 1915, leaving behind him the reputation of being a philosopher, soccer player, and representative on the Students' Council. He was attending Knox College when he enlisted.

S. D. Gardiner was born here 23 years ago. He was educated at Parkdale Collegiate and graduated from Varsity with the Class of 1916. At College he was an all-round student, representing his year on the Students' Council, his College as leader of the Literary Society, and his course as head of the Classical Association.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Two more decorations have been added to the long list of honours that have been won by Varsity's sons. According to the latest list, Lieut. A. B. Fennel and Lieut. F. S. Bell have been awarded Military Crosses for conspicuous gallantry in action.

Lieut. A. B. Fennel was a well-known man in college circles, being for years assistant to Registrar Brebner. He was born in Nanapanee, Ont. At his matriculation he displayed his genius as a mathematician in capturing the Second Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics. He entered Victoria College, from which he graduated in 1906. Lieut. Fennel went over with the University Company, and was later transferred to the Divisional Signallers, with whom he received his commission.

Lieut. J. S. Bell was born in Chester, Ont., where he attended the public schools. Later on he went to Upper Canada College from which he entered the University in 1906. He was a great athlete, being for three years champion centre man on the Varsity football team. He went overseas with an infantry battalion.

Lieut. Lawrence Byron Tillson, of Bracebridge, a B.A.Sc. graduate of 1915, is the latest University man to achieve this honour. He went overseas as a private in the Easton Machine Gun Battery, and later received his commission on the field while attached to the 16th Battery, C.F.A.

Military Drill

Since last session military drill has been made compulsory for male undergraduates proceeding to a degree, and the organization for the new system is now under way. In deciding to make drill compulsory for all, the Board of Governors have thus placed the University of Toronto in line with other large Canadian universities.

THE VARSITY welcomes the introduction of compulsory drill and feels sure that the majority of students will see that it is, after all, more fair. Heretofore only the willing, who it is true have constituted by far the larger part of the University, have drilled; but now all must undergo military instruction or take corrective physical exercise.

To those who have never drilled, THE VARSITY hastens to give assurance that no strange terrors will be met. On the contrary, good is to be obtained from such a course. In the first place drill will strengthen a considerable number of men. New acquaintances will also be formed, and old ones strengthened. In addition, drill gives the benefit of discipline and, under the system that has been in vogue at Varsity heretofore, brings out whatever qualities of leadership the individual may possess. Finally a knowledge of drill is all-important in time of national peril.

The introduction of compulsory military drill, at the present time, however, has met with a considerable amount of criticism. Many, who have drilled in the C.O.T.C. for one or more years, feel that they have obtained all the good that is possible from any course in military training that the University may give. Another class of objectors are those who come in the first call under the Military Service Act. These men feel that there is an excellent chance of having any appetite they may have for drill more than satisfied in the near future.

THE VARSITY has sympathy with these men but fears no alteration in the regulations will be made. In future years, however, we suggest that the course in military training be limited to the first two years. In the meantime it is the duty of all to come out cheerfully and pound the sod of the campus.

RUSTIC REUBEN
RUSHES FOR ROOMS

But Come to a Sudden Stop at Queen's Hall

Every term some hay-speckled frosh does something at the beginning of the year which is food for the conversation of the wise old sophs for at least a month. The leather-medal is awarded this time to a rustic seeker after knowledge, who sought rooms in Queen's. And thereby hangs a tale.

On Monday evening a tall individual, sauntering up College Street, stopped a senior in the street and inquired as to rooms. A brilliant thought struck the educated youth. He directed the seedy individual to one of the Women's Residences in Queen's Park. Just as the dapper little man was disappearing into space, the child of the soil rapped at No. 11 Queen's Park. Before the matron had time to inform him that she didn't want any potatoes, he had started on his way upstairs to see the rooms. Immediately he was surrounded by a bevy of co-eds, who let him know that while variety is the spice of life, anything spicy is strictly banned in the homes of the fair ones in the Park.

Beer: "Say, what do they do in guerilla warfare?"
Lightbourne: "Oh, they just monkey around."

WOMEN STUDENTS' UNION HAS ACQUIRED SOUTH HALL, 75
QUEEN'S PARK, FOR RESIDENCE

Miss Skinner Appointed Head of Union for 1917-18

South Hall, 75 Queen's Park, which formerly served as an auxiliary to Annesley Hall, will be opened as a Women's Student Union, providing a much-needed centre for the various activities of all undergraduate women, whether living in residence, in rooms, or at home. Miss Skinner, B.A., Vic. 1898, has been appointed head of the Union for the session of 1917-1918.

FAIR CO-EDS ARE NOW USING PART OF THE MEN'S ROOM
IN LIBRARY FOR STUDYING

The Women's Room is Being Used for Manufacture of Hospital Supplies

Nothing is spared by ruthless war. All-hallowed traditions and conservative institutions must yield to callous and inevitable change.

A year ago the accidental entrance of a fair co-ed into the men's reading sanctum at the Library would have been greeted with a stormy foot-stamp of disapproval. The fair co-ed would have cast a timid glance and would have fled precipitously. This year, the women's reading room is devoted to the manufacture of various hospital supplies. Ergo, the roaming soph witnessed this extraordinary spectacle of the co-ed habitation of the men's reading room. He smiled a superior smile at the verdancy of the frosh—but lo! coming nearer, he read the following legend:

"This table reserved for women students."
He gave a sigh and departed to philosophize on the changes wrought by war.

St. Hilda's

The College re-opened with a satisfactory attendance and a good enrolment in the first year. The presidents of the various societies, with their committees are beginning their preparations for the future activities of the term while the present topic of interest is the initiation of the freshmen which takes place Thursday evening; that momentous event although a source of interest to some and of dire forebodings to others is awaited with expectation by all.

On Wednesday afternoon a very enjoyable tea was given by the Head of College in honour of the incoming year.

During the past vacation many St. Hildians in common with the majority of Varsity students, have been engaged in some form of national service work. The success of the farming camp at Clarkville, which closed about a week ago, is a sufficient proof that "back to the land" is not a mere phrase as far as very many of the members of this college are concerned. The farmers who at first were somewhat doubtful about the ability of these amateurs, at the close of the season emphatically declared that their efforts saved the crops in that vicinity. Country life evidently has its fascinations and while tales of hardships as well as of pleasures are told, there will be little difficulty in obtaining recruits for the farm next season.

NEWMAN HALL.

Newman Club opened its doors to the students on Monday and already fifty have enrolled for the coming year. The absence of Rev. Fr. Burke, the director, is regretted very much. He was called suddenly to Ottawa to his dying father's bedside. All the members unite in extending their sympathy to their beloved pastor and his mother during their recent bereavement.

Stude: "How much are your rooms?"
Landlady: "Two dollars up to twelve."
Stude: "How much until 9.30?"

A peach of a girl ought to become a well-preserved woman.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

MASS MEETING
AT QUEEN'S HALL
HELD LAST EVENING

Many Students Spent the Summer in National Service Work

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here."
One more year has rolled away and once again our fair young co-eds fill the Halls with their gay and lively presence. Fair freshettes this year throng in greater numbers than before and receive their first impressions of dignified seniors, "sporty" juniors, lively sophomores, and all that makes up College life.

College spirit prevails more strongly than ever. The fruit farms, munition factories, and various occupations in which they have taken part this summer to "do their bit" which existed between them; and now, both Freshette and Senior delight in relating to each other thrilling adventures which have taken place in their own particular munition factory or fruit farm, of in whatever sphere her part of national service existed.

On Thursday evening the annual mass meeting was held in the Main Residence. Miss Livingstone, looking very sweet in her academic robe, addressed the girls and gave some very practical advice to the incoming year. The constitution was then read and the evening concluded with dancing, College songs and yells.

The seriousness of real work has not yet spread through the atmosphere of Queen's Hall. There may often be heard the sounds of revelry by night and proctors striving to maintain a little of that silence which is golden. Evidently the thoughts of ever approaching exams do not seem to dampen the ardor of the young co-eds when the chicken from home arrives. But soon the heavy gloom of midnight study will take the place of the midnight feast, and a frivolous remark will be rebuked by a warning glance and a reminder of the fate prophesied by the professors.

REGISTRATION AT THE TORONTO NORMAL SCHOOL IS LARGER THIS YEAR

Male Students form Only Five per Cent. of Total

Registration at the Toronto Normal Schools commenced Sept. 19. All told, 288 students enrolled in the seven Normal Schools in Toronto, against 262 of last year. Out of this number, there are only 14 male students. The fact that the male students only form five per cent. is due to the war. Last year there were 24 men enrolled, or about ten per cent. Throughout the Province the total number of male applicants this year is 58, against 132 of the year before. "This year we have had the second largest attendance since the seven Normal Schools were instituted. The year of 1915 was the largest," stated Mr. J. A. Brown, in charge of the registration department. "The same excess of the total amount of students is noted in every school."

MODERN LANGUAGE
CLUB ORGANIZING FOR COMING SESSION

One of the most interesting topics of study is the geography of a country; not merely the topographical features, but also the people who dwell in the country and their relations with other nations.

The Modern Language Club this year intends to combine social intercourse with the study of the very interesting subject: the geography of the Latin countries and its effect upon the customs of the Latin races. All who attended the meetings last year will remember how delightful they were and will be pleased to learn that upon payment of the small sum of fifty cents they will be received into full membership for the session 1917-18. The members' list is not restricted to students in the Modern Language course but is open to all courses and any member of the executive will receive the fees. Notice of the meetings are posted on the bulletin board in the Women's cloak-room.

S.P.S. FOURTH YEAR WILL LIKELY BE A RECORD WITH 10 REGISTERED

Freshman Class is Large--R. F. C.
Occupy Pretty Nearly All the Building

The attendance at School this year is beginning to look up, notwithstanding the fact that many men have hesitated to register with Conscriptio looming up on the horizon. One hundred and twelve had registered up to Thursday, and all but 15 have returned.

This will be a record graduating year, judging from the fact that only ten men have signified their intention of coming back. Third year is better off with 18 men present.

There are thirty-two sophomores back at present, ready and eager to make everything as pleasant as possible for the fifty-seven freshmen who are there. Many of the latter seem to be getting into hot water already, and not a few seem very anxious about their lectures Wednesday morning.

One innocent was very conspicuous hustling around to a lecture room in a straw hat. Such bravery cannot go long unrewarded.

The Royal Flying Corps seem permanently installed in their quarters at School, and occupy most of the building. The Smoker is now a carpenter shop, much to the regret of the lovers of nicotine.

In a day or two the time-tables will be out, and events will commence running in their normal order.

HAUNT OF STUDIOUS A POPULAR RESORT

Library Already Has a Good
Attendance

The undergraduates are losing no time in taking advantage of the Library privileges. All day yesterday the large reading-room was filled with men and women who seemed bent in making the term a brilliant success on the strictly academic basis at least.

The women were chiefly in evidence, but there was also a fair number of men. The assistants in the Library are of the opinion that the history examinations, which are to be shortly held, are in part the cause of this sudden display of mental energy.

The books are being taken out chiefly in day or week slips. Very few are being given out as yet for the night. It was announced this morning that should the library become very generally used by the students during the term the women's reading room will be given back to the undergraduates.

ENTRANCE TO SCHOOL NOT POSSIBLE WITHOUT HONOUR MATHEMATICS

Queen's, However, will Take Science
Students Without This Qualification

A rumour circulated through the College to the effect that students would be admitted to S.P.S. without Honour Mathematics seems to be ill-founded. A call at the School by THE VARSITY representative elicited no such statement. No one had any information to volunteer and none expected any such event to happen. This view was supported by the announcement in the newspapers a few days ago in which Col. Laing declared that, contrary to the example of Queen's in admitting students without Honour Mathematics, the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering in this University could not lower the standard to such an extent. Thus no credence can then be attached to any hearsay which may be around concerning admission to School.

Send THE VARSITY home.

NON-SECTARIAN INSTITUTIONS

The Purpose is to Study Modern Jewish Problems and Thought

"The Menorah Movement" a movement which comprises 51 American colleges and universities including two in Canada (Royal Victoria College of McGill University and the University of Manitoba) is now about to be introduced in the Toronto University. The Yiddish Club which was organized last year will be transformed into a Menorah Society. All this it is hoped will be accomplished within a few weeks.

What is the Menorah Movement? It is a movement to promote a knowledge of Jewish history and culture and modern Jewish life and thought. It is a movement which should appeal to all Jew and Gentile alike. It is open to all the students, the faculty, members of all the affiliated colleges. No religious requirement whatever is made, for Menorah societies appeal to young men and women of various beliefs. It brings them together upon the purely intellectual basis of study and impartial discussion.

The Menorah Society which will be established at the Toronto University will, like all the other Menorah societies, be non-sectarian. This society is indispensable to any university, for it interests its members in the importance of gaining some knowledge, not only of Jewish

FRESHMAN CLASS IN MEDICINE LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

Fifth Year Men Taking Summer
Course will Graduate in April

Enquiry at the Medical Building reveals the fact that registration in that faculty is fairly good. Up-to-date 123 freshmen have come in, with yet over two weeks in which to register. This number of beginners compares well with last year's total freshmen of 116.

The second, third and fourth years are a little lower than those of last year.

The graduating class which finished their fourth year in May last, took a short holiday of a few months, beginning work again on August 15. Eight months of still work will complete their year in April next. Ninety-four constitutes the size of this class. These men have all signified their intention of going overseas to act in their capacity of surgeons' assistants, and wherever else they are required. However, only those fit will be taken.

Many students and members of the faculty are keenly interested in this movement and it is hoped that every Varsity man will become a member.

A visitor to the College halls a few days ago was Pte. Wm. Gregory, '17, who "came to see how the old folks are like at College." Pte. Gregory was born in Collingwood, Ont., 27 years ago. He entered University College in 1910, and was supposed to graduate with the class of 1917. He enlisted in Oct. 1916, with a University company, and went overseas the following month. He had been in the trenches for only two months when he was shot through the shoulder and laid up in a hospital for six months. He is now convalescent in Hamilton Sanatorium, but intends to pursue his studies at Varsity this year.

Sapper R. N. Genger, a Victoria College student of 1918, who went overseas with the Divisional Signallers, is reported wounded. His home is at Zurich, Ont.

Among the younger medical men who have seen considerable and varied service is Capt. Carl Martin, of Hamilton, who graduated from the University in 1915. Immediately on taking his degree he went overseas in the ranks, and received a commission with the Army Medical Corps on May 24. He spent his first year at No. 2 Casualty Clearing Station, France, and in 1916 he was sent with a R.A.M.C. unit to Mesopotamia. At the end of each period he returned to Canada, and last week again left for overseas to commence his third year's work on one of the various fronts.

The first Canadian medical officer to volunteer for overseas service was Major G. Ogilvie Dowsley, who went to France in 1914 with No. 1 Casualty Clearing Station.

MAGAZINE

SUPPLEMENT

1917

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

ROLL OF HONOUR OF VARSITY'S OVERSEAS TRAINING COMPANY

389 HAVE GONE OVERSEAS IN DIFFERENT BRANCHES OF THE SERVICE

PRESENT STRENGTH OF COMPANY IS 185

The Overseas Training Company was authorized on March 21, 1916, and began recruiting early in April. In May the Company moved into barracks in Gate House and South House, Victoria College, where it had since carried on. Before the Company was authorized two drafts of men from the University C.O.T.C., of 31 and 35 men respectively, had been sent to England as candidates for Imperial commissions, and it was primarily to continue the work of filling men for a similar service that the Overseas Training Company of the C.O.T.C. was organized. The following statistics (which include the men of the two drafts just mentioned) will give a general idea of the scope of the Company's work.

Men sent to England as candidates for Imperial commissions	259
Men sent as cadets or officers in Royal Flying Corps	54
Men sent as officers in Royal Naval Air Service	21
Men who have secured commissions in the C.E.F.	17
Men who have become N.C.O.s in the C.E.F.	17
Men transferred as privates to the C.E.F. units	12
Men discharged as medically unfit	12
Present strength of Company	185

The officers of the Company are—
Major G. H. Needler, Officer Commanding.

Capt. M. W. Wallace, Second in Command.

Lieut. H. A. C. Breuls.

Lieut. J. P. Nethercott.

Lieut. T. H. Jamieson.

Lieut. L. R. Shobottom and Lieut. H. W. Reid, who were lieutenants in the Company at the time of its organization, resigned their commissions in March 1917, and joined the Royal Naval Air Service.

The Company's Roll of Honour is as follows:

H. M. GARDNER, R.F.C.; Seriously injured in a fall toward the end of April. Still in hospital in England.

R. A. McLEVEN, R.F.C.; Injured and burned when machine fell, about middle of April.

LORE SNYDER, Hampshire Regt.; Reported missing (Weekly Times, May 8, 1917).

ROSS LYON, R.F.C.; Broke wrist and ankle in fall in May. Still in hospital.

Claud Norie-Miller; Believed to have been drowned on May 4, while en route to Egypt on a transport which was sunk in the Mediterranean Sea.

C. R. Sloan, R.F.C.; Died at Abbeville, May 13, as a prisoner in the hands of the Germans. Last seen on May 12, engaged in a fight with a German air plane.

H. A. MOSSMAN, Berkshire Regt.; Admitted to No. 14 General Hospital, Boulogne, May 5th, with gunshot wound, right hand, slight.

H. R. BANKS, 123rd Bn., C.E.F.; Reported to have received gunshot wound, right arm, slight. May 28.

H. M. BLAKE, Dublin Fusiliers; Reported July 26, admitted to No. 3 General Hospital, Lettreport, seriously wounded by gunshot in the left side.

D. M. JOHN, R.F.C.; Reported as accidentally injured while flying in England. July 30.

G. A. CRUEL, Manchester Regt.; Trench Mortar Battery; Severely wounded in both legs by a bomb, May 14, 1917.

W. W. COTTON, Reported as having been wounded, admitted to hospital and doing well. July 9.

R. S. BENNIE, R.F.C.; Reported missing early in July. Reported August 20 as killed in action.

E. H. G. WORDEN, Berkshire Regt.; Seriously wounded. July.

Frank J. Foster, R.F.C.; Killed in action August 23, 1917.

Frank W. Curtis, R.F.C.; Killed in action August 14, 1917.

C. B. MACQUEEN, R.G.A.; Wounded Aug. 8, but remaining on duty.

GEORGE E. HOWARD, R.N.A.S.; Wounded in leg, Sept. 3, 1917.

NEIL J. TAYLOR, R.F.C.; Reported missing, Sept. 24, 1917.

NEIL J. TAYLOR, R.F.C.; Reported missing, Sept. 24, 1917.

J. L. CHARLESWORTH, Royal Inniskilling Regt.; Reported missing Sept. 25.

C. P. HALLIDAY, Military Cross.

MANY POSITIONS STILL OPEN ON "THE VARSITY"

Come and Do What You Can to Make YOUR Paper a Bigger Success than Ever

While quite a number of conscientious students have answered the call of THE VARSITY sent out in its last issues, for reporters and those with journalistic ability, there are still quite a few who should have, but have not.

The student body as a whole should recognize the fact that the running of the undergraduate newspaper is a serious proposition and the co-operation of all is needed. There are many who are not able to take part in athletics and other various University activities and these should show that they have the proper college spirit by doing what they can. It is possible to be a slacker in more ways than one, and the student who is able to do something for himself and the University is general in this branch, and who does not, should be set in that category.

At the present time the difficulties of publishing the VARSITY are very great and now is the time for all loyal undergraduates to come to the front and do what they can.

All those wishing to apply for positions will come to THE VARSITY office to-day and Tuesday, between 12 noon and 1.30.

DR. J. A. MACDONALD WILL SPEAK TO-NIGHT AT U.C. RECEPTION

Subject will be "Together"—
Reception at Y.M.C.A.

The executive of University College Y.M.C.A. extends an invitation to every man in U.C. to be present at what used to be known as the annual reception to freshmen, which is to be held this evening at 7.45 in the University "Y" building. The executive has been very fortunate in securing Dr. J. A. Macdonald of the "Globe", who will speak on the theme "Together". Dr. Macdonald is particularly gifted to bring a message to the men of this University, and as he leaves shortly on an extended tour in Japan, it is likely that this must be his last appearance before an audience in the University of Toronto until his return to this continent some time next spring.

REV. R. BRUCE TAYLOR CHOSEN PRINCIPAL OF QUEEN'S

Has Spent Six Months in Chaplain Work at the Front

Rev. R. Bruce Taylor, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Montreal, has been offered and had, it is stated, accepted the position of principal and vice-chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., in succession to Rev. Daniel Milner Gordon, D.D., LL.D., C.M.G., who is retiring.

Dr. Taylor was born at Cardross, Scotland, October 22, 1869, and was educated at Glasgow University, Free Church College, Göttingen, Beirut and Damascus. After holding a charge in London Free Church, Ayrshire, and in St. John's Wood, London, England, he came to Montreal in 1911. He was ordained in 1896. He has spent six months at the front as chaplain of the 42nd Highlanders. Besides being the author of a book on economics; written for the Student Christian Movement, he has contributed largely to publications on religious and historical topics.

FORMER MEMBERS OF STAFF ARE SENT TO FOREIGN SHORES

Capt. J. R. Cockburn in Egypt and Mr. G. Jackson in Mesopotamia

Capt. J. R. Cockburn, formerly professor in the Department of Architecture at the University, has been sent to Egypt in charge of an engineering unit. He went overseas with the infantry, and transferred to the Royal Engineers, and had been serving with them in France until ordered to the East.

Mr. Gilbert Jackson, a member of University College staff, who went overseas as a private, is now serving as lance-corporal with a British unit in Mesopotamia. Before enlisting he was a lecturer in political science for several years, and also acted as secretary to the Government Unemployment Commission.

250 NEW BOOKS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO LIBRARY

Med. Students Will Not Have to Use
Reference Library So Much

It will be pleasant news to the undergraduates in the various faculties that many new books have been procured by the University library. In all, about 250 of the latest works have been placed upon the shelves to be at the disposal of the students and faculty.

In former years it has been noted that the Meds, when they wished to consult some work on medicine, went to the reference library. In order to keep the Meds "at home", a large sum of money was spent for the newest books on medicine. It is to be hoped that the students in this faculty will now utilize the works which have been placed at their disposal.

DRAFTED MEN WILL BE DISTINGUISHED FROM VOLUNTEERS

Official Title is "Drafted Men"

Men selected and drafted under the Military Service Act will be distinguished from men who have volunteered for service. All communications referring to the men so obtained, an order issued says, must contain a reference to them as "drafted men."

FROM THE TRENCHES TO THE CLASSROOM

Capt. S. H. Johnston is Back at S.P.S.

Amongst the roll of students registered in the third year of S.P.S. is the name of Capt. S. H. Johnston, of the 19th Toronto-Hamilton battalion.

Capt. Johnston, who was a member of the Junior School champion rugby team of 1915, received his commission as lieutenant with the 91st Battalion, and sixteen months ago went overseas. After a short stay at Shorncliffe, he was sent to France, where he spent ten months on the firing line.

There he was transferred to the 11th Battalion, and received his captaincy on the field. He was shortly afterwards wounded by a machine gun bullet through the left lung, and was sent to hospital in England, where he spent two months in convalescing.

Capt. Johnston decided to resume his studies in Civil Engineering and has come back to school with that purpose.

During his stay in France with his last regiment, he was under Major C. E. Sinclair, another Science man, who went over as a private in the Divisional Signalers, but through his valiant services, won rapid promotion.

CHINESE GIRL IS REGISTERED IN THE FACULTY OF MEDICINE

Comes from Victoria, B.C.—Speaks
English Perfectly

Among the girl freshmen who registered at the University, was an interesting little personage from Victoria, B.C., Miss Victoria Chung. Miss Chung is a very bright and attractive little Chinese maid who has come to this city with the intention of entering on the medical course, in the hope that she may go back among her own people as a medical missionary. She is a native of Victoria and only 20 years of age. She received her early education in that city, and finished her first year in Arts this year. Although it has been the dream of her young life as well as her parents that she might have the privilege of returning to her own country some day to work among the Chinese, fortune did not favour Miss Chung until this summer, when she came into touch with Mrs. Steel, president of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society. Through the interest of the young missionary engaged in doing mission work among the Chinese in Victoria, Miss Chung was brought into touch with Mrs. Steel on her recent visit to that city, when arrangements were made for her to carry on her course. Miss Chung speaks English perfectly and is looking forward in keen anticipation to her new studies.

LAST CALL FOR PHOTOGRAPHS FOR MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

By the New Year many copies of the 1917 Edition of THE VARSITY Magazine Supplement will have found their way to the Varsity boys in the trenches, and if someone who is entitled to a place in the Supplement searches in vain for his photograph—will you be to blame?

The Students' Administrative Council are endeavouring to secure the photograph of every graduate and undergraduate of this University who has enlisted for active service, whose photograph did not appear in the 1916 edition of the Supplement. It seeks the co-operation of the student body to save someone a disappointment and to help make the photograph record a complete success. If you know of anyone who has enlisted and whose photo did not appear in last year's edition of the Supplement, kindly forward the name and address where photograph may be secured, to Mr. Collier C. Grant, General Secretary, Students' Administrative Council.

FRESHMAN RECEPTION WILL BE HELD AT 7.45 TO-NIGHT

Date Has Been Changed from Tuesday

The annual reception to the incoming year has been moved a day forward. It will be held to-night, Monday, at 7.45 in the University Y.M.C.A. building. Dr. J. A. Macdonald of the Globe, and a speaker with an international reputation, will speak on the theme "Together." You enjoyed the meetings of last week. You will be delighted with the one of to-night.

STOP! STUDENTS, AND CONSIDER!

Of the total expenditures made on behalf of the students of the University of Toronto by the Students' Administrative Council, one quarter comes from the pockets of the students themselves. The remaining three quarters is received from the proceeds of advertisements.

Business concerns, which are leaders in their lines, relying on the loyalty of the students of the University of Toronto to their own publications, have contracted to expend thousands of dollars in advertising during the current academic year.

Will the students of this University respond to the challenge of the Business Concerns and buy only from the student advertisers? A word will identify a man or woman purchaser as a student.

LIEUT. GUY RUTTER S.P.S. '15, HAD VARIED EXPERIENCES

Reported Killed Once, But is Now
Recruiting at the Armouries

When one visits the orderly room at the Toronto Mobilization Centre, he will see a little personage seated two officers, who are always busy. Both of these are Varsity graduates. Lieut. Wilfred C. James, graduate from University College about two years ago, and Lieut. Guy Rutter, graduate from the S.P.S. in 1915. A glance at the latter's right hand will be sufficient to tell the observer that he is a returned man. His experiences are almost like fiction. For he is one of the very few who read how he had been killed at the front, and also the messages of sympathy sent from the Prime Minister to his wife.

Lieut. Rutter is now on three months' turlough. He is the son of Mr. A. F. Rutter, of Warwick Bros. and Rutter. He went through that terrible battle of Zillebeke last June, when so many of the Mounted Rifles, to which unit he was attached, figured in the casualty list. Among the names first reported was his. His father then got official word that he was wounded, and finally came the sad news that he had succumbed to his wounds.

A cable from Col. Noel Marshall came later on to his father, stating that he was wounded. This, of course, made his father doubt the first report. A cable was immediately despatched to London, England, saying "Guy is reported to have died of wounds. Is this correct?" But the sadness was changed into joy, for the cable in reply reported that Lieut. Rutter was wounded in the arm and leg, but was progressing favourably.

The Records Office at Ottawa then sent a telegram saying that he had been removed to England, and finally came another telegram correcting the cable earlier, which had reported that he was dead. Mr. Rutter immediately left for England on hearing that his son was still alive.

But what joy, what happiness was there, when Lieut. Rutter stepped off the train at the Union Station, when his Varsity friends realized that the man they had once thought dead was once more in their midst.

NOT KNOWN YET IF CONSCRIPTS WILL BE GRANTED YEAR

It has not yet been decided whether or not those men who are registered at Varsity this year, and who are called to the colours, will be granted their year. The matter has not yet been discussed and nothing definite could be stated in the Registrar's office.

NO INFORMATION YET REGARDING MONEY FOR RESIDENCES

$25,000 was Left by the E. C. Walker Estate

At the time of going to press the VARSITY could not receive any definite information as to how the $25,000 which was donated by E. C. Walker to the University for residence purposes, was going to be used. It is to be hoped that something more definite will be available in a few days.

WOMAN STUDENT REGISTERED IN THE FACULTY OF SCIENCE

Miss Jean Hall Has Chosen Architecture as a Profession

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new."

That such is true in the sphere of women's work, even if Tennyson was not thinking of it at the time, is evidenced by the fact that Applied Science is gaining increased popularity with the gentle sex. Of course, woman's work has been, from necessity, expanded into almost all trades and professions during this titanic struggle in Europe; but apart from that, the mind of woman is being broadened to a greater degree than was thought possible in earlier days.

All the male students, either in attendance at S.P.S. or other faculties of the University, should take off their hats in welcome to Miss Jean M. Hall, of 697 Indian Road, who has this year enrolled in the Faculty of Applied Science as a student in architecture.

Miss Hall took General Arts at University College last year. However, as she was not satisfied then, she decided to take up the course that always had appealed to her and to which she had a natural inclination. Her choice is a wise one, and there is no doubt that Miss Hall will be successful in what is considered one of the noblest of arts.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB COMMENCES TUESDAY, OCT. 2nd

Topics of Consideration for Year will be Mapped Out at Opening Meeting

Freshies and all who are interested in the Modern Language Club come to the tea at the Union on Tuesday from 4.30 to 6, and learn of the fascinating programme mapped out for this year's session. Folk dancing and carefully selected music will be given to supplement and illuminate the central theme. How the geographical conditions of the Latin countries affect the temperament and general characteristics of their people.

Join the Modern Language Club and each meeting will bring fresh matters of interest—as for instance, a French play Les Romanesques by Rosland, put on by an able cast prepared by Monsieur de Champs' capable coaching.

Everybody who thinks they may be interested just come on Tuesday and find out the achievement and aims of the Club.

The Host (to nervous guest): "Have you seen the pre-nuts, old chap?"

Nervous Guest—"No, but I should like to, awfully."

The Host—"Well, just a moment, and I'll get a detective to show you around."

Freshmen!

From a review of past files it seems that one of the first duties of THE VARSITY, at the beginning of a new term, is to give a considerable amount of advice, in a sermonlike form, to the freshmen. In this matter we do not intend to follow precedent. We are not going to tell you to be "men" and "women"—we take it for granted that that is what you are. If you are not, then that is your own affair, and all the "preaching" which we might do would be of little avail. There are, however, a few things which we have gained from experience, and that may prove useful.

In the first place, don't think that your University course is going to be one of ease. You have just come from College or High School, where the rule of enforced home work, detentions, attendance-taking and all the rest of it holds sway. Because you find conditions different here, don't believe that everything is a formality. If you wish to "get through" your course you will have to work hard. If you wish to make your course a success, you will have to work harder. These complacent-looking gentlemen whom you see wearing gowns are professors and, strange as it may seem, part of their duty is to set annual examinations. Heretofore several students have failed at these exams, and some of you will fail this year—how many rests with you. The question thus should come to each one—shall I take it easy and fail, or work and be successful? We have put the matter frankly, and leave with you to decide.

In the second place, take an interest in some University activity—athletics, drill, the various societies and college functions—these form an important part of University life, without which the whole would not be complete. Through these means acquaintanceships may be formed and, in many ways, experience gained which will be useful in future years. In this connection don't let your ambition overreach itself—there are others here, and each wants a chance to do something.

Finally, be a good listener. You will find men who take different courses from yours, whose interests differ and who have their own ideas. Listen to them, respect their opinions, obtain all the good possible from them; and then give in return. You don't know all about anything, let alone about everything. Exchange what you do know for the good of everybody. In this way a third side of University life which teaches tolerance, self-control and respect, and at the same time has a general broadening effect, opens before you.

That is all we have to say, but we hope you gain even one hint from the above which will give you help in your four years at Varsity. In any event THE VARSITY wishes every member of 2T1 good luck, and hopes that, in whatever you do, success will finally crown your efforts.

SCHOOL WILL NOT CLOSE--RUMOUR IS UNFOUNDED

Attendance Fair and Staff Pretty Nearly Normal

The rumour current throughout the University that the faculty of Applied Science will close its doors seems to be unfounded. Information has been given out by the School to the effect that nothing has been heard from official quarters that would warrant such a rumour. The attendance at School is fair considering conditions and the Staff is almost up to normal size.

ANNESLEY HALL HELD
FRESHETTE RECEPTION
FRIDAY, SEPT. 28th2T1 Spend a Most Interesting Evening

Once again on Friday night, Sept. 28, the old gymnasium at Annesley Hall looked on, while, after the time-honoured custom, the Freshettes were initiated into residence life at VU.

At half-past seven the "twenty-first spittoon," in "undress uniform" (gym suits) was marshalled into the "guard-room," between two files of the "20th Highlanders" to face trial by court-martial for various serious offences, not uncommon in "raw recruits". A spirited band of the "Ladies of Hell" brought up the rear, and with weird lugubrious music (combs) nerved the culprits on to meet their charges bravely, and die if the worst came to the worst—unflinchingly.

One end of the gym had been screened off for a "mess-room", beyond which was a dark room, which offered fitting punishment for those whose crimes brought upon them the awful sentence—"C. B." The charges revealed that the Sophettes had been active and sharp—but that the Freshettes had not been entirely unguarded in their first week at College.

The "O.C." pronounced all and sundry "Guilty!", and even the Acting-Dean and the new nurse were found to be "fresh like the rest of them—but not as bad as most of them!" and sentenced to "eat the supper provided!"

The uniforms and trappings of the "kilties" displayed—delightful ingenuity—and the old gymnasium was bright with gay colours, and resplendent with "military medals."

After the oath of fealty had been administered, college songs and yells made the old gymnasium apparatus jingle, and 2T1 was not behind with its lively song and snappy yell. The audience retired then, and left the two years to sit down together to "mess."

At ten-thirty the strains of "God Save the King" issuing from below announced to the rest of the household that Annesley Hall had formally received one more class under her sheltering roof.

THE COLLEGE MAN.

In many quarters the college man has been deemed fit subject for jest and the cartoonist has found a never ending source of inspiration for his pencil in the clothes, the attitudes, the habits and the goings on generally of this favored son of fortune. His idiosyncrasies have been emphasized until sight has been lost of his essential fitness for tasks worth while and there have been times and places aplenty when his most urgent need seemed to be for an apologist.

Now, fortunately all this is changed, and in the stress of war's demands, the college man has thrown off what his friends knew all along to be mere accidental—the habiliments of boisterous young manhood—and from all over the land he has responded to his country's call with an alacrity, an enthusiasm and a patriotism which make him stand forth as he is, a leader, a man trained to do and dare.

He has not sought the easy by-paths which might have been opened for him, but has insisted on plunging in where danger lurked in its most hideous form. The aviation corps has appealed particularly to him because of the chance it gave for individual prowess and service, and he has clamoured for a chance to "do his bit" with the dashing marines, in the heavy artillery, the cavalry, and in fact wherever there were tasks worth while to be accomplished for God and country.

In war, as in peace, he is eager, ready, unafraid, and his quick response to his country's call must win him friends by the thousands even from the ranks of those who in gentler times was suspicious of his conduct, distrustful of his purpose and all too prone to question the value of his work in society. In the fierce crucible of war he has been tested and found not wanting. —Creighton Courier.

LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS
NOMINATIONS FOR OFFICESElection to be Held Friday, October 13th

The Literary Society has been greatly hampered in organizing this year on account of the recent marriage of Miss Marion Litch, the president and the departure of Miss Hanna to engage in Red Cross work. However, a meeting of the remaining members of the executive was held and the following girls were nominated for the vacant offices.

President: Miss E. Graham, Miss M. Lyon.

Treasurer: Miss M. Wilson, Miss I. Waldon.

The voting will be conducted in the Women's Cloak Room, Friday, October 13 from 10 to 12. Only members of the Literary Society have the privilege of voting. All who wish to decide the issue had better pay their fees as soon as possible.

VIC. WOMEN STUDENTS
GIVE ENTERTAINMENT
TO FRESHETTESFirst Social Happening of the Union This Year

The Women's Student Council of Victoria College entertained the first year women on Wednesday evening, Sept. 26, at South Hall.

Miss Vera Sparring, ITS, President of the Council, with Miss Curlette, acting Dean of Annesley Hall; and Miss Skinner, Head of Victoria Woman Students' Union, received the guests, who numbered about sixty. Great interest centred in this event among the women of Victoria because it was the first social happening since the Union has been opened.

Miss Elsie Galloway, '20, had charge of the games and a merry time was spent. The pleasure of the evening was increased by a solo from Miss Jean Edgington, '20. Miss Curlette and Miss Skinner made short speeches of welcome to the first year. After refreshments were served, the sophettes surprised the party and gave an exhibition of their ability to sing the praises of the class of '20.

A Matter of Nomenclature.

A negro was recently brought into the police court in a little town in Georgia, charged with assault and battery. The negro, who was well known to the judge, was charged with having struck another "unbleached American" with a brick. After the usual preliminaries the judge inquired:

"Wine did you hit this man?"
"Jedge, he called me a black rascal."
"Well, you are one, aren't you?"
"Yessah, I is one. But, Jedge, s'pose somebody'd call you a black rascal, wouldn't you hit 'em?"
"But I'm not one, am I?"
"Naw, sah, naw, sah, you ain't one; but s'pose somebody'd call you de kind o' rascal you is, what'd you do?" Every-body's Magazine.

The eleventh of October last year we're sure you will remember you'd have thought from the fun and merriment

It was the 25th of December. So you who were there please come once more

And bring a chum who's ne'er been before,

October the ninth. Please note the date. Time eight o'clock. Now don't be late.

This is an invitation to the Presbyterian students of the University of Toronto to a reception given by the Young People of College Street Presbyterian Church (Rev. R. B. COCHRANE, M.A., Minister) on Tuesday evening, October 9th.
PLAN TO BE THERE.

"This afternoon," continued the man of science, "I heard a fly walking across the window pane. The noise resembled the hoof-beats of a cavalryman's mount."
"Perhaps it was a horse-fly," suggested a bright student.—Ex.

STUDENTS'
NOTE BOOKS

"The sheets tear out, the book gets untidy, and I lose my notes. I'm going back to the old bound books again."

HUNDREDS of students fully appreciating the convenience of Loose Leaf Note Books have made the above statement. Many have given up loose leaf books altogether.

Those who use the new G. & T. Multiple Ring Note Books never have this experience. Seven scientifically designed rings used with good paper make this book as secure as bound books.

Don't buy a note book with only two or three rings. Save yourself all note book trouble by starting right, and your notes will be in good shape right through to the end of the season.

U.C. RUGBY TEAM GETTING UNDER WAY

Drulard will be Absent This Year--
Has Enlisted in R.F.C.

Although sport in general in the University has been hard hit by the war, prospects for a successful rugby season look fairly bright.

U.C. will miss badly their last year's captain, Drulard, who has enlisted in the R.F.C., and to whom much of the credit for Arts' good showing last year is due. Manager Flynn will also be absent as he has graduated, but several of last year's stars are back in McGarvath, Sinclair, Bursch, and others.

Among the freshmen, also, there are several promising players, who should be of great assistance, and will no doubt turn out to do their share in helping to keep sports alive in the University.

THINK AND SMILE

Wanted—An Owner for This

Next Day—I have done as you said too at the table. You are a right wise girl for your size. I watched the other fellows and then followed in their footprints. Figgertively speaking of course. I'd have something of a job to do literally. Some of them looked as if they'd heard bad news. I dare say I look the same but I'm getting over it. The others, Seniors I guess that didn't look like Dark Dispare had an expresion something like what you see on old Dave Millers kid Lucy when she get a hunk of mince pie. And the way they piled sad news on us was a frite. Two of them were awful. They went on till I said to the ugliest well Prince Charming if things are so awful here why do you bless us by your presence? You can always tell a Senior they have such an ogish look of glea whenever a Freshie appears.

Two days later—One of the fellows asked me to go over to Mack Hall with him tonight. I said what for and where was Mack Hall. He said it was the girls college and they wanted to meet me. That last sounded good so I fell for it and her too at the same time. Of course I don't mean anything by all this girle for there is only one little girl for me really but one can't very well turn akerte right away unless I go to a convent and I don't want to be a nun for then I couldn't marry you any way. Just as I came into the dining room at dnaner I heard some one say Hello Friend Zeel ra. I was quite sure it was that same infarnal Senior so I said quite cam and deadly Hello Prince Charming when are you going to make me that call? But nothing happened so I went on Prince Charming was at the table. I dare say it was a saddle of his. He must have wandered a what call I was talking about.

After supper I got ready for the spree. I got ready but as my tie seemed ornate I changed it for a red one then I thought perhaps that smart aleck menat my tie so I just changed it back again. When we got to the hall a very pretty red haired maid showed us into a big room. Here we waited for a few minutes. And they were intrusting moments too. Five or six girls had a pleasant way of passing and repassing in the hall delivering a broad-side of stairs as they went. Only one of them did not look at us after the first time but during the course of the evening she passed six times. She has a nice long sensible black skirt and a plain waist and held her head very skornfully but I noticed that every time she passed us her bracelets was on the arm nearest us. I was just beginning to get figety and wished I'd changed my tie when my fellow suferur said their coming and when I saw them I wished I'd changed the tie once more. What do you think Susan it was the Tiger lily. She was perfectly bewitching. She had a real short white dress on, but some girls can wear short skirts. The first thing she said was, Well how do you like the O I see. At least it sounded like that. She seemed to think I ought to know so I made a stab at it and said it was fine.

It was a little hard to talk with the other couple right there so she said lots go in the other room. When we got over there she told me she had deskrived me to the other girl and had her get her friend to pick me out. Of course I complimented her. A nan has to do that you know to society women. I told her she should always wear yellow and she told me that I was so nice and broad shouldered. Just about that time I happened to look up as it was embarrassing. My mouth fell open as if a screw had gone loose in the muscle. There was a hole in the floor above the hall and a railing around it and five girls were festing their eyes on us from it. I dont know how long they'd

Other Colleges

Harvard—Fall athletics at Harvard University are in full swing, and prospects of the Crimson being represented by a good freshman football eleven this fall and possibly a strong informal Varsity are considered bright as about fifty upper classmen reported for practice for the Varsity team Tuesday. The men who assisted in the coaching of the freshmen took charge of the Varsity squad. The afternoon was devoted to kicking and falling on the ball.

Baseball and cross-country running also are under way. Thirty men, including both Varsity and freshman runners, reported to Coach Farrell for the opening day of training, and were taken out for a jaunt. This year the harrier squad is made up almost entirely of recruits, and Coach Farrell has a hard assignment to fill the gaps caused by the absence of veterans.

Coach Hugh Duffy was unable to get a whole baseball team in uniform, but a scrub game was started after several candidates in civilian clothes were pressed into service. Duffy himself worked as pitcher. Another call will be issued for baseball players, in order to raise enough recruits to play a series of scrub games.

New York—The University will have a football team this fall, and the first practice was held last Monday on Ohio Field. Coach Eustis of last year's team now a commissioned officer, will be in charge of the squad until he receives a call from the aviation corps to which he was assigned from Plattsburg. F. P. Wall of the university department of physical training, will be assistant coach. Mr. Wall is also awaiting a call from the aviation corps, and in addition to being assistant Varsity coach, will have charge of freshman football. The faculty passed a rule barring freshmen from Varsity sports.

Exeter—Coach Vaughan of Phillips Exeter Academy was assisted in his football work last Tuesday by H. S. Stuckey, faculty member and a former Princeton scrub eleven captain, who coached the linemen. Two new members have been added to the squad, Baker of Concord, N.H., and Dickinson, they being worked out at right tackle and left end, respectively. Five elevens are working daily.

Rutgers—A scrimmage between the Varsity and the scrubs featured the practice of the Rutgers College football squad Tuesday afternoon. Coach G. F. Sanford has practically decided upon the lineup for the game with Ursinus.

been there. I was so shocked that I forgot it was a collige and I said. Are those your little sisters. She fairly froze. Why, do you think I look so anshunt? Of course I mended it up with a few poetic words and blamed it on my eyesite but it was a close shave. The temperchure thawed after awhile and I was surprized when she rose. She said the lights would soon be out. I said let them go out, but I rose too. Then she said. Be sure you go to Union Lit this Saturday it is great. That gave me an idea. I said can we take girls? She said of course and then you can see it was plane sailing.

Next day—Wore my zebra finry to breakfast but I guess I won't wear it to Union Lit as it might not be sootable. Why can girls wear any color they like and we fellows have only two or three?

Today Tuesday—It takes a long time until Friday. Well dearie I must close don't forget to write and let that big sister of yours help. Tell her I said the exercise will build up her tishues and give her a good complexshun.

Pennsylvania—Undergraduates are much pleased over the outlook for the Red and Blue Varsity football eleven this fall following the official announcement made Tuesday afternoon that the university base hospital unit, No. 20, definitely would not sail until January 1, 1918. This final decision makes sure to Pennsylvania the services of Bell, veteran quarterback, J. H. Berry, Jr., star fullback, punter and the most consistent ground gainer of last season's eleven, and Quigley, also a fullback of no mean ability.

On Thursday, September 27th, the students had the happy privilege of hearing Mr. C. E. W. Griffith once again. The afternoon's programme consisted in the reading of "The Merchant of Venice", followed by a delightful rendering of Anna Fellows Johnson's "The Jester's Sword". In the evening the rendering of our old favourite "Hamlet" even surprised in excellence those of the afternoon.

Saturday afternoon the social life of the students began with the annual tramp along the Humber. At 2:30, seniors, juniors, sophs and freshmen, laden with indispensable accessories, assembled at Sunnyside and from there the merry band of pedestrians set forth on the last picnic of the season.

To-Day's Poem

THE OLD BOYS.

"Who is the one with the empty sleeve?"

"Some sport, who was in the swim."
"And the one with the ribbon, who's home on leave?"

"Good! Lord! I remember him!
A hulking fool, low down in the school,
And no good at games was he
All fingers and thumbs—and very few chums
(I wish he'd shake hands with me!)"

"Who is the one with the heavy stick,
Who seems to walk from the shoulder?"

"Why, man? the goal you have watched him kick!"

"He's looking a lifetime older
Who's the one that's so full of fun—
I never beheld a blither

Yet his eyes are fast as the furrow between!"

"He cannot see out of either!"

"Who are the ones that we cannot see, Though we feel them as near as near?"

In chapel one felt then, bend the knee,
At the altar one felt them cheer.

In the deep, still shade of the colonnade,
In the ringing quad's fall light,
They are laughing here, they are chaffing
there,
Yet never in sound or sight!"

"Oh, those are the ones who never shall leave,
As they once were afraid that they would!"

They marched away from the school at eve
But at dawn came back for good,
With deathless blooms from uncrowned tombs

Today at our Founder's shrine
As many are they as ourselves to-day,
And their place is yours and mine!"

"But who are the ones they can help or harm?"

"Each small boy, never so new,
Has an Elder Brother to take his arm,
And show him the thing to do—
And the thing to resist with doubled fist,
If he'd be nor knave nor fool—
And the game to play, if he'd tread the way
Of the School behind the School!"

Passing it Along.

"The neat and elegant appearance of the American soldier isn't maintained," said War Secretary Baker in an address,
"without hard work. Yes, the work is hard, but doesn't the result more than justify it?"

"On the train the other day a private sat with his tunic unbuttoned, for the temperature was high. A sergeant strode up to him and said:—

"Button up that tunic! Did you ever hear of By-law 217, subsection D? I'm Sergeant Jabez Winterbottom!"

"A gentleman in the seat behind tapped the sergeant sternly on the shoulder.

"How dare you issue orders with a pipe in your mouth?" he asked. "Go home and read paragraph 174, sec. M, part I.
I am Major Eustace Carroll!"

"Here a gentleman with a drooping moustache, interposed from the other side of the aisle:—

"If Major Carroll," he said coldly,

Second-Lieut. J. R. Charlesworth, a graduate of Trinity College, is reported among the missing. Lieut. Charlesworth joined the University Overseas Training Company when it was first organized, and was one of the first of its members to be accepted as a candidate for a commission in the Imperial army. He left for England in June, 1916, and on qualifying was appointed to the Royal Irish Rifles, and was subsequently attached to the Royal Newfoundland Fusiliers. Lieut. Charlesworth's home was in Guelph.

Capt. C. M. Clement, R.F.C., also listed among the missing, is the son of the Hon. Justice Clement, of Vancouver, B.C. He went overseas in June, 1915, is an officer in a British Columbian infantry battalion, and later was transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. For service in the corps he was awarded the French Croix de Guerre. Capt. Clement was an Applied Science student of 1916.

After nine months' service in the Mechanical Transport of the French army, Merrill Denison has arrived in Toronto from New York, where he visited his mother, Mrs. Flora McD. Denison, formerly a prominent salaried worker in Toronto. He is recovering from injuries sustained in France, and expects to return to the front with United States forces. When living in Toronto before the war he attended the School of Practical Science.

Second-Lieut. Stuart MacCallum Peterkin has been wounded and admitted to a Rouin hospital. He went overseas with the artillery and was later transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. He graduated in civics at the School of Practical Science in 1915. He was born in Toronto 23 years ago, and matriculated from Jarvis Street Collegiate.

OVER THE PARAPET

Private Dublin wrenched his bayonet clear and stared at a figure that twiddled for a moment ere it lay still. The rattle of machine guns had died out and only an occasional boom reverberated from across the ridge.

"Ah!" said Dublin, "so you would, would you? You'll leave him alone after this. Eh? Wat?"

He stooped and peered, then, with a chuckle, turned to his own officer, who was binding a sabre cut in his left arm. "Lemme do that, Sir."

Delicately tightening the tourniquet, he jerked his chin toward the body.

"Quite an 'ol friend, ain't he?"

The Major grinned. "Never saw him before. Much obliged to you for stopping him just the same, Dublin."

"Oh yes, you 'ave. You've shook his 'and, an' 'ad me open the '48 bin, an' drank 'is ruddy 'eath, an' give me 'ell becuz you saw 'is glass was empty, an' told me to put 'im to bed, an' you turned the old 'Al bupside down you did, an' all on 'is account." Dublin took out a short, black cutty, sucked at it vigorously and added: "My orders was to look arter him somethin' special—an' I dunno but wot I 'ave."

The Major's brows wrinkled as he unscrewed his flask. "Take a pull. You'll be all right in a minute."

The private cleared his throat. "Well, 'ere's to a giddy spy as drinks a gentle-business under the skirts of 'ospitality and travels in the ret—retinue of the Kaiser an' 'squints at 'is 'ost through the bottom of 'is glass and says to 'imself: 'You poor fool, if yore arms is as soft as yore 'ead it'll be all day an' all night with you just as soon as we're ready.'"

He tilted the flask. Well, Sir Arthur, 'Ere's lookin' at you both. You sit down an' take 'is 'and again, as you did three years ago, while I elvish 'round for another blasted tourniquet. Contributed.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students'
Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

FRESHMEN AT DENTAL COLLEGE ARE CLASSED AS "FIT" AND "UNFIT" FORMER WILL SERVE AS SERGTS.

Special Class will be Formed for the Fit and Others will Take the Regular College Course

Freshmen who registered at the Dental College this year did so upon the understanding that they would be examined at the Armouries, and if found "physically fit" would serve as sergeants in the C.A.D.C. when required. A special sergeants' class will be organized, composed only of "fit" men in preparation for Army Dental Service. The army rejects will be permitted to proceed with the regular dental course.

Though this policy was announced by the Dental College last April before the National Service Act was announced, quite a number of candidates were unaware of the regulations, but for the most part were quite in accord with this form of consideration.

There were some exceptions. One applicant, who departed with the remark that "he was not aware that the Dental College had been turned into a recruiting office," failed entirely to grasp the situation. The whole plan, of course, assumed that any young Canadian entering upon the study of dentistry to-day, should, no matter what his age, undertake to serve in the Dental Corps, if and when his services were required.

It is to the dental colleges that the militia authorities must now look for further recruits trained as dental assistants. It takes time to properly train men for this special work, and the needs of the future must be anticipated to day and adequate preparations made in advance to meet them.

The college placed its organization at the disposal of the Government early in the war, for the purpose of not only serving men, but training them for dental service in the C.A.D.C. This action saved the Government thousands of dollars by obviating the necessity for a Military Dental School in Ottawa, as had been planned. In addition to the regular dental students who have enlisted, from time to time, the College has conducted two sergeants' classes and a special summer session. The latter was held for the purpose of advancing the instruction of the senior students, that they might be available either for the C.A.D.C. or to take the place of more experienced dentists who had enlisted.

SPECIAL CONCLUSIONS

Students who give twelve months or more of satisfactory dental service are advanced one academic year in their course. Certain concessions, in the matter of matriculation standing, have also been granted those students who enlist. Every effort of this kind of returning the boys who are doing their bit back to civil life after the war, with as little handicap as possible, is a move in the right direction.

During the past summer the College building was placed at the disposal of the militia for the conduct of a clinic where the dental needs of the Flying Corps members were attended to. This clinic was organized as part of the dental service in M.D. No. 2. The Dental Corps in this district is administered by Major W. G. Thompson, A.D.D.S., who has his office at Camp Borden.

the 18th Battalion of London

Readers of THE VARSITY will be glad to hear of the honour recently received by Lieut.-Col. L. E. Jones of Applied Science '11 who has been awarded the D.S.O. Col. Jones went overseas with the second contingent as major of the 18th (London) Battalion but was later promoted to the higher rank. Before enlisting he was a member of the firm of Jones, Cornell Construction Co., Ltd., of New Westminster, B.C. His partner, C. W. Cornell, of the same year, is at present engaged with the Imperial Munitions in Toronto.

MALE STUDENTS NOTICE

All male students are required before 6 p.m. to-day to make appointments with the Secretary of the Athletic Association for a physical examination by Dr. J. W. Barton, Physical Director to the University. Students who have not already done so are advised to call at the gymnasium office (north of the men's residences) without further delay.

ROYAL FLYING CORPS EXPECT TO REMAIN HERE

Rumour of Move to Texas
Not Confirmed

The Freshies are not the only ones who crane their necks when an aeroplane circles above the campus, and many have wondered how long the members of the Royal Flying Corps will remain amongst us. Rumours have lately been circulated in the School to the effect that the Corps would very shortly be "moving out." But Major Fisher, O.C., R.F.C., when interviewed by THE VARSITY in the Engineering building on Monday, October 1, would not confirm this report. He stated that, so far as he knew, there would be no change. He could not predict with safety even a week ahead, but anticipated remaining in the buildings during the coming winter. Some of the air squadrons will most likely be moved to Texas at an early date, but many will remain here.

The airmen are a smart corps and the University can proudly lay claim to several of its members. So those who have friends in it will be glad to know that the unit will probably be stationed here for some time. School men will be interested to know that "Bob" Park, I.T.S., an R.F.C. draftsman at present engaged in the Engineering building, was recently promoted from second to first class air mechanic.

POLITICAL ECONOMISTS ORGANIZE TO MORROW

Political Economy Club to Hold
First Meeting

The opening meeting of the Political Economy Club will be held Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, in Room 1 of the Library Building. On this occasion, organization for the ensuing year will be completed. There are three vacancies on the executive committee to be filled: a vice-president from the third year, a treasurer and a representative from the second year, are to be elected.

The programme of the Club will be considered, and suggestions from the members as to topics, methods of discussion, and speakers are requested.

All men enrolled in honour economics of the second, third and fourth years are eligible for membership in the Club, and all are urged to attend the initial meeting.

Members of the second year, especially are urged to be present, because of their numbers and of the fact that their period of attendance at Varsity will be longest, they should be the main strength of the Club.

The Political Economy Club is a valuable adjunct to the course in honour economics. It aims to apply to current problems the knowledge gained in the studies of the course, and it supplies much information that is of value in attaining a better understanding of those studies. To this end, the Club subscribes to the best of the economic periodicals, collects literature and reports on economic subjects, and gives its members opportunities of hearing addresses by prominent speakers. The course of the student in Political Science or Commerce and Finance is not complete unless he takes advantage of membership in the Club.

ROLL OF SERVICE IS NEARING COMPLETION

First Edition will Appear
This Month

The first edition of the official Roll of Service is now in the press, and it is hoped that it will be published sometime this month. At present the editor is engaged in reading the proof, which occupies most of his time. After the final copy has gone to press, he hopes to devise a system, whereby, subject to certain regulations, the files in this office may be open to enquirers. This first edition will give only a very brief summary of each record, but in many cases much more detailed information has been received, which is valuable for present reference in the University and provides material from which a fuller record may be compiled later. Several returned members of the University have called at the office during the past week, including some who enlisted in the artillery in March, 1915, who after a long period of service at the front, have returned to complete their studies. Their names will be given to THE VARSITY shortly.

Last Night

DR. J. A. MACDONALD ADDRESSED FRESHMEN OF U.C. AT Y.M.C.A.

MANY STUDENTS PRESENT

Annual Feature of Y.M.C.A.— Programme Enjoyed by All Present

The annual reception to University College Freshmen was held in the College Y.M.C.A. on Monday evening at eight o'clock. Students to the number of 125 were present.

The meeting was opened by the singing of the national anthem, followed by "The Pride of the North", and University yells. Mr. Kemp then gave a piano solo which was greatly enjoyed. The chairman, J. Baon Brodie, in a pointed address, emphasized the purpose of the University in relation to the student's future. His suggestion "to pursue your studies, but do not neglect your education," was characteristic of his very effective address.

The chairman then introduced Dr. J. A. Macdonald, the speaker of the evening, who was received with enthusiastic applause. Dr. Macdonald expressed his happiness at being again present at a students' meeting, and emphasized the value and the opportunities of student life. "Because so many of our finest have gone overseas, a double burden demands our 'getting together', to successfully maintain our 'bit of the line'. The theme, 'Together' was the outcome of serious thought. Get together is the theme of our lives; the social problem of living together and working together demands co-operation. Welcome to the University to learn to co-operate with our fellows. That the nations had been living individualistic and selfish lives, was undoubtedly one of the real causes of the war. Social co-operation was tending to make the world safe for democracy." "The present political unrest," said Dr. Macdonald, "was the result of not working together. As absolute as the law of gravitation in the material world, in like manner the inexorable law of the social world, 'thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself', is the great power which binds society and communities. Love is the great all-uniting power of society. No other power can take the harp of the college and social world and strike the true note of fellowship. We take advantage of our opportunities at the University that we may strike that true note. The present German enemy is nothing compared to those enemies of love and service and that the failure of many lives are due to the onslaught of such enemies. Canada needs men, men of a type who can catch a vision of the real life and by living together in that life build up a democracy characterized by the highest ideals of service." Prolonged applause and cheers concluded a most impressive speech, and many a man carried away some new thought to help him make his life count highest.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Macdonald by H. G. Stapells and seconded by Professor J. G. Hume, Ph.D., head of the philosophical department, who in an excellent speech pointed out that by taking advantage of the opportunity of the

OVERSEAS COMPANY CARRIES ON WORK OF TRAINING OFFICERS

STRENGTH INCREASED

Men of Company Display Usual Interest in All Athletics

The O.S.T.C. has had a very prosperous summer. When the College closed, last spring, the steady stream of drafts had left the Company with but 45 on its roll. To-day that number has increased to 189.

The Company is in the "pink" of condition. The Varsity reporter arrived at the orderly room as the men fell in, and the way Company Sergeant-Major Steve Butt handled those men and the way they responded was a sight worth seeing. Sergt-Major Butt is only supported by Sergeants Curtis, Henderson, McKinnon, Bean and Baldwin. J. P. S. Nethercott and F. H. Jamieson have been appointed to take the places of Mr. Sheebottom and Mr. Reid who are now overseas.

The Class of U.C. 270 will be glad to hear that F. Hutchison is now a corporal, and that S. M. Campbell has left in a draft as a candidate for an Imperial commission.

The Company has an aggregation of five athletes. This summer the baseball team remained unbeaten throughout the whole season. It defeated the R.F.C. in five straight games, the last of which took place on Saturday, and ended in a score of 14-0. A team picked from former U.S. Naval Cadets proved no exception and even though they had such men as pitcher Stacks, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, the Company went right through them as per usual. The prospects for a rugby team are exceedingly bright. Leonard, Ridleys' sensational kicker, Ings and Hogdets, also of Ridley College, Robbins from Queen's; Bickford, the heavy line plunger and Cockley, the centre-half from Vic, will star for the Company and ought to make a fast Mulock team.

Twenty-five men are now waiting for the P.S.I. to arrive in order that they may try their examinations for lieutenants. One corporal and fourteen privates are now trying their examinations at the School of Musketry. These will subsequently be attached to the staff of that School.

Anderson, A. M., E. L. Bevans, L. B. Calnan, M. W. Duthie, J. A. Eyles, A. H. Findlay, N. R. Firstbrook, Lieut.-Cpl. E. M. Faris, W. S. Gibbs, A. R. Giddings, V. S. Grigg, A. W. Hyder, Lieut.-Cpl. A. W. Lang, E. G. Lockhart, E. B. Lowndes, H. H. McCorkindale, Cpl. S. M. Campbell, C. P. Coleman, C. H. Carruthers, S. Pepper, Lieut.-Cpl. L. Purdon, Lieut.-Cpl. W. K. Prongerast, R. E. Salmon, Lieut.-Cpl. D. M. Scott, H. J. Smith, J. L. Smith, J. S. Walker, J. E. Wetherell, E. R. Williams, G. M. Willoughby, D. H. Wright, N. J. A. Wright.

N.B. STUDENTS SUFFER HEAVY FINES FOR INITIATION

Because many of the students of the University of New Brunswick last week participated in the "initiation" of members of the freshmen clubs, in violation of orders of Chancellor C. C. Jones, the chancellor to-day announced that each student who took part would be fined $25. The students will be suspended from all privileges until the fines are paid and will be debared from all prizes and scholarships during the academic year. Scholarships already awarded will be cancelled. The students affected declare that they will appeal to the university senate.

law of social service, we are helping to establish more firmly that law. Hearty applause showed the students' appreciation of Professor Hume's remarks.

Following this Mr. Sullivan gave a solo number. A novel contest, which helped the men to meet each other and was enjoyed and the refreshments were served. Mr. Kemp played several selections, and his work was appreciated. The most pleasant evening closed with "God Save the King".

Student Activities

I.
"Carry On!"

In the President's message addressed to the students in Friday's issue of THE VARSITY, mention was made of the difficulty of conducting the usual student activities in view of the greatly reduced enrollment in the upper years. This difficulty at first sight appears serious, but like many another it contains within it the germ of opportunity.

Fewness of numbers is not in itself a valid reason for the suspension of activities really worth while. When the attendance is large, there are usually some who take an active interest in student affairs, while others play the easy role of spectator or critic. When numbers are diminished, a larger proportion of students may be attracted to interested participation. This is what the various societies and clubs of the University should endeavor to accomplish.

There are indications that this intensive policy is to be generally adopted. The Y.W.C.A. is inaugurating one of its most vigorous programmes. The Political Economy Club and the Modern Language Club have already made preliminary announcements of their plans. This is no time for a slackening of effort or of interest, for allowing useful organizations to lapse. It may well be that this year, opportunities for effective work are the greatest. Every activity worthy of the attention of the students should be maintained. Though enrolment be small, and difficulties seem many and great—

CARRY ON!

Help the Supplement!

THE VARSITY wishes to call the attention of all students to the notice which appeared in Monday's issue re photographs for the 1917 edition of THE VARSITY Magazine Supplement.

The Students' Administrative Council desire that the photograph of every graduate and undergraduate on active service, whose photo was not included in the 1916 edition, should appear in the coming edition.

If you know of any such men, kindly send names and addresses to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council; and thus by your co-operation help the work of the editors of the Supplement.

To-Day's Poem

Killed in Action.

My father lived his three-score years;
My son lived twenty-two;
One looked long back on work well done,
And one had all to do—
Yet which the better served his world
I know not, nor do you!

To one, Life chattered all her lore
Till he grew wise and gray;
To one, she whispered only, ere
She turned her face away—
Yet which her deepest secret held
Only they two might say.

Peace gave my father restful days,
With love and fame for wages;
War gave my son an unmarked grave
And an unwritten page—
Who shall declare which gift conveyed
The greater heritage?

FRESHETTES AT QUEEN'S
HALL WERE INITIATED
MONDAY EVENINGFifty Two of the Verdant Ones
Were Put Through

Last Monday evening the seniors of Queen's Hall held their annual initiation for the Freshettes. Of these, fifty-two went through the trials and tribulations of entering residence life.

As the doors were opened and Miss Livingstone took the place of honour, the room was darkened and the Freshies, with anxious expectation on every countenance, entered. When light appeared again, a "mad hoist" for all the members of 271 which was discerned, through the gates of which, through an entrance protected by two staunch guards, could be seen a much bespectacled and pompous Dr. Noah seated at his desk and surrounded by his most efficient staff of doctors and nurses.

At one end of the room was the operating table with all the necessary instruments at which a nurse was busily engaged preparing bandages to treat, or rather illustrate the incoming patients. Upon closer observation could be seen, in another part of the room, a garden much strewn with fallen leaves and transplanted with bushes where two inmates of the asylum were vigorously giving vent to their insanity.

One by one, Dr. Noah admitted the Freshies into his august presence and after due examination, prescribed treatment for them. Some who appeared with supposedly belated countenances were sent away looking much the worse for sticking plaster, others had limbs amputated with formidable looking saws, while others with milder complaints were given enormous candid pills. After the patients were dismissed from the hospital more or less cured of their malady, ghosts then received them and escorted in their clammy arms to the depths below down many a winding stairway where amid shrieks and groans a solemn ceremony was carried out. This over they then had one again back to the realms of light now full fledged members of Queen's Hall and now Freshette and Senior having come into closer acquaintance than before. The meeting concluded with refreshments and dancing.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB HELD AN INFORMAL TEAAfternoon Was Pleasantly Spent by Freshettes and Senior Years

The Modern Language Club held a very successful informal tea at the Women's Union on Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of the Freshettes. Mrs. Squair and Miss MacMillan, president of the Club, received the numerous guests and several of the older members wrote the names of each one on a slip of paper and pinned it on the owner thus facilitating introductions among the women.

And the tinkling of teacups, Miss Lillian Black, who has so generously lent her aid before sang two sprightly little songs in her usual inimitable manner. Miss Marjorie Buck's piano solo was well received as was shown by the encore.

In the course of the afternoon, Miss MacMillan gave a short talk on what the Modern Language Club intended to do in University life. Miss McCorkindale sang and the rest of the afternoon was devoted to social intercourse. The English and History course students made themselves very prominent by singing their song but were unable to withstand the sad fate predicted by the combined forces of the students in the other courses.

Y.W.C.A. EXECUTIVE DISCUSSED PLANS FOR THE COMING YEARMany Prominent Speakers Gave Their Opinions to the Young Women

It is difficult to find the leisure for discussing and planning amidst the hurry and bustle of college life. Knowing this, the executive of the Y.W.C.A. made arrangements to retire to some secluded spot with a number of its interested friends where it might have the opportunity to discuss the coming year's work. Therefore on Friday last, a number of college girls crossed to Centre Island, where they remained until Monday morning, listening to talks, hearing plans, discussing formally and informally, and enjoying themselves generally.

The speakers obtained were of the best, and each talk bore directly on the great needs of the day and how they might best be met. Dr. Pidgeon of Bloor street Presbyterian Church, spoke on Friday, and Saturday evening, his topics being "The Spirit of Christianity" and "The Manifestation of the spirit of Christianity". Dr. Pidgeon contrasted the self-centred and the God-centred life, showing the value of each to the individual and to society. He explained in a new way the influence which might radiate from even one Christian life and emphasized that it was through a life of service alone that the individual reached the highest good.

Miss Saunders, Head of the Y.W.C.A. in Canada, in a charming little out-of-door talk, drew rapid but realistic pictures of student life in various foreign countries. She made the girls realize the bond that united them, as members of this University, with those other students, and then explained how the bond was strengthened by the World's Christian Student Federation.

Dr. Taylor on Sunday morning gave a splendid talk and later led a thoughtful discussion on the rather baffling subject of prayer. In the evening he presented a distinct challenge to the girls by telling them some plain facts about university life and university women.

Professor Houke, in the beautiful allegory of Elisha and the man with the borrowed axe, emphasized the danger of depending upon other people's ideas.

The president, Miss Helen M. Smith, explained that social study would take a prominent place in the year's work. She expressed the consciousness of the failure of the university women to meet the responsibilities of the present situation. She appealed strongly for a broader practical knowledge of facts, for unity, and for perseverance.

The discussions were marked by unusual freedom in speaking opinions on the part of the girls. The one formal discussion on Christianity and Social Reconstruction led by Miss Olive I. Ziegler, brought out the feeling that as the men at the front had made such a sacrifice, the girls also must make their sacrifice.

Saturday afternoon was left free for recreation and the time was most pleasantly occupied with a corn boil and marshmallow roast. The corn was smoky, and the marshmallows burnt, which added to the enjoyment.

The whole conference was marked by a spirit of earnestness, and a desire for service, which presages a successful year for the Y.W.C.A.

Education

A remark made by Professor Sadler, England's leading educational authority, to Dr. Peter Sandiford, of the Faculty of Education, Toronto, would make the best summary of the needs of Canadian schooling after the war. Dr. Sandiford was speaking Monday, October 1, before the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church. Prof. Sadler urged the development of the individual more than of the class. "One Robert Browning," he said, "was worth five thousand Alfred Austins." Dr. Sandiford's address was one of the most thoughtful heard in Toronto. He spoke of "Educational Reconstruction

RED CROSS APPEAL FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR OVERSEAS MENThe Need is Great—Give What You
Can As Soon As Possible

Some time ago the Red Cross sent out an appeal for Christmas stockings to send to the soldiers, a number of which the University Base Hospital volunteered to supply. A notice was placed in the women's cloak room to attract the attention of the students, but the response has not been very liberal.

A list of articles is mentioned below, and it is requested that all those who wish to contribute should hand in their articles at the Union House or Queen's Hall, not later than Thursday, October 1, if possible.

1. Short comical stories cut out of magazines and pasted on sheets and sewn together have been especially asked for by the Base Hospital, one story to be put in each stocking.

2. Pocket mirrors, pocket pencils, pen knives, pipes and match boxes.

3. Writing pad and envelopes, fancy post-cards.

4. Cigarettes, tobacco.

5. Candies, chewing gum, maple sugar.

6. Handkerchiefs, socks and gloves.

7. Toilet requisites, such as soap, shaving stick, toilet powder, tooth paste.

8. Games, books, puzzles, mouth organs.

9. Packages of raisins, dates, figs and nuts.

after the War." Of the returned soldier Dr. Sandiford remarked that he should be adequately taught to take up a new occupation, suited to his wounded physique. For most training schools would have to be established. "It would be a thousand pities," he said, "if in mistaken good nature we feasted and fêted the returned soldier for a brief period instead of providing him with a livelihood for a lifetime." Schools for farming, carpentry, mining, plumbing, engineering, building construction and telegraphy were a few he suggested. Natural aptitude however should be the guiding principle in this soldier education.

Dr. Sandiford concluded a splendid address by insisting that the coming immigration into Canada would call for the best educational training of these for citizenship.

Varsity Athletics ARE WAKING UP

Usual Competitions will be Held This Year

A general interest in athletics is awakening in all faculties. This is apparent from the numerous queries made at the gymnasium concerning the different sports. With regard to a Mulock Cup Series this year, Mr. T. A. Reid says, "Most assuredly there will be a series for the Mulock Cup if the faculties will supply the teams, and the faculty with a team first in the field will certainly have the 'best showing'."

By the end of the week the Medical exams for C.O.T.C. will be finished and the gymnasium will be free for meetings of the different athletic executives. The tennis, rugby and hockey executives are requested to get together as soon as possible to arrange the schedule for the coming season.

Other Colleges

Michigan With but four days of pre-season coaching ahead of them thirty candidates reported to Coach F. H. Vost here Thursday at the opening practice session of the University of Michigan football season. Coach Vost surprised the critics by declaring his material was much better than he has expected and that Michigan's football prospects are better than last year.

Harvard—Actual rowing practice for the Harvard crews is scheduled to start soon. The candidates were out last Thursday for the first time, and with more than seventy men reporting from all the classes of the University, Head Coach William Haines looks forward to a successful season. The number of men, although far smaller than that of previous years, is nevertheless encouraging, when so few of the experienced men are available. More men are still needed, however, to make the fall season and later the spring season completely successful.

Able assisted by F. B. Withington, former assistant coach at Harvard, Coach Metcalf put the Columbia University football squad through a hard practice Friday last. In addition to Withington, Goldberg, last year's centre, with a day's leave from Plattsburg, helped round the new material into shape.

The squads have been growing daily until the varsity candidates numbered nearly 60 and the freshmen 30. Only four regulars, all of whom are back field men, are on hand, but with the wealth of material a first-class line is probable. Rosen fulfilled Coach Metcalf's hopes by 'appearing in uniform, and with Captain Cochran took the lead in shaping the new material.

Eastern intercollegiate football for the season of 1917 is scheduled to get under way under strange conditions. When the season of 1916 came to a close, the managers of the various colleges started in arranging their schedules for this fall and practically all the big universities of the East had booked the regulation number of games with the opening planned for to-day. As soon as the United States entered the war some of the big universities, notably Harvard, Yale and Princeton, cancelled their schedules, thus necessitating a big revising of many college dates.

So far as is apparent, Harvard, Yale and Princeton are the only colleges in the East which will not take part in regular intercollegiate football competition this fall, but it now looks as if they might play a few informal games. The withdrawing of these colleges has naturally upset the entire field and left some colleges without any games.

Yale—Candidates for the football team, including the freshmen, reported at the Yale gymnasium last week. Practice will be held three times a week in co-operation with the military drills. T. A. D. Jones, '08 and Dr. A. E. Bridges, university coaches last year, will coach the freshman team, as announced by Prof. R. A. Cordin.

On account of the absence of Head Coach Jones, no definite arrangements have been settled, but tentative agreements with both Harvard and Princeton Yale games will also be held with the military units at Newport and Plattsburg, though no dates have been decided upon, informal interclass and interbattery games will also be arranged. All athletics will be subservient to the military courses and will be planned to give physical training to the greatest possible number of men.

An interesting development in Yale athletics was the announcement that there will be rowing at Yale this year if arrangements can be made that will not interfere

LIEUT. A. E. BRIGHT, U.C. '19, DIED AT HIS POST

Was Doing Very Dangerous Work at Time of Death

The following is taken from a letter written to the father of the late Lieut. A. E. Bright, who was killed in action on the morning of April 9th. He was a second year student in University College, also a member of Knox College, who enlisted with many other University men in March, 1915. He was promoted from gunner through all the ranks to lieutenant. At Vinny a number of University men were serving in the same battery under him. Capt. R. F. Thompson, M.C., Chaplain of the Brigade is a graduate of the University and of Knox College. The writer of the letter, also a member of the University, was himself killed in action shortly afterwards. Lieut. Matthews, an old College friend, was also present at the burial.

"Your son was in this Brigade and I command it. I detailed your son for the very important task, the doing of which cost him his life. My regret and keen feeling of loss brings it home to me just what your feelings must be. I detailed your son to be the forward observing officer for the Brigade. His work was to go out almost with the infantry—the 'moppers-up'—to be exact—and lay a telephone wire to the observing post on Vinny Ridge and fire all the guns from his observing post at all moving targets, and in fact everything which was causing casualties to our infantry. He was getting along splendidly when a machine-gun bullet found its mark and killed him instantly. He was an exceptionally capable soldier and was doing great work. He was picked by me on account of his reliability and the absolute confidence that the party who were detailed to go with him had in him. His loss was a heavy one both from a soldier and a friend's point of view, and was keenly felt by all the officers of the Brigade and in fact the whole artillery of this division. We were moving forward the day he was buried, and I could not get there, nor could the majority of the officers of the division, who would have liked to be there, but I made sure that his three best chums—Mr. Monteith, Mr. Scott and Mr. Beatty were there, and Mr. Thompson ('Bob') buried him. Please accept my most sincere sympathy. Your son lost his life, but he lost it doing the most important and absolutely necessary tasks in the artillery, and he was chosen for the task on account of his efficiency. I congratulate you upon having a son of Bright's capacity, and I do indeed sympathize with you in his loss."

C.O. Brigade, C.F.A.

TORONTO GRADUATE IS NOW CHIEF ASTRONOMER

Dr. Otto Julius Klotz, LL.D., F.R.A.S., has been appointed Chief Astronomer for the Dominion Observatory. Dr. Klotz entered the service of the Dominion Government in 1879, and since 1908 has been Assistant Chief Astronomer. Born in Preston, Ont., and educated at the Galt Grammar School and the University of Toronto, Dr. Klotz has held many high positions in the literary and scientific world of the Dominion. He is the author of numerous authoritative works on scientific subjects.

COLUMBIA PROFESSORS COMPELLED TO RESIGN

By unanimous vote on the board of trustees of Columbia University, the professorships held by James McKeen Cattell, of the department of psychology, and Henry W. L. Dana, of the department of English and comparative literature, were declared vacant to-day at the initial monthly meeting of the current academic year.

Professor Cattell, father of Owen Cattell, the Columbia student, who was placed on trial in the Federal Court for attempting to evade the Selective Draft Law, was recommended for retirement, and Professor Dana was requested to resign.

The announcement of the removal stated that "it was the judgment of the members of the University faculties, in which the trustees concurred, that both Prof. Cattell and Prof. Dana had done grave injury to the University by their public agitation against the conduct of the war."

The Old 10th Royals

It was for an officer, the late Captain Irvine, of the old 10th Royals, now the Grenadiers, that we made our first wrist watch.

We remember it well because it was a distinct innovation, and at that time we thought it was worn largely for effect.

That was over thirty years ago, and Captain Irvine, familiarly known to his pals as "Andy," has long since passed away. Where he first got the idea of the wrist watch, we do not know, but he knew its value then, better than we do.

To-day there are thousands of them worn in every walk of life, from the Gunner on his wagon, to the Banker in his chair, the soldier in the trenches, to the Bricklayer on the scaffold, in the office by the man who keeps the accounts, and the man who collects them.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

The Rev. R. Macnamara relinquished his work at Collingwood over a year ago in order to accompany some of our men to the far-flung battle line of Flanders. Five weeks were spent in congenial work amongst the men amidst the impenetrable mud of Bransholme. Even as an Irishman, Mr. Macnamara could not appreciate this kinship between Merry England and his native Emerald Isle.

His stay in England terminated on Easter Sunday when he attended the services in Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral. He was strongly impressed by these services as they seemed to be representative of the whole land. They also served as a great and appropriate preparation for the Christian work which he was to carry on, not in vaulted ash and secluded transcripts, but beneath the great dome of heaven, accompanied by exploding shells and the soothing harmonies of a pealing organ and vested choir.

On his arrival in France he became conscious of a new atmosphere. France, comparatively speaking, was not his war. There was a touch of discussion and deliberation, but not a keen sensitivity as to the situation. This was no doubt due to national temperament and the immunity from devastating invasion France, on the other hand, was strongly impressed by the campaign, for her fields had been laid waste, her industrial area paralysed and her spiritual monuments reduced to ashes. Even the Canadian Corps had inhaled deeply this new atmosphere, and were experienced a new life as a fresh spirit of comradeship bound officers and men together.

The work of the chaplains may be broadly classified under two headings—that in the rest billets at the rear of the line, and that in the front-line trenches, advanced dressing stations, dugouts and caves.

Capt. Rev. R. Macnamara spoke particularly of the latter work. The small services in the dugouts were heartily responded to by the men. In passing, Mr. Macnamara paid a very high tribute to the Army Medical Corps for the way in which they looked after the wounded in the advanced dressing stations. The wounded have the utmost possible care and this should be a source of comfort to those who have loved ones there.

In spite of suffering, sometimes of indescribable intensity the men were very cheerful and even humorous. One man, sure it was an Irishman, had by some peculiar misfortune, got into a Highland regiment, and had to wear the inevitable kilt. He was wounded, and while in hospital, someone said to him "Look here doc, don't you think you're old enough to wear trousers?" "I used to think so," replied Pat, "until I got into this regiment."

In referring to the religious capacities of the men, there seemed to be a strange mixture. Right in the front-line trenches in the face of a sickening death men would be profane. On the other hand there were evidences of keen spiritual sensitiveness. Mr. Macnamara mentioned the fact that in personal conversation after a strenuous battle, Brigadier-General Macdonnell said to him, "I believe absolutely in the power and presence of God." The men were not sceptical and not only acknowledged the existence of a supreme being, but realised their need of Him. We must not expect them as a whole to be radically different from what they were when they went overseas. Some it is true became hardened and lost faith in humanity, while others are moulded and fashioned by the new experiences and return with a religious faith which they knew not before they enlisted and went through the fiery furnace of war.

C. G. MANNING, 119 SCHOOL
PASSED AWAY IN SUMMER

A scene of gloom and sadness was cast over Bowmanville when one of the most promising and popular young men, Mr. Charles Gordon Manning, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manning, Elgin street, died. He spent four years in the High School there, and was an exceptionally bright student, distinguishing himself by taking his complete Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation in three years without a bonus, and the fourth year taking his Honour Matriculation—an unusual record. He took a great interest in athletics, being a member of the football and hockey teams. Gordon was of a quiet and retiring disposition, but made many friends among his associates there as well as in Toronto, upon his graduation from the High School here, he attended the School of Practical Science, taking the course in Electrical Engineering. He spent two successful years there, and at

CAPT. PATERSON, M.C.
LOST LIFE IN ENGLANDIs Former Graduate of Varsity from Faculty of Medicine

That Capt. Murray H. Paterson, M.C., well-known Chatham medical officer, was killed in a railway accident in England on Saturday, was the distressing news contained in an official telegram received by the soldier's parents, Mr and Mrs. D. S. Paterson, Stanley Avenue.

Capt. Paterson brought fame to the Miple City by his distinguished conduct on the field, in that he was the first Chatham officer to win the Military Cross, with which he was decorated at an Investiture when he was presented to the King. The official dispatch, referring to his bravery said "He went twice in daylight to No Man's Land and brought in wounded. He remained when the battalion was relieved and did not leave the post till it was cleared of wounded. He did fine work."

It was following his splendid work in the trenches that he was hit on his left arm, contracting septo-pneumonia, and he was invalided to England. He was granted leave in September of last year, and came home on a short visit with his parents. The enthusiastic reception accorded him in the city will be well remembered by the citizens of Chatham.

The late Capt. Paterson was only in his 26th year, and was rising rapidly in the medical profession. Previous to receiving a commission in an Imperial Army Regiment, Capt. Paterson had been associated with the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, where he was in charge of the pathological laboratory. His research work in bacteriology brought the highest praise from the eminent physicians and surgeons whom he worked under in that hospital.

ORGAN RECITAL SERIES
WILL BEGIN OCT. 16thMr. Moure will Conduct All Recitals This Fall

The series of organ recitals given by Mr. Moure in Convocation Hall will begin on Tuesday, October 16 at 5 p.m. During the fall term these recitals will be held fortnightly, and after the New Year each week. The whole fall series will be conducted by Mr. Moure himself, while it is not yet definite who will conduct the other series.

This will be the sixth year that Mr. Moure has given these recitals, which have been immensely enjoyed. A notable feature has been the attendance of a large number of professional people from outside the University, testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Moure's art is held.

As has been the case heretofore, the programme for the coming recitals will always appear in advance in THE VARSITY. Every one in the University should make it a point of attending these recitals, as much pleasure can be derived from them.

Trinity

The war is combining with other more everyday reasons for Trinity College continuing in its old picturesque environs. Like all the faculties whose undergraduate body is composed solely of men, the attendance is small. The divinity men have responded to the call of the Empire equally as well as the Arts students, and this session they are commencing where the steadily decreasing numbers of last year left off.

Think and Smile

But remember the adage: "Make acquaintances rapidly—friends slowly."

Gent—"Is there any soup on this bill-of-fare?"
Waiter—"There was, sir, but I wiped it off."—Awgwan.

"What is it, do you suppose, that keeps the moon from falling?" asked Georgine.
"I think it must be the beams," replied George softly.—Burr.

Wife—"George, didn't I hear you slipping upstairs on your tip-toes very late last night?"
George (honestly)—"No wife dear, I crawled up on my hands and knees."

the close of last term was appointed by the government as an inspector of munitions in Oshawa. He had not been in good health for some months, and three weeks previous to his death he contracted typhoid fever and cerebro meningitis.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

1916 MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT PROFITS GO TO RED CROSS

EDITORS AT WORK ON NEW PRODUCTION

Readers of "The Varsity" are Asked to Co-operate with Students' Council re Men's Photographs

On behalf of the Students' Council the President recently paid over to Col. Noel Marshall $6,000 for the purchase of two motor ambulances for use on the western front. The Students' Council has been able to make this gift on behalf of the students of the University from the profits of the 1916 edition of the Magazine Supplement which received unstinted praise from the press of Canada and the United States. The Council needs the co-operation of every student to carry on their patriotic work in the 1917 edition which is now being prepared for the press.

In a final attempt to complete the photographic record of the men who have enlisted for overseas service from the University of Toronto, the following list of names of graduates and students who are entitled to a place in the 1917 edition of the Supplement is published. The circulars directed to these men have in many cases been returned, as the men have not notified their proper address to the University authorities. There still exists the possibility that the readers of THE VARSITY may have a photograph of these men or may be able to inform THE VARSITY where one may be secured. The Students' Council asks every man to co-operate with them by supplying photographs or information concerning these men to THE VARSITY office. The lists must be closed on October 15th.

ANGLICANS ORGANIZE FOR COMING YEAR

A meeting of the executive of the Anglican Club was held on Wednesday afternoon to discuss the programme for the ensuing year.

It was decided that a tea be held next Wednesday afternoon at the Church of England Deaconess House to meet Anglican freshettes and other prospective members.

The club promises to be a great success this year. Red Cross work will be carried on twice a month, while alternate meetings are to be held at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas, St. George Street, when prominent speakers will address the members of the club. Anglicans should endeavour in every way to attend the meetings, as it is a splendid opportunity to take part in Red Cross work, and also to enjoy a very sociable hour once a week.

KNOX DINING HALL OPENS TO FULL HOUSE

Everything Now in Full Swing at the Popular Men's Residence

Once again Knox College dining hall rings with the cheery voices of buoyant youth. Promptly at six o'clock last Wednesday evening, a long line of students filed into the dining-hall and officially took possession for the new term. The opening of the dining hall marks the beginning of residential life at Knox, and while throughout all last week, the dormitories had been occupied, yet the dining hall, as the place where all the students gather for a family meal, still occupies the centre of the residential life of Knox.

To say that the repast was good, would indeed be putting it mildly. Everything ran smoothly except when some dignified senior shot reproving glances at some luckless freshman who had accidentally left his spoon in his tea-cup.

When the students had satisfied the "inner man", Dr. Gandier, the Principal, amid applause, rose and extended a hearty welcome to the students. Dr. Gandier also invited co-operation for the prevention of waste and advocated the policy of "Help the other fellow". Worship, a distinct feature of Knox College life, was taken by the Principal after which the diners were dismissed.

This year as was expected all the 120 rooms of the four residential houses are occupied, and Miss Webb, head of the commissariat, will undoubtedly be busy catering to the appetites of 120 hungry men.

About twenty theological students are taking advantage of the splendid course at Knox. Dr. Gandier attributes this low number to the war, which has taken many promising students and also to the fact that many are remaining at their posts in the home mission fields.

An elaborate system of electric alarms has been installed, and a bell at 7.30 in the early morning, rouses the blissful slumberer to the fact that half an hour later another bell will announce breakfast. Bells at 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. call the students to dinner and supper respectively.

Several basketball teams have taken advantage of the splendid gymnasium and fast contests are staged daily.

On the whole everyone at Knox feels that the new year is going to be an extremely successful one and each is ready to do his part to attain that end.

NOTICE

The first regular meeting of the Students' Administrative Council will be held in the Senate Chamber, Main Building, on Thursday, Oct. 11. All students qualified to sit in the Council are requested to report their addresses to the General Secretary, Mr. Collier C. Grant, Phone Coll. 5036 office; Belmont 1806 residence.

VARSAITY WOMAN GRAD. DRIVES AMBULANCE CAR IN FRANCE

London has reason to be proud of the record of native sons and daughters who are performing such admirable service in various lines of war work and to the already handsome list has been added the name of Miss Norine Butler, B.A., V.A.D., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Butler, 338 St. James street, a popular young lady in social circles.

Miss Butler left for overseas on June 30 last as a V.A.D. nurse, with the intention of entering a hospital in connection with the St. John's Ambulance Brigade, but upon arriving in England she was given the opportunity of driving a motor ambulance in France, which work appealed to her, being an expert driver from experience with her own car. To perfect her knowledge, Miss Butler took a course of training in motor driving and mechanics securing first-class honours in each.

Miss Butler, who is a graduate of the '09 class, Toronto University, has the proud distinction of being the first woman from this part of Ontario to drive a motor ambulance in France.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB OFF TO A GOOD START

A largely attended meeting of the members of the Political Economy Club was held yesterday in the Library building. The President, Mr. W. R. Salter, briefly addressed the men, and then proceeded to the business at hand. Nominations were received for the offices of treasurer and second year councillor and for the vice-presidency left vacant by the resignation of the former holder. Voting took place and the following were elected:

Vice-President, C. M. Luke (Accl.)
Treasurer, G. R. Noop.
Second year rep., F. C. Hastings (Acc.)

It was decided to have a series of debates at the fortnightly meetings of this year. A schedule of these will be made by the executive, and a member of the Staff will be invited to be present to act as critic, giving his judgment upon the arguments advanced.

MEDICAL FRESHMEN

An informal reception will be held for the freshmen in Medical College, in the University Y.M.C.A. building, on Thursday evening, October 11, at 7.45 p.m.

The committee in charge is doing its utmost to give the members of the class a mighty good time together, and to give them an opportunity of getting acquainted with one another. A very prominent speaker is to be secured and there will be games, music, and a good time generally. Lots of eats. No charge. Be sure to keep this date open.

Harvard has received a donation of a valuable library on psychological works, which was collected by the late Professor Hugo Muensterberg during his lifetime. The library consists of about 10,000 books.

DISABLED SOLDIERS GET TRAINING AT HART HOUSE

DR. E. A. BOTT IS IN CHARGE OF WORK

Each Has Special Instructor and the Amar Apparatus is Employed

When the arrangement was made recently that the trustees of the Massey Estate had diverted Hart House, the newest of the University of Toronto group of buildings, to a special work of the Military Hospitals Commission, few realized the importance of the event to the lives of hundreds of Canada's wounded soldiers. There was nothing to convey that the Government had here undertaken in behalf of the disabled, a work so new and advanced that there is only one laboratory in Canada studying the scientific principle to be applied. Yet such is the case.

Some time ago officials of the Great War Veterans' Association assembled at Ottawa for a conference with government leaders, and urged the use in Canada of the Amar apparatus for functional training. They told of the wonderful instances of conquering disabilities achieved in France through the use of the devices and appliances invented by Professor Amar. So little is known even by many medical men of functional training that it is not surprising the government officials seen by the veterans were unaware that this very work had already been launched in the Dominion. The Amar apparatus, it is true, is not being used, but the scientific principle on which it was built is being applied by Dr. E. A. Bott of the University of Toronto's psychological laboratory in the construction of scores of devices which accomplish exactly the same results as Professor Amar's creation.

CAN NOW PLAY FOOTBALL

Just to show what is possible, one of the men who was taken in hand at the University last year was paralysed from the waist down and walked with two crutches. It took only a few months' working with the Bott apparatus for this lad to recover the entire use of his limbs. When he left the laboratory he was able to box, wrestle, play football and perform other feats of athletic prowess with the limbs which a short time before had been helpless.

During the 1916-17 term of the University, research work on the subject of functional training was carried on in the psychological laboratory with such successful results upon sixteen soldier patients sent from Central Military Convalescent Hospital, College Street, that the Military Hospitals Commission resolved early in the spring to undertake the expansion of the work until as many soldiers as possible might receive its benefits. Fortunately the Commission had already decided to concentrate its orthopaedic work for the whole Dominion at the former Booth Memorial Home, North Toronto. Lieut.-Col. Vincent Massey had observed the work at the University and was impressed, and in behalf of the Massey Estate he offered the use of the million-dollar gym and social centre building, which his family was erecting in Queen's Park for the students.

Commenced before the war, Hart House, as it is called, has progressed in construction slowly since 1914, as in its uncompleted state it was suitable for the carrying on of various military training operations. The southern half of the building contains a great number of small rooms, and it is these which make the building so admirably suited to the work of re-education, as it is correctly termed. It is one of the essentials of the work that each patient be treated separately by apparatus designed to meet his special case under the guidance of an individual worker.

The soldiers who will benefit by this new treatment are, for the most part, those who have a disability which entails the loss of one of more of the scores of mental and physical processes which go to make up the total activities of the normal human being. The surgical treatment necessary for most of the physical disabilities will be given at the orthopaedic hospital, and the psychological influences necessary to assist in the removal of the disability will be supplied at Hart House.

HOW THE CURE IS APPLIED.

The prescription in each case will consist of an exercise which can be performed with the disabled member. The patient will practice the exercise consistently and if the treatment is successful will find it grows easier as time proceeds. Then a little harder one will be set, and the patient will be encouraged to increase the effort day by day until the full process is restored. For instance, if it is a lifting process which is impaired the original exercise will consist of lifting a weight that the muscle is capable of. When this becomes easy the weight will be increased and this graduation will be kept up until the man can lift as much with the formerly disabled member as any normal man could have done. If it is a mental process that is impaired, mental exercises will be set on the same basis. They may be mental arithmetic or tests of memory, association and so on. In some cases the patient will merely carry on a conversation on some technical subject for half an hour or more in order to practise concentration.

PATIENT CURES HIMSELF.

Every trick of the trade must be used to encourage the soldier to stay with his treatment, for it is the very essence of this work that the man cures himself. It is the voluntary exercise of the disabled function that restores it, and the worker's duty is merely to keep the man at it. Maintaining a lively interest in the scale which measure the movement is a very successful method.

It will be seen that the nature of the volunteer's duty will require the utmost freshness and spontaneity of spirit. It will not do for a tired man or woman to sit down with a patient and try to arouse his enthusiasm over the humble occupation of wiggling his leg toe. It will require a very special kind of cheerful, lively and concentrated interest on the part of the worker to keep the patient busy for a whole hour at any such task as that, hence it is contemplated that the volunteer workers shall devote not more than one hour a day to their task.

Measurements, competitions, sympathy encouragement, and all such means must be employed by the workers to cause the patients to take an interest in their tasks, and not the least of the difficulties of Dr. Bott's task is that of making the tasks themselves sufficiently interesting for his to be possible.

Hart House, as everybody in Toronto knows, is still in a rather unfinished state, but Lieut.-Col. Vincent Massey, who has taken a deep personal interest in the re-education classes, has instructed that the portions of the building required for this work be finished off as quickly as possible.

Owing to the fact that Monday is Thanksgiving Day and a holiday, there will be no issue of "THE VARSAITY".

HELP THE UNIVERSITY Y.M.C.A. BOOK EXCHANGE

The Y.M.C.A. Book Exchange has been steadily increasing its business until at present there is such a demand for its particular line of students' necessities that it finds it rather difficult to provide for the increase. Therefore, all students who have books which they wish to sell are asked to bring them to the University Y.M.C.A. building within the next day or two. The Exchange will be closed in about two weeks; so any who have not got all the books they need, should try the Y.M.C.A.

The Exchange has been doing fine work in bringing the Y.M.C.A. so many men who might never have gone there at all otherwise; and, if for no other reason than this, it should be more patronized than it is, if that is possible. Freshmen will find it is much to their own advantage to look up both the Exchange and the Y.M.C.A.

An Urgent Matter

According to a despatch in yesterday morning's newspapers, the Proclamation calling up the first class of men under the Military Service Act, 1917, will be issued on Saturday, October 13th. This measure will, of course, affect some of the men in attendance at the University, but up to this date no regulations, in regard to the men who will come under the Act, have been issued by the authorities of the University.

There are two alternatives—either the men enlisted will, after certain regulations have been complied with, be given the opportunity of taking their Year, or this opportunity will be refused them. Heretofore men who have paid their fees and who have been in good standing have, after individual application, been granted their Year, and THE VARSITY is of the opinion that the same attitude ought to hold to-day. The men who went before sacrificed their course here, and took their chance at the front. The men taken under the new system will do exactly likewise. Many of them, moreover, welcome the new order of things, and also there will perhaps be some of them who do have real obligations. Surely these men will make sufficient sacrifice, without being refused the opportunity of taking their Year. In the terms of the Act they will be giving "military service", and are not deserving that any distinctions, similar to those being made elsewhere, should be met with at this University.

Action on this matter is desirable. College fees are due at the end of the month and most students do not care to pay them until they know where they stand. If before the end of the month it is decided that on the payment of fees, the Year will be granted, or, on the other hand that on no condition will the Year be given—then the men concerned will know how to act. Until such a time they will be left in doubt. On their behalf THE VARSITY asks for a decision as soon as possible.

Student Activities

II.

"Play the Game"

To have every student interested in some work not prescribed in the curriculum—that is an aim worthy of attainment. Education is not a store of facts, but a habit of mind, not a reservoir, but a spring; and education may be derived as truly from the discussion club as from the lecture hall. The chief basis for the self-development of a human being is social contact with others. Scholarship will not suffer from the time devoted to most student affairs.

Further, to have every student so interested is a goal that should be attainable. Great as is the diversity of interest among students, surely there are now activities diverse enough for each student to find some centre of attraction.

Students owe it to themselves and to their University to take active part in undergraduate affairs. It has been a favourite plaint that the various societies and publications are not truly representative of student opinion. The same observation is commonly made with reference to our political institutions, and with equal truth. Not representative? Perhaps; but with who rests the blame, with the man who makes them what they are or with the one who holds aloof, and views all things of common concern with an air of lackadaisical condemnation?

To all students, we would say, University functions are your functions; THE VARSITY is your paper. The time you

Y.W.C.A. GIVE A HARD TIMES PARTY

Freshettes Take Leading Part When Refreshments Appear

"Three cheers for hard times!" say the freshettes of U.C. who turned out in respectable numbers to the Hard Times Party at the Union, Wednesday evening. They are sure now that the Y.W.C.A. has a jolly social side.

Farm labourers and street urchins, niagers and gentle poor, sat side by side on the floor while Madam President drilled them in college songs. Other items on the musical programme were the yells of the different years, followed by original productions of the national service workers which were rendered with dramatic effect. A melodious choir sang popular selections, and the climax was reached in a highly operatic execution of Romeo and Juliet, a duet which received much applause. The freshettes took an active part in old-time party games and were quick ready for the refreshments which followed.

In a short interval of quiet, the president Miss Helen M. Smith, reminded the company of the serious aims of the society which called for faithful effort on the part of every member.

GET ACQUAINTED.

This is perhaps the busiest week and the loneliest week that freshmen will experience for some time. In the excitement of the day—while they rush frantically about, getting enrolled, and finding out-of-the-way classrooms in strange buildings—they are probably able to forget temporarily at least, the folks back home. But there is an ache that comes later when they are alone in their rooms with just one companion or one old chum to ward off home-sickness.

Fortunately, homesickness doesn't last long. There is too much to do here—too many people to meet—too many absorbing things happening, not to soon wean the freshman away from nights of sad solitude in his room.

Freshmen ought to take advantage of every opportunity to get acquainted as rapidly as possible. They should introduce themselves to their fellow classmates—as they meet on the campus, at boarding clubs, or in the classroom. We're all members of a great big family up here—and it's up to each one of us, individually, to "get acquainted."

Students who play any of the following instruments, kindly call at the University Y.M.C.A. building, and leave name with D. O. Arnold: violin, cello, clarinet, piccolo, cornet, trombone, euphonium.

devote to them will not be wasted. You will benefit and the University will benefit, if you make student activities reflect the spirit of the student body. The opportunities of the freshman are as great, or greater, than those of the senior, in our undergraduate institutions. New generation and old must work together. Our institutions, our societies, our paper, are what we make them. It is for each of us to make them worth while; it is for each of us to

SWINGING A HOE AND PICKING FRUIT

College Girl's Personal Experience in Sunny Fields Around Beamsville

The Ontario Government Employment Bureau established several camps of college girls throughout the fruit growing districts of the Province, and hundreds of girls have been busy helping the farmers all season. The writer gives an account of the life at the Beamsville camp.

In retrospect I may get a clearer view of the novel life of an amateur farmer than it was possible to have during the weeks I spent at the work.

Walking along a quiet country road dressed in overalls and swinging a hoe, is a strange experience and I heard a girl exclaim: "I can scarcely realize this is I"; but very quickly the sixty or seventy girls at the camp adapted themselves to the life and the day's routine became a matter of course.

Getting up in the morning at six o'clock after being roused by the violent beating of a frying pan, seems a physical impossibility, but soon one is part of bustling confusion. Farmers began to arrive before breakfast is over, and there are many shouts of "Where are the rest of Mr. Smith's girls?—We're going!" And hurriedly you snatch your cow's breakfast and lunch box, dodge your way through the girls on the verandah and jump on the dray which bears you, one of many dusty-uniformed individuals, to your day's toil.

Some of the girls walk to work and in the early morning the air is so very fresh that it is a joy to swing along the road past the cabbage garden and neat frame house with the stately poplar tree and the locust trees that frame the great brown house where the shade is deep and the shadow falls across the hot road.

Once arrived at "our farm", we lose no time getting to work and hour after hour we bend over our hoe or stoop over the berry bushes or climb the cherry trees. The day becomes hotter and hotter. Sometimes our minds get dull and we work mechanically. Sometimes we shout and sing—anything from "We'll never let the old hoe go", to grand opera, improvised of course to suit the occasion. At times it is fun as when we pick cherries in a windy tree with the sun shining on the red fruit which dances like bright balloons all around us, or hoeing on a hill when you have a chum working on the next row. She may work faster than you, and go down the other side of the hill, until even her cow's breakfast disappears, but up she will come, hobbling again and you can go on with the rest of your story.

For telling stories makes the time go faster until noon comes. What never-to-be-forgotten noon hours these are. We stretch out under such beautiful trees and gaze up into their cool branches. I wonder why one of the modern artists does not paint a tree as seen by a labourer at noon. There would be all the crisp, cool green of it, and the circling, dark branches with the sun blinking through the leaves with sudden, rainbow flashes. If a futurist painted the emotions of the

LOEW'S THEATRE.

A boarding-house does not sound like a very "romantic" spot wherein to place the greater part of the scenes in a motion picture, but Director J. Searle Dawley and Billie Burke together have injected into "The Mysterious Miss Terry," the star's latest picture for Paramount, all of the charm and romance of southern Italy or any one of the spots usually picked out by dramatists for their stories. "The Mysterious Miss Terry," while full of intrigue and suspense, is nothing more than a good American story told in a most fascinating manner.

This famous hit, which has been one of the big hits of the season, will be the feature photoplay the coming week at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden. The picture will be given in conjunction with seven high-class vaudeville acts, besides several comedy film features including the Pathe News Service showing interesting events in different parts of the world.

farmeress under the tree it would be a more complicated picture.

The noon rest goes too fast. The work is harder in the afternoon. There is less singing and joking. One speculates on the wages earned and how much longer one must work to earn the weekly board—a matter of paramount importance.

It was good to get back to the camp at night very tired and dirty. We would jump into the lake for a swim and come out fresh and so delightfully cold that it was strange to think we had ever been hot. How hungry we were for our dinner, and how wonderful were the evenings with the sunset shining veil across the water, and then the cool wind in the pines and the stars piercing the sky.

The life is healthfully primitive, and it cannot but be for Canada's good that hundreds of her young women are learning what it is to work in her fields and helping to bring the happy time a little nearer, when all the world shall share in carrying the burden of manual labour which is now borne by a sadly labourious class.

THE OLD "SPIRIT" STILL AT SCHOOL

Usual Embarrassing Situations Occur —Registration Increases Somewhat

In spite of the small registration, and the "students taking part in unauthorized disturbances", signs which greet the enquiring gaze these modern times, it is evident that the School "spirit" has not yet been entirely extinguished. Light skirmishes between the lordly soph and the verdant frosh are of daily occurrence. Indeed, the latter had only been in attendance one hour when their hats mysteriously disappeared. But the blame for this "gag of battle" was laid upon the innocent members of the R.F.C.—by all but one. He—a worthy instructor, who had not anticipated this early attack, and had hung his hat with the freshes—had to go home hatless. He knew where to lay the blame—and did so!

A scene outside the Engineering building the other day suggested a medieval hold-up. A struggling heap of humanity presently resolved itself into three sophs and one husky freshman, who was evidently being violently done to death by strangulation. But it was only his collar and tie which were wanted, and these disappeared amid loud cheers from the onlookers. Another lonely boy was discovered on a pile of cinders behind the Thermo building. Perhaps he had slept there all night, for he was frantically pulling on his boots—his socks had flown! However, although no one else was in sight, it did not take much juggling with x and y to arrive at the "unknown". Later, a long file of breathless and collarless freshmen seen entering a lecture, gave more signs of ruthlessness.

Last Tuesday morning the freshmen tumbled gleefully out of lectures and gathered on the rear steps of the C. & M. building to have their picture taken. One youth caught a falling drop and predicted rain. His neighbours ridiculed the idea, but immediately revised their opinions as a deluge of H₂O went down their necks. Of course the second year was merely doing an open air Hydraulic Lab, but the freshes did not seem to appreciate the experiment.

Aroused at last to revenge, the freshmen in a body assaulted the second year drafting room at noon. This only contained five sophomores—shall we say fortunately? But these defended themselves nobly, and the only casualties were a couple of windows broken. It is reported that later in the day a solitary sophomore-frosh foot race was to be seen across Queen's Park, the freshe well in the lead and going strong. His motto was "safety first" and he finally eluded his pursuer.

We are glad to report that the S.P.S. registration is growing in proportion to the "spirit". On Wednesday last it totalled 143, with prospects of a few more still to come.

A HURRY UP CALL TO VARSITY ATHLETES

"Come on ye athletes—do your bit!"

In another section of this issue you will find a challenge from the O.S.T.C., to any rugby team in the University to play them any afternoon at 4.30 (except Wednesday and Thursday) or any Saturday after 1.30 p.m. Although we do not expect a star team to appear in answer to this challenge, at least one feels that a team will come forward in order not to disappoint this sporting Company. The cream of our athletes are seen no more about the campus. The O.S.T.C. have quite a collection of these themselves. Thank goodness they have for we know the necessity for the change from football to rifle is very great. However, there are surely some who have been unable to go who can form themselves into a team to play these men?

To the freshmen one looks with no uncertain gaze. But they are unorganized and therefore it is up to the upper year men to produce a manager, a captain, and an organizer.

Meds ought to be the best able to put a team on the field. The would-be doctors have been prevented from enlisting, and rightly too, and on that account ought to make a good showing. The ranks of "poor School" have been sadly depleted, but perhaps from the remnant may spring some of the old time "pep". Arts has the poorest outlook, but will surely do its best.

If from amongst these no faculty team is forthcoming, let representatives be sent of the best from each to form an organization to appear for the Blue and White "on the gridiron".

So come on Varsity—give us a team.

A CHALLENGE!

The Overseas Training Company hereby challenges any team in the University (or any conglomeration of players constituting a team) to a regulation game of rugby football on any afternoon (except Wednesday or Thursday) at 4.30 or Saturday after 1.30 p.m. Those interested will get in touch at once with Sergeant-Major Butt, Secretary of the O.S.T.C. Athletic Society at the Orderly Room, Burwash Hall. The line-up is as follows: Breuls, right half; Rolph, outside wing; Brown, outside wing; Sheridan, middle wing; Ings, middle wing; McKendrick, right scrum; Dyer, centre scrum; Richardson, left scrum; Bickford, right inside; Mix, quarter; Lennard, left half; Cooley, centre half; Hodgetts, flying wing; Robbins, left inside. Spares: Hardy, Courtice, Dobbin, Frost, Nisbet.

Other Colleges

Pennsylvania—The University has announced a complete change in its athletic management. Instead of having all sports conducted by the Athletic Association, as has been the case for nearly forty years, complete power has been invested in a university council on athletics, composed of three trustees of the university, three alumni, three members of the faculty and three undergraduates.

Dr. William McClellan, dean of the Wharton School of Finance, has been elected chairman of the council.

Princeton—Dean McClenahan, chairman of the Board of Athletic Control of Princeton University, has definitely made the announcement that there will be no intercollegiate football at Princeton this year. This course has seemed best to the board because of the small enrollment of students. It was thought also that any such activity might be detrimental to the instruction planned for the undergraduates. As a substitute for the intercollegiate games, however, there will be introduced a system of interclass football. According to present plans, each class will have several teams of different weights, if there are enough candidates. Regular schedules of one or two games a week will be made out and the records of the teams kept on the percentage basis. This intercollegiate system will require the participation of many more men, but the work will not demand the great amount of attention generally devoted to college football. Moreover, if varsity football should be resumed in the fall of 1918 there will be at hand a great supply of material for the season.

Yale opened its 218th academic year on Thursday, September 28, with its registration cut by war conditions from 3,300 to 2,000, or slightly more than one-third. All departments, excepting the medical school, where the enrolment is about the same as last year, show large losses, especially the college, which drops from 1,502 students to about 800. The entering classes in the college and the Sheffield Scientific School number about 300 each, being from 75 to 80 per cent. of the normal registration. The sophomore class in the college has about 250 men, the junior class 175, and the senior class about 100.

The teaching force is also largely diminished, leaves of absence having been granted to over forty members of the faculty for war work. President Hadley addressed the students on the opening of the University in a speech in which he mentioned the various units for which the students could prepare themselves.

Mr. W. D. Robertson, of Toronto, has been granted the Scholarship awarded by the Boiler Inspection & Insurance Company of Canada, for general proficiency in the third year in Mechanical Engineering at S.P.S. This scholarship entitles the holder to free tuition in his last year. Mr. Robertson is to be congratulated on being the lucky winner.

Mr. C. Cowan, who attended Manitoba University in Winnipeg previous to going overseas, is now a member of the third year class in Civil Engineering at S.P.S.

Mr. Cowan enlisted as sapper in Nov. 1915, in the 8th Field Company, C.E., and was in France by February, 1916. He stayed until October, when he was wounded during the Somme drive.

For "bravery in the field" he was awarded the Military Medal, which is one of the highest honours open to the ranks. At daybreak he went out into "No Man's Land" and brought back in safety a wounded bomber.

The attendance at Manitoba University is very small this year; so Mr. Cowan decided to come here.

MONTREAL WINNIPEG

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Owing to the enlistment of certain of their number, the second year Science found themselves without officers. An election was therefore held in the drafting room on Monday, Oct. 1, and the following officers elected:—

President . . . C. R. Hill.
Vice-President . . . M. H. Mitchell.
Secretary-Treasurer . . . A. H. Dingman.

"Mot Fin."

That's French—it means "the last word." That, by the way, is what one of the sexes is accused of always wanting in an argument, whether right or wrong.

As applied to timekeepers, it, however, means our Ladies' Gold Bracelet Watch at $72.00. We have hundreds of others—good ones, too—at from $25.00 up, but this one at $72.00 is the "last word" in a bracelet watch. It is getting close up to what they say we do not find in this world, "absolute perfection."

The movement is exactly the same as we use in some of our platinum and diamond watches, running up into the hundreds of dollars.

Guaranteed, of course.

Wycliffe

Dr. Hoyle, President of Wycliffe College, was the speaker at the dinner of the Alumni Association on Wednesday last. He said in part: "For the anxieties, griefs and sorrows of the present time, there is only one remedy, the Gospel of Our Lord Jesus Christ and the main point to be kept in mind by those who preach, is faithfulness in preaching Jesus Christ and Him crucified. Nothing else will reach the sorrowful hearts of to-day. The pulpit must give no uncertain sound of the Gospel."

Great attention should be given to preaching and teaching from the Bible. More expository sermons should be delivered. People to-day fail to read, and thus fail to understand, and know the Book of Books. Children are growing up unchristian because the Bible is a closed book, even in the homes of professing Christians. If we would overcome this serious situation we must try to bring home to the people a desire for a knowledge of God's word. We must endeavour to restore the lost art of Bible reading and family prayer.

"Then too, as long as we believe in that Book we are pledged to believe in prayer, and our duty is to plead morning, noon and night for prayer. We should also endeavour to teach the people to read literature on prayer, its meaning and efficacy. There are so many good books on the market to-day and yet Christian people fail to take advantage of them. As an example we might mention Fosdick's splendid book, "The Meaning of Prayer."

"We must no longer remain in that fool's paradise where we looked for our soldiers to return to us better Christians, more earnest Christians. The effect of active service has been to intensify qualities already prevailing rather than to build up new ones. The religious man becomes more religious, the blasphemer only blasphemes more."

"This being true, what should we do here at home? The question is a serious one and calls for a serious answer. May this series of meetings, be an inspiration to us all, and an inspiration to place and keep the spiritual life on a high level."

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students'
Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

Readers of "The Varsity" are Asked to Co-operate with Students' Council re Men's Photographs

In a final attempt to complete the photographic record of the men who have enlisted for overseas service from the University of Toronto, the following list of names of graduates and students who are entitled to a place in the 1917 edition of the Supplement is published. The circulars directed to these men have in many cases been returned, as the men have not notified their proper address to the University authorities. There still exists the possibility that the readers of THE VARSITY may have a photograph of these men or may be able to inform THE VARSITY where one may be secured. The Students' Council asks every man to co-operate with them by supplying photographs or information concerning these men to THE VARSITY office. The lists must be closed on October 15th.

TEXT BOOKS

By "NESTOR"

Text-books are pedigreed books which the students are cajoled into buying. They are divided in two classes; uninteresting ones and highly uninteresting ones. To the first category belong those which are on the curriculum, to the second, those recommended by the lecturers.

There are two principal uses of text-books, the first is to display them conspicuously on your table where your friends may see them, and be awestricken by your profound learning; the second is to sit on them when the chair is too low. The latter use may be conveniently resorted to when a kind friend wishes to borrow one—in which case it is advantageous to sit "right" on the particular book required.

The contents of text-books are twofold in character. Firstly they contradict your notes, secondly they contradict each other. This helps you to arrive at a definite conclusion. Occasionally, it happens that an idea expressed in the book persists in your memory, which is very unfortunate at an examination, as then the examiner invariably scores you for "pure memorizing."—"Nestor"

THE QUERY BOX IS AT YOUR DISPOSAL

Will Unravel Mysteries for Students—Be Brief

Last term THE VARSITY ran what was aptly called an "Interrogative column". Anybody who wished to learn any facts, traditions or fancies concerning the University addressed their questions to this "Interrogative Column". These queries were given to the Exchange editor who answered them through the columns of THE VARSITY.

It has been decided to continue this column under the head of "The Query Box". We hope that the questions asked and the answers given will help the freshmen and at the same time prove interesting to the undergraduate body.

Address your questions to "The Query Box," and leave them or mail them to THE VARSITY office. Remember all queries will be given personal attention, but be brief—so will we.

ATHLETIC SOCIETY.

The Athletic Society executive meets at one o'clock to-day at the Union. Every member is requested to make a special effort to be present.

NOTICE.

The first regular meeting of the Students' Administrative Council will be held in Room 12 to-morrow at 4 p.m. All members are requested to phone Collier C. Grant, Coll. 8036 as soon as possible.

THE LAMENTATION OF EX-RESIDENT STUDENT

YEARNS FOR GOLDEN AGE

Peculiar Noises and a Ravenous Appetite No Longer Necessary for Popularity

In the good old days when the residences were at the disposal of the students, a crown of wild olives always adorned the head of the man who could make the most noise. But now, woe to him who tries to exercise his lungs. Even if he tries to "rag" a hymn the collector of the room rent loudly knocks upon the door and informs him that she has enough fish.

Ah! and how he misses the dining-hall. Daily he wanders from place to place carelessly spending his quarters trying to find a suitable abode where he might tuck in his palate. From all reliable sources of information however, failure has met his every effort. He forgives, but he cannot forget, the sumptuous repasts he used to obtain at Miss Riley's hall for about seventeen cents each.

Sometimes when he is burning the midnight oil, his thoughts travel back to his freshman days. He imagines he is now more sad than then. He cannot study any longer. He silently steals up to his study table, turns out the flickering gas-jet—and noiselessly crawls into bed.

S.P.S. BUILDING A PLACE OF MYSTERY

Many New Machines—Special Work in Progress

An attempt has been made to secure information regarding the operations of the R.F.C. in the S.P.S. building, and although our reporter was permitted to observe the engine room with its many types of machines, yet it was evident by the unwillingness on the part of the Major in command, that there was something special in progress. Just what the new work may be, is a subject for conjecture and meanwhile the S.P.S. building still stands shrouded in mystery.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY HOURS SUFFICIENT FOR AVERAGE STUDENT

"Pluggers" Have Access to Reference Library on College Street

On being interviewed regarding the advisability of keeping the library open at nights, the librarian held the opinion that this course was unnecessary. The present hours from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. gave the students ample time to make any use of the library they have occasion for. Two-night books, if necessary, may be taken out at once.

The present course has been the same even before the war, and now with a much smaller attendance, any other course is unnecessary. If a student feels that he needs to make use of a library at night, he can go to the Reference Library on College Street which is open until 9:30 p.m. every evening.

NO RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

The trustees of the Rhodes Scholarship Fund have decided to make no appointments to scholarships this year either in the United States or any part of the British Empire. This decision is based on the fact that all candidates must be men who are of military age. The trustees decided to allot four new scholarships, created in substitution for German scholarships, two to the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and two to South Africa. Rudyard Kipling has been added to the trustees of the fund.

UNIVERSITY RED CROSS DAYS, OCT. 15, 16, 17

The Students' Administrative Council will Aid as Much as Possible

WOMEN'S COUNCIL WILL ASSIST

Need of Red Cross Great—Students Are Asked to Do Their Bit

The Central Committee of the Canadian Red Cross have recently communicated with President Falconer asking him to co-operate with them in the campaign which is to be held in the University on October 15, 16, 17. The President has notified the Students' Administrative Council of this and has asked them to give as much aid as possible. The Council intends to ask the Women's Council to assist. The first steps towards perfecting the system of carrying on the campaign were planned at the meeting of the Executive of the Students' Council which was held on Tuesday afternoon.

The Council has been sadly disarranged owing to enlistments and the departure of so many men and is counting on the students to give all possible assistance as they always have done in the past. The Council feels, however, that the students will carry the matter through in the best manner and will make this year's campaign far exceed in every way that of any other year. The need of the Red Cross for aid at this time is far greater than it ever has been in the past and is growing steadily. Therefore all students are asked to "do their bit" in the best possible manner and to do as big a bit as possible. The Varsity will give further details on the subject in later issues.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION BUREAU GIVES TEACHERS' COURSE

The University Extension Bureau has begun its activities. They are now running a teachers' course, in which twenty-six students have already enrolled. The lectures are being held in the University buildings from 4:30 to 5:30 in the afternoons and in the morning on Saturday. In order to be eligible for entrance to this course, Faculty entrance is necessary. Some students are taking their course by correspondence and will complete same by attending the Summer Session next year.

MED. FROSH TO BE FEASTED

To-morrow night the University "Y" will give a reception for Medical freshmen. A very excellent speaker, Dr. Milner, will be the principal attraction. There will also be games, lots of music and eats. Come freshmen and enjoy yourselves.

NOTICE

A meeting of the University College Athletic Association will be held in the gym on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. Representatives of all years are requested to be on hand. A special invitation is tendered the Freshmen as they are by far the strongest year and the college looks to them for support in all forms of athletics.

CHOIR PRACTICE TOMORROW.

The first choir practice to be held this season at Convocation Hall will take place to-morrow at 4:30 o'clock. Miss Fotheringham is conducting the choir this year.

NOTICE

The Athletic and Discipline Committee of the Students' Administrative Council desires to call the attention of the students to the fact that unauthorized contests, parades, etc., are contrary to the rules of conduct laid down by the University authorities; and that all infractions of these rules will be dealt with by the Committee and the Council.

By Order of the Chairman, Athletic and Discipline Committee.

STUDENT CLUBS VERY USEFUL TO UNDERGRADS.

MANY RE-ORGANIZE

C. and F. Club Suspend Operations—Political Economy Club Successful

Most of the clubs of the different honour courses will continue to operate this year, despite the fact that the war has greatly reduced their number. It is very advantageous for members of the same course to come together outside the lecture-room. Students are naturally interested in exchanging views with those in the same line of work as themselves.

The Commerce and Finance Club alone has suspended operations for the year, owing to the fact that there are a mere handful in the course. Most of its members, however, belong to the Political Economy Club.

The latter and the Modern Language Club have already held successful meetings. The Philosophy, Mathematical, and the Forestry will organize shortly.

Debating will have a large place in the programmes for the coming year. The members of the different clubs obtain much useful information, both by preparing and by listening to the debates. The student who is overawed by the prodigious knowledge of the professor in the lecture-room, takes a more vivid interest in the utterance of his fellow-student who is in the same pit of abysmal ignorance as himself.

The Menorah Club, formerly known as the Yiddish Club, is now being organized, and the Anglican Club started its operations this afternoon with a tea to the freshettes.

MED. UNDERGRADUATES MAY BE EXEMPTED

Matter in Hands of Military Authorities—Medical Corps Possible

The question of burning interest among Medical students, especially freshmen and sophis, is, whether they will be exempt from military service or not.

The provisional secretary, Miss Jamieson, came out with a statement that the matter rests completely with the military authorities, and that they are in no position to give out any results.

The rumour which finds its origin with the lordly senior is, that only fourth and fifth year men will be left to complete their course, while students of remaining years will be taken in medically fit.

Sir Robert Falconer, in addressing the Electric Club, said that the students of the Medical faculty should be exempt from conscription, and that the faculties should become medical corps, who may be able to help the returned men. In the United States this idea has been followed and students were enlisted for this special service.

INFORMATION FOR STUDENT DRAFTEES NOT AVAILABLE

Information as to whether drafted men will be given their year is not as yet available. When THE VARSITY representative saw the authorities, he was told that up to the present, the matter had not come up for official discussion. Prospective draftees will hence do well to watch our columns for information on the subject.

Lieut. A. G. Scott, B.A.Sc. '15 of Smith's Falls, Ont., who went overseas with the second contingent as lieutenant with the 11th Machine Gun Division, is listed with the "Canadians Decorated" as having been awarded the Military Cross.

Russell W. Kim, B.A.Sc. '16 of Peterborough, Ont., received his commission with the U.S. army in June, 1917. On July 3, he went on active service at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he remained for two months. Early in September he was attached to the 312th Engineers as second lieutenant, and is now stationed at Camp Pike, Little Rock, Arkansas.

RETURNED VARSITY MEN CALL AT THE ROLL OF SERVICE OFFICE

MANY ARE DISABLED

Some are Under Medical Attention—Others are Continuing Their Courses

The following have recently called at the Roll of Service office:—

Pte. F. F. ZWICH, Private in a first contingent hospital. He was in France from March 1915 to Sept. 1916, when he was invalided as the result of an injury. He has returned to resume his course in medicine.

SGR. G. H. S. RAMSEY enlisted in the artillery from the University in March, 1915. He saw service at the front from January to October 1916, when he was severely wounded. He returned to Canada last May and is completing his medical course.

Pts. A. W. SWITZER enlisted in the infantry early in 1915. He was promoted to sergeant, but when his battalion was broken up for reinforcements he reverted to the rank of private in order to reach the front. Wounded and gassed at Courcellette. He had recently been recommended for a commission.

SGR. D. W. G. MURRAY enlisted in the artillery in March 1915. Promoted to sergeant in the field, after being injured and has returned to Canada to resume his course in Medicine.

CPL. A. R. MENDIPABEL, D.C.M. Enlisted in the artillery. He went to France in January 1916, and saw service at St. Eloi, Mount Sorel, and the Somme. He was engaged in telephone work and on January 1, 1917, was awarded the Distinguished Medal for efficient service. He has resumed his course in Applied Science pending discharge.

SGR. D. M. MAXSON enlisted in the same battery. He went to France in January 1916, and saw service at Ypres and on the Somme. He has been sent back by the authorities to complete his course in Medicine.

LCE-CPL. J. E. MCGILLIVRAY. He enlisted as a private in the C.A.M.C. In September 1915 he transferred to an infantry unit. He was wounded in April 1916, and was awarded the Military Medal for assisting to rescue under fire others who were wounded on that occasion. Being transferred again to the Medical Service, he was on duty for some months on a transport between England and Canada before returning this fall to complete his course in Medicine.

SGR. LIEUT. G. V. LAUGHTON, M.C., U.C. 1919. He went to England from the University in May 1916 in a draft of recommended candidates for Imperial commissions. He was appointed to a battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers. Was wounded last April and was awarded the Military Cross. After being wounded he lay for some days exposed to heavy fire and without food. He has returned on leave and at present is under treatment at the Officers' Hospital at Jarvis-street.

LIEUT. R. A. FRASER went to England in November 1915. Being transferred to the Engineers, he went to France in October 1916 in charge of a cable section. At Vimy he was wounded by shrapnel in the thigh. Being disabled, he has resumed his course in Applied Science.

EDUCATION FOR THE MASSES.

Speaking at Bedford College on "New Ideas in Education," Mr. Fisher suggested that a great university for England, in which the whole population would have the means for rising to a higher level of learning and culture than was at present possible, would make a fitting memorial of the great war.

Yale—Coach T. A. D. Jones of the Yale varsity football team announced Friday that Yale will not play any varsity games this fall. He said: "No arrangements are being made for a university team schedule. Probably the most that can be done with the upper classmen is to let them hold scrimmages among themselves."

"We shall try to arrange a schedule for the freshmen if we find that the teams they will play are receiving no more practice than they are. We are in communication with Harvard and Princeton on the matter now."

The Medical Initiation

Before the war it was customary, in order that freshmen might be initiated, to hold inter-year "scraps." The term "scrap" included all affairs from a mere water-throwing contest to a thoroughly managed affray where clothes were forcibly removed, and where eggs, shoe-polish and axle-grease and other such commodities were copiously used. To say the least, these were not dignified proceedings.

Stories of these "scraps," and pictures of the participants were given prominence in the press; with the result that public opinion began to be roused, and expressions of disapproval at such conduct on the part of the students became common. In order to satisfy this sentiment, various methods of repression were adopted by the authorities of the University; and after the fall of 1914 it was decided, in their then present form at any rate, to abolish inter-year "scraps." This policy has met with success, and during the past two sessions there has been an almost entire absence of the old-time scenes of wildness.

On Friday last, however, the first two years of Medicine clashed and the affair assumed the proportions of a "scrap"; accordingly we have reverted to our pre-war basis. THE VARSITY regrets this occurrence and, moreover, condemns it. In the opening issue of THE VARSITY we expressly asked the students to keep in mind the reputation of the University, and to refrain from doing anything that would tarnish it. We did not go into detail, for we thought that, by this time, Varsity students would have sufficient common sense and understanding to know how to act under any circumstances. Accordingly we did not think it necessary to refer directly to initiations—we thought that the various second years knew enough not to indulge in these affairs at such times as the present. Evidently we were wrong. There are some here who still delight in public horseplay, and included in this number are some of the second year Meds.

What action is going to be taken? We do not favour the inauguration of a reign of "blue ruin." We stand, on the contrary, for the policy of carrying on every University activity that can be still conducted with even a fair amount of success. In the term activity we do not include however, initiations. If the second year of any college or faculty wish to initiate their first year by the "scrap" method, let them go to the outskirts of the city, pull the clothes off one another to their heart's content—and we might not interfere. If the second year of any college or faculty holds such a "scrap" on University grounds; cause a downtown evening paper to devote a half-column of its war news page to recounting the details, and thereby gives prominence to the University and rouses general public opinion—then we will interfere.

We have it from the best authority that the second year Medical men who took part in the affray on Friday last did not have the required permission of the Students' Administrative Council to hold this affair. Accordingly, THE VARSITY asks the Council, at their meeting tomorrow, to adopt any action that will bring the participants of Friday's affair to their senses; and that will serve as a warning to any other faculty that may have inclinations to follow their example.

FORGET IT

If you see a tall fellow ahead of the crowd,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling Would cause his proud head to lie in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded and kept from the day
In the dark; and whose showing, whose sudden display,
Would cause grief and sorrow and a lifelong dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile, or the least way annoy
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

"Help Re-make the World . . ."

This is the call in the name of nearly forty of the principal universities and scientific institutions and schools of the United States to young men who are ineligible for military service for one reason or another, or who can render better service by completing their technical courses to train themselves to become builders of the future. President Nelson emphasizes the call for workers in Applied Science. "There will be need for a larger number of persons expert in the various fields of applied science than ever before. Such persons will be needed both during the war and after its close . . . I would particularly urge upon the young people who are leaving our High schools, that as many of them as can do so avail themselves this year of the opportunities offered by the colleges and technical schools, to the end that the country may not lack an adequate supply of trained men and women." Major-Gen. Wood says to the American boy what we would repeat to the Canadian boy: "Boys should remember that they are now serving in the best possible way by preparing themselves to serve more efficiently when the time comes."

It is a great mistake for partly-educated young boys to rush to the colours now. We don't need them. It is very important they should finish their education. With an eye to the future our university authorities ought to consider the dictum of the superintendent of West Point Military Academy: "Only the most urgent conditions should withdraw any boy from school. In justice to the government as well as to themselves they should finish their courses."—Mail and Empire

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY needs you Now!

Don't be too serious—somebody is laughing at you!

We hear 'Varsity is to have another Red Cross campaign. Save now!

It would be a pleasing innovation if the annual Students' Directory was printed early enough to be of use to the students.

We hear that some of the professors are lecturing beyond the proper hour. Such action is hard on the students and breaks into the next lecture.

People who suffer a collapse from minding other people's business do not deserve and do not get much sympathy.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years," that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

Wycliffe

The academic year was opened at Wycliffe College on Thursday, October 4. At eight o'clock in the evening the annual Commencement was held in the Sheridan Memorial Hall. The President of the College, Dr. Hoyle, was in the chair.

After the singing of "Fight the Good Fight," and a short prayer by Rev. Canon Donaldson, the Principal made his report. He spoke of the activities of the students on the home mission field during the summer and of the news received from the graduates and undergraduates at the front.

Six candidates were then presented by Rev. Prof. Cotton, M.A., D.D., for the diploma of licentiate in theology.

The speakers of the evening were Rev. Major Macnamara, lately returned from the front, whose flashes of gallie wit delighted the large audience, and Rev. H. A. Haslam, M.A., who was on the eve of his departure to resume his missionary duties in India. Mr. Haslam spoke on "The Religious and Political Situation in India," and paid a glowing tribute to the beneficence of British rule.

The meeting closed with the singing of the evening hymn, followed by the National Anthem. A short prayer was said by Rev. Canon Dyson Hague, M.A., and the benediction pronounced by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Reeve.

The registration at the College this year is, on account of the number of enlistments, smaller than it has been for a number of years. Nevertheless a spirit of enthusiasm prevails amongst the men and hopes are entertained for a very successful year.

St. Hilda's

A very pleasant social hour was spent on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 2, when the executive of the Y.W.C.A. entertained at tea. That the majority of the students of the College are interested in this organization, was made evident by the large attendance; it is hoped that the sympathy of each one will be enlisted in its future activities.

The first regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Thursday, October 4. Miss Mackay, the students' secretary, in an interesting address, gave her audience a deeper insight into the motives and effectiveness of the society, she spoke of its world-wide influence and the different phases of its work. The pledge card was read and its promises explained. The delegates who were present at the "Y" Conference which was held at Elgin House last June, gave a short account of the events which took place there. Amusement and instruction seem to have been pleasantly intermingled at the Conference and if its purpose is to arouse enthusiasm in the work of the Association, it certainly appears to have achieved it.

It was decided that the Red Cross Society of the College should be incorporated under the Y.W.C.A. Last term a large amount of Red Cross work was accomplished and there is no doubt that now even greater efforts will be put forth to meet the greater needs.

Medicine

All years in Medicine have settled down to work and are going strong with the possible exception of the third year, whose clinical course is somewhat hampered in its get-away by a dearth of available doctors for this part of their course.

A goodly number of returned men are noted in the different years, having returned from overseas during the past summer to continue their course.

Frosh and sophs, as usual, are the leading attractions and on Friday last attempted to pull off a mixed deal in which the resultant mixture consisted mostly of water and frosh. Further attractions have been reserved for a future date.

Moving Spirits of the Past conspicuous by their absence—Music and Athletics. Get busy somebody.

Applied Science

Reception for men of all years in Applied Science will be held in the University "Y" on Tuesday evening, October 16. Further announcements regarding the speaker will be made in a later issue of THE VARSITY.

BORDENITES DEFEAT ALL-STAR SYRACUSE TEAM BY 21-0

Aviators Had Things Their Own Way from Kick Off

The rugby season was opened at the Varsity stadium on Thanksgiving Day by an exhibition game of American rugby between the Camp Borden American Aviators and an All-Syracuse team. Those who came early were entertained by dog racing held by the Toronto Whippet Association. A military band furnished music for the occasion.

The game was called at three o'clock. Syracuse won the toss and kicked off. During the first period the play remained in the centre of the field, neither team being able to work their forward passes with any success. In the next period the ball was entirely in possession of the aviators and in spite of a certain looseness in the handling of it they secured a touch, the result of a forward pass from Shea to Louden. Tabor kicked the goal. In this quarter the all star aviation team showed their supremacy and soon worked the ball to the Syracuse line where a buck by Klingman obtained a touch. This was converted into a goal. Toward the end of the third quarter the Bordenites secured their third and last touch as the result of a forward pass, Shea to Ralston. No scoring was done in the last fifteen minutes.

Syracuse, who had played a hard game on Sunday in Tonawanda, were without the services of their two star end men and the substitutes could not handle the forward passes. The American game will never be satisfactory in Canada as the mass play which it features covers up the play of the ball. Free kicking, accurate tackling and long brilliant open field runs, three essentials of the Canadian game were absent. From the viewpoint of the fans the interference was unpopular as it halted the game and clouded the plays.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Lieut. Evan Edward Price, M.C., bar to Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, when brigade intelligence officer. Five nights in succession he crawled out 2,000 yards beyond the outpost line to the enemy's wire, and accurately located the precise point of attack. On the night of attack he successfully led the first torpedo party to its objective, and then went through the wire with them into the enemy's trenches, where he remained throughout the engagement, obtaining valuable information. His fearless and skilful action very greatly contributed to the success of the enterprise.

Lieut. Acting Capt. A. B. Lindsay, Military Cross, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on repeated occasions during and after our attack under heavy fire. He personally directed the digging out of men who had been buried by heavy bombardment, and was the first to lead his men into the enemy trenches, passing from flank to flank encouraging them and personally bombing a number of the enemy. He was the last to leave the enemy's trench, and afterwards organised Red Cross parties, and led them forward, bringing back all our wounded. His conduct throughout the whole of the operation was exceptionally splendid and gallant, and his example was all the more valuable inasmuch as the men had been considerably disorganized by the violent bombardment to which they had been subjected at the outset.

Lieut. N. V. Buchanan, F.A.; Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty when acting as F.O.O. for his battery. He maintained his post in a forward sap continuously under heavy fire of every description, on several occasions having to go out into the open under fire to repair his line. He furnished very valuable and constant information to his battery, and was able to bring effective fire to bear upon the enemy when they came forward to reoccupy trenches which had been cleared by our raiding parties. His great coolness, courage and resource contributed very largely to the success of our operations.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT FOR LADIES OPENS TO-DAY

Schedule to be Posted in Gym. Defaulters will be Given No Consideration

The University Tennis Tournament for ladies opens to-day. Most of last year's contestants are again in the race and some fine games are expected. The complete schedule will be found in the gymnasium before the end of the week. The schedule on hand is—

Wednesday—
9.00 a.m.—G. M. Cook v. M. Mills; M. Gray v. J. Leonard; H. Fraser v. D. Smith; M. Cook v. M. Myers.
11.00 a.m.—G. M. Billings v. I. Stobie; E. Macpherson v. D. McFall; M. Jennings v. E. Graham; D. Whittier v. J. Barbour.

Thursday—
9.00 a.m.—M. Lewis v. H. C. Shell; D. McCullough v. M. Crossly; J. Smith v. H. Rankin; B. Chambers v. B. Cringan.

Certain players have been asking for a change of hours in the schedule for personal reasons. On account of the difficulties already experienced in arranging the schedule no pity will be shown defaulters.

PERCY MOLSON DOES NOT FORGET OLD MCGILL

Montreal, Oct. 5.—The late Capt. Percival Molson, recently killed in France, left $75,000 towards meeting the cost of the construction of McGill University stadium. During his college career Captain Molson was prominent both in track and football activities, and was captain of the track team in his senior year (1901), the year of the memorable Oxford-Cambridge-Toronto-McGill meet. He was also one of the finest rugby football players in Canada, and captain of the Montreal club.

GYM. EXAMS. SOON OVER

Examinations are still proceeding at the University gym, and no results can be issued yet. Mr. Reed said that it would be several days before any report could be given. It is expected that the examinations will be completed this week.

We would not be surprised if the fond fathers of some of those enrolled in second year Medicine will find it harder than they expected to pay this year's coal bill.

TACTFUL WELCOME.

As a truly polite nation the French undoubtedly lead the world, thinks a contributor to a British weekly. The other day a Paris dentist's servant opened the door to a wogebone patient.

"And whom, monsieur," he queried in a tender tone, "shall I have the misery of announcing?"

Corporal (instructing the awkward squad in rifle-practice)—"I told you to take a fine sight, y' dub, don't you know what a fine sight is?"
Rookie—"Sure! A boat full of corporals sinking."—Judge.

OPTIMISTIC.
Sniper—"I've knocked the spike off of 'is bloomin' helmet—'e's took the top off 'o my blooming ear—and it's my shot next!"—London Opinion.

"So your son's in college, eh? Burning the midnight oil, I s'pose?"
"Well—er—yes; but I've an idea—er—that it's gasoline."—St. Patrick's Monthly Calendar.

When is their marriage to be solemnized?"
"As soon as it has been financed."

Judge—"What's the charge officer?"
Officer—"Intoxication, your honor."
Prisoner—"It's not true, Judge. Last night I was a sober as you were."
Judge—"If that's the case I'll send you up for six months."—Lehigh Bun.

APPROPRIATE.
"Some people are humorous without even knowing it."

"As when, for instance?"
"Here's a man advertises a lecture on 'The Panama Canal,' illustrated with slides."—Chicago Herald.

Other Colleges

Pennsylvania—Following her stand taken last spring, the University of Pennsylvania is encouraging athletics as never before. More than sixty-five men are now working on the Red-and-Blue football squad, under the tutelage of Coach R. C. Folwell, while 110 have reported for crew practice, and undergraduates whose numbers equal these in proportion have turned out for soccer football, and fall track work. As the season's premier sport, football naturally looms way above the others in importance. Fortunately the decision of several eastern universities not to be represented by varsity elevens this year has not affected Penn's schedule, and the Quakers will play all their old friends, and the most important contests, save the Dartmouth game at Boston, will be staged on Franklin Field.

Princeton—More than ninety per cent of the men who last year were prominent in Princeton athletics are now in some branch of active service. This includes fifteen members of the 1916 football squad and six captains of Varsity teams.

Ann Arbor—A promising line, an uncertain backfield and a big lack of capable substitutes—this is the way Coach F. H. Yost of the University of Michigan analyzes his football prospects at the end of the first week of practice.

Yale—Unless a man, physically fit, has identified himself with some branch of military service he need not expect to play football at Yale this year, according to an announcement made by T. A. D. Jones, football coach. The announcement says: "No man, who is physically fit, and is not a member of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, or some branch of the military service, will be permitted to report for football."

Education

Students in attendance at the Faculty of Education this year will not be given certificates to teach in High or Continuation Schools unless they have a degree. This announcement was made in the calendar of the Faculty of Education, which was only issued about two weeks before the opening of the term, thus giving prospective students very little time for consideration. The students consider this unjust in the extreme, as it practically places them on the same footing as Normal students who have spent only three years' in High School as compared to their five, and as most Public Schools prefer a Normal graduate to a Faculty graduate for Public School teaching. The new regulations came at a time when least expected, and the students think that at least one year's warning should have been given. The Faculty of Education students and also those of Queen's have sent a petition to the department for redress and it is to be hoped that something will be done for them.

"Babies Cry For It"

It has been stated by the proprietor of a well-advertised infantile cordial that the "babies cry for it." We cannot speak personally as to the truth of this, but as applied to Ladies' Expansion Bracelet Watches it can be truthfully parodied into "Ladies try for it."

The bracelet watch is no longer an experiment. Few articles that we have ever handled give so much satisfaction, or are so much appreciated by those who use them.

There is one that we now have in mind specially, at a moderate price. The movement is one that we use largely in our solid gold watch bracelets. It is a most satisfactory "proposition"—complete in our silver expansion bracelet at $16.50, or in best gold-filled $18.50.

Guaranteed, of course.

"Let Me Help You Carry the Burden, Mother"

"If Canada fails us in October, we must curtail many of our activities,"

SIR ARTHUR STANLEY, Chairman, Executive Committee, British Red Cross

It now costs $300,000.00 a week to carry on the work of the British Red Cross, or $16,000,000.00 a year.

Every minute of the day and night it costs $30 to minister to the sick and wounded and dying.

Last year Ontario's magnificent contribution paid for the entire work of the British Red Cross for nearly six weeks.

This year, in view of the greater need, it is earnestly and confidently hoped that Ontario's contributions will be as great proportionately as the magnificent offering of last year.

Our trust is, that the Citizens of Ontario will give generously to this noble cause on--

VARSITY MUST MAINTAIN ITS RECORD FOR PATRIOTISM and GENEROSITY on TUESDAY

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN BEGINS THEN

The Need is Very Great, and the Undergraduates Should Respond Heartily to the Opportunity of Helping

The Red Cross Campaign in the University will start on Tuesday morning next, October 15. This campaign must and will be a success. There is no doubt of that for when THE VARSITY representative called at the office of the Red Cross Society, he was told that they had only recently heard from their Commissioner in France who had stated that the demand for Red Cross supplies was absolutely unlimited. There is more and more need for this work every hour of the day. When one thinks that it costs $30 every minute to carry on this work, one may get some small idea of its immensity. As Sir Arthur St. John has said, if Canada fails in its contributions in October, the Society must curtail many of its activities. And as it is the only institution which aids the British sick and wounded all over the world, it is possible to realize just what this future would mean. Therefore, it is the duty of the University, as the leading institution in Canada, to set the lead for all Canada.

HISTORY OF MOVEMENT.

The Red Cross Movement originated after the famous battle of Solferino in 1859 between the French and the Sardinians on the one side and the Austrians on the other. In this battle, 36,000 soldiers were killed or wounded. This was a far greater number than the army medical staff could possibly care for, and so these dead and wounded had to lie on the field of battle, unaided, unprotected, and without shelter. A traveller, a Swiss gentleman, named Henry Dunant, happened to pass the scene of the conflict, and being much impressed with what he saw, joined in the rescue work. Later he published a book setting forth the awfulness of the scenes of Solferino. Several other Swiss gentlemen became interested in his views and at last a Convention was held in Geneva, an international committee chosen, and the plan of permanent national relief societies adopted.

Because it was necessary both for recognition and safety that a badge be agreed upon, the red cross was chosen as a compromise to Switzerland, where the idea originated. The Swiss colours being a white cross on a red background, the badge consisted of these colours reversed. By 1864, the support of twelve governments had been obtained.

CASUALTIES AMONG WORKERS

There seems to be a wide-spread opinion that there are less casualties in the Red Cross and medical corps than in the other branches of the army. This is decidedly not so. Reports from the Allied governments show that the number of casualties in the Red Cross is large.

CANADIAN RED CROSS.

The Society in Canada was incorporated as the Canadian Red Cross Society by Act of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada in 1909, and thus became the official connecting link between the Canadian public, the British Society and the Department of Militia and Defence of Canada. The Society has no funds at all, except a small Trust Fund, and is entirely dependent upon the public for funds. Therefore, it behooves the public to get busy and provide for the Society which is helping their men at the front.

GENEROUS DONATIONS.

The British Red Cross Society made many grants to different societies and ambulance brigades in 1916. Among these grants of $170,000 to France in the form of the Vincennes Hospital, Paris, $50,000 to the French Red Cross; $25,000 to each of the Canadian War Contingent Association and the St. John Ambulance Brigade; and so on down the list. Besides donating several itself, the Society was also the medium whereby over thirty motor ambulances were sent to France in 1916.

Thus it will be seen by all that now is the time for this University to give and to give generously. Last year, Ontario's contribution paid for the work of the British Red Cross Society for nearly six weeks. May its contribution this year double that, and may the University do its full share and more. So be prepared to do your utmost next week.

"GIVE GENEROUSLY" SAYS THE PRESIDENT

October 11, 1917.

To the Students of the University of Toronto:

Again this year for the third time the British Red Cross is appealing to the Empire at large for support. As far as I am aware this is the only appeal for funds that the Mother Country makes. It is almost unnecessary for me to commend to you a fund which of itself appeals to the humanity of all, and which constitutes also one of our noblest patriotic efforts. To relieve suffering is always an opportunity that we are glad to take advantage of, but to relieve the sufferings of those who are giving their lives for our protection is a heightened privilege.

The British Red Cross gives help to all that may need whether they be from the Mother Country, from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa or any of the colonies. It makes no distinction provided they are under our flag, and the relief that it has administered during the past three years is simply beyond reckoning. Britain needs our help. Many of us can forward the war by our contributions. I am confident that we shall all be as generous as possible on this occasion.

R. A. FALCONER,
President.

MOST MALE STUDENTS WILL HAVE TO DRILL

Such is the General Opinion of the Undergraduate Body

TESTS NOT DIFFICULT

Officials Chary About Giving Out Information

In what category did they put you? Although Mr. Reed of the Varsity gym has not yet officially announced the results of the physical examinations, which have been going on for the past fortnight, yet a pretty fair estimate can be formed from the general consensus of opinion of the male students, that the great majority have been put in Class A, they being fit for active service overseas.

Of course the University tests are not any too difficult to pass. A man with a pair of "decent" eyes can easily be put through. Many students when questioned by THE VARSITY in what category they were put, modestly replied that they did not know, for they were not told.

Many students of good build will, contrary to their expectations, have to take exercise instead of drill. Some have sore backs, fallen arches, and the like.

Those taking drill will not by any means have an easy time. They will have to put as much effort into military studies as any other subject of their course. For if they neglect their military work and are so unfortunate as to fail in this exam, a star will be the result. THE VARSITY therefore advises every student taking drill to buckle down and work.

VICTORIA COLLEGE Y.W.C.A. STARTS THE SEASON'S ACTIVITIES

Talk Given by Rev. Mr. Doyle in Alumni Hall a Great Success

Parable and Beans were Features of Enjoyable "Hike" at the Island

The Victoria College Y.W.C.A. is off in full swing for the new college year. It began with a most successful meeting in Alumni Hall on October 4. The Hall was filled and the splendid attendance augurs well for the Y.W.C.A. this year. Rev. Mr. Doyle, who is connected with the work among the foreigners in the West, addressed the meeting and held audience in close attention throughout. Some of the conditions of Settlements in Canada cannot be distinguished from corners of Austria or Russia. These offer to college women a tremendous challenge, and a field for patriotic service that cannot be overlooked. All present were struck with the cogency of Mr. Doyle's statements and everyone's enthusiasm was aroused.

Then on Saturday afternoon those members who had not gone away for the holiday joined forces on a "hike" at the Island. In spite of straggling and losing the way, eventually all turned up at the big bonfire on the shore in time for supper. Smoking hot pork and beans soon revived the spirits of the famished picnickers, and then the girls gathered around the dying embers while Prof. Hooke in a delightful manner told an Old Testament parable with a modern application. The party broke up in a wild race through the dusk for the boat, and the usual cheering and singing was staged on the wharf while awaiting the ferry. No one had had a dull afternoon and the camp-fire talk will not soon be forgotten.

Capt. Hugh Aird, son of Sir John and Lady Aird, reported missing since Sept. 30, is now known to be a prisoner in Turkey, according to a cable from the British Admiralty. No information was given as to the details of his capture.

NOTICE.

The Executive of the Students' Administrative Council desires to meet the executive of the Women's Student Council at 11 o'clock to-morrow at THE VARSITY office. The proposed sharing of editorial responsibility in connection with THE VARSITY and Torontensis will be the subject under discussion.

COL. GOODERHAM MAKES VERY PRACTICAL GIFT

His Gift of Fifty-Acre Farm to U. of T. Antitoxin Lab. a Great Accommodation

HISTORY OF THE INSTITUTION

Large Quantities of Serum is Made Here Being Used by Our Own Men at Front

The generous donation of a fifty-acre farm by Col. Gooderham for the purpose of increased accommodation in the manufacture of tetanus antitoxin recalls the history of the University of Toronto Antitoxin Laboratory which is especially interesting to undergraduates of this institution and which is not very generally known.

In the winter of 1914, Major Fitzgerald, the present head of the University Laboratory; and Sir Edmund Osler, chairman of the medical section of the Commission of Conservation, and a Governor of the University of Toronto, undertook to establish a laboratory in the University of Toronto where diphtheria and tetanus antitoxin, anti-meningitis serum, anti-rabies vaccine (Pasteur Treatment), and smallpox vaccine could be prepared and distributed at cost. They were successful and May, 1914, saw the new laboratory opened.

Immediately the Antitoxin laboratory began the distribution of its products, the price was more than cut in half. The enterprise very soon became national in its scope. Newfoundland is in "the sphere of influence" of the Antitoxin laboratory, and for the past two years all diphtheria antitoxin used in that far away island has come from the Antitoxin Laboratory of the University of Toronto.

In February, 1916, the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario began to distribute free of charge in Ontario various antitoxin and vaccines. This move put Ontario in the fore front of public health work, and meant that no child's life should be endangered because the parents could not afford to buy antitoxin.

With the outbreak of war the work of the Antitoxin Laboratory was greatly increased and in 1916 the Ontario Vaccine Farm, Palmerston, was acquired. Enormous quantities of tetanus antitoxin were required for the western front. At this juncture in 1915, the Canadian Red Cross Society had been urgently requested to obtain ten thousand doses of antitoxin and to send this amount to France. They found that the lowest price at which the serum could be obtained from any manufacturer in the United States was one dollar and twenty-five cents a package of ten and twenty-five cents a package. This came to the attention of the Antitoxin Laboratory. At once arrangements were made with a large municipal public health laboratory in the United States to obtain the much needed supply. It was found that for sixty-five cents each ten thousand packages could be obtained. This saved the Red Cross Society approximately one-half the amount they proposed to spend.

This incident focussed the attention of the Laboratory on the necessity, if at all possible, of at once undertaking the preparation of this serum. A member of the Board of Governors of the University, Col. A. E. Gooderham, at once offered to equip a laboratory for the purpose of producing tetanus antitoxin. At the same time the Department of Militia and Defence agreed to make a grant of five thousand dollars, on the condition that the entire output of the antitoxin should be available for the use of the Department if they required it. The Antitoxin Department agreed to this and went further and promised to supply the antitoxin at approximately cost price. The special laboratory was at once established under the immediate direction of Dr. R. D. Defries, and has been sending to France all the tetanus antitoxin used by the Canadian Expeditionary Force, at a price lower than the lowest cost price quoted by any American manufacturer.

When Col. Gooderham found out that the work was hampered by inadequate space and lack of accommodation for necessary animals, he presented the University with a fifty acre farm about twelve miles north of Toronto on which he built a magnificent laboratory and stables. In the future the work of this

Recommendation Made That Women Become More Active on "The Varsity"

One of the important subjects brought up for consideration before the Students' Administrative Council last evening was that relating to the Medical affair. The report of the Chairman of the Athletic and Discipline Committee was given out. It found that there was practically no rowdiness or violence, the noise of the inter-year yells being the main feature of the affair, that the disturbance was quite without organization and that it never assumed the proportions of a "hustle". Signed statements from S. L. Dollar, president of the second year, and from F. J. Ryan, president of the first year, expressed the regret and condemnation of the affair felt by the student body. The committee recommended that these statements be accepted as concluding the incident and that the Council at the same time issue warning that unauthorized contests of any kind would be severely dealt with. This report was adopted.

As correspondence received by the Secretary of the Council a proposal from the Women's Student Council was read. It had to do with the appointment of women to responsible positions on THE VARSITY. The President in an explanation prior to any motion upon the proposition, pointed out that last year the Women's Student Council, then organized for the first time had asked for a compulsory fee for THE VARSITY from all women students. The matter taken up by the Students' Administrative Council before the Capt was an attempt to get representatives on THE VARSITY and Torontensis Board. In the first place, two men and two women from the two Councils respectively, should be appointed to an Advisory Board to govern the policy of THE VARSITY and the Torontensis. A member of the Faculty would act as chairman, his election taking place before a joint meeting of the two executives of the two Councils. The Women's Student Council also wished that an associate editor be appointed with an assistant managing editor, to have supervision over all women workers on THE VARSITY was also desired. A motion was put through to the effect that the Council should approve of the principle of the recommendation and that at the earliest date two executives of the different Councils get together to discuss probable developments.

Mr. Grant brought forward the question of a Red Cross Campaign. He stated that Sir Robert Falconer had advised him that a request from the Central Committee of the British Red Cross that another campaign similar to that held a year ago be again undertaken. The Executive of the Council had favoured such a programme and had sent it on to the Council for approval.

RETURNED MEN, ATTENTION!

The President and members of the Faculty Union wish to meet informally the graduates and undergraduates of the University who have returned from active service overseas.

Tea will be served this afternoon in the rooms of the Union from 4.30 onwards.

If any returned member of the University has not received a personal invitation he is asked to accept this notification and to pass it on to any others whom it may concern.

department will go on under ideal conditions.

Canada now has an institution comparable in scope to the Serum Department of the Pasteur Institute, Paris; the Lister Institute, London; and the Research Department of New York City. At present all the energies of the Laboratory are being bent in the direction of war-work, since this is the first duty of every loyal Britisher to-day.

The senior representative had then been held responsible for the full returns of his college. He was who saw to the disposal of his men. Put to a vote, the motion that such a campaign be held this year was carried. October 16, 17, 18 were chosen as the three days during which to canvass the several thousand students of the University.

Rev. S. Childs, the President, then congratulated the Council upon the splendid financial condition, despite the fact of its being war time. He declared that before fees had become compulsory for THE VARSITY, and the support of the Students' Administrative Council, the students had been many hundreds of dollars in debt. Since the making of fees compulsory, the Council had yearly made money, until now there was a considerable surplus on hand. He spoke of the work of THE VARSITY Supplement Board, and told of the profits on that publication being expended for war purposes. Six thousand dollars had been handed over to the Red Cross Society to purchase ambulances. Other money had been donated to the O.T.C. and the University Battery.

PRESBYTERIANS INDULGE

In An Enjoyable Reception at the College St. Church

College Street Presbyterian Church held its annual reception for the University Presbyterian students on Tuesday evening. This pleasant function was a huge success and the three hundred young people present enjoyed themselves immensely. Promptly at 8.15 the entertainment commenced with a bag-pipe solo by a costumed highlander. After this selection each student present was given a card, and was told to get as many signatures of guests of the opposite sex as possible. This contest was won by a returned soldier-student.

During the evening the audience enjoyed Scotch dances, delightful solos and readings. Mr. Emery and Rev. Dr. Cochrane in splendid addresses emphasized the possibilities and conditions after the war.

Dainty refreshments were served to the young people about eleven, and then a very pleasant evening came to an end all too soon. It is to be hoped that these delightful receptions will become to be annual events.

DEBATING

Preliminary meeting of Intercollegiate Debating Union takes place to-day, Friday, October 12, at 4 p.m. in St. Michael's College. Representatives of the various faculties are requested to accept this notification.

WHO WOULDN'T BE A CO-ED?

When the University Imposes One Less Subject on Them Than on the Men

There has been much enquiry and speculation upon the part of University men regarding the taking of military drill as prescribed. Some thought that as the case was last year and before students should be relieved of a subject in compensation for the taking of drill. But a visit by THE VARSITY to the Registrar's office revealed the fact that no such allowance would be made. It was pointed out that military drill this year was an extra subject for the men, and as such their taking of it can not act as a substitute for one of the regular subjects. This may seem unfair since the co-eds have only the ordinary subjects, while the men are burdened down with several hours of stiff drill each week. However, necessity knows no law.

Initiations

Under Correspondence appears a letter criticizing an editorial in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY, which protested against the holding of unauthorized initiations in war time. "Med" seems to have missed the point of the editorial almost entirely. We did not condemn the custom of authorized initiations. We did condemn the holding of any unauthorized initiation, and we are determined to stand by that decision. We hope "Med" notes the distinction.

As to the Medical "affair"—shall we call it?—now appears that this fracas was not as serious as it seemed on first report. We are told that it was mostly noise, that little damage was done, and that reports in the downtown papers were exaggerated. Our only hope is that these statements are a hundred per cent correct. The fact remains that the report, which appeared in the daily press, caused people to renew criticism of the University. We regretted that there was this excuse for rousing the excitable public, and we hope that there will not be another. As far as we are concerned the matter is closed.

We would like, however, to answer "Med" directly on one important point—namely his charge against the Students' Council. We hold no brief for the Council but we know that they are not against inter-year contests. On the contrary, when guarantee is given that the affair will be conducted in good spirit, the Council is willing to give permission to any two years to hold an inter-year contest. The Council, however, is not in favor of holding the old-time unauthorized "scraps" where barbarism ruled, and in our opinion, their policy is the only right one.

A Good Idea

In a recent issue THE DAILY KANSAN regrets that last year's announcement, re the foundation of a course of instruction in the history of their University for all freshmen, has not been carried into effect this year. Part of the KANSAN's editorial reads as follows:—"First year students were to be taught not only the history of the school and of a few of the many great men who have graduated from this institution, but they were also to be told of the ideals which the University holds, and of what it expects of the students who come here. One hour's credit was to be given for the course, and it was to be required of every first year student."

We consider that the principle of the above might be introduced with profit into the University of Toronto. Our students come to this University from all parts of Canada. At the time of their first enrolment they know little of the history and traditions of 'Varsity; and unfortunately too many graduate without acquiring any knowledge in this connection. To remedy this condition of affairs we would not go to the length of recommending the establishment of a regular course of instruction; but we do think that the benefit which freshmen would gain, from three or four general lectures on the history of 'Varsity, would outweigh any inconvenience encountered.

If students were thus led to appreciate the struggles of the University in the past, and to understand present problems, and were shown directly the ideals for which a University should stand—then, perhaps, there would be in evidence, in regard to University affairs, an attitude different from that which has sometimes been witnessed. When these students became graduates, moreover, they would no doubt manifest a greater interest toward 'Varsity than do most of our present graduates. Such an end ought to be worthy of attainment.

It is not yet too late to begin with the Class of 1921.

CORRESPONDENCE

MED. STUDE FAVOURS "SCRAP"

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,

With reference to your editorial condemnation of the Medical freshman-sophomore "scrap" I should like to say a few words in favour of that time-honoured institution.

It seems to me that this University of ours is slowly but surely being bereft of all those customs and institutions which make University life a thing to be remembered and talked of when its undergraduates have passed out into the world and are numbered among the Alumni.

Sir Robert Falconer and the Students' Council are apparently of one mind in desiring to convert this place of learning into a machine akin to the sausage machine into one end of which the verdant freshman is cast, to emerge several years later a man of letters or a scientist. They have evidently forgotten that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Graduates and undergraduates will agree with me, I have no doubt that the inter-year "scrap" is probably the greatest single factor in getting the freshman year together. The poor freshman arrives at Varsity, a stranger amongst a crowd of other strangers. Apart from speaking a few words to his neighbour at lectures, he has nothing to do with the rest of his class, and there is nothing to draw the class together except the universal greenness.

But as soon as the freshmen hear that the sophomores are planning a raid upon them, a wonderful change takes place. Every student remembers how his class rallied. They have something in common at last, and they go out to meet the sophs feeling that they have a hundred or so good fellows behind them, who will back them up. That is how class spirit and University spirit is born.

I realize that in war-time certain changes are necessary, but surely there is a limit. The residences where men used to congregate after lectures have been taken away. The Dining Hall is closed; one place where University matter and other topics of common interest were invariably discussed. In short, the President and other authorities have destroyed nearly every link that binds the student to the University, except the lecture halls.

Is it not generally admitted that the greatest value of a University training lies not in lectures and labs, but in the daily association with fellow students? How can such a condition exist at the University of Toronto when there is no place of rendezvous after lectures, no place for the exchange of current topics other than the boarding-house, that institution which is anathema to all who have suffered there!

And now THE VARSITY, represented to be an undergraduate paper, condemns the last remaining custom that makes the name "Varsity" a word to be spoken of in eager expectation by future students now at preparatory schools.

How is the freshman going to get that feeling of loyalty to his class? How is he going to realize that there are other students who think and act just as he does unless there is something to bind him to his class?

I have been in four class scraps and I have never yet seen a fellow injured and have never seen a chap lose his temper. On the contrary I have invariably noticed that the universal tendency was to be half-fellow-well-met with both sides after the affair was over. That is a spirit that a freshman will never get by merely attending lectures.

By all means let us have the class scrap! This University is a dreary place at present, and if President Falconer wants the young boys to come here, he must not suppress all the life in it. All honour to our soldier students overseas! They would be the last ones to wish conditions to remain as they are. I have consulted with many of them who have returned and their opinion of the situation is that "This place is as dead as a door-nail."

Sincerely,

"MED."

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

At Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week, George M. Cohan, the popular actor-author-producer, of both the theatrical and film worlds, will appear in his second photoplay "Seven Keys to Baldpate." One of Mr. Cohan's greatest Broadway sensations, this play adapted from the book of the same name by Earl Derr Biggers, scored an emphatic hit over the country several years ago. As a motion picture vehicle for the inimitable comedian, it offers an admirable subject in which to present to good advantage his famous mannerisms and at the same time, discloses particular adaptabilities to motion picture presentation.

Announced as a "mystery farce", this picture is confidently expected to amaze and thrill to a much greater extent than even the original play. Several distinct twists to the story, which tells of how an ambitious author of hair-raising literature won a wager to write a 10,000 word story in twenty-four hours, are evinced with startling result. Many humorous situations are presented in typical Cohanesque style and a surprising climax, such as has never before been presented on the screen is suddenly displayed with telling effect.

In addition to the foregoing film feature, seven high-class vaudeville acts will be offered.—[Advert.]

The Query Box

To-day we have the grand opening of the Query Box. Of course we have not received many questions, but we expect more in later issues. Shower us with questions—we are here for your convenience.

Q. Is the Canadian Government going to make any provisions for the German immigrant taking up land after the war?

P.A.

A. Yes. We think there are some provisions now being made for them taking it up a shovelful at a time.

Q. What are the functions performed by the lad smothered in brass buttons who saunters about the halls of the Dent building?—Worsters.

A. "Buttons" is the page. Although he has good covers, still he goes messages and ushers in patients who come for treatment at the Royal Dental College.

Q. When will the results of the exams held last May be posted in the Registrar's office?—JUNIOR.

A. They may not be posted at all, but if they are they will be up in a month. We hope you did not get started.

Q. Who occupies the University residences?—I. YEARN.

A. So do we, but they are now occupied by the Royal Flying Corps.

Q. Has the Students' Administrative Council the right to punish students who take part in any unlawful proceedings?—MED.

A. Yes. It only costs all undergraduates two dollars a year to keep up this organization providing he is not fined.

The Appeal of the Nordheimer

COMPLETE SATISFACTION in a musical instrument is not—cannot be—a matter of dollars and cents measurement. As well might Rembrandt have tried to save a tube of pigment or Whistler a few hours' labor in painting a masterpiece. Just as the true artist spares neither time nor skill, so Nordheimer craftsmen are given ample time and high-quality materials to produce THEIR perfect product—the Nordheimer Piano. The eminently satisfactory result of all this high effort is found in a piano that appeals to people who are not satisfied with less than perfection.

SEASON'S SPORTS ARE DISCUSSED BY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

First Meeting Was Held Yesterday--
Officers Elected

A meeting of the Athletic Association of University College was held at the gymnasium yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. F. Sullivan presided and D. J. Sinclair acted as secretary.

Nominations were held and the following officers were elected:—

President ... F. Burrows.
Vice-President ... A. O. Grass.
Secretary ... D. J. Sinclair.
Treasurer ... J. Ridley.
4th Year Rep. ... E. Beckett.
3rd Year Rep. ... F. Sullivan.
2nd Year Rep. ... M. T. Stokes.
1st Year Rep. ... A. Swain.

It was also decided to get a team ready for the Mulock Cup. Although much weakened by the loss of several of last year's stars, the opinion was that enough material existed in University College to get up a strong team. Anyone who plays rugby at all should get out and try for a place on the team. The freshmen are especially appealed to, for there is a great majority of them as compared to other years.

Nominations were held and the following officers were elected for the team:—

Manager ... A. McGarrah.
Asst. Manager ... D. J. Sinclair.
Captain left open.

It was moved and carried that in order to carry on athletics in University College it would be necessary to collect a fee of 25c. from each male student.

Regarding a tennis tournament it was deemed advisable to hold a meeting of the representatives of each college to decide whether a tournament should be held or not. Until this is done no definite plans can be arranged.

LADIES PLAY TENNIS

Several of the games in the ladies' tennis tournament which were scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday were played before a very small audience. The players themselves displayed great interest and several of the games were hotly contested. The results will be in the next issue of THE VARSITY.

WOMEN'S LIT. SOCIETY MEETS THIS EVENING

The U.C. Women's Literary Society will recommence activities with an open meeting at the Women's Union at 8 o'clock this evening. The programme for the year, which is to concern itself with modern English writers, will be inaugurated by Dr. A. F. B. Clarke in an address on "The Conundrum of the Workshops," (which is not at all what it seems), and by the presentation of Barrie's delightful playlet, "Rosalind," by the following cast:

Rosalind ... Ruth Strong
Charles Roche ... Agnes Muldrew
Dame Quickly ... Wida Preene.

A special invitation is extended to all freshmen.

To-night at 8 p.m.—open meeting of U.C. Women's Lit.—85 St. George St.

BUSINESS MEETING OF W.U. ASSOCIATION

The first regular meeting of the W.U.A. of U.C. was held at the Union on Wednesday, October 10. It dealt with business matters only. The president, Miss Mabel Child, outlined the purpose of the W.U.A. and drew attention to a few of the traditions which it desired to maintain. Reports of last year's work of the Union for 1916-17, and of the Library Committee were read.

Nominations were held for third year representative and first year representative to the W.U.A. and for first year representative to the Women's Administrative Council. Elections to be held Thursday at noon. A motion was passed for the continuance of the monthly contributions to the Red Cross. The president then outlined the proposed programme for the year of which an interesting feature will be the fruit-pickers meeting to be held within the next two weeks. Tea was served at the adjournment of the meeting.

The result of the election is as follows: Representatives to W.U.A.—
3rd Year ... Miss Mary Anderson.
1st Year ... Miss Majorie Cook.
Representative to Women's Ad'v'ce Cn'l.
1st Year ... Miss E. Chant.

O.T.C. WILL GIVE AN ENTERTAINMENT

Exceptional Talent is Available Among Soldiers

Have you a dollar lying idle in your pockets, and would you like to invest it in a good cause? Of course you would, if you were told that every cent of it goes to the Social Service work of the Toronto General Hospital and were also assured a splendid programme comprising musical and dramatic numbers.

The Overseas Training Company will present on October 26, in Convocation Hall, a splendid programme comprising musical and dramatic numbers, the like of which can rarely be enjoyed for that price. In the O.T.C. there are many well known actors who have played leading roles supporting such stars as William Faversham, Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, and the late Sir Herbert Tree; others in the Corps are well known in the music world. Such a gathering of talent is one organization is indeed unique. The programme will include a short play by Lord Durland, an officer of the British Army serving at the front, whose brilliant work is not, as yet, well known to the Toronto public. These artists will be assisted by several members of the Royal Flying Corps. Besides, dramatic recitations, songs and choruses will also be given, forming a programme of universal interest.

The seat plan opens October 22 at Northmead's and Victoria College. The tickets, which are $1.00 each, will be on sale at the following centres: Northmead's, Victoria College, Toronto General Hospital, Wellesley Hospital, and the Students' Book Department.

The old students will never forget the good time they had at the Duffy did Night, which they had always splendidly supported. The proceeds always went to the Social Service work of the Toronto General Hospital. The soldier boys of the University are going to fill the breach.

S.P.S.

Students of all years in S.P.S. are invited to the annual reception which will be held in the Y.M.C.A. building next Tuesday evening at 7.45. The speaker of the evening will be W. MacLachlan. Mr. MacLachlan is ex-secretary of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; secretary of the Joint Society of Technical Organization; and member of Canadian Inventions Board. He has chosen for his subject a topic of national importance and of interest for every man of S.P.S. This together with the good fellowship of the evening should prove most profitable. Refreshments will be served.

The annual smoker given by the second year Science students to the first year, will be held in the gym on Monday evening, October 15, at 8 p.m.

Dentistry

Controller Cameron will speak at an Informal Reception for all dental students this evening at 7.45 o'clock in the Assembly Hall of the Dental College. The Y.M.C.A. wants every man to be there. There will be no charge and no obligation. Just come and have a good time. There will be refreshments and games. Freshmen in particular are urged to come.

St. Michael's

There has been a material decrease in the attendance at St. Michael's this year, owing to the number of men who have donned the khaki. The majority of men in attendance belong to the freshman class which, though smaller than usual, outnumbers second, third and fourth years combined. Third and fourth years put together can muster only thirteen men, while second is not much better.

Despite this state of affairs we hope to "carry on" as usual. Rugby practice has already commenced and from all appearances, there is good material for a fairly strong team. An exhibition game has been arranged with O.T.C. to be played at 2.30 p.m., Saturday, October 13, at the Varsity stadium.

REGISTRATION

This Year's Figures will Compare Favourably with Those of Last Year

From present indications this year's registration will compare very favorably with last year. However, the registrar's office cannot give out any more definite figures than those given in THE VARSITY several issues ago regarding total registration of all the colleges. Late registrations are continually coming in, and it will be several weeks before the final figures can be given out.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

MILITARY AUTHORITIES ISSUE THE REGULATIONS FOR COMPULSORY DRILL

DATE OF FIRST DRILL UNKNOWN

EVERY MALE STUDENT WILL HAVE TO DO HIS PART

All students found physically fit by the Department of Physical Training are being divided by the Registrar of the University into three classes—I, II, III. These are being instructed to report on specified dates at the Gymnasium, Hart House, when they will be handed over for organization and instruction by the C.O.T.C., enrolled in the ranks of that unit and issued with uniforms. The personnel of the contingent constitutes the administrative and instructional staff of the Department of Military Studies, responsible to the President of the University.

The Three Classes.

Although no C.O.T.C. training, per se is being done this year, instructions will be published in the form of C.O.T.C. orders.

The composition of each class will be—
Class I—Arts, University and Victoria.
Class II—Medicine and McMaster.
Class III—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's.

The following officers will be in charge of class (provisionally):—

Class I—Captain M. W. Wallace; Platoon Comdr's: Lieuts. Bowles and Jamieson.

Class II—Captain C. N. Cochrane; Platoon Comdr's: Lieuts. Nethercott, Fielding (late R.F.C.) and McGibbon (late the Brandon Contingent, C.O.T.C.).
Class III—Major G. H. Needler; Platoon Comdr's: Lieuts. Edgar, Bonus and Bruns.

The officers in command of classes will organize them into training squads of strength not exceeding 25. They will supervise and report on the training, and will be responsible to the O.C. for the discipline, administration and records of their units.

Groups of squads will constitute platoons. Platoon officers will be responsible to the officers in command of classes for discipline, administration, clothing and records of their commands.

Squads will be in charge of C.O.T.C. n.c.o.'s still at the University, many of whom have failed to pass the doctor. They will be responsible to platoon commanders for keeping attendance rolls and assisting in the issue of clothing and arms. They will fall in and drill with their squads on all instructional parades.

N.C.O. Appointments.

So far the following in the three classes have been appointed—Class I, C.S.M.—H. G. Stapell; Sergeants R. A. Sampson and R. D. McCauley.

Class II—C.S.M., S. L. E. Danby and Sergt. J. H. A. Macdonald.

Class III—C.S.M., W. G. Wootton; Sergts R. C. Mitchell and W. L. Sagar.

Ten returned N.C.O.'s, specialists in Physical and Infantry Training, have been obtained to act as instructors. These men are at present taking re-educational courses at Hart House.

The hours of parades will be from 4 till 5.30 p.m. Classes will parade at the Gymnasium, Hart House, on dates which will be announced later.

Results of Examinations.

Dr. Barton examined 886 men, and on the Physical Examination Category they are classified as follows:—

Categories.

A—Fit for overseas service . . .	272
B—non combatant service in overseas units . . .	209
C—Fit for service in Canada only . . .	260
D1—Not at present fit for any of above . . .	59
D2—Fit, but conscientious objector . . .	0
E—Unfit . . .	86
The 145 from D and E are to report to Dr. Barton at the gymnasium for elementary physical training. This will leave 741, less 36, who will be fit in a couple of weeks, to be trained by the C.O.T.C. The faculties are represented in the following manner:—
University College . . .	196
Victoria . . .	53
Trinity . . .	22
St. Michael's . . .	79
Meds (1st, 2nd and 3rd years) . . .	244
School of Science . . .	126
Forestry . . .	5

Of the total in Class A, B and C, 365 are over 20 years of age and liable to be drafted.

On first assembling the Classes will be squadded and squad N.C.O.'s appointed; instructors will be detailed and one the completion of the squadding they will be moved to a lecture hall where a short lecture on discipline will be given by an officer specially detailed.

Arrangements with Lieut. T. A. Reed, Adjutant, C.O.T.C., will be made by officers to have attestation cards completed at once and also by arrangement with the quarter-master, they will obtain issue of uniforms for their Classes before the second parade.

General Demeanour

Officers, N.C.O.'s and men—unless on the strength of the C.E.F.—are only permitted to wear uniform on the days on which their classes meet. Any disregard of this order will be severely dealt with under powers conferred by K. R. & O., and the Militia Act. All ranks will make it their first duty to see that they are punctilious in saluting all officers, and in their general deportment when in uniform. The University man should be noted for his extreme smartness at all times, and more particularly when wearing His Majesty's uniform.

IS "THE VARSITY" TO BE NEWS ORGAN OF WHOLE STUDENT BODY?

Joint Executives Consider Details of Scheme for Equal Editorial Res- ponsibility Between Men and Women

On Saturday morning at 11.30 a joint meeting of the executives of the Women's and Men's Administrative Councils was held in THE VARSITY office to consider the details of the scheme by which the Councils propose to assume joint editorial responsibility of THE VARSITY. The general recommendation as made by the executive of the Women's Administrative Council was slightly amended. Under the new arrangement THE VARSITY will be managed by an Advisory Board of two representatives from each Council, the editor-in-chief, and the women's editor, the latter to be appointed on the recommendation of the Women's Council.

The above mentioned Board will be presided over by the vice-president of the Men's Council until such times as the Caput will permit the Women's Council by means of a compulsory fee, financial responsibility. The representatives of the Council, on the Advisory Board, shall be appointed by and be responsible to the executives of the respective Councils. The editor-in-chief shall be responsible to the Advisory Board for his paper and his staff. The women's editor shall be responsible to the editor-in-chief for the organization of the women members of the staff.

There shall be two managing editors, a man to assist the editor-in-chief, and a woman to assist the women's editor.

The women's editor shall have at her disposal three columns of reading matter and more if required by arrangement with the editor-in-chief. The editor-in-chief shall decide all matters of detail between the men's and women's section of the staff.

The women's editor and managing editor will be appointed from the graduate or undergraduate body of the University of Toronto, by the executive of the Women's Administrative Council. All women reporters in the different colleges shall be appointed by the women's editor on the recommendation of the Women's Administrative Council. The amended scheme in the near future shall be submitted for the final approval of the Women's Council.

271 MED PRESIDENT ISSUES STATEMENT

Toronto University,
October 11, 1917.

Having seen the report in the Press of the affair among the first and second year Medical students on Friday, October 5, I wish to state that the reports as printed in the Evening Telegram and Star were very greatly exaggerated. As President of the class in second year Medicine, I wish to say that there was no organization whatever in connection with the affair, that only a very small number of the students were implicated in it in any way, and that it was only an impromptu affair.

In my opinion, as far as I can gather from the students, the great majority of the men condemn the incident as totally out of place under present conditions.

G. L. DOLLAR,
President second year Medicine.
To the Students' Administrative Council,
Toronto University.

STUDENTS AGAIN CALLED TO GIVE GENEROUSLY TO BRITISH RED CROSS

$3,000 IS EXPECTED

For two successive years, the call for help from the British Red Cross has been heard by the students and the Staff of the University of Toronto. Each time the response has been worthy of the representatives of the noble men and women who have gone from our University to suffer, and in many cases, to die that freedom and democracy might not give way to the Kultur of the Hun.

The Women's Student Council and the Men's Student Administrative Council, with Mr. Collier C. Grant, as organizer, have undertaken to raise $3,000 in three days of this week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, for this cause.

On Saturday morning a meeting of the representatives of all the faculties and colleges was held in THE VARSITY office, and the first shots were fired in the work of preparation, for the campaign. The complete list of the organization will be found in the large announcement on page 6 of this issue. Every student will be given an opportunity to help in the care of the wounded soldiers and sailors. The British Red Cross Society is conceded to be the most efficient organization of its kind in the world. In the work it is doing it needs your help, and it needs it now. Never again will it be within the power of man or woman to render such service to mankind as now. Those who are fortunate enough to stand as spectators of this world drama are to be given an opportunity to aid their friends on the firing line and in the hospitals. Give the most possible, sacrifice your personal comforts and amusements until you feel that you too are in this war and in it to the last ditch.

Read the announcement on the back page and learn of the work which has been done in the past and the need for financial assistance in the future. Every dollar given helps to save the life of an entente soldier.

PRESIDENT FALCONER SAYS THE WAR AGONY MAY BE EXAGGERATED IN OPENING SERMON YESTERDAY

Unwavering Hope in a Brighter Future Formed Keynote of His Address

Unwavering hope in a brighter future because of the deep suffering of the war formed the theme of President Sir Robert Falconer's sermon yesterday morning at Convocation Hall, at the opening sermon of the University term.

Sir Robert Falconer took for a text the involved passage from the Second Epistle to the Corinthians, 1-20. He outlined the growth of materialism 'through the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries to show how self-satisfied the world had become, how indifferent to the better principles. That temper of doubt of higher things lasted until the war came. Then began what President Falconer called "the period of great affirmation."

"Men have spoken with their lives in the most vehement way, and have made a strong affirmation with all that they have as to the reality of certain unseen things which they believe must be maintained if life is to be worth while. Security of life has passed away. Groups of boyhood and girlhood friends have been blotted out or been widowed; careers have been broken; men have returned maimed for life, and there is little of the actual physical possibility of pleasure we took almost as a right before the war. These things have gone until we are almost crying out 'Lord, how long!'"

In a striking passage of clear vision he went on: "I think we may overdo our belief as to the actual agony of the present, as though it is an experience of which the world knows nothing. That is partly because of the contrast with conditions before the war. But suffering is no new thing. There have been ages in which the suffering was greater than it is now. Apart from those in mourning and those who have been trampled upon by the machine of war, I doubt whether there is more suffering than before the war. We have no right, certainly, to cry out that the world is abandoned by God. The first century, I am convinced, was very much worse. It hadn't our hope and the comfort of the past. The New Testament is written against a background of perpetual suffering. Yet out of that suffering there came for the world an undiluted well of joy, of peace of mind, and refreshment for all the succeeding ages."

"Affirmations are bringing order out of chaos. The world sees more order to-day than three years ago. Things are not as bad as they were three years ago. We have seen the affirmation of right by the whole civilized world. The last came from our neighbours from the south. The period of doubt has ceased, and with our full energy we affirm that the world does live by the spiritual truth, that it does live by the moral law which makes stability between man and man; and that the common virtues of our lives must have scope among the nations."

The fourth year of University College will hold a Class Meeting this afternoon at four o'clock in East Hall. Everybody is urged to be present at this meeting. Nominations for the new class executive will be taken.

MANY RETURNED MEN ATTEND FACULTY TEA

Faculty Greet Returned Graduates and Undergraduates

The President of the University and the members of the Faculty Union held an informal reception on Friday afternoon for members of the University who have recently returned from active service overseas. Among the members of the Staff present were Sir Robert Falconer, Dr. R. A. Reeve, former Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Professor Baker, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Professor Ellis, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science, Professor Hutton, Principal of University College, Professors Keys, Hume, Cameron, Allan, Fields, Beatty, Buchanan, Jeanneret, Smith, Lipari; also Lieut. Col. Massey and Major Needler, Capt. Wallace and Lieut. Jamieson of the U. S. Tr. Coy. The Students' Council was represented by Mr. C. A. Grant, Secretary; THE VARSITY by R. A. Sampson.

The returned members of the University were: Lt.-Col. E. S. Ryerson, formerly of No. 4 General Hospital, now A.D.M.S. for this M.D.; M.D.C.M., Staff; Major D. H. Storm, M.C., C.F.A.; (App. Sc.); Capt. G. Gallie, C.A.M.C.; formerly of No. 4 Gen. Hosp., M.B., Staff.
Capt. C. W. Brock, C.A.M.C., No. 10 Sta. Hosp., B.A. U.C.,
Capt. P. Goforth, 17th Bn.; (B.A., U.C.).
Capt. W. B. Caswell, Chaplain Service; B.A. (Vic.).
Capt. C. S. Oke, Chaplain; B.A. (U.C.).
Lieut. H. Parkinson, C.F.A. (M.A. S.).

Fellow Students of the University of Toronto:

At the request of President Falconer the Students' Administrative Council in co-operation with the Women's Council has again undertaken to organize the campaign for the British Red Cross within the University.

The Red Cross is the Empire on service, a fellowship of humanity which every member of the Empire can do the things most worth while in company with millions of others. Its task is to bind up the wounds and relieve the sufferings of those who have borne the burden of battle—our battle. This task is immediate, tangible and urgent.

Varsity is represented on the battle fronts by 4,000 graduates and undergraduates. The Red Cross appeal is our opportunity to stand shoulder to shoulder in support of our comrades. The attendance at the University this year is approximately 8,000. Let us aim to support the British Red Cross by a contribution of $3,000. We can do it. Let us decide we will do it.

SIDNEY CHILDS,
President of the Students' Council.

Compulsory Drill

The writer of the letter, which appears under the head of Correspondence, raises three points in connection with the introduction of compulsory military drill into the University. These three questions are of considerable importance, and, in view of the fairly-wide criticism of compulsory drill, we think they ought to be discussed.

In the first place, "Arts '18" asks what is the true idea behind the introduction of the new system. It is impossible for THE VARSITY to give a definite answer to this question. We feel, however, that the action of the Board of Governors was based primarily by a sincere desire to increase the physical fitness of every male undergraduate, and in addition to give those able to undertake the work, a thorough course in military drill. We are aware that a considerable amount of time will have to be spent on this extra work, and that a certain amount of inconvenience will be involved. But the students in attendance at the University to-day, who thus come under this new system, will not be the first ones, since August 1914, who have suffered inconvenience or done things which they did not desire to do. In light of the experience of some of these other students, moreover, the sacrifice of three hours a week ought not to be considered too serious. Furthermore the time so utilized will, in no sense, be wasted, for both physical fitness and knowledge, which at any time may be useful, will be gained. The idea contained in this latter statement is, in our opinion, the true aim of the Board of Governors; and we consider the reference of "Arts '18" to the President and the Senate, in this connection, as beside the mark.

"Arts '18" then declares that the men who have to work their way through the University will now suffer hardship. We are aware that there are many such men at the University, but they ought to remember that the University authorities have provided facilities whereby exemption from drill can be secured. Where such exemption is justified, we feel sure that the applicant will receive a fair hearing. Until exemption, in a really deserving case, has been refused, however, it is not appropriate to refer to this University as a place where "no poor need apply".

Finally, "Arts '18" raises the question of what will happen to those who refuse to drill. The Board of Governors have determined that all male undergraduates shall be drilled. The military authorities have prepared the plans for this course of drill. What will happen to those who fail to report we do not know. As the University of Toronto is a State institution, however, and as the Government would not doubt lend its hearty support to the Board of Governors in the present situation, we suspect that some effective means would be taken to prevent men who refused to drill, from securing their year or degree. Thus the students might as well make up their mind that they will have to drill, and THE VARSITY advises all concerned to report.

In a previous issue, while we suggested that military drill be confined in normal times to the first two years, we stated that we favoured the principle of compulsory drill. We repeat this statement and, in so doing, feel that we are but echoing the sentiments of most of the University students.

The Red Cross Appeal

The task of attending the sick and wounded soldiers and sailors—one of the most important in any war—demands for its fulfilment much organization and the support of all possible resources. The many hospitals, hospital trains and ships require great financial aid to enroll the services of their thousands of workers, and to purchase the supplies of drugs, provisions and equipment necessary for this cause.

Because the Government recognizes the value of giving rather than paying, the carrying on of this important work depends, to a great extent, upon the voluntary support of the Red Cross Association. It has been proposed to change the present system for that of taxation, but it is realized that such action might result in such a way, that many, who now give large amounts, would then give only the tax demanded. There are, moreover, many patriotic people, who are unable to participate actively in the present struggle; and yet are eager to share part of the burden. The Red Cross and similar funds provides an outlet for this patriotism and thus renders great service.

We are now in the fourth year of the war, and the struggle is ever growing more intense; and ever increasing in ferocity. Battles, on a large scale, have been fought on the western front continuously during the past half-year. We expect more battles will come, and with these will follow the inevitable long roll of casualties. To care for these casualties, and to restore them to health, a great reserve of medical supplies must be kept on hand for immediate use. At such an important time the British Red Cross makes its present appeal. This Association, no doubt, has information concerning important moves to be made in the near future; and thus desires to place itself in a position where it can cope with any emergency.

This Association, during the coming week, makes its appeal for funds from the whole British Empire. The campaign in the University of Toronto will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and the objective is three thousand dollars. This campaign has an efficient organization, but the organization will accomplish little if the whole student body does not lend its support. If we give until we feel it, the three thousand mark will be more than reached.

How large will the figure be?

EDITORIAL COMMENT

To-morrow.

Is the beginning.

Of the Red Cross Campaign.

Help to reach the $3,000 mark.

Be sure to bring your contribution with you.

There is a canvasser waiting for you. Watch for him.

When you see him coming, don't go the other way.

Two years ago there was only one card asking for silence in the Men's Reading Room in the Library. Last year there was none. This year there are three. We wonder if the new regulations for the use of the room this year have anything to do with the change.

We hear that some of the men students are complaining that, after drill begins, they will have one more subject than the women students, and that the ladies will thus have an undue advantage. The man who first thought that out deserves a prize.

The Texan and the War

An editorial in The Daily Texan, depicting the seeming lack of interest of Americans in the war, and asking the students of its University to wake up, says in part:

"A trip through Canada is convincing and curing. Not a face can be seen that is not furrowed by the awful anxiety of war. Here the women engage in the same work as our girls, but the fancy knitting bag, the gaudily coloured needles, the 'I-don't-know-who-it-is-for' facial expression are all missing; the lists of dead, wounded and missing have been daily reminders of what war is, and it has changed our Northern neighbours completely.

"A college editorial will hardly reap results commensurate to the needs of a nation, but oftentimes a conscience must be satisfied. What has happened to Canada is going to happen to us, and the terrible transformation is not long withdrawn. Americans are now in trenches, and it is nothing but logical to expect American names among the lists that soon must be cabled from Europe. A reminder that the change is inevitable as well as near may at least transform the outward expression of some. If not, we can only predict, with the infallibility of the Delphic oracle, that our countenance will not long hence assume an expression in direct contrast to that which now seems indelibly stamped thereon.

WHAT INDIANA THINKS.

Even in relation to American college athletics and the war have followed a logical course.

When the United States was hurled last April into the world war, sacrifice to country was the great impulse to all good Americans.

Athletics at first glance seemed to be the easiest spared of college activities. A few universities, in the first rush of the sacrificial impulse, voted to suspend them during the war. The fate of athletics was uncertain for weeks in other institutions among them Indiana, but reaction to basic common sense was inevitable.

The young man who keeps his body fit and hard for his country's service is of as much value as he who majors in political science to serve her after the war. Athletics should be among the very last thing to be given up. Any sacrifice of them before the direct need of such sacrifice is a useless and lamentable one.—Indiana Daily Student.

ANGLICAN CLUB WELCOMED FRESHETTES LAST WEDNESDAY

Excellent Spirit of Congeniality Shown by All Present

On Wednesday afternoon the Anglican Club held their annual At-Home at the Deaconesses Training House. A large gathering was present, particularly of freshettes and Anglicans attending the Faculty of Education.

This was especially encouraging to the members of the Club, as in past years it has been a matter of considerable difficulty to induce freshettes to become interested in the club, while very few from Education have attended at all.

A very pleasant social hour was spent in chatting and becoming acquainted. After tea was served, Miss Connell addressed the members of the club, welcoming the first year and telling them of the splendid progress made by the deaconesses lately in medical work, social activities, and other branches of endeavour.

A few words were then spoken by the President, Miss Gwendoline Stiles, telling the club all that it is expected to achieve, not only in Red Cross work, but also in creating a greater feeling of fellowship among the Anglican members of the University who are decidedly in the minority.

The freshettes were then shown over the Mission by the deaconesses, and were greatly impressed by the splendid facilities shown there for training in nursing and other medical work.

Anglicans should make every attempt to join the club and interest themselves in the work of their deaconesses, as far too little is known of what these worthy people accomplish. The training school is open at any time, and Miss Connell has extended a hearty welcome to all who wish to become further acquainted with the work of the residence.

ENROLMENT IN POST GRADUATE WORK UNTIL OCTOBER 20th

Inquiry at the Registrar's office regarding the number of students taking post-graduate work revealed the following facts. Students who are desirous of enrolling for post-graduate work may do so until October 20. There are students wishing to take certain post-graduate work who may find they are not qualified for this certain work. Therefore any figures given now would be far from the actual enrolment.

U.C. LADIES LIT. OPENS SEASON WITH SUCCESSFUL MEETING

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT

Barrie's "Rosaland" and Address by Dr. Clark Featured Programme

In spite of inopportune weather Friday night, the Women's Union was crowded with old proven friends of the Literary Society, and freshettes in whom the zeal of literary enthusiasm burns. When the audience finally subsided into chairs, or weathered itself around the walls, the official year of the Society was opened by the address of the President, Miss Elsa Graham. The programme for the year, which will consist of discussions and talks on various modern authors and wherever possible presentations of modern plays was briefly sketched.

The programme for the evening was very well chosen as an introduction to this general scheme. Prof. Clark's talk on "The Conundrum of the Workshop" dealt with the idea of literary criticism suggested in Kipling's poem of that name. As a preparation for the study of modern literature, Prof. Clark laid before the Society the most modern ideas of literary criticism. Armed with these theories the members of the Lit are prepared to turn their attention to to-day's literature.

J. M. Barrie's play "Rosaland" was presented by an all-star cast of Ruth Strang, Agnes Muldrew and Vida Peene. The characters were well suggested and the play, with all of Barrie's whimsical appeal, was very suitable for an opening night.

After successfully catering to the critical and dramatic tastes, the Lit showed its understanding of the more frivolous tastes of undergrads. An adjournment to the common room revealed a cheerful fire, music, dancing, and ever-popular "cats", and the conquest of the audience was complete.

VICTORIA COLLEGE LIT. HELD FIRST MEETING LAST THURSDAY

Welcome to Freshettes and President's Address Were Chief Items

The opening meeting of the Women's Literary Society of Victoria College was held in Alumni Hall on Thursday afternoon October 11. The meeting, after the preliminary business, took the form of a welcome to the freshettes. Members of each of the other years sang rollicking songs of greeting to the class of '21, and the Hon. leaders of the Government and Opposition gave addresses of welcome, with strong claims urging the newcomers to join their respective parties. Miss Gertrude Rutherford gracefully replied to the greetings on behalf of the first year.

In the course of her hearty address of welcome, the President announced that this year provision will be made for a third party in the House—the Independents—and members will now choose their party instead of being scheduled with it arbitrarily as formerly. Also members will vote, according to conviction—not according to party as heretofore. The platforms of both the leaders will be posted up this week and should receive the attention of all members. (It is rumoured that bribery and corruption may be resorted to by both parties in the coming campaign).

The meeting was adjourned for refreshments and friendly greetings succeeded the more formal ones. There was a large attendance at the meeting, and the presence of several graduates was much appreciated by the Literary Society.

WOMEN UNDERGRADS AND GRADUATES GATHER AT ANNUAL AUTUMN TEA

HALLS WERE CROWDED

Toasts to Various Women Organizations Marked This Annual Event

East and West Hills once again last Saturday were filled with a happy throng of graduates, undergraduates and wives of the Faculty to celebrate the time-honoured fete, the Autumn Tea. This annual event was eagerly looked forward to by all, especially the freshettes who awaited in excited anticipation the time when they should meet the wives of the Faculty. This is practically the only time during the University year when the undergraduate women have a chance to form an acquaintance with the wives of the professors.

Tables were set in West Hall, daintily decorated with sprays of Autumn flowers and on one side at a long table, draped with ivy, sat the executive, Miss Livingstone and the toast-mistress, Miss Wrong. First a toast to the King was proposed, then in order, the University, the Women's Undergraduate Association, answered by Miss Child; the Literary Society by Miss Graham, the Modern Language Club by Miss D. Macmillan; the Young Women's Christian Association by Miss Helen Smith and Athletics by Miss W. Simpson, who explained that although the fee was quoted as $4 it was really only $3. The freshettes answered by Miss Bessie Chant, the Alumnae by Miss Willson, the Faculty Wives by Mrs. Fairley and Sister Colleges by Miss Vera Spurling of Victoria College. During the afternoon Miss Lilian Black favored the audience with a delightful solo.

The popularity of this event was evident from the large number of guests who were present and the assistants were kept busy providing refreshments. Several extra tables had to be brought in at the last moment to accommodate the numerous guests, and the executive are to be complimented on the excellent manner in which the affair was conducted.

THEY SAW A MAN AND BECAME FRIGHTENED

Co-Eds Thought a Bold Bad Burglar Had Visited Queen's Hall

Great excitement reigned in No. 1 Queen's Hall on Thursday, when some of the girls, returning from dinner were greeted with loud shouts of "Burglar! Robbery!"

To all appearances, shortly after the girls had left the Residence for dinner in the main house, a lonely "gentleman" had entered the house, and after a short promenade around the halls, was at last spied by the house-keeper, disappearing down the front stairs and out of the door. Upon hearing foot-steps at such an unusual hour of the evening, the maid had called out, thinking it to be one of the girls, returned unexpectedly, but receiving no answer made further investigations and discovered the end of a tall grey coat disappearing from the front hall.

One of the girls, when crossing the

BIOLOGICAL CLUB WILL HOLD FIRST MEETING

The Biological Club will hold its first meeting Tuesday evening October 16 at 8 o'clock in Room 20 of the Biological Building. Miss B. K. E. Mossop, B.A., will give an address on "A Summer at the Biological Station at St. Andrews".

Elections to the Biological Society for the coming year will also be held and all interested are urgently requested to be present.

Avenue, a little late for dinner, had seen such a grey coat wrapped around an individual, who, judging from his expression, gave one rather the appearance of insanity, but not being in the least alarmed, did not mention the fact.

However, it was soon found that excitement and alarm were worse than any actual damage, as after every nook, corner and pass in the house had been duly patrolled and inspected, nothing was discovered to have been extracted.

All was soon calm again, the only difference in the general atmosphere of the Hall being that windows that night were not opened as widely as they might have been, if, in some cases were opened at all.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students, Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY IS INAUGURATED STARTING OCT. 18

Will Meet Every Two Weeks for Discussion of Problems

Every thoughtful student of the University has at various times felt a great desire to understand the problems of life as they are embodied in the plant and animal world which forms his environment. The Zoologist never loses interest in the habits of his favorite animals, and the Botanist is always enthusiastic over the various eccentricities which are being displayed by his plant friends.

Both these students, in common with more casual observers of nature, have often felt the desire to discuss their problems with others, but in many, in fact in most, cases the opportunity was lacking. The Seminar in Botany which is being inaugurated this year, will go a long way towards solving this difficulty. Questions of vital and intense interest to every botanist will be discussed; but the problems under consideration have an important bearing on the whole field of Biology.

Papers on Darwinism, Mutation, Mendelism, Variation, Heredity, Sex-determination as well as others of a more historical aspect, should prove very instructive, and should stimulate much interesting discussion.

The Seminar will meet every two weeks on Thursday at 4.30 p.m., beginning October 18, in the Botany and Forestry building, 11 Queen's Park. All students of the University who are interested in Botany are invited to be present and to take part in the discussions. Those who are pursuing work along Biological lines should find these Seminars very helpful and stimulating.

MEMORAH CLUB HELD SUCCESSFUL MEETING

That the Menorah idea has taken firm root here, was clearly shown by the attendance of three graduates and fifteen representatives from University College, Medicine, S.P.S., and Dents, at a meeting Thursday evening to discuss the advisability of forming a Menorah Society at the University of Toronto.

The purpose of the Menorah movement to popularize and stimulate an interest in the study of Jewish history and literature, found favour with everybody. A Menorah society is primarily a study group, where all undergraduates, graduates and members of the Staff of the University are eligible for membership.

After considerable discussion regarding the relation of a Menorah society to the Toronto Hebrew Students' Association, it was made clear the former was to be purely a campus organization affiliated with the fifty-five other Menorah organizations in Canada and the United States. The following resolution was then passed: "that all graduates and undergraduates of the University of Toronto and McMaster University, interested in Jewish thought and problems, form themselves into an Association and affiliate with the other branches of the Menorah Society."

A temporary executive committee was chosen with Mr. J. W. Gordon, B.A. 15, U.C. as chairman; and Miss L. Smith, U.C., secretary. It was decided to hold a meeting on Thursday, October 25 at 5 p.m. at University College for all who are interested in the Menorah movement.

Medicine

The Medical freshmen reception was held at the University "Y" on Thursday evening with great success, the freshmen turning out in full force with the idea of a good meal and fine time, and by no means were they disappointed.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Milner, who, with his witty "Scottish" jokes kept the timid freshmen in good humour. Dr. Withrow, a returned man, related some of his experiences and encouraged them never for a moment to give up such a noble study as medicine. Sir Robert Falconer honoured the freshmen by his presence and a few words of advice along the Medical line.

Music, songs, and college yells were given by Messrs. Sullivan, Macdonald, Bastow and Watson. A novel contest was then held which helped the men to make acquaintances. A most enjoyable evening was then brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

COMMERCE AND FINANCE CLUB ORGANIZE TO-DAY

All Men Urged to Attend
First Meeting

Students in all the years of Commerce and Finance ought to take special pains to attend the initial meeting of the Commerce and Finance Club this afternoon. The meeting is to be held at two-thirty, in the Political Science Seminary (Room 1) at the head of the stairs, in the library building, for the purpose of electing officers and discussing a programme for the winter.

In the past this club has been in the habit of holding luncheon meetings, at which prominent business men have been invited to speak. In this way members of the club are able to come into contact with the practical side of business, and to hear what successful men have to say about the life for which Commerce and Finance students are preparing.

These meetings have been very helpful to the men, but the success of the club has only been attained by careful work on the part of the officers of the club. Now that the numbers have decreased so greatly, the hearty co-operation of every man will be required in order to make this year's work successful.

A particular invitation is extended to all freshmen in the course to take advantage of this opportunity of getting into the club at the start, while the mere notice of the meeting will probably suffice to ensure a full turnout of past members.

WILL ESTABLISH UNION OF AMERICAN COLLEGES

Headquarters Located at Paris--33 Universities Have Joined

At a meeting held in New York last June, plans were considered for the founding of an American University Union in Europe, to be located in Paris, with branches in London and other cities. The object of the Union when it is established will be to provide a club for the use of American college men who are abroad in the service of the Allies, and also to furnish an information bureau, where the colleges the relatives, and the friends of those engaged in the war, may get news of them. All casualties will be reported there.

Delegates from fifteen leading colleges and universities attended the meeting in New York, which was called by Secretary Stokes of Yale. Since that time eighteen more have signified their intention of joining the Union. The institution is to be financed by these college memberships and by club memberships. The fees for universities are to be graded according to size. Institutions with an enrollment of over 10,000 pay $500, those between 5,000 and 10,000, $250; and all less than 5,000 are to pay $100. Club memberships will also cost $100, and it is hoped that a large number of University Clubs will join. Payment of dues by a club entitles all members to the use of the Union abroad. Honorary memberships have been given to the United States Military Academy at West Point, and to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

MORE PICTURES REACH VARSITY SUPPLEMENT BOARD

The publication in three issues of THE VARSITY of the names of those ex-students at the front of whom photographs are desired for the Varsity Supplement, is evidently meeting with some results. Photographs of these men are coming in to The Varsity Supplement Board, a member of the Board stated, but said it could not be determined to what extent this was due to the efforts of THE VARSITY.

COME TO THE "Y"

Say fellows! call down at the "Y" building on the University Crescent, near College Street, and let us see your smiling face.

We want you to make use of this building—it is for the students primarily, so use it.

Do you come from Hamilton, London, Guelph, Ottawa, Winnipeg? Then come in and see your home papers—Hamilton Herald, Manitoba Free Press, Ottawa Evening Journal, Guelph Evening Mercury, London Free Press.

We also have all the Toronto dailies.

Again, tickle the ivories on our Nordheimer piano, or listen to the melodious strains of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra from our Victrola. Make yourselves perfectly at home fellows, and give us any suggestions re making the "Y" more comfortable and more home-like. We want your co-operation, so let's hear from you.

SCIENCE RECEPTION AT Y.M.C.A. TO-MORROW

All Years Invited to Attend—Mr. W.
McGlauchlin Will Address Meeting

S.P.S. Attention! Do you know that the reception to be held in the University Y.M.C.A. building on Tuesday, October 16th at 8 p.m. is for all years and will be of prime interest to any Engineer? After considerable difficulty the executive was able to secure Mr. W. McGlauchlin, ex-secretary for the American Institute of Electrical Engineers as speaker for the evening. Mr. McGlauchlin is now secretary for the Joint Society of Technical Organizations in Canada, and a member of the Canadian Inventors Board; and an exceedingly "live" talk is expected from him.

Many School men are facing the problem of military or national service in the near future and are wondering where they will be placed. Mr. McGlauchlin is the man who is going to give some light on this subject. He is not a "military" man, but his position on the J. S. of T. O. makes him imminently fitted to deal with the subject of where engineers can be used in civil life and where they are best adapted in military life. Briefly, the work of that organization is to determine the value of engineering and engineers in the present war, so as to be able to place men where their abilities will be of greatest use to the country. It is expected the speaker for Tuesday evening is going to have some very interesting things to tell.

Mr. McGlauchlin is a very busy man and has only promised a "short address". It is the duty of every School man, as well as being decidedly in his own interest, to be there.

Notice the change from "freshmen" to "all years". In other years it was customary to have the reception for first year men only, but on account of small numbers it was decided to have everybody. A good lively time is expected. Freshmen are urged to come and get acquainted with each other and meet other men of their faculty. Good music, songs and college programme and last but not least there will be refreshments in abundance.

MR. F. A. MOURÉ WILL GIVE FIRST ORGAN RECITAL TO-MORROW

The first organ recital for the present term will be given by Mr. F. A. Mouré in Convocation Hall, Tuesday, October 6, at 5 p.m. The programme will be:

1. JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH (1685-1750). Prelude and Fugue, G major.
2. FRANZ LIST (1811-1886). Lo Spozalizio.
3. JOSEF RHEINBERGER (1839-1901). Sonata No. 17, B major. (Fantaisie; Intermezzo, Introduction and Fugue)
4. R. G. HAILING. Cantilene.
5. JOSEPH BONNET (1834—). Rhapsodie Catalane.

CORRESPONDENCE

COMPULSORY DRILL

[Writers of letters under this head assume full responsibility for all statements contained therein.—Ed.]

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,

In to-day's issue of THE VARSITY I notice that the Registrar said that no allowance would be made for male students taking the compulsory drill. The co-eds are to have in this case a certain advantage over the men. But this is not a thought I wish to make, it is concerning the whole Kaiser method of this training business.

Three years ago, after taking my matric at night, burning midnight oil and also much energy, I entered Varsity. The course was to be six subjects as prescribed in the general course. Now in my final year they add another subject, with two periods a week of an hour and a half each, which means when one has to come from the west end of the city, practically two afternoons a week wasted, because the Senate or the President thinks it would give the University a name for loyalty and patriotism. What else is the idea?

There are many men in the University who are working their way through college. Think what two afternoons a week means to these. It looks to me, that along with the patriotic bluff, or if you like the militaristic guff, a raw deal for the boys who are doing this. It also looks as though the authorities wish to keep the University for the sons of the rich. Why don't they be honest and publish on their literature "no poor need apply"?

Now what I wish to know is this. If I absolutely refuse to take the drill outlined by the Senate or authorities, gone insane over militarism, and wishing to foist on us the German system, making men mere sheep and goats, the very system we are fighting against, what will the authorities do? I do not believe that their Charter would allow them, if I should get my six subjects prescribed, to keep back my degree from me.

Why not be fair to those boys earning a living, either give them exemption from this drill or consideration on one other subject. Be fair, be decent, be British.

ARTS '18.

Victoria

The first meeting this term of the Literary Society was held on Saturday night, October 13. Since the last term the College ranks have been thinned out greatly and owing to this it was feared that the "Lit." might suffer. However the freshmen seem to have entered into the spirit of the college life and are willing to do their part in keeping up the long standing orders of the college. The house was fairly evenly divided, the government being well represented and having before it a lively opposition.

The meeting was addressed by Dr. De Witt who is always ready to do his share with the other professors of the college in honouring the Society with his presence and enlightening its members by his words. He spoke on "Uses of Publicity or Human Nature". The address was one which furnished food for thought and threw much light on human nature, showing the necessity of the publicity of new ideas in order that they may be absorbed by the conservative mind of man. The speech was quite humorous and ended with an optimistic note on the progress of man.

The musical part of the programme was furnished by Mr. Blackburn. An open debate gave all a chance to take part. Much interest was taken in the business session, sharp questions meeting sharp answers. Close attention was paid to the speeches of the two party leaders, who presented their slates for the coming election. Owing to the lateness of the hour the critic's report was short but to the point.

Business being over all hurried to the common room where, accompanied by songs and college yells, refreshments were enjoyed.

Major D. K. Edgar, who has been awarded the D.S.O., is doubly connected with the University as a graduate in arts of U.C. 1896-7, and a brother of Professor Pelham Edgar. He took his military training at the Royal Military College, Kingston, and after graduating from there was with the Royal Engineers in the Indian army for ten or twelve years. The past two years have been spent in Mesopotamia. Major Edgar is a son of the late Sir James Edgar.

O.T.C. RUGBY SQUAD DEFEAT ST. MIKE'S

Soldiers' Stars Too Much for Lighter Collegians

The football season was opened at Toronto University Saturday afternoon when the Overseas Training Company of the University defeated St. Michael's College in an exhibition game by the score of 15 to 2. The Company has some old football stars in Bickford of Tigers, Robbins of Queen's, McFarlane of Tigers, and Lennard of Ridley fame.

St. Mike's put up a plucky game against their much heavier opponents, but the superior condition of the soldiers acquired through their military training, gradually wore their line down and was very evident towards the end of the game. W. Boles and W. Blatz of Meds. handled the game.

O.T.C.—Halves: Cooley, Lieut. Bruls, Lennard, quarter, Mox, outside, Ralph, McFarlane, inside, Haddock, Taylor, inside, Bickford, Robbins, scrimmage, Nesbitt, Dyer, McKendrick, Milligan, Ings, flying wing, W. Brown.

St. Michael's—Halves: Brown, Sherry, Marsh, quarter, Flanagan, outside, Griffin, centre, Carroll, middle, Gordon, Grace, inside, Haddock, McLeod, scrimmage, Tallet, Robbins, Peplatt, Gilley, flying wing, R. S. Brown.

LEARN TO SWIM

One of the finest swimming tanks in the city is that of the Household Science Building at the corner of Avenue Road and Bloor Street. There is swimming every afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock with the instructor Prof. Coran in attendance three days a week. This is an excellent opportunity for the women to learn to swim and be recognized by a large attendance.

TENNIS MEETING WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Men from all the faculties and colleges of the University who are interested in tennis are requested to be present at a meeting in the University gym on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The faculties are especially asked to send representatives for the purpose of organization for the present season.

Other Colleges

Princeton—Over 90 per cent of the men who last year were prominent in Princeton University athletics are now in some branch of active service, says the Princetonian. This includes 15 members of the 1916 football squad and six captains of varsity teams.

According to the Board of Athletics Control at Princeton, the university will resume athletic relations with other colleges in sports that can be made to pay expenses. This will probably mean athletics here this year on a less extensive scale than usual, and with college situated nearer. It has also been announced that there will be no varsity football this fall.

Kansas—The fact that four women are enrolled in the wireless class shows that Kansas women will take active part in filling vacancies left by men whom the government has called into service.

Washington—The university has decided to reopen athletic contests in the school this season after having barred them last spring because of the war. As the first step in the resumption of athletics, a football team is being organized and the candidates are being put through a heavy series of drills each afternoon.

New York—Coach Eustis, who has been guiding the fortunes of the New York University football eleven since the beginning of the season, has been called to the aviation service of the United States.

Harvard—The informal varsity football eleven will play its first game in the Stadium, Soldiers Field, next Saturday afternoon when it meets an eleven composed of sailors from Bunkin Island. This team has a number of former college stars in its lineup and will no doubt give the Crimson fine competition. Several other games have been arranged for the Crimson with military and naval teams.

Princeton—It has been announced that credit will be given to Freshmen for participation in the regular drill which will be conducted this year. The drill will consist of two periods of two hours each, to be held on Mondays and Wednesdays and Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week.

St. Michael's

Thursday evening the St. Charles' Hotel was the centre of a very lively gathering. The 210 class of St. Michael's College gathered there for a banquet, which, to judge by the success and general enjoyment of the undertaking will prove, undoubtedly, to be an annual affair. The class president, Mr. Hanley, spoke a few words suitable to the occasion and then a hearty "Hokey-hokey" served as a signal to "dig in". Mr. O'Toole acted as toast-master for the evening. The principal toasts were "Our King and Country", "Canada and her Soldiers", "St. Michael's and the Class of 210".

Short speeches were made by Messrs. Flannery, Kelly, Ryan, Nealon, Sherry and McIntosh. A theatre party concluded the highly successful evening.

On Friday evening the St. Charles Literary Society held its regular meeting, the feature of which was a debate—"Resolved that the sending of the Dardanelles expedition was a tactical error on the part of the Allies". Messrs. McGarvey and Harrison upheld the affirmative side, while Messrs. Hurd & James defended the negative. Both sides spoke well, and brought forth some very good points. The judges, Messrs. Gordon, Nash, and Keenan, decided in favour of the negative. Rev. Father Oliver then spoke a few words and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

VICTORIA GRADUATES OF 1892 GIVE PAINTING TO ALMA MATER

A splendid oil painting of the Rev. A. H. Reynar, D.D., by Mr. McGillicray Knowles, which is now in Chancellor Bowls' office at Victoria College, will be a gift from the graduates of 1892 to their Alma Mater. Early in June several of the twenty-two men, who received their degrees at the last convocation held in Colong, assembled at the College to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation. One of the outcomes of that gathering is the donation

Ask the Woman Who Wears One

Referring to our Ladies' wrist watches, we have the same confidence in advising you to "ask the woman who wears one" that a well known automobile firm has in telling you to "ask the man who owns one."

Whether with watches or autos the principle is the same—some ounce of experience of those who have tried them should be worth more to you than a pound of words, or your own prejudices.

The wrist watch is pre-eminent satisfactory in every respect. It is useful, it is convenient; it is good-looking; it is always on hand; it is fashionable, and it is reasonable in price.

On leather strap, nickel, $6.00 to $10.00
In silver, $10.00 to $27.50
In gold-filled, $15.00 to $25.00
In solid gold, $25.00 to $125.00
In platinum and diamonds, $350.00 to $750.00.

Medical Boards are Ready!

Medical Boards are now ready to examine all men who apply as to their physical fitness for military service. These boards are established throughout this district.

Upon examination, the Medical Board will classify each applicant according to his fitness; into Category A if he is fit for service in overseas fighting units; Category B if fit for service overseas in Army Medical Corps, Forestry Battalions, etc.; Category C if fit for service in Canada only, etc.

Only men whose medical examination places them in Category A will be included amongst those required to join the colours in the first instance; the man placed in any other Category will remain at home until men in the Category to which he has been assigned are called to the colours. The men placed in Category A may still apply for exemption on any ground.

Men between the ages of 20 to 34 inclusive, who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6th, 1917, are strongly advised to report before a Medical Board at once. This is the quickest and surest way for them to find out their status under the Act.

Parents and employers are also urged to have those in whose cases they are specially interested visit a Medical Board and undergo examination. The methods of examination are simple and will result in no discomfort or inconvenience.

Now is the time for employers to obtain facts of the greatest value to them in making their calculations. The Medical Boards will determine how many of their employees will be left at home for physical reasons and how many will be selected for service unless an application for exemption be made with success.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

What the British Red Cross are doing for our Wounded Soldiers and Sailors across the seas

THE British Red Cross Society is the only institution which carries voluntary aid to the sick and wounded of the British forces on land and sea in every region of the war.

Its work is therefore the concern of all classes of British subjects, whether living in the British Isles, in the Dominions and Colonies beyond the Seas, or in foreign countries.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT BRITISH RED CROSS WORK

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

57,000 Hospital Beds found in the United Kingdom.
30,000 of these provided with Nursing Staff.
2,000 Trained Nurses working at home and abroad.
7,500 V. A. D.'s helping in Army Hospitals.
$220,000 spent on equipment of King George Hospital (1,850 beds), and $130,000 a year contributed to cost of its maintenance.
$225,000 spent on building and equipping Netley Red Cross Hospital (1,000 beds), and $625,000 spent on maintenance.
$175,000 for Orthopaedic Curative Workshops and Training Fund.
$185,000 for Facial Injury Hospitals.
$100,000 for initial outlay in providing and equipping after-care institutions for totally disabled men.
$100,000 for materials for Red Cross Working Parties.
40,000 books and magazines supplied weekly for the sick and wounded.
460 Motor Ambulances, Cars, etc., for Home Service.
28 Command Depots and Convalescent Camps regularly visited and supplied with Comforts and Games.
The home (London, Eng.) administration and management expenses (excluding hospitals) for the year ended 20th October, 1916, represent 2.29 per cent. of the total expenditure, or less than 3 cents on the dollar. Audited accounts have been supplied to the Canadian Red Cross Society.
Red Cross work costs over $300,000 per week, or $30 a minute.

SENT OUT OF GREAT BRITAIN

$5,500,000 for purchase and upkeep of Motors.
2,500 Motor Ambulances, cars, cycles, waggons and soup kitchens sent abroad.
4 Hospital Trains running in France, each carrying 450 wounded, have cost over $300,000 to build and run.
$2,800,000 spent on British Red Cross work in France and Belgium.

$3,750,000 spent on work in Mesopotamia, India, Egypt, Salonika, Malta and Near East.
The Hospital Ship "Nabha" sent to Mesopotamia.
65 Motor Launches sent to Mesopotamia, Egypt, East Africa and Malta.
22 Hospitals and Convalescent Homes in France, Egypt, Malta and Salonika.
$125,000 to French Red Cross Society.
$165,000 spent on work in East Africa.
$215,000 spent on building and equipping St. John Brigade Hospital, Etaples, France (520 beds), and $271,600 on equipment and maintenance.
$8,000,000 worth of Surgical Dressings, hospital equipment, necessities and comforts of all kinds despatched mainly abroad.
6,000,000 Articles of Clothing and Bedding and Hospital Furniture and Equipment sent away, mainly abroad.
416,383 Parcels of Food and Clothing sent from London to British Prisoners of War in enemy countries.
Invalid kitchens attached to hospitals in Malta, Salonika and Egypt, buffets, sun shelters, bathing sheds, recreation and tea rooms for wounded and convalescent men, established in Egypt, Malta and Salonika.
6,500 Surgeons, nurses, V. A. D.'s, stretcher-bearers, hospital orderlies and ambulance drivers now serving abroad.
180 Women Ambulance Drivers serving abroad.
$50,000 to erect, equip and maintain recreation and refreshment rooms in France.
7 Rest Stations in France for wounded men en route, as well as hostels for relatives visiting wounded and rest homes for nurses.
16 Store Depots for hospital necessities, etc.
12 Branch Offices for Enquiries for Wounded and Missing.
$175,000 spent on work in Italy.
$310,000 spent on work in Serbia and Montenegro.
$350,000 spent on work in Roumania.
$100,000 spent on work in Russia.

FINE RESULTS ATTEND FIRST DAY OF BRITISH RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

College of Pharmacy Makes Excellent Contribution to Fund in Record Time

Hands in $112 After Only Two Hours of the Campaign

Yesterday morning saw the Red Cross Campaign off to a good start in the University. The students have been asked for $3,000, and, if they keep contributing to-day and to-morrow on the same scale as yesterday, it should be fairly easy for them to give this sum. However, many students have been missed by those on the Campaign Committee, and it is up to those students to come forward and do their share. There will, no doubt, be some students who will be missed altogether; but they will be trusted to do the right thing. There are so many University men at the front, that the University should see its way clear to give far more than the sum asked for.

Last year the University gave $2,000 and the year before $3,500, so it is the duty of the present students to give extraordinary well. The Red Cross is always on hand to do its work and especially so when there is any big offensive. The Red Cross work is divided into three sections: (1) the transportation of the sick and wounded; (2) hospitals and rest homes; (3) provision of supplies. Besides this regular work there are many minor activities, such as providing books for the libraries of the convalescent, food for prisoners in Germany, the collection of details concerning men who are missing, and so on.

The first Red Cross unit left for Brussels on August 12, 1914, just a week after war was declared by Britain, which was very quick work, as everyone will admit.

Now, in the fourth year of the war the casualty lists are daily growing larger, they are filled with the names of men who have gone from among the people of this city. Students or anybody else who contribute to the funds of this Society may be sure that, not only is it patriotic to do so, but also it is only natural, since the contributions go to help the friends of the contributors. It would be well for students to remember that the amount required by the Society is $30 a minute. Therefore it is up to you students to help the University maintain its record for generosity. Let everybody do his or her bit now.

The results of the first day's campaign here are not all available, but those that have been received are most satisfactory.

MONEY MAY BE SENT TO MEN IN ENEMY COUNTRIES FOR SUPPORT

No More Than 25 Pounds a Month
May Be Sent

The following is a section of a circular letter received by the editor of THE VARSITY from Lieut.-Col. J. E. Chambers, Chief Press Censor for Canada, and may be of interest to those who have friends and relatives in detention camps in enemy countries.

(a) The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury have granted to Messrs Thomas Cook & Sons, Ltd., London, E.C., a license to send through an agent in a neutral country to British or Allied subjects in enemy occupied territory for their maintenance, any sums not exceeding twenty-five pounds sterling per month in the case of any one individual. The transmission of such remittances must be authorized by the Government of Canada, and Cook's Canadian branches are authorized to act as the channel of remittances to Cook's London.

(b) Authority to remit through an agent in a neutral country to Canadian prisoners of war in Germany sums not exceeding in the case of any individual prisoner, the sum of twenty-five pounds sterling per month has been granted the European agent of the Dominion Express Company.

(c) Remittances to British prisoners of war in enemy countries may be made by persons in the United Kingdom by money orders issued free of commission, in accordance with a notice issued by the Pharmacy First Again.

For the third successive year Pharmacy has been first to make her returns and now heads the list with an excellent contribution of $112. Well done Pharmacy! There are only 63 students in the College, yet this great return was handed in at 11.30 yesterday morning after only two hours of campaign. The young ladies at the College deserve special mention for their valuable work and their example ought to be an incentive to any man or woman in the University.

Mr. J. V. Bradshaw of the Faculty of Applied Science is second on the list with $45, and only part of the first and third years have been approached. School intends to do its bit in this worthy work.

Knox College has only 17 students this year, yet they have given with a generosity that is characteristic.

Meds, the largest faculty in the University, has yet to be heard from. Great things are expected of Meds. Mr. Newton called a meeting of the Faculty of Education yesterday afternoon and explained the campaign to them in all its forms. The campaign there starts in earnest this morning. Last year F.O.E. came to the front, and nearly topped the list with a contribution of $231.00. This year the need has doubled and it is expected that that Faculty will do its usual share in this glorious work.

University College reports that the returns are high, but no figures are yet available.

Everything points to a hearty response, and although many of the returns have not yet been heard, those received are very encouraging.

EXAMINATION HALL AT CONVOCAION BEING MADE INTO MESS ROOMS

N.C.O.T.D. Are Now Quartered in North House

Work was commenced this morning on the large examination hall back of Convocation Hall, which is being fitted up as mess rooms and so forth for the non-commissioned Officers' Training Depot. Major G. N. Bramfitt, formerly a master at the University Schools, is in command of the N.C.O.T.D., who are quartered in the North Residence of University College, and until the completion of the university commissariat arrangements, which includes the building of a small kitchen at the side of their permanent mess rooms, are living on subsistence allowance.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

Don't miss the first meeting of the Modern Language Club to-night at Prof. Squair's home. There will be papers introducing the various subjects of the coming year followed by a social meeting and refreshments. Don't hesitate to be present because you are not a member, but come and bring your fee with you.

British Post Office Authorities in 1915, without any authority. Permission for such remittances is only sought in order to avoid delay at the Office of the Postal Censor in cases in which it is desired to remit money by cheque.

(d) No general authority to make remittances to enemy or to enemy-occupied territory has been given to any person or firm outside the United Kingdom other than general licenses for remittances from America through the United Kingdom.

(Note.—All remittances from Canada to enemy-occupied territory must be made through the United Kingdom in order to secure the assurance that the same individual does not receive more than twenty-five pounds per month from all sources and that all remittances are made through agencies under supervision of His Majesty's Government.)

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF VARSITY STUDENTS

A CORRECTION

The figures given in our article in Monday's issue of THE VARSITY were misleading, inasmuch as they seemed to indicate a larger number of Class "A" men in attendance at the University than is the case.

In Class A there are 142 of military age and 130 under 20 years of age.

In Class B, viz., non-combatant services, there are 94 of military age and 115 under 20.

In Class C, viz., fit for home service only there are 129 of military age and 131 under 20.

In other words instead of 365 being liable for the draft, as stated on Monday, only 142 out of a total of 886 men examined or 16 per cent. of the entire male student body are eligible for Class A, and of military age.

LIEUT. L. T. HUTTON CLASS PRES. VICTORIA '15 KILLED IN ACTION

Has Distinguished Varsity Career
Won Intercollegiate Debating Championship

Lincoln G. Hutton, the President of the Class of '15 Victoria, has been killed in France on December 18, 1916, while acting as a bombing officer. Lieut. Hutton, who went over with the 99th (Windsor) Battalion, had had a most distinguished career at Varsity. Besides winning the intercollegiate debating championship, he graduated with honours in philosophy and special English and won the Governor-General's medal.

To his memory Mr. and Mrs. Hutton have established the Lincoln G. Hutton Scholarship. It is an annual scholarship of $50, open to Victoria students in all departments. The candidates are to write a series of essays, the subjects of which are to be announced in the spring and which will be handed in about the middle of October. A special committee has been appointed to draw up the conditions and an announcement will be made in a few weeks.

MR. F. A. MOURÉ GIVES FIRST ORGAN RECITAL

Yesterday afternoon the first organ recital of the year was given by Mr. F. A. Mouré at Convocation Hall. The programme, which was voted to be excellent, was as follows: (1) A Prelude and Fugue in G major by Johann Sebastian Bach. (2) A beautiful composition by Franz Liszt, "La Spasmodique." (3) Sonata No. 17 by Josef Rheinberger. (4) A Canticle by R. S. Halling, Organist of St. Bernard's Parish Church, Edinburgh. (5) A Rhapsody by Joseph Bennett, a French composer of the present generation who has served with the French army and has lately been giving recitals in the United States. Mr. Mouré may be congratulated on the success of the recital, which was very heartily appreciated by all present.

MAJOR T. W. MACDOWELL ELECTED HON. PRESIDENT OF VIC. LIT. SOCIETY

Won D.S.O. For Bravery at Desire Trench

Major Thain Wendell MacDowell, V.C., D.S.O., a 1915 graduate of Victoria College, was elected honorary president of the Victoria College Union Literary Society on Saturday night, in succession to Hon. J. J. McLaren. In November, 1916, his gallant conduct and great bravery at Desire Trench, won him the D.S.O. Later, when with two men he captured an enemy trench and more than thirty prisoners, fighting coolly and obdurately against great odds, he was awarded the Victoria Cross, Britain's most coveted reward for valor.

Now, when he is home on leave, suffering in hospital in Brockville of shell shock, his Alma Mater has delighted in honouring one of the bravest of her sons.

SUCCESSFUL SMOKER GIVEN BY SECOND YEAR SCIENCE TO FRESHMEN

Visitors Received a Warm Welcome

Freshmen Were Suspicious

The Smoker given by the second year science to the freshmen on Monday evening was a distinct success. It was held in the gym and there surely was considerable "smoke". The sophomores were out in full force and many of the third and fourth years also came to enjoy the proceedings. "Be on hand early," the invitation had read, but by 8 o'clock no freshmen were in sight. A deputation was therefore sent forth to find the missing guests and soon returned with a gang of very suspicious boys at their heels. Many of them must have been expecting a rough time, for they wore old clothes and slouchy hats! Really, the suspicious nature of the modern freshmen is deplorable. Where, oh where has he departed, that innocent and credulous youth who used to frequent our campus. Now, even when invited to a pink tea-party he comes prepared for trouble. We are grieved.

Accordingly, the invited ones were left out in the cold, being only admitted one at a time to be "introduced". The first guest was Hayman, a first year Civil, who was welcomed cordially. After being given the "glad mitt" and some smokes, he was taken to a rear chamber where he hung up his hat—and was incidentally searched for contraband of war. Thence to the reception room, whence he appeared all smiles, with his number on one cheek, "211" on the other, and a beautifully branded "FROSH" sign done in aniline on his forehead, to say nothing of a "Kaiser Bill" moustache of best lamp black. His compatriots followed in quick succession and were all given the same hearty welcome. The "glad hand" was promiscuous, good cheer flowed freely, and although we grieve to say that some of the verdant ones were found with cans of shoe polish in their possession (?) these were merely confiscated and their owners given an extra dab of brotherly love.

Everyone now repaired to the drill-room, where a fast game of basketball was played between picked teams of the first and second years. Mr. Hugh Rose of the third year acted as referee with his usual abandon (as his "auntie" says). The game ended amid hearty yells, the freshmen doing their bit nobly. The score of the game is still a matter of dispute.

Now the more serious part of the programme arrived and the guests were allowed to leave the room in squads of ten. Amusements in the form of running the gauntlet, torture-chamber and the "black hole of Calcutta" were generously provided for them. That they enjoyed them was quite evident from their smiles and grins after they had been "through". Now each was brought in turn before the Tribunal—the high court of enquiry who investigated their sins, past and present and future, and passed sentence on them. The punishments were carried out immediately and although most of the prisoners were "charged" with nothing worse than soda-water, a good shampoo with pop and city dairy cream was found to be very beneficial—and soothing.

CAPT. FORSTER ADDRESSED CLASSES I. AND II. AT ORGANIZATION MEETING

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT BOTH MEETINGS

MILITARY DISCIPLINE WAS SUBJECT OF HIS ADDRESS

The first parade of Class I (U.C. and Vic) fell in on Monday afternoon on the back campus. Lieuts.-Cols. Lang and Massey, Captains Forster and Wallace; and Lieut. Jamieson witnessed the line-up. The students were marshalled into a somewhat irregular line by Sergeant-Major Hunt. The parade then proceeded to the Medical building where Capt. Wallace introduced Capt. Forster, who gave an address on "Discipline".

"Military training," said Capt. Forster, "helps a man mentally, to act instantly and without question. Morally self-discipline is the fundamental principle of a moral life and helps him in the healthy outdoor exercise it affords. Military training will make you better men, and that is what Canada and the world needs most to-day. You should be thankful to the University for this opportunity and look on military training not as a duty, but a privilege."

"A body of men without discipline is a mob. You have heard speak of different species of discipline—the barracks-square discipline, inflicted by a fiery old sergeant-major; march discipline, trench discipline and fire discipline. These, however, are mature types of discipline. The recruit begins to learn the ordinary routine discipline as soon as he dons the King's uniform."

"Discipline means perfect obedience, punctuality, regularity subordination, accountability, absence of crime in a corps". To those in command of whatever rank he says "never be overbearing, never be harsh—be fair."

According to Capt. Forster, a spectator in an armoured on a military parade ground or in the presence of parading troops. The Corps is amenable to military law. "Military law is no laughing matter, but a stern fact. To-morrow you students will be soldiers and those not conforming with military discipline will be hauled up before the faculty for misdemeanour."

"Be proud of your corps. You will have the best instructors that can be got. You will belong to the Canadian Officers' Training Corps of the University of Toronto, and will wear its badges. This Corps has brought many honours to the University and each one here present ought to do all in his power to uphold the honour of this Corps."

Capt. Forster then read the list of honours that the members of the C.O.T.C. have won at the front—this list has already been published in THE VARSITY.

Capt. Wallace, O.C. Class I, then dismissed the parade with the announcement that the organization of the different squads would be posted on the order board in the rotunda of the Main Building. The parades of this Class will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays at 4.10 p.m. THE VARSITY has heard rumours that some of the first year had labs until 5 o'clock on Wednesdays. If this is the case they are advised to get in touch with the Registrar at once.

News of Our Student Soldiers

We are glad to record the success of two of our soldier boys from the faculty of Applied Science and Engineering who have won prizes for themselves and glory for their Alma Mater at the Canadian Training School in England in the persons of Lieut. Elliott S. G. Strath of '08 and Lieut. J. H. Rogers. The former won the Individual Championship Cup and came out head of the School during the course there in July. The class comprised several hundred officers and cadets taking officers' training courses there. Lieut. Strath, who was a captain in the C.M.R. depot at Hamilton, reverted to take this course. His mother, Mrs. J. A. Strath, lives at 102 Bedford Road. Lieut. J. H. Rogers, who went overseas with the 216th Battalion (Bantams) stood third in the list. He was a member of Class IT9 and was the 100 yard champion runner. His home is at 203 Dunn Avenue.

In the last list of winners of the Military Medal appears the name of Corporal W. P. Dale, a student in Applied Science with the class of 1917. Corporal Dale, who comes from Brampton, went overseas as a sapper with a Divisional Signallers Corps of the Engineers early in 1916 to Crowborough Camp, Sussex, and has been at the front for some time.

Lieut. H. G. Snell, who came down from Chatham to the Dental College with the class of 1919, has also won the Military Medal. He went overseas with the 67th (University) Battery, but afterwards transferred to a howitzer battery in France.

Mr. U. Macfarlane, an undergraduate of the School of Practical Science ITS, has enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps and will start training immediately.

HOURS OF DRILL

Class 1—University College and Victoria—Monday and Wednesday.
Class 2—Medical Faculty—Tuesday and Friday.
Class 3—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's—Tuesday and Thursday.
Classes will assemble at the Hart House gymnasium on the days stated, at 4 p.m.

Y.W.C.A. MEETING TO-MORROW

There will be a general meeting of the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday, 4 p.m. at the Women's Union, 85 St. George Street. Dr. Clarke, Superintendent of the General Hospital, will continue his lecture on "Social Evils". Each woman is expected to escort her freshies there.

By this time the guests were really beginning to believe that they were as welcome as the flowers in Spring, and their dark and unworthy suspicions of a "rough-house" faded away. The good "welcome" over, all returned to the drill room. Here a few heats of the famous School "chariot-race" were held between teams of the various years, in which the third year were easy winners. Mr. Harkins, the winner, rode his chariot with consummate grace and skill. College yells and a few speeches were intermingled with the sports and everybody voted it a jolly evening.

Last any of our gentle readers should misinterpret any of the foregoing and inconsistently mutter, "they're at it again", we would remind them that this was a function of the School—whose motto is "meekness and peaceableness". The evening had the full sanction of the Students' Council, even the after parade, so popular in former years, being withdrawn at their request.

More Compulsion!

Under Correspondence we publish another letter from "Arts '18". The tone, language and thought of this letter furnish the best possible answer to the arguments advanced; but there are a few impressions which we would like to correct.

All discussion by the students on THE VARSITY on the true idea behind the action of the Board of Governors is futile. All that can be done is to draw conclusions from the regulations which have been introduced. It will be noticed that a physical examination has been provided; that those who will be unable to drill will undertake physical exercises, and that competent physical instructors have been secured for those who do drill. A consideration of these three points led us to believe that the first aim of the Board of Governors was to make every undergraduate physically fit. We also are sorry that former students did not have the benefits of this course, but we will not be in a position to be sorry for "Arts '18" or the rest of the present students. As for the "thin edge of the wedge"—how about the Military Service Act, which the greater part, at any rate, of the country has accepted? The University is following not leading.

As to the second point of "Arts '18" we hasten to assure him that THE VARSITY is not in any deep scheme to ensnare and deceive the students in regard to exemptions. It seems that there was no official announcement of this provision, but it is a matter of general knowledge that a student can petition the Senate for exemption. We have yet to meet a student who did not know that he could, if he so desired, apply for exemption.

Lastly "Arts '18" again refers to what would happen if he refused to report. He does not stay with his question. We gave our answer last Monday—namely that we thought in the last resort the Government would support the University authorities. "Arts '18" now plunges into the question of whether this is right or wrong. We were not concerned with that, but since the point has been raised we are obliged to say that any man who refuses to drill three hours a week in such times as these, deserves to lose his year.

"The Varsity" Staff

For some time past a movement, whose aim has been to secure better representation of the women students on THE VARSITY Staff, has been in evidence. Nothing definite, however, has been accomplished until this session. Since the opening of this term negotiations have been carried on between the Student's Administrative Council and the Women's Students Council, and the result of these discussions was contained in last Monday's issue.

In this report it will have been seen that the women students on the Staff will now be placed on an equality with the men. In future there will be, in reality, two separate staffs. One of these, the ladies', will be responsible alone to the women's associate editor, who in turn will be responsible to the editor-in-chief. The other staff of course will be that of the men who as formerly will be responsible to the editor-in-chief. The women will have at their disposal at least three columns of THE VARSITY, for which their staff will in every way be responsible.

The Women's Student Council is to appoint the lady members of the Staff. THE VARSITY asks that, on behalf of everybody, these appointments be made at once. There are at present some of the women students who are working for THE VARSITY on a temporary basis. Under the circumstances they have done well—for we have had more ladies' news this year than formerly. But these students cannot be expected to keep up their work much longer, unless they have some assurance that they will either be retained or not accepted. Time, moreover, is fast going. This is the ninth issue and in the best interests of all concerned it is in every way advisable to have the lady section of the Staff quickly and finally organized.

THE VARSITY asks further, that the Women's Student Council give every possible consideration to the women at present working on THE VARSITY. They have had experience, they know what is required, and they are obtaining results—nearly three columns last issue. THE VARSITY asks that these students be given a good chance for making their present temporary positions secure. If this is done there will already have been attained the needed feeling of co-operation between the women and the men members of THE VARSITY Staff.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,
After reading "Arts '18's" communication in the Monday issue of THE VARSITY, we cannot help being struck by his ignoble point of view. It is perfectly obvious that he is personally anxious to shirk military drill, and the reasons he gives are, to say the least, absurd. In the first place, he considers regular drill "Kaiserly". We take no exception to this statement. As a matter of fact, the very regularity of military training is what we have always admired and extolled in the German system. While we condemn wholeheartedly the "Hun atrocities" we hear so much about, we are not on that account narrow-minded enough to condemn everything German. When the military discipline and splendid efficiency of the German army has made it possible for them to resist such powerful foes for three years, then surely their example is one to be followed conscientiously if we hope to win the war. And that is what we aim to do, without regard for personal convenience.

Furthermore, "Arts '18" considers that the co-eds are at an "advantage" in having the extra time to spend on their studies. This seems to us rather an uncharitable point of view, entirely apart from the fact that it is quite doubtful if the co-eds are so faithful in their studies as to devote their afternoons to them. Moreover, we have not heard our student soldiers, who have given two or three precious years out of their young lives to help win the war, complaining that those men who for their own reasons have remained at home are at an "advantage" in being able to pursue their college courses without any further inconvenience than three hours' drill weekly.

But there is no reason why the co-eds should have this "advantage" over the men. [We should like to give "Arts '18" a leather medal for using the word—"advantage." Personally, we had always rather considered ourselves at a disadvantage in this respect.] It does seem unjust that girls who have proved themselves equal to taking men's places on the farm and in factories and offices should not have the same privileges as men in the matter of really efficient physical drill. Such drill would be of value in different ways. For one thing, it would keep the girls physically fit for the heavy work they take up in the summer. Moreover, if it became necessary or advisable for Canadian women to join the British Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, which is at present pouring women into France at the rate of ten thousand a month to undertake every department of military service not actually on the firing line, then we should have several hundred women of fine intelligence, in splendid physical condition, and fully accustomed to military orders ready to set out immediately. The day is past when the girls are satisfied with such an inactive share in the war as knitting socks and giving up their little gaieties. They are ready and eager to sacrifice their time and energy in proving themselves worthy of being the sisters and sweethearts of the men on the firing line.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,
I was pleased to note that my letter on compulsory drill, led THE VARSITY to discuss this subject. However, there are a few things which might be criticized in your editorial reply.

In the discussion of the true idea that prompted the introduction of this system, you say, "we feel, however, that the action

VICTORIA COLLEGE
ATHLETIC CLUB HOLDS
OPENING MEETINGPresident Appeals for Support in College Games

The Victoria College Athletic Club held its opening meeting in Amesley Hall gymnasium at 430 on Friday afternoon, October 12th. The gymnasium had been appropriately decorated with pennants and autumn leaves, and cushions were provided to sit on. The President, Miss Lida Pearson, addressed the meeting in an enthusiastic appeal for all—especially the first year girls—to get into the games and support the college sports. Miss A. Hamill the honorary president, was present, and spoke of the benefit of athletics to each girl who would throw herself into them. She also bespoke for the first teams the solid backing and loyal support of every girl in the college. Miss Hamill was heartily applauded. She having been one of the best sports the College ever had. An interesting programme of music was provided. The hockey and basketball captains, in costume, recited together an ardent plea in original verse for recruits for their teams. "Eats" and the usual yells concluded a very successful meeting.

FRESHETTES ENJOY
RECEPTION GIVEN BY VIC.
GIRLS OF THIRD YEARPaper Chase Transformed by Weather to Indoor Track Meet

On Saturday afternoon, October 13, the girls of '19 Victoria entertained the freshettes to a would-be paper chase which, owing to the inclement weather, was transformed at the eleventh hour into an indoor track meet at the Students' Union. The girls of '21 arrived in buoyant spirits and spent a hilarious afternoon in games and tests of skill. Clever charades brought shouts of laughter and exhibited considerable originality. Then steaming coffee and winners and buns were brought in, while all gathered cozily around the grate fire. The party broke up with juniors and freshies feeling almost well acquainted and both looking forward to closer friendship as the term goes on.

of the Board of Governors was caused primarily by a sincere desire to increase the physical fitness of every undergraduate. How sincerely sorry I feel for all the graduates of U. of T. who have missed the kindly thoughtfulness of the Board of Governors in this way. Poor boys, no doubt, handicapped for life. The true idea, I believe, behind any system of this kind is to engender the military spirit. They think if the educated class will take it up, then the workman can sooner or later be forced into accepting military training. It is nought but the thin edge of the wedge.

The second point, where you speak of exemption having been provided for those who need such, is a good point. But in my reading of THE VARSITY until yesterday's issue, this fact was never mentioned. Thus the purpose of my letter has been fulfilled. If THE VARSITY knew about this exemption, why was the information withheld? Why was it not given to the students?

The third question raised is what would the Authorities do if anyone should refuse to be tyrannized? Your answer is that it is a state institution, and "the Government would no doubt lend its hearty support to the Board of Governors". Now we have it, majorities are always right, governments cannot err, "I am Sir Oracle, when I ope my mouth let no dog bark". The Government of Germany "lent its hearty support" in the murder of Edith Cavell; hence it must have been right. The Government of Turkey "lent its hearty support" to the Armenian massacres, thus the ends of righteousness must have been served. The University "will prevent men from securing their degree" if they do not drill, if I obtain the education, they can have their degree.

COMMERCE AND FINANCE ORGANIZE FOR THIS YEAR

The meeting of the C. & F. Club for the purpose of organization for the present session was held Monday afternoon in spite of the small registration in this course it was unanimously decided that the activities of the Club should be carried on as usual this year. A special feature of the work this term and next will be the holding of luncheons at which prominent business men will address the members. Owing to the small number of members, the Political Economy Club will, in all likelihood, co-operate with their sister club to make these luncheons a success both in point of number and of interest. The usual membership fee of fifty cents has finally been decided upon for entrance into the club and to the privileges thereof. Nominations and elections were held, the following being elected to office.

Hon. President Prof. M. A. Mackenzie.
President, E. J. Horning (Acl).
Vice-President, R. W. Wilkinson (Acl).
Secretary, H. H. Ratcliffe (Acl).
Treasurer, R. B. West.
First Year Rep. W. C. McTavish.
1st Year Rep. Messrs. Hall and Little.

PROF. CORSAN WILL GIVE SWIMMING EXHIBITION TO-MORROW FOR WOMEN

Professor Corsan will give a swimming exhibition in the Household Science Building on Thursday afternoon at 4.30. It is understood that this is to be the only exhibition this year and a large crowd should be in attendance. Professor Corsan will have as assistants, three of his pupils, the Misses Harvey, who will demonstrate the advantages of the Australian crawl. Fifty-seven different forms of swimming will be shown, every one of which can be acquired by a student before the end of the term.

Ladies make use of your opportunities. Once you have finished your college course the chances are that you will never learn how to swim. There is at your disposal a fine gymnasium, a spacious tank and a wonderful instructor who will devote plenty of time to you. Out of the 250,000 Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. pupils, Professor Corsan has taught, there has not been one death from drowning. Before the incoming students have finished their course it will be compulsory for them to take a course in swimming instruction and if the authorities deem it wise to place swimming on the curriculum, the students now in attendance should realize the responsibility they are accepting by not learning how to swim.

As regards the programme for the year, there will be a class for ladies every afternoon except Monday and Saturday in the Household Science Building. Owing to reconstruction, the tank in the men's gym will not be in use for some time, but as soon as the work is complete the men's classes will be held every afternoon.

THIRD ROUND OF LADIES' TENNIS TOURNAMENT WAS EXCITING

Victoria College Players to Contest Final Games

The third round of the ladies' tennis singles furnished some very excellent play, especially the game between the Misses Myers and Jenner. It was to decide who should enter the finals, and each player played with great enthusiasm.

There was very little to choose between them, but Miss Myers finally won out 7-5, 8-6. Miss Brown, the last representative of U.C., went down to defeat to Miss Flanders. The deciding games are between players from Victoria.

Flanders defeated Brown 6-0, 6-4.
Crosley defeated Smith 6-2, 6-4.
Myers defeated Jenner 7-5, 8-6.

Doubles.

J. Smith and D. Smith defeated Chant and Bristol, 6-1, 6-0.
Flanders and Edington defeated Chambers and Brown, 6-1, 6-3.

Jenner and Myers defeated McPherson and Graham, 6-4, 6-1.

Singles—Finals.

Doubles—Finals.

Jenner and Myers v. Winners of J. Smith, D. Smith and Flanders, Edington game.

Cornell—Fall practice for the Cornell track team has started in earnest, Coach John Moakley putting his runners, jumpers, hurdlers and weight men through daily work on Schoellkopf Field. There are more than 100 out for the Cornell track team, but veterans are scarce in all branches of the sport.

The Query Box

Q. Is THE VARSITY censured by the Students' Administrative Council, by the faculty or by the President?—M.J.F.
A. THE VARSITY is censured by the editor-in-chief.

Q. Why are the fair sex now occupying part of the library which was previously occupied by the male students?—A.J.M.

A. The section of the library building that the fair sex used has been given over to the Hospitals Supply Association for Red Cross work. Read THE VARSITY of October 1.

Q. Why is the swimming tank not filled with water in order that the students may avail themselves of the odd dip?

A. At present there is a leak in the tank and the authorities are contemplating making extensive repairs on it. The repairs will consist of a cement floor around the tank instead of the wooden one which is there at present.

Q. Is the new military organization of the University a militia unit? If so, does not a student, by enrolling in it, give up his opportunity of applying for exemption from the Military Service Act?

A. The new military organization of the U. of T. is not a militia unit. Therefore a student by enrolling in it does not give up his opportunity of applying for exemption from the Military Service Act.

Q. If a student is granted exemption by a Military Service tribunal are the University authorities willing to grant exemption from their military organization on the same reasons?

A. Whether a student is granted exemption by a Military Service tribunal or not he must be examined at the gymnasium and comply in some form or other with the requests of the University military authorities according to his physical fitness.

St. Hilda's

On Saturday, October 13, the executive of the Y.W.C.A., several prominent workers of the Association and a number of student members of the College went to Oakville for a week-end conference. This was held at Chisholm Bungalow which during the summer months was used as a farming camp for the national service workers. Surrounded by a beautiful maple grove and with an outlook over the broad expanse of Lake Ontario an ideal spot was here found.

On Saturday afternoon the gathering was addressed by Dr. Allan, the Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, who is now home on furlough from India. In a very interesting manner she sketched the growth of the movement from its beginning up to the present day. She expressed regret that there were so few student volunteers at this time and laid the blame for this state of affairs on the lack of spirituality either in the church or in the individual life.

In the evening Prof. Cosgrave of Trinity College, in an informal talk dealt with the subject of Prayer. He dwelt on the inefficiency of that prayer which is merely spoken and not felt. In speaking of the benefits of silent Communion he told of the Fellowship movement which has lately sprung up in the city to meet the call for better opportunities for real prayer. The remainder of the evening was spent around the fireplace in games and music.

On Sunday afternoon, Prof. Hooke of Victoria College led an enthusiastic discussion on the necessary attributes of the true Christian. He has a happy way of getting at the root of difficult problems and is always ready with a satisfactory answer for perplexed inquirers.

In the evening Miss Cartwright took charge of the devotional service; here she laid stress on the necessity for the Christian to perform the duty which lay near at hand. Miss Anderson who has been engaged in mission work in Ceylon gave some interesting accounts of her life in India. Later Miss Mackay, to whom the success of the conference is mainly due, gave some very helpful suggestions for the future work of the Y.W.C.A.

MEDICAL SECTION ATTENDED FIRST PARADE YESTERDAY

The Medical Section, Class II, held their first meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Medical Building in conjunction with Class III. Both classes formed up on the back campus at 4 o'clock and marched to the Medical building, where they were given a lecture bearing mainly on discipline and on the honour brought to the University by other men, which these classes would have to live up to. Attestation cards were distributed amongst the men and the meeting was brought to a closed.

NO DETAILS YET REGARDING POST GRADUATE ENROLLMENT

Inquiry at the Registrar's office regarding the number of students taking post-graduate work revealed the following facts. Enrollment in post-graduate work will not be completed until October 20, and many students who are desirous of taking post-graduate work now may find that they cannot take the work. Therefore any figures given now of the enrollment would be very far from the actual total.

Yale—The uncertainty which has hung over Yale football was dispelled Wednesday by the definite announcement that freshman games would be arranged with Harvard and Princeton.

How best to Serve

Every Canadian can help in the successful application of the Military Service Act

THE Military Service Act is the law of the land. It will be enforced sincerely and with firmness, but fairly. Reinforcements to be raised are limited to 100,000 men, who are being selected by the country, not by the military authority.
Military control does not start until these men are chosen.

The Men Called Can Help

The first call is for men between the ages of 20 and 34 inclusive, who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6, 1917. All these men should go immediately before a Medical Board in this district for examination as to physical fitness. If they are not placed in the Medical Category A., their present obligation ceases. If found physically fit and placed in Category A., they should, immediately after the issue of the proclamation calling out the first class, visit the nearest post office and report for service on a printed form supplied. If reasonable ground for claiming exemption exists, an exemption form may be obtained from the Postmaster, and filled out. The Postmaster will forward this form to the Registrar appointed for the district, and the man seeking exemption will then be advised by mail when and where he should appear before an Exemption Board to have his case taken up.

The Employer's Part

Employers will find it to their advantage to see that all the men in their employ who are in the first class under the Military Service Act appear as soon as possible before a Medical Board for examination. Should an employer desire exemption for any one of his men who is found physically fit, he may seek it on the following grounds:

- (1) that the national interest demands that a man be left at his work rather than placed in military service.
- (2) that, instead of doing military service, a man should be used in work for which he has special qualifications.
- (3) that it is expedient in the national interest that instead of being employed in Military Service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated or trained.

Duty of Parent or Near Relative

Parents or near relatives of men in the class called may apply for their exemption on the above grounds or because of some special domestic reasons. In this, as in other cases, delay is a grave mistake.

I Hear They Want More!

More What?

More hospital trains, hospitals, ships, ambulances, rest stations, store depots, and equipment and supplies of all kinds for the saving and healing of our soldier boys across the seas.

It now costs $300,000.00 a week to carry on the work of the British Red Cross, or $16,000,000.00 a year. Every minute of the day and night it costs $30 to minister to the sick and wounded and dying. We in Canada are going to help carry on this life-saving work for another year. Last year we did well, but this year we must do better, because the

Need is Greater

The people of Canada have over $900,000,000 in the savings banks at 3 per cent. You can spare some of these savings for such a cause. The lives of our boys are surely worth YOUR sacrifice.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN EXTENDED AN ADDITIONAL DAY TWO-FIFTHS OF AMOUNT DESIRED STILL UNSUBSCRIBED---$1,191.15 WANTED

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY IS GIVEN TO THOSE WHO HAVE NOT YET CONTRIBUTED

The Red Cross Campaign to raise $3,000 amongst the students, as is announced elsewhere, has been extended one more day to-day. Up to going to press, only partial returns have been received, but these indicate that Varsity has not received its pledge to raise $3,000. Only three-fifths have been collected, and yet the call is urgent. "The wounded are looking to you."

From the figures given below, it can be seen that faculties with the least registration have responded best. Pharmacy has an enrolment of 63, but has contributed $112. Trinity, with 20 students, has given the magnificent sum of $54.60.

Although the women students are far outnumbered by the men, they have given much more liberally. Why this is so must remain unexplained, but such used not to be the case.

Besides there is that amount of unclassified contributions, $100, which gives a false idea as to the total. This sum was not contributed by the students, although included in the returns.

Two years ago, this University raised $3,400 for this very purpose—to help the British Red Cross. To-day, there are more wounded, there are a hundred other calls for help along the battlefield, that must be met. It remains for those at home to finance this most worthy cause. The British Red Cross is 98 per cent efficient, only the remaining small percentage is being spent for organization expenses. No one can raise objection to the purpose. What will the men at the front say at our defeat? Come on, rally round the standard. Give to the Red Cross, for the need this year is greater than ever.

Appended is a list of the contributions received from the various faculties.

Re EXEMPTION

An enquiry at the Registrar's office elicited the information that at present there is no recognized basis on which a student may get exemption from drill except physical unfitness. At a recent meeting of the Senate a military committee was formed which is to deal with all matters concerning drill. This committee has not yet met and so naturally nothing definite regarding exemption can be stated. Any student who feels his case merits consideration may petition the Senate in the time honoured way through the Registrar's office.

At the time of going to press, the students have fallen $1,191.15 below the mark set by their own campaign committee.

The Committee cannot accept this report as final. Many students must have refused to stand behind their pals and friends, who are making the greatest sacrifices—"over there."

The canvassers will make a last appeal to-day. Will you slip forward and fill the breach?

FORESTRY FACULTY HAS GIVEN A GREAT MANY GRADUATES TO EMPIRE

Newest Faculty of University Has Done Best of All

Toronto University as a whole has done marvellously well in the number of enlisted men, either graduates or undergraduates, but no faculty has done so well in percentage as the newest faculty of all, Forestry. Nearly every one of the graduates for the last three years is now serving the Empire in some branch of the service. The men who did not go had only one reason, physical unfitness. Of the undergraduates, the species has become extinct, except for the freshmen, and even they have contracted the habit of staying just long enough to get the faculty spirit—then they enlist.

Although established only in 1906, the Faculty of Forestry was becoming very popular and its annual attendance would soon have reached the hundred mark, when the war interfered. Now to meet a Forestry Soph coming in on a suburban or radial car from a day's work, with his calipers, height measures, and sundry paraphernalia, is a rare event.

Twelve men have made the supreme sacrifice, while twelve have been either wounded, gassed, or suffered from shell shock. Two are prisoners, one in Turkey and one in Germany.

The sixty-five men who enlisted are divided in rank as follows, at least as far as is at present known:

Captains	4
Lieutenants	29
N.C.O.'s	8
Privates	24

The great majority of the men did not enlist in the Forestry Corps, in fact only a few have done so, because many had gone over long before it was organized, as well as because it was a non-combatant battalion, a forester preferring to fight rather than work any day.

Extract from letter received from Capt. W. N. Miller, Tenth Engineers (Forest), American Expeditionary Force, and Professor of Forestry, University of Toronto:

"After nearly a month at sea, including a long stay, aboard ship, in one of your Atlantic ports, whose name is not to be mentioned, I arrived at another nameless port in Scotland, which you reach by a narrow river—lined on both sides by men and women, both sexes wearing trousers, and all equally crazy with enthusiasm over the first U.S. troops they had seen. Never saw such a crazy crowd in all my life; you could hardly chase the women off with rifles when we landed."

ENGINEERING SOCIETY HELD FIRST MEETING

Prof. Wright Gives Address

The first meeting of the Engineering Society in the Faculty of Applied Science was held in the C. & M. building on Wednesday, October 17 at 4 p.m. The president, C. E. MacDonald, opened with a short, but impressive speech. He trusted that the lack in numbers would be made up in college "spirit". Mr. MacDonald has returned from the front and knows how welcome it is to find that same University spirit abroad. D. K. C. Strathearn, treasurer, presented the financial statement of the Society as audited by W. S. Ferguson for the year 1916-17.

The officer for recording secretary, being left open by the absence of Mr. A. A. Rose, 270, a vote was taken and Mr. Dingman elected by acclamation.

Prof. C. H. C. Wright in a characteristic "School" speech, urged upon the men their duty of becoming more efficient engineers during the coming year. He touched on the possibilities of military service, on the military training required this year by the Board of Governors and the somewhat unfair criticism it has received by some "who are evidently not in touch with conditions in sister universities". He appealed to all to give their hearty support to the Engineering Society. "It's yours—patronize it all you can". On behalf of the Society he extended a warm welcome to the five returned men registered in Science—Messrs. MacDonald, Johnston, Fraser, Mendizabel and Cowan.

The Electrical and Mechanical Club met for a few minutes to discuss the resignation of Mr. E. W. McLeod, elected President last March, who has not yet returned, owing to illness. His resignation was accepted, and the election of a new president postponed till next Monday, October 22.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB STARTS ITS 36th YEAR

Professor Squair, the Founder, Addresses the Members

The first meeting of the Club took place on Wednesday last at the home of Professor Squair. A large gathering testified to the popularity of this organization.

Professor Clawson, the Honorary President, spoke a few words of welcome and encouragement to the members, exhorting them to take an active part in fulfilling the intellectual aspirations of the Club. The President, Miss Dorothy MacMillan, then welcomed those present and reiterated the plan of study mapped out for the year's work.

Later in the evening Professor Squair entertained the members with an interesting outline of the history and development of the club through the thirty-five years of its existence.

Miss Margaret McCoy charmed those present with the wistful strains of the Hawaiian guitar. She also gave a delightful vocal selection.

A real treat was afforded when Mr. Holt most kindly consented to give several piano selections. They were keenly appreciated.

The evening concluded with refreshments and an opportunity was given for social intercourse.

Y.M.C.A. RECEPTION TO SCIENCE MEN WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Meeting was Addressed by Mr. MacLachlan OT6

The Y.M.C.A. reception to all years in Applied Science was held on Wednesday evening and proved very interesting. Among these present were Dean Ellis, Mr. W. MacLachlan, B.A.Sc., Prof. Angus and Prof. Price. Before the programme started everyone had a good singing while Mr. J. J. Weicker officiated at the piano. Then Mr. W. T. Wootton president of the executive, took the chair and the programme opened by singing "God Save the King" followed by a snappy "Toronto" yell. C. K. Duff rendered an excellent violin solo after which Dean Ellis gave a short speech of welcome. The Dean spoke of the material laws and forces governing matter, which form the greatest part of science study, and then went on to remind us of the unseen and unmeasurable spiritual forces, which are nevertheless so vital to our welfare.

Mr. Moore who very kindly came over from Victoria College to help entertain, gave a humorous sketch on "The Charge of the Light Brigade", which won hearty applause and encore. Prof. Price next gave a short address of welcome and good advice, after which he introduced the speaker of the evening Mr. W. MacLachlan.

Mr. MacLachlan is a Science graduate of OT6 and was greeted with his old year yell and a rousing Toke-Oike. He has the honour of being one of the originators of the Electrical Club, still active in the School. His address was "The Engineer's Place in this War". He began by pointing out that an engineer's study must be divided into two phases. First he must learn to use the forces of nature to assist him in his designs and problems, according to the branch of engineering he is engaged in. Secondly he must learn to deal with men. The speaker laid great emphasis on the latter point, showing how necessary it was that the successful engineer should know the psychology of the labourer.

"And the sooner you learn that the better," said Mr. MacLachlan. Also, the University has much to offer outside the classroom, in sports, exchange of ideas with other men, etc. He added a warning that college does not TEACH engineering. It just fits a man. As the tool must be sharpened before it can do its work in the lathe, so must the student's brain be fitted in the School to help him when the real problems come.

He then went on to speak of the war—a war of engineering. The British engineer must dig trenches, build bridges, supply water, construct telephone and telegraph lines, etc. It is significant that sixty per cent. of the first Canadian contingent were engineers. The private in the Engineers—known as a sapper—is too valuable a man to put in the firing line and is often given control of from 50 to 200 men whose officers get their instructions from him. Yet in rank and pay he is not equal to the junior lieutenant. Many of these sappers are University men. This problem, of giving the engineer the recognition he deserves is one of many handled by the Joint Society of Technical Organizations, of which Mr. MacLachlan is secretary.

Until last fall, separate societies had been working alone, but in December 1916 a joint committee was formed to look after the interests of engineering connected with the war. They assist the Canadian Engineers to secure efficient recruits, and look into inventions which may prove of service to the military authorities. They also work with the Honorary Advisory Council of the Research Committee to assist manufacturers with their problems. Over 8,000 such problems have been handled in Ontario. The re-education of returned soldiers is also a part of the Society's work. They aim to get these men to realise that they can and must "carry on" in the future without "orders"; to get them interested once again and assist them to get jobs.

Referring to those present, Mr. MacLachlan said, "What You can do is a question". He urged them to decide on that which would be of greatest national service. Those outside of the present class of drafted men he urged to go into the Engineers as sappers—not to try for

PHARMACY FACULTY ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the O.C.P. students on Monday, October 15, at which Dean Heblner presided. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

Hon. President: Dean Heblner.
Hon. Vice-Presidents: Miss Dewar, Miss Dockrill, Dr. M. Genevieve, Miss Harden, Dr. M. Maurus, Miss Muldoon, Miss Titus.
President: G. C. Smith.
Vice-President: R. N. Jenkins.
Secretary: J. C. Bricker.
Treasurer: G. S. Moir.
Committee: P. Cochrane, E. M. Crosthwaith, J. E. Dean, J. E. McIlwraith, A. S. Wood.

Representative to Students' Administrative Council: L. Bradshaw.
Correspondent to THE VARSITY: H. G. Sargent.

Y.M.C.A. WILL HOLD RECEPTION FOR VETS.

Eh what? You are going to the big "Y" reception on Tuesday, October 23 at 7:45 p.m.? Well I think so! Every Vet is Every Freshman's. Are n't you? Of course you are!

The big time will be held in the "Y" building near College Street on University Crescent. A very prominent speaker is to be secured who will give you a mighty fine half-hour's talk. Watch bulletin boards for his name.

Come and get acquainted with your own men, have a good time, enjoy good music, games, etc., and last, but not least, EATS. The "Y" is interested in you, fellows, and we want to make you feel at home, that you have a friend in the "Y" and that you need not be lonesome. Let us help you make University life more pleasant for you. Be sure to come!

UNIVERSITY SERMON

Rev. Thos. Eakin, Ph.D., Pastor of St. Andrews Church, King Street, Toronto, will preach the University Sermon in Convocation Hall on Sunday, October 21st, 1917.

commissions in the infantry. Miners, electrical and mechanical men and chemists are in great demand. He made a strong appeal to everyone not to forget the great sacrifice being made by others, and not to waste time when men were so greatly needed. In conclusion he gave the following lines:

"This is the word, that, year by year—
While in her place this School is set—
Everyone of you men must hear,
And none that hear it dare forget;
This we all, with a cheerful mind,
Bear through life with heart in flame,
And falling, fling to the host behind,
'Play up, play up and play the Game!'"

When the applause had died away, Mr. Moore sang two fine solos, after which Prof. Angus gave a short speech. He urged the engineer to take an active interest in public affairs and get in touch with men.

The crowd then mixed up and enjoyed themselves with songs and abundant refreshments, during which a "flash" picture was taken.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB HELD FIRST MEETING ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Election of Officers Took Place Excepting First Year Councillors

The first meeting of the Biological Club, held Tuesday night, was a great success. Miss B. K. E. Mossop, B.A., the chief speaker, gave a very entertaining illustrated talk on "A Summer's Work at the Marine Biological Station, St. Andrews." After this, refreshments were served and all present enjoyed this social side of the club life even more than in previous years.

During the evening the election of officers for the year took place, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President: Dr. Clemens.
President: Mr. Quinn.
Vice-President: Miss Cook.
Acting Secretary (pro tem): Mr. Stone.

COUNCILLORS:

4th Year: Mr. Morris.
3rd Year: Miss Bawden.
2nd Year: Mr. Switzer.

The first year are entitled to two councillors who will be elected in the near future. All first year students who take biology, no matter what faculty they are registered in, should not miss the opportunity, that the club provides, of learning the economic importance of biology, and also the general principles. Medical students will find as much or more to interest them in this club than Arts students. The club will meet fortnightly on Tuesday nights.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Second Lieut. M. A. D. Davis, 9th K.R.R.C., France, was wounded on September 5, at Ypres, and his right leg has been amputated. He received the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry while in the front trenches. He is in a Convalescent Hospital in Manchester. Lieut. Davis is a 1915 graduate of Victoria.

Lieut. W. J. T. Wright, B.A.Sc., 1911, the first officer commanding the 67th Battery, and a brother of Professor C. H. C. Wright, of the Department of Architecture, has been transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and is now acting as intelligence officer of the 1st Canadian Squadron, R.F.C., B.E.F. Lieut. Wright went overseas with a draft from the 67th Battery and had been serving in France with No. 1 Canadian Railway Battalion.

The men in the trenches are well looked after in the matter of medical treatment, but the need for dentists is shown by the efforts of a Toronto boy, Gar. Victor Speer, son of Rev. Dr. J. C. Speer, to carry on a little needed dentistry when his fellow gunners have a spell off the guns. His appliances were captured from the Germans, which shows that they are looking after the dental needs of troops at the front, while the Canadians are without such attention.

Victor Douglas Speer finished his second year in the R.C.D.S. in the spring of 1916, and immediately enlisted in the University Battery, and on the 15th of June left Toronto for overseas. He trained in England until November, when he, having passed his examinations as gunner, was sent forward to the firing line in France. He was wounded on November 10, and in ten days he was back again on the line of battle, where he has remained ever since. He has had his full part of the hardships incident to a winter on the western front.

Some time last spring, the Germans having been driven back, the boys secured a German Red Cross dugout, in which they found, among other things left behind, a complete set of dental instruments. It was evident that right on the edge of battle the enemy was busy keeping the men efficient and free from the malady of "trench-mouth" and tooth-ache. Gar. Speer at once purchased the instruments and since then he has gained quite a reputation as a dental surgeon among the boys. Of course his work is all done without any fee or reward, save the joy of being able to relieve the comrade of untold agony, and thus add to the efficiency of his battery. His time is taken from his regular rest, and often from his hours of sleep, but that is the spirit of the army.

Wanted, $1,000!

"Varsity has fallen down in the Red Cross Campaign."

This is the report of the organizer for the campaign in the University. It was the aim of the two Councils to secure three thousand dollars from the students in three days. The desired goal has not been reached. Varsity is over eleven hundred dollars behind. What are we going to do about it?

The campaign has been extended another day, and the goal is that other eleven hundred dollars. Three thousand dollars means an average of a dollar to a student. Somebody is behind. What are we going to do about it?

GET THAT $1,000!

A Suggestion

After to-day's issue there is a possibility that no more letters on "Compulsory Drill" will be published, and certainly after Monday's issue no more will be published. The anti-drillers have evidently run out of "arguments", and all that we hear now is a rehash of statements which have already been made.

We are perfectly aware that our stand on the question of compulsory drill has aroused the opposition of a large number of students. The criticisms which have been advanced through the columns of THE VARSITY, and the "strafing" to which we have been subjected personally have not, however, changed our attitude in the slightest degree—and will not change it. We believe our position to be the right one, but, at the same time, we are open to receive reasonable argument. Outside pressure, similar to that which we have received of late, however, will have absolutely no effect. We have been placed in a responsible position by the Students' Administrative Council, and as long as we retain that position we intend to express our opinion freely.

We imagine that our action in closing the discussion in these columns will be classed, in some quarters, as arbitrary; and there will be further complaints of Prussianism. Accordingly we hasten to offer a suggestion. There has been constituted an Advisory Board to direct the policy of THE VARSITY. Now we suggest that those not satisfied with the editorial policy of THE VARSITY be given the opportunity, by the Students' Administrative Council and the Women's Student's Council, to appear before this Board, and to present their criticisms openly. If this opportunity is given, and discontented students do not accept it, we shall know how to class them.

In the meantime drilling has begun, and all the discussion has accomplished nothing as far as changing the military regulations is concerned. All that has resulted is that the student body has received a real awakening—which is good; that some people have lost their heads—which is bad; and that we have nearly contracted writer's cramp—which is sad.

THE VARSITY still favours compulsory drill. That is our last word.

Well Done, School!

We read with interest the account of the School "Smoker". Enquiries which we have made into the affair have heightened our interest.

From all accounts it must have been a most satisfactory evening. It seems that all present lent a willing hand to help solve the problem presented—how to tame a freshman?—and a solution was finally obtained. That is, as it should be. Some of the scenes may have been rather striking, and others very touching, still all was taken in good humour. No harm was done. A unity reigns between Fresh and Sophs. And the consent of the Students' Council was obtained.

Well done, School!

A CORRECTION.

The sentence reading, "All discussion by the students on THE VARSITY . . ." in Wednesday's editorial, should have read, "All discussion by the students of THE VARSITY . . ."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Good morning, how do you like your Sergeant Instructor?

What has become of the Mulock Cup Series? Shell-shocked, perhaps.

We are going to purchase a large waste paper basket soon.

Well, the Students' Directory for 1917-18 will make a nice Christmas gift, anyhow—perhaps.

The Query Box is for the convenience of all students. Make use of it frequently.

It has taken us three weeks to arrange our time-table. What a time the Registrar must have when he has to set a time-table for everybody.

We may say for "Arts '18" that he has applied for enlistment on more than one occasion and has been rejected. He has again been rejected, on account of physical condition, under the Military Service Act.

We acknowledge letters from "Arts '20", "Returned" and "Med 1". In regard to the question of "Med 1"—by enrolling in the C.O.T.C. you will not run any chance of being sent overseas.

I.C.D.U. HELD MEETING AND DEBATING WILL START AT EARLY DATE

Seven Faculties Have Signified Intention of Taking Part

A meeting of the I.C.D.U. was held at St. Michael's College yesterday, when the following colleges signified their intention of competing in debates this year, Victoria, Wycliffe, S.P.S., McMaster, Osgoode, Trinity and St. Michaels. Debates will begin as soon as possible and teams were grouped as follows. McMaster v. Wycliffe, Trinity v. Osgoode, St. Michael's v. S.P.S., Victoria drawing the bye. The first-named college in each group is requested to have two subjects to submit to its opponent at the next meeting to be held at St. Michael's College, Friday, October 19th at 5 p.m. The second-named will have the choice of these subjects. All representatives are requested to attend this important meeting.

AMERICAN STUDENTS!

According to a statement made yesterday by Mr. Chester W. Martin, American Consul, American citizens now living in Canada are not subject to being drafted into either the American or the Canadian Army. They escape the Canadian army by not being British subjects, while no provision has yet been made to find places for them with the United States forces. If, however, an American resident in Canada goes back to the States, even for an hour, he becomes subject to registration, and, unless he avoids the regulations, must secure a passport to get back to Canada. If he chooses to remain in Canada for the period of the war, without going back to register, there is no penalty provided, and it is not regarded that he has evaded service. Up to date some 1,200 Americans living in the city have registered through Mr. Martin, and by doing this they placed themselves subject to draft and must report for service when called or be listed as deserters. An American subject who has lived in Canada and has not registered in the States can be signed on with the Canadian forces, but a registered American subject who enlists with the Canadian army may be listed as a deserter if he is later on called to the American colors.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

CORRESPONDENCE

PRO

To the Editor of THE VARSITY

Dear Sir,

I have read with interest and not a little amusement the communications in your recent issues over the signature of "Arts '18". Your dignified and patriotic rejoinder thereto needs no commendation from me; it seems unfortunate that such sentiments as those of "Arts '18" should find even isolated expression on this side the Ottawa river. It is to be hoped that "Arts '18" will leave Varsity next June with his education and his degree, one and indivisible, supplemented with a working knowledge of some of the rudiments of good citizenship and public spirit.

The brief discussion upon the issue he has raised, has incidentally led to a phase I should like to amplify a little if I may, viz., the matter of exemptions. I think that it would have been a graceful and considerate act on the part of the framers and promulgators of the regulation in respect to military service, to have expressly exempted at the outset all men who have performed military service since the outbreak of the war. The soldier's life at the best, is one of vicissitudes, perplexities, vexations and disappointments, as well as dangers. His patience is sorely tried during his career on service and afterwards. When he resumes, or attempts to resume his civilian pursuits, he does not expect to be pampered on the one hand, nor to be harassed and annoyed unnecessarily on the other. If he seems to anticipate special consideration on account of his service, he may be only expecting what is his due. When without any solicitation on his part he was guaranteed standing in his academic year upon his departure for active service, he naturally resents it considered, though possibly well meaning attempts to modify or rescind that guarantee upon his return to Varsity. When he has been through a trying campaign on active service, he is inclined to view as a rather unpractical joke the proposal to teach him military drill. Nor does the prospect of instituting an involved course of petitions and appeals in regard to either of the foregoing matters mitigate the petty humiliation which he feels to have been gratuitously laid upon him. During his military life he has learned how truly "red tape" is a good servant but a bad master, he is, to say the least, annoyed when he finds that it still dogs his footsteps.

The attitude of the Varsity, however, to the Department of Military Instruction is most heartily commended and supported by the intelligent and discerning student body of the whole University. Their hearts are all in the right place. They will show it by their acts.

OMICRON (Also Arts '18).

[We note your contention that returned soldiers should not have to take drill at the University; and we heartily agree with you. We enquired at the Registrar's office, but no regulation has been made on this point. We advise you to call and see the Registrar.—Ed.]

The annual reception to the members of Newman Club, will be held at 8.30 this evening in the Club Rooms at 97 St. Joseph Street.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,

I read with great interest the letter in Monday's issue regarding compulsory drill in the University, and am entirely of the opinion of your correspondent on that subject.

The regulation seems to have been put through in a very high and mighty way; no announcement being made except in the Arts calendar, and the whole thing suddenly sprung on us at the last moment.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD

Entries to be Made Before 6 p.m. on Saturday Next

The University Tennis Executive met yesterday afternoon and decided that a tennis tournament should be held. Men of all faculties are invited to contest and make the tournament a success. Entries must notify any of the following before 6 p.m., Saturday, October 20:

T. A. Reed, Coll. 244.
J. A. Dickson, Coll. 6303.
D. J. Sinclair, North 4800.

An entry fee of 50 cents will be charged to meet expenses. All those entering should name their drill hours as an aid to the executive in arranging matches. Watch Monday's issue of THE VARSITY for the schedule.

TENNIS OFFICERS, 1917

On Wednesday, a meeting of the tennis enthusiasts was held at the gymnasium. Mr. T. A. Reed in the chair. Election of officers took place, and the following were appointed for this season:

President—E. F. Willis (Trinity).
Vice-President—M. Rogers (U.C.).
Secretary-Treasurer—J. A. Dickson, (Meds).
Executive—C. M. Luke, D. J. Sinclair, F. J. Sullivan.

"MOTHER, MAY I GO OUT TO SWIM?"

The wooden tank in the men's gym has not been giving satisfaction for several years, and last spring the leaks became so numerous that the tank was emptied. On the opening of the University the question arose as to what was to be done with the tank. Someone suggested that a new wooden one be built and lined with canvas as before. Another suggestion was that a new cement tank be built.

A great deal of controversy is going on as to which is the proper course. A cement tank is undoubtedly more serviceable and will outlast several wooden ones.

It is also to be seen that after the first cost of building it, the upkeep of a cement tank is practically nil, while in the old-fashioned tank, the boards were constantly rotting away and the canvases were always being patched. Twice a year the canvases had to be painted to keep it watertight, so the cost of upkeep is greater.

On the other hand, if access is given the pool in Hart House, why reconstruct the tank in the old gym at all. There seems to be no reason why the students should not use the Hart House gym in conjunction with the soldiers. However, if Hart House is not going to be opened to students, why has n't the tank in the old gym been repaired? While discussions are being held as to which course to pursue, the functions of the University gym are being forgotten and men who might be quite at home there walk past and wonder what purpose the building is intended.

PROF. CORSAN GIVES SWIMMING EXHIBITION

Introduces New Features

Professor Corsan gave a swimming exhibition at the Household Science tank on Thursday, before a large audience of ladies. He demonstrated many difficult strokes and with three assistants showed the latest methods of resuscitation. With great ease the Professor went through the stunts of exhibition swimmers. Among other feats was the initiation of a crab, the swimming with arms and feet tied, and the submarine crawl. After the last trick the professor was greeted with a round of applause.

DE LA SALLE DEFEAT ST. MICHAEL'S ON WED.

Close Game, Score 3-1

De la Salle's O.R.F.U. junior team defeated St. Michael's College team in an exhibition game on the college grounds Wednesday by 3 to 1. St. Michael's tallied first, gaining a point on a long kick to the deadline. In the second quarter neither team scored, while in the third quarter De la Salle scored two on a safety touch and one on a rouge. This ended the scoring. De la Salle's team is displaying fine form and should be heard from in the O.R.F.U. junior series. The stars for St. Michael's were Goulet, Sheehy, Olan, and Kelly; while LaTour, McCurry, Guthrie and Blake proved best for De la Salle. The teams:

"McGILL vs. U. OF T.?"

City Sanction Rugby Series

Mayor Church stated this morning that he approved of the suggestion of the McGill Rugby Football Club to the president of the Toronto University Rugby Football Club to arrange a series of home-and-home games between the two clubs, the proceeds to be devoted to patriotic purposes. "I approve of it for the reason," said Mayor Church this morning, "that it did not require conscription to make the football men respond to the call of their country. They enlisted in large numbers."

A CHALLENGE

The pill pounders and pestle chasers have for the past two weeks, been chasing the sphere around the Varsity campus and claim to have "some" team. The "huskies" all seem to be in fair condition and invite a challenge from any of the faculty teams or year teams (if there are any) at the University. Pharmacy is out this year to win and break all former records. Who will be the first to call upon them for a game?

GYMNASIUM CLASSES WILL START IMMEDIATELY

Gymnasium classes for men requiring special physical training were organized on Tuesday and will meet every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday under Dr. Barton's supervision. The instruction will be given by physical instructors, and the classes will meet at 4.15 on the days named.

HARRIER DEVOTEES WILL PROBABLY HOLD A MEET

All men interested in Harrier races are asked to leave their names with the Secretary of the Athletic Association at the University gymnasium before Tuesday next. If a sufficient number are received the possibility of arranging for competitive teams from the different colleges will be considered.

Do the Board of Governors think that we haven't enough work to do already, that they add another to the already too long list of compulsory subjects? Perhaps if a few more of those gentlemen had taken a university course themselves, they might think differently. However, it may be that they think, that although there are royal roads to other heights, there should be no such royal road to learning.

Apart from that though, is this compulsory drill of any practical use? Do the University authorities think, that drilling those few men left here is going to help in any way whatever to win the war? Would it not rather seem, that those who have not been taken for military service can better help their country by fitting themselves for their chosen calling, than by wasting their time marching about the campus? Is military drill part of a liberal education? Is it culture, or perhaps Kultur? Or is it just as your correspondent suggests an advertisement just to show the public how patriotic the University is? Surely though, no one could doubt our patriotism, when we have so many proofs of royal favour in our midst.

At any rate whatever the object of the rub, the fact remains that it is a serious matter to have so much time taken up by a useless regulation like this, especially for those who do not live near the University, and who have to come down for this alone and so waste several afternoons a week. If military drill must be taken, why should it not be use of the six subjects necessary, and not an extra, as now apparently intended.

However, we think ourselves that all talk on the matter is futile, for the authorities, as another correspondent pointed out, apparently intend to make the University a kind of sausage machine, into one end of which the freshman is put, to come out at the other end—what? Evidently a full fledged militarist, crammed like his German prototype with Kultur.

UNDERGRADUATE.

De la Salle—Halves, LaTour, McCurry, Rodden; scrimmage, McGuire, D. O'Connor, Cushner; outside wings, Guthrie, Murphy; middle wings, G. O'Connor, Sansom; quarter, Shaw; flying wing, Madden.

St. Michael's—Halves, McIntosh, Robbins, Lee; scrimmage, Rogers, Allan, Shelley; inside wings, Hawkins, Gillis; middle wings, Olan, McBride (captain); outside wings, McRae, Sheehy; quarter, Goulet; flying wing, Forester.

LADIES TENNIS NOW IN FINAL STAGES

The semi-finals of the ladies singles between the Misses Crossley and Flanders brought out the finest tennis of the tournament. The first set was brilliantly contested, finally going to Miss Flanders 9-7. The second set went to Miss Crossley rather easily 6-2. But the third set was the best of the series. Neither player had any advantage, but Miss Crossley, by her sensational playing, finally got the upper hand and won 7-5. This put her in the finals against Miss Meyers, which promises to be a royal conflict.

DENT FROSH LOSE TO SOPHOMORES 13--0

Thursday morning witnessed a fast and furious game of rugby on the back campus, when the Dent sophomores clashed with the freshmen. The newcomers went down to defeat by the score of 13 to 0. Good form was displayed considering that it was only a practice game, and the Dents will evidently be strongly in evidence when it comes to the Mulock Cup series.

Much enthusiasm was displayed, the raucous rooting of the partisans of the two teams being interspersed with the shrieks of the Dent freshettes, who had come to view the game. Box starred for the winners and Edwards for the losers.

Sophs—Buttery, Warles, Long, Butler, MacLachlin, Graham, Shaughnessy, Frawley, Morgan, Gunter, McClure, Green, Bell, Box.

Freshmen: Stone, McDonald, Douglas, Edwards, Forbes, Griffin, McCowan, Reynolds, Modd.

University College

The enthusiasm shown in the general meetings of the Y.W.C.A. of University College predicts a most successful year for that association. Two weeks ago, Dr. Clark, Superintendent of the Toronto General Hospital, gave an excellent address on the Criminal Aspect of the Social Question to an audience which overflowed the common room of the Women's Union. He dealt with the problem of the criminally insane, showing points in which the courts might treat more humanely those brought them, and noted a slight progress along this line.

On Thursday of this week, the discussion was continued when Dr. Clark spoke on the difficult but urgent question of the Social Evils. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss P. Simpson, and all showed, by their applause, their appreciation of Dr. Clark's impressive talks.

The meeting was now open for nominations for first year representative. Misses Helen Bryans, Dorothy Day and Bessie Cringan were nominated. Elections will take place on Monday morning in the cloak room.

The president, Miss Helen M. Smith, announced a financial campaign to be held Monday and Tuesday of next week. She explained the different activities of the association requiring funds. The Y.W.C.A. has a membership of over 260 this year and should be able to respond to the appeal accordingly.

Keep in mind Dr. Sandford's address, November 1, on "Education and Reconstruction after the War."

Victoria

On account of the scarcity of men at Victoria this year, it is thought wise to cancel the Field Day, which was announced for this afternoon.

The regular reception by the W.L.S.; U.L.S.; Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. will take place to-night in the college halls. The "Bob", which needs no explanation as to its meaning, even to freshmen, will be included in the programme of the evening.

LOEW'S THEATRE

The matter of supplying a star with a vehicle that she personally feels is particularly adapted to her capabilities is by no means the most simple procedure in the activities of the producer. Elsie Ferguson, the famous stage beauty, who makes her screen debut in "Barbary Sheep" at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week expressed great delight over the selection of this story as her first motion picture play.

"Barbary Sheep" said the popular star, "is, I feel, an ideal play for me. The part of Lady Wyverne, the English noblewoman, fits me perfectly. I hope I have done the part full justice and that the public will enjoy seeing this characterization to as great an extent as I did in portraying it."

Another feature film on the same bill, which will also include seven superb vaudeville attractions, will be the famous screen comedian, Charlie Chaplin, in his own original version of "The Adventurer", produced under his personal direction. The piece teems over with laugh-provoking situations.

THINK AND SMILE

MAKING IT PLAIN.

PROUD OF THEM.

Miss Prism—"Don't you let your dog bite me, little boy."

Little Boy—"He won't bite, ma'am."

Miss Prism—"But he's showing his teeth."

The Appeal of the Nordheimer

COMPLETE SATISFACTION in a musical instrument is not—cannot be—a matter of dollars and cents measurement. As well might Rembrandt have tried to save a tube of pigment or Whistler a few hours' labor in painting a masterpiece. Just as the true artist spares neither time nor skill, so Nordheimer craftsmen are given ample time and high-quality materials to produce THEIR perfect product—the Nordheimer Piano. The eminently satisfactory result of all this high effort is found in a piano that appeals to people who are not satisfied with less than perfection.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

FINAL RESULTS OF RED CROSS CAMPAIGN INCREASE OF $496.80 OVER LAST YEAR THE TOTAL AMOUNTS TO $2,417.70

Owing to Decreased Attendance, $3,000 Was Not Realized

The following are the final results of the Red Cross Campaign carried on at the University. Last year's total results amounted to $1,920.90. There is then this year an increase over 1916 of $496.80. It was the aim of the University to raise $3,000, but owing to decreased attendance, this has not been realized.

SECOND SERMON OF YEAR PREACHED BY REV. THOMAS EAKINS

Says Human Intellect is Faulty and Urges Faith

A very successful service was conducted in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning, October 21. The choir, slightly smaller than on the preceding Sunday, assisted ably under the leadership of Miss Fotheringham. Convocation Hall was well filled by students and friends, and by members of the Overseas Training Company of the C.O.T.C., who paraded to the Hall about one hundred and twenty-five strong. The service was conducted by Rev. Thomas Eakins, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, King Street. The sermon was a model of eloquence, and every member of the congregation carried away a message worth while.

The text was taken from 1 Timothy 1:12, and the discourse was bound around the speaker's apt phrase, "Not what I believe, but whom I believe." He held up to the congregation the glorious example of Paul who in all his trials and hardships never lost his hope and belief. The idea of some people that if God is omnipotent, we should not be afflicted with the present terrible war, was dealt with in one very forcible and clear-cut sentence. "We cannot make history and read it at the same time." He said that the human mind cannot conceive what omnipotence really is. It is beyond the realms of our intellect, as far as the realm of the human intellect is above the intellectual realms of the animal, and that, therefore a candid suspension of our judgment is much more consistent than a hasty condemnation.

In conclusion, he said, "I have said nothing new to you. I shall be altogether content if something that has been said will send you out to your life work believing and knowing whom you believe."

THE O.T.C. CONCERT SPARKLING PROGRAMME

Proceeds to Social Service Work of General Hospital

The concert to be given by the University Overseas Training Company on Friday evening next, is now assured of success from every point of view. The programme, a full account of which will appear in the next issue of The Varsity, is one of particular merit. Every number is being contributed by men who have appeared with leading theatrical companies, both in America and England. Several men from the R.F.C. are also assisting. The programme includes dramatic readings, solos, dances, choruses and instrumental numbers—a pot pourri of the serious and humorous. The feature of the evening will be two dramatic sketches. In "The Lost Silk Hat" by Lord Dunsany the five men concerned involve themselves in a half-hour of sparkling dialogue and repartee that keeps the audience in a gale of laughter. A scene from "Les Misérables"—"The Bishop's Candlesticks" will probably give no less genuine pleasure, though of a different character. The parts in these will all be taken by men who have taken leading roles in some of the best dramatic offerings of recent years.

The entire proceeds, above expenses, are to be devoted to the Social Service work of the Toronto General Hospital. The ladies' executive in charge of this work reports that above 1,400 tickets have been sold, so that Convocation Hall bids fair on this occasion to have a capacity audience. The reserved seat plan is opened to the public this morning at Victoria College and Nordheimer's.

GOVERNMENT INSTITUTES 20 STUDENTSHIPS AND FIVE FELLOWSHIPS

To Aid Canadian Industry

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The Honorary Council for Scientific and Industrial Research in Canada has for the purpose of aiding Canadian industry, recommended the Government to establish 20 studentships, and for more advanced students, five fellowships, to be awarded to young men who have already completed their preliminary scientific training in our universities or technical colleges, and who show a special ability in research. The holders of these scholarships will then follow courses of study which will give them special training in the methods of modern scientific research as applied to the development of the various Canadian industries. These scholarships have now been established by the Government, but such a large number of them promising young men of the Dominion, who would have been qualified for appointment, have gone to the front or are engaged at home in work connected with the manufacture of munitions, that the full number of students and scholarships will not be awarded this Fall.

The following, however, have been awarded studentships or fellowships, and will at once enter upon their course of study at one or other of the large universities of the Dominion, unless they should be called for overseas service.

Studentships—W. H. Hatcher, B.A., McGill University; R. J. Clerk, B.A., McGill University; H. J. C. Iretton, M.A., University of Toronto; J. F. T. Young, M.A., University of Toronto; O. J. Bridgman, B.A., University of Saskatchewan; R. A. Hamer, M.A., University of Toronto.

Fellowships—A. D. Home, M.A., University of Toronto; A. J. Walker, B.A., University of Saskatchewan; Geo. H. Henderson, M.A., B.Sc., Dalhousie University.

PROF. CUDMORE WILL SPEAK ON ECONOMICS OF FOOD CONTROL

Of the many economic questions now attracting general attention, the most interesting and perhaps the most dangerous is the subject of Government food control. It is a popular idea, attractive for its very simplicity, that, if prices be high, the exercise of the Governmental fiat is all that is necessary to reduce them. Within its wide constitutional limits, the Government may enact any laws whatever, if the Government fixes the price of potatoes at $1.25 a bag, that is the legal price. What more is there to it? Unfortunately, perhaps, prices, like other economic phenomena, are far too complex, far too delicate, for such simple surgical treatment. The various aspects of this difficult question will be considered by Professor Cudmore in his address to the Political Economy Club on Friday next. In subsequent meetings the members of the Club will debate certain points of the matter. Preparatory to these debates, all students in honour economics, including post-graduate students, are invited to attend the address on Friday, October 26, at four o'clock in Room 1 of the Library Building.

Lieut. Lawrence B. Tillson, M.C., comes from Brachbridge, and is a B.A.Sc., 1915. He enlisted as a bombardier with the Eaton Machine Gun Battery, later transferring to the Canadian Field Artillery, with the rank of lieutenant.

HIS MISTAKE.

Captain Jones was a very round-shouldered and eccentric officer.

On a particular dark night in Egypt, while practicing his company in outpost duty, he approached one of the sentries who failed to halt him.

In a great rage the officer demanded of the now trembling sentry the reason why he had omitted to challenge him.
"If you please, sir," stammered the confused soldier, "I thought you was a camel."

The University College rugby team will hold a practice on the back campus at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Everyone is invited to turn out and try for a place on the team.

BOTANICAL SEMINAR HELD LAST THURSDAY

Dr. J. H. Faull Reads Paper on Later Greek Period

The inaugural meeting of the Seminar in Botany was held in the Botany and Forestry Building on Thursday, October 18. Dr. J. H. Faull gave a very interesting paper on some of the earlier botanists, devoting most of the time to the later Greek period. He dwelt particularly on Theophrastus, who lived about 300 B.C., and who has been called "The Father of Botany."

In the course of his paper, Dr. Faull took issue with Sachs, one of the recognized authorities of botanical history, who contended that botany as a pure science, began with his fellow countrymen—the German herbalists of the sixteenth century. The incorrectness of this claim was shown by Greene, in 1909, working in the Smithsonian Institute, when he published a synopsis of the writings of Theophrastus on botany, a work consisting of ten volumes. A study of these records of Theophrastus shows that it is undoubtedly true that he treated the subject of botany from a purely scientific viewpoint, although at times he was forced to bow to the popular prejudice of the time and give some attention to the economic side of the subject.

Without the aid of any lens of microscope, Theophrastus was able to lay the foundations for many of the modern divisions of botany, including morphology, anatomy, ecology and taxonomy. In fact, in his classifications of the cultivated, and a few of the wild plants of the region in which he lived, he came remarkably close to the modern conception of family, genus and species. Many of the names used by Theophrastus have been adopted in modern botany. In fact, Theophrastus antedated Linnaeus in the use of the Binomial system of Nomenclature. It has been thought very advisable to devote the first few meetings of the Seminar to the history of botany, so that a proper perspective of the various fields of investigation may be had. If the enthusiastic reception of Dr. Faull's paper may be taken as a criterion, the seminar in botany is already a pronounced success. The next meeting will be held in the Botany and Forestry Building at 4.30 p.m., November 1.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Cnr. J. A. McCamus, of 53 Edna Ave., an Arts student of 1913, has been awarded the Military Medal for conspicuous bravery. He enlisted in the 22nd Battalion, and went overseas in April, 1916. As his battalion was sent to France in drafts, he joined a machine gun section; and he has served at the front since July, 1916, without receiving injuries.

Capt. Charters T. Sharpe, Can. Y.M.C.A. Corps, France, has been appointed to supervise the organization of Y.M.C.A. work among the railway troops, throughout France and Belgium. This will necessitate work on each British, French, Belgian, Canadian, American and Portuguese front in the two countries.

Charters T. Sharpe was born in Toronto, 27 years ago, and was educated at Givens Street School, Parkdale Collegiate and the University of Toronto. For two years he was secretary of the Boys' Work Department of the Orillia Y.M.C.A., and for the five years preceding his enlistment, was in charge of the same work at Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. He has been with the Canadian Y.M.C.A. Corps for more than two years.

THIRTEEN VARSITY NAMES APPEAR IN HONOUR LIST PUBLISHED ON OCT. 18th FROM LONDON, ENGLAND

Two Awarded the D.S.O. and Eleven Win Military Cross

Honours won by Varsity men in list published from London, England, October 18th.

Awarded Distinguished Service Order Major Sydney Burnham, Lieut.-Col. Louis Elgin Jones.

Awarded Military Cross—Capt. Jas. Bell, Capt. Thomas Bell, Capt. Ronald Catto, Lieut. A. B. Fennell, Major John Hope, Lieut. Norman Macdonald, Lieut. John McCamus, Lieut. Alex. G. Scott, Major Ian Sinclair, Lieut. Lawrence Tillson, Lieut. Leonard Youell.

A number of these honours had been reported unofficially before. Those following are new:

Major SYDNEY BURNHAM, of 43 Warren Road, Toronto; B.A., University College, 1911, enlisted as lieutenant with 19th Battalion—promoted Staff Captain. He was wounded September 17, 1916. Mentioned in despatches and now awarded the D.S.O. A brother, Capt. H. H. Burnham, is with the C.A.M.C.; he graduated in Medicine in 1914. He was mentioned for distinguished conduct in June 1915 and awarded the Italian Military Medal for Valour in May, 1917.

Major JOHN HOE was registered for his degree in Law in 1916. He comes from Perth with Canadian infantry. Wounded April 1917. Won Military Cross.

MAJOR IAN SINCLAIR, B.A., Univ. Coll. 1915; Sc. 1917, Toronto, went over with first contingent as lieutenant in a Montreal Highland battalion. Promoted from lieutenant to captain, then to major. Wounded four times, mentioned in Haig's despatches, June 1, 1917. Awarded the Military Cross. A brother, Lieut. Angus Sinclair, Univ. Coll. 1917, also been wounded in April, 1916.

Lieut. LEONARD YOEEL, Sc. 1916, of Aylmer, Ont.; with a hewitzer battery. Mentioned in Haig's despatches, June 1, 1917. Awarded the Military Cross. A brother, A. W. Youell, B.A.Sc. 1911, is a gunner with a Divisional Ammunition Column in France.

CASUALTY.

Sec. Lieut. Groge Herbert Berry, B.A., Univ. Coll. 1916, of the Royal Field Artillery has been reported died of wounds. He enlisted as a private with the C.A.M.C. in the Spring of 1915, and after spending a short time in England, went out to Lemnos with a Stationary Hospital. He was there for a year, and later when the hospital was transferred to France he went with it. In January, 1917, he took out his commission with the R.F.A., training at St. Jo's Wood, and going to France in June. At college he served one year as secretary of the rugby club. Second Lieut. Berry is also an old U.C.C. boy and was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

1TS HIKE.

That the girls of the Senior Class at Victoria have still a little life left in them, in spite of age and general decrepitude was demonstrated on Saturday when they hiked to Scarborough Bluffs. The day was a little threatening but the dear old ladies did not mind the few flurries of snow, and even the cold had no terrors. The bluffs were reached at about 4.0 and after indulging in a few brisk games such as descending the stairs and gathering firewood, the winners were roasted and the mustard passed. Then in "the glomping" they sat around the camp-fire, singing songs of their youth, winding up with "The Old Ontario Strand" and "Boomerack." After a most sedate ride back they donned once more the mantle of conventionality, having given proof that 1TS still rambles right along.

fighting at Lens, graduated as an electrical engineer at S.P.S. in 1915. He went overseas with the second contingent, and crossed to France with the 11th Machine Gun Division. Lieut. Scott's home is in Smith's Falls.

COMPULSORY PHYSICAL TRAINING A FACT

Organization of Classes Completed —Penalties for "Passive Resisters"

Compulsory physical training is now a recognized fact in the University. For the past three weeks, Dr. Barton has been examining all the male students and classifying them according to their physical standard. Those who have been found medically fit have been assigned to military drill in the C.O.T.C. The students who have failed to pass the examination are to take elementary physical instruction in the gymnasium. By this it is hoped slight defects will be remedied before they have wrought permanent disability; and serious defects modified if not entirely obliterated.

The gym classes are to be under the very efficient instruction of Sergeant Lewis, who belongs to the C.A.G.S., and is a past master in the gentle art of manufacturing lordly Hercules from puny mortals. The instruction will take the form of Swedish Drill, which differs little from the course advanced by the Strathcona Fund Trustees. Classes will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. A student must attend drill on two alternate days. The exercises, while passing under the nomenclature of "elementary", will in no way resemble a rest cure, but are capable of offering just as strenuous exertion as military drill.

The organization of these classes and the physical examination of the men, have entailed an enormous amount of exacting work. This department is an innovation at Toronto, so each problem must be solved as it arises with no reference to tradition or precedent. The Staff at the gym are certainly to be congratulated on their efficient handling of this difficult situation.

The greater percentage of students have been examined by Dr. Barton, but there are still a few stragglers to be gathered in. These men must hardly realize that, in neglecting to report at the gym, they are placing themselves in direct opposition to the will of the Senate and the general public of Ontario. Possibly they hope to escape by a system of self-effacement. This "passive resistance" attitude, if it is such, is hardly becoming to a University student and would no doubt be severely dealt with by the authorities.

Class Memorials

One of the ways in which the University of Toronto does not compare favourably with other Universities is that it has not been the custom for graduating classes to leave behind some permanent memorial. Classes have come to the University, and with few exceptions have gone without making some donation, which would serve as a memento of their Class and at the same time assist 'Varsity.

This matter, surely, is one which can be remedied by the students themselves. We have all been only too ready to ask—"Why does not 'Varsity receive gifts similar to other Universities?", and we have not stopped to think that the power of changing this condition lies primarily in our own hands. If every Class which had come to 'Varsity had left behind something which would add to the equipment of the University and thereby increase the general efficiency of the institution, there would be less criticism abroad than there is at the present time.

Why not make a beginning now? Already, no doubt, some one will say this is war time, and all money should be devoted to war purposes. Such a view is perfectly correct, but, under present circumstances, we have not in mind expensive donations. It is the custom of every Class, however, to collect Class fees with which to conduct Class meetings and Class receptions and other similar functions. It is not known, as yet, whether the fees collected this year will be spent in this manner. Accordingly we make the suggestion to the various Class Executives that, if they are at a loss to know how to disburse their fees, they entertain the following proposal—to erect tablets in appreciation of the men in their particular year who have gone overseas; and to the memory of those who have gone and who will never return. If it is not desired to spend Class fees in such a manner, special funds for the purpose could be created.

Such tablets would institute a tradition for future Classes. They would not be too expensive, and, we are sure, would be highly appreciated by our soldier comrades; and gratefully received by the University authorities.

Advertisers

Patronize our advertisers. Many of the students of the University are evidently unaware that THE VARSITY could not be printed were it not for our advertisers. When the compulsory fee for THE VARSITY was introduced, the Students' Administrative Council felt that they would receive fees from about 4,000 men students with bright prospects for an increase in the number. It was their intention then to run THE VARSITY with as little outside assistance as possible—to make THE VARSITY truly a college newspaper for the students, supported by the students. Owing to the war the attendance has diminished every year, but the cost of running THE VARSITY has not.

Realizing the fact that a college paper is an integral part of a University, more so in these times, because it is one of the best records of student activities during war time, the Students' Administrative Council enlarged the advertising space in order to meet expenses.

Business men are not advertising for the philanthropic purpose of keeping THE VARSITY before the students during war time. They are calling for the patronage and trade of University students and if they do not get results they will discontinue their custom. THE VARSITY is up against a very definite proposition, and in order to keep going the students must do their share—by patronizing our advertisers. They are all good and you will get satisfaction. Every time you buy from our advertisers, mention that you are a University student and mention THE VARSITY. This is the way you must do your share. Surely you cannot refuse to do this much for your University paper.

CORRESPONDENCE

CANADIAN FORESTERS IN GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE.

It is interesting to note from student soldiers' letters the impression that the influx of a larger number of technically trained foresters has had upon forestry questions in England. With the active operation of the Canadian Forestry Corps, which, by the way is more of a lumbering corps, came a sudden interest of the Englishman in our Canadian methods of utilization. Lumbering in England was dead, necessarily so because of the 121,000 square miles in Great Britain only 3% is forested and this only on big estates, which are preserved more for game than anything else. Dead, too has been any question of forest policy, although there are 12 million acres of waste lands capable of supporting splendid forest growths.

England is waking up to the fact that she has been wasting her natural resources. With the quickening in agriculture, is coming an interest in her waste lands. So now we have news that some of the technical men are being made use of in investigating the possibility for reforestation. A Director of Forestry has been appointed (under the military authorities) to control investigation in England. Some of the undergraduates and graduates from Toronto University are collecting data for volume tables and reporting on silvicultural aspects of the different forests. Brilliant and experienced men are swinging the axe, while first and second year undergraduates are in charge of work too technical for their experience.

In France also some of our graduates are valuing and estimating on the devastated forest areas, acting as experts on a Franco-British board.

A CORRECTION

A letter has been received from E. G. Drulard, Arts 2TO and captain of the Arts 1916 rugby team, in which he corrects a misunderstanding arising from an article printed in one of this year's issues of THE VARSITY. The extract from the letter is:

"It has come to my notice, indirectly, that there was an editorial in THE VARSITY to the effect that I had entered the Royal Naval Air Service. "This statement is true to the extent that I was in it four days and then my hopes were dashed. Soon after receiving my last leave I was informed by the Admiralty that owing to an oversight in the medical report, the defect of my right leg had passed unnoticed. As a result they had to withdraw the acceptance of my application and now I have abandoned all hopes of entering the R.N.A.S. A few days later I was examined by the local medical board and put in Class E for the draft.

"I have entered the University of Michigan and although I am ineligible for the Varsity team on account of this being my first year in residence, I am making good in the freshman rugby team.

"Would you be so kind as to rectify the error in the above-mentioned editorial, so that my friends in the University may not be misinformed. Wishing University College the best of luck in the coming Mulock Cup series, I beg to remain, dear sir, E. G. DRULARD."

SWIMMING POOL UNFINISHED

It has been learned from a reliable source that the construction of the gym and the swimming pool at the Hart House will not be completed before the latter part of the winter and therefore it will not be available for use this term.

ORCHESTRA!

All men who play orchestral instruments, come to University "Y" building on Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m., and bring your instrument. We want a University orchestra and every faculty should be represented on it.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

To-Day's Poem

AFTER DAYS.

When the last gun has long witheld
Its thunder, and its mouth is sealed,
Strong men shall drive the furrow straight
On some remembered battle field.

Untroubled they shall hear the loud
And gusty driving of the rains,
And birds with immemorial voice
Sing as of old in leafy lanes.

The stricken, tainted soil shall be Again a flowery paradise—
Pure with the memory of the dead
And pure for their sacrifice.

What to Do at the Theatre.

Arrive early and occupy as large a space possible in the rotunda. It is always advisable to stand as near the ticket windows as possible, thus compelling people who desire tax tickets to squeeze by.

Never, under any circumstances, be seated when the curtain rises. Always postpone your entrance until at least five minutes after the commencement of the play. Get in the wrong seat if possible, but if not, make a point of entering the row at the end most distant from your seats.

While settling down, a discussion as to the merits of your seat is highly entertaining. The actors don't mind being disturbed, because they are paid to act anyhow.

Always buy chocolate wrapped up in paper. Unwrapping it takes one's mind off the play. It has such a soothing sound, too.

Study some subject of conversation of interest to the people around. Many a man has regretted paying two dollars to hear uninteresting conversation. Make it spicy.

Never applaud. It startles the actors and they are apt to forget their lines.

Never go out between the acts unless you are seated in the middle of the row. Then be most careful not to return until the curtain has risen again. It is best to wait until something important is being said on the stage.

At the close of the performance, be well on your way home. Invariably leave in the middle of the closing lines. It is advisable, of course, to start dressing about half-way through.

It is the height of bad form to wait for the National Anthem, but if you are caught unawares, the situation can be saved by a quick run. Nobody knows the words of the National Anthem anyhow, so what's the use.—S. Morgan Powell in Montreal "Star."

"GAMEY" STRATTON HOME

Flight Lieut. "Gamey" Stratton, the former Varsity rugby and hockey player, and now a member of the Royal Flying Corps, is at present home from France recuperating from an attack of fever. "Gamey" was a member of the champion Varsity junior O.H.A. team in 1915.

The President, Sir Robert Falconer, has returned from the United States. Thursday, October 18, he spoke at the Convocation of the University of New York at Albany. On Friday he spoke at an anniversary of the Drexel in Philadelphia.

Gnr. P. A. Durbrow, a Science student of 1916, has also been awarded the Military Medal for his good work in France. Gunner Durbrow enlisted in March, 1915, and has seen considerable service in the trenches.

The hard-working storekeeper had vainly ransacked his stock in his effort to please an old lady who wanted to purchase a present for her granddaughter. For the fifteenth time she picked up and critically examined a neat little purse. "Are you quite sure that this is a genuine alligator skin?" she asked.

"Positive, madam," quoth the dealer;

"I shot the alligator myself."

"It looks rather soiled," said the lady.

"That, madam, is where it struck the ground when it fell off the tree."

TENNIS TOURNAMENT STARTS ON TUESDAY--MANY NEW PLAYERS

The annual tennis tournament of the University will start this week at the gymnasium courts. Although many of last year's stars are gone, there are plenty of new players who are expected to make a good showing. The singles and doubles will be run off together. Postponements will be permitted on account of unfavourable weather conditions only, and will be played next week. It must be understood that games are to be played on schedule or forfeited. The schedule will be found on the gym wall and all results should be posted as soon as played. Fees will be payable to Mr. Hase before the balls are given out for any game. Two sets out of three, except in the finals, when three out of five, will decide the match. Men entering future rounds should watch the schedule for the date on which their games are to be played.

The schedule is as follows:

The Query Box

Q. Does the first call for Military Service include those who are twenty years of age since July 6, 1917, or just those who were twenty on or before that date? Will a new draft have to be issued to cover these men or will they be called as soon as they are of age?

A. The first call for Military Service includes all those who are twenty years or over on the day the proclamation is issued calling the men to the colours. There is nothing in the Act which says that men who are not twenty years of age at the time of the proclamation will be called to the colours on becoming of age.

For further information on this subject write to Mr. Glynn Osler, Registrar of Military District, No. 2.

Q. Does an American citizen not subject to any other laws than those of the United States, have to take the compulsory drill here, enforced by the Canadian military authorities?

A. In the first place the compulsory drill is enforced by the University authorities, not by the Canadian military authorities. As this American citizen is proceeding to a degree at the University of Toronto, he must abide by the rules and regulations of the University and take the compulsory drill. Arrangements can be made by which he can take the drill without taking the prescribed oath. Such arrangements have been previously made.

Q. What is the status of one who enters the University in the second year? What position should he take with regard to inter-year activities?

A. One who enters the University in the second year is what is known as a Fresh-Sophomore. This means, that he is still a little verdant from the fact that he has not attended a University before (hence the word Fresh—abbreviation for Freshman) but he is a sophomore in the academic life of the University. He should take part in all the activities of his sophomore year and should even push the bluff as far as helping to initiate the freshman.

Q. Is there a chess club in connection with the University? If so, when and where does it meet and what are the qualifications of membership?—INTERESTED.

A. In years past the University has entered a team in the Toronto Chess League. Mr. Gordon MacDonald, acted as secretary last year. See news item which appears in this issue.

Victoria

Wednesday, October 24, at 7.45 p.m. This is the time when every Victoria man is invited to come to the University "Y" building, for an evening of real enjoyment, of getting together in a social way to promote good will and the spirit of comradeship.

You know the place; the cosy little rendezvous for all University students on University Crescent. You know what is possible in the way of a good time, when seventy-five or a hundred Vic men link arms on an occasion of this kind. You know what will be the quality of entertainment you may reasonably anticipate—and here is a hint on this point—there will be a speaker for the evening, whose address you can't afford to miss. Come!

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

By the way, men, how would you like to have a bumper time on Monday night, 22nd? Fine, eh? Well then come to the "Y" building near College Street on University Crescent, Monday at 7.45, and realize your expectation.

Do you enjoy good music? Would you like to get acquainted with other faculty men who you will be associated with this year? How about a few games, an indoor track meet, a few "guessers"? Expenditely eh? Just so! Well let us have a demonstration of your prowess.

This is a real mixer follows so come and mix and don't forget he acts. It is your reception so come and contribute your share to its success. We want every F.O.E. man to be there.

A very prominent speaker is to be succeeded who will give you some interesting pointers. Principal Crawford has very kindly consented to act as chairman, so we are all going to have a mighty enjoyable time. Come.

Thursday afternoon, October 18, was the occasion of the Opening of Parliament at the Victoria Women's Literary Society. When the members were assembled, Her Honour the Governor-General (Miss B. Corrigan '17) marched in, followed by her retinue, and in impressive tones delivered a stirring speech from the Throne.

On her withdrawal, the regular order of business was proceeded with, but was soon interrupted for a delightful program furnished entirely by the Class of '21. Impromptu debate: "Resolved that the duration of the war."

Violin solo: Miss Lawson.

Impromptu debate: "Resolved that a woman is more important to a man than a library."

Vocal solo: Miss Avery.

Impromptu debate: "Resolved that initiation should be abolished."

In each case the audience judged the debate. The critic in closing, justly complimented the first year on the splendid entertainment provided, and on the ease with which they spoke for the first time in the Lit. The meeting closed with the singing of "Victoria".

Education

The fact that there are some forty or fifty fewer students in the Faculty of Education this year than last is attributed partly to the smaller number of men graduating from the University, and partly to the increased length of the term, together with an uncertainty as to conditions for the year which obtained until shortly before registration.

The restriction of High School certificates to the University graduates has occasioned a protest from the matriculant students who are now given the course for Public School work only. However, their complaint has lost much force by the greatly increased efficiency of the course as arranged this year. Lengthening the term from May 15 to the latter part of June gives much better scope and places them on a footing in regard to experience with the Normal School graduate.

Newman Hall

The annual reception to the new members of the Club was held on Friday evening in the club rooms. Nearly one hundred and fifty members were present to make the party one of the most successful in the history of the club. Supper was served and dancing continued until near the midnight hour.

Much credit is due the executive for the successful issue of this entertainment. Friday next, a Stag party will be given to the male members of the club, and an enjoyable time is expected.

Freshman by the name of Bud Weiser captured the flag for his class the other day.

One can accomplish almost anything with the proper spirit.

ATHLETICS GIVE WAY TO WAR WORK AT HARVARD

Little Interest Shown in Sporting Activities

"The war has captured Harvard, and the terms of surrender have been unconditional," says the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, in explaining how all things from athletics, even football, to examinations have been overshadowed in the interest of the Harvard undergraduate by the zeal of preparation for the service of the nation.

There are two courses offered in military instruction this year. One of these is for men without previous experience, the other is intended for men who have had the groundwork of military science and takes up advanced subjects in modern tactics of warfare. Both aim to prepare for ultimate commissions in the army and both will be under the direction of Colonel Azan, an officer in the French Army, detailed at Cambridge for that especial purpose.

It is not known how many Harvard men are actually in the service of the country at the present time, for of course nothing like complete statistics have as yet been compiled, but from the material on the subject that is available, about 4,750 Harvard graduates and undergraduates are known to have enlisted in one branch or another before August, 1917.

THIRD YEAR MEDS HAVE NO TIME TABLE

Have to Guess at Clinic Hours

Why is it that, at this late period of the autumn term, the third year Meds have no printed, definite time-table of their clinics? It is just by a lucky chance that they are receiving a few clinics, which is the most important part of their work. Meanwhile, expensive books are lying idle on their hands. Will some one please offer any explanation or some suggestion?

St. Michael's

A meeting of the Inter-collegiate Debating Union was held on Friday night at St. Michael's College. Representatives were present from seven colleges, who had entered. Subjects were produced by Trinity and St. Michael's, and after slight discussion were passed by the Committee.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the last preliminary meeting will be held, and it is urgently requested that any colleges wishing to compete should have representatives present. The schedule of debates will be drawn up and the subjects decided upon. Remember, 4 o'clock.

Other Colleges

Harvard—The question of the eligibility for the informal Harvard University football team of W. B. Snow '18, captain of the team, F. C. Church '20 and R. G. Stone '20, who last week received appointments to the Cadet School for Ensigns, has been settled by the announcement that these men can now play on the team, provided no opponents object to their presence in the game. While these men are not technically members of Harvard University, the fact that the informal team is not a representative university team and that on its schedule there are games solely with military and naval organizations, has enabled them to remain eligible.

A joint meeting of the Board of Athletic Control, college and Sheffield School councils and the athletic association, it is announced, has authorized Prof. R. N. Corwin, the chairman, to arrange for the games, with the restriction that only men enrolled in military or naval training be allowed to represent Yale.

Dartmouth—Believing it to be in the best interests of preparedness to continue intercollegiate athletics in time of war, Dartmouth is putting a varsity football team on the field this fall. In accordance with the policy of providing students with greater opportunity for participation in competitive sports, freshmen will be permitted to play on this season's varsity eleven.

Princeton—The University is to have an interclass baseball series this fall and next spring, according to announcement made by Coach W. J. Clarke of the varsity baseball squad. This is to take the place of varsity baseball. When sufficient candidates are at hand a schedule of games will be arranged. Each class is to have a team, and the members of the team that wins the interclass series will be awarded their class numerals.

Exemption Tribunals.

Exemption Boards have been chosen in such a way as to make them absolutely independent and removed from all influence. There are over 1,250 boards throughout the country, each composed of two men, one appointed by the county judge in the district concerned and one selected by a joint committee of Parliament. Being familiar with local conditions where they sit, the members are well-fitted to appreciate such reasons for exemption as are put before them by men called up.

Exemption will be granted to those who can establish that it is in the national interest that they remain in civilian life. This is for the Exemption Board to decide after having received full information in each case.

The grounds on which exemption may be claimed (which are similar to the grounds recognized in Great Britain and the United States) are as follows:—

- That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged.
- That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he wishes to be engaged and for which he has special qualifications.
- That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in Military Service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated and trained.
- That serious hardship would ensue if the man were placed on active service, owing to his exceptional financial or business obligations or domestic position.
- Ill health or infirmity.
- That he conscientiously objects to the undertaking of combatant service and is prohibited from doing so by tenets and articles of faith, in effect on the 24th day of July, 1917, of any organized religious denomination existing and well recognized in Canada at such date, and to which he is in good faith belongs.
- That he should be exempt because disfranchised under the War Time Election Act.

No Claim for Exemption should be put forward unless one or other of these grounds in fact exists, and no loyal citizen should assist in, or allow himself to be made a party to, any Claim for Exemption unless thoroughly satisfied that it is made in good faith.

Exemption may be applied for by the men selected themselves or by their parents, near relatives or employers. Application for exemption must be made on printed forms to be found at every post office, which are to be filled in and left with the postmaster if exemption is desired. The postmaster will forward the form to a Registrar, who will send it to the appropriate Exemption Board. In due time, then, the Applicant will get notice as to when he must present his case before the Board.

TALENTED ARTISTES WILL FIGURE IN O.T.C. CONCERT

Soldiers will Put On a Brilliant Programme Friday Night

Probably no military unit on the continent has ever provided such an array of talent for one programme as will appear at the University O.T.C. concert on Friday evening next in Convocation Hall. Assisting the O.T.C. are three members of the Royal Flying Corps, Corporal Philip Merivale, who was leading man for Lorette Taylor and Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and also appeared with Sir Herbert Tree in Shakespeare plays, Private G. Carr, who was a member of Sir Herbert Tree's Company, and Cadet Donald Macbeth, who was leading violinist for several years with the famous tenor John McCormick. From the O.T.C. are Sergt. Horace Sinclair, who appeared for many years on the English stage and was later associated with the London Folies Company in America. Pte. Norman Blum, a member of the London Folies Company, Pte. Roland Bottomley, who began his stage career with Sir Henry Irving and played in many part of the world with Sir J. Forbes Robertson and other leading actors, recently he has been taking leading parts in photo plays. Sergt. Horace Braham—a member of the D. Belasco Company, Pte. Alan Syngue, Pte. Albert McKenna, Pte. Sydney Dalton were, before they donned the khaki, associated with the professional musical world of New York, the first two singers, the third is a composer and teacher. Pte. Dalton is training the Glee Club and will also act as accompanist for the evening.

Lord Dunsany's play "The Lost Silk Hat" will be presented by the amateur which so delighted the audience at the Foresters' Hall a few nights ago. The rollicking playlet is a gem of the finest literary and artistic finish. The production is being directed by Pte. J. J. Rennie of the A. H. Woods Company. The parts are to be taken by Pte. Bernard Parker who has played as a leading man with Billie Burke and Julia Neilson. Pte. G. Carr of the R.F.C., Pte. Kenneth Hunter, leading man with Mrs. Fiske's Company, Pte. Geo. Hayes, who played leading parts with Sir J. Forbes Robertson on his last tour of America, and Pte. Frank Wood, who has his own companies in England and America.

Those who have always been under the impression that "years make the man", would be obliged to find exception to their rule in the case of Captain A. D. Hume, son of Prof. James Gibson Hume, head of the Department of Philosophy at the Toronto University.

At the outbreak of the war, Capt. Hume was a freshman at University College, being then only 16 years old. He enlisted while in his sophomore year, going overseas with the first draft of the O.T.C. He trained at Oxford for a time, took part in the suppression of the Dublin riots and then went over to France. He has been over eighteen months at the front and has taken part in the memorable battles at Ypres, Hulloch, Somme, the Arras drive and the like. Capt. Hume is one of the youngest captains in "somewhere in France." Two other brothers of his, both undergraduates of Varsity, have also enlisted.

NOTICE.

Prof. Cadmore will deliver a lecture on "The Economics of Food Control", on Friday, October 26th, at 4 p.m. in Room 1 of the Library Building.

Announcement.

The Registrar of University College has announced that Mr. Sheldon Brubacher of 271 has been awarded the McCaul Scholarship for Classics by University College. Mr. Brubacher also holds the First Edward Blake Scholarship. These scholarships were obtained at matriculation last June.

Will you notice it?

Owing to the official opening of the Connaught Laboratories there will be no lectures in the afternoon of Thursday, October 25th, 1917.

O.T.C. WILL CONTINUE TO CARRY ON ITS WORK

Conscription Will Not Stop Its Necessary Training

Although there has been a rumour to the contrary, Lieut.-Col. W. R. Lang stated to-day that the O.T.C. would carry on under conscription as before.

It will continue to pick out men with the qualities and education of a gentleman, and train them for various positions at home and abroad. Every member of the Company will not necessarily possess the qualities of an efficient officer. Hence there will be some who will be sent to the various schools, such as the Musketry School, where their brains and training may be used for instructional purposes. Those who cannot make either of these are drafted to a fighting unit as privates. The O.T.C. has selected the P.P.C.L.I. as its own specific unit to which to send such men.

The tenth draft from the Company came up before the Colonel on Saturday last, and those selected, some forty in number, will come up for a final inspection next Saturday.

FINAL RED CROSS RETURNS, $2,431.70

EXAMINATION HALL IS ASSIGNED TO SOLDIERS

This Celebrated Torture Chamber Receives Many Changes

The examination hall at the rear of Convocation Hall has been assigned over to the military authorities. It will be used for the N.C.O.'s training depot, a part of the School of Infantry. In the meantime Major G. N. Bramfitt will be in command.

These N.C.O.'s comprise a number of select men, who have been retained for the purpose of training new troops, and in addition comprise a number of returned non-commissioned officers. These men have been especially trained in infantry, physical, and bayonet training.

About one hundred of these "students" will be drilled at a time. When they have trained from one to two months, they will be distributed to different units or battalions throughout the country in lots of ten or twelve.

The examination hall, a representative of The Varsity was informed, will be divided by temporary partitions. One portion of the room will be the mess room, another the dormitory, etc. An outer kitchen will have to be built to the west side of the building.

Just how long the examination hall will be occupied by the N.C.O.'s is not definitely known. This depends considerably on the operations at the front. As soon as Spring comes the occupants of the hall will be off to Camp Borden.

For those students who are accustomed to worrying about examinations, and particularly now, since the examination hall is occupied by the N.C.O.'s, there is this consolation, that the registrar is quite capable of easily finding places where the examinations may be written.

MENORAH CLUB WILL MEET ON MONDAY NEXT

Professor Taylor will Address the Meeting in University College

The initial meeting of the Menorah Society, which has recently been organized, will be held on Monday, October 29 at 8 p.m. sharp at Room 4 University College, instead of on Thursday, October 25 as previously announced.

A large turnout is expected. Everyone interested in the study of Jewish literature, history and culture in general should make it his or her duty to be present. Besides, there will be nominations and elections of officers for the coming year. Professor W. R. Taylor, Ph.D., will address the meeting.

Don't forget, Monday, October 29, 8 p.m. sharp, room 4, University College. This Society is non-sectarian, open to students of all beliefs. It is open to graduates, undergraduates, and members of the staff of the University. The Society should appeal especially to those students taking up religious knowledge, and theological students, to whom it will prove of inestimable value.

ANNOUNCEMENT

An invitation has been received from the Burns' Literary Society of Toronto regarding a lecture which is to be given under the auspices of that Society. Lieut.-General Sir Sam Hughes, K.C.B., is to address a meeting in the auditorium of the Technical School on Thursday, October 25, at 8 p.m. General Hughes was for some years the teacher of Literature in the Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute. He has always been an admirer of the great Scottish poet, and is well acquainted with Ayrshire and other parts of Scotland immortalized by Burns. Mr. George Neil and Miss Nora Williamson will sing some of the songs of Burns. Ven. Archdeacon Cody will deliver a short address. Everybody welcome. No charge for admission.

Oct. 27—U.C. Woman's Lit. at the Women's Union, 85 St. George Street Saturday at 8 o'clock.

GOOD PROMISES FOR UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

All Members Should Turn Out to
First Rehearsal To-day at "Y"

This afternoon at 4 p.m. an organization and practice meeting of the University orchestra will be held in the Y.M.C.A. All men who are endowed with that faculty popularly supposed to tamper with savage ears are urgently requested to attend. In former years, many of the faculties have had separate orchestras, which enjoyed a surprising popularity. This year, on the suggestion of Mr. Arnold, the secretary of the Y.M.C.A., a University orchestra is to be formed. It will be composed of talent drawn from all colleges of the University. This talent is by no means restricted, as only a casual survey of the situation disclosed well over eighteen men who were willing to join the organization. In this number were six first violinists, four seconds, three trombones, a pianist and a cornet, cello and clarinet.

Mr. Arnold, when interviewed in regard to this matter, said "We want a University Orchestra and with the musical ability in the University it should be an A1 organization. Already we have representatives from Meds., Science, Vic and St. Mike's." He emphasized the fact that a full turnout was hoped for this afternoon practice. Asked regarding the music to be attempted, Mr. Arnold said that would naturally depend on the members. If their musical training had passed the stage of "Turkey in the Straw" and "Rory O'Moore", something more elevating would be attempted.

ANGLICAN CLUB HELD SECOND MEETING MONDAY

On Monday afternoon the Anglican Club held their second meeting at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas, 142 St. George Street.

After a very sociable time spent over the tea, the president, Miss G. Silles, addressed the club and told them the intentions for future Red Cross work. It was decided at the Deaconess' Training School to work at various hospital supplies every two weeks, and at the other monthly meeting to knit at Mrs. Griffith Thomas'.

Owing to the very small attendance on Monday, the regular meetings of the club have been changed to Tuesday afternoon instead of Monday.

The aim of the Anglican Club has often been questioned. It is not merely to promote a stronger bond of friendship between the Anglican members of the University and to spend a social hour twice a month, but mainly to help the deaconesses with their work.

The Club does not want to take the girls away from their College functions, but would like to promote a greater interest among the members in Anglican work.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SEND IN PHOTOGRAPHS

Last year the Varsity Supplement proved a great success and received creditable praise both in Canada and the United States. A large sum was realized from its proceeds and given to the Red Cross. Will you help to make it as big or even a bigger success this year than last? For some time THE VARSITY has been doing its utmost to secure the photographs of men on service. In its last issue it published a list of the men whose photographs have not yet been received. Since then only a few have been received. To make the Supplement a complete success THE VARSITY must have the photographs of ALL the men. Can you help? Yes! Get a copy of Monday's issue of THE VARSITY and look over the list. If you can obtain a photograph of anyone mentioned in it or can give THE VARSITY any information where to secure one, do it now. By doing this you will not only be helping your University paper, but you will also be doing a service to the Red Cross which is so deserving of our utmost support and hearty co-operation.

LECTURE TO BE GIVEN ON WAR WORK

Dr. Flexner, of Rockefeller Institute, for Medical Research, will Speak

In connection with the opening of the Connaught Laboratories, a lecture will be delivered in Convocation Hall on Thursday evening, October 25 at 8.30, by Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. The subject of the lecture is the war activities of the Rockefeller Institute.

Dr. Flexner is one of the most eminent of American men of science. From 1892 to 1899 he was a member of the Department of Pathology of Johns Hopkins University. He went to the University of Pennsylvania as Professor of Pathology in 1899. Since 1903, Dr. Flexner has been director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York. This is the most important institute for research in pathology, bacteriology, immunology, experimental surgery and physiology in the world. Dr. Flexner's own researches into the causation of dysentery, anterior poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) and his investigations in relation to the epidemiology and treatment of cerebrospinal meningitis, have given him a world wide reputation. The first satisfactory application of serum therapy to epidemic meningitis, which has resulted in the reduction of the mortality in this disease from 75 to 25 per cent., was due to the work of Dr. Flexner and his colleagues. Since the outbreak of war, the Rockefeller Institute has maintained a special hospital at Compiègne, in France. The work of this hospital has been under the direction of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA MEETING

All students who wish to join the University Orchestra will kindly attend the organization meeting which is to be held this afternoon at 4 p.m. (Wednesday) in the University "Y". Show your interest in your college and university by turning out to practise with your instrument to-night.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY

The U.C. Woman's Literary Society will hold its second meeting on Saturday, October 27th at the Women's Union. Several important matters of business are to be discussed, notably the question of lowering the fee.

The programme needs no recommendation to anyone interested in literature. The main feature of the evening is an address by Dr. Alexander on the Irish poet and dramatist, Synge. In addition there is an inimitable little sketch, "A Pot of Broth," by W. B. Yeats, presented by the following cast:

John Conely, an Irish peasant, Miss Mabel Kilmer.
Sybil Conely, his wife—Miss Mary Smart.
A Beggar Man—Miss Mabel Child.

CLASS MEETING

There will be a meeting of Class '19 Arts in West Hall on Friday, October 26, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Class Executive.

LOST—In the top lab. or on the stairs of the Chemistry Building, a roll of bills. Finder please leave at THE VARSITY business office, or at Store Room, Chemistry Building.

News of Our Student Soldiers

A letter just received at the University from Lieut. J. E. Ritchie, B.A.Sc. 1913, who is with the Canadian Machine Gun Corps at Seaford, Sussex, contains much interesting news of school men overseas. At the time of writing Lieut. Ritchie had recently returned from a ten days' trip to France with a draft of men for the base, and he speaks of Lieut. A. M. German, B.A.Sc. '13, and Lieut. G. B. Rayner, of the 178 class, who are in France with the C.M.G.C. Among the men mentioned as being still at Seaford were Lieut. H. A. Johnston, a Hamilton man, who took his B.A.Sc. in 1904, and Lieut. A. V. Hill, of 1910, who hails from Owen Sound. Sergt. W. S. Kidd, formerly of the Department of Architecture with the class of 1916, is with the 7th Reserve Battalion, and Lieut. M. Hastings, B.A.Sc. 1911, is attached to the 8th Reserve Battalion at Shorncliffe.

To lose his leg and win the Military Cross, sums up tersely the war experience of 2nd Lieut. Melville Allen Davis, who graduated from Victoria College in 1915. He went overseas with a draft from the O.T.C. in January of this year, and crossed to France as lieutenant with an Imperial unit in which he had been granted a commission. According to private word sent to the university he has received serious wounds in the recent fighting, which have necessitated the amputation of his leg. Lieut. Davis, whose home is in Tara, attended school in Owen Sound before coming to the university, and also taught for a few years after matriculating. His ultimate goal was law at the time of his enlistment.

For conspicuous gallantry in the recent fighting at Lens, Lieut. J. A. McCamus, a student in arts at Victoria College with the class of 1913, has been awarded the Military Cross. Lieut. McCamus went overseas as an officer with the 81st Battalion in April, 1916, and when it was broken up for drafts to France he qualified for the Machine Gun Service, with which he has been at the front for over a year.

Applied Science is again to the fore, this time represented by Gnr. Peter Anderson Durbrow, who has won the Military Medal. Gnr. Durbrow entered School with the Class of 1917, but left in March, 1915, with a number of other University men from the O.T.C., and served with the 20th Battery, C.F.A. Later he acted as signaller in the 17th Battery in France, and returned to England in July to take out a commission with a machine gun battery.

Education

In a village not far distant from Toronto, there is a high school that is notable, if for nothing else, for a refreshingly different view of the purpose of education. A stone tablet set in the front elevation of the building bears this legend:

"Education—not a store of facts, but a habit of mind; not a reservoir, but a spring."

The inscription was suggested by a stained glass window in the new library of the Quebec Legislature. The design, conceived by the librarian, M. Ernest Myrand and executed by the Italian artist Guido Nincheri, portrays a young woman of exquisite grace and beauty drawing water from a spring half hidden in a clump of birches. Beneath the figure is the phrase, "Je puis mais n'empêche."

True education does not aim at equipping the student with a stock of encyclopaedic information, necessarily limited in extent and imperfect in fact. It does aim at training him in the application of the world's knowledge, and especially in the use of his own faculties of intellect. Memory is a store all too easily exhausted, at best; and if the criterion of the value of a university education is the amount of information, the mass of facts stored up in memory, then the course of the most brilliant student is a failure and a tragedy. But if a university education has trained a student to think, then all the knowledge of the ages is a spring from which he "draws but does not exhaust."

How is this habit of mind that characterizes the educated person to be developed? Obviously the kind of education depends upon the intellectual capabilities of the individual; and the method of education upon the kind of development that is required. It is the merest platitude that an intellect suited for the profession of medicine may be quite unsuited for the study of law; and the training for the one may necessarily have to proceed upon lines quite different from those required by the other. For this reason, generalizations upon the actual methods of education are difficult to make.

In subsequent issues, it is the intention of THE VARSITY to consider the methods of education obtaining in this University; and in order that dangerous generalizations may be avoided, specific attention will first be directed to the characteristics of education in the faculty of Arts. How can a university course be most effective in promoting the fullest development of innate ability? That is the problem ever-present in university government, and THE VARSITY hopes that a discussion of it from the standpoint of the student may be not without value.

Compulsory Attestation

THE VARSITY has lately received many queries in regard to the matter of compulsory attestation in the C.O.T.C. The C.O.T.C. in some quarters is not considered a militia unit; but in others it is. Some students say if the former is true, then compulsory military attestation is impossible. Other students say that if the latter statement—that the C.O.T.C. is a militia unit—is true, then compulsory attestation is again impossible. They point out that the Militia Act of Canada is not in force, and consequently civilians cannot be compelled to become members of the militia.

This matter is one which has been discussed to a considerable extent by the students of the University; and while it is not one of paramount importance, still some definite statement is greatly desired by many. On behalf of those concerned THE VARSITY asks for a clear answer to the questions raised above.

STUDENTS, ATTENTION!

Sergeant-Major F. H. Blake of the Military Hospitals Commission desires to receive tuition in algebra, geometry, physics and chemistry in order that he may complete his Junior Matriculation.

In return for such tuition he will give lessons in boxing—he is a qualified boxing instructor.

This is an opportunity for some student or students—one student to a subject will do if necessary—to help a returned soldier pass the matriculation examination necessary to enter the University. The boxing lessons received in return would also be of good use.

Sergeant-Major Blake may be found at the gym in Hart House.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Will you notice it?

Yesterday's weather does not augur well for the success of the coming tennis tournament.

Evidently speed is not one of the requisites necessary to secure an appointment on the University Library Staff.

We would like to know why there is so much delay on the part of the Women's Student Council in making recommendations for appointments to THE VARSITY Staff.

To-day's issue calls for a meeting of Mulock Cup team managers to draw up a schedule for the present season. This is a step in the right direction. Athletics should not be allowed to die out.

The other day we received The Wisdom of Solomon—a collection of texts—to review; and a few days later the Presbyterian Record appeared among our exchanges. THE VARSITY is neither a Sunday School paper nor an organ for "Uplift."

We noticed, while looking through the first issue of Torontontensis of 1898 that the Main Building is spoken of as one of the most perfect examples of Norman architecture in the world. It is well known that clothes do not make the man, so also a fine external view does not guarantee modern classrooms and comfort.

Other Colleges

Yale—It was announced at Yale on Wednesday last that all the minor winter sports of the university would be continued this year. Captain Overton, military instructor, indorses the idea. Hockey and basketball will be played only by the freshman team, but the swimming, wrestling, and handball will have varsity teams. Tennis is also to have a varsity team next spring. Both varsity and freshman cross-country teams will be entered in the inter-collegiate run. The fall class track meet will be held at Yale Field, October 27.

Harvard—Stars from many of the leading colleges will face each other at the Harvard Stadium on Saturday, November 3, when a game between teams representing the army and the navy, coached respectively by P. D. Haughton, Harvard's famous football mentor, and L. H. Leary, also prominent in the development of successful Harvard elevens, will be played in aid of the war camp community fund.

Philadelphia—Coach R. C. Folwell is to have three of his University of Pennsylvania football men drafted. They were in the naval reserve during last summer and were sent back to college with the proviso that they would be called on at a minute's notice.

Frank Quigley and John Henny, both of whom have been playing good ball on the scrub eleven, and H. Doremus, the strong man of the freshman class last year, are the men to answer the call.

Dartmouth—H. B. McDonough '18 of Manchester, N.H., was elected captain of the Dartmouth football team Wednesday last. F. J. Dussossoit '18 of Brookline, who was elected captain last fall, is now somewhere in France with the munition transport service.

The girls of Arizona are enthusiastic over prospects of military drill. They plan to form companies with the Upper-class girls as officers, and they will have a special uniform for the work.—The Daily Kansan.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

"The Hope of the Great Community"

By the late Professor Royce, of Harvard (Macmillan).

This little book is made up of a number of articles and addresses given by Prof. Royce during the last year of his life. Bradley of Oxford and Royce of Harvard, have led recent philosophical thought in the realm of pure or abstract metaphysics.

Recently, however, Royce in meeting the criticisms of Pragmatism directed against Bradley and himself, has more and more admitted a place for the human will or to use the terminology of another critic has given an increasing place to humanistic considerations.

In these last fragments we see more of Royce as a man than in any of his other writings.

His intense condemnation of Germany and Austria, in his discussion of the Lusitania and the Ancona atrocities, is formulated with such force and skill as to be exceedingly effective.

It would be difficult to surpass the biting sarcasm, the withering wit, in the reference to the Ancona.

"President Wilson accepting not any so-called 'lies' of the enemies of Germany, but the official statement of the submarine commander, who sank the Ancona after that vessel had ceased to make her effort to escape, and while her passengers were still in danger of drowning in case their vessel was sunk—President Wilson addressed to Austria a note in which he plainly and accurately said that the officially reported act of the submarine commander was in principle barbarous and abhorrent to all civilized nations. Austria, in its reply, very courteously, ironically and cynically thanked our Government for the 'esteemed favour' of its communication and expressed its entire ignorance of what law, of what principle of international morality there might be which the submarine commander was supposed by the American Government to have violated."

Now this Austrian reply—widely praised by the inspired German press as a masterpiece of diplomatic skill and received with 'quiet joy' by the official lovers and defenders of the German submarine policy—was precisely in the spirit of Cain's reply when he was challenged from overhead regarding the results of his late unpleasantness with his brother Abel. For Cain, while his brother's blood was crying from the ground, received a somewhat stern diplomatic communication from a moral power, demanding, "Where is thy brother?" And Cain in substance begged to acknowledge the esteemed favour of this communication from on high and seems at first to have taken a certain "stelles vergungen" in begging to represent first that so far as he knew, he was not his brother's keeper; while, for the rest, he desired most respectfully and in the friendliest spirit to inquire what law of God or man he was supposed to have broken."

The chapter on the "Great Community" endeavours to formulate the position that Germany has been guilty of an international crime against the community of interests of all mankind, and that this "community of interest" is the goal of all truly religious moral effort.

There is also a chapter only tentatively and imperfectly developed suggesting that after the war some concrete business arrangement should be entered into by the various nations, something like insurance or re-insurance. Probably he was partly led into this line of thought by thinking on the great banking business, the lending and borrowing that in such a colossal scale is now going on among the British allies.

If after the war this mutuality of business interest may lead far towards perpetuating peace it would be a consummation devoutly to be wished.

THE SNOWBIRD

Languidly glancing through our mail the other morning we came upon a card that stirred vague memories in our mind. Memories that some how seemed very disagreeable. Closer examination showed it to be a peremptory demand to appear immediately, if not indeed sooner, at the gym, there to be manhandled by a well-known medico who haunts that place. Frankly 'we were pleased—not at the summons but to find that our subconscious mind was still doing its bit. Further mental excavation brought to the surface the fact that this was our third invitation from that coy doctor. Though exactly similar to its forerunners, which after a careless perusal had been consigned to utter oblivion, still it produced in some obtuse psychological manner an entirely different result. It moved us to action. We decided to visit that insistent writer, who unimpaired of Hannah and the food laws scattered post cards with profligate abandon. Strenuously we assured ourselves we would not drill, and more strenuously that we would not fan the scented atmosphere of the gym with idiotic dumbbells. We were peaceful. Let us round our shoulders, and twist our spine in peace. Peace is incompatible to us with drill. To us therefore it behove have an exemption excuse—further intense agonized mental cogitation—result very gratifying. Sub-conscious mind again called upon informed us that in hallowed realms of the dim and misty past, a certain pin, vulgarly called "safety", had wrought lasting memory on our left shoulder. Burning with that enthusiasm that moves a mountain and the General Course, we wended our way to the gym. On the threshold we paused in surprise, then gently slid into the neutrality corner. We seemed to have "budded in" on a mass meeting of the "Menorah Club", then our fears were set at rest. We recognized a certain verdant freshman receiving in measured tones a Phillipic on his lack of punctuality. In our turn we too received that token of brotherly love, and also orders to discard the habiliments of civilization, and on a card to state our mother's age, and also to a repeating decimal our daily smoke average. We did, and with Spartan resolution permitted the icy blast to eddy round well-round the buttons of our overcoat. Suddenly our attention was riveted—there was old "Arts '18" himself, the man who with Newman's idea of a University, does not want a degree. He was singing in a sweet melodious voice: "Peace, let us have peace." Honestly, we felt cheap. The song died to a low wail of anguish and our friend (?) entered the surgery. Soon came oozing through the cracks of the door, faint and ghostly, the pitiful tale of why he didn't wish to be an Apollo. He may not have been a memorahite, but he gave us some points on voice culture in relation to verbal petitions for exemptions. We could almost see his eyes filling and his ducky little chin trembling. But oh! how flat, stale and unprofitable seemed our bald excuse to the eloquent appeal of Pa Abraham's. We felt we were doomed to "form hours" and we were darn sure when the doc said dispassionately - "Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m.—next!" Sie transit gloria mundi.

CENTRAL HEATING PLANT
NOW HAS GUARD

"Tie true, the heating plant boasts a military guard. In these days when we tightly button our winter overcoats and don fur-lined gloves, we think, with no little kindness about the University heating plant. And yet this humble little structure, to which all the University buildings look for warmth and comfort during the winter, is patrolled night and day by a military guard. It is of the greatest importance that no enemy agent should interfere with the constant operation of the plant. In the event of any such disaster, the loss to Canada's greatest university would be tremendous. During the summer the guard was removed, since the plant was not in operation. Such a system, however, of guarding the plant while in operation in the winter, and of withdrawing it in the summer, when no one was around the building, seems to invite disaster. But for now, three cheers for the heating plant.

He multieth words without knowledge—any student reciting.
"He putteth down one and setteth up another"—ice cream soda.

Some fellows think that to train for running means running for the train.

Some men are born with black eyes and others have to fight for them.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Now that Class A is hard at military drill and enjoying the benefits which it offers, a new form of student usefulness suggests itself. "Co-ed '18" whose letter has appeared in a previous issue of THE VARSITY, appears conscience-stricken that the co-eds are not able to materially assist in some work similar to drill. Very well, here is my suggestion. Why not turn all this latent energy into Red Cross work? Three hours a week of rolling bandages, or knitting, etc., by each of the female students would indeed be a real contribution to the cause. And as "Co-ed '18" has said, the women are not as studious as to labour in the afternoons; we agree and offer them this splendid opportunity to lay aside talk and do something.

"CLASS A".

FORESTRY! WHAT IS IT?

It is one of the fundamental principles of business that an article, no matter how good it is, will not have a large sale unless well advertised. In other words, the people have to be educated to ask for it and if its qualities are as good or better than advertised, the demand for it will increase until it has become a standard article. But advertising is dear—the initial outlay is expensive. This is the vital point of the situation.

It is going to be a hard, uphill climb to persuade the people of Canada that they must look after their forests themselves, no one else will. The private individual, no matter how much he may regret the ruthless destruction of one of our most lucrative natural resources, is powerless. The Government of the country, either Provincial or Federal, must be the one to take a hand; and in this country the Government is the people—or ought to be. So the problem solves itself into a purely educational campaign.

In line with this reasoning, I think that it is about time that Toronto University did a little much-needed advertising. They have established a Faculty of Forestry, i.e., given birth to a child and then refused to give it nourishing food, expecting it would grow up like a weed if only planted. It is certainly planted in the right spot, but sadly needs a little cultivating.

That the advertising need not be expensive, I will here show. Nearly every High School boy when he is nearing the completion of his course, casts round for some line of work in which to specialize. What shall I be? Doctor, engineer, dentist, etc.? And if he has a special liking for out of doors and the woods, he hates the idea of any of these professions. Now if he had a simple little folder telling of the profession of forestry, he would at once enquire further. What more simple than that the University should give this faculty a little more prominence than the older professions. No schoolboy needs a big curriculum to tell him what future is open for a doctor, an engineer or a druggist. He knows without telling. But what he doesn't know—and also what his father doesn't know is - WHAT IS FORESTRY?

Educate the children of the people to ask for a thing and you have gone a long way in creating a demand which will not be desired.

FRUIT PICKERS WILL MEET ON THURSDAY

West Hall will be the scene of much gaiety next Thursday evening, when the U.C. farmerettes will furnish a programme under the auspices of the W.U.A. A number of snap shots, representing the girls at various kinds of work and play will be shown. The singing of original camp songs by a chorus, and the appearance of the famous "camp characters", will form an interesting part of the meeting. A number of friends, all members of the W.U.A., and all Denny House people, are being invited.

The total attendance at world series games since 1903 has been 1,859,057 and the total receipts amount to $3,210,219.81. Fourteen series have been played since then, 1904 being the year no games were held.

"Torontonensis" Board Session 1917-18

AGENDA

Photographs—

1. Make arrangements with photographer for class sittings, so that appointments may not clash with lectures.
2. When all sittings have been made, have the proofs returned promptly in order that the selected photograph may be furnished the Board.

3. As soon as the finished pictures are ready to be turned over to the Editor, each representative should call on the photographer and identify each member of his or her class, writing the name plainly on the back of the print.

Note—The deposit left with the photographer by each graduate provides the following—

- (1) A print for the year-book.
- (2) A small reproduction of this group for each graduate.
- (3) A quantity of special rate advertising to meet a position of the cost of publication.

This portion of the work must be complete by December 1.

Biographies—

1. Distribute blanks to each member of class.
2. Recommend brevity and originality, following the special instructions on each form.
3. Extra forms are always available at Varsity post office in the Rotunda.

Arrange to have all biographies submitted by December 1.

General

1. Class executives, etc., may go to any one of the three Torontonensis photographers for sittings.

2. Clubs, athletic associations and all social organizations should be notified by their respective members about having pictures taken and sending in their copy early—not received after December 15, 1917.

3. Sororities and fraternities should be specially requested to submit their copy before December 1st. The fraternity lists should be classified as:

Frates in Facultate.
Frates in Bello.
Frates in Universitate.
Frates in Urbe.

4. Class histories and write-ups should be in by December 15th and members of the board are asked to make this generally known.

5. Reservations for "In Memoriam" pages should be made with the Business Manager as early as possible—not later than December 15, 1917.

Victoria

A union reception was held at Victoria College on Friday evening, October 19. By eight o'clock a goodly number had gathered in the lower hall and the men were making their way among the ladies, getting their promenade cards filled. As could be expected the number present did not come up to that of former years, yet a very friendly spirit seemed to predominate from the first and was noticeable throughout the evening.

The programme consisted of the time renowned "Bob". The chairman, Prof. Ford, linked up last year's "Bob" with this year's, not sparing himself in recalling the hobbing he was subjected to a year ago. The freshman year is not large, but of a varied type, both in character and dimensions, so much good subjects for hobbing. This was done in a manner which proved the abilities of the second year and their assistants as well as gave much amusement for the others. Some of the freshmen were surprised to find that so much of what they had done and said had been noted, and reproduced before their eyes. As the "Bob" did not take up the whole evening, the professors escaped this year. Both the first and second years rendered numerous songs, the former being accompanied with an orchestra of rattle-boxes.

In the various promenades which followed, a good opportunity was given for the cultivation of that college friendship which is seldom attainable in the ordinary round of lectures. All received a liberal share of ice-cream and cake which was served both upstairs and down, thus making it possible for all to be served quickly.

Finally, the hour for departure being at hand, all met in the hall where the different classes gathered in groups and gave their yells. All joined in the college songs. As the girls came from their class room the men formed the usual line-up to the front door, through which the various couples started on their last "prom" of the evening, although this time they had no accompanying orchestra. However, it is probable they would not have heard it had there been one as they are so accustomed to concentrate.

(Con amore) Bea tevv so wumble, there snow ply sly comb.

Chorus of the other years (con expression) Send me some money from home, Oh! Send me some money from home!—Queen's Journal.

Freshette (at initiation)—"I don't want to crawl through hoops."

Senior—"Pshaw, you'll soon be glad to. They're coming into style again."

IN HISTORY.

Prof.—"Mr. B., how do you know that Assyria, Media, and Carthage are dead nations?"

Mr. B.—"Well, I haven't seen anything in the papers about their declaring war on Germany."—Ex.

Heaven lies about us in our infancy, while in later years we lie about ourselves.

St. Michael's

A meeting of the L.C.D.U. was held at St. Michael's College on Monday afternoon when the following debates in the first series were decided on:

1. "Resolved that the overseas dominions should have a voice in determining the foreign policy of Great Britain"
Trinity will uphold the affirmative side as Osgoode choose the negative.

2. "Resolved that private ownership of public utilities provides a more honest and efficient administration than public ownership"

In this debate St. Michael's have the affirmative and School of Science the negative.

The subject of the third debate between Wychffe and McMaster will be published in the next issue of THE VARSITY.

All debates will take place on November 9th, if possible, and a meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 31 to make final arrangements.

Education

The first meeting of the Red Cross Society for work took place in the new work room in the annex on Monday afternoon, when the honorary president, Mrs. Pakenham, directed the work. Tea was served at the nominal price of five cents, the proceeds to be devoted to the Red Cross. Although the gentlemen were invited to be present, they were noticeably conspicuous by their absence, only a very few appearing. It is hoped that they will turn out in larger numbers in the future. A sock competition between the various sections has been arranged, and keen interest is already being shown. The progress of the sections will be reported each week.

At a munitions canteen a workman had called for a cup of coffee. Half a minute after receiving it he was back at the counter.

"There's something funny about this coffee, Miss," he said, "it tastes just like cocoa."

The waitress sipped it, and apologized. "I'm so sorry," she said, "I've given you tea."—Clippings.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

ALL WHO DRILL ARE MEMBERS OF THE CANADIAN MILITIA

But Will Not be Required to Perform All the Duties of the Militia

EXEMPTION CLAIMS

Military Editor Will Clear Up Any Doubtful Points Regarding C.O.T.C.

The many questions of interest to the male undergraduates of Varsity since the inauguration of compulsory military training were taken up by our representative with Lt.-Col. W. R. Lang, yesterday.

The Senate has decreed that all students, able to do so, must take up military training. Now, because the organization of the C.O.T.C. was available and complete, it was asked by the Senate to take over this work.

A Militia Unit.

But the C.O.T.C. is a "militia unit", and all laws pertaining and governing the militia applies to it. However, since it is an officers' training corps, made up of students, it is relieved from the necessity of being called out on such occasions as that of quelling riots, etc.

The organization of the C.O.T.C. calls for a man to wear the King's uniform. In order to do so he must first swear his allegiance to that King. Apart from the above fact it is evident to any person who has been connected with the training or drilling of an unit, that uniforms add immensely to a corps' efficiency.

Punishment of any offence committed while in uniform would be meted out by Lieut.-Col. W. R. Lang, who, when questioned on this point, said that the offender would be handed over to the University authorities to be dealt with.

Exemptions.

With regard to exemptions, the Colonel said that the Board would sit to-day, when a number of cases would be considered.

Although there has been much discussion about the matter of exemptions, yet there may be some who are still a little dubious about it. Therefore it has been suggested that these write out their doubts and send them in to The Varsity addressed to the military editor.

HORSE DOCTORS FROLIC

Vets. Hear Good Address by Dr. Powell

The Vets had a very enjoyable time last Tuesday evening. About twenty-five were present, which was a fine turnout, considering the weather. Dr. Hastings, M.O.H. of Toronto, who was to speak, found it impossible to come, and Dr. N. A. Powell of the Medical faculty was secured. He gave the men some good pointers, interspersing his talk with very humorous stories.

There were plenty of songs, yells, music, games and eats.

Dr. Allen occupied the chair and made the men feel at home. He contributed some excellent suggestions to the Vet students.

CHEMICAL CLUB NOTICE

Industrial Chemical Club of "School" Elected Officers on Monday

The reorganization meeting of the Industrial Chemical Club was held last Monday. The meeting, which was presided over by the chairman of the club, C. W. Hancock, resulted in the election of the following officers for the coming session:

Hon. President—Dean Ellis.
Hon. Vice-President—Prof. J. W. Bain.
Vice-President—W. P. Brodie.
Third Year Rep.—A. R. Clarry.
Sec.-Treasurer—H. C. Kerman.
Curator—J. C. Bell.

The executive will hold its first meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Mining Building.

Will you notice it?

MEDS!

Hit the trail for the north lecture room of the Medical College, on Monday, October 29 at 4 p.m. Dr. Harold Balme of Shantung University, China, will speak on "The opportunity for first class medical work and scientific investigation in China."

HYDRAULIC DEPT. OF SCHOOL OF SCIENCE INSTRUCTIVE TRIP GOES TO EUGENIA FALLS

Working of Power Plant Described to Future Engineers

Eugenia Falls is a very small village in Grey County. Through this in early days the Beaver River flowed without artificial interruption using its energy in the service of nature and judging from the beautiful rocky gorge, hundreds of feet in depth below the falls, it must have been an efficient servant. A number of years ago attempts were made to transfer a part of this energy to aid man and several companies became interested. However, in 1911, only a small percentage of available power had been developed and the whole project was taken over by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. It was to this development that the Commission transported the staff and students of the Hydraulic department Thursday morning. The weather was fine and roads in good condition, so that before one o'clock the party was standing on the top of the big concrete dam, listening to Mr. Hogg, Assistant Hydraulic Engineer, of the H.E.P.C., describing the development in general.

After luncheon, a few minutes in the launch brought the party across the seventeen-hundred acre reservoir to the gate house. Here Prof. Angus, Mr. Traill and Mr. Hogg, explained the various details of this important part of the plant. Then came the five-hundred and fifty feet descent to the power house over a mile away.

By five o'clock everything had been inspected and discussed, and the party returned to the hotel.

In the evening games were indulged in and those who could not enjoy this form of amusement were entertained otherwise.

Friday afternoon ended what is believed to have been one of the most instructive and beneficial outings given any students and will never be forgotten, nor will the kindness of Prof. Angus, Mr. Traill and the H. E. P. C. in making this possible.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL IS NOT A SPEED DEMON

But Students' Directory May Be Out at the End of November

The Students' Directory is expected to be in the hands of students before the end of November, contrary to the rule of the last few years.

All the advertising matter has been secured and the committee in charge of it are preparing the lists of names of each faculty. Be sure you leave your name, address, and phone number with the registrar immediately, if you wish them to be published in the directory.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB

The second fortnightly meeting of the Political Economy Club will be held this afternoon, Friday, October 26, at 4 p.m. in Room 1 of the Library Building. Mr. Cudmore will address the Club on "The Economics of Food Control." All students in honour economics, graduates and undergraduates, are invited to attend.

TWO MORE SCIENCE MEN IN C.O.T.C.

Two university men who have just entered the C.O.T.C. are A. V. DeLaport, B.A.Sc., 1910, and A. E. Berry, B.A.Sc., 1917. The latter comes from St. Mary's Ontario, and the former, whose home is in Toronto, served at Exhibition camp last winter under Major McCullough of the Provincial Board of Health.

FOURTH YEAR, ATTENTION!

To the students of the University of Toronto:

The Editor and Business Manager of Torontonensis, 1918, desiring to make this publication suit the best needs of the Class 1918, would appreciate any suggestions for the improvement of the book (either in form or matter) which may have come to the mind of any of those who are familiar with the productions of previous years. They desire, however, to remind the students of the alarming decrease in space contracts and in the amount of fees; also in the increasing difficulty in the securing of advertisements. It will be the aim of the Torontonensis Board to produce the best possible volume which the limited finances will allow.

Suggestions should be addressed to: "Torontonensis", 1918,

C/O THE VARSITY OFFICE,
(Sgd.) J. BEACON BRODIE.

Editor:
COLLIER C. GRANT,
Business Manager.

Sergt. H. M. W. Cumming has been reported wounded. He was a Political Science student at University College of the class 1918. Sergt. Cummings was very prominent in U.C. circles.

UNIVERSITY Y.M.C.A. ENTERTAINED VIC. MEN

J. H. Crocker Gave Address on Conditions in China—Several Other Features

Have you noticed the change made at the University Y.M.C.A.? If you have not, I advise you to visit it at once. Make yourself at home. Mr. Ferris or Mr. Arnold would be very glad to give you any information you desire.

The southern room on the east side of the building has been converted into an office. It contains a name catalogue. Any student's name and address in any faculty of the University may be found there. This is a practical convenience for the students. Get acquainted with it immediately.

At the end of the hall to the left is the reading room. Any daily paper in the city is there for you to read. A small library is also there for the mental and spiritual uplift of the students.

Opposite the reading room is a large entertaining room. A large supply of the leading magazines of Canada and the United States may be found there. Those students who desire scientific games may enjoy themselves at chess or checkers.

The piano and Victrola attract many students, now let it attract you. Use the Y.M.C.A. for the purpose it was erected for. It costs nothing. Be fair! Come in and enjoy yourself and we will be contented.

METHODISTS MAKE MERRY

Although it rained and rained hard, a goodly number came to the "Y" mixer, Wednesday evening, at the "Y" building. The inclemency of the weather only served to enhance the cheerfulness and brightness of the rooms in which the merry company gathered for the evening's entertainment. Those who especially contributed to that entertainment deserve special mention.

The chief speaker of the evening was J. Howard Crocker, who has just recently returned from China, where he was active in the capacity of medical physical director for the Y.M.C.A. He told, with great vividness of the conditions there in the sphere of athletics since the "Y" has taken hold, and how the great change has been effected. It came home with great force to his hearers that here is a great promising field of service for keen university men. Modern China now realizes that she may no more look only to the past; but is ready for that four-fold manhood which is the ideal of the Y.M.C.A. in the western world. It was brought out in the discussion which afterwards followed Mr. Crocker's address, that it is of the utmost consequence that Chinese students who go back to their home land should be in sympathy with the cause of Christianity, since no greater menace could face the Christian work there than returned men who are antagonistic to it. He pointed out that this is a challenge to our university associations in America wherever there are Chinese students.

Mr. McGee of the Central "Y", laid before the men in a most earnest way the social conditions of our own city which need, most urgently, to be remedied, and showed how sincere, straight university men can be of incalculable service, namely by giving a part of their time and thought to classes of young men who gather at the Central "Y" weekly. "It is a big job and needs big men" was Mr. McGee's call for workers.

Prof. McLaughlin, the Hon. President of Vic "Y", was also present. He told how he had discovered the Fountain of Youth, and how he, though more than thirty years connected with this University, was still young. This was by mingling freely with the young people who come here as students. All the students indicated unmistakably how they appreciated his presence with them.

Mr. Roseborough, Vic. 2T1, delighted the company with two splendidly rendered violin solos. Mr. G. W. Moore in the exercise of his well-known elocutionary powers, evoked from his audience the usual side-splitting laughter. Everyone was in a happy mood. You know the fellowship that exists on such occasions. What with song, yells, music, games, and good things to eat, we had a great time.

CHOIR PRACTICE.

The Choir will hold a practice in Convocation Hall on Saturday from 12 to 1 o'clock, and on Sunday at 10. Everyone should make an effort to be present at these practices.

PRESIDENT PRAISES

Students for the Good Results in Red Cross Campaign

October 23, 1917.

President's Office.

Mr. Collier C. Grant,
Secretary,

Students' Administrative Council,

University of Toronto.

Dear Mr. Grant,

Will you allow me to thank you, and through you, your organization for the work you have done in connection with the British Red Cross Fund, and also to congratulate the students on the good result obtained.

Yours sincerely

President.

RECENT VOLUMES OF "TORONTONENSIS" WANTED

Prof. Taylor has Presented Students' Council with Two Ancient Editions

The Students' Administrative Council has recently been presented by Professor W. R. Taylor, with two ancient volumes of Torontonensis. The executive are endeavouring to complete their files, and, if any members of the Staff, or friends of the students of the University of Toronto, have in their possession any of the volumes missing from the files, the executive would greatly appreciate the gift of these volumes or a chance to purchase them. The following volumes are missing from the files: 1890, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1911.

NOTED SCHOLAR TO SPEAK AT CONVOCATION

Rev. F. J. Foakes Jackson is Now a Professor in Union Theological Seminary

Rev. F. J. Foakes Jackson, the speaker at Convocation Hall for Sunday next, is one of the finest scholars that the Church of England has produced. For many years he was Dean of Jesus College, Cambridge, he was considered a leading figure in the life of that institution. In 1901 he was appointed Honorary Canon of Peterborough and in the following year delivered the Hulsean Lectures at Cambridge.

He came to the United States in 1916 to occupy the Chair of Christian Institutions in Union Theological Seminary, New York, which position he now holds.

Professor Foakes Jackson is the author of several well-known books which have had a wide circulation. Among these are a History of the Christian Church to A.D. 451 and Biblical History of the Hebrews. Quite recently he added a volume of essays on Faith and the War.

Combining in himself the qualities of both scholar and preacher, Professor Foakes Jackson is one of the outstanding men in university life on this continent, and the Seminary Committee is fortunate in being able to secure him for their service.

Sergt. Frank Sanders, a recent graduate of University College of 1916, has been reported to have died of wounds. His brother, Joe, is now in France.

Oct. 29—Initial meeting of Menorah Club. Room 4, U.C. 8 p.m.—This is an important meeting.

CONNAUGHT LABS. FORMALLY OPENED

Governor-General of Canada Performed the Ceremony Yesterday Afternoon

GREAT SERVICE TO MANKIND

Splendid Facilities are Provided for Combatting Many Serious Maladies

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock his Excellency the Governor-General formally opened the Connaught laboratories. These are located twelve miles north of Toronto, on the Vaughan road, and have been for some time the source of Canada's supply of antitoxins and vaccines. This scientific enterprise originated as far back as the winter of 1914, when Major Fitzgerald, the present head of the University Laboratory, in conjunction with Sir Edmund Osler, undertook to establish a laboratory in connection with the University of Toronto, where diphtheria and tetanus antitoxin, anti-meningitis serum, anti-rabic and small-pox vaccines could be prepared and distributed at cost.

The success of their efforts immediately cut the cost of these products more than in half, and so national did the scope of the University Laboratory become that even Newfoundland sent here for its supply of diphtheria antitoxin.

INCREASED WAR DEMANDS.

When the war brought an increased demand for anti-tetanus serum, together with the large output required for the free distribution of antitoxins and vaccines by the Provincial Board of Health, more adequate equipment became necessary. Col. A. E. Gooderham at once offered to provide a laboratory for the production of tetanus antitoxin, and the Department of Militia and Defence at the same time agreed to a grant of $5,000, with a right to the entire output should they require it. As a result this special laboratory, under the direction of Dr. R. D. Defries, has been supplying all the tetanus anti-toxin used by the C.E.F. in France at price, which is lower than the lowest cost quoted by any American manufacturer.

When Col. Gooderham found that the work was hampered by lack of accommodation, he presented the University with a fifty-acre farm about twelve miles north of Toronto and the magnificent laboratory and stables that were opened this afternoon.

On their arrival at the farm, his Excellency the Governor-General, his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and the other members of the official party were welcomed by Sir Edmund Walker, chairman of the Board of Governors, who presided during the subsequent ceremonies and Sir Robert Falconer.

PRESENTATION OF DEED.

After the deed to the farm, laboratories and equipment had been presented by Col. Gooderham and accepted on behalf of the University by Sir Edmund Walker, the Duke of Devonshire performed the opening ceremony. His speech was followed by one by Sir William Hearst, and the chairman made some further announcements with reference to the work being done in the laboratory.

The numerous details involved in the preparation of the antitoxins, and the like, were then very interestingly and clearly shown in a moving picture film, illustrating all phases of the work carried on in the Connaught laboratories and the University. A tour of the laboratories and stables was followed by the serving of a tea, after which the guests returned to town.

GATHERING OF SCIENTISTS

The concluding feature of the opening took place last night in Convocation Hall, when Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, gave an address on "The War Activities of the Rockefeller Institute." Among the several hundred guests who attended the opening were such well-known men as Dr. Wadsworth, director of the State Board of Health Laboratories, Albany, N.Y., Professor V. A. Moore, of Cornell; Dr. Montziambert, director-general of public health; Dr. F. Torrance, veterinary director-general; Major J. L. Todd, Board of Pensions Commissioner, and Sir James Grant, all of Ottawa; Prof. Vallee, of Laval University; General Logie, Colonel Bickford and Major McCullough, together with members of the Provincial Legislature, Mayor Church and many others.

Education

The purpose of education is not to impart information. That is the point THE VARSITY especially desires to make. True, in the process known as education, much information is imparted, and some of it retained, at least for a while. But, as was before stated, if education were the filling of a vessel with knowledge as an empty vessel is filled with water, then the capital that is invested in institutions of so-called higher education, and worse still the time of thousands of young people that is spent in attending them, all this would be a colossal and tragic waste. Let him who doubts this recall the subjects he has in past years studied; let him consider how much he now remembers of the facts of such studies as he has ceased regularly to use.

It may be, and we hope such is the case, that but few of us still cling to the view of education that prevailed not many years ago. If so, what has been said here may seem unnecessary and futile. But the old misconception is not yet extinct. Not many months since, the most widely-read periodical in America published a series of articles on education in the form of an autobiography. The author was an eminently successful lawyer writing on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. He cast his mind back over the days of his college course, and he lamented with something akin to bitterness, how little he remembered of the history and languages and sciences he once had known. "I wasted in college four years of the best part of my life." A prominent Toronto merchant views education in the same light. In an interview last summer, apparently after an inventory of memory similar to that of the New York lawyer, he exclaimed: "My college education wasn't worth a hoot to me!"

Like pouring water into an empty vessel—that is the view that these men, both leaders in their chosen fields, held of education; and both realized how complete and how certain was the evaporation of what had been poured. They did not realize that education is not an acquisition, but a development; not a pouring in, but a drawing out. The name itself is the truest explanation of its nature: education, from the Latin "educere", to, draw out. Many a man does not realize that his college course becomes part of himself, "bound up in the bundle of life", that we call the individual. The criterion by which the student should judge his education and himself is, "Not what I know, but what I am."

College Sermons.

The Committee in charge of the College Sermons is to be congratulated upon the list of preachers secured for the Michaelmas term. Included in the list are men who are well known on this continent, both for their scholarship and also for their preaching ability. Many of them, moreover, are connected with Canadian and American universities, and thus come into close touch with students. Accordingly they learn the problems of students at first hand, and are able to appreciate them fully.

It is this last point which makes the series of sermons, which has been a feature at Varsity for some years, of especial value. For a University student is a peculiar phenomenon. He is being given a training which is calculated to widen his outlook. This training generally does have a broadening influence, but it also has the effect of making students, inwardly at any rate, ask themselves serious questions about the world which surrounds them. Students themselves cannot answer these questions, nor can their fellows. Accordingly they look for men who, as a result of long experience, can give satisfactory answers. Such men are found among those who will preach at Convocation Hall during the present term. They are well acquainted with the various sides of university life, and are in a position to deal with any difficulties in an effective manner.

Furthermore, the College Sermons give

The Query Box

Q. Have the flags which grace walls of the University Library any other object than that of decoration?—T.M.M.

A. The banner on the wall of the entrance hall to the library was presented to the University by Earl Grey just before he left Canada. Earl Grey did not send a letter explaining the meaning of this banner.

The following letter sent to the President by Earl Grey on behalf of Queen Victoria explains the object of her presenting the banner which hangs in the reading room.

20th November, 1908.
"It is my duty to be allowed to forward to you, by command of the Princess of Wales, a banner, for presentation to the University of Toronto.

"The Princess of Wales hopes that the students of the University of Toronto will welcome this banner as an abiding proof of her interest in their well-being.

"On one side of the banner is the original flag of England, the time-honoured emblem of St. George, suggesting at once the chivalry of the Crusades, the Charity of the Ambulance, and the self-sacrifice of the Cross.

"On the other side is a beautiful embroidered picture suggesting the duty and dignity of reverence and service. King Edward III is here represented on the battlefield of Crecy, pointing to his son, the Black Prince, the flag of the dead King of Bohemia.

"The King authorizes his victorious son to adopt as his own, the motto and device of the fallen monarch, and exhorts him to pledge his life to the service of mankind. The reverential acceptance by the Prince of Wales of the King's appeal is beautifully depicted.

"Her Royal Highness hopes that her banner may inspire successive generations of undergraduates to adopt for the guidance of their lives the motto:

"I Serve"

which from the days of the Black Prince has been the stimulating motto of every Prince of Wales.

"Signed by Earl Grey"

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Buy a Rebel

Two months from yesterday will be Christmas. Shop early!

Is it true that the cosy corners in Queen's Hall are as popular as usual?

We cannot see why the writers in "The Rebel" should be anonymous. They ought at least to have the courage of their convictions.

Why is it that some professors exceed their time limit? This procedure makes it highly inconvenient both for the student and the following lecturer.

We suppose that the ladies who are to be appointed to THE VARSITY Staff will appear in time for the Staff picture, at any rate.

What's doing at Trinity? THE VARSITY would be glad to meet a representative of the "High Churches".

And again, it's like pulling teeth to get news from the Dental College.

We hope the "Rah! Rah!" boys of Wycliffe were not too rough when they initiated their embryo bishops recently. Well, the meals they get up there are apt to make a person wild now and again anyhow.

Capt. Joseph M. Casserly, R.A.M.C., reached Toronto yesterday. For the past two years he has been in Salonica and France.

University of Toronto students an unexampled opportunity of hearing some of the greatest preachers on the continent.

THE VARSITY hopes that the students will take full advantage of the series this term. We are sure that no student who attends these services will regret the time thus spent.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

CORRESPONDENCE

WOULD RE-ORGANIZE
LECTURE SYSTEM

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,

Much has been said regarding the value of drill to the student, and perhaps a few words concerning the utility of the other side of his education may not be amiss at this time. We come here to be educated, and lectures have somewhat to do with this.

Often have the words of Tennyson, "To follow knowledge like a sinking star beyond the utmost bound of human thought", been quoted, and surely they should express the attitude of the student. But how many students attend lectures because they have a real thirst for knowledge, a desire to drink from the fountains of wisdom, characterized as professors, is it not pertinent to ask "Whose fault is this?"

Our lectures are not uninteresting because we have not a desire for learning. Many of us are here because we have that desire. But our professors have a wrong method of imparting knowledge. Education is not a dead inert thing, given out so much at a time from the great storehouse of wisdom. It is a growth; not a habit of thought, but thinking, not memory, but creative power. It is an attitude, an eternal questioning. Not in being spoon-fed by others, but by expressing our own ideas are we truly educated. Paraphrasing Browning, is not finding a way in for that without, but in finding a way out for that within.

Our lectures are naught but lectures—an hour's recital with no questions, no discussion, no thought. Our professors follow Kant and lecture because it is their duty, and duty becomes synonymous with drudgery. Socrates taught not so. The system is at fault. Education has become memory, and not creativeness, machinery and not originality. Even our professors give us their notes and not themselves. I do not decry their detailed knowledge, but I desire to be educated.

Why not admit discussion to our lectures, and although so much knowledge is not learned, let us be educated? Any man can buy an encyclopaedia, but education is a gift of the gods.

These remarks, of course, are applicable only to certain lectures.

UNWARRANTED NEGLIGENCE

A Reply Should be Made to McGill At Once re the Proposed Rugby Game

Since the outbreak of war the University has been making every effort to further patriotic purposes and in so doing found it necessary to cut off all forms of inter-collegiate athletics. On the entry of the United States into the war their college authorities decided that instead of stopping all intercollegiate sports, the best thing would be to turn the proceeds of such games over to patriotic purposes, and in this manner large sums have been paid to the Red Cross and other societies.

In the past week a letter was sent by McGill University to the President of the U. of T. Rugby Executive, offering to play home and home games in aid of the Red Cross. The University unfortunately has no Rugby Executive at present, and the whereabouts of this letter is unknown. Meanwhile no attention has been paid to the patriotic offer, and no acceptance or refusal has been made. This leaves the University of Toronto in a bad light before the public, and some action should be taken in the matter by the proper authorities—the Athletic Directorate.

Wycliffe

In the wee sma' hours of Saturday morning last, weird figures were to be seen stealing stealthily along the dimly lighted corridors of the College. Uncanny sounds reverberated through the halls, and eventually the trembling new-comers were removed from their beds while the variously attired members of the second year announced to them that the fatal hour for "initiation" had arrived.

Blind-folded and tied quite closely together, the "unfortunates" were led down stairs, around corners, out-of-doors, through numerous mud-and-water holes, across Hoskin Avenue, and finally into the College basement to the library.

The library had been quite nicely arranged for the occasion, and the whole initiation took the form of an auction—"Knock 'em down" laid numerous charges against him. Then the man was sold to the second year man bidding highest. Each of whom had a certain trade, and his own little stall, where he took his victim for treatment.

Atkinson (Professor Nippers), as dentist, successfully dealt with MacNamara and MacLennan. "Massa Razor" as barber, in the blackened form of A. S. P. Woodhouse gave Geoghegan an up-to-date shave, and the latest hair-cut and shampoo to Clapson. Marsh (Professor Toel as chirapodist, attended to Knight's feet. Pogson (Dr Quack) was physician to Gallagher. Meen (Professor Pot) as artist added beauty (?) to each of the freshmen, with his store of fresh paints. He also had complete control of Barlow, Kennedy, who, by the way is fond of the fair sex, had one of the "sweetest" kisses bestowed on him, in the form of a cup of corn syrup, well rubbed into his hair by Lucas, as "Miss Hug-me-Tight", the auctioneer's stenographer. After passing over the "Rocky Road" to Dublin, the freshmen were all lined up and forced to join the "Green Brotherhood", and affix their names to the rules thereof.

All then adjourned to the gymnasium, where refreshments were served and much enjoyed. Short speeches were given by the presidents of the Literary Society the first and second years.

INTERFACULTY FOOTBALL WILL SOON BE STARTED

Executive to Conduct Mulock Cup Series Has Been Elected

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, representatives from all the faculties and colleges, except School of Science, met at the gymnasium. T. A. Reed called the meeting to order, and an executive was elected to conduct the Mulock Cup Series.

President—Mr. O'Brien, St. Michael's. Vice-President—Mr. Frid, Victoria. Secretary—Mr. Carroll, Medicine. Executive Committee—F. Burrows, U.C., Corp. Robbins, O.S.T.C.

A meeting of the executive and of the managers of the teams was called for Friday at 3 p.m., to adopt a schedule and decide whether one game or return games, shall be played in the first round. Days for games and practices, which will not conflict with O.T.C. drill, have yet to be arranged. The meeting discussed the merits of a certificate of eligibility for each player of doubtful status.

U. OF T. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Nomination for Representatives Should be Sent In At Once

Nominations for student representatives on the Athletic Directorate will be received by the Secretary at the Gymnasium until noon on Tuesday. Nominations must be made in writing, signed by the mover and second, who must be members of the Association in good standing.

Education

Last Monday evening, about forty of the men students at the faculty of education assembled at the University Y.M.C.A. Mr. Vaughan, a promoter of the Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests, was the speaker. He brought a direct appeal to the F.O.E. men in relation to their future occupation, more especially in connection with the training and handling of children.

Mr. Whitelock was in the chair, and was appreciated by all those present.

The musical numbers were rendered by Messrs. Kemp, Adams, Skeene. Everybody indulged in games and refreshments. The mixer was regarded by all as excellent. The men got acquainted with each other and with the graduates, in a manner not afforded by any other organization.

McGill's New Stadium.

McGill University has recently been the fortunate recipient of a gift from one of the alumni. Seventy-five thousand dollars has been left them by the late Captain Molson for the stadium for their athletic field. Capt. Molson, at the beginning of the war, was the chairman of a committee of graduates who had in their charge the building of this stadium, so he appreciated the large financial load which was being carried. Capt. Molson, in his college days, was a track and football star. His generous bequest has relieved the student body and alumni of all the financial difficulties.

ORCHESTRA PRACTICE

The University orchestra will practice on Monday night in the University "Y" building. Everybody come. We had a grand practice on Wednesday night, and everybody is enthusiastic over the outlook.

PRESIDENT ELECTED

The Electrical and Mechanical Club held a meeting in the Engineering building on Monday for the purpose of electing a president in place of Mr. McLeod who has been unable to return. Mr. Fraser, a fourth year electrical student, was elected. Mr. Fraser has just lately returned from France, where he saw active service with the Canadian Engineers. He has had much experience in handling both men and materials, and is just the man to make the club a success.

Never did wizard work such transformation as does our Jewellery Department in the making over of old diamond rings, brooches, earrings, bracelets and necklets.

A lady brings in, we will say, an unattractive diamond ring and a brooch, for which she has "lost notion." We pass our magic hand over it, and lo! an exquisite platinum and diamond bar pin appears.

Women's Fine French Kid Gloves

Regularly $1.95 a Pair,

Saturday, $1.50

There's going to be no end of enthusiasm over this sale, and because we want as many people to share in it as possible, we've fixed the hour of this interesting feature of to-morrow's selling at 10 a.m.—no need to rise uncomfortably early to be among the first-comers.

Women's French Kid Gloves, the famous "Trefousse" make, perfectly made of soft selected skins, white only, with fancy black braid stitched backs. Each pair has two gold-stamped compo domes. There are only 300 pairs of these gloves, and as the quantity is limited, we must say—only two pairs to a customer, and no 'phone or mail orders. All sizes from 5½ to 7½. Regularly $1.95 a pair. Saturday at 10 a.m. per pair. $1.50

LOEW'S THEATRE.

It is only once in a long time that a feature like "The Angel of Mercy", which comes to Loew's Young Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week, as the photo-drama feature, featuring Alice Brady, is seen on the screen. It is only once in centuries that such a momentous happening as the Russian revolution occurs. It is this tremendous revolution which makes this picture so timely in these trying times of war. The exact conditions in Russia before and after the revolution are depicted with remarkable fidelity. Alice Brady plays the role of one of the liberty-loving leaders, who at a critical moment at a monster celebration in the Russian Court, refuses to play "God Save the Czar" and is whipped and sent to Siberia. Miss Brady appears as a young Russian musician. The story is replete with excitement and interesting incidents. It has been staged on a lavish scale.

As an extra added picture attraction, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle will be seen in his latest version of "Oh, Doctor", in which he appears in a number of side-splitting incidents. In addition to the feature pictures, seven high class vaudeville acts will be given. The performance in the Winter Garden is the same as in Loew's Theatre.

Teacher of Scripture Class—"Yes, children, then Nero ordered his centurion to give the slave twenty stripes—Mabel (whose father is in camp)—"Lord, mum, that must 'a' made 'im a blooming Colonel!"—Sydney Bullfin.

LT.-COLONEL LANG DEFINES THE STATUS OF C.O.T.C. IN THE CANADIAN MILITIA

THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT CLEARS MILITARY SITUATION AT VARSITY

MEMBERS SUBJECT TO K. R. AND O.

Some questions having arisen regarding the status of the C.O.T.C., the following information is published.

1. The Corps is a unit of the Active Militia, is governed by the provisions of "King's Regulations and Orders for the Canadian Militia", and its place in the order of precedence is at the head of the Infantry.

2. Officers of the contingent, but not non-commissioned officers, have the same liability for service as other militia officers, but members of the Corps are only liable to military service under the Military Service Act in the same way as are all other male inhabitants of Canada, namely, in the event of a "levee en masse".

3. The Senate and Governors of the University having ordered that a course of Military Studies be compulsory for all undergraduates, those physically unfitted for the practical military training were detailed to take physical training at the University gymnasium, which, to a great extent follows the military system, and the University Contingent of the C.O.T.C., acting through its officers, was authorized to prescribe and provide the military training. The contingent cannot uniform and train men who do not enrol in its ranks, which enrolment necessitates the taking of the Oath of Allegiance. This oath, however, implies no undertaking to go on active service in Canada or elsewhere, as is pointed out in paragraph 2 above, but only that the man will "bear faithful and true allegiance to His Majesty", obey all orders, appear on parade when ordered to do so, and conform to the rules and regulations laid down in K. R. and O., until honourably discharged from the Corps, which automatically takes place on leaving the University or for other good reason.

4. It is not anticipated that undergraduates who are British subjects will refuse to undertake the responsibilities detailed in the preceding paragraph. Any doing so, however, may claim exemption, when they will be classified as belonging to Category D2, which comprises those who are declared medically fit, but for conscientious reasons decline to wear His Majesty's uniform; these will be detailed to the Director of Physical Training for instruction at the gymnasium. The following detail of categories into which students are divided on physical examination may be of interest:

- A—Fit for overseas service.
- B—Fit for overseas service in non-combatant forces.
- C—Fit for service in Canada only.
- D1—Not at present fit for any of the above.
- D2—Fit, but conscientious objector.

MENORAH CLUB INAUGURAL MEETING

At 8 o'clock sharp to-night at Room 4 University College, the initial meeting of the Menorah Society will be held. As the meeting is of vital importance a good turnout is expected.

There will be nominations and elections of officers for the coming term. Students of every faculty interested in this movement should not fail to turn out and elect the proper men and women to represent the various faculties.

Part of the constitution which has been drawn up will be brought before those present for discussion. It is expected that Prof. W. R. Taylor, Ph.D., of the Oriental Department, will address the members on "The Purpose of a Menorah Society."

DR. FLEXNER LECTURES ON SURGICAL PROGRESS IN THE PRESENT WAR

Shows Immense Value of Antiseptic
Agencies in Saving Life

What was in summary the story of surgical revolution during the present war was told by Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, to a gathering of medical men and students at Convocation Hall last Thursday evening. His Excellency the Governor-General attended, with the Lieutenant Governor Sir John Hendrie, K.C.M.G. Sir Robert Falconer briefly introduced the speaker, touching on the visit as an instance of the amenities of intellectual life, and still more of the unity of scientific effort in the common war. He, as Prof. Fitzgerald at the close, seconding a vote of thanks, proposed by Dean Clarke, remarked on the high administrative abilities that marked Dr. Flexner.

Prefacing his address, Dr. Flexner said he considered it a distinction to be asked to attend the exercises of a university in a neighbouring State, and especially as an illustration of the new bond between the two countries brought about by this terrific struggle.

WOUNDS QUICKLY INFECTED

He mentioned that the Rockefeller Institute happened to be interested closely in the surgical side of the war from its inception, as Dr. Carell, a French member of the staff, was actually in France when war broke out. He at once busied himself in the study of the new condition of the wounds that followed the battle of the Marne. For the last fifty years, Dr. Flexner explained, surgery has been tending to become more and more antiseptic. Rarely, before the war, were wounds known to be infected, thanks to the discoveries of Pasteur and Lord Lister. Owing, however, to the highly fertilized state of the soils of northern France and Belgium it was found that the wounds of almost all men quickly became infected with bacteria contained in the soils of those parts, largely induced there by natural fertilizers so largely used in agriculture.

GREAT WORK OF SCIENTISTS.

In language that was almost wholly robbed of its technicalities, Dr. Flexner told how Dr. Carell, in conjunction with an English chemist, Dr. Dakin, discovered the bacillus which brought about the dreaded "gaseous gangrene" of so many wounds, and how the Rockefeller Institute has enabled him, first, to carry out experiments in France, and then on a larger scale in America, so that they believed now there had been discovered the antitoxin for treatment of these wounds. It was an old remedy re-applied to new conditions—i.e., chlorine in borated form.

Experiments were being carried out in the Institute and each fortnight sixteen surgeons from the American army were given instruction in the use of the new antitoxin, so that they would use it with their army in France. Dr. Flexner was extremely modest in his claims. He only said they hoped "they had found an antitoxin for gaseous gangrene, which would be as valuable in preventing potential gangrene as the antitoxin for tetanus was." He believed the serum could be used together for one injection. He mentioned, too, the hopes of the Institute that the new discovery would be of great preventative value.

"If this is so we may," he concluded, "have gained a new preventative treatment of wounds, which may be one of the small gains to man in this terrible war."

During the evening a few screen pictures were shown of the forms of the bacillus and the bacteriological side of the experiment dilated upon.

FOOD CONTROL IS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Indirect Method More Effective Than Direct

The second regular fortnightly meeting of the Political Economy Club was held in the Seminar, Library Building, on Friday last. Mr. Cudmore addressed the meeting on "The Economics of Food Control". Proceeding directly to his subject he outlined two ways of controlling the prices of food. One was by arbitrarily fixing prices, by a food controller, or other official with such powers of control. In the U.S. and in Canada, such powers had been exercised in the fixing of wheat prices $2.20 a bushel in U.S. and $2.21 in Canada. These prices had intended to help the man on the street. The food controller must be in closest touch with all conditions prevailing, but in spite of this his judgments are liable to be snap judgments. If he fix certain prices lower than the cost at which producers think they can produce the goods concerned, then production will decrease. The effect of the fixing of wheat prices in France, at a price 60 per cent. of the former price for imported wheat, has led to a decrease in the production of the commodity. This brings out one reason for the demand upon America for wheat. The fixation of prices in Canada is not likely to be as harmful as it has been in France. In the long run, the fixation of prices does not help the consumer very much. The direct method should be abandoned for a better one.

Continuing, Mr. Cudmore spoke of indirect methods to control the supply and price of food. Three methods were given: (1) stimulation of production; (2) stoppage of waste; (3) embargo upon exports. The third was declared impractical. To increase production by increasing labour had succeeded well. Machinery increase was also profitable, as in the case of tractors. Another way of increasing production was to use substitutes. This had already been attempted in the use of fish, for beef, bacon, etc. Quoting statistics, Mr. Cudmore asserted that there had been a half-million loss in numbers in both beef cattle and in hogs since the commencement of the war. Further restrictions in the sale of meat might be expected. Another method, more efficacious, would consist in inducing the farmers to use the most prolific kinds of seeds for productive purposes. In the case of Dundas County at least, farmers had been very negligent about their selection of seeds for planting purposes. Mr. Cudmore thought that if seed was carefully selected, production would be increased 50 per cent. or perhaps doubled.

In regard to the standard of living, Mr. Cudmore thought that it could not be cut down very much. The efficiency of the workers of North America depended upon their supplies of food. At the present time, any large restriction in food consumption would be less valuable to the country than the increase in efficiency gained through the abolition of such restrictions. Labour also must be saved in the distribution of products. In this respect Canada is very weak, especially in regard to store delivery, and that of dairy and bakery products. These indirect methods of price control by effecting supply and demand are more effective than the direct method of arbitrary fixation of price.

ORGAN RECITAL PROGRAMME ANNOUNCED

The second organ recital of the present session will be held on Tuesday, October 30, at 5 p.m., by Mr. F. A. Mouré, at Convocation Hall. The programme will be:

1. Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750).
Toccata in F.
2. Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy
Nocturne (Midsummer Night's Dream).
3. Arthur Foote (1853—).
Suite in D, Opus 54.
4. Joseph Callaerts (1838—).
Intermezzo.
5. Harry Rowe Shelley (1858—).
Etude de Concert.

The next recital will be held on Tuesday, November 13.

REV. F. J. FOAKES JACKSON PREACHES WAR SERMON IN CONVOCATION HALL

SPEAKER ELOQUENTLY DEFENDS SPIRIT AND TEACHING OF OLD LAW

DENOUNCES GERMANY'S SECRET PREPARATION

Reverend F. J. Foakes Jackson, a professor in the Union Theological Seminary, New York, addressed a large congregation in Convocation Hall on Sunday, October 28, on the all-important subject of our attitude in the present war.

The speaker defended the spirit and teachings of the Old Testament against those who say that it is not at all suited to the present time, saying that in those times there were no attempts to whitewash the bad man for the sake of gaining a reputation as is sometimes done nowadays. He showed that in the Old Testament there are unbounded denunciations of the wicked, shocking examples of scepticism, that they did not hesitate to pronounce punishment to be deserved, that they did not flatter God or make pretences while we are disposed to pretend and to have no hate; when in doubt to declare ourselves to have faith. "Hypocrites we are," he said, "we are more advanced, wiser, have greater knowledge than they, but we are not so honest."

Germany prepared in secret for this war during years before the outbreak. No one was to noble or too vile to be employed by Germany. From princes down to secret agents, all engaged in the same evil work, to stir up strife among the nations. When everything is known, Germany's crimes may be ten times worse than we know now; but till peace is declared, we will not know all. The enemy is brave and resourceful, but has not a spark of honour or decency in his nature. If we should surrender now, future generations would curse the day of our surrender. This war must be fought to the bitter end, and he who advocates peace now is an enemy to humanity.

"But we ourselves are not spotless. This war was not brought by a guilty nation to a sinless world. No one condemned the reptile press originated by Bismarck. No one condemned the world supremacy policy. We regretted we could not do likewise. The world's worship of Germany was nothing, but devil worship of the worst kind."

"England refused to believe her great soldier-statesman when he advocated preparedness. France was squabbling over her domestic troubles and unprepared. Thus Germany got her start because of the unwillingness to face facts and the belief that something would turn up to avert a calamity. Such indifference and confidence in the inevitable has nothing divine or Christlike about it."

"If the Christian church attracted humble men, it was not to make them objects of charity, but to transform them into men and women who became martyrs of the faith. Christ would have placed himself on the side of those who rushed to the help and service of Belgium and Poland when they were so cruelly wronged. 'A surrender that would purchase peace would be wrong. The world knows what Prussianism means—power asserting itself without scruple or shame. Courage, patience, persistence have been pressed into Prussia's service. Whether we wish it or not we must fight until it is overcome or until they change."

"Christ hated what Prussia now upholds with a divine fervour. Does he confine himself to words and not action? Germany has not been judged, she has pronounced judgment on herself. She is the enemy of God. There must be no half-hearted hostility. But there is a true spirit in which a Christian should fight. A Christian never professes he is God's champion or pretends to be God's representative. He does not call on God to give him victory, but submits his actions and spirit to God's judgment. We must hate our enemy with a perfect hate, but we may not say all sin is with the foe. The cause of the war was the sin of the world."

SUCCESSFUL SMOKER HELD AT NEWMAN CLUB ON FRIDAY EVENING

Judge Latchford Delivered Inspiring
Address to Members

On Friday evening a very enjoyable smoker was held at Newman Hall. The programme consisted of informal speeches from the guests of the evening, interspersed with a song by Mr. Archie Grace, and humorous recitations by Mr. Joseph Labrado. Mr. Labrado is a former member of Newman Club and an old time football star. His mimicry was highly entertaining, and was much enjoyed by all.

Rev. Father Burke, in introducing the speakers, drew the attention of the Club to the important part they had played in placing it on the firm and flourishing basis it now occupies. They had been ever willing to lend a hand in its establishment, sparing neither time nor pleasure.

Mr. Justice Latchford was the first speaker, and in a very chatty discourse pointed out the special difficulties that lay in the path of a Catholic young man in this materialistic age. He urged the men to use to their fullest extent the social and intellectual facilities offered by Newman Club. The Club should fill a position in their lives that was long needed by Catholic students at Varsity.

Messrs. Gough, Brown, McCabe, O'Leary, Landrian and Callahan also spoke. The meeting was brought to a fitting close by the singing of the National Anthem.

FELLOWSHIP APPOINTMENTS FOR SESSION ANNOUNCED

Many Colleges Represented

The Board of Graduate Studies has given out the following information and appointments have been made to Fellowships for the Session 1917-1918. Those who have received the positions are:—

Miss M. E. Currie, B.A., McGill, M.A., Toronto.
F. H. Anderson, B.A., Dalhousie.
G. J. Marr, B.A., M.A., New Brunswick.
L. A. Mills, B.A., British Columbia.
C. W. Rife, B.A., Saskatchewan.

The number of students registered as candidates for the Master's Degree is fifty-two.

The number registered as "occasional students", four.

There are twenty-five students registered as candidates for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

In these numbers are included graduates from the Universities of British Columbia (1); Saskatchewan (1); New Brunswick (2); Dalhousie (1); Mount Allison (1); Acadia (1); Queen's (3); McMaster (1); McGill (1); California (1); Bryn Mawr College (1) and Nebraska Wesleyan (1).

HOURS OF DRILL

Class 1—University College and Victoria—Monday and Wednesday.

Class 2—Medical Faculty—Tuesday and Friday.

Class 3—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's—Tuesday and Thursday.

Classes will assemble at the Hart House gymnasium on the days stated, at 4 p.m.

Education III. Concerning Lectures

The function of education is not to impart information.

In the past two issues THE VARSITY has endeavoured to emphasize this point of view. Perhaps in doing so we may have seemed to disparage the importance of accurate, concrete knowledge, but that has not been our intention. Knowledge is not the end of education, but it is a means by which the purpose of education, the fullest development of innate ability, may be achieved. The fact that the educated man is usually well-informed, that he has at his command a fund of knowledge that gives him power, should not blind us to the realization that such knowledge is but the evidence, as Carlyle might have said, but the Clothes of the Reality, of education.

The growth that we call education, and the acquisition of knowledge, will almost certainly proceed together—as the corollary is proved with the theorem. But let us not lose sight of the reality: let us not forget the foundation by gazing too long at the superstructure.

Such a misconception prevailed last year. Printed lectures! What visions of correspondence and argument, and talk and editorial dissertation, the very reference awakes! What memories of professorial scorn! But beyond arousing memories, we desire no further vivifying of the subject. The agitation for printed lectures is dead, or sleepeth. It is not our intention to revive it. What we would consider is not the movement itself, but the conditions and opinions that gave rise to it.

The desire for the printed lecture is significant of the attitude of the majority of students toward the lecture itself. In the lecture a great deal of concentrated condensed, information is delivered; it has high practical utility, it is directly on the subject, it is most readily accessible, and for comprehensiveness and conciseness it cannot be duplicated in many hours of reading. The great difficulty is in transferring to paper all this information; let us obviate the difficulty by having it printed, once for all!

Such was the viewpoint from which printed lectures seemed desirable. It regarded the lecture as a dispensary of information—of information which might later be memorized for examination purposes—and it looked to making the dispensary more efficient. The absurdity of the view was easily shown in theory; but how far was it justified in actual fact? Wherein lay the absurdity: in the lecture, or in the undergraduate opinion of it.

Women's Appointments

Two weeks ago Saturday a joint meeting of the Executives of the Students' Administrative Council and the Women's Student Council was held to determine the basis on which women students should be appointed to THE VARSITY Staff. Up to the present moment nothing has been done to carry into effect the results of that meeting, although the representatives of the Women's Student Council were requested to make a report as soon as possible.

This delay on the part of the Women's Council is inconveniencing the management of THE VARSITY in two ways. In the first place the women students, who have been on THE VARSITY Staff, were working in only a temporary capacity. Such a condition does not secure the best results; and, moreover, some of these students have resigned in order that the Women's Council might have a free hand in making appointments. The result is that there is little women's news appearing. In the second place the final organization of the Staff cannot be completed until the women appointments are made. Accordingly plans, which we have had in mind, for the improvement of the paper, cannot be carried into effect.

We understand that the Executive of the Women's Student Council is to hold a

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir—In your last issue an announcement of the studentships and fellowships given by the Research Commission appeared. It will be noted that, among the several awards to graduates of this University, not one was given to a member of the Faculty of Applied Science.

When it is considered that there are but three scholarships of any kind given to graduates or undergraduates in this faculty, one naturally wonders just what prevents favours of this kind being given to School men.

The avowed purpose of the Research Commission is to aid industry by applying the methods of scientific research to the solving of its difficulties. Not only have the graduates of S.P.S., a highly specialized scientific training in their particular branch (chemistry, electricity, mining, or mechanics) but also these men are in close touch with their particular industry and have a greater practical grasp of its needs and deficiencies.

At least two of these scholarship men are taking courses in elementary alternating current and electrochemistry, with the third year students of Applied Science. It is assumed that they intend to do research work in electricity. Naturally it is much better to give a fellowship to such men than to an electrical graduate. The latter, of course, after four years specialization in electricity could not hope to compete with a graduate of mathematics and physics who has received a smattering of all branches of science.

School deserves at least passing notice in a matter of this kind.

SCIENCE '19.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—May I take some of your space to say something on the subject of class functions. It seems to me that wartime or not it is desirable that the members of a class have some opportunity of meeting each other in a social way. Indeed, the war is rather an added reason for holding some kind of class function because most of the social life which existed before the war has vanished. You can't study all the time, and for those who come from outside the city and know few people here, class functions are a distinct relief to the monotony.

But there is the immediate question of the cost of a class reception; whether it is fair to spend so much money on a hall and orchestra, when the Red Cross is so hard up, and whether a class reception really accomplishes its purpose in making the members of a class better acquainted with one another. There are always students in a year who do not dance, and their place at a reception is naturally taken by members of other years and by outsiders.

Would it be possible to substitute several class parties, suited to the different people who are found in the year, for the one big one? For instance, there might be an evening class meeting with dancing afterwards. There might be a skating party followed by supper and a dance. If there were cards and progressive games for those who did not dance, no person in the year need feel left out, and those who enjoyed dancing—and I think they are in the majority—could get all they wanted of it.

The cost of several of these parties would probably be less than that of one meeting to-morrow, when this matter will receive further attention. The Executive of the Students' Administrative Council is to hold a meeting on Wednesday. We ask the two Executives to come to a final decision this week, and so enable THE VARSITY to begin on its new basis at the earliest possible moment.

The present movement for equal recognition of women for appointments to THE VARSITY Staff partly arose from pressure of the women students of the University. THE VARSITY endorses this movement. At the same time we might state that the present Staff is capable of editing the paper, and is not dependent for publication on any one portion of the student body.

big one. The numbers would not be as great, as they would include only the year, and this would obviate the necessity of hiring a big hall and an orchestra. Some of them might be held in the Women's Union, where the only expenses would be food and service. In the end the class might have some money to contribute to the Red Cross, and the members of the class would not feel that their fee had gone entirely for pleasure.

COMPETITORS.

Assured of worthiness we do not dread Competitors; we rather give them hail And greeting in the lists where we may fail:

Must, if we bear an aim beyond the head. My better are my masters; purely fed By their sustenance I likewise shall scale Some rocky steps between the mount and vale;

Meanwhile the mark I have and I will wed. So that I draw the breath of finer air, Station is naught, not foot-way laurel-strewed, Nor rivals tightly belted for the race.

Good speed to them. My place is here or there, My pride is that among men I have place: And thus I keep this instrument in tune.

—George Meredith.

Pharmacy

The students of the O.C.P. held a most enjoyable theatre party at Shea's on Wednesday, October 24. All members of the faculty, along with their wives, were present and almost every student. Each male student was accompanied by one of the fairer sex, and after the performance, different couples wended their way to their favorite tearoom. All credit to the success of the evening's enjoyment is due to G. C. Smith, president of the Class, and G. F. Moir, treasurer. The evening outside was far from what had been ordered from the weather man, however, they all turned out well uniformed in raincoats and armed with "rainsticks." The professors enjoyed the various attractions very much especially one whose face was ever lit up with his favorite beaming smile. The president had his "eyebrow" waxed up especially for the occasion and it showed off to the best of its advantage. Mr. M——— took special enjoyment out of the Geo. Washington feature. Why did some of the students take a ride to Sunny-side? Was it so they could come home early in the morning? Who was the little fair-haired student who visited the theatre the night before with a Bloor-street friend? Why did the student from Waterloo meet his friend on the corner? Was it to save car fare? Will the students from Whitby, Mr. M———, kindly explain why he was an absentee?

Do the other faculties admit that Pharmacy are the undisputed soccer champions of 1917? If not, why not give us a game?

In an argument between an Irishman and a Scotchman as to whose country was the best, the conversation was something like this.

Scotchman—"Why in Scotland they tore down a castle, that was built over one hundred years ago, and they found wires underneath the castle; this shows that in Scotland they knew about electricity hundreds of years ago."

Irishman—"That's nothing, why in Ireland they tore down a castle that was built over one hundred years ago and they didn't find any wires. This shows that in Ireland they knew about wireless telegraphy hundreds of years ago."

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB
TO HOLD ITALIAN EVENING

The second regular meeting of the Modern Language Club is to take the form of an Italian evening at the home of Professor Cameron, 96 Admiral Road, on Thursday, November 1, at eight o'clock.

Miss E. Harris is giving a brief historical and geographical sketch of Italy, which promises to be very interesting. This phase of the subject will be made still more realistic by some excellent slides of Professor Cameron's.

The other phase of the subject, the temperament of the people, will be touched upon in a fascinating way by a reading "The Romance of Italy", by Laura Spencer Porter.

Italian dances in costume, by Miss G. Santon will complete the features of next Thursday. After the programme, an opportunity will be given for discussion, in which we hope everybody will take a keen and active interest.

Prof. Cory of the University of California has taken the lead in giving women permission to knit during classes.

ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE MAKE STATEMENT Re MCGILL RUGBY GAMES

ARE STRICTLY ADHERING TO POLICY DECIDED ON IN MAY, 1915

The Athletic Directorate, in drawing attention to the misleading article which appeared on this page in Friday's issue, headed, "Who is to blame for this", wish to state that a letter was received on October 18, from the President of the McGill Athletic Union, saying that a suggestion had been made in Montreal for teams representing the two universities to play home and home rugby games, and asking for the opinion of the Varsity Directorate before considering the matter. A reply was sent from Toronto the same day in which it was said that the Varsity Directorate felt that it would be unwise for them to abandon the policy adopted two years ago, viz., to confine the athletic activities to inter-faculty contests until the termination of the war, and looking forward for a return of ante-bellum conditions.

For the information of many who may not know and for those who may have forgotten the facts, it might be again stated, that at the opening of the session in 1915, the above policy was decided upon after mature deliberation and after consultation with members of the Athletic Advisory Board (which is made up of all former members of the Athletic Directorate) members of the Board of Governors and with the President of the University, and this action was endorsed and unanimously commended by a very large number of Varsity graduates and athletes.

Varsity Schools DEFEAT DE LA SALLE

Jr. O.R.F.U. Series Opens Before Big Crowd

University Schools opened the O.R.F.U. Junior Series locally at the Varsity Stadium Saturday afternoon, and before a crowd of six hundred enthusiastic youngsters defeated the De la Salle aggregation by a score of 18-5. The game was more evenly contested than the score would indicate, U.T.S. fighting an uphill battle during the first three quarters of play and only making victory certain in the closing session. De la Salle presented a heavier line than the boys in blue and white, and scored their first touch by line-plunging and end runs. The north-end students failed to work together in the opening quarter, and the heavy lads from the De la Salle made repeated gains. The first quarter ended a blank. In the second quarter, McCurry, the speedy De la Salle back, got away for a 35-yard run and crossed the line for the initial score. It was not converted.

U.T.S. took a brace and immediately placed Mike Roden's team on the defensive. Steady line-plunging and an occasional end run brought the ball to La Salle's 35-year line, when Irwin kicked to Roden, who was forced to rouge, and the score stood 5-1 in favor of De la Salle. A few minutes later Irwin was sent around the end, and, after a clever cross-field run, went over for a touchdown, which was not changed.

Half-time: De la Salle 5; U.T.S. 6.
In the third quarter U.T.S. again placed De la Salle on the defensive and carried the ball to their 35-yard line, Irwin kicking to Latour, who was forced to rouge. A series of end runs brought the play back to La Salle's territory and Munro went over for another touchdown, which again was converted. La Salle fought desperately to bring the ball back to U.T.S. territory, but the lighter boys withstood the onslaught and again Munro went around the end and over the line for his second touchdown of the day.

University Schools—Craig, Sullivan, Irwin, Munro, Graydon, Gardiner, Gunn, Blank, Fairbairn, Jeffrey, Brown, Aggett, Bouflet, Ryckman.

De la Salle—Madden, Latour, Roden, McCurry, Shaw, J. O'Connor, Lamphier, Bunker, Murphey, Guthrie, Cawell, Sansome, O'Connor.

Referee—"Bobby" Hewitson.
Umpire—Smith.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT STARTED SATURDAY

Part of First Round Was Played

On Saturday the weather cleared sufficiently to permit tennis and the tournament was continued. In the morning, F. J. Sullivan defeated H. F. Shaw, 6-3, 6-3, and, W. G. Macdonald with G. J. Scott, went into the second round by beating J. W. Archibald with D. J. Sinclair, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. In the afternoon, W. D. Smith won from E. F. Willis 6-0, 6-3 and D. F. Shugart defeated G. J. Thompson.

All who are interested in the tournament will note that the dates for playing postponed or delayed games is posted at the gym and any further delays mean the forfeiting of the games. Information regarding the condition of the Courts can be had from Mr. Hare at the gymnasium by phone.

SENIOR MEDS MEET SCHOOL OF SCIENCE

Opening Game of Mulock Cup Will Be Played To-day

The gridiron battles for the Mulock Cup begin to-day when School of Science and Senior Meds meet at the Stadium. Owing to the late start it was decided to play one game between each team in the first round. The group winners will then play off for the cup.

Monday, Nov. 12—Sr. Meds. v. Trinity.
Wed., Nov. 14—St. Michael's v. Dents.
Friday, Nov. 16—U.C. v. Victoria.

It is hoped that each faculty and college will give the respective teams good support and have fans at every game.

U. OF T. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Nominations for student representatives will be received by the Secretary until twelve o'clock on Tuesday, October 30. Nominations must be made in writing signed by the mover and seconder who must be members of the Association in good standing. The election will be held on Monday, November 5, and the Athletic Associations of the federated college and faculties have been notified to meet and select their representatives to vote on that day.

West Virginia did not come out as successful against Dartmouth this fall as was the case last year; but the Mountaineers certainly put up a grand contest and forced the Green to show fine football in order to win.

Oct 29—Initial meeting of Menorah Club. Room 4, U.C. 8 p.m.—This is an important meeting.

SIR SAM ADDRESSED BURNS LIT. SOCIETY

Interesting Lecture on Plowman Poet

Canada knows General Sir Sam Hughes as warrior and politician. Last night, as guest of the Burns Literary Society, he appeared as professor and litterateur. He addressed a largely attended open meeting of the Society in the auditorium of the Technical School on Robert Burns and his writings.

Sir Sam knows his Burns. He recited extract after extract from the poems of the celebrated Scot. He spoke from a small notebook of the significance and shades of meaning of many of the stanzas. He touched Burns the man, not an ideal Burns, but the real Burns, his humanity and philosophy. He described a personal tour through Ayrshire and other parts of Scotland immortalized by the peasant bard, and recalled the fact that Canadian Forestry battalions are to-day cutting and harvesting lumber for war purposes from the very woods which were the home of the poet.

Sir Sam Hughes and the Venerable Archdeacon Cody were elected as members of the Burns Society at their own request.

Special Attention to Work for Students

The Employer's Course

The Proclamation issued under the Military Service Act calls Class One men—bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th Oct., 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before Jan. 1st, 1917.

The claim for exemption may be made by the man himself, by his employer or by a near relative. So far as practicable, not more than one claim should be made in respect of any man. For reasons stated in the next paragraph, the claim is often best made by the employer.

When Employer Should Make Claim for Exemption

Where claim for exemption is based on the assumption that it is in the national interest that the man should instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged, it is usually preferable that the claim be made by the EMPLOYER, inasmuch as the decision of the claim will involve, amongst other things, a consideration of the nature of the business, the number of men employed, etc.

Medical Examination

It will simplify the employer's problem if all Class One men in his employ present themselves for Medical Examination at the nearest Medical Board Centre.

Upon examination they will be placed in Medical Categories—A, B, C, or E. Class One men placed in Categories B, C, or E satisfy immediate requirements if they attach the medical report they will receive to their claim for exemption.

Where an employer claims exemption for an employee on the ground that it is expedient in the national interest that the man should continue in the work in which he is habitually engaged, he should attach to the claim for exemption a statement and a schedule as follows:—

The Employer's Statement

Total number of employees, grouping them according to their respective occupations and qualifications, and stating the number in each group. Indicate the possibility or otherwise of replacing the labor of Class One men with the labor of those not in the statutory class called up, or of women; also the extent to which the withdrawal of the men in the statutory class would affect the business, the reason for considering that the carrying on of the business is in the national interest, and such other facts and circumstances as may appear to be relevant.

The Employer's Schedule

This should state the names, ages and occupations of all Class One men employed, noting against each name whether or not claim for exemption is being made, and whether in the employer's opinion, exemption if granted, should be conditional on the man's continuing his present occupation, or whether it would suffice if exemption were granted for one, two or more months, as the case may be.

Forms for Exemption

These forms may be obtained on request from any Postmaster who will transmit the forms, when filled in, to the Registrar.

Issued by the Military Service Council.

'VARSITY SOLDIERS BRING HONOURS TO THEIR ALMA MATER FOR BRAVERY

Capt. Harris and Briscoe, and Lieut. Sharp, Win M.C.

Professor Smith Announces Many Casualties

Prof. G. Oswald Smith who is in charge of all military news relating to the 'Varsity men that have gone overseas, has this morning announced the latest news regarding our student soldiers. Sergt. Arthur Henry Cavill, and Lieut. A. R. F. W. Swinnerton, are reported to have died in action. But to counteract this sad news, there is appended a list of a number of men who have honoured their Alma Mater by winning honours for conspicuous bravery at the front. The list follows:

Sergt. Arthur Henry Cavill, University College 1913-14, and Wyck College, 1st Battalion, was officially reported on the 7th of October to have been killed in action at Fresnoy Father, Mr. Frank Cavill, 34 Hess Street, South, Hamilton, Ont.

Lieut. A. F. R. W. Swinnerton, who has been missing since March, is now reported as presumed to have died. He was at the University taking a course in Applied Science from 1912 to 1914. He went overseas last year with the 166th Battalion, and was transferred to the 75th on going to France.

His brother, A. A. Swinnerton, an Applied Science student of the year 1916, went overseas in the Divisional Cyclists and is now in the field artillery.

Lieut. William Hope King has been awarded the D.S.O. He is a B.A. of University College of the year 1910. He was overseas with a western battalion. His father is Mr. W. C. King, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Simcoe.

Lieut. R. T. C. Hoise has now been awarded a bar to the Military Cross which he won last June. He was a student in Applied Science of the year 1916, and went overseas early in 1916 in a draft from the C.O.T.C., of recommended candidates for Imperial commissions. He was first appointed to the Royal Garrison Artillery and then transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. His home is at 560 Dupont Street.

Lieut. Wilson Porter has transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and is now training in England. He was a student in medicine of the year 1920, and went overseas last year in a draft from the C.O.F.C. of recommended candidates for Imperial commissions. For several months he served in the Royal Field Artillery and was wounded on May 12th. His home is at Port Dover.

Sec. Lieut. E. Victor Devrell of the Royal Engineers was reported wounded on Saturday. He graduated in Applied Science from the University in 1915. In 1916 he was appointed lieutenant in the Royal Grenadiers Regiment. From there he was attached to a C.E.F. unit at Camp Borden and later in the year joined the University Overseas Training Company, prior to going to England for a commission in the Imperial Army. His parents live at 343 Shaw Street.

Lieut. T. M. Kerruish has been appointed to the Royal Flying Corps. He is a graduate of Victoria College of the year 1915. Last year he went overseas in a draft of infantry officers.

Sergt. H. K. Wyman, C.F.A., has been promoted lieutenant on the field, and transferred to the Signal Corps, C.E. He was an Applied Science student of the year 1915, when he enlisted from the University in March, 1915, as a gunner in the artillery. He has seen many months service at the front, was mentioned in despatches last January, and won the Military Medal in August. His home is in Essex, Ont.

Lieut. J. James Campbell, C.F.A., who has been reported wounded, is a B.A.Sc. of the year 1914. In the Spring of 1916, he enlisted in the ranks of the University Battery, being shortly after promoted to the rank of lieutenant. In June of that year, he left in command of the first overseas draft from the Battery. His home is at 42 Rose Street, Galt.

Capt. R. Inerman Harris, Medicine '15, of the Lancashire Fusiliers, was awarded the Military Cross and Bar on November 25, 1916, for bravery on the field of action on September 3, 1916. Captain Harris enlisted as lieutenant with the 134th F.A. and saw service with the R.A.M.C. He has been a captain since September, 1916. Last month he was wounded.

Sec. Lieut. Jonathan G. Sharp, R.G.A. Special Reserve and R.F.C. University College 1917. Awarded the Military Cross. Originally a second-lieutenant in the R.G.A., then transferred to the R.F.C. Home at 120 Pacific Avenue, Toronto.

Temp. Captain C. Briscoe, R.A.M.C., M.B. '13, of Chatham, has been awarded the Military Cross. He has seen service with the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force.

Lieut. A. G. Leslie, C.F.A., who has been reported wounded, was appointed to the 70th Battery in 1916, went overseas later in the year, transferred to a front line unit last February. He is a B.A.Sc. of 1913, and his home is in Owen Sound.

Sapper D. E. Craigie, of the year 1915, Applied Science. He is a son of the Rev. J. R. Craigie, of Macdonald Avenue, Toronto, and enlisted with the Div. Signal Company, C.E., with whom he went overseas. Subsequently he crossed to France with the C.B. Cable Section, B.E.F., and was reported dangerously wounded on May 23 last.

Lieut. C. E. Macdonald, S.P.S. '18, enlisted November 1914, and went to England as sergeant in the Second Division Signal Company on the following May. There he transferred to the Pioneers, where he obtained a commission on January, 1916. He has been wounded.

Mr. Adam Johnston, of 15 Hurndale Road, has received word that his son, Lieut. Sinclair B. Johnston, who had been missing since May 27, last, has died in a German prison camp. Lieut. Johnston was born in Toronto twenty years ago and volunteered for service at the age of eighteen years. He was at the time a student in arts at the University.

Two School men are with the 1,700 soldiers just arrived at Quebec. One of them, Pte. C. M. Canniff, was a member of the civil engineering class of 1918, and went overseas in the ranks with the 74th Battalion.

THE LATE MR. & MRS. TRICK OF TORONTO, LEAVE $10,000 TO ESTABLISH SCHOLARSHIPS

For Students Preparing for the Ministry in Methodist Church

The late Mr. and Mrs. Trick of Avenue Road have left $10,000 to establish two scholarships of about $300 each. These are to be given to young men of Victoria College, who are preparing for the ministry in the Methodist Church of Canada, but who would not otherwise be able to take an Arts course.

The request has already been materialized. One student has already applied for the scholarship.

OPEN MEETING OF U.C. "Y"

Dr. Sandiford will address an open meeting of the Y.M.C.A. of University College at the Woman's Union, Thursday, Nov. 1 at 4 o'clock. His topic "Education and Reconstruction" after the War, promises to be interesting. Another attractive feature will be after the meeting. Make it a point to come.

HON. W. D. McPHERSON, K.C.

HON. W. D. McPHERSON K.C., TO ADDRESS U.C. MEN AT "Y"

Hon. W. D. McPherson, K.C., will address the U.C. men in the Y.M.C.A. building on Friday evening, November 2, at the regular monthly reception to all the years of U.C. men.

Every man with Christian blood in his veins should be present. For Mr. McPherson will bring a message of vital interest to every student. It is expected that the "Y" building will be thronged on Friday night, so come early.

Mr. McPherson is too well-known to the students and the public to be introduced. Suffice it to say that he occupies—as Provincial Secretary—a very important position in the Legislature, administering the largest department in the Ontario Government. His chief characteristics are "industry and courtesy".

DR. H. BALME, OF SHANTUNG UNIVERSITY LECTURES TO MEDS.

Opportunities Open for Young Doctors in China

An address was given on Monday evening in the Medical building by Dr. H. Balme of Shantung University, China. The theme of his subject was the opportunities open for young doctors in China. Mr. H. Clark presided. The meeting was opened by the singing of the National Anthem. Mr. R. G. Agnew then greatly delighted the audience with a splendid recitation. Mr. Clark announced that Miss E. Mitchener would render a solo, and so well was this given that she was called upon for another after which she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Dr. Balme was then called upon. He no sooner began to speak than he surprised his audience with the announcement that 3,000 years ago, China used many of our modern and latest methods of medical treatment. This, however, is misleading in forming a basis of the knowledge of a modern Chinese doctor. For according to Dr. Balme, a coolie, losing his position as window cleaner in a hospital, considered his connections with the hospital sufficient to start him off as a doctor, and with much better financial results.

Anatomy and surgery, until recently, were unknown even to the best of them. In the last fifteen years, however, the missions have worked wonders. Several years ago a devastating plague broke out in Manchuria and was soon beyond control of the Chinese doctors. Western aid was called upon and soon the disease was wiped out. This was enough to convince the Chinaman.

Donations were given, funds started, and societies inaugurated for the installation of hospitals, and medical schools to help those interested in the profession. They even went so far as to install a nurses' training school. Nor did it stop there. Our best medical books were translated into Chinese, so as to enable their students to use them. A window cleaner cannot now become a doctor without preparation, for the course which is a five year one, is open only to a high school graduate who has passed an entrance exam and attended Arts for two years.

Such are the wonders worked by the missions sent from the west. One must not think that the Chinaman is the only one that benefits; for the inexperienced doctor China is the land for experience, for opportunities, and a vast field for research work. The diseases and the deceased are numerous. What more can a young ambitious doctor desire? Here Dr. Balme concluded amid loud applause. A vote of thanks was heartily rendered and the meeting closed with a yell for the University and one for Medicine.

PROF. COLEMAN BACK AFTER RESEARCH WORK

Has Visited a Number of the Largest Cities in South America

Professor A. P. Coleman, professor of geology in the University, has returned after research work in South America.

In Brazil, unaccompanied by anyone, he followed the backwoods railway through the southern part, which was all wild, wooded country.

He tramped for days through splendid sub-tropical forests, wild and tangled with the lianae hanging from the trees like ropes.

A number of the largest cities were visited, too. Professor Coleman also visited Santiago, the capital of Chile, with the Andes in sight, and La Paz in Bolivia, the highest capital in the world, being 12,000 feet above the sea level and picturesque to a degree.

In returning to Canada Professor Coleman came through the Panama Canal and touched at Jamaica on route. There the boat took on a number of negroes who were leaving to join the British army.

MR. F. A. MOURÉ GIVES SUCCESSFUL RECITAL

A very successful organ recital was given in Convocation Hall on Tuesday, October 30, by Mr. F. A. Mouré. The opening selection was Bach's Toccata in F, which was much appreciated by all present. The full power of the organ was brought out in the majestic climax.

In a very different strain was the next composition by Felix Mendelssohn—Bartoldy, Notturmo (Midsummer Night's Dream) which is a transcription of the orchestral interlude which occurs at the third act in Mendelssohn's incidental music to the play.

Arthur Foote's "Suite in D, Opus 54", followed, which was very well received by the audience. Mr. Mouré then announced that as he had been asked to repeat Thalberg's "Catalene" which he played at the last recital, he would substitute it for Callearts' "Intermezzo". This beautiful work was very much appreciated by everyone.

The last selection was the work of the well-known composer, editor, and organist, Harry Rowe Shelley. It was splendidly rendered and was much appreciated.

If the students of the different faculties realized just what an opportunity it is to hear these splendid recitals there would be an even larger audience at the next recital to be given Tuesday, October 13.

CLASS 1, ATTENTION!

Those who have not been uniformed will report at the Quartermaster's stores, Mining Building, to-day, from 9-12 a.m. Stress of lectures will not be taken as an excuse. Those not in uniform to-morrow must report to the O.C.

What will in years gone by be looked upon and recorded in the annals of 'Varsity history as a meeting of vital importance, was held on Monday evening October 29, 1917, at University College. It was the initial meeting of the University of Toronto Menorah Society.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, a very large number of Menorah enthusiasts came down before the hour anxiously awaiting the opening of the meeting. Mr. J. Murray Gordon, B.A. '16 U.C., occupied the chair and Miss Lilian C. Smith acted as secretary. The first question which came up for discussion was that of the election of officers for the coming year. For their keen interest in the Menorah Society, ever since it was organized, October 11, 1917, and for their very valuable suggestions and co-operation, Sir Robert Falconer and Professor W. R. Taylor were elected by acclamation as honorary president and honorary vice-president respectively. The full results of the elections follow:

Hon. President—Sir Robert Falconer.
Hon. Vice-President—Prof. W. R. Taylor, Ph.D.

President—Joseph A. Sweet '18.
First Vice-President—H. Godelph '19.
Second Vice-President—Miss Bessie Enushevsky '20.

General Secretary—Sol. Eisen '18.
Recording Secretary—Miss L. C. Smith, '18; Treasurer—M. Schott '18.

Arts Reps.—Miss Mattie Levi '21; and Frank Silverman '20.

Meds Reps.—Miss Minnie Wladowsky '21; and Sam Oreckin '22.

Dent Rep.—Abram Stone '19.
S.P.S.—S. Chalkoff '21.

After the elections the temporary constitution which had been drawn up last week was discussed. A general discussion then took place on the nature and purpose of a Menorah Society, in which many participated. The supposed speaker of the evening, Prof. Taylor, was involuntarily absent. The gap left by his absence was, however, ably filled by Messrs. J. M. Gordon, Harry Finkle and Private Fredman.

Mr. Finkle, B.A. '14, U.C., congratulated the undergraduates present for participating in such a worthy cause and narrated some of his experiences in club work. Private Fredman, an American soldier, and former undergraduate of New York Law School, spoke about the Menorah movement in the United States.

It was pointed out by the various speakers, that the purposes of a Menorah Society reflect in a particular direction the general purposes of a university. The sphere of a Menorah Society is the history and culture of the Jewish people, so conceived that nothing Jewish, of whatever age or clime, should be alien to it. Therefore it was urged that a Menorah Society should always hold a place in the centre of university life. For if, aside from professional study, the object of study in a university is the cultivation of the mind and the enlargement of the spirit, then the Jewish humanities, both on account of their intrinsic worth and on account of their supreme influence upon civilization, may with justice be proposed as one of the main subjects of study in a university.

The elected officers decided to hold an executive meeting on Friday, November 2, at 5 p.m., room 4, U.C.

Class Functions

It is generally admitted that class functions play an important part in the work of bringing together the members of a year; but the form which these functions should take has often been the subject of discussion. Heretofore the various years have followed the practice of having a large Class Reception and two or three Class Meetings. This policy has been criticized by some who think that several smaller parties might well be substituted for the one large Reception. Such criticism was voiced in a letter which appeared in Monday's issue of THE VARSITY.

The writers of this letter made the very good point that there are always some students who cannot enjoy the ordinary Class Reception. These people should certainly receive some attention from their Class Executive. But it is a question whether it would be wise to forego altogether the Class Reception in favour of several smaller functions. Such a change would make severe demands on the Executive, and, for some peculiar reason, the Executives which are elected are not generally too efficient—one function seems to exhaust their efforts. In such a condition it is not better for the majority of the Class to enjoy themselves once, than it is for the whole Class to run the risk of being bored on three or four occasions? Might we suggest instead, that the form of the Class Meetings be changed to agree with the ideas advanced in last Monday's letter, and that more Class Meetings be held. If this were done, and the usual Reception conducted, then all members of a Year ought to be satisfied.

There remains the question of the amount of money to be spent. A Reception, even if it were conducted in a strictly economical manner, might perhaps cost more than "several class parties", but we doubt if the difference would be very large. In any event some money will be spent, no matter what kind of functions are held. Such action may seem wrong in these days, but we cannot see why University students should be the one body who are to adopt a funeral air, amid a world which, even in war-time, is living in its customary manner.

The Educational Value of Lectures

The student regards the lecture as a means whereby information is imparted to him. Now inasmuch as the two chief factors of a formal university education are the lecture and its concomitant the examinations, the student comes to regard the purpose of his course as being the absorption of facts. Even though he may never suffer under this delusion, his course becomes such that it appears to be governed by this or a similar misconception. In the lecture an imposing mass of knowledge is expressed more or less attractively. This may be supplemented by other knowledge gleaned from books. And of all this, a certain amount is "crammed" into the memory under pressure—as oxygen is compressed into a container—to be released as required, namely, at examination.

Now this process is not without value; probably in most cases it has a net value: that is, for the majority of students a university education is probably worth while. For different students it will be worth while in different ways; some may even derive benefit from the least effective factors of the system. One of our most brilliant lawyers, a graduate of this institution, said that the chief value of his course was that it taught him how to "cram". Even "cramming" is beneficial; throughout the year a few main principles of a study are absorbed more or less consciously, and upon this foundation a superstructure of fact is raised in the last few hours before examination. The superstructure is a house of sand, but it serves its purpose in the brief period of its existence. Such houses of sand, con-

And you're mad and sad because you think the world's gone back on you;
When your weary heart is laden with the wrongs you've done yourself
And your mind is bent on brooding and you're blaming someone else,
That's the time to use the maxim "Greet the morning with a smile."
For if you do things cheerfully, the world will seem worth while.

If you think you're heart is bruised and you've filled it up with spite,
When you get up at the dawn of day, just seek the morning light.
Don't muse on things you might have done and those were done to you,
For maybe you deserved them and the imp who isn't true,
Just pestered you until you thought it surely can't be I
Who brought so many evils from even far and nigh.

So when you're weary hearted and you're feelin' kind of blue,
And you're mighty sure without yourself the world's gone back on you,
Just think of lords and poets and of the humble wit,
Who oft expressed the opinion that you've gone back on it,
And when you're grouchy is gone and things seem just worth while,
You'll find it must have left you the day you greeted with a smile.
—F. J. S.

structed from the facts of the case, are peculiarly useful to the lawyer.

But we are not here to learn how to "cram" Education is not a store of facts, but a habit of mind. The lecture system provides the store of facts; if the student develops the habit of mind, he does so incidentally. To train the student to think—that should be the object of a university course; and the lecture is not the best means of attaining this object. We learn to think by thinking—not by receiving the prepared thoughts of others, and burying them in notebooks, to be dug out and returned to the master when he comes on examination day to collect his own.

The lecture does little to stimulate thought—but the discussion group may do much.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Will "Muskeg" kindly forward his name to the Editor.

We saw a stray dog wandering in the halls of the Main Building yesterday. We wonder if the R.F.C. will enjoy their dinner to-morrow.

We would suggest that "producers" of University entertainments go to the O.T.C. concert on Monday evening next, and learn what an evening's enjoyment really means.

Some restless spirits are advocating that the Liberal Club at the University be brought back to life. Old prejudices die hard.

With the departure of the President of the U.C. Lit. from the University, the Lit. presumably is stone dead. At the same time the Literary Society of Victoria—a smaller college—is thriving. What does U.C. think about it?

We are presented with some sixty copies of the "Health Bulletin"—a publication of the Municipal Department of Public Health. Any student who is in Categories B, C, D, or E may have a copy by appearing at THE VARSITY office.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

Italian evening of the Modern Language Club at the home of Professor Cameron, 96 Admiral Road. Interesting papers, folk dances and sides constitute the programme. Don't forget, November 1.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

THE SNOWBIRD

The other morning we wandered nonchalantly into the Sanctum Sanctorum and found the Editor seriously cogsessed in scraping the "nakin's" from his overcoat pocket. We coughed apologetically and received a portion of his attention.

"What is your candid opinion of our last spasm?" he queried.

"Elluvan article," he mumbled, deftly moistening the glue on the paper wrapper at the same time.

To say the least we were distinctly pleased. Former criticisms couldn't be printed, except possibly in "The Blast."

"Whatcha got to-day?" he asked. Brevity at times is one of his long points. We were considering taking a little flyer at the profs, in general you know, for to do them justice individually, dear reader, would take many volumes, and we intimated this. But no! The proposal was turned down with disgust. "D'yuh think we want the whole works down on us?"

The women were 's'peved at the last one I'm afraid they're not comin' on the Staff now and I don't know what we'll do without em," (He was nearly in tears). "Now if you spring sumpin' on the profs, we might as well close the shop."

We can't imagine why our little harmless article should in any way affect the deliberations of the Women's Council. Goodness knows we intend to put a good mirror in their office, which ought to be very handy when they have forgotten their Doreen's. THE VARSITY has been holding out various other little peace offerings in the hope that they will speedily make up their minds one way of the other, but nothing seems to avail. They are still undecided, and it looks as if they will remain in this state for a long time. We subsided into reverie. We pictured THE VARSITY office in future.

Time—Any morning.
Scene—Third floor, west wing, Main building.

Enter Lady Managing Editor (breathing heavily).

"Oh dear! (not addressed to anyone in particular). Those stairs are simply terrible. I don't see why we can't have an office on the main floor. (Perhaps she would like the President's office). "Now, where is my key? She suddenly remembers having lent it to one of the girls as a substitute for a weight on a windy afternoon. "Oh, well, if they haven't got their old office open they can't expect me to do any work. We never get any consideration around here. They can just look after the women's news for the old issue themselves. The other managing editor has been depending on me altogether too much lately. I gave him a story last week and yesterday he had the nerve to say we weren't getting in enough news."

A pitter patter of light feet and she passed from our mind. A plunk of heavy feet and we were rudely awakened. The Ed. had fallen asleep and his feet, having slipped from the desk, sought their natural level. He eyed us glaringly.

"Caught in the act," we triumphed, as he tried to pick his left foot out of the W.P.B. "That's where all your Willie Boy editorials ought to go."

"Give us somethin' snappy on the C.O.T.C.," he snarled. We can't do it. Their snap is noticeably lacking.

A graduate in Applied Science of the year 1916, Russell W. Kira, is now serving as an officer in the U.S. army. Lieut. Kira enlisted in May of this year, received his commission on June 3, and one month later went on active service as 2nd lieutenant with the 312th Engineers in Camp Pike, Little Rock, Arkansas. His home is in Peterboro.

Williams has now won four straight games. The Purple is doing very well on the gridiron and should stand well among the smaller New England colleges at the end of the season.

Wycliffe

The Wycliffe students in spite of the fewness of their numbers, take a lively interest in all their college activities. On Friday evening the Common Room of Wycliffe was the scene of one of the most successful and interesting literary meetings that has been held during the last two years.

President Lewis ably occupied the chair and Secretary Widdows presented the minutes of the former meeting in a very creditable manner. After many items of the business had been transacted, the programme took the form of the reading of the news items. D. G. Atkinson had charge of these and presented them in his usual witty and jovial Irish way which only he can display. The meeting was adjourned, the pleasant evening being concluded with Rex! Rex! Rex!, etc.

A similar interest is being shown in athletics, especially soccer, and Wycliffe disputes the claim of Pharmacy to the soccer championship in the year of 1917.

U. OF T. ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE NOMINATIONS

The election for student representatives on the Athletic Directorate will be held at the gymnasium next Monday at noon. The Athletic Associations of the various faculties and affiliated colleges will each appoint two voters and supply them with credentials that they are their accredited representatives. These credentials must be signed by the President and Secretary, who must be, as well as their representatives, duly registered undergraduates in good standing. The following have been nominated, five to be elected.

Bender, C. A.	Trinity.
Burrows, F.	U.C.
Macdonald, C. E.	S.P.S.
Macpherson, A. W.	U.C.
McKay, D. W.	Meds.
Moore, S. A.	Vic.
Pearson, G. P.	S.P.S.

Capt. Lester Hopkins, of the year 1916 University College, who was among the first University men to enlist, has just been gazetted a flight-commander in the Royal Flying Corps.

Lieut. James Nelson Cunningham, B.A.Sc. '16, is reported to have died of wounds in France.

Another Varsity man to receive the Military Cross is Sec.-Lieut. Jonathan Sharp, R.G.A. Lieut. Sharp, whose home is in Toronto, was a member of Class '17, U.C.

Other Colleges

Kansas Has It Too.

The department of physical education is making preparations to accommodate the extra classes that will be made necessary by the new plans that have been adopted by the University Senate. It is expected that the number enrolled for gym work will be greatly increased, as juniors and seniors may elect gym work instead of military drill if they choose.

In the women's department the numbers will be increased also, as about four hundred women who are now taking no exercise will be required to enroll for work in the department.

Yale's Deficit $258,866.

Because of the reduced enrollment and the unusually high cost of maintaining the college plant it is announced that Yale's finances for this year will show a net deficit of about $258,866. This is true in spite of the saving of about $200,000 due to the decrease in the Faculty who are absent in government service.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton are going to lose considerable money this fall through not playing their big football games. It is probable that the three universities will be out about $500,000 and most of this money has been used for the purpose of maintaining minor sports which did not pay.

Colgate has made quite a record against Cornell at football during the last few years. In 1914 they defeated the Ithacans, 20 to 0. In 1914 they won 7 to 3. In 1913 the result was a scoreless tie and in 1912 Colgate won, 13 to 7.

Chicago appears to be doing pretty well for a university which lost most of its best candidates through war work. Coach Stagg can generally be depended upon to build up a strong team, if he has players suited to play and learn football.

A barn dance in the new University barn at the University of Idaho was the first dance of the season. The revelers were dressed in gingham and "rook" shirts and danced to jazz music. Doughnuts and cider were the refreshments.

Minnesota—Twenty years of football, and a star every season, is the unusual record of "Bob" Marshall.

One-third of the 500 Michigan soldiers at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas, who recently applied for commissions in the aviation service, are University of Michigan men.

FRUIT PICKERS HOLD SOCIAL EVENING

Recount Exploits of a Busy Summer

"We are, we are, we are the Denny Kids We do, we do, we do as the farmer bids, With a spade and a hoe, we work right well,

At the end of the day, we feel like—

A good square meal.

West Hall was the scene of much merriment last Thursday evening when the Denny House fruit-pickers furnished a delightful programme to the people who were interested enough in this kind of national service work, to come out and hear them. Paw Jones, who came up from Beamsville, specially for the occasion, acted as chairman, and his experience of twenty years' at church socials and ladies' aid concerts stood him in good stead, for never was he sure as he in better humour or more ready with wit. In giving his views as one of the farmers who had employed the girls last summer, he was very lavish with praise. According to Paw, the farmers were astounded, not only at the amount of work done by these "city gels," but also at the care and cheerfulness with which it was accomplished.

The chorus of working songs with their catchy tunes proved most amusing. But it was more than amusing, it showed how the girls were able to "carry on" and "stick it out" in spite of the aches and pains which come with ten hours' work behind the hoe or over the strawberry bed.

Jake (who comes from wayback, and has real hayseed in his hair) and Algernon (Algy for short) were the stars of the evening. Their discourses on farm life and Jake's "gels," past and present, put every one in spasms of laughter. The songs they sang: "Oh, Zarah's my sweetheart," and "My Father's Feet" are likely to become college classics.

The most striking thing at the meeting was the spirit of the workers. Here was what University College has been striving after—real college spirit. A spirit that is willing to sacrifice much and to undergo much that the college may not be disgraced by the failure of one of its members. And so in the words of one of the songs: "Good luck to the girls of the Denny House and may their spirit spread."

MAJOR J. W. McDOWELL V.C., IS ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

At the Elections of the Vic. Union Literary Society

Politics were rife around Victoria College on Saturday with the elections of the Union Literary Society in progress from 9 to 1 o'clock and 7 to 9 p.m. Both parties headed their slate with Major J. W. McDowell, V.C., who went in by acclamation, but all other offices were hotly contested. The "coalition party" put in two of their men, H. C. Binkley, '18, as president, and L. C. Harvey, '19, as vice-president. These two, with the "Young Democrat" man, A. M. Partridge, M.A., for critic, were very closely run, but the remainder of the democrat ticket went in with a sweeping majority. It was as follows: Leader, G. W. Moore, C.; treasurer, A. McGowan, '19, and secretary V. Johnston, '20.

While the ballots were being counted, Prof. de Beaumont unveiled a picture of the graduating class of 1917. A reading by A. G. Agnew, a violin solo by A. B. S. Roseborough, '21, concluded the evening.

Special Attention to Work for Students

The Employer's Course

The Proclamation issued under the Military Service Act calls Class One men--bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th Oct, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before Jan. 1st, 1917.

The claim for exemption may be made by the man himself, by his employer or by a near relative. So far as practicable, not more than one claim should be made in respect of any man. For reasons stated in the next paragraph, the claim is often best made by the employer.

When Employer Should Make Claim for Exemption

Where claim for exemption is based on the assumption that it is in the national interest that the man should instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged, it is usually preferable that the claim be made by the EMPLOYER, inasmuch as the decision of the claim will involve, amongst other things, a consideration of the nature of the business, the number of men employed, etc.

Medical Examination

It will simplify the employer's problem if all Class One men in his employ present themselves for Medical Examination at the nearest Medical Board Centre.

Upon examination they will be placed in Medical Categories A, B, C, or E. Class One men placed in Categories B, C, or E satisfy immediate requirements if they attach the medical report they will receive to their claim for exemption.

Where an employer claims exemption for an employee on the ground that it is expedient in the national interest that the man should continue in the work in which he is habitually engaged, he should attach to the claim for exemption a statement and a schedule as follows:--

The Employer's Statement

Total number of employees, grouping them according to their respective occupations and qualifications, and stating the number in each group. Indicate the possibility or otherwise of replacing the labor of Class One men with the labor of those not in the statutory class called up, or of women; also the extent to which the withdrawal of men in the statutory class would affect the business, the reason for considering that the carrying on of the business is in the national interest, and such other facts and circumstances as may appear to be relevant.

The Employer's Schedule

This should state the names, ages and occupations of all Class One men employed, noting against each name whether or not claim for exemption is being made, and whether in the employer's opinion, exemption if granted, should be conditional on the man's continuing his present occupation, or whether it would suffice if exemption were granted for one, two or more months, as the case may be.

Forms for Exemption

These forms may be obtained on request from any Postmaster who will transmit the forms, when filled in, to the Registrar.

Issued by the Military Service Council.

Victoria

Friday, November 2 will be a Special Day in the Victoria College Patriotic Tea Room - the Students' Union, 75 Queen's Park. The Juniors are to be in charge and an attractive menu is promised for this Autumn tea.

Hot toast - Tea or Coffee - Apple Pie with cream - 119 Sundae with cakes.

Good music will be furnished. Don't try to resist the temptation to drop in with your friends for a cosy half-hour.

Sophs usually manage to have a good time, but the 210 of last Saturday was even "bigger and better than ever". About seventy enthusiastic hikers left Victoria at 2:15 p.m. for the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Horwood, an ideal spot on the lake shore. Unfortunately rain began to fall soon after their arrival, but Mr. and Mrs. Horwood very graciously threw open their spacious cottage for indoor amusements. Dancing, music and games comprised the entertainment for a very pleasant afternoon and evening. After a typical hikers' "feed", the guests were loathe to leave such a delightful spot and it was quite late when the merry party broke up. College songs and yells concluded what was voted one of the jolliest second year hikes ever given by Victoria students.

A successful meeting of the Victoria Union Literary Society was held on Saturday, October 27, when the members who turned out in spite of inclement weather were favoured by a violin selection by Mr. Roseborough '21, and a stirring, reading by Mr. Agnew. All enjoyed a rare treat in the scholarly address by Prof. De Beaumont, on the occasion of the unveiling of the 177 graduation picture. The address which was a model of diction, was full of thoughts well worth carrying away. The Prof. pointed out how that class, entering college in a normal year, had gradually conceived a new conception of things from the awful carnage which arose. They had been impressed by the fact that this was a war of principle, and had come to a realization of the worth of our democratic ideals. By apt examples he reminded his hearers of the nature of absolutism, and pointed out its perils. "Against this evil," he said, "was opposed a something for which no definition is adequate, a something which will not allow of oppression, which upholds the weak and helpless, and whose very soul is charity. This something is democracy, and he advised us have we might preserve our democracy, and even extend the benefit of its principles to our enemies."

Trinity

Active preparations are being made by the men of Trinity College for the production of a mock trial to be held in Trinity Convocation Hall on Monday, November 5, at 8:15 p.m. Rehearsals are now in progress and an excellent musical programme is being arranged. The entire proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the purchase of Christmas cheer for the boys overseas. Information regarding tickets or seats may be had from Mr. Axon, Trinity College, 'phone C. 3701.

NOTICE.

Victoria would like to accept Pharmacy's challenge to a game of soccer - time and place to be arranged - A. MacGowan, 'phone, N. 5216.

ST. HILDA'S LITERARY SOCIETY HOLD AN OPEN MEETING

Prof. Simpson, of Trinity, Gave Interesting Address on H. G. Wells' Life and Works

The opening meeting of the Literary Society was held on the afternoon of Thursday, October 23rd. The first number on the programme, a piano solo by Miss K. Dawson, was greatly appreciated by her audience. Professor Simpson of Trinity College then gave a very interesting address on the life and works of H. G. Wells. This topic, which at the present time appeals to all, he dealt with in a masterful and comprehensive manner. He spoke of Mr. Wells as the first real scientific novelist and pointed out that many of the ideas found in his writings were developed from natural science. He emphasized the fact that this popular writer is a reformer with definite ideas for the future of the race, a reformer who pushes against the national vice of carelessness in education, politics and other departments of public life, who is chiefly interested in society and the future of society and who recognizes the need of individual effort and efficiency. He read parts of Mr. Wells' works in which was depicted his knowledge of life in general, his wonderful success in character drawing, his humour and his combination of earnest thought with artistic gifts.

In conclusion, Prof. Simpson pointed out that while in some respects, Mr. Wells' works may be justly criticized, he has nevertheless accomplished his object of stirring up public opinion and teaching people to think about problems which must be confronted.

The first reception of the year took place on Thursday, October 18. There was a large attendance and all who were present spent a very delightful evening.

EXECUTIVE OF WOMEN'S COUNCIL HAVE AGREED TO ACCEPT EQUAL DIVISION OF EDITORIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Amended Constitution Is Made Public

Women's Council Have Appointed Miss M. McCoy Women's M'ng Editor

The executive of the Women's Administrative Council have accepted the amended basis of the division of editorial responsibilities which was contained in a recommendation presented to the Men's Council some two weeks ago.

The amended scheme follows: THE Varsity will be managed by an Advisory Board of two representatives from each Council, the editor-in-chief and the women's editor, the latter to be appointed on the recommendation of the Women's Council. The above-mentioned Board will be presided over by the vice-president of the Men's Council until such time as the Caput will permit the Women's Council by means of a compulsory fee to enjoy equal financial responsibility. The representatives of the Council, on the Advisory Board shall be appointed by, and be responsible to the executives of the respective Councils. The editor-in-chief shall be responsible to the Advisory Board for his paper and his staff. The women's editor shall be responsible to the editor-in-chief for the organization of the women members of the Staff. There shall be two managing editors, a man to assist the editor-in-chief, and a woman to assist the women's editor. The women's editor shall have at her disposal three columns of reading matter and more if required by arrangement with the editor-in-chief. The editor-in-chief shall decide all matters of detail between the men's and women's section of the Staff.

The women's editor and managing editor will be appointed from the graduate or undergraduate body of the University of Toronto, by the executive of the Women's Student Council. All women reporters in the different colleges shall be appointed by the women's editor on the recommendation of the Women's Student Council.

Up to the present the only appointment which has been made by the Women's Student Council is that of Miss M. McCoy as women's managing editor. Miss McCoy will assume her duties at once.

EXECUTIVE OF STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL MET ON WEDNESDAY

Executive of Torontonsis Board to Include Women

$500 Was Voted to Aid Re-Education of Returned Soldiers

A meeting of the Executive of the Students' Administrative Council was held on Wednesday afternoon. A vote of $500 from the balance of the profits of the 1916 edition of THE Varsity Magazine supplement, was made to aid the experimental work in the re-education of returned soldiers, which is being carried on in the Hart House under the supervision of Dr. E. A. Bott.

An amendment of the Constitution of the Council was recommended as follows: that an executive committee of the Torontonsis Board be appointed to consist of one member from the executive of the men's council, one from the executive of the women's council, and two members, one man and one woman, to be appointed by Torontonsis Board and the editor of Torontonsis. The General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council automatically becomes the Secretary of this executive committee.

The General Secretary was authorized to complete the negotiations with Superintendent Campbell concerning the partition of the Varsity Staff room.

The executive of the Pharmacy class and the representative of that college on the Students' Council were authorized to hold a theatre party for their class.

U.C. MEN.

Do not permit your studies to interfere with your education. Hon. W. D. McPherson, K.C., Provincial Secretary, will speak to the men of all years of U.C. to-night, Friday, at 7.45 in University "Y" Building. Come early.

FACULTY SUPPERS WILL BE HELD IN CENTRAL Y.M.C.A. BEGINNING ON WEDNESDAY

Music, a Prominent Speaker, and Bats will Ensure a Very Pleasant Evening

The University Y.M.C.A. is inaugurating next Wednesday at 6 p.m. sharp in the Central Y.M.C.A., College Street, a series of all faculty suppers and entertainments. There will be gathered representatives from Meds, Science, Pharmacy, U.C. and in fact, every faculty.

This is in fact a foreword to give you an idea of what to look forward to next week. There will be music, a prominent speaker, cats and fellowship, but for two hundred students only. So make up your mind that you are going to be one of these and keep this evening open. Remember Wednesday, November 7th. Come at 6 sharp and get out at 8 sharp.

UNIFORMS.

Men in Sections 1 and 2, Class 1, who have not been uniformed will report at the Quartermaster's Stores, Mining Building, this morning at 10 o'clock, when uniforms will be issued. Pressure of the turns will not be accepted as an excuse.

INTER-COLLEGE DEBATING UNION WILL CONTEST MANY SUBJECTS

Final Arrangements to be Made at St. Michael's on Nov. 6th

A meeting of the Inter-College Debating Union was held on Wednesday evening at St. Michael's College. Representatives from all the contesting colleges except Victoria, were present.

On Friday, November 9, at 8 p.m., two debates will be held, one at Trinity and the other at St. Michael's.

In the first debate in which Trinity and Osgoode are the opposing colleges, the subject will be, "Resolved that the overseas Dominions should have a voice in determining the foreign policy of Great Britain." Messrs. W. S. Watson and E. F. Ellis will be the debaters from Trinity and will uphold the affirmative.

A team from the Faculty of Applied Science, better known as S.P.S., will debate with one from St. Michael's. "Resolved, that the private ownership of Public Utilities provides a more honest and efficient administration than public ownership." Messrs. O'Toole and Kehoe from St. Mike's will support the affirmative side, and Messrs. R. A. Hamer and W. J. Browne will defend the negative for School.

The third debate of the first series between McMaster and Wyckiffe, will be held in the latter's hall on Wednesday evening, November 14. "Resolved that the Dominion Government shall include the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk, and Grand Trunk Pacific in its scheme of Government ownership of railways." O. D. Priddle, B.A. and A. E. Look, B.Th., will take the affirmative side; while Wyckiffe, A. Simpson and E. P. Wright for the negative.

On Tuesday, November 6, at 7.30 p.m. a meeting will be held at St. Michael's College to make the final arrangements.

CAPT. BLAKE-FORSTER HAS HAD LONG CAREER IN CANADIAN ARMY

Won His Commission After Second Battle of Ypres for Bravery in the Field

Captain Blake-Forster, who has lately been Acting Adjutant of the C.O.T.C., is an Englishman by birth, but he came to Canada about 25 years ago. He almost immediately became connected with the permanent force of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and worked up to the position of battalion sergeant-major. During his career he spent three years with the Yukon Field Force at Dawson City under Colonel—now Major-General Steele. He also went to South Africa with the Canadian Mounted Rifles and arrived there the day peace was declared.

Before the war he was regimental sergeant-major of the Queen's Own Rifles. He went overseas with the third battalion as battalion sergeant-major and after the second battle of Ypres was promoted and given a commission for gallantry on the field. After twenty months in France he was invalided home and became adjutant of the Canadian School of Musketry stationed at Rockcliffe with the rank of captain. For about one year he has been attached to the Canadian School of Musketry in M.D. No. 2, and for the present is dividing the duties of acting adjutant of the C.O.T.C. of the University with Lieutenant Reid.

Captain Blake-Forster has immediate supervision under Col. Lang of all the military instruction in progress at present in the University of Toronto. He is a very popular and efficient officer and the University is very fortunate in securing even a part of Captain Blake-Forster's time.

INTERESTING ADDRESS GIVEN BY DR. CLEMENS TO BIOLOGICAL CLUB

Specimens Were Distributed Among the Class in Lieu of Lantern Slides

Constitution Undergoes Many Changes

Taking as his subject fresh-water biology, Dr. Clemens gave an intensely interesting address on Tuesday evening in the Biological Building to the Biological Club. Dr. Clemens dealt with animals which dwell, first in running water; second, in still water near shores or in shallow ponds, and third, in open water. He showed how different environments affected the distribution and form of plants and animals, and how they had developed devices and adaptations for securing the means to live from their water environment. Dr. Clemens stated that should the world be faced with a general food scarcity, biologists could supply valuable information concerning many fresh water plants and animals of high food value. An interesting departure from the ordinary lantern slide views was the distribution of specimens throughout the room, and the showing of living specimens by means of the lantern. The majority of these specimens were taken from streams and bodies of water in the vicinity of Toronto, notably Gneadier Pond.

The constitution of the Biological Club is undergoing a metamorphosis. As the Club grew in importance and influence, the present constitution, an achievement worthy of its founders, revealed certain minor weaknesses which will be dealt with by the committee appointed to draw up a new form.

Lieut. Stone, secretary-treasurer pro tem, resigned, and W. A. W. Switzer was elected to that office.

Such addresses as that delivered by Dr. Clemens and the ensuing discussions greatly benefit any student in any faculty in any course which involves biology. In these meetings of the Club the student has an opportunity of getting a much broader knowledge of the Science of Biology and its relation to the other sciences, which is an essential supplement to the ordinary lecture and laboratory courses. All wishing to become members will be welcome.

SERIES OF LECTURES BEING GIVEN IN CONVOCATION HALL

Mr. Frank Stockdale on Problems of Modern Business

Mr. Frank Stockdale of the Advertising Clubs of the World, is at present delivering a series of four lectures in Convocation Hall. He is an expert in advertising and merchandizing and in the addresses hopes to develop a constructive scheme on the science of business. The lectures are being delivered under the auspices of the Toronto Advertising Club.

The first address of the series was given on Tuesday before a large audience and dealt in a general manner with retailing and the problem of the rising cost of business.

FINE OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL DENTAL STUDENTS

Dr. A. J. McDonagh will Address Newman Club

An open meeting of the Toronto Newman Club will be held at the Club House at 97 St. Joseph Street, on Friday evening, November 2, at 8.15. The guest of the Club will be Dr. Andrew J. McDonagh, who will lecture on "Some points from the National Dental Convention of New York on Radiography."

Dr. McDonagh has just returned from New York where he took a prominent part in the above mentioned Convention, and so is eminently qualified to speak on this subject. The address, being partly a technical one should be of special interest to dental students and a cordial invitation is extended to them, as well as to the students of other faculties.

Nov. 9—Mock Trial, Trinity College—Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

FURTHER INFORMATION ABOUT 'VARSITY MEN ON ACTIVE SERVICE IS ANNOUNCED BY PROF. SMITH

Flight Lieut. S. V. Rosevear, R.N.A.S., Wins Distinguished Service Cross

The following is a continuation of the long list of honours won and casualties incurred by alumni of the University now on active service. The first instalment of this list appeared in the last issue of THE Varsity:

Lieut. John R. Woods, 20 Avondale Road, Toronto, is unofficially reported to have been killed in action. He graduated from University College in 1914. He enlisted as a lieutenant with the 35th Battalion. His father is J. W. Woods, who was recently appointed to the British Mission in New York.

Lieut. Charles Kenneth Macpherson is officially reported killed in action. He was an Applied Science student of the class of 1915. He enlisted in the 161st Battalion and held the rank of captain. He reverted in order to get to France. His home is in Goderich, where an uncle, William Coats, lives.

Lieut. Henry Carmen Moore of Listowel is reported wounded. He enlisted as a private in the 110th (Perth) Battalion in February 1916, and in April of the same year was promoted sergeant. He took out his commission in May, 1917, and was posted to a reserve battalion. He attended the Faculty of Education during the session 1914-15.

Lieut. Walter Hubert McNally is also reported wounded. He enlisted as a captain with the 179th Battalion, and must have reverted to lieutenant in order to get to France. He received the degree of D.S.S. in 1901.

Lieut. Matthew Landon Ellis, B.A., University College, 1911, is listed as wounded. He enlisted as a captain in the 83rd Battalion. His home is at 15 Elm Avenue, Toronto.

News has been received of Cyril St. Clair Acheson, U.C. 1917, who left to join the Eaton Machine Gun Battery early in 1915. On reaching England he took up signalling, after which he was first attached to the Indian Cavalry Corps, subsequently he was attached to a machine gun battery, when he was wounded slightly. He then transferred to the R.E.C. where he received his commission and is now serving in Egypt.

Gen. J. E. A. Johnstone of Refruse, a University College student of the year 1918, who left with the 25th Battery in March 1915, saw service at the front for some months with the artillery and trench mortars in September, 1916, he was invalided to England and is now attached to the Canadian Pay Office in London.

Capt. Eric Pepler of this city who is a B.A. University College, 1911, has been promoted major. He went overseas as a lieutenant in the Engineers of the first contingent in March, 1916, he was awarded the French Croix de Guerre.

Capt. C. M. G. Purchas, a member of the Class 177 School, who went overseas with the second contingent, and to France with the 17th Battery, is now Divisional Trench Mortar Officer with the 18th Division. He was wounded in May last and has since been decorated with the Military Cross. "Purch" has been slowly but surely climbing the ladder to success, and the last rung mounted was when he secured the marriage license and decided to travel in double harness. We wish him every success in his new role of "benedict".

FLY-LIEUT. S. V. Rosevear, R.N.A.S., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, having brought his sixth German machine and done effective work in destroying a company of Germans. He was an Applied Science student of the year, 1919. He first joined the University of Toronto Overseas Training Company, from which he went to England as a Provisional Flight Officer last January. His father is Mr. H. S. Rosevear of Port Arthur.

Two University men who have just returned from overseas are Capt. J. Mackenzie, who served with No. 4 G. H. in Greece, and Major W. Harley Smith who has been with hospitals in England and France.

Capt. R. Y. Cory, an officer of a Toronto first contingent Highland battalion, who was taken prisoner at St. Julien in April, 1915, is reported to have been moved to Heidelberg.

Lieut. Guy Elton Dingle, a student of University College of 1916, and whose home is in Brockville, has returned to Canada on sick leave. He went overseas in a special draft of officers in September, 1916, being at Crowborough and Shorncliffe and later was posted to a reserve battalion. He was appointed to a C.M.R. regiment in France, and was wounded on July 25, 1917.

TORONTONENSIS BOARD MET AT WOMEN'S UNION LAST MONDAY EVENING

Photographs Must be Given to Editor Before December 17th

Three Meetings will be Held in Near Future

The initial meeting of the Torontonsis Board was held at the Women's Union on Monday evening of this week. The discussion was quite informal. The Editor outlined the task before the Board and Mr. Grant, the business manager, made some necessary explanations regarding the financial end of the publication of this year's edition. It was decided to hold three meetings—November 6th and 20th, and December 10th. All biographies and photographs must be in the hands of the Editor by December 15th, 1917, it being the purpose of the Board to have the book ready for distribution by March 1, 1918. Students of the final years of the University will please co-operate with their representatives on the Editorial Board, by sending their biography forms and having their photographs taken, as arranged by their representative.

C. O. T. C.

On account of the inclemency of the weather drill has been carried on in the Hart House. Here the classes assemble in the large theatre in the basement and after the roll has been called are marched off and distributed throughout the building in the various classrooms. On account of the impossibility of taking infantry drill in these rooms the classes have been taking physical training or Swedish drill. Written examinations are to be avoided this year if possible. What will count most will be the attendance and the monthly report of the Class commanders on the attendance, efficiency and interest taken in the work by the individual member.

Generosity is the keynote of the faculties treatment of petitions for exemption. Many are putting themselves through College, a most creditable undertaking and therefore have to work on drill afternoons. If these applicants are recommended for exemption by the heads of their various faculties they will find no opposition from the C.O.T.C. authorities. However, the fear of carrying a star in military training will not be considered as grounds for exemption.

The men are nearly all in uniform. Those who have not obtained their hat and collar badges yet, are recommended to do so at the Quartermaster's Stores, Mining Building.

Discussion Groups

There should be a wider extension of the use of discussion groups—that is the point which THE VARSITY has been trying to lead up to in its series of editorials on the subject of education. In most arts courses the group may largely supplant the lecture, with consequent benefit to both student and faculty.

In the group, students come into closer contact with the professor and with each other. Both express opinions, not the lecturer alone. The student is stimulated to weigh the opinions of others, to criticize their defects and appreciate their merits—and above all to think constructively for himself. The tendency fostered by the lecture, the tendency of the student to accept almost without thought the statements of the professor, is obviated. The group is infinitely more conducive to vigorous thinking.

The group has the further advantage of making possible a better method of judging the work of the student. Promotion could then be made more dependent on the work throughout the year, less upon the somewhat fortuitous results of a single examination. Consistent, intelligent work would be rewarded, the premium on cramming removed.

Probably the chief obstacle to the wider use of the discussion group is the lack of an adequate staff of instructors. This problem, largely financial, is one that it is not necessary here to discuss. Plans seem to be under way, through the granting of fellowships and the encouragement of post-graduate work, that may be designed to remedy this defect. But as long as such a deficiency exists, the group system can not be given a fair trial.

In spite of the slight proportion of time now spent in groups, their value seems well recognized. Among both faculty and students the lecture system is seen to be defective, and both would welcome an opportunity to discard it in favour of a method that would bring teacher and taught into closer relation. It may not yet be practicable to have as many groups as there are now lectures, but something in this direction may be done. Let discussion groups take the place of lectures, and even though the time spent in classes be diminished thereby, the educational value of the course will not be decreased.

Faculty Spirit

After noting the small attendance at the opening game of the Mulock Cup series, we are reprinting the following editorial which appeared in THE VARSITY about a year ago.

"Rooting seems to have become a lost art in the University. A few years ago when the University had a senior team in nearly all branches of Canadian sport, there were no better crowd of students in Canada to cheer their team to victory or to give them vim in defeat than in the University of Toronto. Owing to war conditions it has been found advisable to dispense with senior teams and inter-collegiate sport, but the members of the University have evidently thought that all show of enthusiasm had to be dropped at the same time.

"Every faculty of the University has a team in the Mulock Cup series and the members of these faculties should show as much interest in the teams as they did a few years ago when the University was cheering as a whole for a team made up of men from the various faculties. We need college spirit, but we also need faculty spirit. The slogan should be: 'Are we downhearted? NO.' Get out and cheer for your team. It helps them and it helps you to become acquainted with your fellow students. Athletics are one of the primary factors in promoting college unity, and it behooves every student to do as much in this as possible. If you can't play on the team, get out and cheer for it. Show that you have an interest in your faculty and the result will be both beneficial to themselves and you."

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Just a suggestion which the officers of the C.O.T.C. might consider. To my knowledge it has not been officially announced that the members of the C.O.T.C. can wear their uniforms on the days of drill only, but the idea is prevalent that the rule of last year still holds good. My suggestion would be that the members be allowed to wear their uniforms every day of the week, for the following reasons.

In the first place as everybody knows, the clothes are heavy and clumsy when they are first worn. The members naturally feel clumsy in them and they have not that smart alert feeling, which they should have on presenting themselves for drill. Since we wear the uniforms only twice a week, they are bound to feel somewhat new each time they are put on and that awkwardness is sure to prevail. This could be overcome by my suggestion.

Again, civilian clothes are very light compared with the uniforms. A fellow, who wears the uniform one day, then puts on his other clothes the next, is running the chance of catching a severe cold if he is in the least inclined that way. His chest is not covered as it was with the uniform. He would have to wrap up somewhat uncomfortably and perhaps unsightly, if he wished to be as warm as he was the day before, especially if it happens to be a colder day.

In the Monday edition of THE VARSITY it was officially announced by Lieut. Col. Lang, that the Corps was a unit of the Active Militia and was governed by the provisions of the K. R. and O. At the lecture delivered on Discipline, we were told that we were now soldiers in every sense of the word and were subject to military discipline. If these two statements are true why not wear our uniforms at all times as any other soldier is compelled to do.

These reasons for my suggestions are not entirely my own, but are the result of discussions and opinions passed by many members of the different faculties, and I think it will meet the approval of the majority of students. "A BOOSTER".

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The present series of editorials on "Education" concludes in this issue. THE VARSITY invites correspondence on the subject.

Hon. W. D. McPherson speaks at the Y.M.C.A. to-night. Are you going?

We acknowledge letters signed "Meds '19" and "U.C. '18". Until the writers of these letters send their names as a sign of good faith, they cannot be published.

Would the writer of the letter signed "For Service" also kindly forward name and faculty?

The Editor-in-Chief of Torontonensis announces that the work of publishing this year's edition will be actively undertaken in the coming weeks. Students in the graduating year ought to give every assistance possible.

The members of the O.T.C. announce that they will repeat their concert on Friday evening, November 16th. This second concert is being given at the request of the many people who could not secure admission a week ago. It is expected that the performance will be even better than those which have gone before.

According to Newman one of the essentials of a liberal education is that of meeting different men of varying talents. We wonder if we realize this when we walk past the men of other faculties here in our University. They have capabilities which we have not and to appreciate these we must get to know them.

We had a talk with "The Snowbird" yesterday about Wednesday's libel. He said he meant it for the Managing Editor, so any students who may have lost confidence in us will know where to place the blame.

Go to the big "T" mixer on Wednesday at 6 o'clock. See the news item in another column.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

The Query Box

Q. May a member of a previous year executive hold office again? If not, why not?—A. J. M.

A. A member of a previous year executive may not hold office on the executive again. There is no fixed rule against doing so, but it is merely a university custom, in other words an unwritten law of the University.

Q. Is there any boxing taught, or any competitions held at University?

A. To our knowledge there is no person appointed by the University authorities to teach boxing, but in every previous year there has been an assault-at-arms held in the gymnasium, which every undergraduate may enter and show his ability at the manly art.

Q. When are we going to get our smoking room back?—HUGHIE.

A. From the way the question reads we concluded Hughie must be a very heavy smoker, but we think he will have to satisfy his greed outside the school as the Flying Corps have turned the room into a carpenter shop and there does not seem to be another room that could be given to the students as a smoking room.

Q. An Italian came to Canada in 1913. Is he now a British subject owing to the length of time that he has been here, although he has never taken out his naturalization papers?

"UNDERGRAD".
A. As far as we know you are not a British subject. We would suggest that you consult the Italian Consul in Toronto.

Q. Are the four articles of information re the C.O.T.C. published on the front page of THE VARSITY of October 29, authoritative, or are they conjectures like that which appeared in THE VARSITY a short time ago saying that this new organization was not a militia unit? I just wish to know whether they are announcements by Col. Lang or ordinary newspaper reports.

A. If you will read the headline of the story referred to in last Monday's issue you will see that this announcement was made by Lt.-Col. Lang. The information which THE VARSITY gave, in an earlier issue in regard to the C.O.T.C. was not based on conjecture, but was founded on answers given THE VARSITY by an officer of the C.O.T.C.

REV. THOS. MANNING TO PREACH AT CONVOCATION
HALL NEXT SUNDAY

Do Not Fail to Hear Him

Rev. Thomas Manning of Sarnia, who will preach the University sermon on Sunday, November 4th in Convocation Hall, is one of the best known ministers of the Methodist Church in Canada. His home was near Toronto, where the name of Manning came into prominence; two other brothers also being in the ministry. Receiving his education at Victoria College, from which institution he graduated, he has since occupied pulpits in Peterboro, Orillia and Sherbourne Street, Toronto, where he officiated for four years. Recently Western Ontario has been the field of his activities, London, Windsor, Stratford and St. Mary's being a few of his pastorates; also Sarnia, where he is located at present. He is one of the very few ministers on the Board of Regents of Victoria College.

Mr. Manning is greatly admired for his frankness and individuality of preaching, and is a very capable speaker to students. Don't miss the opportunity of hearing him on Sunday.

To-Day's Poem

PURPOSE.

Strong in thy purpose be,
Like some brave master of the sea,
Whose keel, by Titan pulses quickened,
Knows

His will where'er he goes.
Some isle, palm-roofed, in spiced Pacific air
He seeks—though solitary zones apart,
Its place long fixed on his deep-studied chart.

Fierce winds, your wild confusion make!
Waves, wrath with tide and tempest shake

His iron-wrought keel aside!
However driven, to that far island fair (His compass not more faithful than his heart)

He makes his path the ocean wide—
His prow is always there.

—John James Piatt.

OPEN EVENINGS

THE SNOWBIRD

Recently a certain Prof. concluded a long laborious address with orders that we should round up his discourse by perusing a certain chapter in one of his "Literary Lapses". We recognized the fact that the exam would, according to custom, be based on that chapter. We also realized that personal ownership of that volume was neither desirable, nor as our Chancellor informed us, possible and therefore we must procure as a last resort the library copy. This is always a fearful venture, we might state for the benefit of freshmen, entailing as it does a succession of fees, contracts, fines and more fees. But in the premises no other course was available. We must use the Library.

Accordingly, having provided ourselves with a heavy overcoat, a light lunch and the patience of Job, we revisited that institution, whose motto, alas! we knew it from bitter experience, is — "Speed is criminal." One thing they never will have to do is repent at leisure. Of that we are positive.

Donning the overcoat and carefully turning up the collar, we entered the frigid interior of the Library. Lately, in thinking on the temperature of the building, we have wondered that a certain philanthropic Bart. did not accept it as collateral for certain gifts and use it as a store house to boost the price of — (how the deuce do you say "hogs" in Latin). But to proceed. Besides the cold we experienced a vaguely understood lethargic sensation. Later we learned it was the sleeping-sickness which rages with intense virulence among the staff. However, we shook it off and proceeding to the bar—it is a bar, isn't it? Anyway it sounds cosy—we quickly filled out a slip and then —well girls, we just waited, waited, waited and then some.

When this operation had continued with increasing monotony for some time, and our head was slowly sinking, we heard far away approaching footsteps. With slow and ponderous regularity the sound increased in volume. At last we went to receive that book. Nearer! nearer! In our minds eye we thought of King Robert's spider and sincerely hoped with pleased anticipation for the "glad little run", which as you recall, concluded the endeavours of that ambitious insect. But no such luck, she went right by in spite of our frantic waving. The swing of the door seemed final.

Silence then brooded o'er the scene. We felt like a "Locust Eater" must have felt when he had eaten endless of locusts. Why they should have this sleep-producing effect we do not know, but anyway, we were drowsy, possessed of that "yawn which sleep cannot abate"—that awful malady whose habitat is defined as U. of T. Library.

Then we must have slept, for quiet evening had accentuated the Sabbath calm of the Library, when we heard a still small voice question — "Are you waiting?"

In a few minutes the awful question was rung up in the Query Register of our mind. Then with deadly calm we assured her, we were not waiting—oh no! certainly not. Why should we? What was the use? Old Job's patience was worn out.

The West Virginia University football team is being considered as the logical team to oppose the University of California this year at the annual New Year's contest at Pasadena at the Festival of Roses between the strongest team on the Pacific Coast and a representative eastern eleven.

Stars from many of the leading colleges will face each other at the Harvard Stadium on Saturday, November 3, when a game between teams representing the army and the navy, coached respectively by P. D. Haughton, Harvard's famous football mentor, and L. H. Leary, also prominent in the development of successful Harvard elevens, will be played in aid of the war camp community fund.

McGill—The theatre night of the Freshmen and Sophomores, which was to have taken place to night will not be held.

The pictures which were taken of the rush were to be shown this week, but the producers, when seen, said they were not yet ready. It is not yet known just when the film will be ready for presentation, but it will be some time in the near future.

The management will announce when the pictures are finished, and arrangements will then be made for going to see them.

Canada Needs More Money to Carry on the War

Our armies must be fed, clothed, sheltered, provided with guns, ammunition, transportation, medical supplies, and a thousand and one other things. Our expenditures for this purpose are $1,000,000 a day and are constantly increasing.

Canada also needs money to establish credits for the purchase of Canadian produce and products by Great Britain, because Great Britain can now buy on this side of the Atlantic only to the extent to which she can obtain dollar credits.

If Canada wants this trade, she must grant credit.

If Canada does not give credit, Great Britain will be compelled to purchase where credit is available.

Canada needs Great Britain's business—our entire agricultural, industrial and commercial prosperity depends upon it. Consequently Canada must have more money to finance this business.

The only way Canada can raise this money is to sell Bonds.

Because if the entire cost of the war were loaded on us to-day, in the form of increased taxes, the strain would be more than the people could or should be called upon to bear.

But, by selling Canada's Victory Bonds now, our children and our children's children (who will actually benefit most from the immense war sacrifices of this generation) will bear their share of the financial burden.

Canada's Victory Loan will be offered in November and you will be asked to buy the Bonds to enable Canada to carry on the war and help to preserve her agricultural, industrial and commercial prosperity.

Prepare to buy Canada's Victory Bonds to the limit of your ability.

EXPERIENCES OF A CLASS E MAN AT THE GYMNASIUM

By "MUSKIE".

"Mit" was the loose nut of a small town in Ontario. When asked the other day what he was going to do about this Conscriptio he said: "Some material to me; I've got redemption".

I was assigned to Class E the other day, and my name blazed forth on the bulletin board as extra exclusively unfit, so I joined the dolorous ranks of the "halt and blind" and wended my way to the University gym, that pathetic misnomer, which I well remember pointing out to my sister, in my first year, as the "rubbing down" house for the gladiators of the Stadium.

Here were collected my companions in distress, lounging around in various attitudes of studied indifference. Since Dr. Barton, who was to shuffle us over again, was late, we watched the drill of other unfortunates on the gym floor. A red headed, white sweated, cyclone acted as instructor. This individual seemed to be a volcano of energy. Suddenly he would race off to a corner and buzz and clack 'round like a biddy with a worm. Instantaneously pandemonium broke loose in the ranks, and after milling around like a bunch of lassoed steers they all stampeded in his direction and finally assisted more or less of the original formation. Then the dynamic instructor would line 'em up straight. This might seem like an easy proposition, but such was not the case. One man was especially hard to line up. He was unfortunately shaped like the letter "S"—i.e., round shouldered and with a "stumnick". No matter how he stood in the line he stuck out.

Just here Dr. Barton arrived and after roll call, we were divided into bunches of five. I, being as I say extra-specially unfit, came last with two other men who must have been in the last throes of mortal agony, for they looked the part. Soon their came an ominous thump, thump, thump from the examining room and my heart jumped three feet sideways—I being of such a nervous temperament that if one points his finger at me I climb the tallest object in sight. The first batch of five were in the room so we timidly crept nearer and peeped through the door crack, expecting to see all manner of horrible things. What we saw was a partly clothed individual doing the backney trot standing in the same place. Then the "Doc" got into telephone connection with his inside—to find out, I suppose, if he had jumbled them up at all. Evidently they were all tied fast, because he was told to report for physical drill to that energetic wonder we have referred to above.

My turn came at last. By this time my heart was doing a "dot and carry one" dance—but praise be to Peter! I was only told to report progress and let the "Doc" give me the "once over" later on. So, like "Mit", I've got redemption and since I'm one of the poor unfortunates, may I not be allowed to laugh at our idiosyncracies.

Other Colleges

While registering at the Louisiana State university, a man voluntarily gives his word not to give or receive help in the classroom, not to make untruthful false statements, and to give truthful answers to any official questions.

Every girl at the University of Oklahoma is writing to at least two soldier boys. "I'm writing to five," said one maid, "four of them because they asked me to write to them to help pass their lonesome hours, and the other—oh, well, just because."

Olive drab uniforms for the whole university, men and women, are advocated by Dean Templin of the University of Kansas. "It would not only create a distinctive atmosphere to see all the students wearing military uniform," said the dean, "but it would also be a matter of real economy."

The Yale University Track Association has announced that the University and freshman cross-country teams will compete in several meets this fall. There will probably be a freshman run against Harvard 1921 on November 17, and both the varsity and freshman teams will be entered in the inter-collegiate meet to be held in New York City on November 24. This meet was held in New Haven last year. Few freshmen have reported for practice as yet.

Canada Needs More Money to Carry on the War

HERE, in a sentence, is the reason why the Dominion Government will ask you in November to buy Canada's Victory Bonds. But why does Canada need more money to carry on the war?

WATERLOO is remembered as one of the great battles of the world's history, but Canada has already sent overseas to the plains of France and Flanders more than twice as many men as were engaged on both sides of that great battle.

THIS army of Canada's splendid sons who, by their heroism are helping to protect us—every man, woman and child of us—from sharing the horrible fate of the Belgians, must be fed, clothed, equipped and maintained with every weapon needed in the fight.

For this purpose alone Canada requires over One Million Dollars a Day

And this expenditure is constantly increasing.

This is one reason—a reason that will convince you, and every other patriotic citizen, that if Canada needs this money, she must have it.

Moreover, Great Britain has been expending in Canada, hundreds of millions of dollars for foodstuffs and the various munitions of war.

This has resulted in keeping our farmers, miners, lumbermen, fishermen and the workers in every branch of manufacturing industry fully employed.

Should this condition now be disturbed, every man, woman and child in the Dominion would undoubtedly be adversely affected.

Great Britain is anxious to continue buying supplies in Canada. But Britain is bearing so tremendous a financial burden on production at home, and in assisting our Allies, that she can now buy only on credit on this side of the Atlantic.

Therefore Canada proposes to extend to Great Britain the credit she must have by borrowing money from the people of Canada through the sale of Canada's Victory Bonds.

Thus Great Britain will be enabled to continue buying her supplies in Canada and to pay cash for them to the Canadian producers. This, in turn, will result in a continuance of that business activity so essential to the well-being of all the Canadian people.

So every man and woman in Canada should prepare to buy Canada's Victory Bonds to the very limit of his or her ability, when they are offered in November.

ST. MIKE'S DEFEATED JR. MEDS. WEDNESDAY BY SCORE OF 15-0

Winners Had An Easy Victory, But
Meds Have Some Good Material

On Wednesday the first game of the Mulock series took place at the Varsity Stadium between St. Mike's and Junior Meds with a very large crowd in attendance.

The game started at 1.45, St. Mike's taking the kick with the wind, the ball was returned to centre, and St. Mike's lost it on an offside.

Meds then tried a few bucks but they were of no avail. Wright then tried a kick, but fumbled and St. Mike's gained possession of the ball once more, but their men were continuously offside and again had to forfeit to Meds, who lost the ball on yards. Grace went over for a touch, but St. Mike's lost the convert by carrying the ball from behind the posts.

St. Mike's 5, Jr. Meds 0.

In the second quarter Temes of Jr. Meds displayed ability as a rugby player at outside wing by tackling in great style, and getting under all the bucks. Ireland played hard but a game cannot be won with two or three men.

The second spasm started with a long punt by McIntosh, which was fumbled by Tice five yards out. Montague, who had been playing a stellar game, went across with ease—again the convert was lost.

Half-time 10-0 in favor of St. Mike's.

In the third quarter Dwyer pulled off a few spectacular runs, and a kick by McIntosh was again dropped by Tice, the result being another touch for St. Mike's.

In the last quarter St. Mike's were held without a point and the game ended with the score 15-0.

In Smidie, Temes and Ireland, Junior Meds have the best outsiders and flying wings in the series, but three men cannot win a game without the rest of the team helping. So wake up Meds and get some more material for the next game; there is plenty of good material in the freshman and sophomore years.

St. Mike's—Goulet, O'Loune, Gilles, Lee, Glavin, Montague, Grace, Sheehy, Carroll, Hawkins, Dwyer, Brown, McIntosh.

Jr. Meds—Morgan, McClure, Jones, Smidie, Carter, Bicknell, Graham, Smidie, Jr., Temes, Ireland, Tice, Carrow, Wright.

Wycliffe

Wednesday night, October 31, being the time for the appearance of the spirits, it was not surprising to see a small army issuing from Wycliffe College at about 10 o'clock.

A thesis concerning the deeds and misdeeds of certain professors had been beforehand carefully prepared by the spirits. Armed with the manuscript, the body made its way across the campus, through Knox College, and thence to the home of one of the aforesaid professors. The latter being absent, the maid appeared at the door in answer to their summons, but, on seeing the multitude, suddenly became convulsed with fear and retreated to the kitchen. An entrance thus being denied, the thesis was attached to the door. It is hoped that the offender will, on his return, carefully peruse the contents and furnish redress.

The students then boarded a car and proceeded to Parkdale, the home of another professor. Here they were more fortunate. All were invited in, the object of their visit made known and the thesis read by embryo-professor Lewis. The victim announced that he capitulated, and their journey had not been in vain. After indulging in a light repast, Messrs. Mars and Gallop favored the concourse with singing. A vote of thanks was then tendered to the host and hostess, after which the students returned home.

The Union Literary Society will meet on Saturday evening, November 3, when the government's new term of office will be ushered in by a speech from the Throne. There will also be an address by Dr. Gilbert. The subject is, "Brains—Plus or Minus." Music will also be provided. Be on hand at 7.30.

The reporter wishes to correct a mistake in calling the opposition of the house the "coalition" party, the name having been changed to "Union".

ENGINEERING SOCIETY ELECTS AN ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE

Good Team is Expected for Mulock
Cup Series

School Has Entered a Team in Inter-Coll. Debating Union

On Wednesday at 4 p.m., the Engineering Society held a meeting in the Mining Building to elect an Athletic Directorate for the season 1917-1918.

C. E. McDonald, president of the Society, called the meeting to order, and explained that owing to various reasons, it was rather late to appoint an executive. But "better late than never".

The officers elected were as follows:
Hon. President—Dean Ellis (Accl.).
President—J. H. Mendizabel (Accl.).
Vice-President—S. H. Johnston (elected);
W. J. Browne.

Sec.-Treasurer—W. L. Sagar (elected);
F. D. Ellis, A. R. Clarry.

Third Year Rep. H. Rose.

Rugby practice was held immediately after the meeting, and there was a fine turn-out, which gives promise of a good team for the Mulock Cup series.

As is announced elsewhere in this issue the School has entered a team in the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union this year. The representatives on the first debate are R. A. Hamer, M.A., and W. J. Browne. The debate is to be held on Friday, November 9, at St. Michael's College, and every "School" man, who can shout a "Tokey Oike" should be present to hear the debate. A musical programme is being arranged so that the evening ought to be enjoyable to every one. Be on hand!

RESULTS OF TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The tennis tournament, although seriously handicapped by the inclement weather, is progressing favorably. The courts are rather heavy, but the schedule is going ahead, and the finals should be reached by next week.

In the singles McNab won from Cook by default. Dickson defeated Hesse. Richard won from Travers by default. Ketchum from Green, Shugart from Thompson, Sullivan from Shaw, Martin from Coulter, and Smith from Wills.

On Wednesday, Theburn and Rogers defeated McIntyre and Pakenham. On Thursday, Baker and Allen defeated Silverman and Jennison in straight sets, 6-3, 12-10.

The first set was poorly played, but the second set was most strenuously contested. In this set there was little to pick between the players, but Baker and Allen finally drew ahead and won out 12-10.

It is very essential that all players play their games according to the schedule posted in the gym as the state of the weather does not permit of any further postponements.

Another splendid meeting of the U.L.S. has been planned for Saturday night, November 3 at 7.30 p.m. The Rev. Dr. Gilbert of Pennsylvania will deliver an address on "Brains—Plus and Minus".

Who is in Class One?

All Male British subjects, ordinarily or at any time since the 4th day of August, 1914, resident in Canada, who had on the 13th October, 1917, attained the age of 20 years, who were born not earlier than the year 1893, and were on the 6th day of July, 1917, unmarried, or are widowers, but have no child, etc.

Exceptions.

"1. Members of Our regular, or reserve, or auxiliary force, as defined by Our Army Act.
"2. Members of Our Military forces raised by the Governments of any of Our other dominions or by Our Government of India.
"3. Men serving in Our Royal Navy, or in Our Royal Marines, or in Naval Service of Canada, and members of Our Canadian Expeditionary Force.
"4. Men who have since August 4th, 1914, served in Our Military or Naval Forces, or in those of Our allies, in any theatre of actual war, and have been honourably discharged therefrom.
"5. Clergy, including members of any recognized order of an exclusively religious character, and ministers of all religious denominations existing in Canada at the date of the passing of Our said Military Service Act.
"6. Those persons exempted from military service by Order in Council of August 13th, 1917, or by Order in Council of December 6th, 1898."

How should Report for Service be made?

Men who do not desire to claim exemption will report for service either by mail or in person. Forms of report will be found in all post offices, and will be transmitted free by the postmaster.

What is the next step?

The man who has reported for service will be advised by Registered Letter as to anything thereafter required of him. He will not be required to report for duty or be placed on active service earlier than the 10th day of December, 1917.

How should claim for exemption be made?

Claim for exemption may be made by any man in Class One, by his employer, business associate or near relative, but it is desirable that not more than one claim be made for any one man. Forms of claim for exemption will be found in all Post Offices and will be transmitted free by the postmaster to the Registrar.

What are the grounds for Exemption?

(a) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in military service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged;
(b) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in military service, he be engaged in other work in which he wishes to be engaged and for which he has special qualification;
(c) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in military service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated or trained;
(d) That serious hardship would ensue, if the man were placed on active service, owing to his exceptional financial or business obligations or domestic position;
(e) Ill-health or infirmity;
(f) That he conscientiously objects to the undertaking of combatant service and is prohibited from so doing by the tenets and articles of faith, in effect on the sixth day of July, 1917, of any organized religious denomination existing and well recognized in Canada at such date, and to which he is in good faith belongs;
(g) That he is exempt from combatant service because disfranchised under the War Times Election Act.

What is the last day for Reporting for Service or Claiming Exemption?

NOVEMBER 10th, 1917.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

DR. SANDIFORD SPOKE AT Y.M.C.A.

"Educational Reconstruction" Was Subject of His Address

Those who failed to hear Dr. Sandiford in his address on "Educational Reconstruction", on Thursday, November 1, missed a rare treat.

With the facility of one who is thoroughly familiar with the subject, Dr. Sandiford discussed the present systems of education in Canada, showing where they have fallen short and suggesting reforms. He applied to our systems several standard tests, which revealed startling conditions. The attendance test shows that there are twenty thousand children of school age, who do not attend school at all and an equal number who do not attend more than twenty days in the year. Twelve per cent of the Canadian population can neither read nor write, as compared with the one-fifth per cent in Denmark and a still smaller per cent in England. Reference was made to two representative cities, Manchester and Toronto, approximately equal in size. In the former, sixty-five percent of the population brought the attendance up to ninety per cent of the enrolment, in the latter, three hundred officers achieved a noble seventy per cent. Obviously, the passing of a compulsory education act and its strict enforcement would reform the situation.

The salary test indicates the respect in which education is held in the community. To all appearances, it is not esteemed very highly, for the remuneration which teachers receive is scarcely worthy of the name of salary. Two remedies were suggested: a minimum salary law to secure a longer period of efficient service, and an impartial pension system.

The efficiency test takes away our pride in a system which insists so strenuously on uniformity. Too subjects have received undue attention to the neglect of practical subjects. Why not better secondary education at an earlier stage?

Then, too, the creation of a county unit instead of the limited school area, would tend to kill the centralization which is the curse of our educational system.

The problem of the returned soldier must be met and the educational system must supply training adapted to individual needs.

Dr. Sandiford made an appeal to college students as future leaders to influence public opinion in favor of these reforms.

FEES OFFICE HAD BUSY TIME ON LAST DAY OF OCTOBER

All day, October 31st, a long line of students endeavored to secure entrance to the fees office. That such a condition could exist, that students should be so willing to dispose of their hard earned cash, led us to investigate. And we have stumbled upon the reason. Payment of fees by U.C. students closed yesterday, unless some tardy or reckless individual wished to pay his fees later, accompanied by a fine of $1.00 per month. While fees have been filtering into the office for a month past, yet the Bursar reported that on Wednesday the fees office carried on a record business. The S.P.S. men have till November 5 to "come across" with their fee while the Meds have till the 10th. The pawnshops report a record trade with S.P.S. and Meds, who are willing to sell their false teeth, to raise the required amount. But ye, tardy ones, as the Bursar says, "Come one, come all, come short, come tall".

Harvard—The Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Harvard consists of a regiment of three battalions and twelve companies. Any student of the university is eligible to enter the Corps, and at the present time 1,070 men are enrolled.

MORE HONOURS FOR S.P.S.

School were out with a large squad on Wednesday afternoon getting ready for their clash with Senior Meds. The Science men are strong in nearly all divisions. In Samuels, Ellis, Sagor, Prondergast and Shatz they have men who are fit for Senior O.R.E.U. and can get into any game.

Shatz, although a newcomer in the rugby game, is the most deadly tackle and a man with lots of speed and wind.

Ellis has had his experience with big teams a year or two ago, while Prondergast became famous while at Jarvis Collegiate as a good outside man.

Samuels has been with S.P.S. for a number of years and can tackle, back and kick, and can play any position of a good rugby team.

It seems that Senior Meds, without the aid of "Muckle" McLean, will be greatly handicapped, but still there is sufficient good material left to give School an interesting game.

Trinity

The preparations for the Mock Trial to be held in Trinity College on Monday November 5, are now well advanced. A large number of tickets have already been sold, and a successful entertainment is hoped for. All information, respecting tickets, etc., may be obtained from Mr. Ascon, Trinity College, Phone C. 3501.

HORSE ESCAPED FROM DRIVER

On Wednesday afternoon a horse pulling a delivery wagon of a certain well known firm pranced up around the University buildings. Perhaps he was seeking a little higher education or perhaps a freshman of the Veterinary College. In any case his aspirations were nipped in the bud by Lieut. MacDonald, president of the Engineering Society, who turned him over to a corporal in the R.F.C. The latter courageously got into the driver's seat and pushing on the reins started out to put the lawless chauffeur. Without a doubt he had a fine time driving around in the vicinity of Queen's Park but the missing delivery man was not found. So if the firm is still minus a delivery outfit, it might profit them to enquire at the University residences or at Burwash Hall.

Date of Next Performance Will Be Announced Later

For several reasons it has been found impossible for the O.T.C. players to give another performance on Monday evening next as announced. The officers of the Company are hoping that another performance may be arranged later and assure their patrons that it will be as good as the first. Definite announcement will be made as soon as possible.

THREE MORE VARSITY GRADUATES HAVE DIED FOR THEIR COUNTRY

Report of Deaths of Lieut. J. J. Campbell, Lieut. Jaffray Eaton and Lieut. Col. T. C. Irving Was Received on Saturday

Official word has been received by his parents, that Lieut. J. J. Campbell has been killed in action. It was only a few days ago that he was reported to be slightly wounded. Lieut. Campbell was a graduate of Applied Science of the year 1914. He enlisted with the University Battery as a gunner, being promoted to bombardier, and finally receiving his commission. When killed he was serving with a C.F.A. battery.

Lieut. Jaffray Eaton, killed in action, was a graduate of U.C. 1907. He was attached as captain to the 147th Battalion, and before going to England was made junior major of the unit. To get to France he reverted to a lieutenant, and was posted to the 1th C.M.R. Lieut. Eaton was a brother officer of the late Lieut. Eddard Kiely.

Lieut.-Col. T. C. Irving is another Varsity man to make the supreme sacrifice. He has been at the front since the beginning going overseas with the Canadian Engineers of the first contingent as a captain. In recognition of his services, Lieut.-Col. T. C. Irving was awarded the D.O.S.O. in June, 1916. At the time he met his death, he was in charge of the Engineers of one of the Canadian divisions.

Wounded.

Lieut. H. R. Clewes of Ottawa is again in the list of wounded. He is serving with the Imperial army in the Lincolns, and was wounded only in June last. He belonged to the class of 1916, U.C.

Lieut. Lester Husband, Applied Science, 1916, has been wounded. He enlisted with a Hamilton battalion. On May 11, 1917, he was gassed as having won the Military Cross, for reorganizing his men at a very critical time, clearing the enemy trench and capturing fourteen prisoners. He set a fine example of courage and initiative. He is now signalling officer at Headquarters' Staff, France.

Lieut. John Gordon Gauld is also reported wounded. He enlisted as a private with the 5th University Company, and was promoted lance-corporal and then sergeant. He was later given his commission in the P.P.C. L.L., but was transferred to the 5th Battalion, with which he is at present serving. In July of this year he was wounded. He was awarded the Military Cross in September. Lieut. Gauld was a B.A. of University College of 1916, and also attended Knox. His home is in Mimico.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Perrett of Regina, Sask, and a graduate of Victoria College of 1891, has been blinded by shrapnel. He went overseas as O.C. of a Canadian Infantry Battalion.

Lieut. H. C. Moore and Lieut. W. M. McNally, who were both reported in a recent casualty list as being wounded, are in hospital at Boulogne. Lieut. Moore is severely wounded in the head and shoulder and Lieut. McNally severely in the leg.

Lieut. C. V. Mulligan, Med. 1918, and Sub-Lieut. W. P. Hogarth of the same year are both home on leave just now. Lieut. Mulligan has been serving with a Toronto Grenadier battalion. His home is in Onenec. Sub-Lieut. Hogarth was originally with the University Hospital as sergeant. Then he joined the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve in the capacity of surgeon probationer. He lives in Fort William.

TORONTONENSIS MEETING

ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE ELECTION WILL TAKE PLACE TO-DAY AT NOON

Athletic Careers of Prospective Candidates are Summarized

The election of the student representatives to the Athletic Directorate of the University takes place To-day (Monday) noon and as their names may be unfamiliar to some of the electors a few outstanding facts about their careers in College athletics are summarized here.

C. A. BENDER, third year Trinity, has always been active in athletics in Trinity, despite its very small attendance, making a good showing in interfaculty sports. He is Secretary of the Trinity College Athletic Association.

F. X. BURGESS, fourth year U.C. is President of the University College Athletic Association and captain of Arts 1917-18 Mulock Cup rugby team. He has always been an influential and energetic member of the College Athletic Association.

E. C. MACDONALD, fourth year School of Practical Science, was on the 1911 University rugby team (Inter-collegiate and Dominion champions) and played with the team of '12 and '13. He holds a first "T". He enlisted in 1914 and gained his commission in the pioneers, was wounded in August, 1916, and discharged. He is President of the Engineering Society.

A. W. MACPHERSON, fifth year Meds, has been identified with athletics since his entrance into Varsity. He has played in the Mulock Cup series and holds his first "T". He is the only member of last year's directorate standing for re-election.

D. W. McKAY, fifth year Meds, has played "most everything" in the realm of sport and holds his first and second colours for basketball. He has been particularly active in the various student organizations and especially the athletic clubs. He is president of the Medical Athletic Association.

C. A. MOORE, third year Victoria, has been indefatigable in keeping Vic on the athletic map, built up a championship basketball team two years ago and holds his first and second "T". He is vice-president of the Victoria College Athletic Association.

G. P. PEARSON, fourth year School of Practical Science, was captain of last year's Jennings' Cup champions and was awarded a first "T" for his work. He has done more than anyone else to keep sport alive around School in spite of their greatly depleted numbers.

178 U.C. ELECT OFFICERS FOR THE COMING YEAR

Usual Scenes of Disorder Lacking This Year

The election for the executive of the fourth year of University College were held on Friday. Voting was slow and the scene of the elections was very quiet when compared with other years. The following were elected to office:

President	Mr. Gregory (Acl.)
Vice-President	Miss M. Lee.
Secretary	Mr. Horning (Acl.)
Treasurer	J. A. Boles.
1st Historian	Miss Birk.
2nd Historian	W. R. Salter (Acl.)
Athletic Rep	Mr. McClelland.
Proprietor	Miss Park.
Poetess	Miss Lyon.
Mrs. Directress	Miss White.

A tie occurred in the vote for lady councillor, between Miss Kennedy and Miss McTavish. The President announces that an election for this office will be held at the first Class Meeting.

VICTORIA WOMEN HAVE ORGANIZED A DRAMATIC CLUB

A Play Will Be Put On This Year Under Direction of Prof. Greaves

Victoria College has launched another organization into the tide of college activities and christened it the Victoria Women's Dramatic Club. This newest club was formed on Monday evening, October 29 at a mass meeting of the Vic girls in the Victoria Students' Union, under the auspices of the Women's Student Council. In spite of the murky weather a goodly turnout evinced the keen interest and enthusiasm for dramatics that has so far been latent at Victoria. Victoria is not cutting herself off from the University Women's Dramatic Club. She still retains a representation in that organization and hopes and expects that the Vic club will serve as a feeder for University Club, which hasn't been able to make use of all the talent at its disposal. At the mass meeting a lively discussion took place in which the venture was viewed from every angle so that no obscurity may arise as to the intention of, or reason for, the Club. Nominations were received for an executive and at the subsequent voting on Tuesday and Wednesday, the following officers were returned: Hon. President, Professor Pelham Edgar; President, Miss Grace Watt '18, Vice-President, Miss Constance Kilborn '19, Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Sterling '20, Treasurer, Miss Jean Keenleyside '21; 1st year rep, Miss True Davidson '21; The executive then appointed the remaining members of the executive: Business manager, Miss Dora Smith '18; Conveyor of costume committee, Miss Myra Smith '19.

Convenor of stage committee, Miss E. Fisher '20. The Dramatic Club will present a play this year under the instruction of Prof. Greaves, and the blessing of the Chancellor. To-day a notice will be posted up in the Ladies' Study on which all the girls interested are requested to sign up to read for Professor Greaves for a dramatic test. Show your college spirit by signing up.

HON. W. D. MacPHERSON, K.C., SPOKE TO UNIVERSITY COLLEGE MEN ON DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP

University Men Must Repay Country for Money Expended on Them

On Friday evening, November 2, a very enjoyable reception was held in the University Y.M.C.A. building, for U.C. men. The able and hard-working executive had an excellent programme arranged, of which the most important part was an address by Hon. W. D. MacPherson, K.C., Provincial Secretary and Chairman of the Soldiers' Aid Commission. College yells and songs were sung, and after the address, including ice cream and candy, were provided and very much enjoyed.

Mr. MacPherson chose to speak on the subject of the duties of citizenship. He pointed out to the men the great privilege that was theirs in coming to this University in this great metropolitan centre, mingling mind with mind, and broadening their minds to the greatest possible extent. He showed that these privileges call for a very considerable return to our fellow men.

"The University of Toronto is by no means a self-supporting institution. The fees do not suffice to maintain or carry on the activities of the University. The University receives annually between six and seven thousand dollars from the Provincial Government and even this sum is not enough. The expenditure of this amount of money by the public calls for a certain amount of responsibility of the men who receive the benefits of this money and calls for a return in the form of contribution to the public life of the community."

Mr. MacPherson then gave a short account of the Government of our country dwelling on the duties of the electors and the elected, and pointing out very forcibly the great responsibility devolving upon the people's representatives. "Every learned profession," he said, "requires a long and strenuous period of training, and in after life they devote themselves only

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Thursday evening a most enjoyable meeting of the Modern Language Club was held at the home of Professor Cameron in Admiral Road. After the meeting was opened by the singing of the National Anthem, the Marcellise and the Italian national anthem, Miss Evangeline Harris gave a most interesting little address on the geography of Italy and its effect upon the climate of the country and the customs and characteristics of the people. Several very amusing references to well known Latin authors were much appreciated by those who are acquainted with the ancient writers. Miss Harris managed very cleverly to make a difficult subject interesting, instructive and amusing.

The gracefulness of the Italian dance was well represented by Miss Sampson, a visitor to the club. During the evening Miss Elsie Graham read a paper written by a tourist travelling through Italy. Naturally this paper gives only the tourist's impression of Italy, which was slightly erroneous. Dr. Shaw, formerly of the Johns' Hopkins University, but now a member of the Staff of Ithaca and Spanish, very kindly consented to correct the misleading impression which the paper would convey to the mind of anyone who had not had the pleasure of visiting Italy and observing the customs of the people.

Professor Cameron showed a number of very interesting lantern slides, mostly of the ancient city of St. Francis. Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

LOST—Around campus during this week, a medal detached from Ioh. Shield of J.C.I. on front of medal. Finder kindly return to THE VARSITY business office.

Nobraske—A three weeks' furlough may be given to the students of the University because of the great need of corn-huskers in the state. A census of the students is being taken to find out whether they favor this plan. The furlough if approved will begin next week and will probably take the place of the Christmas holidays.

to themselves, the practice of their profession, and to making money and do not concern themselves with the affairs of state and public life, they have lost one of the highest motives.

The fact that there is a very wide field for the ambitious young man was forcibly brought forward. Local committees and boards of education and other local affairs are a great training for a man whose ideals are in public life. Mr. MacPherson was before entering the political field, a member and then chairman of various boards and committees in the city, and here received a great deal of training for his future public life.

The speaker told something of his own work, both as Provincial Secretary and as chairman of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, pointing out many things of interest to the young man who has any intention of entering public life. He recommended every young man with such inclinations to spend all his spare time in reading a definite and prescribed course. He especially recommended the perusal and close study of the British North America Act, on which our constitution is based and as we think, where it is much better than that of our neighbours to the south. He also recommended Cartwright's Cases on the B.N.A. as a work which would be very useful to the student interested in political studies.

To everyone interested in the study of law and in public life, Mr. MacPherson's address was a great help and privilege. We might say that there is soon to be a club organized in the University for the discussion of problems of present day government, of which announcement will be made shortly in THE VARSITY.

LARGE CROWD SWELLS CONVOCATION HALL TO HEAR REV. THOMAS MANNING

The Perfection of Jesus' Teaching Lies In Its Simplicity

A large congregation swelled by the members of the O.T.C., who paraded in uniform, greeted the Rev. Thomas Manning at Convocation Hall yesterday morning. After

Mr. Manning took his text from the 8th Chapter of St. John, part of the lesson for the day. "I am the light of the world. he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." "Christ's teaching," said Mr. Manning, "is the explication of the fundamental truth of life; anyone who understands Christ's doctrine thoroughly understands all the principles of right living, and he who models his life on Christ's, lives as near to perfection as is possible to do. Men ask, 'What is truth?' and each follows his individual path, seeking truth according to his ideal of it. The answer to these were that 'Christ is the way, the truth, and the life', and that His teachings contain all that is necessary for us to know."

All the information necessary to our spiritual welfare is contained in the Gospels, although Christ must have said and done much more than we are told here. However, the writers of the Gospels were men who knew our Saviour well, and we may be sure that they have omitted nothing that is not unnecessary to our salvation.

"The very disciples had no knowledge of our Lord, which has not been handed down to us, they formed their opinions and built up their faith on the same ground as we do. They had the advantage of personal association with Jesus, while we have the writings of many men and the mellowing influence of Time on our side. It has been said, indeed, that no age can know Jesus so well as the present."

"As in the time of the Apostles so now, to be a Christian is to carry on and extend to others after His ascension the doctrine which He taught while on earth among us. On the other hand, much of the Christianity of the present day is not strictly in accordance with Christ's teaching. Faith in His word and obedience to His precepts are all that is asked of us: the Old Testament, the Epistles of the New Testament, the Creeds, Church ritual, and Church organizations, are not essential for Christianity. But, just as when the sun shines, other lights grow dim, so a knowledge of Christ's acts and sayings as offered in the Gospel is the best means to a higher Christianity."

"A thorough knowledge of the Gospels is of far more value than familiarity with Church ritual or even the Creeds of the Christian faith. If the Gospels are known the truths of Christianity become apparent. Crucifixes help the lame, but they are of little use to a man who can jump and run."

"Christianity is growing to find a much larger place in modern literature than ever before, but in all the schisms and controversies regarding minor points of difference, none cast aspersions upon the teaching of Christ, although many have withdrawn from the Church to follow him in their own way. We are agreed as to the great merits of our religion. Tolstoi refers to it as 'the most perfect system of metaphysical ethics.'"

"The effect of the war on Christianity has not been to detract any value from the teaching of Christ. For as Donald Hamken said in his 'A Student in Arms', the soldiers believe in the virtues of Christianity such as generosity, mercy, justice and honesty, although many of them do not connect these with religion at all. And on the other hand many associate self-righteousness with religion, the very thing which Christ was so zealous to condemn."

"A chaplain at the front also points out that when men are separated from outside influence, they think for themselves and find for themselves the road of Christ."

"The perfection of Jesus' teaching lies in its simplicity. In its purest and best form it bears little relation to the cultured ritual of modern observance, not that ritual is to be condemned in any way however. The simple language of Christ's teaching can be understood by all in a way in which the Epistles cannot be. 'Go thou and do likewise', is a call that all can hear if they will."

"The Gospels have comforting words for every cloud of spiritual sorrow. 'I am the light of the world he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life'."

MR. R. HAMER, of Varsity, Candidate for Alderman, Widely Known in Sask.

It is not an everyday occurrence to find a University student taking so active a part in municipal politics as to run for office. Mr. R. Hamer, of 249 Glendonwyne Avenue, is running as the labour candidate for alderman in Ward 7, West Toronto.

Mr. R. Hamer came to Varsity in 1916 as a graduate in Art of Saskatchewan University, and immediately proceeded to the Master's degree. His name is known widely in the Province of Saskatchewan, where he conducted a Teacher's Agency for several years.

Mr. Hamer was also one of those to whom the Government granted a studentship this year. This scholarship is given only to those who have shown both the ability and industry to prosecute research work for the Government.

At the meeting of Labour men held on Friday evening last, Mr. Hamer was nominated as their candidate. He has taken as his platform "Municipal Ownership", with the idea of preventing any trickery on the part of the interests in invading the domain of public utilities.

As Labour is poorly organized, and poorly represented in Canada, the door of leadership lies open to the men of education with the people's welfare at heart. THE VARSITY feels assured that in selecting Mr. Hamer as their candidate, the Labour men have done wisely. THE VARSITY wishes him every success in the coming election.

RUGBY GAME TO-DAY

The Mulock Cup game between U.C. and O.S.T.C. which was scheduled for last Friday, was postponed to Thursday, November 8 at the request of the O.S.T.C. So many of the players being home on leave they could not get their best team together. Every rugby fan who is able should see School play Trinity to-day at the Stadium.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Anglicans! Come to 170 Gerrard Street on Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock and take your part in Red Cross work. There is an immense amount of work to be done in this connection and every available worker is needed. When you are quite tired from sewing and making surgical supplies, afternoon tea will refresh you. Don't forego the pleasure of helping to win the war.

In a very closely contested vote Mr. Mooney of '21 Meds, was elected as representative of the class to the Medical At-Home.

STUDENTS AND THE VICTORY LOAN

It may be taken for granted that every student who has at his disposal a surplus of fifty dollars in excess of immediately foreseen expenses, will invest in Canada's Victory Loan. We assume this from the exemplary patriotism that the student body in the past has shown. The call to invest has a double appeal, an appeal to patriotism and an appeal to the purse; and the same response is thereby awakened from two widely different quarters. Financially, Canada war bonds are the most attractive offering on the investment market. Unsurpassed security and a high interest return are features not often found together. It is profitable as well as patriotic to invest; in this instance at least the paths of duty and self-interest are concurrent.

The Government's need for financial resources is immediate and grave. If Canadian industry is to supply the requirements of Canadians at the front, the Government must have money. The money cannot be raised by taxation. Canada has never felt the pinch of real taxation; but in England, where it is known all too well, it has been found possible to raise in this way not more than forty per cent. of the amount required for current expenditure. The balance of the cost of the war is left for future generations to bear—a small price to pay for the great heritage that might not otherwise be theirs.

The money will be borrowed abroad, if Canadians fail in the task. Let us realize the situation clearly: if Canada does not subscribe to this loan, then Great Britain will place her coming war orders in the United States, and American industry will benefit thereby. Is this a time for Canadian workmen and machinery to be idle because Canadians are unwilling to save enough to finance further production? Is this a time for Canadian industry to be devoted to the production of luxuries to satisfy the extravagance at home, while the men at the front took to other sources for the necessities of life and the instruments of victory?

The success or failure of the VICTORY LOAN will show whether or not Canada is in this war to the finish.

Buy a War Bond!

THE NEW ORDER

Friday's issue contained the official announcement that the Women's Student Council has accepted the amended basis of the recommended division of editorial responsibility in THE VARSITY. By this action the Women's Council is entitled to appoint the lady members of THE VARSITY Staff, and to have the exclusive right to use at least three columns of space in THE VARSITY.

For this space the women students will be entirely responsible. They will have complete charge of all women's copy until it reaches the local editor, where necessarily the co-operation of the men is required. Thus the students of the University will know exactly from where women's news matter will come in the future. Such a step makes inevitable a great change in the management and organization of THE VARSITY Staff, but surely, even in the face of the divided responsibility, it is not too much to hope for a close spirit of co-operation. The present Staff assure the Women's Student Council that its appointees will be met half-way in every matter connected with the paper.

From this time forward, THE VARSITY will be the paper for all undergraduates—a University paper in fact as well as name. THE VARSITY welcomes the new order of things, and hopes that the time will soon come when the compulsory fee will be extended to the women students. When this further change is made THE VARSITY will be a real University paper.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Y.M.C.A. is more active than ever this year. The Executive is to be congratulated on the many improvements which have been made.

Those in the Fourth Year should watch for their representative on the Torontonsens Board. Arrangements will be made for the taking of photographs, and writing of biographies this week.

The main reason for the change in the make-up of the editorial column is not to improve the appearance of the paper, so much as it is to take up space; and so save our arm. But really, how do you like it?

Some of the American Universities raised hundreds of thousands of dollars for their Liberty Loan. Even with its sorely-depleted numbers, could not Varsity conduct a campaign in support of our coming VICTORY LOAN.

If "Booster" will turn to THE VARSITY of October 15th he will find at the bottom of the second column on the first page, that it is against Militia Orders for members of the militia to wear their uniforms on days other than parade days.

Questions re the Military Service Act or those concerning nationality should not be sent to the Query Box. The former should be sent to Mr. Glyn Osler, Registrar of Ontario, who has sole charge of the administration of the Act in this Province. Questions re nationality, would be best answered by the respective consulates.

None of the people who wrote the letters acknowledged in last issue have yet sent in their names. What is the matter?

To-Day's Poem

At the End of the Milky Way.

In the land at the end of the milky way,
Atar in the vague beyond,
The queen of the fairies holds her sway,
Swinging a magic wand;
And when we reach that sheltering cove,
The tears we have shed below
Will be changed to crystal-lights of love,
To banish the shades of woe.
Here is the substance of purity
And a vision of lasting peace,
Here is the land where the soul is free
And here will the mockers cease.
The queen of the fairies sets apart
In the midst of a fragrant lawn,
The queen who cares for the straining heart

That hopes for a rising dawn.
Perhaps the yearnings no more abide
In this wonderful land, serene,
Perhaps they still live, purified
By the breath of the fairy queen.
Who cares? It is enough to know
That here is a blissful shore,
That the hypocrite and the shams below
Have vanished for evermore.

"THE TARGUM"

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:
Dear Sir,

It seemed evident that a question, which has long troubled the members of the C.O.T.C., should sooner or later be discussed in the columns of our paper.

In the first place before going on to the main point in "A Booster's" letter, appearing in the last issue, it might be well to point out to him that the official regulations regarding the wearing of uniforms on other days than drill days have appeared and may be found in THE VARSITY for Monday, October 15, 1917.

And now with regard to the wearing of uniforms every day. I might say that this is advisable only for one indisputable reason. It is a well-known fact that the changing from heavy to lighter clothing is a very dangerous procedure. There are several instances during the career of the C.O.T.C. when men have been forced to discontinue their drill for this very reason. And so, I think, the writer is justified in the stand he takes on that point. However, I cannot see how this difficulty can be avoided. To wear our uniforms every day is most impracticable both from the students' and the authority's standpoint.

In reference to his other arguments, I might point out the fact that other militia units—governed by the K. R. and O.—do not wear their uniforms all the time and the inference is that the K. R. and O. do not call for them to do so. I might also point out the fact that the members of the C.O.T.C. are only under military discipline when performing some official function of the corps, i.e., drilling, etc.

Hoping that this will add another point of view in this discussion.

U. C. FRESHETTES
ENJOY PLEASANT
SUBURBAN HIKE

On Saturday afternoon, November 3, the freshettes of U.C. met at the end of the College car line in High Park, ready for a tramp. The girls were in high glee and the day was fine.

The first thing on the programme after the hike began, was a game of football. However, in a short time the owner came to reclaim the ball, so the girls proceeded on their way, over hills, and through hollows. After a few halts, on a sunny knoll, to take pictures, and at a store to buy winners, they finally arrived at their destination, the banks of the Humber.

After tea the girls walked over to Sunnyside and took the car for home. They were very happy, and very hoarse, for at intervals throughout the hike, songs and laughter filled the air. They were very much better acquainted with each other than when they started out, and resolved to take another such tramp at the first opportunity.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filling fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

HALLOWE'EN AT QUEEN'S HALL

On Wednesday evening, Queen's Hall was the scene of great merriment and frivolity.

For one night, quiet hour, with its awe-inspiring rules and practices was abolished, and both freshette and senior alike left her books and serious thoughts to enjoy the revels of Halloween. In every residence parties and dancing lasted until the stroke of midnight. Games, taffy-pulls, fortune telling, flashlights and masquerades, with such accessories as the traditional pumpkin pie and Halloween refreshments, in gaily decorated common rooms and basements were the order of the evening.

Those in the main residence and in the adjoining annex entertained and feasted in the students' rooms. In the residence on College Street, revelry was carried on in a brightly festooned and fairy-like common room, while at 4 Queen's Park, four captivating little freshettes attended as witches, entertained the much masked and costumed revellers of the upper years in the basement. Here, after a sumptuous feast and games, including a very we can visit from Miss Livingston, the party concluded with a dance.

Are you a "pignitter"? The Oklahoma Daily says that any young woman who knits with any other than blue, gray, or khaki thread is a "pignitter."

At the medical examination for gymnasium class one question was—"Do you use alcohol?" To which the Doc answered: "Yes, I have a spirit lamp."

FACTS ABOUT CANADA AND THE VICTORY LOAN

The proceeds of CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN, 1917, will be used for war purposes only and will be spent wholly in Canada. The money will be loaned to Great Britain with which to purchase Canadian farm produce and manufactures.

War orders have made Canada prosperous, as the following will show:

	1913	1914	1916	1917
Agricultural products	$150,000,000	$198,000,000	$220,000,000	$373,000,000
Animal produce	45,000,000	53,000,000	103,000,000	128,000,000
The fisheries	16,000,000	21,000,000	22,000,000	25,000,000
Forests	43,000,000	43,000,000	51,000,000	56,000,000
Manufactures	254,000,000	315,000,000	426,000,000	582,000,000
	44,000,000	57,000,000	242,000,000	477,000,000
	$298,000,000	$372,000,000	$668,000,000	$1,059,000,000

These figures show that in natural produce Canada shipped in the last fiscal year $267,000,000 more than in the best year before the war, while the manufactures in the last fiscal year are $120,000,000 more, or over eight times as much as they were in the best year before the war. CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN must be fully subscribed if this prosperity is to continue.

Since the outbreak of war, Great Britain, through the Imperial Munitions Board, has placed orders in Canada for 8972,000.00 of shells, munitions and ships. These orders alone are keeping 225,000 Canadians employed at good wages.

The total value of all the orders placed in Canada by Great Britain and her Allies from the beginning of the war to the end of 1916 was $1,095,000,000. By the end of this year the total will exceed $1,500,000,000. These orders include flour, wheat, cheese, butter, oats, meats, fish, ships, munitions, blankets and numberless other manufactures. If CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN is fully subscribed by the people of Canada these orders will keep on pouring in and every farmer and merchant will have a ready market for all his goods at high prices.

The United States has already agreed to loan to Great Britain and her Allies $3,000,000,000 but the money must be spent in the United States for the purchase of farm produce, manufactures and munitions of war. Every merchant, farmer, manufacturer, mechanic and clerk in Canada should invest his present and future savings in CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN so that all war orders possible may be placed in Canada. If CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN is not subscribed in full, war orders which it is intended to place in Canada, will have to be given by Great Britain to the United States instead, as she will loan the money to pay for these orders if Canada will not.

Great Britain had invested in Canada before the war over $2,900,000,000. The people of Canada are now asked to subscribe to the VICTORY LOAN in order to loan Great Britain the money with which to purchase Canadian goods. The money will stay in Canada and the goods will be shipped to England.

Never before have the people of Canada been offered such a first class investment yielding so high a rate of interest. CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN bonds rank ahead of and are a better security than municipal bonds and all kinds of mortgages—the entire DOMINION OF CANADA stands back of them. They will be free from all taxation, and will be paid for in instalments spread over several months. The denominations will be $1,000, $500, $100 and $50, and they will be issued in French and English. Every bank in Canada will be ready to lend money on them. Subscribers who desire to dispose of their bonds, and use the money for other purposes, should be able to sell them readily whenever they desire to do so.

THE SNOWBIRD

Wafted by the gentle breath of indecision we were slowly covering the distance from the lecture room to the rotunda. Our lungs were still filled with the fetid atmosphere of the unventilated Norman Class room, so perhaps that may account for it, but to the contrary notwithstanding we bought a "Rebel". Now we openly and above board acknowledge that it was a useless waste of cash, but THEX we congratulated ourselves on the purchase. Visions of "Jack Canuck" and "Snappy Stories" floated through our mind. We hoped the mag. was illustrated perhaps (hopefully) with some futurist stuff.

A friendly pillar supported our tired body whilst we proceeded to a calm and judicious perusal of the "Rebel". In the first place, the colour of the cover made a deep and abiding impression on our mind. It was blue and had a delightfully wicked appearance. The title too attracted our highly mind. There are so many obvious regulations and men to rebel against—the fees clerk for instance who is chronically peevish, the Registrar, who is so cloyingly sweet or even the atrophied staff of the library. We expected a tirade against work, against lectures, against co-education, 9 o'clock classes! We found, to the disgust of our expectant mind, a serial discussion on the general course, a pseudo-cynical dialogue between a dame laboring under the euphonistic name of Euphemia, and a "cynic" who showed a total disregard for the fundamental laws of cynicism; and columns of doggerel rhyme. Now to be a rebel we maintain you must rebel against something. With a truly meritorious determination we combed that mag. for a single rebellious statement for one little jab at Brebner; one little flight at the fees clerk or profs, but we were disappointed and being a woman the tears fell thick and fast.

But we are honest, we will give them their due. Two clippings at least demonstrating typographical errors went a little way to relieve the all-abiding gloom that permeates the book. But even they didn't shew rebellion. We are deeply pained. Why can't the mysterious, anonymous writers of the "Rebel" rebel against something, be it big or little—only rebel, for goodness sake live up to your name. And here a terrible thought enters our mind, is the name but an American advertising stunt to delude the poor undergraduates into buying it. We invite discussion.

"behind the times". Lectures have proved, in the experience of all universities, of vital importance, of essential value and the desire to make tutorial groups take their place can only arise from ignorance of the fact that tutorial groups could not do so. The function of a tutorial group is one thing; the function of a lecture is another. I believe they are both necessary. The great thing is to hold the balance true and not to be swept away by lack of careful thought. Because I believe in the value of the tutorial system and of its necessity, I must not in the least be thought to disbelieve in the lecture system.

There is a danger that in the movement for tutorial groups, the students should lose sight of the necessary worth of lectures and should suffer accordingly. I should be sorry that such a danger should arise as it would be most detrimental, and I should feel that I had done far more evil than good in advocating tutorial groups. I feel sure that you will see the position which I occupy, and that, while you have all my sympathy and support in your desire to extend the sphere of "discussion groups," you will see to it that your readers do not get a wrong point of view, and that there is not created in the minds of the student body an impression with regard to lectures which, in addition to being hurtful to them, is true neither to experience nor philosophy.

Believe me,
Ever yours,
W. P. M. KENNEDY.

PROF. W. P. M. KENNEDY DISCUSSES RESPECTIVE VALUES OF LECTURE AND THE GROUP SYSTEM

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—I have been greatly interested in your recent editorials on Education, and while I cannot agree with them in into they are at any rate evidence of a serious movement to get at fundamentals.

I write to point out a serious danger which may arise from your recent editorial on "discussion groups". Last year, when I was interviewed on the methods of education by the representative of THE VARSITY, I was careful to point out that, while I valued most highly the tutorial system, lectures had a real and important place in education. This opinion of mine appeared in your columns. Your recent editorial seems to me in danger of creating an impression that lectures are intrinsically worthless when it says "let discussion groups take the place of lectures". I feel it my duty as one of the Staff, who has emphasized tutorial groups, to point out that lectures have a valuable, important and necessary place in Higher Education—especially in such subjects as Literature, Philosophy and History. In mere subjects for example, lectures can be stimulating, suggestive and beneficial, and I should be extremely sorry to see the day when lectures should be eliminated, as your editorial suggests, from our University. I should oppose such a change with all the power which I can command. There is just a danger that, in emphasizing the tutorial system, we are led to think that it is complete in itself and the ONLY way; that we relegate to the scrap-heap lectures, which experience has proved are of real value in and enthusiasm for something new. It was from large lectures that I first learned how to handle masses of material in History, and I have never lost the inspiration which I got from the personalities of some of our greatest historians as they dealt with complicated situations before a packed hall of students. After all, the wonderful thing in a law-court is the judicial summing up. The approach, method and final impression left by a judicial mind to which of course the cross examinations and discussions have given necessary material.

You will forgive me trespassing on the courtesy of your columns; but I am personally most anxious that there should not arise in the minds of the students an idea that lectures per se are worthless or

A Buffalo man stopped a newsboy in New York saying: "See here, son, I want to find the Blank National Bank. - I'll give you half a dollar if you direct me to it."

With a grin the boy replied: "All right, come along," and he led the man to a building half a block away.

The man paid the promised fee, remarking, however: "That was half a dollar easily earned."

"Sure!" responded the lad. "But you mustn't forget that bank directors is paid high in Noo Yawk."—The Congregationist.

THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

MENORAH CLUB HOLD EXECUTIVE MEETING

Alderman Singer will Speak at Open Meeting

The University of Toronto Menorah Society had an executive meeting on Friday afternoon, room 4, U.C. Mr. Sweet presided.

That the proper men and women were elected to the executive at the initial meeting of the Society on Monday last, was quite evident at this meeting. Not only was every officer and representative present, but each took a very keen interest in the proceedings of the meeting.

They decided to have their opening meeting on Monday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m., West Hall, U.C. Alderman L. W. Singer, one of Toronto's leading lawyers, has been invited to speak on same topic relative to modern Jewish life, the subject of which will be announced in a later issue of THE VARSITY.

The mere mention of Ald. Singer being present ought to be sufficient to insure a successful meeting. All interested in Jewish thought are cordially invited.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Sweet, Schott, Silverman and Eisen, was appointed to draw up a constitution for the Society and submit same to the general body for approval.

The question of fees was then taken up. It was decided that they be one dollar per year. All those desirous of paying their fees before the opening meeting, may pay same to their representative.

During the past fortnight the general secretary has received several notices from members of the faculty asking if they are eligible for membership in the Menorah. The Varsity want it clearly understood that the Menorah Society is open to undergraduates and members of the faculty of the University of Toronto of all beliefs, as long as they are interested in the study of Jewish culture.

All those desirous of joining this organization, which is the only one of its kind at Varsity, comprising all the colleges and faculties, are advised to do so at once, for it is the intention of the Menorah to submit the names to the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, New York City. It is likely that the names of the members will be published in the Torontonensis of this year.

All applicants for membership are to state their name, year, faculty, and address (Toronto and home), and send same to Sot. EISEN, General Secretary, P.O., University College.

Trinity

Interest in the forthcoming Mock Trial at Trinity College continues to grow. Already it looks as if on Monday night Trinity Convocation Hall would be filled to capacity, when the curtain goes up on the opening act. Dress rehearsals have been called for Saturday and Monday, when the finishing touches will be added to the production. The entertainment is well worthy of general support. Since the entire proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of Christmas Cheer for the boys in the trenches. Information regarding tickets or seats may be had from R. Axon, Trinity College, phone C 3501.

The subject of the preliminary debate for the Trinity "Lit" meeting on Friday resolved "That the overseas Dominions should have a voice in determining the foreign policy of Great Britain," promises to provoke a warm and spirited discussion. Both sides are marshalling their forces in anticipation of a lively time. Messrs. Watson and Willis will uphold the affirmative, and Messrs. Bender and Phillips the negative.

"Chief" Bender, Trinity's choice for the U. of T. Athletic Directorate, would be virtually assured of election, if his executive ability, energy and unflinching interest in good, clean sport were as familiar to every one outside as they are to the members of the T.A.A.A. He has done much to maintain interest in Trinity in out-door activities, and by his example to preserve intact the various clubs comprising the association.

By mutual agreement the rugby game scheduled for Monday afternoon between the Trinity and Jarvis Collegiate teams, has been called off. Thus does the Mock Trial prove a real trial to those responsible for our sporting fixtures.

ORCHESTRA PRACTICE

Another practice of the University Y.M.C.A. orchestra will be held on Tuesday night at 7 p.m. sharp, in the University "Y" Building.

The Business Side of Winning the War

THE WAR can be won only by a combination of Men and Money co-ordinated into invincible organization by the patriotism of all the people.

The most devoted patriot army could not fight twenty-four hours without money and the support of those things which money alone will buy.

Our soldiers must have food, clothing, arms, munitions and transport, or be vainly sacrificed in battle.

So, no matter how brave our soldiers may be, nor how self-sacrificing they are, unless we back them freely and generously with money, their bravery and their sacrifices will be all for nothing.

Money is the coupling pin between Canada's fighting men and victory.

TO CARRY on the war Canada must be prepared to produce and sell on credit to Great Britain and our Allies, hundreds of millions of dollars worth of supplies.

Cash must be paid to the producers of those supplies.

The war is not only a terrific struggle of men and guns, but it is also the most tremendous business of producing, selling and financing the world has ever known.

And to successfully carry on this war, money is as indispensable as it is in operating a railroad or a private business.

The war is therefore a combination of commerce and fighting, of business and patriotism.

So, to keep on producing as well as fighting, the very highest commercial efficiency of Canada must be maintained.

And it is Canada's privilege to take a man's part in that combination of patriotic producing, financing and fighting.

Also it is Canada's duty as well as her privilege to so conduct that business that she can continue to produce and sell and finance on a still greater scale.

★ ★ ★

GREAT BRITAIN has advanced to our Allies five and a half billion dollars. The United States has advanced to Great Britain and our Allies nearly three billion dollars. These advances of course are not in actual cash, but in credit.

When Britain lends billions to France and Italy she does not lend the actual cash, but she gives those Allies credit.

The British munition worker and coal miner who produce the supplies for France and Italy are paid in cash with the money borrowed by the British Government from the British people. But the money stays in Britain, and helps to maintain for British working-men conditions of the highest productive efficiency.

NOW, because of the tremendous burden of expenditures which Great Britain is bearing at home and has made abroad in the past three years, and because of the billions of credits she is financing for the Allies, it is impossible for her to send out of Britain any more money in cash.

For her purchases in Canada and the United States she must have credit. And that credit must be established by the people. What the Government of Canada lends to Great Britain must in turn be borrowed from the people of Canada.

So Canada's Minister of Finance comes to the people of Canada for a loan which Canada promises, in the form of Canada's Victory Bonds, to repay at a stipulated time, with interest.

Canada's Minister of Finance sells Canada's Victory Bonds to the people and the people pay him their money, which he uses to pay the farmer, the miner and the wage earner for the products which Great Britain needs and must have.

The producers in turn circulate all this money for food, clothing, furniture and other necessities, thus contributing to the business prosperity of the whole country.

So, by buying Canada's Victory Bonds we are not only helping Great Britain to win the war but we are also helping to maintain in Canada those conditions of material well-being which again are essential in maintaining at a high level the productive efficiency of the nation.

Thus the purchase of Canada's Victory Bonds completes the cycle of National effort in winning the war, in which every man, woman and child should take a part.

*That is the Business side of Winning the War—
Your Part in that Business is to buy Canada's Victory Bonds*

Wycliffe

It was a very bold executive that decided to hold sports with less than thirty men in college. Nevertheless, the executive is to be commended on the excellent programme of events. The small student-body too, is to be congratulated on the real put into the various contests, although if one judged only from the results he would conceive the idea that Messrs. Robins, Smith and Marsh had the whole game to themselves. These three gentlemen are all on the college athletic executive, so that we may say that it is a truly athletic directorate, nor could we find any trace of corruption on the part of these officers.

The following events were contested with great vigour, both with a view to winning and to keeping the blood moving on a bright but breezy day.

100 yards—P. V. Smith, C. Lea, J. J. Robins.

Running broad jump—J. J. Robins, P. V. Smith, H. Marsh.

220 yards—P. V. Smith, H. Marsh, J. J. Robins.

Shot put—A. Shaw, J. J. Robins, H. Marsh.

High jump—J. J. Robins and H. Marsh (tie), P. V. Smith.

110 yards—P. V. Smith, V. G. Lewis, George Hagan.

Standing broad jump—J. J. Robins, P. V. Smith, H. Wood.

Hurdle Race—P. V. Smith, H. Marsh, J. J. Robins.

Half-mile—A. Shaw, J. MacNamara, V. G. Lewis.

Pole-vault—H. Marsh, P. V. Smith, J. J. Robins.

Jockey race—C. Lea, Marsh, P. V. Smith and H. Robins, McEwen and D. G. Atkinson.

Hop, step and jump—P. V. Smith, H. Marsh, J. J. Robins.

After the sports the students and friends retired to the college dining room to refresh the inner man, with a sumptuous repast, provided by the matron, Miss A. Rogers.

The President, Mr. J. J. Robins, then called on the principal to welcome the students and guests, which he did in his own inimitable manner.

Canon Dyson Hague, M.A., was then asked to present his own medal for first place to Mr. P. V. Smith. As honorary president of the College Athletic Association, Prof. Hague gave a lively and inspiring address.

Dr. T. H. Cotton presented a shield as a reward to J. J. Robins for second place. Prof. Cotton indulged in a little textual criticism and exegetical gymnastics on the following verse:

"He that fights and runs away,
Will live to fight another day."

Mr. H. H. Marsh was the recipient of a Wycliffe pin at the hands of Dr. Hallam who portrayed Mr. Marsh learning to sprint across the room by the aid of chairs and table legs.

Messrs. Smith, Robins and Marsh briefly replied to the welcome given them as leaders in the activities. In addition to these three prizes a number of stakes were donated by the wives of the faculty for the less swift competitors. The recipients of these were Messrs. Shaw, Lea, George Hagan, McEwen, Lewis and MacNamara.

Mr. V. J. Lewis, seconded by the Rev. A. Simpson, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for their substantial gifts and for their less substantial, but none-the-less helpful interest which they had taken in our college athletics.

A programme of readings and songs, short and sweet, was enjoyed and Mr. C. Lea expressed the appreciation of the gathering to the artists. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

PHARMACY DEFEATS DENTS IN SOCCER 2-1

Pharmacy went down to defeat before Dents eleven in a game of soccer on Friday. Both teams played well, but the tooth-pullers showed their superiority by defeating them in a closely contested game. Score, 2-1.

Pharmacy, Dents, Wycliffe and Victoria are desirous of forming a soccer league, and would be pleased if the University Athletic Association would arrange for the same. Other teams fall in line.

Princeton—In keeping with the present idea of war economy, the Princeton prom committee has decided to make the affair as simple as possible and run it on an absolute cost basis. Tickets will be much cheaper and it is expected that in connection with the prom a tea dance for the benefit of the Red Cross will be given.

TENNIS DRAWS FOR SECOND ROUND

The first round of the singles in the tennis tournament is now over and the second round will begin on Monday, Nov. 5. As it is so late in the season, all matches must be played in scheduled time or be forfeited.

The draws for the second round are slightly altered owing to the defaults in the first round, and are as follows:

Monday—10 a.m.—R. Pakenham v. R. A. Allen, J. A. D. Archibald v. G. E. McNab.

2.00 p.m.—V. E. Baker v. A. M. Intyre.

3.30 p.m.—J. A. Dickson v. U. Richardson.

Tuesday—10 a.m.—A. V. Harstone v. H. I. Marsh, P. A. Ketchum v. D. F. Shugart.

3.30 p.m.—D. A. Martin v. J. Sullivan, W. D. Smith v. J. J. Robins.

In the doubles, A. C. Thoburn and M. Rogers play D. A. Martin and R. A. Ketchum in the semi-finals at 2 p.m.

Monday afternoon. The finals of the doubles will be played Tuesday at 2 p.m. between the winners of the semi-finals and D. F. Shugart and J. A. Dickson who qualified for the finals by defeating, J. E. Baker and R. A. Allen.

THE CHARGE OF THE FURNACE PIT

All was merry in South Hall. Victoria 1T9 was holding forth joyously in the front parlour. A group of girls were enjoying a Halloween feast in the kitchen. None were aware of the fate which was impending. Suddenly a muffled sound was heard in the lower regions near the furnace pit.

Immediately three stalwarts of 1T9, with a battle cry of "bless those freshmen" took the stairs in three leaps and with great impetuosity charged towards the door, where misty forms were seen escaping into the moonlight. Suddenly the floor disappeared from under their feet and after a hurtling fall of five feet they lay on a heap of shovels, coal (hard anthracite) and cinders. But, did this impede their onward rush? Not for not until they found themselves on their dismal clambering over a red hot furnace did this intrepid trio retreat.

Then a strategic retreat was made slowly and in good order, carrying off the wounded up the stairs. After which they found that in their absence the obliging girls of the aforesaid party had sewed up their coats for the winter. The three guardsmen are recovering rapidly, but for further particulars apply to S. A. Moore, 1T9, W. H. Bouck 1T9, Geo. Moore, C. T. who are resting up as a result of the battle.

The University of Michigan has oversubscribed her $200,000 Liberty Loan quota by $42,550.

The entire loan purchased of faculty and students combined reached the total of $422,550 last night. Faculty subscriptions totalled $143,050. These figures include $3,000 of the bonds bought by the Regents. Students in the University have rolled up a total of $89,500. The students bought $12,650 worth of the issue.

One of the least expected sources of a large purchase of the loan was among the girls of the Library staff. The Library subscription was $3,500.

Columbia Squad Loses Good Material.

Columbia University received a hard blow the other day when their quarterback and seven of the most promising men were dropped from the football team because they failed to pass the heart test. This test is given to all candidates for the team, and if the least bit of heart trouble is found the candidate is not permitted to play.—Daily Tusan.

How Mary Lost a Tip.

Soon after a certain judge of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island had been appointed he went down into one of the southern counties to sit for a week. He was well satisfied with himself.

"Mary," he said to the Irish waitress at the hotel where he was stopping "you've been in this country how long?"

"Two years sir," she said.

"Do you like it?"

"Sure it's well enough," answered Mary.

"But Mary," the judge continued, "you have many privileges in this country which you'd not have in Ireland. Now at home you would never be in a room with a justice of the Supreme Court and chatting familiarly with him."

"But, sure, sir," said Mary, quite in earnest, "you'd never be a judge at home."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Think and Smile

A certain student with feet propped on desk reads his home town paper and remarks:

"Humm, I can get a job in my home town packing chickens."

Room-mate: "Well, you've sure picked some poor ones here."

Exasperated Senior—"Are you asking that question merely to satisfy your curiosity?"

Jessie Wyatt—"Certainly not. My curiosity is never satisfied."

"18—"How is it that Jack hasn't been going over to Grace lately?"

"19—"Her mother came in unexpectedly the other evening and penalized him for holding."

Special Attention to Work for Students

The Military

Service Act, 1917

Privileges and Penalties
For Class One Men,
Employers, Parents

For Class One Men

If your examination by a Medical Board has placed you in Medical Category B, C, or E, attend the nearest Post Office, attach Medical Certificate to claim for exemption and your present responsibility under the Military Service Act ends.

If placed in Medical Category A, and you feel justified in asking for exemption on financial, business, or domestic grounds, you have the right to claim exemption before a tribunal. It is not necessary or desirable to report for Service or to make claim for exemption in person. Simply go to nearest Post Office, fill in the form provided, leaving it with the Postmaster for free transmission to Registrar.

For Employers of Class One Men

The employer may make claims for exemption of Class One Men in his employ on the forms obtainable at the nearest Post Office.

In their enthusiasm to serve Canada there will be a number of men in Class One who will desire to report for service, but who will better serve the national interest by continuing their present occupations. It is the duty and privilege of employers to claim exemption in such cases.

For Parents

Where domestic reasons exist for the exemption of a Class One man, application may be made by parents or a near relation for the exemption of such man.

N.B.—Care should be exercised to prevent more than one claim for exemption being made in respect of any one man. When the claim is made on industrial grounds it is best made by the employer.

Penalties Provided

Failure on the part of a Class One man to report for service or apply for exemption on or before November 10th—a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years with hard labor; also claim to exemption is forfeited.

Attempt to bribe any member of an exemption tribunal, medical board or military representative—a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years and not less than one year.

Employer reducing wage, or altering conditions of employment by virtue of making claim for employee's exemption—fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, nor less than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed six months.

Any person urging a man in Class One not to observe the requirements of the Military Service Act—imprisonment for term not less than one year nor more than five years.

Issued by The Military Service Council.

NATIONAL SERVICE CELEBRATED BY VICTORIA WOMEN

Good Programme Was Furnished Including Dramatic Skit

The Victoria Women's Literary Society on Thursday last celebrated the National Service of the college girls this summer by a Winona day. A lively discussion took place over the first plank of the Government platform—"Equal wages for women and men agricultural workers for equal work done". So much controversy was aroused that the bill had to be laid on the table till the next sitting, when the discussion will be continued in the open meeting. The programme, which then took place, provoked gases of laughter. It was a dramatic skit representing one day with the girl fruit pickers at Winona. The staging was decidedly Elizabethan in its simplicity—and the acting was entirely impromptu—but all the more delightful for that. From swallowing a hasty breakfast at 5.45 a.m., on through the hours of strawberry hulling, hoeing, or fruit picking—to the well-earned dinner at 7 p.m., which was followed by the dish washing and lunch making—the various phases of a typical day of agricultural work were shown with its hardships and fun in high relief. During the various scenes an invisible (?) chorus sang the original songs that the fruit-pickers sang at their work this summer. The skit closed with a pathetic rendering of "Home Sweet Home" by a group of tired bedraggled-looking girls in khaki, gathered around the table after a long day of toil. Judging from the applause the little drama was much appreciated.

WHITBY RETURNED MEN PUBLISH INTERESTING PAPER

"Soft Diet" the Organ of Whitby Convalescent Hospital

Recently THE VARSITY received a copy of the first number of "Soft Diet", a journal which will be published fortnightly by the returned soldiers in Whitby Convalescent Hospital.

This little sixteen-paged paper is certainly an ambitious effort, and if the first number is to be taken as a criterion, the success of the paper ought to be assured. Appropriate editorials are followed by short funny "naughty-biographies" for which the officers of the hospital are the subjects. A short story entitled, "His Deserved Fate", and a general article on "The Great War Veterans in Ontario", feature the general body of the paper. A well-written sports column is included, and a column on theatrical news makes a novel innovation. A column of Whitby hospital news, correspondence, jokes and poems, complete the reading matter of this interesting paper. Well-chosen illustrations are scattered through the pages.

What particularly impresses the reader on a first glance is the pleasing scarcity of advertisements. The lack of advertising matter adds to the appearance of the paper, and the hope is expressed that the editors may weather any financial storm encountered in such a way, that they will not have to summon the aid of too many advertisers.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Another member of the Staff of 1915-16 is to be found in the khaki ranks. H. J. Brownlee demonstrator of Electro-Chemistry in S.P.S. is now First Lieutenant Co. "B", 110th Engineers, 35 Divn. Camp Donihou, Fort Still, Okla.

The faculty of Applied Science has contributed four recruits since registration. These are Sappers D. G. Ure, W. F. Irwin, L. V. F. Stokes, all of the Divisional Signallers. Cadet W. G. Black is now located at Long Branch with the Royal Flying Corps.

Medicine

The annual informal dance of the fifth year Medical students was held on Friday evening, November 2, at the Columbus Hall with great success. The Meds of all years turned out in full force with their fair ones at their side, to make things hum, and with the aid of the committee, Messrs. Carlisle, Aitchison, Garbutt and Leach, everyone became acquainted and spent a most enjoyable evening.

MEDICAL BOARD WILL EXAMINE MED. STUDENTS

Announcement is made that a Medical Board is being sent to the Medical Building to examine men of the first, second and third years who are eligible for military service under the Military Service Act. This step will avoid the missing of lectures and any other in convenience which would be incurred by a visit to the Armouries. The Medical Board will begin examining the men concerned to-day, November 5.

LOEW'S THEATRE.

"Somewhere in France" men and women are working out their tangled destinies. There men and women with strange pasts, with strange kinks in their lives, are proving true worth by the sacrifices they are making for humanity. There the heroine of "The Beautiful Adventuress", a wonderful melodrama, which comes to Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week, works out her destiny after a remarkable life. Kitty Gordon, the incomparably beautiful actress, is the star in this picture and her acting is brilliant and intense. In this picture she is seen as a woman beloved by many men and who loves but one man. But the supreme love of her life is for her little sister and this love she demonstrates in an unmistakable manner. The story told in this picture is filled with incident, is replete with gripping scenes and ends with a soul-stirring climax after a breathless rush through five heart-stirring reels. In addition to the above splendid offering several select comedy films and seven superb vaudeville acts will be given. The performance in the Winter Garden in which all seats are reserved is the same as in Loew's Theatre.

MORE NAMES OF 'VARSITY MEN APPEAR IN THE CASUALTY LISTS

Lieuts. Patten, Clarke, Anderson and Pickering Have Fallen

Lieut. E. W. Patten, B.A., Univ. Coll. 1916, is reported killed in action. He joined an Ontario battalion in March, 1916, as a private and was promoted to the rank of lieutenant. He went overseas with a draft of officers in September, 1916, and left for France this summer. Home at St. George, Ont.

Lieut. Paul Brooks Clarke is reported killed in action. He enlisted as a private with a Toronto battalion of the 5th and contingent and served in it at the front for over ten months. He was then invalided from France to England, and in March transferred to an Imperial army officer cadet battalion. He was a son of Dr. W. F. Clarke of Toronto, and was a student at Trinity of the Class of 1918.

Lieut. Frederick John Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson of Niagara Falls, has been killed in action. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1918. He went overseas with a battalion raised in the Niagara District.

Lieut. H. V. Pickering, B.A. Univ. Coll. 1910; and M.A. 1911, formerly on the staff of the Faculty of Education and the University Schools, is reported killed in action. Immediately before enlisting, he was teaching at Stratford. He joined a western Ontario battalion, was subsequently transferred to the Mounted Rifles. His relatives live at Winona.

Sapper J. W. Tribble of the Divisional Signallers, is reported killed in action. He was a Victoria College student of the year 1917. He enlisted at the end of 1915. His home is at Honeywood, Ontario.

Lieut. Mark W. Williams is unofficially reported missing. He was a student of University College of the year 1917. He enlisted in May, 1915, in the 2nd Universities Company. After several months service in Flanders was severely wounded in June, 1916. After his recovery he received a commission in his old unit, and after a period of special training he returned to the front this summer.

O.T.C. "POT POURRI" WILL BE GIVEN NOV. 16

This Concert will be Better Than Its Predecessor of Oct. 26th--
Much More So!

O.T.C. "Mélanges Musicaux" are a pleasant memory of the past, but O.T.C. "Pot Pourri" still lies in the fascinating realms of the future. Take it from us, the "Pot" is going to be some "Pourri". To eclipse the record set at their concert of October 26th is a hard task, but preparations indicate that the O.T.C. artists will excel themselves, and present an even better programme than before. Though the same individual stars will participate—all of whom are prominent in theatrical and musical circles of New York—the numbers they present will be varied. The only repetition will be Lord Dunsany's play, "The Lost Silk Hat", a comical farce well worth a second laugh. Those who were turned away for lack of seating space last time have a splendid chance to get in on the ground floor before the house is sold out. The concert should appeal especially to Varsity students for the O.T.C. is in a peculiar sense the foster child of Toronto University. With a special view to securing their patronage a number of half-dollar seats have been placed on sale. So get in line Varsity and show that you know a good thing when it's brought into your midst.

The plan opens on Thursday, November 8 at Victoria College, Nordheimer's and the Registrar's office at University College. Capture your ticket early before all the scalps are lifted.

The library at the University of Virginia is closed at night as a war measure and now the students and faculty want it open.

Wounded.
Ating Major Harold Buck of Port Rowan is wounded. He has been serving with a field ambulance at the front for several months. In June, 1917, he was wounded in despatches and awarded the Military Cross the following month. He graduated in Medicine in 1910.

Priv. Clarence Elmer Johnston is reported wounded. He enlisted in August, 1915, in the 1st Universities Company. He was educated at Hurlford C.I. Trinity and University Colleges, taking his degree in 1912. His home is at 75 Margueretta St.

Capt. George T. Stogge, O.C. Eaton Machine Gun Battery, has been wounded. He enlisted as a private in the infantry in February, 1915, later obtained his commission in the Eaton Machine Gun Battery, to the command of which he was appointed last January. He was mentioned in despatches on January 7, 1917. He was educated at Parkdale C.I. and University College. His home is at 24 Starr Avenue, Toronto.

Lieut. C. C. Thompson, Applied Science 1917, has been wounded—shrapnel in the shoulder. He joined the 12th Battalion. He was seriously ill last winter, but recovered so as to cross to France this summer. His home is at 24 Crescent Rd., Toronto.

Capt. W. B. V. Shaw of the C.F.A. has been reported wounded. He is a B.A.Sc. 1915, and his home is in Milwaukee, Wis.

E. P. Congdon, Vic. 1917, who was till recently a staff sergeant of No. 4 G.H., has received a commission in the King's Royal Rifle Corps, and is training at Sherness.

Major H. R. Alley, a B.A. of University College, 1912, and a first contingent man, has been gazetted Imperial staff-captain. Major Alley has been twice wounded.

Lieut. R. T. C. Hodge is gazetted flight-commander. Lieut. Hodge was originally with the R.G.A. In August, 1916, he transferred to the R.F.C. and has been in France since April 1916. He has not only won the Military Cross, but a few days ago, it was announced that he had also been awarded the bar. Lieut. Hodge was an Applied Science student of the year 1916. His home is at 550 Dupont Street, Toronto.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING FRIDAY

There will be a meeting of the Political Economy Club in Room 1 in the Library building on Friday, November 9 at 3:30 p.m. The feature of the programme will be a debate on the subject, "Resolved that it is desirable that the food controller take all possible means to reduce food prices." The affirmative will be supported by V. O. Matchett and J. Middleton; and the negative by D. C. Munro and J. H. Ratcliffe.

At the next regular meeting of the executive it will be moved that the constitution be amended in order that lady students taking honours economics may be admitted to membership in the club.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB EXECUTIVE MEET TO-DAY

The Executive of the Modern Language Club will meet Wednesday afternoon November 7, at 4 o'clock in the Committee room of the Union. Every member of the executive is urgently requested to be present.

U.C. WOMEN'S LIT.

An interesting and instructive evening is promised the members of the Women's Literary Society of University College at their next meeting.

MOCK TRIAL A GREAT SUCCESS

Trinity College Concert Was Well
Rendered and Enjoyed by a Large Number

The Convocation Hall of Trinity College was filled to the doors on Monday evening, November 5, when the Mock Trial, to raise funds for the purpose of sending Christmas gifts for Trinity men overseas, was held. Even the seats in the gallery were occupied, and when it was all over, expressions of satisfaction were to be heard from various members of the audience. Those men in the College who have worked hard on the Trial, have the satisfaction of knowing their efforts were not unappreciated, and that those who witnessed the result of their work, seemed to be entertained and well pleased with what they saw.

The Trial took the form of a suit for damages, amounting to the small sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, for libel against one, Miss Seraphina Sappho, by a thriving newspaper—"The Oakville Guardian". Miss Sappho, having used her fertile and poetic mind, on the production of touching and stately rhyme, incurred the spite of the editor of the "Oakville Guardian", by refusing him an offer of marriage, conveyed by means of a peppermint heart, on which was inscribed the words "Will thou be mine". Miss Sappho having set her tender heart in other directions, met the proposal with a dignified silence, only to have that heart cruelly lacerated by the libelous effusions of the above-mentioned newspaper. Why should she be made to write under such cruel torture, with impunity? No, she would defend herself by seeking satisfaction in a Court of Justice.

The case was tried by Mr. Justice Soakem—whose role was so ably taken by Mr. William Hazel, B.A. All who witnessed "Bill's" performance are one and all agreed that he was born to be a judge, and that one day he will be called to a place on the Bench. Justice and equity were written in his very being, and the very look of his wig suggested "fair-play" for all. The Council for the Prosecution was taken by Mr. M. E. Orr, B.A., and the lawyer for the defence, was represented by Mr. G. E. Hern.

How can human words describe the winning and attractive ways of Miss Seraphina Sappho. Every movement showed the cultured and poetic temperament of a highly strung poet, and Mr. C. F. Stent, B.A., deserves all credit for the splendid way in which he acted the part. His companion, Miss Arabella Clover Tift, moved the lover-like hearts of all who knew her, and doubtless many wish that Mr. A. S. Seath were REALLY a girl. The part of Miss Julia Caramel, a "coloured" girl, and servant of Miss Sappho, was admirably taken by Mr. Davidson of the freshman year, and we "hasten to ejaculate" of his singular and well worded utterances as he gave evidence. Last, but not least, whom we mention at length is Mr. Eric Willis, who acted the part of "printer's devil", for the "Oakville Guardian". His description of the duties of one having "full charge of the heliograph," brought down the house with peals of merry laughter.

Others who took part, and played their parts admirably were Messrs. Hayes, Colgate, Ascon, Petter, West, Phipps (who, taking the part of a parson, and being so struck with his appearance in a clerical collar, is seriously thinking of reading Divinity, instead of science), Laurie, Watson, Hurd, Baggs, Lucas, Martin, Warner, Wallace, Clark (as the clever court clerk), Ketchum and Bruce.

Trinity men, one and all, express their kind appreciation of the way in which the friends of Trinity loosed their purse strings, to assist them in the noble cause of trying to give our boys on the firing line a happier Christmas.

COMMERCE AND FINANCE CLUB.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Club will be held on Saturday, November 10, at eleven o'clock in Room 1 of the Library building. Members are asked to note the time and place and be present.

NOTICE

Dr. Fairley will speak on Joseph Conrad, which should appeal to all students interested in contemporary authors and their works, and a large attendance is expected. Musical numbers have been provided.

Don't forget. Saturday evening, November 10 at the Union at 8 o'clock.

MR. JUSTICE CRAIG WILL DELIVER OPENING ADDRESS AT "T" MIXER

Will Speak on "Reminiscences of the Yukon"

"According to Newman, one of the essentials of a liberal education is that of meeting different men of varied talents. We wonder if this fact is realized, as the men from the other faculties pass us day by day. They have capabilities which we have not, and to appreciate these we must get to know them."

How are we to achieve this end if it is not in some such way as that afforded by the Big "T" Mixer, to be held every Wednesday from 6 to 8 at the Central Y.M.C.A. At present there seems to be no social function which includes members of all faculties—where they may meet, yell, eat, sing and understand each other.

The idea of such a social, like many others of this year's Y.M.C.A. innovations, is the result of the Clarkson Conference last September. The need was unanimously felt and its success awaits the future to confirm.

The admission is to be by ticket, which will cost 25c, just covering the expenses of the supper. There will be two hundred of these and as each faculty is to be equally represented, that will mean only twenty-five tickets will be available for each faculty.

The programme will consist of three parts—from 6 p.m. sharp to 8:30 supper, from 8:30 to 6:46 a stunt, and then the speaker of the evening—all to be over by 8 o'clock sharp. The stunts will be put on by each faculty in turn. The dates on which the various faculties are to perform will be announced at the meeting To-night. Only the best speakers that can be secured will be asked to deliver the addresses, and the object will be to have their topics as varied as possible. To illustrate the type of men on the list, we need only refer to the first speaker of the series—Justice Jas. Craig.

Mr. Justice Craig, of Eglinton, Toronto,

DR. BOTT'S GREAT WORK OF RE-EDUCATION

Dr. E. A. Bott, who has charge of the re-education work for returned soldiers at Hart House, plans to have the $500 which the Students' Administrative Council voted him go a long way. All the experimental work which has been carried on so successfully at Hart House has been financed by subscriptions from private individuals. Dr. Bott has never asked the Government to pay for anything which is done in the nature of an experiment. Part of the money will be spent on securing photographic records of the different stages of a patient's progress. A waiting-room where the patients can wait, and not wander into the workroom, is badly needed. Dr. Bott plans to have a section fitted out where officers alone may be treated. At the present time officers and men have to be treated for their disabilities together—working together in the same workroom. This is contrary to all military discipline.

RESULT OF 119 ELECTIONS

The annual elections of Class '19 Arts were held yesterday in West Hall between 12 and 2. The results were as follows:
President—H. C. Buchanan.
1st Vice-President—Miss V. Peene.
2nd Vice-President—M. Horner.
Secretary—G. E. MacNab.
Treasurer—J. M. Mungovan.
1st Historian—Miss R. Strong.
2nd Historian—A. S. P. Woodhouse.
Prophetess—Miss M. E. Walters.
Mus. Directress—Miss M. James.
Athletic Director—W. A. Murray.
Lady Councillor—Miss D. Parsons.
Cont. Councillor—C. C. Downey.
Elected by acclamation.
A. M. Moore was elected member of the Students' Administrative Council by the men of the year, to replace P. Hinds.

Columbus, O.—Liberty Loan subscriptions raised on the Ohio State university campus have reached the sum of $100,000. Two $5,000 notes were included in the sale.

is an alumnus of McGill University, where he took his B.A. in 1874. He successfully practised law in Renfrew and Pembroke, Ontario, 1878-1899. Taking his K.C. in the latter year. The following year he was appointed Judge of the Yukon Territorial Courts, April 26, 1900, being also local judge in Admiralty. A man of profound learning and versatile gifts he has touched many sides of modern Canadian life. Pioneering in the Yukon; civil life as Mayor of Pembroke and warden of Renfrew, military life as captain and paymaster of the 42nd regiment for many years; and, last of all, since his retirement, like so many other occupants of the Bench, he has taken a deep interest in naval and merchant marine matters by accepting the chairmanship of the Canadian National Council of the Royal Naval and Merchant Marine Institute work of the old British and Foreign Sailors Society. He was president of the Empire Club of Canada at Toronto during the session 1913-14.

When the famous gold rush to the Yukon was on, when all the lawlessness of a mining camp was there, when the Government was looking about for a man to re-establish some sort of order in that desolate country, Justice Craig was sent to grapple with the situation. How he did this and in doing so establishing precedents which have become the basis of mining law the world over, you are invited to hear To-night (Wed.) at 6 sharp at the Central Y.M.C.A.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Lieut.-Col. H. G. McVean, B.A.Sc. '02, who went overseas as major and second-in-command of a battalion, returned to Canada last spring. He was appointed officer commanding, first of the 95th Saskatchewan Rifles, C.D.F., and recently of the 1st Saskatchewan Depot Battalion.

Stanley R. Johnstone, Victoria College, 1915, after serving for fifteen months in France as a private in the C.A.S.C., has received a commission, and after training in England is in France again in a front line battalion.

W. A. Dufoe, Medicine 1918, went overseas with No. 4 G.H., and has served with that unit till recently, being promoted to the rank of sergeant. He has now been appointed surgeon probationer in the Royal Navy.

Capt. John Archibald Trebilcock, who has won the Military Cross for bravery in action, was a B.A.Sc. in forestry from the University in 1915. He went overseas as a gunner with a local battery, being later attached to the intelligence branch of the Signal Corps. He took a commission with the Royal Field Artillery, and has been promoted to a captaincy in addition to winning the Military Cross. Capt. Trebilcock was an all-round athlete. He played amateur baseball and rugby with the Beaches, and won his "T" with the champion soccer team of the University in 1914. He also played hockey with the Argonauts. His home is at 24 Lyall Ave.

MRS. LANG WILL ADDRESS W.U.A. MEETING TO-DAY

Come and hear Mrs. Lang speak on Women's Suffrage at the Union this afternoon. The meeting, which is being held under the auspices of the W.U.A., will commence at 4 p.m. Mrs. Lang's address promises to be very interesting and a large attendance is expected. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

AN EXPLANATION AND AN APPRECIATION

THE VARSITY regrets that in its recent editorials advocating a wider use of discussion groups, it may have seemed to disparage the lecture. This tendency to undervalue existing institutions is one that is all too common among those who would change the present order, and Professor Kennedy is deserving of our sincere thanks for his kindly correction of the symptoms of this tendency that we have shown.

Professor Kennedy in his letter published in the last issue emphasizes the value and importance of the lecture, and calls attention to certain unfortunate expressions which seemed to indicate a desire on our part to discard the lecture altogether. One such expression was, "Let discussion groups take the place of lectures." This statement, unqualified as it stood, was open to criticism; but at the beginning of the editorial in question it was qualified as it should be: "There should be a wider use of the use of discussion groups." It is not, nor has it ever been our desire, completely to discard the lecture. We believe that the lecture and the group are both most effective and stimulating when used in conjunction, and we also believe that there are now too few groups in proportion to the number of lectures. It has been our contention that the number of groups should be increased, even at the expense of reducing the time spent in lectures, thereby attaining a distribution of time in which both elements, lecture and group, would be more advantageously employed. That was our meaning when we wrote, "Let discussion groups take the place of lectures, and even though the time spent in lectures be diminished thereby, the educational value of the course will not be decreased."

THE VARSITY frankly admits that in its enthusiasm for more general use of groups, it unintentionally failed to point out the value of the lecture. Perhaps if we had enjoyed the privilege of more time spent in group discussions, our case might have been presented more carefully, and our intentions more judiciously advanced.

UNDERGRADUATE ELECTIONS

Some may think that, for this year, the time has passed for writing about undergraduate elections; but, since the holding of elections is one of the undergraduates' chief occupations, a word on this subject is hardly out of place.

An undergraduate is a powerful critic, and there is nothing he likes to criticize more than his Class Executive, or the executive of some club or society to which he belongs. The members of these executives are his equals, and he feels perfectly free in directing against them criticism which, if nothing else, is certainly pointed. If such undergraduates utter complaints against their various elected bodies, they have only themselves to blame in all probability the interest displayed in the election had been so slight, that an efficient executive could not be secured.

There is one way by which this condition might be remedied; and that is if the number of officers was considerably reduced. It would then be more of an honour to be elected; more students would be urged to cast their vote, and there would be a greater chance of better results being obtained.

Such a change, however, cannot be made this year; and the only thing left is to judge every student to exercise his franchise at all elections at which he has a vote. If all students attended nomination meetings, and then made a real attempt to choose the best of those nominated; we feel sure that better results would sometime be gained. Students who follow this action, we would also have a better right to criticize.

We hope, for the good of those concerned, that more students will vote in coming elections, than has been the case in some recent contests.

ATTEND TO-NIGHT'S "MIXER"

Elsewhere in today's issue reference is made to the first of the social functions, called the Big "T" Mixers, which have been inaugurated by the University Y.M.C.A. The most praiseworthy feature of this innovation is that these functions afford a splendid opportunity for the men of all faculties to meet one another. Facilities for this social intermingling are sadly lacking at Varsity at present, but this plan of the Y.M.C.A. will go a long way to fill the gap.

The executive of the Y.M.C.A. is to be congratulated on the programme offered, and the type of speaker that has been secured. If the executive only keeps up the pace set for this first function, they will have every reason to feel proud of their year's phone.

Every man, who can possibly do so, should attend to-night's Mixer; and encourage the Y.M.C.A. in its efforts to stimulate a real interest among all students.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Don't take "The Snowbird" too seriously—he is apt to be a trifle flighty at times.

Attention is again called to the concert which will be given by the members of the O.T.C. on Friday, November 16. The O.T.C. is connected intimately with the University, and accordingly it ought to enlist the aid of the whole University in any of its endeavours.

SIR WILLIAM PETERSON
DISCUSSES EXEMPTION

At the present time many students who are liable under the Military Service Act, are making a decision as to whether they should claim exemption or not. The question of exempting students is not only occupying their minds, but it is receiving immediate attention at the hands of the Government officials at Ottawa.

The different universities have been consulted, and definite arrangements as to the exemption of students will be made in the near future. In making a decision the Government is keeping upmost the national interest and many McGill men who have been making plans of joining up will find themselves restricted in the near future by Government regulations.

Upon being interviewed by one of the Daily staff yesterday, Sir William Peterson expressed his views as follows.

"I would like to believe that every fit person is keen to go. My sympathies are rather with those who are declared unfit. We must at the same time consider very carefully the comparatively few cases of those members of the University who, although liable under the Act, must be held to be absolutely indispensable to the work of the Institution."

Sir William's views express the opinion of the University generally. Since the outbreak of hostilities McGill has always been among the leaders to support and help every movement tending to win the war.—McGill Daily

"THE DAILY" IS IN DIFFICULTIES.

The following is the text of a resolution adopted recently at a meeting of the Students' Council of McGill University: "That the students' Council impress on the student body as a whole, and particularly urge the different College Societies to come forward and assist in the work of the 'Daily' by reporting fully on their proceedings and meetings."

"That students, especially of the Science Medicine and Law Faculties, be asked to show a real interest in the College publication by co-operating with the 'Daily' Staff in the matter of news and meetings."

"That unless the present situation is remedied the interests of the Student body may be exposed to very serious complications."—McGill Daily

FRESHETTES MUST ATTEND
NEXT FRIDAY'S INITIATION

Freshettes! Prepare to meet the doom which fate has decreed shall be executed Friday, November 9 at 7:30 o'clock in Queen's Hall. All freshettes shall appear dressed as babies, the city sophomores in male attire. Immediate annihilation shall follow the entrance of any freshette not in the required costume. Initiation shall commence on time and thus it is absolutely necessary that no one come late. The customary fourth and third year "stunts" will be presented and refreshments served. There is a rumour abroad that the freshettes have a surprise in store for their superiors, but no particulars are available.

118 U.C. WILL HOLD FIRST CLASS MEETING ON TUESDAY

All members of the fourth year should come to the first meeting of their class. Important matters of business are to be dealt with and the policy of the year determined. Nominations will be received for members of the Permanent Executive as follows: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, lady councillor, gentleman councillor. There will also be an interesting musical programme after which a social hour will provide opportunity for making new acquaintances and renewing old ones. Tuesday, November 13, four to six p.m. Women's Union, 85 St. George Street.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY

Dear Sir,—Why do so many students consider the Reading Room a sitting room, where current events may be discussed audibly? How can one read and converse simultaneously? Why are "Silence" signs placed where all may see them, if there is no purpose in asking for silence?

In the breach of this rule, it seems to me that men exceed even the women. The latter at least do not talk aloud and disturb the whole room, as one table of students in khaki did Monday morning.

University training ought to engender consideration for others. Thoughtlessness is always a form of selfishness; and selfishness is the cause of the present war. Why cannot we be considerate of the rights of others, and enforce silence upon ourselves in the Library? Co-ED 179.

Wisconsin—Formal dedication of the new stadium of the University will take place after the first half of the Wisconsin-Minnesota game. The stadium has been entirely completed and has a seating capacity of 11,400.

Have You Heard About It?

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

EXCITING GAME WON BY SENIOR MEDS.

Shatz, of School, Easily the Star of the Game—McPherson and Hayes Good for the Meds.

Senior Meds met and defeated S.P.S. in the Mulock Cup at the Varsity Stadium on Monday, November 5, by a score of 7-2. The game was well contested.

Although two good teams were out to exhibit the true points of rugby, the old-time "spirit" was by no means there. Neither Meds nor School had any rooters on hand.

S.P.S. tried out with a new team, they were well balanced in every position, but only one real hard working halfback was in the game, and that was "Herb" Byrnie, who kicked and ran back punts in great style, never for a moment did he cease trying. Shatz at flying wing is really a find in rugby, and a great help for School, his kicking was superb, he seemed to have been along the two feet. He was under every punt and got his man always. Ellis also did some good work, while Samuels looked for yards and a couple of times got away for 20 or 30 yards runs.

Meds brought out a team just the opposite to School, with a perfect back division in McPherson, who is very speedy, and Hayes, who, when in contention, is as quick as a flash and he knows the game—he played in the champion team last year; and Ramsay, a very good punter and a strong half man. Ties runs, inside and middle, either have had no practice or they are green to the game, they don't know their duty as yet. McKay at outside player, his usual good game, being up and under for all tackles. Bistow is not a flying wing man, but was for the back division. He broke his leg last year playing in that position, and so may not want to take chances any more.

Meds kicked off, Samuels caught and ran 30 yards before he was downed by McKay. Byrnie punted from centre to Meds 5 yard line. Hayes returned. Byrnie ran up 15 yards, but S.P.S. lost ball on offside. Hayes then booted a very high one, which gave him time to run up field and catch it. This took McKay out of a bad position and placed them on the offensive. McPherson kicked to School's 10 yard line, where School missed and gave Meds the ball. Meds then went over for a touch, Hayes failed to convert.

Meds tried an end run, but Shatz was through, and on Ramsay before he could get an try. Shatz intercepted the pass, and Byrnie kicked after Kitchell and Samuels tried going through. Shatz was well cheered by the men in the stands for his wonderful and clean tackling. He was under everything and anything, always getting the possession of the sphere. Meds then kicked and Byrnie made a very good return, Shatz, catching Hayes behind the line. Byrnie kept looking at every opportunity, and this resulted in another point.

Half time, Meds 5 S.P.S. 2. In the third quarter there was no score, the ball hanging hands several times. Samuels featured with a 50 yard run, while Hayes was helped off the field after being tackled hard by Shatz, Nelson taking his place.

In the last quarter the game was uninteresting, as darkness had spread over the Stadium, Ramsey and McPherson each kicking behind School line for a point each.

Final score, S.P.S. 7, Meds 5.

Meds: McPherson, Hayes, Ramsay, Nelson, Bistow, Sinclair, McKay, Brown, Armstrong, Scott, McLeod, Tiffin, Hertz, Lazenby, Heslop.

School: Byrnie, McHenry, Sagar, Shatz, Johns, Prendergast, Kitchell, Samuels, Bissett, Hiss, McDonald, Maddock, Beck, Ellis.

Medicine

Medical students of the first, second and third years, you are doomed to disappointment. If you are counting on being examined by a military board at the Medical building and thereby avoiding several inconveniences, your hopes are doomed, shut out and needlessly cast down. Someone, evidently beginning such a good fortune, informed the secretary of the Faculty of Medicine, that for the day to be examined, it was not worth while having a board of military men come, and consequently their visit was cancelled. Go then, now, ye Meds and line up at the Annexes at six a.m., and get through in time to pass your lunch and perhaps the afternoon classes.

DE LA SALLE AGAIN LOSE TO BLOOR ST. LADS

Irwin, Munro, Sullivan Best for Winners—McCurrie Works Hard for Losers

Tuesday's game between De La Salle and U.T.S. was a game characterized by much individual playing of a sterling type. The play on the whole is not fairly judged by the score. Outside of certain spectacular work by Munro and Sullivan of U.T.S., and by McCurrie of De La Salle, the teams were fairly well matched with slight odds in favor of U.T.C.

Indeed the play in the first quarter was favourable to De La Salle and it looked as if they might come through with a win. A long and an end kick netted De La Salle two points, U.T.S. being unable to break into the score column.

The second quarter was about even, with U.T.S. forcing the play. A drop-kick by Sullivan and a couple of rones gave the School 4 points the period ending 4-2 in favor of U.T.S.

After the intermission, the teams lined up again. Munro of U.T.S. soon came through for a touch. No attempt was made to convert it. Exchanging of punts was in order for some time, with the advantage with U.T.S. Finally Irwin got hold of a loose ball and got over the line for a touch, which was converted.

U.T.S. 15, De La Salle 2.

The fourth quarter was featured by good individual runs, by many injuries and the further increase in the score by U.T.S. McCurrie and Smith for De La Salle combined for a nice run for some yards. Gurrie of De La Salle was injured and had to be carried off the field. Another point was added to De La Salle's score by a rone. Within three to four minutes of the end, Munro came through for another touch for U.T.S.

Final score U.T.S. 20, De La Salle 3.

DR. J. A. McDONAGH ADDRESSED NEWMAN CLUB FRIDAY NIGHT

Spoke on "Some Points on the Recent National Convention"

On Friday evening, Dr. J. A. McDonagh of the Dental College, delivered a highly instructive and pleasing discourse to the members of the Newman Club. He chose for his subject "Some points on the recent National Convention and Radiography". However, as the audience was composed of many others besides dentists he refrained from dwelling too long on the latter part of his subject.

Amongst the large number of over five thousand who attended the National Convention in New York, there were 100 representatives from Canada or about five per cent. of Canadian dentists.

In a delightful manner, and in sentences replete with kindly humour, Dr. McDonagh incidentally spoke of the huge Campaign that was on in New York, to advertise and sell Liberty Bonds. On every street corner, at every hotel, in every park, everywhere, one was asked to purchase Liberty Bonds.

Dr. McDonagh went on to describe the work of the Convention amongst the members of whom there were many whose names are familiar to dental students. Ryan, Guise, Prece, Hartzel and Rosnow were there—men of repute in Dentistry.

Rosnow described his investigations on the "Transmutation of micro-organisms and its relation to Bacteriology."

Dr. McDonagh then addressed himself to the Dental students. Speaking of the profession of dentistry, he said that there was none greater, for it prevented disease, and death. They must prepare now to do what is right, to work earnestly with that aim, so that they might become an honour to their adopted profession.

The Military Service Act, 1917

DON'T DELAY! Do It TODAY

THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT is passed; the Proclamation issued October 13th. It is now the bounden duty of every man in Class One to report for service or claim exemption. This includes all bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th October, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before January 1st, 1917.

What To Do

Go to your Post Office and ask for the form for reporting for service or for claiming exemption. The form contains clear instructions for filling in. Do this not later than NOVEMBER 10th.

Beware of the Last Minute Rush

With so many thousands of reports and claims to be dealt with, the rush of Class One Men will grow heavier day by day. You will waste less of your time and serve your own best interests if you avoid the inevitable rush on the last days.

The law is being enforced with the Government and the People firmly behind it. Obey the law. Do it today.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY

The regular meeting of the Seminar in Botany was held on November 1 in the Botany and Forestry building. Two excellent papers on Buffon and Erasmus Darwin were given by Miss C. S. McCullough and Miss M. Cook.

In her paper on Buffon, Miss McCullough traced briefly the development of the theory of evolution from the conceptions of the Greek philosophers to the conclusions of Buffon. The latter was a French aristocrat of the eighteenth century, who became interested in natural science, through the influence of an Englishman, Lord King-ton's tutor. Buffon wrote several volumes on scientific subjects, devoting some of his energies to descriptions of birds and reptiles. He had the idea of a gradual evolution from the higher animals, beginning with man, down to the lower. He did not consider that plants and animals were evolved side by side, but that plants were continuous with lower animals in a gradual descending series. He thought of natural selection as a factor in this gradual evolution. At times, Buffon contradicts these views. This may be explained by his desire not to offend against the accepted views of his day. He is worthy of a place in the history of biology because he created an interest in natural science, and gave it standing as a subject worthy of study.

Erasmus Darwin, as Miss Cook pointed out, was a rather distinguished, though somewhat erratic doctor in England in the 18th century. He was interested in botany, and had a botanic garden of eight acres. Dr. Darwin wrote several didactic poems on scientific subjects. His ideas on evolution are found in elaborate footnotes which are attached to these poems. He believed in the survival of the fittest, in the struggle for existence, and thought this played an important part in the evolution of plants and animals. Erasmus Darwin considered that variations due to environment were inherited. He also thought that these changes were partly caused by variation on the part of both plants and animals.

Both papers were given in a delightful conversational style, and were interspersed with numerous amusing incidents in the lives of these two men, who did so much to stimulate experimental work in reference to the evolutionary theory.

The next meeting of the Seminar will be on November 15. All students, who are interested in botany are invited to attend these meetings, which are held every two weeks.

Annesley Hall

On Saturday evening last, Annesley Hall was the scene of gay "revelry by night", for in reference to the ancient tradition, a masquerade was going forward in homage to spirits of Halloween. But this year it was the venerable seniors instead of the impish sophomores who played hostess. The guests were the delightful juniors, who came wearing the abbreviated skirts and hanging tresses of their dime and distant youth.

After the guests had all arrived, the whole assemblage formed in gay marching order—two abreast—behind an improvised band of dishpans and sheetmets, tin trumpets and combs. Thus arrayed the procession marched twice around through the spacious halls, upstairs and down, and into the infirmary, where a senior patient fretted vainly against fate. The gala company then divided into groups, each of which retired to a dimly lighted

DR. GILBERT SPEAKS TO U.L.S. OF VICTORIA

The Subject "Brains, Plus or Minus"
Provided An Inspiring Address

The U.L.S. held its second meeting for the term on Saturday evening at 7:30. A goodly number assembled to enjoy the evening, which opened with songs followed by a well-rendered instrumental solo by A. R. Self, B.A. '17. Then the chairman introduced the speaker for evening, Rev. Dr. Gilbert of Pennsylvania. After commenting on his first visit to Toronto many years ago, Dr. Gilbert proceeded with his address, "Brains—Plus or Minus". He gave an inspiring and exalting message to those present and so tactfully mingled his wit with his theme, that even the most inattentive became interested.

After the address it was moved by the leader of the government, and seconded by the leader of the opposition, that a hearty vote of thanks be given Dr. Gilbert. The motion carried and an invitation was also extended to him to visit the literary society again in the near future. Then followed the speech from the throne ably given by R. W. Friddle '18. In the room to conspire together to produce a stunt for the entertainment of all. Such ingenious productions were evolved as: "Barium and Bailey's Circus," and "Animated Cartoons,"—and most captivating of all an impromptu dramatization of "Young Lochinvar". Dancing in the gym and fortune-telling added the finishing touches to an hilarious evening. At the close the juniors heartily cheered ITS as one and all right, jolly good fellows.

The Query Box

Q. Why doesn't the tragedian who executes the "Sawbird" in these columns sign his name or initials or his regimental number? Does he lack the courage of his convictions? Also, as a mere aside—does he take drill in any shape or form? If he does, we would like to see his innermost cogitations on the subject in ink.—TELMY WYE.

A. The name of the persons who write the "Snowbird" may be had at the Varsity office. One of the persons takes military drill and the other does not. Up to the present they have received no inspiration for an article on the subject of drill, but possibly one will be forthcoming at an early date.

The usual business followed during which it was decided to hold the Lit meetings on Friday evening instead of Saturday evening for the rest of this term. The meeting concluded with the critic's report in which he commented on the business way in which the meeting was carried on.

THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

LT. WM. T. WILSON KILLED IN ACTION

More Varsity Men Bring Honours to Alma Mater

Lieut. William Tully Wilson, U.C. 1918, has been killed in action. He enlisted as a driver with the 25th Battery, and received his first stripe at Valenciennes in July of 1915 before going overseas. He reached France in January, 1916, shortly after being promoted corporal. He served in France and Belgium until February, 1917, when he was recommended by his own O.C. for a commission, and returned to England for training, being still at Shorncliffe as late as September of this year. His home was in Mount Byrdes.

MISSING.

Lieut. E. D. Hosken, Cameron Highlanders, is missing. A private letter from a brother officer dated October 15, states: "He was last seen during an intense bombardment penetrating the German lines with five other brave fellows. They have not been heard of since." He was a fourth year student in Classics at University College, when he enlisted in the 19th Battalion. He received his degree before going overseas. After several months at the front he obtained a commission in the Cameron Highlanders. He was wounded about a year ago, and was for some time in Scotland before returning to the front.

WOUNDED

Acting-Major John Andrew Hope, Law 1916, has been wounded. He was awarded the Military Cross on October 18, 1917, and has been wounded before in April of this year. His home is in Perth.

Lieut. John Lindsay McCullough, of Faculty of Education 1908-1909, is reported wounded. He enlisted two years ago in the Infantry. His family have received word that he is in a Manchester hospital.

Lieut. Harold Oakley Leach was reported wounded on November 8. He is a graduate of S.P.S. '15, and his home is in Winnipeg.

Cnr. W. E. Mooney has been wounded. He enlisted as a gunner with the University Battery, but was later transferred to an ammunition column. He belonged to the class of 1917, U.C. and his home is at 257 Brunswick Ave., Toronto.

Lieut. R. de L. Millard, B.A. '15, is reported wounded on October 31. He enlisted as a private in the 5th University Company, and saw service in the ranks at the front for several months. He has recently been promoted to lieutenant in his own regiment.

Lieut. Richard Leslie Greene, a B.A.Sc. of 1911, is reported wounded. He was stationed at Crowborough Camp, Sussex, England, with the C.E. in June last, but has since crossed to France. His father, R. L. Greene, lives at 42 Crescent Road.

Second Lieut. A. R. Wells, of Blyth, Ontario, has been awarded the Military Cross. He is serving in the Imperial Army as Signalling Officer of the Essex Regiment.

SETS PARACHUTE RECORD

Drops 6,000 Feet With Valuable Information

Prominent Member of Newman Club

Lieut. D'Arcy Prendergast eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Prendergast, 160 Isabella street, broke all records on the western front when he dropped 5,700 feet in a parachute with valuable information as to the enemy's disposition. In a letter to his father, Lieut. Prendergast refers to the episode in these words: "I climbed down a cloud from 5,700 feet, which is considered a record jump from a captive balloon." He is 22 years of age and was in his third year at the University when he enlisted in 1915. He received his commission on the field, and after service with the R.F.A. transferred to the R.E.C. and entered the balloon service last May.

Lieut. Prendergast was a student of the Medical College, and a member of Newman Hall. A brother, William, went overseas with the last draft from O.T.C.

HARVARD PROFESSOR WILL PREACH IN CON- VOCATION HALL

Noted American Scholar to Deliver Sunday Sermon

Professor F. G. Peabody, Ph.D. of Harvard University, Cambridge, who will preach the University sermon in Convocation Hall on Sunday, November 11, is one of the outstanding figures in American college life.

Prof. Peabody took his degree at Harvard in 1869, and graduated from Harvard Divinity School in 1872. He officiated as pastor of First Parish Church, Cambridge, from 1874-80, when he received the appointment of Parkman Professor of Theology at Harvard Divinity School. At present he is Planner Professor of Christian Morals at Harvard.

The author of numerous books, Professor Peabody has exercised a wide influence on the student mind. A few of his well-known books are: "Jesus Christ and the Social Question"; "Jesus Christ and the Christian Character"; "Short Addresses to young men on Personal Religion."

"Do not miss this opportunity of hearing a worth-while man."

W.U.A. HOLDS ITS GENERAL MEETING

Miss MacGregor Speaks on Citizenship

Radical Revision of "Point System"

A general meeting of the W.U.A. was held at the Union on November 7. The most important business brought forward was regarding the point system, which the executive of the W.U.A. has decided, is in need of revision. The proposed changes in the system will remain posted in the women's cloak room for two weeks, after which it will be referred to the members for decision.

The feature of the meeting was a speech by Miss MacGregor on "The Responsibilities of Citizenship." Miss MacGregor gave a brief sketch of the struggle women had had to gain the franchise and of the extent to which the struggle had so far been successful. She explained the power which women would be able to wield by the use of this franchise and emphasized the necessity of learning to use this power properly by studying social conditions, becoming informed on the news of the day and attending political meetings. In view of the coming provincial and municipal elections, a knowledge concerning these matters is very necessary, and we are sure that those who listened to the talk will make an effort to gain such knowledge. Miss MacGregor especially made the girls realize that the franchise is a tool by which they can help to make social ideals real and that an opportunity to use this tool meant great responsibility.

The talk was followed by an informal discussion, principally concerned with the qualifications of electors. After enjoying a solo by Miss Dalley the meeting broke up to be served with tea and biscuits.

DR. FAIRLEY WILL SPEAK AT LITERARY SOCIETY

The Literary Society will hold a meeting Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in the Union. Everybody interested in Stories of the Sea will be delighted to hear that Dr. Fairley has very kindly consented to speak about Conrad. There will be a musical program and dancing at the close of the meeting.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB MEETING

The next meeting of the Biological Club will be held in the Biological Building on Tuesday, November 13 at 8 p.m. Miss MacFarlane will address the club on "Mushrooms." A good attendance is expected, particularly from first year Arts, and Medicine, so that a representative may be elected to act with the executive as first year councillor.

INITIAL DINNER OF INDUSTRIAL CHEM. CLUB AT WALKER HOUSE

School Grad. Speaks on Veget- able Drugs—Illustrates Apparatus Used

Other Striking Addresses on Munition Manufacture

The Industrial Chemical Club held its first dinner at the Walker House on Wednesday last. The meeting was a complete success, there being nearly thirty members present, including a number of School graduates.

Mr. W. H. Thom of Lyman Bros. & Co., Ltd., an old School grad of 1910, gave a splendid address, taking "Vegetable Drugs" as his topic. He gave a complete description of the handling of herbs and roots from the plant itself to the drug extraction, illustrating the apparatus used.

D. M. McLean and C. P. Sale gave a very illustrative and interesting talk on the manufacture and testing of the explosive T.H.T. used in the present war, minutely describing the process from start to finish in a very capable manner.

A. D. R. Fraser gave a striking demonstration of the electrical steel process, now undoubtedly the most efficient process of manufacturing high quality steel in this country. He clearly illustrated the present up-to-date electrical furnace and described the process from the melting to the finished ingot.

ALL-STAR PRODUCTION AT CONVOCATION HALL

Soldiers' Programme Guaranteed to Banish Dull Care

Proceeds for Charitable and Regimental Purposes

A week from to-night "Pot Pourri" will gather itself together and make its initial bow in Convocation Hall. By the time the "Pot" is disentangled its varied numbers will have carried the audience through the vale of tears and over the peaks of laughter, till even the hyper-critical will need be content.

There is a dictum of Aristotle's that "Drama is meant to please and educate." "Pot Pourri" has an additional two-fold function. Over a thousand dollars from the proceeds of the last concert were turned over to the Social Service Work of the Toronto General Hospital. Half of the proceeds of the "Pot" are also to be used for charitable purposes. The remainder will be employed in replenishing the Company treasure chest, where a few golden shewels will be as welcome as a cheque from home to a starving student. It is an axiom of our military system that every unit must pay its own way and expenses are always very heavy. This necessitates an income from some source. Thus, in the past the U. of T. O.T.C. has been nobly supported by the Students' Administrative Council, the Women's Dramatic Club, and other kind friends. Now, for the first time, Varsity readers have an opportunity to place their mite in the chest and receive splendid returns for their lucre. How about it? The pick of the seats are on sale for half-a-dollar each. Grab two don't dare to be satisfied with one—before the other fellows get all the peaches.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

A practice of the University Orchestra will be held on Monday at the University "Y" at 7 p.m. All members are urgently requested to attend.

A COACH IN FRENCH.

A young lady, an Honour Graduate in French of two years' experience, will tutor or coach students in that language. Appointments may be arranged by addressing Box 7, THE VARSITY office.

GREAT SUCCESS ATTENDS THE BIG "T" MIXER

Mr. Justice Craig Delivers Delight- ful Address on Yukon

The first of the Big "T" Mixers was given last Wednesday evening from 6 to 8. Twenty-five men from each of eight faculties assembled in the large dining-hall of the Central Y.M.C.A. Each faculty had a table, two men from each bunch acting as waiters. Mr. Stapells of University College was chairman of the evening, and at the conclusion of the dinner, called upon President Falconer to say a few words. Sir Robert outlined the proposed bible study groups, recommending them as the best way of studying bible work. Mr. Justice Craig next spoke on "Reminiscences of the Yukon." He told of the way of reaching that northern country via steamer to Skagway and thence down the Yukon river, which necessitates the climbing and passing of a series of mountains. Many men had lost their lives on that trail simply because they had given up hope and laid down to die. The Edmonton trail, however, was the one which had taken the greatest toll of human life. The Yukon was inhabited in the '90's when the discovery of gold came about by a low type of Indians. Gold was found first in 1806 by a man named Cornack. It had been first discovered by the presence of "colours," an indication of the presence of gold. The placer gold was found in a gravel known as wash gravel and it was richest next to the bedrock, having settled down through sand and gravel by the action of water to the rock beneath. Good gold went $4.50 to a pan of sand washed. A prospector in the Yukon equipped himself with a pick, shovel, a washing pan, some flour and soda.

As gold mining became more complicated the box system was inaugurated. Two or three specially prepared boxes were placed one above the other, and running water sent over them. Sand then was put in, and at the end of the day the boxes were taken up, the sand taken off and the gold taken from the bottoms of the different boxes, and then blown. Any claim which went less than 2.54 per pan was neglected. Later such grounds were worked by companies and much money made.

The gold was in the bottom of a valley and along its sides. The method used was to plough up the valleys, and by the use of dredges tumble down the hills and run the sand off into boxes where water was running. The climate was very cold in the winter, as low as 72 below sometimes. The summer was delightful, however, and vegetables such as celery, potatoes, turnips could be grown.

Before the men sent out by the Dominion Government to preserve order and justice, the Mounted Police had done their best in this respect. Before then crimes had been settled by what was known as the "Miners' Trial."

Extravagance was the keynote of social life in the Yukon. Every second house was a gambling-hall, saloon or a dancing hall, where money could be spent profusely. Wine was $25 a pint, and champagne quite common. Mr. Justice Craig told of one man who had made a billion and a half, and who, to-day, hadn't five cents to his name. Another character, known as "Swiftwater Bill" was a very much-married man. One of his wives had ordered eggs in one of the main restaurants. Eggs at that time were very scarce, and worth a great price. Only two cases were to be had at that time in Dawson City. "Swiftwater Bill" because of his dislike of this particular wife, promptly took all the eggs the manager had. His wife got none.

Many English gentlemen had gone to Yukon, there losing all they possessed, wives, homes, and their self-respect. That was the place to show up a good man, to put a weak man to the wall. Most men when they had got the gold, either spent it in the Yukon, or California or in New York.

After this highly interesting and entertaining lecture of Mr. Justice Craig had come to a close, faculty yells were given, and other entertainment by various faculties. Songs were given, and a recitation of the "Charge of the Light Brigade" enacted.

A pleasant feature of the Mixer was the splendid work of the students who

"FRIENDS OF FRANCE" CLUB MAKES APPEAL TO VARSITY STUDENTS

Help Provide Christmas Cheer for French Soldiers Whose Families Are In German Hands

As it is nearing Christmas an appeal is made to Varsity students and friends or relatives by the Friends of France Club to help send Christmas packages to the French soldiers from the invaded north.

Christmas this year will bring bitter memories to thousands of these soldiers, who for three years have been without news of their families. Their minds are filled with dread as to the fate of their dear ones, as they are in territory occupied by the Germans.

The refugees are continually pouring into the smaller French hospitals, often in their last extremity, without money, food, and scarcely any clothing, as useful articles are confiscated by the invaders. In these hospitals are often many convalescent soldiers honourably discharged from duty. Many of these have neither friends to take care of them or money. It is to the aid of these also that the Friends of France Clubs send.

They are sending clothing especially woollens, for the winter weather; food, such as chocolate, loaf sugar, dried fruits, etc. Money for coal will be the crying need in all the French hospitals this winter, as it will cost from fifty to seventy dollars a ton.

Donations will be gratefully received and may be sent to the President, Mrs. Arthur E. Wells, 216 Poplar Plains Road, Toronto.

EXEMPTION GRANTED TO MEDICAL STUDENTS

Touching Display of Patriotism on Part of Some

On Wednesday morning the various class presidents of the Medical faculty announced that the second, third, fourth and fifth years, would be exempt from the Military Service Act. THE VARSITY has been unable to verify this up to going to press. It is reported that on the announcement that the above years would be exempted from the Act, one sympathizer of Kultur, disgraced the second year by calling for three cheers, in which a few joined. This was the rankest insult possible under regrettable existing conditions. Happily the majority of students severely censure this ignominious attitude.

MILITARY SERVICE ACT AND GRANTING OF YEARS

Although the Registrar was not in a position to state what provision regarding examination or granting of years, would be made to men drafted under the M.S.A., it was possible for a man to secure a refund on his paid fees, in the event of his being called. Many students have been wisely with-holding the payment of their fees, but to those who have dutifully "come across" we sound this note of cheer. Further information can be secured from the Bursar. It is also likely that some consideration will be given to drafted students who wish to secure portions of their year. This matter is now in debate but nothing definite has as yet been decided.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Sec. Lieut. Harold Drummond, B.A., U.C. '10, is now in the Royal Garrison Artillery and stationed at Singapore. His brother, Harry A. Drummond, Med. 1922, has just enlisted in the 67th Battery, C.F.A.

Lieut. Raymond L. Hughes, B.A., University College, 1915, is home on short leave. He enlisted in March, 1915, from the University in the 26th Battery, C.F.A. While in training at Kingston, he was promoted corporal. After reaching England he obtained a commission in the R.F.A. He went to France in March, 1915, and his battery has been engaged in all the advances made since that date, at the Somme, before Arras, and Ypres.

Major the Rev. J. C. Davidson, is expected home on leave in time for Christmas. He crossed as chaplain to the 93rd Battalion, but in July 1916 was appointed to the Ontario Military Hospital at Orpington. In December, 1916, he went to France, and has been with No. 3 Canadian Stationary Hospital for the past ten months. He graduated from Trinity College in 1882, receiving the degree of M.A. in 1887.

SUSPICIOUS SOLDIER ARRESTS VARSITY PROF.

Capt. Cockburn Has Novel Ex- perience in Palestine

There has been a rumour current that Professor J. Roy Cockburn was arrested as a spy in Palestine. The facts are that Captain Cockburn (as he is now) and two lieutenants were out reconnoitering one night and that they met a British infantry officer, who offered to show them an observation post. On their way to this post, the infantry officer became suspicious and asked them for their credentials; they had their pockets full of army orders, movements, etc., but unfortunately had forgotten to take their identification discs with them on that trip, so the infantry officer had them arrested. However, some high official had them released later, on being presented with the facts.

Captain Cockburn left Toronto with the 58th Battalion, C.E.F., and, after spending the winter with that unit in France, was transferred to the Royal Engineers. This unit is made up of men from many different parts of the Empire, all of whom have been lent by the various Governments to the Imperial Army. Capt. Cockburn was sent to Egypt with Section "V" and has probably been in the recent fighting around Gaza, as he said in one of his recent letters to watch the papers for the next week or two.

Captain Cockburn says that the climate of Palestine is nearer to being perfect than any he has ever seen or heard of, or than any he hopes to see for some time.

THE IMPORTANCE OF WORK

The discussion on "groups" still continues. There is a strong feeling in the University that the wrong method of instruction, is, to some degree, being used; and it was for the purpose of giving voice to this feeling that the recent series of editorials on education were written. The idea expressed in these editorials have brought criticisms from members of the Faculty. Criticism was expected and the spirit in which it has been given has been fully appreciated by THE VARSITY. It is only by the interchange of ideas that results are obtained, and it is to be hoped that the students have gained some good from the discussion which has been conducted.

Underlying all that has been written on the subject, there is one point, which although implied, has not been strongly expressed. This is that there is the necessity for every student, if he desires to derive the greatest benefit from his University course, spending many hours of hard work. This need of application is certainly necessary under the lecture system which is now mainly in vogue; but it would be greatly increased if a wider use of a real "group" system was made. If he is to obtain the most from a lecture, the student finds it beneficial to read many books on the subject in question. Under the "group" system this reading, and the hard work which it entails, becomes essential—if the "group" is not to become a mere social conversation meeting.

Only those students who have undertaken such an exhaustive course of reading on a subject—time does not permit such action on all subjects—can appreciate the benefits which can thus be obtained. To read both sides of one question, compare the ideas presented, and then draw a conclusion, should be the aim of a real student. This involves work, but if under the "group" system, supplemented with lectures, students were to follow this practise then results might be expected which would be better than those gained to-day.

For reasons which have already been presented, the use of the "group" system cannot be increased to any great extent under present conditions. The lecture system still is in greater favour; but it does not prevent the adoption of the idea contained above—the need of application.

THE O.T.C. CONCERT

The attention of the students has already been drawn to the fact that the Overseas Training Company are holding a second concert a week from to-night. This coming concert is being given owing to the fact that many people were unable to secure tickets for the previous entertainment; and also because the Company desires that all University students be given an opportunity to appreciate the talent of some of the members of the Company.

The members of the Samaritan Club offered to sell the entire seating capacity of Convocation Hall for the flat rate of one dollar a seat. Owing to the fact, however, that the O.T.C. is connected with the University, and desires to accommodate the students, this offer was refused. Instead it was decided to reduce the price of some of the seats to fifty cents; and four hundred of these seats have been given to the women students of the University to sell. Half of the proceeds of the sale of these tickets will be spent in Red Cross work. After all expenses are paid, moreover, half of the receipts will be given to the Samaritan Club. The remainder of the money will be placed in the funds of the Company.

It will be seen that the various causes among which the proceeds will be allocated are of a kind that no one can gainsay. For this reason, and due to the fact that the Company lowered the price of tickets in order to attract the support of the University, the students ought to do their part and buy seats for next Friday's concert. Over and above all it is to be remembered that the men who will appear next Friday are all clever—most of them are professionals—and an evening's excellent entertainment can be assured.

Tickets went on sale yesterday at Victoria College, University College and Nordheimer's. Be early and secure your admission.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Another correspondent wrote about the wearing of C.O.T.C. uniforms on days other than parade days. As has been pointed out, Militia Orders prohibit any such action.

To repeat, questions not relating to some matter connected with the University should not be sent to The Query Box. If you consult authorities and encyclopaedias yourself, you will gain more good.

Male students who come under the provisions of the Military Service Act are anxious about the treatment which they will receive from the University authorities re the matter of granting the year. An official announcement on this question would be greatly appreciated by these men.

In reading the report of an executive meeting in Monday's VARSITY we noted the following—"that the proper men and women were elected to the executives at the initial meeting . . . was quite evident at this meeting." Some people put the theory that, "If you don't praise yourself, no one will", into practice with a vengeance.

PROF. ALEXANDER DISCUSSES "GROUPS"

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—You ask me for my opinion on "groups". Subjects, and consequently methods, differ, but speaking for my own subject and, probably, for those akin to it, I heartily approve of the "group" system. This simple reply might suffice, were it not that there are odd ideas in the air. For example in the last number of "The Rebel," a writer sketches an ideal group. Here "the discussion is an astonishing explosion of ideas," "the quietest people do the most talking," "every one expresses his strangest thoughts," "yet no one, even in secret laughs at another person's ideas, be they ever so queer," "and the professor also talks but not more than the students" (Query: the quietest students who do the most talking, or the noisiest students who do, presumably, the least?) Although there are some very enviable traits in this picture, especially "the explosion of ideas," I do not think this group is ideal except in the sense that it has never yet been realized. Nor do I agree even with your own conclusion, Mr. Editor. "Let discussion groups take the place of lectures"; that is analogous to the Food Controller's saying—as he might be tempted to say in the present situation: Let exercise take the place of food.

A group for the best results should be very small, consisting, say of six, or at least of not more than ten, members. Its purpose is to stimulate the student to thinking for himself, to give motive and recognition for self-expression, and opportunity for clearing up difficulties. It has the further advantage of bringing into closer contact, not merely teacher and taught, but the students themselves in relation to what should be the main interest of college life—their studies. Being academic, group-work should enforce clear and consecutive thinking on some prescribed theme; and this seems to imply the presence of the scholarship, experience, and authority of an instructor. On the other hand, we cannot expect that the "group" will contribute much to putting the new generation abreast of the accumulated results of the past—surely, no minor part of education. A student's essay is not the best source of information, and a lecturer may as well speak to a class of sixty as of six. Even the most brilliant ideas drawn from the inner consciousness of an undergraduate cannot take the place of knowledge won from books and instructors by labour and patience. For, although Carlyle suggests that professors are being superseded by libraries, and although some of our students would gladly have both libraries and professors superseded by "groups," there are services the actually present lecturer can render which the most learned and eloquent printed page cannot bestow. A "group" should not be an informal lecture, nor should its members attend to have merely an hour's pleasant talk. Perhaps the most delightful and characteristic episodes of college life, and the best-remembered in after days, are the interchanges of ideas by young minds freshly stirred by literature, philosophy, and science—which for these fortunate mortals are for four years their chief concern. And surely our Ontario students have not been so supervised and spoon-fed, from kindergarten on, that they are unable to indulge in such discussions without the sanction of a class-hour and the superintendence of a member of the Staff.

W. J. ALEXANDER.

[Professor Alexander wrote the above article before Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY, containing the editorial reply to Professor Kennedy's letter, had appeared. He stated to THE VARSITY that if he had first seen that issue, the reference which he makes to editorials, that have recently appeared in THE VARSITY, would have been written in a different manner.—ED.]

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—I should like to correct an erroneous impression a reader might get from perusing the account of Monday's rugby game between Senior Meds and School. The paragraph to which, both School men and Meds have objected, is the following: "Although two good teams were out to exhibit the fine points of rugby, the old-time spirit was not there. Neither Meds nor School had any rooters out."

Either (1) the writer of this account was not present himself, or (2) he is a freshman who does not know School men or Meds from any one else. If neither School nor Meds was represented, I should like to ask who did attend the game.

There were Meds, and there were School men present; and if they were not noticed, neither was the game.

Old-time spirit was not lacking, and both Meds and School yelled themselves hoarse. When it is remembered that the game starting at four p.m. cuts in on labs, etc., and that students of Meds and School made personal sacrifices to get there perhaps the writer of the account may see some old-time spirit in the action.

Thanking you on behalf of School.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

O.T.C. Successful in Mulock
Cup Series

Disgraceful Lack of Interest in Team
Shewn by U.C.

O.T.C. rugby team defeated University College in the third game of the Mulock Cup series at Varsity Stadium yesterday afternoon by the overwhelming score of 29 to 5. The winners were a heavier and better-balanced team than the losers. They frequently bucked for yards and gave the Arts men few chances to get away. Coley booted magnificently. He timed his kicks so that his wings could cover them and the opposing backs were several times downed where they stood on catching the ball. Sinclair also punted well, made several good tackles, and never stopped trying until he was injured toward the close of the game in a scrimmage a few yards out.

There was a poor crowd and most of those present were soldiers, showing lack of interest on the part of the U.C. men.

Mix opened the scoring for O.T.C., came over for a touch after Arts had fumbled a pass. They followed this up with two rouses on Coley's good kicking. Ridley muffed two successive punts and O.T.C. got the ball for a touch on the second miff. The first half ended 12 to 0. Sinclair's kicking put O.T.C. on the defensive to open the second half. Brules dropped a long punt, and Arts secured the ball for a touch, their only score. O.T.C. completely outplayed their opponents for the remainder of the game, and scored three touch-downs, making the final score 27 to 5.

TALES of the REST ROOM

Who has not heard of that famous rest room, that delightful "rendezvous" at the foot of the winding stair which leads to the old grey tower. Here a mere man fears to intrude. Even a professor with the gentle intent of posting a notice feels a peculiar atmosphere and hurries through.

Here is the headquarters for daily gossip and common scandal, the recruiting office for members of societies and clubs. Here many a fugitive from a boring lecture flees from the wrath to come.

Posters on the walls demand one to "Stop, Look and Listen", or even more imperatively to "Halt"—and your attention is turned to a future afternoon tea, club meeting or hike. "Books for Sale" are posted in lengthy lists; "Lost, Stolen, or Strayed" fountain pens and college gowns appear in startling notices upon the door. In a glass case are the intellectual posters. Kind tutors advertise their abilities, professors make known their desires, boarding houses vie with Queen's Hall.

Around the mail boxes is a perpetual hubbub, and outward and visible sign of woman's curiosity, and news is eagerly exchanged.

Between lectures, all is hustle and confusion. Animated groups discuss the coming events. Eager couples exchange scandal, while others, to wildly express it, merely "fuss" for the next lecture.

It is a joyful ten minutes. The tragedy of it all when the bell announces the approaching hour! With many a shriek and hasty farewell, friends disperse, and except for an occasional delinquent member, the rest room once more is a place of silence and repose.

SOCCER SEASON ABOUT TO OPEN

A preliminary meeting of soccer representatives was held on Wednesday at the gym. Dents, Pharmacy, Wycliffe, S.P.S. and Faculty had representatives there, and it was unanimously decided to have a meeting again on Friday when an executive will be appointed and a schedule drawn.

All those colleges who have not yet signified their intention of entering the series, are invited to send representatives to this meeting.

THE SNOWBIRD

"That the right officers were chosen."—Our heart stopped beating and a choking sensation was felt in region of our throat. All of which went to show our dumb-founded amazement at the nerve of the writer, for we were perusing an article in our revered Varsity on an obscure executive meeting of the ——— Club. Such blatant self-congratulation we had not seen for many a day. Swiftly we conjured up in our mind a mental picture of that meeting. What honeyed words must have wisted their fragrance. What delightfully turned compliment seen bandied back and forth as each proud dignitary assured his hearers that in him they had a real jewel; and under his distinguished patronage the Club need not look with uncertain eyes to the future. How each heart must have swelled and responded as each in turn touched this lofty chord we leave to imagination of our readers. We know we should have wept, as is our general custom on all such occasions, hot scalding tears. Such bunk always affects us that way. We distinctly remember doing so when we read the reports of a certain college field day, in which, with unvarying regularity and painful monotony appeared the names of two young gladiators, evidently the only A2 men in that college.

Such American and Canadian magazines as McLeans, Literary Digest, Outlook, Scientific American, World Wide and the Pictorial; and English magazines such as the Graphic, Illustrated London News and Punch should be an inducement to everyone to visit the reading rooms.

SHUGART AND DICKSON WIN DOUBLES FINALS

High-Class Tennis Shown

The tennis finals in the doubles were played Wednesday afternoon when Martin and Ketchum, opposed Shugart and Dickson. The tennis played was of a high order, and it took five sets to decide the winners. There was very little to choose between the playing of both teams, but Shugart and Dickson were more consistent, using the lobbing game to good advantage. Martin and Ketchum played a fine placing game; and made their opponents extend themselves to the limit, to emerge victors. The following is the result of the set: 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Many surprises were sprung in the second round of the tennis tournament, and several likely looking factors for the finals, were eliminated. Richardson defeated Dickson 6-2, 6-4. Allen defeated Pakenham 6-3, 6-4. Harston defeated Marsh 6-2, 6-2 and Shugart defeated Ketchum 6-4, 6-0.

In the semi-finals of the doubles, Martin and Ketchum defeated Rogers and Thoburn rather easily 6-1, 6-4 and entered the finals against Shugart and Dickson.

WIDE RANGE OF PERIODICALS AT "Y"

The University "Y" has now a wide and varied assortment of material in its reading room. By a recent arrangement the Ottawa "Citizen", Guelph "Mercury", Owen Sound "Sun", Winnipeg "Free Press", have been placed at the disposal of its patrons. Even people unfortunate enough to come from such a backwoods burg as Hamilton may in a measure sate their home sick souls by a perusal of the "Herald".

Such American and Canadian magazines as McLeans, Literary Digest, Outlook, Scientific American, World Wide and the Pictorial; and English magazines such as the Graphic, Illustrated London News and Punch should be an inducement to everyone to visit the reading rooms.

TO-MORROW

The proclamation which issued on October 13th under the Military Service Act requires that each man who is a member of the First Class—bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th October, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before January 1st, 1917, shall, on or before the report himself for military service, unless application for his exemption shall then have been made by him or by any person entitled to apply in his behalf.

10th day of November, 1917

What is Required Immediately

Any man in Class One, if it has not already been done, must before the Post office closes to-morrow night, obtain from the Postmaster a form for reporting for service or a form for claiming exemption, fill out the same and hand it to the Postmaster for transmission to the proper quarters.

Penalty Provided

The Military Service Act provides that failure to fulfil the above obligation entails a penalty "on summary conviction to imprisonment for any term not exceeding five years with hard labour."

The Military Service Council

DEBATING UNION NOW ORGANIZED

Officers Elected and Schedule Arranged

At the meeting of the I.C.D.U. held on Tuesday evening in St. Michael's College the following nominations for and elections to office took place:

Hon. President—Sir Robert Falconer.*
Hon. Vice-President—Sir Wm. Hearst.*
President L. Halfyard (Vic.) elected:
M. Richardson (McMaster).

Vice-President—W. T. Browne, S.P.S.
Sec.-Treas.—L. F. Lambier, Osgoode.
* Elected by acclamation.

All arrangements are complete, the two debates will be held as follows:

Trinity v. Osgoode at Trinity.
S.P.S. v. St. Michael's at St. Mike's.
V. R. W. Allan, M.A., Rev. Fr. Oliver and Prof. E. M. Kirkstead will act as judges in the former, and Mr. W. A. Skeans and Prof. H. F. T. Duckworth in the latter. Musical programmes have been arranged, and invitations are extended to all students and the general public.

All arrangements have been made for the first annual debate, to be held to-night at St. Michael's College. The subject is, "Resolved, that the private ownership of public utilities provides a more honest and efficient administration than public ownership." Messrs. W. J. Browne and R. Hamer, M.A., are the School representatives. A delightful musical programme has been arranged. All School men should be on hand for the performance.

TORONTONENSIS BOARD MEETING

The second meeting of Torontonensis Board was held in the Women's Union on Tuesday evening of this week. Every faculty was represented except St. Hilda's Forestry and Social Service. The Editor was in the chair. Miss Lyon of U.C. and Mr. Hancock of Applied Science, were appointed as representatives on the Torontonensis Executive Committee—which is composed of a representative from the Women's and Men's Council respectively, two from the Torontonensis Board, and the Editor, who is chairman. Mr. Grant, as General Secretary, is ex-officio member of all committees—and therefore is secretary of this executive. This committee was created at the last meeting of the Councils, both to restrict and advise the Editor who, heretofore, was appointed by, but had no representation on the Council. Contract forms and biography forms were distributed. The necessity of having these biography forms filled and returned at the earliest convenience was urged on all present.

Arrangements have been, or will be completed this week, so that photographs may be taken at the respective photographers. Each representative is acquainted with this matter and each student should make his or her appointment immediately. It was decided to have the photograph of the Editorial Board taken at Farmer Bros., on Spadina Avenue on Saturday, November 24 at 12.45. It is hoped that executives or class groups will follow the example of the Board and have their photographs taken and forwarded to the Editor at an early date, so that this year's Torontonensis may be distributed about the first of March. The next meeting of the Board will be held on Monday evening at the usual place and hour. Misses Best and Sparling and Mr. Henderson were appointed a committee. Why? Come on the 26th and you will be able to answer the question for yourself.

DRAMATIC RECITAL TO BE HELD AT CONVOCAATION HALL

Alexander Watson, the English dramatic entertainer, will reproduce in Convocation Hall, on Tuesday, November 13, at 8 p.m., the programme with which he entertained our Canadian soldiers in the Ypres sector. The recital will be under the auspices of the College Nursing Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, the proceeds to be used for soldiers' comforts. It is expected that this programme will be even more attractive than last year's entertainment under the same auspices, when the house was sold out in advance. Reserved seats at 35 cts. may be secured from members of the Division, or at the Royal Canadian Institute, 198 College Street, from 1 to 6 p.m.

BRINGING UP BABY. (By Facetious Parents)

In answer to the question as to what we are doing with our baby, we would answer that up to date we have fed him on sterilized, unsterilized, pasteurized, cow's, goat's, condensed, peptonized, and modified milk. We have rocked him to sleep, sing him to sleep, and let him howl himself to sleep. We have dosed him with hot pepper, peppermint, opacac and soothing syrup. We have rubbed him with goose oil, olive oil and cod-liver oil. We have patted him on the stomach to the tune of "John Brown's Body." We have shaken a rattle before his face for three-quarters of an hour. We have given him mental treatment, vibration treatment, and turned red, blue and green thought on him for hours. We are here to take orders and advice from everybody, and if you have the slightest thing to suggest that we have not already done to that baby, do not tell us—we may forget it. But write it down, and send it along at the earliest possible moment.—West Virginia Bulletin.

PROF. F. G. PEABODY OF HARVARD, DELIVERS INSTRUCTIVE SERMON

Describes the Setting and Origin of the New Testament

PERIOD OF DISCRIMINATION

We Must Distinguish the Real from the Apparent

GOLDEN AGE OF CHRISTIAN LITERATURE LIES IN NEAR FUTURE

Professor F. G. Peabody of Harvard, preached yesterday in Convocation Hall to a large congregation composed of students of the various faculties, their friends, and a considerable number of the Overseas Training Company.

Prof. Peabody opened his discourse by describing the setting and origin of the New Testament. "The New Testament," he said, "comes from a region of earthquakes. The condition of the country, socially, morally, and politically, was one of upheaval and chaos. Palestine was in the centre of a warring nation, and was the melting-pot of the nations. The inscription above Christ's cross had to be in three tongues so that all who passed by, whether Romans, Greeks or Jews, could read it. Here fragments of Roman, Grecian, and Jewish faith lay waiting for some revival by an earthquake of new ideas."

"During the period of an earthquake there is a time of discrimination, a time to discriminate solemnly from frivolity, from foundations from false workmanship, truth from fiction. When the shock is over people find things that they thought indestructible to have fallen; and things though seemingly weak to have remained unscathed. In that period of earthquake many faiths fell, but the Christian faith sustained the shock and proved itself indestructible. But what about to-day? The earthquake region at that time was limited. To-day it extends over the whole world. Never was earthquake so prolonged or so wide spread as it is to-day."

There are three attitudes from which the present conditions may be viewed. The first is the attitude of despair and resignation to the inevitable, to the admission that the Christian faith is a failure, and that in the crisis it fell down. Another attitude is that of persistent conservatism. Let us begin reconstruction and cherish the hope that it will not happen again. But the New Testament attitude is to take it as it is and learn its lesson. It is not to be minimized or explained away. We must discriminate between the things that have stood the test and those that have failed. There never was such a time as this for this discrimination.

As the men crouch in the trenches the things they used to think so important and the things they used to be so engrossed in, give way to the real thing of life. The wranglings of Christian creeds and elaborate doctrines and structure built up by the laborious work of scholars will seem like the great forts of Europe, seemingly so strong and important, but which crumbled at the first attack. At the same time at the collapse of the creeds and doctrines comes the message from the front such as this from a French soldier to his mother, "To-night I am watching over you, rifle in hand, but you know who is watching over me."

"Out of this war has come the extraordinary conversion of the great English writer, Wells. He may lack theological creeds, he may not even have a full conception of God, but after all it is not half a God better than none if he is real."

"This is the lesson from the front that the world must learn, it must discriminate, in the new conditions, the accidental from the essential, and the form from the fact. In the new religious life, there will be a new simplicity, freedom from creeds and doctrines and form, but will not quality be better than quantity?"

"If modern Christian teachers and preachers take advantage of this period of susceptibility of the mind, the golden age of Christian history lies in the near future. This war was foretold in the scriptures and it has come to pass. These things must come to pass and after tribulation, shall come revelation, and after the earthquake the still small voice."

EVERYBODY SHOULD HEED THE APPEAL MADE BY "FRIENDS OF FRANCE"

In the last issue of THE VARSITY an appeal was made by the Friends of France Club to the students for contributions, especially old clothing. In order to facilitate the collection of these articles, arrangements have been made whereby donations may be left at the University Library. All the students, both men and women, are earnestly asked to sort over their old clothes, and to give any they do not need to this worthy cause.

11.Q. 393-8-103.

DEPARTMENT OF MILITIA AND DEFENCE.

OTTAWA, November 5th, 1917

From the Secretary,
Military Sub-Committee,
Military Service Act.

To the Institutions concerned,

STATUS OF MEDICAL, DENTAL AND VETERINARY STUDENTS UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

Sir, I have the honour, by direction, to refer to Headquarters' Circular Letter of the 25th October (H.Q. 393-8-103).

The Submission to Militia Council enclosed therein has been amended by replacing Para. 4 by the following:—

4. In view of the foregoing, the Military Sub-Committee for the Administration of the Military Service Act, has issued instructions to the Local Military Representatives that they should not oppose claims for exemption made by or on behalf of Medical students. Exemptions granted to them will, under Military Service Regulation 14, be subject to the condition whether expressed in the certificate of not, that the man concerned shall undergo such military exercise and training as may with the approval of the Head of the Institution at which such education or training is proceeding, be directed by the Officer Commanding the Military District in which such Institution is situated.

5. It is therefore recommended that Medical students granted exemption in accordance with the foregoing be formed into a C.A.M.C. Reserve, under Military Authority and subject to the following conditions:—

(a) They shall be liable to be called up in such numbers and at such times as military necessity may require.

(b) They shall be taken on the strength of the University O.T.C. or in other definite way be given military training by the University under the authority of the General Officer Commanding the District.

(c) The Medical authorities shall provide with respect to each such student a certificate at the middle and end of each term to be forwarded to the General Officer Commanding the District, stating whether or not the student is proceeding normally to the completion of the year's work in medicine and in military training. Failure to pass examinations or neglect of duty during term shall be sufficient cause for the man's being immediately called up.

(d) The above regulations shall apply, for the present, only to those who are bona fide entered students in Medicine on the 1st day of November, 1917.

Note.—Similar procedure will be adopted with regard to Dental and Veterinary Students.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

O. S. TYNDALL, Capt., D.A.A.G., Secretary, Military Sub-Committee, for the administration of the Military Service Act.

MENORAH SOCIETY WILL HOLD OPEN MEETING

Will be Held at the University "Y"
Instead of West Hall

Addresses will be Given by Ald.
Singer and Prof. Taylor

The open meeting of the Menorah Society will be held on Monday next, November 19, at 7:30 p.m. sharp at the University Y.M.C.A. instead of West Hall, Main Building, as announced in a previous issue of THE VARSITY.

The Executive have been working very hard to make this meeting a success. They have been successful in securing Ald. Louis M. Singer to address the members on the subject: "The Jewish Problem."

We come to the University to learn how to think so that we shall be enabled to cope with the various problems of life that may confront us. It is in this pursuit, in the striving to solve these problems that the intellect is nourished. In algebra and geometry, in metaphysics, ethics, logic, in fact, in every phase of life, problems abound galore. Although many of them are abstract, such as for instance, in mathematics, yet many of us are interested in them, and cry "Eureka", when the answer is correct.

The Jews also have a great fundamental problem to solve, at which they have been working for centuries. The nature of this problem will be clearly explained by Ald. Singer at the opening meeting of the club. He will likewise offer some suggestions as to the solution of same. So if you are in any way interested in such problems, you are cordially invited to attend.

Prof. W. R. Taylor, of University College, will also be present, and will speak briefly on the Menorah Movement. The constitution of the Society will be read and put before the general body for discussion and approval. Besides, a good musical programme has been arranged. So do not fail to be present. Make a memo. of the date of the meeting. Monday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m., University Y.M.C.A.

"Pot Pourri" is almost ready for the curtain to rise. Comedy and tragedy, music and song, are to meet on the same stage and harmonize. A well-balanced assortment of everything worth seeing and hearing in the theatrical world has been thrown into the mould. A full list of the O.T.C. artists participating, and the numbers they will present, will be announced in next issue of THE VARSITY. Take a glance at Wednesday's program in THE VARSITY and a great light will break upon you if you haven't as yet bought your seats. Sudden realization of what you're in danger of missing on Friday will galvanize you into activity. Better start now, or like the man who sits upon a tack you'll recognize that you must "get up and get."

One thing must be impressed upon the reader. The causes which are responsible for "Pot Pourri" coming debut have been explained to you. But you are not asked to buy tickets because the receipts are for charity and Company funds. Far from it. As a reader of THE VARSITY you are being given a splendid opportunity of seeing the "Pot Pourri", unimpeded, because of its special merit. You can't afford to miss it. Get a firm grasp of old opportunity's forelock and with your tickets in your other hand wave deservingly at those who waited till too late. The seats are going fast.

NOTICE.

The 2T1 Ancient History club will meet in Room 5, Library Building, Monday at 3 p.m. Subject of debate "Resolved that the present Union Government deserves the support of the people in the coming election". Affirmative, H. J. Stewart; negative, R. Smiley. Come and bring your ideas.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB HAVE DEBATE

Negative Awarded Decision

Ladies in Honour Economics Eligible for Membership

A meeting of the Political Economy Club was held on Friday last in the Library Building. The proceedings took the form of a debate, the subject of which was "Resolved that it is desirable that the food controller take all possible measures to reduce food prices."

Mr. V. O. Metchette the first speaker for the affirmative, endeavoured to prove that the fixation of prices would not decrease production or increase consumption to any injurious extent. But if such should be the case there were vast resources upon which there had been no drain, for example, the cereals used for alcoholic purposes could be conserved for food purposes.

The leader of the negative, Mr. D. C. Munro, followed with the assertion that production is the big factor in winning the war and that this is partially being automatically obtained by the prevailing high prices. Since wages are high, and everyone able to pay these high prices, they should be allowed to fix themselves through the substantial law of supply and demand.

Mr. Middleton, the second speaker for the affirmative, advanced the argument that the profits of the producer and the greedy middleman, whose profits at this time are exorbitant, should be cut by the food controller, and the benefit to the consumer may be appreciatively effected through the purpose of war bonds.

Mr. Ratcliffe concluding the argument for the negative, destroyed in a very capable and effective manner, some of the leading arguments of the affirmative. He pointed out the great obstacles in the way of drastic fixation of prices, which would almost involve a complete break-up in the social structure.

Prof. MacIver, and Messrs. Sweet and Troop, acting in their capacity of judges, brought in a decision in favour of the negative.

Mr. Salter then rose to present an amendment to the constitution of the Club. He pointed out the necessity for more members, and this could be brought about by permitting the ladies in Honour Economics to become members of the Club. After some discussion, Mr. Luke moved the adoption of the amendment that the membership of the Club be open to all students in Honour Economics, this to include the first year as well. This motion passed unanimously.

MR. CARLYLE, A MCGILL GRAD., WILL ADDRESS ENGINEERING SOCIETY

Will Speak on Rio Tinto Mines of Spain

"Yea, it is Spanish gold." Thus spoke the brave buccanniers when Spanish galleons roamed the seas.

Sunny Rio, the land of beauty; its vine-clad hills, and marbled palaces, its mystery are calling.

At the meeting of the Engineering Society on Wednesday next in the Mining Building, Mr. W. A. Carlyle will deliver a lecture—"A historical sketch of the Rio Tinto Mines of Spain."

These mines are probably the oldest mines now being worked. When the great Caesar went to Spain as the Roman legate, the Rio-Tinto mines had been producing for some time.

Mr. Carlyle is a McGill graduate, and a man with a world wide reputation. Every School man should turn out to hear him.

'VARSITY SOLDIERS WIN MORE HONOURS

Capt. Parker and Day Win M.C.

Gnr Gordon M. Shrum, Victoria, 1917, has been wounded. He enlisted with the 67th University Battery. His home is in Smithville.

Capt. Arthur Zillan Parker, of Humber Bay, has been awarded the Military Cross. He served earlier in the war with the Stationary Hospital at Exhibition Camp, later going to France with a Field Ambulance. He graduated in Medicine in 1914.

Capt. R. A. Ireland, M.D. '11, has been reported killed in action. He was medical officer to an early infantry battalion. His home is in Trenton.

Temp. Capt. Oswald John Day of the R.A.M.C., who was awarded the Military Cross last June, has now won the bar to the same. He was a Medical graduate of 1914, and his home is in Orillia.

Lieut. E. H. G. Worden, a former member of the University Overseas Training Company, and now of the Royal Berkshire Regiment, who was severely wounded last August, has received the Military Cross. He was a student in the F.O.E. of the year 1914. His home is in Guelph.

TORONTO UNION OF STUDENT VOLUNTEER BANDS ELECT OFFICERS

Dr. Balme Gave Interesting Address

The following officers were elected on the executive of the Toronto Union of the Student Volunteer Bands in the city:

President—Mr. S. G. Cole, McMaster.
Vice-President—Miss E. F. Jones, Anglican Training School.

Corres. Secretary—A. C. Taylor, Knox.
Recording Secretary—Miss N. R. Wiley, University College.

Candidate Secretary—R. S. Stone, Medical.

Treasurer—I. Halford, Victoria.

Dr. Balme, Professor of Surgery in Shantling Christian University, gave a very interesting address on the need for missionaries in the foreign field, to a union meeting of the Toronto Volunteer Bands, held in McMaster on October 31. All students, and especially the Medical students will be glad to hear that Dr. Balme will be back in the city again to speak in the Missionary Conference to be held in Toronto at the end of this month.

The next meeting of the executive of the Toronto Union will be held in the University Y.M.C.A. on November 26, at 4.15.

A UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE

At present several of the Colleges in the University publish monthly magazines. These are necessarily small publications and, as might be expected, are of interest only to the students of the College concerned. There is also in existence a monthly magazine, "The Rebel", to which all members of the University can contribute, and which all can read with some degree of interest. This paper is fairly satisfactory, as far as it goes; but it does not by any means reach the standard which a University monthly magazine ought to possess. The great defect of this paper is that very few know definitely who the editors are, and also that anybody can make anonymous contributions. For this reason articles, on subjects which have been hashed and re-hashed but still are important, appear written in such a manner that too great confidence is not placed in the management of the paper.

The very existence of these magazines, however, shows that there is in the University a demand for some form of publication beyond the ordinary "College newspaper". When such a demand is present it should find expression in a form that would not only embrace the whole University, but would also be worthy of the University.

Accordingly we make the suggestion to the Students' Administrative Council and the Women's Student Council that, at some time in the future, they take steps to found a real University magazine. All Faculties and Colleges in the University could send representatives to a central Board which would have direct control of the management of the paper. Members of the University would be at perfect freedom to contribute and, if necessary, Colleges, who wished to do so, might be given the privilege of having a page or more for their own exclusive use.

By such means THE VARSITY believes that a University paper in which all could take pride would be secured. It is felt, moreover, that only by the adoption of some plan resembling the above can this end be attained.

THE USE OF DEBATING

The Intercollegiate Debating Union held its inaugural debates for the Session 1917-18 at Trinity and St. Michael's Colleges on Friday night. In each debate the invading forces won, Osgoode Hall defeating Trinity and School of Science defeating St. Michael's, winners of last year's championship.

Debating is one of the few inter faculty functions which has survived throughout the stirring times to which the world is at present subjected. Outside of the intrinsic value of debating itself, it should be fostered for the excellent work it is doing in the following way. Owing to the decreased numbers in attendance at the University, most of the inter-faculty competitions have been discarded, and the tendency of the students from various faculties has been to associate only with one another. Little opportunity is given to all the students to meet together, and become acquainted, and this situation is to be sincerely deplored. One of the first aims of a University should be to teach its students how to meet the world. They can learn this only from intercourse with themselves. Those in attendance at universities during war times have to a large extent lost this phase of their education. Debating is one of the means of cementing the ties between the various faculties into a university in its true sense, and THE VARSITY sincerely hopes that Friday's auspicious beginning will be a criterion of what is to follow.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

In Wednesday's issue look for an article on "The Challenge of the Moment to Christian College men".

Remember the O.T.C. "Pot Pourri" next Friday night. The management desire the Hall to be filled. Students, fall in line for a ticket!

Science, 1T9", you jump at conclusions too quickly. The reporter of the School-Med game was present, and is not a freshman. He is a Second Year Medical student.

Members of the graduating year should assist the Torontonensis Board in the work of writing biographies and arranging sittings for photographs. If the editor's aim to have "Torontonensis" appear on March 1st is to be reached, the co-operation of every student concerned is needed.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

COLLEGE PESTS

I. Library Talkers.

One of the most virulent and obnoxious types of the undesirable student is the flashy young blade who enters the library occasionally and celebrates his arrival by a continuous rumble of conversation. He is usually one of those select individuals whose name, if it appears in the exam results at all, looks like this—"I. M. Demphool (Eng.; Lit.)".

On Saturday morning one of these loud-mouthed hunkies sauntered into the reading-room, spied one of his companions in arms and started a heated discussion. For a moment the subdued thunder stopped and every one started to settle down to work again. But their hopes were groundless. The disturber of the peace had merely stopped to borrow a piece of "Spacant" and was off again. Some of the ladies present could stand it no longer. They didn't stamp with their feet—oh dear no! They signified their disapproval by tapping on the table with pencils. For some reason this seemed to amuse the speaker greatly, and he burst into a loud guffaw and then went on talking about the way Haig ought to run the war. After a time he wore himself down and departed. The pleased expression on the faces of those present showed how popular he was when he was far away.

If the authorities persist in ignoring such breaches of regulations, the students should take it upon themselves to see that they are kept. If an offender continues making things unpleasant for every one around him, he ought to be taken up bodily by the other men present and be ejected from the premises.

THE STUDENT AS A "LIGHT DEMANDING" SPECIES

By M. SKI G

A recent editorial on Education and the Group System set me trying to draw a comparison between the student and the tree. However, the comparison is beset with pitfalls and, if I inadvertently blunder into one of these, please excuse me on any ground you wish, even ignorance.

Trees may be arrayed in a scale of tolerance, or in other words, their demands for light differs with different species. The student however, on the whole, is a light demanding or intolerant species, who does not gain his full mental development under too dense a shade. Protection indeed he needs during his early academic life. But too long continued shelter under the overbearing influence of the profs, stunts his growth, checks the development of his mental abilities and gradually causes his complete suppression.

In the case of the forest, the forester corrects this by a judicious use of the axe. Now see what I've done! Far be it from me to suggest the use of the axe on any of the professors or even to remotely intimate that a mild pruning might be beneficial.

But my point is this. During the first and second years, the lecture system as in vogue now is all right. But later on in the third and fourth years the seminar system should be adopted. This group system as suggested by the Editor, would tend to make the student develop his powers of argument and his ability to speak. It would lead him to dig up in the library all sorts of information so that he would come to these discussion groups, well prepared to hold up his end of the discussion.

This method has been followed largely in the Faculty of Forestry, where the smallness of the Senior class has made it possible. The professor in charge acts as a referee or guide, only interrupting when he has some information to emphasize the point under discussion. Each student is given some subject to look up—to become an authority on—as it were. He brings to the class in tabulated form, the result of his excavations, and doesn't spill them all in a bunch either at the professor or his fellow students, but takes up one point after another and calls for discussion. The Professor here comes in very handy as he can start the discussion himself, thus leading others to add their opinion.

St. Hilda's

The annual tea and sale was held on the afternoon of Thursday, November 8. The friends of the College gave their hearty support to this phase of its work, as was quite evident by the large attendance. The articles exhibited on the various tables were well worthy of the attention which they attracted. The display on the fancy-work, art, and baby tables comprises all that is dainty and serviceable. The cushions and pennants were a source of great admiration. Among the soldiers' comforts was found everything necessary for the packing of attractive overseas boxes. The home-made table also proved to be very popular. The fish-pond, with its green embankments and decorations of numerous aquatic creatures, was well patronized, and the surprises contained in it caused great amusement. The majority of those present visited the tea-room, where dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon.

A very successful day was brought to a close by an informal dance during which an action was held of several articles which had not been sold during the afternoon.

The proceeds of the sale, which usually go toward the support of the Makomoto Home, Japan, have during the last few years, been partially devoted to Red Cross purposes. This year it will be possible to give quite a large sum to that work.

Harvard—There will be no regular hockey team at Harvard this year. The New York Amateur Hockey Association has also decided not to play this winter.

Nebraska students will be given leave of absence to help with the harvest work in the corn fields.

MARTIN BEATS SHUGART IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Will Meet Rogers in the Finals
Saturday Afternoon

Although most of last year's stars are absent, the tennis tournament now in progress is nevertheless producing some new ones equally as good. Saturday afternoon Martin and Shugart met in the semi-finals and a battle royal resulted between these two new-comers. Martin won the first set rather easily by his steady playing. Shugart staged a comeback in the second set, and clearly outplayed his opponent. The third set was the most closely contested of the three. Shugart got away to an early lead, winning the first three games. Martin managed to win the next two games and Shugart the sixth, making the score 4-2 for Shugart. Then each won a game, making the score 5-3 for Shugart. Here is where Martin displayed the most excellent playing of the tournament. He gradually overcame his opponent's lead, and forged ahead 6-3. Shugart came back and made the score 6-4, but he couldn't stand Martin's pace and lost the next two games, by which Martin qualified to meet Rogers in the finals Saturday afternoon. A large crowd should be on hand to see these two stars play. Rogers went as far as the semi-finals last year, and on this year's form promises to put up a splendid game and a closely contested struggle may be expected.

The result of the playing the first few days is as follows:

Shugart defeated Harston 6-0, 6-1
Martin defeated Smith 6-4, 6-2
Rogers defeated Richardson 6-4, 0-6, 7-5
Martin defeated Shugart 6-2, 1-6, 8-6

Other Colleges

Kansas—Speaking of food conservation, the other day the outpost from the Sig Alf manor house saw a duck, three of them, in fact, sailing over the blue of Potter's Lake. He reported his discovery to the lord of the manor, who detailed four men to proceed to said lake and capture, in some manner, the fowl.

Down the men came, and, slipping carefully so as not to frighten their fatherly friends, skirted the lake. Finally the most daring envoy aimed at one bird—and hit it. Then, together with his conferees, embarked on a raft floating on the blue surface of the water and reached the dead duck. A young squire with a freshman cap carried the fowl home.

P.S.—We surmise that the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity had duck for dinner.

Pittsburgh—Reports from Pittsburgh state that the University will not make any claim to the eastern football championship this fall. This is as it should be, considering the fact that Harvard, Yale, and Princeton are not playing formal football and practically all the teams have lost most of their veterans through war service. Playing football is a fine thing, but it must not be considered as of championship class so long as the war continues.

Iowa—The Daily Iowan has started a campaign against profs who hold their classes over the hour. It seems that the faculty members have been holding a class over the hour for assignments and the like, and, as a result, the students get to class late and receive a talking to by their next instructor. The Iowan started the campaign by making a nice, neat square in their editorial column for the names of those men who hold their students over the hour, and the names as turned in by students will appear there.

New York—Gymnastics have been dropped from the list of sports at New York University. The main reason for this action is the lack of interest shown in the sport. In recent years, with the growing attention paid to basketball, there has been a decline in the prestige of the gymnasium team.

Illinois—The girls at Illinois have a plan by which they are getting cigarettes galore for the boys in France. Each young lady carries a cigarette case around with her, and when the boys pass the smokes they fill their cases. Simple though this plan may be, it is nevertheless very efficient.

California—The co-eds are allowed to knit in class. One of the professors advocated the practice, claiming that an enormous amount of work could be done while they were listening to the lectures.

Prof. M. (in Prep. German class)—"Mr. X—, will you please say that 'you admire me' in German?"
Mr. X—: "I can't admire anybody in German yet."

SOCCER REPS. FROM EIGHT COLLEGES MEET IN GYM.

ELECT OFFICERS

Teams Divided Into Two Groups and Schedule Drawn Up

A meeting of soccer representatives from eight teams was held in the gym on Friday night. The following were the teams represented: Victoria, O.T.C., Dents, Faculty, Pharmacy, McMaster, Wyckoff and S.P.S.

Nominations and elections were held with the following result: President—W. J. Browne, S.P.S. (re-elected); Smith, Wyckoff Vice-President; Mungovan, Vic. (Accl.).

Sec. Treasurer: Harker, Pharmacy (Accl.). Mr. Moffat of Faculty and Mr. Smith of Wyckoff were elected to serve on the executive. The teams were divided into two groups, and the schedule was drawn up.

Group I.

Nov. 15 Thurs. Faculty v. Victoria
Nov. 17—Sat. S.P.S. v. O.T.C.
Nov. 19—Mon. S.P.S. v. Faculty
Nov. 20—Tues. Victoria v. O.T.C.
Nov. 23—Fri. School v. Pharmacy.
Nov. 21 Sat. Faculty v. O.T.C.

Group II.

Nov. 14—Wed. McMaster v. Pharmacy.
Nov. 16—Friday. McMaster v. Dents
Nov. 17—Sat. Wyckoff v. Pharmacy.
Nov. 20—Tues. Dents v. Pharmacy.
Nov. 23—Friday. Wyckoff v. Dents
Nov. 27—Tues. McMaster v. Wyckoff

Games of Group II will be played on the front campus at 4:15 p.m. on other days, and 12:15 p.m. Saturdays. Group I will play most of its games on Victoria grounds. The winning teams in Groups I and II will play off one game for the cup.

A large seven passenger Rolls-Royce car stopped at the corner of Queen and Yonge streets. Just then a man came along at a furious rate with his Ford and bumped into it.

The traffic "cop" came over and said to the driver of the Ford—

"How long have you been driving a car?"

"About three weeks," replied the driver.

Cop—"Where do you come from?"

Driver—"County Cork, Ireland."

Cop—"Say, what did you let that other fellow back into you for?"

In Fleming Hall recently there appeared this notice:

"Prof. — will not meet his classes to-day."

Shortly after the notice was put up somebody rubbed out the "c" in classes. Later on somebody else rubbed out the next letter.

Q. "Why are a pigeon-toed man's feet like the German ships in American ports?"
A.—"Because they're both interned."

Have You Heard About It?

SOLDIERS' COURSES BEGUN.

A scheme that will doubtless be of material benefit to the soldiers in the Canadian training camps in England has been successfully launched at the Whitley Camp. Over 800 soldiers have enrolled in a course of university lectures covering the home curricula. These studies will be credited to the soldiers by the home universities, although the complete details in the working out of the scheme have not yet been decided upon. The work is supported by Major-General Sir R. Turner, and is in charge of Capt. Clarence Mackinnon, who was formerly principal of Pinehill Theological College, Halifax.

U.C. ATHLETIC ASSN. IS HARD UP FOR CASH

Men of University College be prepared to "shell out". In the near future you will be approached by your representative to the Athletic Association who will seek to abstract the small sum of 25 cents from you. This collection has been under way for the last week, but an obstinacy has been discovered on the part of certain years, notably the first, to part with the cash. No Athletic Association can be run without finances and it is not the part of a freshman to question the right of his representative to collect the fee. The money is being put to good use and the Society is doing its share in upholding the honour of the College. Let every man seek out his collector and force the money on him.

Say, Dad! S'pose a Man's 'Busted'

What you mean, Son, is—suppose a man's "hard up"? Why a man can never be but—"hard up" I mean—so long as he has a Victory Bond, for there's nothing in the world for which he can get the money more quickly.

He might possibly possibly I say, but not likely—lose a few cents upon it if times were very hard and he must sell it quickly, but any reliable broker can get him the money for it within an hour or two.

There will always be a market for such a good security. Then, too, after the war is over and we get back to regular living, in a few years, it is more than likely that these same Victory Bonds will be worth considerably more than is now paid for them.

Yes, Son, "no getting on the rocks," with a Victory Bond in your pocket it's a wonderful life preserver.

Trinity

An inter-college debate was held in Trinity College Convocation Hall, on the evening of November 9th, at eight o'clock. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, That the overseas dominions should have a voice in determining the foreign policy of Great Britain." The chairman of the evening was A. N. Young, Esq., M.A., D.C.L., of Trinity College. The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. W. S. Watson and E. F. Willis, Trinity, and Messrs. J. A. Grace and W. M. Unger, of Osgoode Hall, upheld the negative.

In opening the debate for the affirmative Mr. Watson took Canada as an example most interesting to all present. He advocated a Canadian representative of Imperial Council, living in London, England, and keeping in constant touch with Ottawa. "Imperial Federation," he said, "was a different thing from an Imperial Council, and undesirable, speaking of peace terms at the end of the war, he mentioned the fact that the whole Empire—having taken its part—should be represented in the decision."

Mr. J. A. Grace then opened the case for the negative, and stated that the system upheld by his opponents, not having been tried, it was advisable to keep to the existing state of affairs. In referring to Premier Borden's speech in the Commons on May 18th, he stated that he was more than ever convinced of the wisdom of the present policy. Canada, the speaker went on to state, does not need parliamentary advice from England.

In taking up the case for the affirmative again, Mr. E. F. Willis stated that Mr. Lloyd George openly said he was in favor of an Imperial Council. We back up Sir Robert Borden, in not wanting Imperial Federation, and we back him up in wanting an Imperial Council. We ask for an Imperial Council, in the name of democracy, to do away with democracy's own weakness, the power of the over rich. If Canada is to remain a part of the British Empire, the speaker stated, we must have some form of union. Citizens must realize they are not only citizens of Canada, but of the British Empire. Britain called an Imperial War Conference and will soon reap the benefit of it in men and money.

Mr. Unger then resumed the arguments for the negative, contending that an Imperial Council is a parliament—and the name merely a misnomer. To allow Canada to advise England is to resemble a child advising a parent, and if we interpret to England, we must allow her to do the same to us.

The leader of the affirmative, in his reply said, "We do not desire Imperial Federation, nor do we advocate overseas dominions dictating to England. We only ask a voice in foreign affairs."

The debate being brought to a close, the judges, who were Prof. E. Keir-teal, Father Oliver, and R. W. Allen, Esq., retired, and brought in their decision in favour of the negative.

The speeches from the men taking part in the debate were very good. Each had their own particular style. Some were quiet and calm, others were more heated and gesticulating in manner, but all of the speeches were enjoyed.

The evening was also made the more pleasant by vocal solos from C. F. Stent, Esq., B.A. and J. B. Skene, Esq., B.A., and also readings by Miss M. Robertson, and Mrs. M. C. Loughton, B.A., to all of whom the audience are very thankful for their display of talent.

M. AND P. SOCIETY HOLD OPEN MEETING

Prof. DeLury Gives Address

Last Thursday the first meeting of the Mathematics and Physics Society was held in the Physics building.

The meeting was largely attended by students, with the mathematics and physics staff and their wives as guests. After partaking of light refreshments the meeting was addressed by Professor DeLury on the Life and Work of George Russell.

Victoria

By the way of variation the regular meeting of the Victoria Y.W.C.A. was this time held in the cosy common room of the Victoria Students' Union on Thursday, November 8. After a pleasing solo by Miss M. Lovejoy '21, Miss Grant of the Toronto General Hospital delivered a very illuminating and instructive address. She spoke from first hand knowledge of the work coming under the scope of her department of Social Service. The meeting was so interesting that the members were loth to rise from the comfortable armchairs at the first chords of "Victoria".

Victoria College Patriotic Tea Room will be in charge of the graduates of '17 on Wednesday afternoon, November 14th. There will be good music all the afternoon, but a special violinist will play from 4 to 5-15. Unusually good things will be served in the Tea Room. Come and renew old acquaintances.

Relieved from the many duties of their sophomore year, the girls of 179 Victoria have resolved that this is their opportunity to weld themselves together in social activities.

The first of a series of informal evening entertainments was given at the Victoria Women's Student Union on Saturday evening by the members of the General Household Science course. This domesticated section of the class showed that it had surely profited by its instructions in the duties of hostesses.

Each course was requested to come in character, and a red ribbon allotted to the best representation. The ribbon was presented to "Philosophy"—the philosopher being much too intellectual to care about her personal appearance.

Improvised yells for the various courses called forth shouts of laughter.

St. Michael's

On Friday evening last, the first annual debate of the Inter-College Debating Union was held at St. Michael's College. The subject "Resolved that the private ownership of public utilities provides a more honest and efficient administration than public ownership."

Messrs. Keough and Toole upheld the affirmative for St. Michael's, whilst Messrs. Browne and Hamer of S.P.S. defended public ownership. Mr. John O'Lorne of St. Michael's acted as chairman. The judges were Prof. Hare, Prof. Duckworth and Mr. Skene.

Mr. Keough opened the debate for St. Michael's and in a very clear manner defined the various terms of the question. His examples where private ownership had succeeded were good and illustrated his arguments well.

Mr. Browne followed for the negative. He spent a short while criticizing the points of the first speaker and closed with a peroration of the arguments in favour of public ownership.

Mr. Toole was the next speaker. He took examples of cities on the Canadian West, and showed by statistics and information collected from authoritative sources, that public ownership had failed there.

In reply to the last speaker's argument, Mr. Hamer, the leader of the negative, told how conditions caused by the war had effected things in the West so that the examples could not be a criterion. Mr. Hamer spoke very forcibly. His rebuttal was of great value.

As leader of the affirmative, Mr. Keough replied. In five minutes he gave a witty and eloquent criticism of his opponent's arguments.

The judges then retired to consider their decision. Whilst they were gone Mr. F. Simpson gave a violin solo with his brother as accompanist. The clog dance by the two Keegan brothers was well appreciated, and they were encored several times.

Prof. Duckworth, as chairman of the judges, then announced that the negative had won the debate on style.

Cheers were given for S.P.S. "God Save the King" was then sung, ending a most enjoyable evening.

Wycliffe

The regular business meeting of the Literary Society was held on Friday in the Common Room, the president, Mr. V. G. Lewis in the chair.

A considerable amount of new business came up for discussion, the most exciting being the introduction of a motion calling for a vote of censure on the government for the slackness in providing books, magazines and papers for the reading room. The Rev. A. Simpson and Mr. A. P. P. Woodhouse, who were the moving spirits in this discussion, indulged in very scathing criticism. The motion carried.

Mr. Atkinson, speaking on behalf of the Christmas Boxes Committee, reported in a speech characterized by his unsurpassable Irish wit, that through the kindness of friends co-operating with the students, every undergraduate of the college serving with the colors would receive a box of good things for Christmas.

Mr. Dickinson gave a very able criticism of the proceedings after which the meeting adjourned.

Wins Leonard Scholarship.

Wycliffe College was fortunate in being one of the four colleges to share in the Leonard Foundation created by Lieut.-Col. R. W. Leonard, of St. Catharines, when he set aside $100,000, the income of which was to pay the way through college of worthy students who would otherwise be unable to obtain an education. One Wycliffe student has been awarded a scholarship this year throughout his college course. Only one application for the scholarship was received from Wycliffe. It is likely that the foundation will be considerably augmented by additional grants.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

MED. FRESHETTES HAVE INITIATION

The Verdant Ones are Put to the Test

At nine o'clock lecture on Tuesday morning the freshmen of 212 humbly sneaked in the lecture room with drooping spirits owing to the fact that hair refused to marcel and the green "F" was still visible on their frontal bone.
They were royally handled by their Seniors, and after taking the oath of allegiance to the sophs, were invited to partake in a most sumptuous repast of worms and stewed pancreas.

While their digestive apparatus was still in a precarious state, they were made to shoot the hoops, loop the loop, and do the figure eight.

The most unrefined freshe had to be anaesthetized and operated on by the most able surgeons of the third year for the purpose of removing the little "green" organism which ran riot in her brain.
The operation was most successful, the patient being humble and docile for the rest of the evening.

Though the freshmen outnumbered the sophs three to one, the sophs were masters of the situation.

MR. MOURÉ RENDERED A BRILLIANT ORGAN RECITAL YESTERDAY

Popularity of Recitals Evidenced by Large Attendance

Mr. Mouré gave another brilliant organ recital yesterday afternoon in Convocation Hall. The popularity of these recitals was evidenced by the large attendance.

The first number was the concert
Overture in E flat by William Faulkes, and is one of his most melodious works.
A somewhat extended Introduction, principally in C minor, leads into the Overture proper, which is in regular form and very well laid out for the maximum of effect in majestic tones and strong chords.

This powerful number was followed by a quiet and reposeful little composition by Bonnet, entitled Reverie. This is one of the most charming little pieces that Bonnet has written and lulls the tired mind and quiets the disturbed soul.

The third number was the intricate and impressive Prelude and Fugue in B minor by Bach. This piece shows great technical skill but is not the least bit impassioned.
A selection from "Les Heures Bourgeoises", by Georges Jacob, five of which were arranged in the form of a "Suite" was perhaps the most popular.

The first pictured the approach of dawn, the stillness gradually broken by the twittering of birds, and ending in a glorious outburst of sound as the sun rises.
The second is a simple shepherd's lay, quiet, but exceedingly sweet; the third a passionate love song, full of deep emotions, by the lovers resting beneath the tree. Then we have the country dance of the workers returning from the vines which is light, happy and gay. Finally evening closes in with the sound of the Angelus bell, and the organ in the village church, and one feels the peacefulness of evening approach as the full symphony tones resound.

The final number, Toccata, Symphonie
V. by Charles Marie Widor, which is perhaps his best known and popular movements, is a brilliant and exciting
"perpetuum mobile", with a sweet melody running through it.

An encore, which was a stirring, brilliant march, concluded the delightful program.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND MEN

"THE CHALLENGE TO COLLEGE MEN"

J. P. HAGERMAN

What days these are through which we are passing. These are testing times for men and movements, for the elements of our life are undergoing a mighty change.
The superficial is giving place to the real,
the counterfeit is replaced by the genuine;
and all the standards of life are in the process of readjustment. In our social and national life old things are passing away. Our whole civilization is in the melting pot, and the world can never be the same again. The social order of to-morrow must be reconstructed, and college men must largely determine what its character shall be.

Toronto University men of to-day cannot evade their personal responsibility, which this hour imposes. All through this world war, college men, fighting under many flags, and dying for God and country, have shown the true spirit of sacrifice and service, and to-day there stands beside each College man the spirits of former comrades who have paid the debt they owed with their life's blood.
They hand to you a challenge—a challenge to live—to live more abundantly. They trained to serve and die in France; you are called to live and serve in Canada.
They died to help others find a new way to life. You must so live that by their death others may find a new pathway to better living too.

Oh men, the "sacrifice hit" play is called for to-day as never before. I know

MARTIN, TENNIS CHAMPION

Defeats Rogers in the Finals on Monday Afternoon

The curtain was rung down on the tennis tournament this year, when Rogers (U.C.)
and Martin (Trinity) met in the finals.
Monday afternoon. For a championship game there appeared to be little interest taken, judging by the small number of spectators present, although the playing was quite up to the standard of former years. Martin who emerged the victor, has been the sensation of the tournament as his playing throughout has been of the stellar type and deserves the honours.

The first set went to Rogers and was the only one which he won. Martin got away to a good start, winning the first two games, but fell down in his playing for the rest of the set and Rogers had no difficulty to win.

Martin began to round into form in the second set, which he was after a see-saw contest. He had the best of Rogers in the pinches, and often when his opponent had him in the hole, he overcame the lead by steady and well-directed drives. Rogers was a little off form in his serving, but made up for it by his beautiful back-hand playing.

The third set was almost a repetition of the second, and Martin also won it, by a strong finish. Rogers got away to a good start in the fourth set, and won the first two games. This, however, did not dismay Martin, and he won the next three.
Rogers then made it 3-3. Here is where he made his best attempt to force ahead, playing spectacular tennis, and time after time got the advantage, but always to have
Martin even it up, and finally to win out.
The winning of this set gave Martin the championship. The score by sets were 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

UNIVERSITY vs. BEACH CHESS GAME THURSDAY

Well Contested Game is Expected

The University is about to commence the new season in the Toronto Chess League. The complete schedule will appear later, but the University Chess Club meets the Beaches Chess Club on Thursday night. They will play six men aside, the 'Varsity representatives being Professor Mavor, Principal Hutton, Dean
Fernow and Mr. Mouré. The Beaches team is known to be very strong and it is important that the best men should be chosen to represent the University.

Professor Mavor was at one time champion of Canada, and Dean Fernow has been champion of Toronto, so that Thursday's contest should see some first class play.

The only other game that has been as yet arranged will take place against the Parliamentary Club next week. But, as return games with both this club and the Beaches Club are to be arranged, it is hoped that all undergraduates who are interested in chess will come forward and offer their abilities in this direction to defending the reputation of their University against her challengers. Unfortunately, since the war, the part played by undergraduates in this club has been steadily declining. There is no finer game to develop in men the power of clear thinking, and this opportunity of matching his wit and skill against the wit and skill of grown men should be seized by all who know the game, no matter how slightly.

The Chess Club owes a great deal to graduate members for valuable assistance in organizing and preserving interest in the Club; in fact it is hardly too much to say that without the efforts of two or three of these, the club would have been dissolved.
If a few more of the students would join the club there is no reason why correspondence games should not be carried on with American universities.

Every year there is a match between the students and the Faculty, and, as the results of the past twenty years of the Club's life will show, the honours have by no means always rested with the latter.
Get together, chess players, join the Club and help to give the Faculty another beating this year.

For information address the Secretary of Membership, Mr. K. B. O'Brien, U.C. post office.

Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a meeting of "The Varsity" Staff in Room 4 in the Main Building. All the members of the Staff are earnestly requested to be present. Remember—
Date—Thursday, Nov. 15.

PROF. S. MATHEWS PREACHES SUNDAY IN CONVOCAION HALL

Will Address Bloor St. Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening

Prof. Shailer Mathews, of University of Chicago, who preaches Sunday, has been secured by Bloor St. Presbyterian Church to give a vocational address Sunday night at that church. Bloor Street Church is paying particular attention this year to young people's work, and services specially suitable for students have been arranged.

The first one will be on Sunday evening, when Prof. Mathews will deliver an address to all interested in a life work talk.
Students who wish to take advantage of this opportunity should be there early in order to get a seat. Bloor Street Presbyterian Church is on corner of Bloor and Huron.

TWO MORE VARSITY GRADUATES PAY THE SUPREME SACRIFICE

One Graduate and Two Undergraduates Gassed, and Two Wounded

Pte. Frederick Stanley Albright has been killed in action. He enlisted as a private in June, 1916, being promoted sergeant in October of the same year.
He was posted to a reserve battalion in England, later crossing to France. His wife resides in Calgary. He was a graduate of Victoria College of 1908

Gnr. James R. Chapman, who was wounded on October 28th died of wounds.
He enlisted with the 49th Battery, C.F.A., and was transferred to another unit in France. He had been wounded before, on April 30th. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1916.
His parents live in Sault Ste. Marie.

WOUNDED.

Professor Carruthers has received word that his son, Sergt. Lieut. L. Keith Carruthers has been admitted to No. 2 Stationary Hospital, Abbeville, France, suffering from severe wounds in the knee. Sergt. Lieut.
Carruthers went overseas in the Spring of 1916, with the second draft from the C.O.T.C. He trained at Shoreham for some time, later being sent to a cadet battalion at Oxford. He took his machine gun course at Grantham, where he received his commission. He crossed to France in May, 1917, and was serving with a machine gun company of the Imperial army at the time he received his wounds.

Lieut. C. G. M. Grier, son of E. Wyly Grier, R.C.A., has been wounded for the third time. He went overseas as a lieutenant with an ammunition column, but transferred to a howitzer battery.
He was a Trinity College student of 1919.

Corporal B. B. Patten of St. George,
Ontario, has been gassed. He enlisted as a gunner with the 55th Battery, later being promoted bombardier. He transferred in March, 1917, to another battery, voluntarily, to be moved in a draft to France.
He was a B.A.Sc. of 1904

Bombardier R. L. Seaman, of Port Arthur, has been gassed. He enlisted with one of the batteries recruited from the University in March, 1915, but when that was broken up, he was transferred to another as signaller, and later received his promotion to bombardier. He was recommended for a decoration after Vimy Ridge and was next to Lieut. Bright when he was killed. He belonged to the Class of 1916, Victoria College.

Bombardier Thomas Earl Walker, of Mountain, has also been gassed. He enlisted with a University battery in March, 1915. He was a dental student of the year 1917.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA AT O.T.C. CONCERT

Members to be Chosen at Next Practice

The University Orchestra held an enthusiastic and well-attended meeting in the University "Y" on Monday evening.
A very efficient leader has been obtained in the person of Lieut. John Slatter of the famous 48th Highlanders'
Band. As the success of an organization of this kind ultimately depends on the leader, a very successful season is hoped for.

The orchestra will make its debut at the O.T.C. concert on Friday evening next.
Only fourteen men will be required for this entertainment and these will be chosen at the next practice on Friday. Be one of these by turning out for a two-hour practice on that night.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

A meeting of the University College Athletic Association will be held in THE

"HOW TO THINK"

Below is reprinted an editorial from the Daily Kansan, on a subject akin to those recently discussed in THE VARSITY:

"The fundamental purpose of securing an education is to learn how to think. Yet the great number of students that leave college without having attained this ideal is astonishing.

"All students have ideas of their own; but if we trace them down we will find the ideas of the great majority of them are identical with things they have heard or read. They adhere to certain dogmas because Professor So-and-So does, or because such-and-such a book says thus and so. Certainly a student deserves sympathy when someone else has to tell him what to do or what to think.

"However, when one can firmly and conscientiously hold his private opinion against all the opposition discoverable; when one stand the abuse and criticism heaped upon him by his enemies and come out of the struggle with a stronger basis than ever for the foundation of his thoughts; when, through deep insight and clear reasoning, one can delve so far into certain subjects of special interest to him that he can search in vain from the basement to the roof of the library for subject matter pertaining to that specific topic; when one can carry the interpretation of an idea still farther than its last modern application—then that person can think for himself. A few students can do this. Many more cannot.

"Original thinking is the essence of leadership. To it is due every progress and reform ever brought about in this world. Hence, on the shoulders of the few who possess it rests the responsibility of steering the ship of humanity.

"The failure to teach students to think is the most serious charge ever made against our present educational system; but it is one that must be faced.

If the Kansan had suggested that students should learn also to appreciate the opinions of others, and not only to hold to "private opinion against all the opposition discoverable"; then THE VARSITY could agree with the ideas contained above.

1918 U.C. SETS A PRECEDENT

Elsewhere in to-day's issue appears a report of the Class Meeting held yesterday by the fourth year of University College. At this meeting two radical changes in the usual programme of a year's activities were made.

One of these was the abolition of the usual Class Reception and the adoption of the policy of holding more Class Meetings. Such a change was made inevitable by the conditions existing to-day, but at the same time it sets a precedent in the annals of life at this University.

The Executive recommended that the money, which would otherwise have been spent on the Reception, be used to erect a Class Memorial to those in the Year who have fallen at the front. This recommendation was unanimously adopted by the Class.

Credit thus goes to the Class of 1918 U.C. that its members are the first to set the precedent of erecting a Class Memorial. In addition, moreover, this Memorial is for a cause which no one can gainsay. The purpose of the movement to erect a memorial was only in order that the Class as a whole might leave a slight token of appreciation to those men in the Class who have fallen in the present war. Such a sentiment on the part of the whole class is well worthy of praise; and THE VARSITY hopes that the Board of Governors will give the recommendation of the Class its sympathetic consideration.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A few tickets for "Pot Pourri" on Friday next are left. Students desiring to enjoy an evening's good entertainment would do well to buy a ticket.

The signs on the campus soliciting subscriptions to the VICTORY LOAN are meant for something else than mere decoration. This Loan offers a chance for all students remaining at the University to help their country.

Fourth Year students should co-operate with their representatives on the Torontonensis Board, and give every assistance in the work of arranging sittings for photographs, and writing biographies. The Editor's aim to have this year's edition out by March the first will not be fulfilled unless he receives such support from all the students concerned.

To-morrow the first meeting of THE VARSITY Staff will be held in Room 4 of the Main Building at 4 o'clock. A general outline of the duties of every member of the Staff will be given, and in addition all present will receive some idea of the attitude which THE VARSITY wishes to take to all matters pertaining to the University.

This may be the only opportunity that members of the Staff will have of meeting one another, and for this reason alone no one should be absent. To-morrow, Room 4 at 4 o'clock. Be there.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Would it be intrusion for me to suggest that the death of a student-soldier should be given more than a passing mention in THE VARSITY? Surely his work and his death for us are not realize or appreciated or this suggestion would not be necessary.

In your issue of Wednesday, the few lines in the bottom right hand corner on the death of one of Varsity's students, stands in marked contrast to the two columns devoted to recent honours won. The two columns might have been four without being overdone or crowding out news of any very important character.

But dying in action, sir, reflects the richest gift of all and might have brought a thought or two for the editorial page. I do not ask your price for these men. They do not want that, nor will mere words of praise do any good. But your editorials might be made to stir up the minds of all men to a realization that a war is on and has been on, and that we have not yet won.

And, in passing, you point with pride to those recently honoured. Rightly so. Can they point back with the same pride to the Varsity of to-day? Can there be any love left for the old institution once so dear to them? Has Varsity given them the backing it should have given? Is Varsity worthy of their efforts? These questions I leave for you to answer.

I am,
Yours,
"FOR SERVICE."

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,

Immediate attention should be given to the unsanitary condition of the University gymnasium, where the men are drilled who are considered unfit to take their place in the Officers' Training Corps. The building is too small to accommodate the large classes that drill there and the floor apparently has never been properly cleaned. Round this place sixty men are made to double two or three times until the air is filled with flying dust and the atmosphere is churned into a fog. Care is taken to see that this dust does not escape through any window, and the class is then ordered to take deep breathing exercises.

Every man of spirit is anxious to be sent to an unhealthy position—at the front; but back of the lines it should be the policy of the authorities to see that men in training are kept fit and not poisoned by gas or dust before they have the chance to get to the front. As citizen soldiers in training and students under the protection of the University, the men of these classes claim their right to be protected from the negligence of those who are responsible for these disgraceful conditions.

"D.I."

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

In Friday's issue "Science 1T9" also voices the sentiments of Meds and certainly puts the case in its proper light.

The report of the game was strongly indicative of the fact that the reporter had resorted to parasitism and his own imagination. We don't object to criticism when that criticism is fair; but we do ask that credit be given where credit is due.

Thanking you for the space,
"MED THREE".

To-Day's Poem

BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE.

"Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

Shall we pay tribute to an overlord
Who claims the right to conquer at his will,

Who yields his might to devastate and kill

Whoever bids defiance to his sword?

Or will we rise in fury and record

Our opposition, and with all our skill
Strike hard, in righteous wrath, against the ill

That makes the name of Germany abhorred?

By all the precious lives that have been spent!

We offer as a tribute not a cent;

And counting not the cost the choice entails,

Since tight may not be weighed against expense,

We throw on duty's disc into the scales

The billions which we offer for defense.

OPEN EVENINGS

GUY FAWKES INITIATION AT QUEEN'S HALL

On Friday evening the sophomores of Queen's Hall held their annual initiation for University College freshmen.

The seat of action this year was the pirate ship "Bugsby". Floating the ominous death-ray, the skull and cross bones, and manned by bloodthirsty sailors in pirate garb, this vessel sought to initiate its crew of innocent freshmen as it sailed across the equator. Worn handed Father Neptune, in whose honour the initiation was carried out, seated in the midst of the ship with a gardener's fork in hand as a trident, passed judgment upon the various sentences. As the piquant was passed, a terrific thunderstorm rose and in inky blackness, illuminated only by occasional flashes of lightning, and a mournful drage upon the piano which was to represent the pirates, who commenced their tortures as soon as light appeared again. Some, as trained dogs, were made to bark and jump and various other feats, urged on by the pirates' pet, a well represented monkey, others had to explain and illustrate the meaning of such words as "mastication", and "visitation", while one unfortunate victim, wearing the name of "Crimin", was wrapped up and thrown to the fishes.

These, and many other tortures were carried out by the pirates, all the time chanting humorous and suitable parodies. Quite different was the idea carried out by the fourth year. This was the "Passing Show of 1918". Behind a curtain, which parted at the centre, a succession of "visions" of the probable future of the seniors was shown.

Four wonderfully startling choruses in line and waltz, with their gay "gentlemen" partners, danced and sang suitable parodies, while two very official bell boys arranged the curtain and showed the p. ards as each vision appeared.

"Father Time" was seen leading away the freshmen, who has now become a senior, then one by one appeared the future bride with her hero husband, the vampire, the deaconess, the actress, the stenographer, the artist, and a second Melanie Pavlov.

The third year represented a caricature, the wildest of its kind. Here were seen extraordinary handsome "gentlemen" in full dress suits, giddy young girls in evening dress and even such notable characters as Pauline and Matt and Jeff. Tables were waited upon by three dark waiters, whose skill at handling dishes, serving cigarettes and holding trays in precarious positions was truly marvellous.

An exhibition of the latest waltz certainly demonstrated the inferiority of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cook.

P. d. w. ski, a wonderful representation of the original, tickled the seniors in a truly professional manner, while Matt and Jeff flirted with the ladies and caused endless amusement with their jokes and witty dialogue, and slow waltzes, and bow and coquette.

MULOCK CUP GAME EASY FOR O.T.C. TEAM

Victoria Failed to Score

Yesterday afternoon a rather one-sided rugby match was played between O.T.C. and Victoria at the Stadium. The physical condition of the soldiers gave them a decided advantage over the Victorians.

The game commenced at 4:30 and the latter part had to be played in the dark. The score at half-time was 17-0 in favor of O.T.C. and 32-0 at the final.

211 HISTORY DEBATING CLUB HELD MEETING

Interesting Hour Was Furnished on Monday

The meeting of the 211 History Debating Club, held Monday furnished an interesting hour. The fifteen members present were all given a chance to exchange views on the topic, "Resolved that the present Union Government deserves the support of the people in this election". The leaders, Messrs. H. J. Stewart and R. Smith of the affirmative and negative respectively, in fifteen-minute speeches, each brought forward many excellent points. The other members also expressed their views, the majority favoring the affirmative. Next Monday, Messrs. Heaton and Laughlin will debate on "Resolved that German immigrants be excluded from Canada after the successful close of the war for the Empire". Don't forget to come at 3 p.m., Monday.

THE BOOK WORM TURNS

The sudden descent of the "Snowbird" upon the peaceful precincts of the U of T Library, and the accompanying black froth thereon, happen of course like most unpleasant things on a Friday.

"Dear me," sighed the Book Worm from his perch on the topmost shelf, "I don't see how they stand it." He referred to the sight of a few girls running up and down flights of stairs carrying heavy volumes, in a heroic but vain attempt to cope with the stream of professors and students who appeared in a rush at intervals. To be sure there was an elevator, but the girls, finding Shrink's pony much quicker, rather than keep them waiting, did not spare themselves. Just then his attention was attracted by a student, who asked for a book he had seen in the reading room last year—"It had a red cover," he said vaguely.

The Book Worm snorted and his small eyes glowed indignantly as the girl, with a hopelessly resigned expression, meekly turned in a brave attempt to do his bidding. The Book Worm glanced pityingly at the row of students lined up at the desk. "Poor dears," he murmured, "if they only knew what they wanted, it would be such a help. How excellent is our motto: 'Speed is criminal,' especially when not sure of the direction. Graciously!"

A heavy thud on the roof announced the Snowbird's arrival with THE VARSITY. Hurriedly unrolling himself from the pages of a book, entitled "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," the Book Worm adjusted a pair of pink nez and perused the columns carefully.

"What a miserable bird!" he exclaimed eventually and rang for attention. "Cluster around and listen to this." He proceeded to read aloud. A haughty query of "Who is this bird?" greeted him at the conclusion. "An impudent fellow of course my dears, but that's not the point. What is your defence?"

A small pale girl, who might have been good-looking if she had not been over-worked, rose. "Well," she said thoughtfully, there are one hundred and fifty thousand books, approximately and possibly two hundred subdivisions and several thousand students and professors. Nobody short of a magician could know to what subject a book belonged merely by the title, or half the title, or one word of the title. Great assistance could be rendered by looking it up in the catalogue room and adding the shelf mark to the slip. Legible handwriting would also facilitate matters, but," she added, "I'll admit it is barely possible that in a rush a professor might be overlooked, but a Varsity student never!" She patted her hair significantly and sat down.

"Then a dark girl spoke. 'The Snowbird', should, by the way, feel at home in an Arctic Zone, is right about us not repeating a lecture—we haven't any."

She blushed off.

Uncurling a few million legs he waddled piously off.

STUDENTS DEBATE ON OLD SUBJECT

The Students' Debating Society, composed of members of the Ancient History Class, held their first meeting, Monday afternoon, between three and four o'clock in room V at the Library.

Before proceeding with the topic for the day, the election of officers took place. John Laughlin was elected President, H. J. Stewart, vice president, and P. C. Finlay secretary.

The topic, an old stand-by in debating circles, "Resolved that women should have the right to vote," was thoroughly discussed.

H. J. Stewart ably upheld the responsibility of leadership of affirmative in opening address. He was followed by John Laughlin, who debated excellently. Then every member of the Society was given an opportunity to deliver a short address.

At the end of the debate a vote was taken to determine the private opinion of members regarding the topic and the majority favored the affirmative.

It is hoped that a larger number will be present next Monday, November 12, when the Debating Society holds their next meeting.

Tell Me, Dad! What's a Coupon?

The word Coupon, my son, is really French and means "something cut off." It comes from the French verb "Couper" to cut.

On a Coupon Victory Bond, there are a lot of tickets like little bank bills, each one dated and good for six months interest on that bond. When that date comes you just "Couper" or cut off the ticket or "Coupon," take it to any bank, and they will hand you out the money—not like trying to collect a bad debt, is it? Just "as easy as rolling off a log," as you say.

The "Coupon" shows the bank that you are entitled to the interest just the same as the "Coupon" of a reserved seat ticket at the theatre or Massey Hall shows you are entitled to that particular seat—no one else can get it.

By the way, that's where the name of the carriage known as a "Coupe" comes from. It is a "cut off carriage" something smaller than a full-sized coach.

I guess you think cutting off Coupons from a Victory Bond for 5 1/4 per cent. interest is a good deal better fun than having to "Couper" a pile of wood on a saw horse, don't you?

S.P.S.

School of Practical Science were easy winners over Trinity College in a Mulock Cup game at Varsity Stadium yesterday. The score was 24 to 6. School had much the heavier line, and tore holes through their lighter opponents almost at will. The game was late in starting, and the last quarter was played in darkness. S.P.S. led at half-time, 6 to 1. In the dying minutes of the game Trinity grabbed a pass in the dark and went over for a try to bring their total up to six. McIntyre did some nice catching and running for the winners. The teams:

S.P.S. (24)—Flying wing, Lansberg; halves, McIntyre, Bysle, Sager; quarter, Ellis; scrimmage, Pearson, McDonald, Beck; scrumage, Pearson, McDonald, Beck; insides, Hill, Bennett; middles, Samuels, Kischel; outsides, Johnson, Prendergast.

Trinity (16)—Flying wing, Ramsay; halves, Clark, D. Martin, Patterson; quarter, Davidson; scrimmage, Hurd, Stephen, Jones, insides, Willis, Bender; middles, Lowe, C. Martin; outsides, Gossage, Noble.

The Electrical and Mechanical Club held their opening meeting in the Engineering building on Monday afternoon. Nominations and votes were taken for the offices of vice-president and first year representative, and the following results arrived at.

Vice President—Mr. E. W. McLeod.
1st Year Rep.—Mr. Keith McLean.
It will be seen that the Scotch are still to the fore as engineers.

Mrs. C. K. Duff of the fourth year, gave a very interesting address on water-wheel generators. He included both horizontal and vertical types, and spoke of the chief features in the design and operation of these machines. The meeting was enjoyed thoroughly by all present and closed with promises of more meetings in the near future, to say nothing of a strong hint about a "dinner" to be held soon.

The executive of the Literary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. F. B. Clark, 635 Huron Street this afternoon at 4.15.

St. Hilda's

The Y.W.C.A. hike took place on the afternoon of Saturday, November 10th. Quite a large number took advantage of this occasion to spend a few hours in the country and it was a merry crowd which after alighting from the car at Sunnyside tramped out to the Humber River. Soon after arriving here, a bonfire was burning briskly and then all experienced the delights of roasted wieners and coffee. The walk back to the city late in the afternoon was enlivened with yells and songs, and on their return all voted that a most enjoyable afternoon had been spent.

On Sunday, November 11, Miss Cameron of Moulton College, gave the girls of the Y.W.C.A. an entertaining talk on the Forest School in Victoria Park, where she was formerly a teacher. The forest schools of Toronto are the only institutions of their kind in Canada, and as the majority of people have only a vague idea of their use, it was interesting to get a more definite knowledge of their methods and the splendid results which have been obtained by them.

BULLETS OF GOLD.

Few Materials from which Bullets Have Not Been Fashioned.

The recent recovery of a silver bullet from the leg of a Frenchman at Verdun recalls the days when thousands of Sardinians and Austrians were sent to their death by similar missiles fashioned from the alter-silver taken by Napoleon's soldiers from Italian churches.

Bullets of solid gold, too, have been used with deadly effect. It is said that thousands of lives have been taken by them in the Mexican wars, and the favorite bullet of the Kashmir warrior was for long a garnet, enclosed in lead, which he regarded as a certain messenger of death!

There are, indeed, few materials from which bullets have not been fashioned, from iron and aluminum to copper and brass. They have been steeped in deadly poisons, filled with explosives and acids, and have been made heavy with mercury. In the Crimea many a soldier, when his bullet pouch was empty, fired his ramrod as a parting salute to the enemy; and in the Peninsular War one of our most gallant colonels was found dead with a silver pencil-case embedded in his heart.—Tit-bits.

U.C. WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Dr. Fairley will Address the Society

On Saturday evening the common room at the Women's Union witnessed the third regular meeting of the U.C. Women's Literary Society. The business part of the meeting concerned the nominations for year representatives for the oratorical contest and the intercollegiate debate, the voting to take place in the cloak room on Friday, November 23. After a delightfully rendered and much appreciated pison solo by Miss Cornett, the president called on Dr. Fairley, the speaker for the evening.

Those who have never heard Dr. Fairley speak, cannot be altogether pitted, for they still have something delightful to look forward to. Throughout he held the sympathetic attention of his audience, almost as much through his own inimitable style and personality as by his subject matter.

He spoke first of the difficulty experienced in reading Conrad due to his treating his story reminiscently, as events already enacted and set forth regardless of the time sequence. He contrasted him with Hardy, who represents events as happening as the story unfolds; the psychologist gleaming clearness out of chaos as opposed to chaos resulting from an abundance of clearly defined ideas. He spoke of his style as made great by beauty of simile, the instrument by which he blinds the natural and supernatural, the material and the spiritual. Each point was vividly realized by representative passages from various of his works as "Nostromo", "Lord Jim" and "The Shadow Line", his latest book. Dr. Fairley concluded with a brief sketch of Conrad's life—the sailor and cosmopolitan. The enthusiastic applause, following a vote of thanks, signified the keen appreciation and interest felt by all those present.

News of Our Student Soldiers

In a letter received this week from Lieut. P. H. DeGruchy, 20th Battalion, C.E.F., at Witely Camp, "Hal" says: "I am busy just now playing rugby. We have a very good team and are trying for the league championship. There are four teams from Bexhill, Shoreham, Seaford and Witely camps. We play Seaford next Saturday. Jack Maynard (Varsity), Jeff Marani (U.C.C.) and myself will most likely be the half-backs, as Al Ramsay (Varsity) is away taking a course. Pete Campbell (Varsity) is playing quarter and Doug Gardner (Varsity) is outside wing. Dave McCann, of Ottawa, is the other outside and Gordon MacLaren, flying wing. Ireland of the Hamilton Tigers is in the scrumage, and George Adams inside wing. It will look like an old-time Saturday afternoon at Varsity Stadium."

C. O. T. C.

The old "L" Company of previous year's is to be re-organized into Class IV of the Department of Military Studies. This is the outcome of the new ruling under the M.S.A. with regard to Dental students. This class will be under the command of Lieut. N. E. Willmott, who will arrange for a parade ground and carry on drill similar to that of the other classes.

With regard to attendance it might be pointed out again that this drill is a regular part of a University course, and if neglected the delinquent will be treated as he would in any other department. If you miss your laboratories you know what happens. If you miss drill you will be treated similarly.

AN EXPLANATION.

An explanation is due the members of the Class of 1921 U.C. A report of the nomination meeting held last Friday came to THE VARSITY office and was set up in type. Later a second report was handed in by Mr. Taylor, acting secretary of the meeting. This report differed materially from the first one, and as a result neither one appeared in Monday's issue. To-day we publish the official list of nominations. We might state that no blame attaches to Mr. Taylor in any way.

Washington—"The University of Washington has been struck about as hard a blow to its man power as any college in the country," said Coach Hunt recently. "One-third of the men registered last year left college to join military organizations, and the football turnout suffered accordingly."

Victoria

About 8 o'clock last Friday evening an enthusiastic group of girls met at the Union the occasion being the first meeting of the newly-organized Victoria College Ladies' Dramatic Club.

The attraction of the evening was a speech on "Dramatics" by Colonel Massey.

Colonel Massey said that there is no necessity for the commercial theatre to be in disrepute if the public mind is educated to demand and appreciate only what is best on the stage and if this were so, the saying that "actresses will happen in the best regulated families"—would no longer have any support. But the gallery has to be taught to distinguish between the imitation and the real.

As a result of the realization of this fact, there is sprung up in various American cities a non-commercial theatre known as the "Little Theatre" which has devoted to the true representation of dramatic art. This theatre is rapidly gaining in popularity and in the influence which the few who are able to discriminate, are having upon the minds of the public in general. They are also trying to combine the purely literary and the purely pictorial type of play and to introduce good music and clever comedy. Colonel Massey, after reading the Club Lord Dunsany's charming play, "The Gilded Gate," closed his speech with a few well-chosen words of advice regarding amateur dramatics.

The applause by which the girls showed their interest and appreciation of Colonel Massey's speech showed that the love of dramatics is not yet dead in Victoria.

This is the first of a series of four meetings which the Club has arranged and if all are as loyally supported, and as interesting as the first, then Victoria's newest Club will not fall far behind the rest in "carrying on".

THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

CLASSICAL ASSN. MEETS

Prof. Carruthers Gives Paper on "Aeschines"

The U.C. Classical Association held its first meeting for the session '17-18 on the evening of November 14, at the home of Professor Carruthers. The Association is not in the habit of descending to business detail, which was doubtless the reason for its failure to call for the election of a first year. It is hoped that the accident will not result in a secession of the freshmen, as their numbers make a most welcome addition to the membership.

Professor Carruthers, in introducing his paper on "Aeschines", was careful to disclaim any intention of interesting his audience, provided he could instruct it, with the result that the audience became interested in being instructed. The paper sketched the rival careers of the orators Aeschines and Demosthenes, and suggested the value of a study of Greek oratory for the determination of Greek in ancient custom and law. A delightful musical programme was contributed by guests and the evening ended with the singing of College songs.

ANGLICAN CLUB SPENDS ENJOYABLE TIME OVER RED CROSS WORK

Nominations Completed—Elections Carried Out

On Wednesday afternoon the Anglican Club met once more at the Deaconess' Training School on 179 Gerrard Street. A most enjoyable time was spent over Red Cross Work, while amid the tinkling of tea cups and the ruddy glow of a blazing gas fire, the deaconesses served a dainty tea.

The full executive not having been quipped up to date, nominations were made for vice-president, secretary, first year representative and faculty representative.

Vice-President—Mary Smart and Alfreda Elliott.

Secretary—Helen Rankin and Kathleen Osman.

1st Year Rep.—Misses Broadbridge and Belton.

Faculty Rep.—Miss V. Wright.

Owing to the lateness of the year, elections were also carried out, and the executive now stands as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. Griffith Thomas.

Deaconess Rep.—Miss Watts.

President—Miss Gwendoline Hiles.

Vice-President—Miss Mary Smart.

Secretary—Miss Helen Rankin.

Treasurer—Miss B. Irwin.

4th Year Rep.—Miss Gladys Bruce.

3rd Year Rep.—Miss Majorie Cook.

Faculty Rep.—Miss V. Wright.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday, November 27, at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas, 42 St. George Street, when Mrs. Thomas will address the members of the club and a short programme will also be given.

U.C. SOPHOMORES ALSO INDULGE IN ELECTIONS

The elections for the Class Executive of 270 U.C. took place on Wednesday in Room 11, and resulted in the following being elected:

President—M. D. C. Laib.

1st Vice-President—Miss Hewitt.

2nd Vice-President—Miss K. Patrick.

Secretary—H. J. Strong.

Treasurer—W. Oliphant.

1st Historian—Miss O'Hair.

2nd Historian—M. Rogers.

Athletic Rep.—F. A. Silverman.

1st Year Lady Councillor—Miss Ross.

2nd Year Lady Councillor—Miss Grey.

1st Year Gent Councillor—B. Underwood.

2nd Year Gent Councillor—W. J. D. Archibald.

Prophetess—Miss Pringle.

Poetess—Miss Chambers.

Judge—M. Parker.

Musical Director—Miss Connolly.

*Elected by acclamation.

CLASS 1T8 MEETING MAKE NOMINATIONS

Addressed by Class President, Formerly of "Princess Pat's"

On Tuesday afternoon the fourth year held their first class meeting at the University Union on College Street. Quite a large gathering was present, although the absence of the men was considerably noticeable.

The meeting was opened by an address from the President, Mr. W. Gregory, who has recently returned from active service. Mr. Gregory enlisted with the Princess Pats, but was spared only three months fighting in France, since when he has been convalescing in a hospital in England. By a strange coincidence, the diction in this hospital, we are told, was once a student at Victoria College.

In his opening address, the president informed the class that there were no less than one hundred and three men from the fourth year overseas, of which eight have made the supreme sacrifice, and also a V.A.D. worker from the girls, Miss M. Leach.

After a short statement of some of the work carried out by the executive, Miss Norma Arndt, the former prophetess, read her extremely humorous and well written prophecy on the fates of the various class members.

This was followed by a vocal solo by Miss M. Oulley, entitled "Somerset", accompanied by Miss Alice Smith. The appreciation with which this was received was shown in a hearty encore.

Business was now attended to and many a lengthy discussion took place. It was decided unanimously to do away with the regular receptions, and instead have arranged for five class meetings to be held, three in the afternoon and two in the evening. Instead of the afternoon dance, a social hour has been provided for, after all business has been concluded, in which there will be dancing and frivolity in general.

It was also decided to dispose of the funds remaining over from the previous year, on the buying of a VICTORY LOAN, the spending of which, after the war was to be left to the permanent executive, with the suggestion that it be used for a memorial tablet for the fallen heroes of 1T8.

After a report from the treasurer, a motion was made to follow the new constitution and nominations were made accordingly for the permanent executive. The nominations are as follows:

Secretary, Messrs. Sampson, W. Gregory, McClellan.

Assistant Secretary, Messrs. Horning, Beckon, A. Grass.

Committee of two (ladies)—Misses J. McGowan, V. Mauser, E. Littlefield, M. Dalley, M. Lyon, F. Flett, W. Simpson, R. M. Hood, Macinay, N. Arndt, M. Sinclair.

Committee of two (gentlemen)—Messrs. W. Wilkinson, Brodie, Cook, Boles.

Elections are to be held from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock p.m. to-day, November 16. Further notice will be given in the rotunda of the Main Building, as to where they will be carried on.

Tea was then served, and the afternoon closed with the reading of the class poem by Miss Nora Parkin, in the absence of the poetess, Miss Collins.

2T0 EXECUTIVE

All the members of the Executive are requested to meet to-day (Friday) in Room 4 at 4 p.m.

1T8 U.C. PERM. EXECUTIVE

Elections for the Permanent Executive of the Class of 1918, U.C. will be held to-day from 12 noon to 2 o'clock at the landing between East and West Halls, Main Building. Cast your vote.

SECOND "T" MIXER LARGELY ATTENDED

Interesting Experiences Told by Sergt. E. Edwards

The second weekly Big "T" Mixer was held Wednesday night at Central "Y" featuring Sergeant E. Edwards, P.P.C.I.L. It may be safely stated that if they keep improving every week as they have in the past, these Mixers will become one of the strongest features in student life.

The chair was taken by Mr. Henderson of Dents, who, after a few introductory remarks, called upon Messrs. Agnew and Hastings in turn to entertain those present. After a few remarks from Dr. Sandiford, Sergeant E. Edwards was called upon to recount his experiences of the Great War. With no pretensions or affected flights of oratory, but with the attitude of a man who has done things, he broke right into a narrative which at the end caused the chairman to remark "that surely after hearing such a story, no one could criticize our government for inflicting too harsh measures upon us".

Sergeant Edwards enlisted at the beginning of the war, was wounded at St. Eloi, and sent back to "blighty", but volunteered to go back again on his recovery. At Ypres, after a terrible battle, during which all his comrades were wiped out, but ten, he was captured by the Germans. On the way back through the German lines they saw the sandbags of the parapets interlaced with dead bodies. Several times the Germans stopped to argue whether it was any sense taking them any further or not, and twice lined them against the wall to shoot them. However, they could not agree and were finally lodged for the night in a church.

In the morning some Belgian women and children threw them some cigarettes and matches, but the Germans would not let them touch these and besides brutally drove these benefactors away. They were then placed in freight cars, with every other one a passenger car filled with German soldiers. At several stations the guards were lined up to be fed by the German Red Cross women. The prisoners were lined up to watch them. They finally arrived at Geissen Camp, where they were "royally" welcomed by the women, the chief feature of which was spitting in their faces.

They were then put in yards divided by barbed wire. At each corner of the camp, artillery was manned by formidable-looking artillery men. Their rations were half a pound of black bread, soup made of chopped rice or potatoes, or anything else that happened to be handy, and three-quarters of a pint of "acorn coffee". You take latter the same way as you give children castor oil.

The French get their parcels regularly from Berne, Switzerland, but it was three months before the Canadians got anything and even then part of the contents were robbed.

They were divided up into working parties to go around the country whenever they were needed. For dropping a bar of iron in a brick mixing machine, he and his pal were sent for seven days to a punishment camp. Their rations per twenty-four hours was half a pound of black bread and water. One of their punishments was learning German drill. At one time they had to salute a line of posts at the end of which a German officer stood to take the final salute. For refusing to salute, not the posts, but the officer, they were sent to a much more severe punishment camp. Here they decided to take a trip to Holland. Of the days and nights of tramping through swamp, half dragging their exhausted comrades, how they were forced to desert him on being chased, and how, on reaching the Rhine, four miles from Holland, they were recaptured, one must hear to appreciate.

They were court-martialed, and did a month's solitary. To keep himself alive and sane, the speaker did gymnastic stunts in the dark by the hour. They were then sent to another camp, where their clothes were painted red, a red band painted around their chest, and knees, and a red streak down their back.

He and his chum had never given up hopes of escape. They had received a compass from the outside world, hidden in a MacLaren's cheese. They volunteered to go and work for a nearby farmer and worked so hard that they were asked back.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB HEARS AN ADDRESS

Miss MacFarlane, M.A., Speaks on Ancient Theories Concerning the Mushroom

The subject for the last meeting of the Biological Club, "Mushrooms", was dealt with in an intensely interesting manner by Miss MacFarlane. It was shown that mushrooms have played a very remarkable part in the humour and tragedies of human history from early times down to the present. Fungi were much studied by ancient scientists and philosophers, whose conclusions and classifications appear very weird and amusing in the light of modern research.

Miss MacFarlane pointed out, however, that the classification of mushrooms into edible and poisonous categories has been maintained to the present. Mushrooms have been used as food for many hundreds of years. Various forms of fungi tickled the palates of the early Greeks and Romans with results sometimes disastrous. Mushroom banquets of a very elaborate nature, including a special silver service, were in vogue in the time when the Roman Empire was in the zenith of its power. These festivities frequently resulted in death to revelers. The festive fungi caused the death of Claudius Caesar; and whenever Nero wished the removal of a free thinking tribune he invited him to a fungi repast, and arranged that the unfortunate official should unwittingly have his fill of the deadliest Amanita. In fact, so important a part did the fungi take in the study and food of the ancients that we find remains of sculptured mushrooms in the ruins of Pompeii. However, so many died from indiscriminate gathering and eating that the fungi finally became unpopular.

One form of the tree mushroom was utilized by the pioneers of northern Ontario in place of yeast, which produced alcohol and carbon dioxide to make bread rise. The inner portion of the mushroom was used as tinder in the absence of matches. In the ensuing discussion Miss MacFarlane stated in answer to questions raised by members that mushrooms possessed little food value, containing from 85 to 95 per cent. water, and no starch; and that their importance lay chiefly in the nature of condiments not as food.

Many splendid specimens were presented in preserved and natural conditions, also lantern slides illustrating mushroom genera of different part of the world.

The final part of the programme of the evening actively engaged the attention of the forty members present—the removal of the refreshments.

STUDENTS' DIRECTORY

Class presidents and others who are gathering statistics for the Students' Directory, are warned that unless they speed up with their work, the publication of the Directory will be delayed. Mr. Collier C. Grant is very anxious to get it out by the end of the month—so, buck up, gentlemen, and hand in your list to him by to-morrow.

That night, while the guard were eating at the larnhouse, having locked the front door the two prisoners slipped out the back way and were off once more. The dogs were let loose as usual after them, but the rain obliterated their trail. At one time, however, they were forced to hide in a ditch with only their noses above water. Their only meals were the oats, beats, carrots, potatoes or anything else they could find in the fields. After twenty-one days, after coming from 60 miles north east of Bremen, they arrived, after swimming the Rhine, at the border of Holland.

After two days journey into Holland they showed themselves and were royally welcomed by the people. Every second household offered them a meal and they did not refuse any. They were soon in touch with the British consul and on arriving in England the speaker was sorry to hear that he was dead. It took him three months to prove that he wasn't.

In conclusion, Sergeant Edwards said that the French are treated the best. The Germans think that because the Canadians are so well paid that that is all they are fighting for and deserve all they get. If we lose the war they say, we will kill every British and Canadian prisoner we have. As Sergeant Edwards remarked: "It does not seem to make any difference, they are doing so anyhow."

STIRRING ADDRESS BY CAPT. BISHOP AT Y.W.C.A. MEETING

At the general meeting of the Y.W.C.A. at the U.C. Women's Union, Thursday, a stirring address was given by Capt. Bishop, Canada's National Secretary in Y.M.C.A. work, recently returned from the front. The topic was "The Relation of missionary work to the War."

Realizing the necessity of concentrating all efforts towards the attainment of victory, he turned to the broader perspective of Christ, contained in Matthew 24, in which not war, but the spreading of the gospel was the ultimate goal. The purpose of the war is the preservation of democracy; the end attained must be commensurate with the cost. Democracy is then the medium for the establishment of universal Christianity. The mission fields have been depleted to contribute leaders in Christian work at the front. That their work is effective, is shown by the radical change in the attitude of Russia to the Y.M.C.A. Its importance is recognized by the United States who are devoting men and money to further the cause. The Christian influence thus spread among warring nations has opened a missionary field in which all can work after the war.

At the close of the address, Miss Helen Smith, announced the missionary conference to be held in the University buildings from Friday, November 30 to Sunday, December 12. All students are invited to attend. Delegates will be present from all colleges and normals in Western Ontario and Kingston.

Missionaries from India and China will address the meetings, bringing a challenge to students to solve the mission problem.

JUNIOR YEAR OF U.C. HOLD SUCCESSFUL PARTY

Vote Down Reception by Substantial Majority

The class meeting of Arts '19 University College, held at the Women's Union on Wednesday evening, was the most successful event in its kind in the history of the class. The greater part of the year was present when the president, Mr. Buchanan, called the meeting to order, and in a brief speech thanked the class on behalf of the executive for their touching trustfulness in bestowing on them such signal honours. He also drew their attention to the fact that they were to be given the opportunity of voicing their opinion re the annual reception. Mr. Sullivan also spoke, appealing to men to support their Athletic Association.

A short programme followed. Miss McCoy played a charming selection on the guitar, which was listened to in breathless silence and enthusiastically encored. Mr. Moore illustrated the antics and facial contortions of different people, while reciting "The Light Brigade," to the enjoyment of his audience, who fairly rocked with laughter at his inimitable portrayal of the gentleman with the cork arm.

After vocal solo by Miss Simpson, and a song by Mr. George Moore, ballots were distributed and the momentous question was submitted to the class. To the intense disgust of a pro-reception sophomore the vote was 37 for and 12 against. Thus, 1T9 will follow the example of the Senior Class and in all probability the freshmen and sophomore years will do likewise.

In the course of the evening a very tasty lunch was served.

The members of the year are to be congratulated on the interest they have shown in their class by their splendid turnout on Wednesday. They were guaranteed a good time and the members of the executive are positive that they received it. This year, in place of the usual reception, class parties are to be held. The success of the initial meeting augurs well for future ones.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY MET ON WEDNESDAY

Mr. Carlyle Spoke on the Rio Tinto Mines

The semi-monthly meeting of the Engineering Society held on Wednesday afternoon proved one of the most interesting held for some time. It was well attended by all years. Sir Robert Falconer and a few members of the Faculty were also present.

The Society's president, Mr. McDonald, opened with a few words and introduced the speaker, Mr. Carlyle, a mining engineer, who graduated from McGill. He was heartily greeted with the yell of that University. Mr. Carlyle's address was on the Rio Tinto mine, of which he has been superintendent for eight years. This mine, together with the Tarsus, of which he also spoke, is situated in the south of Spain, near the head of the Rio Tinto, or "the painted river", from which it gets its name. It is a very old mine and is notable in history, together with the surrounding country. Columbus built ships in, and sailed on his voyage of discovery from the part from which the ore is now shipped. The armies of Napoleon and Wellington carried on operations in this locality, while the mine itself has been worked successively by the ancient Phoenicians, Romans and Goths. Some old Roman shafts run to a depth of 900 feet.

Mr. Carlyle illustrated his address with many clear slides, which not only gave some idea of the various mining processes, but also of the stupendous amount of the work done. What appeared to be small mountains he showed were immense piles of ore in the process of disintegration, while the open workings looked like craters of great volcanoes.

The speaker interspersed his talk with accounts of the social and political life of the people. He was in control of some 60,000 people at work in the mine, and his duties extended to overseeing the politics and public health of this community. The work of the women was not forgotten either. When he went to the mine the women used to carry the ore (on their heads) to the ore wagons, and do similar rough work, but Mr. Carlyle said that this was abolished. He also gave a humorous account of the manner in which the Spanish girls carry huge jars of water on their heads and hips. Mr. Carlyle said he saw two girls hold jars of water there and "gossip for an hour". (The latter part sounds vaguely familiar). In spite of these heavy burdens, however, he complimented the ladies on their extreme grace of carriage. (Now, if our Editor were worth his salt he would pop in here and state that the same result is obtained on our campus by the load—of knowledge—which our co-eds carry in their heads).

Needless to say, Mr. Carlyle received very hearty applause and a vote of thanks at the close of his interesting lectures.

Sir Robert Falconer, when called upon, spoke in high admiration of the address given and of the speaker as a man of ability. He went on to emphasize the power of management shown by a man who could handle such an army of men in the best interests of humanity and at the same time obtain from them a high efficiency of work. "A strong man," said Sir Robert, "is recognized by the enduring work he leaves behind". He urged the audience to cultivate such strength of purpose as would give real results during the coming strenuous years. He closed wishing success to the Society.

CONCERNING "THE REBEL"

Under the head of "Correspondence" there appears a letter which criticizes statements made by THE VARSITY last Monday in regard to "The Rebel". Before a reply is made to this letter we wish to state that the remarks objected to were not merely a matter of opinion on the part of THE VARSITY alone; but also were questions of fact in that they represented the feeling of numerous students—and others connected with the University—toward "The Rebel".

To come to the letter directly—in the first place it resents the statement of fact that, because of the policy of anonymity pursued by "The Rebel", "too great confidence is not placed in the management of the paper". THE VARSITY and most of the students do not know definitely how "The Rebel" arose or who publish it. But it can be surmised that a band of students, and professors it seems are included, because aggrieved with complaints real or imaginary—students always have to have something to "kick" against—in regard to the University. At any rate it is known that some small group not content with debating these questions among themselves decided—in the modest manner which "reformers" generally assume—to proclaim abroad their ideas. The result was "The Rebel" in which the policy of anonymity is followed. Signs posted ask students if they have a "kick" to make—or words to that effect? Our correspondent says "The Rebel" is to "provide an outlet for the abundant literary talent in this University". Would the editors please decide finally among themselves whether "The Rebel" is to be the outlet for "kicks" or literary articles? The result is that anybody can write an article on any subject, and such article stands a good chance of appearing in "The Rebel"—and the beauty of it all is that nobody, save the editors whom nobody knows, will know who wrote it. The result of this anonymity is that articles appear containing ideas that make students wonder how much confidence to place in the paper. Last Monday THE VARSITY was concerned with the ideas advanced and not style—though unfortunately there was a clause used which can be made ambiguous. But we certainly did not have any particular article in mind when the editorial criticized was written. Evidently, however, the writer of the accompanying letter feels that "the shoe pinches" for which we are truly sorry.

As to the whole matter of a University magazine, THE VARSITY is not foolish enough to imagine that by creating a Board and waving a wand, a University monthly can be established. If the editorial in last Monday's issue is read with even passing interest it will be seen that THE VARSITY is well aware that the desire for literary expression, essential to a University monthly, is already in existence. All that we did was to suggest that means be taken by the Councils to produce this expression in a form which would embrace the whole University, and in which all could take pride.

In conclusion—this is to "The Rebel" itself—THE VARSITY does not wish to be drawn into any controversy with "The Rebel". We admire the courage and ambition of its editors, and have enjoyed many of the articles which have appeared in the paper. At the same time, hoping the editors are not all too thin-skinned, we reserve our right of criticism.

WOMEN'S SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN OPENS

The Women's Student Council have been asked to launch a tornado campaign for new subscriptions to THE VARSITY. This is just a foreword to have your replenished pocketbook in readiness.

Last year the women students of all the colleges showed perhaps a too ready willingness to assume equal financial obligations with the men in editing THE VARSITY, and except for the Caput who, in irreproachable wisdom decided otherwise, we would now, by our own decision, be paying a compulsory fee. On second thought a safer proposition seemed to be that when the women received equal representation on the Staff, we would do our share financially.

The woman's staff of THE VARSITY now consists of a lady editor, a managing editor, who has been rendering excellent service for some time, a news editor and seven reporters. We have equal editorial responsibility and three columns of print. This is a step in the right direction, and it is desirable that the women of the University show that they are vitally interested, not only by their subscription, but by their pen. We invite criticism, so long as it be definite, fair, and constructive. Of course, there exists not anything which may not be cut up, ay, lashed to pieces on its weakest side, so we repeat the necessity of your criticism being of a constructive nature. We are not infallible—forced admission—and the men can no longer be made the easy mark for our own mistakes. So let us be alive. Certain professors have been overheard to say that THE VARSITY's stand has been improved this year. The women must not fail to help keep it so.

Let down the bars imprisoning your latent journalistic abilities. Have confidence in the value of your own thought, and let us have confidence in your financial support in the coming campaign. A reduced rate of seventy-five cents has been obtained, which will be to your pocketbook as sweet music to the ear.

Subscribe now to THE VARSITY at the U.C. post office and tell your neighbour!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Members of the Fourth Year are again requested to co-operate in every way with the Torontonensis Board in the matter of writing biographies and arranging for photographs.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—I perceive that you suffer fools gladly, so I presume to beg the hospitality of your columns for one fool more. In your editorial on A University Magazine, you take occasion to damn "The Rebel" with faint praise. Now rebels undoubtedly deserve to be damned, and probably will be, but for pity's sake let them be justly damned. The head and front of the Rebel's offending appears to be

(a) That it does not publish the names of its editorial board;

(b) That its contributions are published under pseudonyms.

I am not concerned with the reasons which led to the adoption of this policy, which is certainly open to fair criticism, and which would be defended by the editors on very definite grounds. But I am quite unable, probably owing to my deficiencies as being a fool, to see how this can affect the literary quality of the contributions to the paper. This is the only fair ground on which it should be damned. You say that "for this reason articles on subjects which have been hashed and reheated, but still are important, appear written in such a manner that too great confidence is not placed in the management of the paper."

Apparently we are to infer that either because the editors' names are not published, or because the author's name is withheld, or for both these reasons, a paper on the General Course is so badly written as to destroy your confidence in the management. The logic of the argument is not clear to me, and as the author of the paper at which you darkly hint I should welcome light on the relation between anonymity and style. Any detailed criticism of the style would be gladly received in the hope of profiting thereby.

As to the whole matter of a University magazine and the Rebel may I add that a University magazine in my foolish judgment should be a spontaneous outgrowth of the desire for literary expression in the University. You cannot create a University magazine by a wave of the magician's wand, or by the creation of an official staff whose names may all be published. There is no magic in the word "official", and THE Rebel has simply come into being as the work of a group of friends working in friendly collaboration—to produce a paper which may provide an outlet for the abundant literary talent latent in this University.

As such the paper asks and I think deserves fairer and more enlightened criticism than THE VARSITY has yet condescended to measure out to it.

I am,
Yours faithfully,
S. H. HOOKE.

Education

The Y.W.C.A. of the Faculty of Education held their first meeting of the year on Friday evening, November 9. The meeting began with a short program, the main feature of which was an address by Lady Falconer, who explained very clearly the purpose and principles of the purpose and principles of the Y.W.C.A., especially in its relation to students. Following this two student groups put on very amusing "stunts", one was a clever parody on "Young Lochinvar", the other a mock play, in which the principal characters were Lord Blessus, Lady Blessus, and their daughter Terpsichord. The party was then divided for games into six groups, each group under the direction of a member of the staff assisted by a student. After about an hour spent in this way, refreshments were served.

At the next meeting, on Monday, November 19, at 4.15 p.m., Mr. C. W. Bishop, National Y.M.C.A., will speak.

Victoria

A meeting of the Union Literary Society will be held this afternoon at 4.15. Prof. Law of Knox College will address the meeting. Music will be provided as usual. The meeting is being held in the afternoon on account of the concert at Convocation Hall in the evening.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

LOEW'S THEATRE

One of the things which make Western photodramas starring William S. Hart so realistic and convincing is his use of none but dyed-in-the-wool, never-been-carried-below-the-knee cowpunchers. This procuring genuine characters in his supporting cast, Hart not only must plan and act his own role, but also painstakingly rehearse the parts given to these big-hearted fellows, who, although proficient in the "3 R's" of the range, often are woefully lacking in screen ability. If it were not that Hart, who is a western man and a big favorite with the pinchers, knows how to overcome their natural bashfulness before teaching them the rudiments of acting, many of his pictures would be much less true to the real west in its palmy pioneer days. Hart's first offering under the arcaft trade-mark is "The Narrow Trail", which will be seen next week at Loew's, Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden. The Sextette DeLuxe, one of the singing and dancing acts in vaudeville, will head the vaudeville attractions. A new series of Loew's comedy pictures and the Pathe News Service, showing interesting scenes in France, will complete the bill.

ST. MICHAEL'S LOSE TO HEAVY DENTALS

Light and Dark Blue Beaten 6 to 1
in Mulock Cup Fixture

When a St. Michael's halfback muffed a punt in the third quarter of the Mulock Cup game with Dentals at the Varsity Stadium yesterday afternoon they forfeited all chance of gaining a victory. The score until that period was 1 to 0. St. Michael's tallying once in the opening quarter when Goulet, St. Michael's speedy outside wing downed McLaurin for a rouge. The final score was 6 to 1 in favor of the Dentals, after one of the hardest fought games in the Mulock Cup series this season.

St. Michael's have a light fast team, well drilled and possessing a number of trick plays, which they worked to good advantage in the opening half of yesterday's contest. Dentals have a heavy wing line, a good backfield and some excellent punters and it was the weight of the wing line and the punting which gained for them a victory over the light and dark blue.

In the first quarter St. Michael's offered a stubborn defence to the heavier Dentals, and, despite the latter's weight, succeeded in holding them in midfield. Toward the close of the quarter, the Irishmen worked the ball to the Dents 30-yard line, booted to McLaurin, who was downed before he could get out. The second half was scoreless, although St. Michael's had the better of the play.

In the third period the weight of the Dentals began to tell and they made repeated gains by line-plugging. On an exchange of kicks, Flanagan muffed the ball behind his own line, dived to recover it, missed, and a Dental wing dropped on it for the first touchdown of the day. When the team changed ends St. Michael's were apparently weakened from the strenuous pace, and although they fought pluckily against their heavier opponents, were unable to prevent a rouge, which made the final score 6-1.

THE SNOWBIRD

Yesterday, whilst we were uncomfortably ensconced in one of those celebrated chairs which the library board have had specially imported from the defunct Spanish Inquisition, we beheld our friend, the notorious author of "College Pests" at a nearby table. Before him lay a goodly assortment of the heaped up wealth of our intellectual forefathers. But far from his ken were the gems of thought physically so near him. In fact it was like pearls before—(ahem). For he was pursuing his latest vocation and peering forth from his enormous tortoise shells he cast his eyes now at the Veni that occupy certain tables and now at the masculine pluggers. We drop our voice and confidently whisper the reason of it all in your pink ear. "Pat! He's looking for a Pest." That's his mania. He wanders forlornly about the campus and buildings hours on end, looking, looking. The quest has brought that sombre look to his once SWEET, SWEET, countenance. Now and then his agony passes through his lips, that time honoured request—"My kingdom for a Pest!" Hawk-like he watches the frosh for a single false step forgetful of the not too distant past, when he performed such remarkable feats as Registration at the Parliament Buildings and other blunders, which have passed into tradition.

Sometimes we wish he would find a pest. We wonder if he would handle his story in that grotesque style he affects, which does not scintillate with sarcasm as he fondly believes, nor sparkle with wit. But it is oh so SWEET!

271 ELECTIONS

The voting for the executive for 271 U.C. was exceptionally fast. The poll in Room 37 was open from 10 to 12.15 and was the resort of a good proportion of 271 U.C. students, especially the candidates for offices, who electioneered until the last moment.

The following were elected to office for 1917-18:

President—E. C. Noble.
1st Vice-President—Miss E. G. Leggett.
2nd Vice-President—H. A. McLennan.
Secretary—E. I. Taylor.
Treasurer—H. H. Marsh.
1st Lady Councillor—Miss M. Bell.
1st Gent Councillor—G. G. Bryson.
2nd Lady Councillor—Miss Bristol.
2nd Gent Councillor—W. C. Stephens.
1st Historian—Miss E. L. Barton.
2nd Historian—D. H. Gallagher.
Poetess—Miss E. H. Chant.
Prophetess—Miss C. Sereth.
Orator—H. J. F. Stewart.
Critic—J. A. Gibson.
Musical Directress—Miss D. Cornette.
Athletic Director—D. T. Fotheringham.
Note:—One candidate expressed his sentiments by saying that if he wasn't elected this year he wouldn't be next year, because all the students would know him by that time. Well said.

BASKETBALL

Centre House beat West House in the opening of the inter-house basketball series at Knox College last Tuesday night by the score of 36-32.

Both teams had lots of pep and made the game snappy throughout. The winners were in doubt until the whistle blew for full time. Centre House got away to a good start in the first half. Stokes scored the first goal in about a minute of play, followed soon after by Rose and Parker. At half-time the score was 18-14 with Centre on the long end.

Both teams played the same number the last half. West House played better combination, but was held in check by Centre's defence, when they appeared dangerous. Centre House did some fine work at the basket.

Campus Pests

1. THE CAMPUS CLOWN

This is our fourth year in this University. During this time we have come across every category of pest. Incidentally it has been more or less subtly intimated to us that we ourselves are pests. Therefore, we can safely say that we are experts in all things pestiferous. The findings from our wide research work in this matter show that there is no pest known that can equal in obnoxious qualities the would-be humorist.

Sometimes these birds take to writing in college periodicals. They may, of course, do no great harm and do some good by filling up space. Unfortunately, however, they usually cannot restrain themselves and take advantage of their opportunity to give vent to personal animosities.

To do away with this foul row we suggest that someone lock them all up in a room and read for one hour to them the outpouring of their chicken hearts.

"THE NARROW TRAIL"

It is a story of Western life, the first written and screened by William Hart, the great delineator of Western characters. It is a typical Hart picture of wild out-of-door life filled with pictures of the great West, and throbbing with intense interest, incidents, and thrilling adventures. It also co-stars "King" the famous Pinto pony which performs some wonderful stunts.

OFFICIAL PROSPECTUS

The Proceeds of this Loan will be used for War purposes only, and will be spent wholly in Canada

The MINISTER OF FINANCE offers for Public Subscription

Canada's Victory Loan

Issue of

$150,000,000. 5½% Gold Bonds

Bearing interest from December 1st, 1917, and offered in three maturities, the choice of which is optional with the subscriber, as follows:

5 year Bonds due December 1st, 1922
10 year Bonds due December 1st, 1927
20 year Bonds due December 1st, 1937

This Loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest are a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The amount of this issue is $150,000,000, exclusive of the amount (if any) paid for by the surrender of bonds of previous issues. The Minister of Finance, however, reserves the right to allot the whole or any part of the amount subscribed in excess of $150,000,000.

Principal and Interest payable in Gold
Denominations; $50, $100, $500 and $1,000

Subscriptions must be in sums of $50 or multiples thereof.

Principal payable without charge at the Office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the Office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria.

Interest payable, without charge, half-yearly, June 1st and December 1st, at any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank.

Bearer or Registered Bonds

Bonds may be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest.

Scrip certificates, non-negotiable, or payable to bearer, in accordance with the choice of the applicant for registered or bearer bonds, will be issued after allotment in exchange for provisional receipts. When these scrip certificates have been paid in full, and payment endorsed thereon by the bank receiving the money, they may be exchanged for bonds, when prepared, with coupons attached, payable to bearer, or registered as to principal, or for fully registered bonds when prepared, without coupons, in accordance with the application.

Delivery of Interim certificates and of definitive bonds will be made through the Chartered Banks.

Bearer bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal only. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid direct to the owner by Government cheque, will be issued in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 or any authorized multiple of $5,000.

Subject to the payment of 25 cents for each new bond issued, holders of fully registered bonds without coupons, will have the right to convert into bonds of the denomination of $1,000 with coupons, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert into fully registered bonds of authorized denominations without coupons, at any time, on application to the Minister of Finance.

Surrender of Bonds

Holders of Dominion of Canada Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, and of bonds of the three preceding Dominion of Canada War Loan Issues, have the privilege of surrendering their bonds in part payment for subscriptions to bonds of this issue, under the following conditions:

Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, at Par and Accrued Interest.
War Loan Bonds, due December 1st, 1925, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.
(The above will be accepted in part payment for bonds of any of the three maturities of this Issue.)

War Loan Bonds, due October 1st, 1931, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.
War Loan Bonds, due March 1st, 1937, at 96 and Accrued Interest.

(These will be accepted in part payment for bonds of the 1937 maturity ONLY of this Issue.)

Bonds of the various maturities of this issue will, in the event of future issues of like maturity, or longer, made by the Government, other than issues made abroad, be accepted at par and accrued interest, as the equivalent of cash for the purpose of subscription to such issues.

Issue Price Par

Free from taxes—including any income tax—imposed in pursuance of legislation enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

Payment to be made as follows:

10% on December 1st, 1917 20% on March 1st, 1918
10% on January 2nd, 1918 20% on April 1st, 1918
20% on February 1st, 1918 20% on May 1st, 1918
A full half year's interest will be paid on 1st June, 1918

The Bonds therefore give a net interest yield to the investor of about:

5.61% on the 20 year Bonds
5.68% on the 10 year Bonds
5.81% on the 5 year Bonds

All payments are to be made to a Chartered Bank for the credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture, and the allotment to cancellation. Subscriptions accompanied by a deposit of 10% of the amount subscribed, must be forwarded through the medium of a Chartered Bank. Any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank will forward subscriptions and issue provisional receipts.

In case of partial allotments the surplus deposit will be applied toward payment of the amount due on the January instalment.

Subscriptions may be paid in full on January 2nd, 1918, or on any instalment due date thereafter under discount at the rate of 5½% per annum. Under this provision payments of the balance of subscriptions may be made as follows:

If paid on January 2nd, 1918, at the rate of $9.10795 per $100.
If paid on February 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.46959 per $100.
If paid on March 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.72274 per $100.
If paid on April 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.90059 per $100.

Forms of application may be obtained from any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank, or from any Victory Loan Committee, or member thereof.

The books of the Loan will be kept at the Department of Finance, Ottawa.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of this issue on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

Subscription Lists will close on or before December 1st, 1917.

TWO MORE 'VARSITY MEN' PAY THE 'SUPREME SACRIFICE'

Lieuts. W. Aggett, Science '17, and Mark Williams, Arts '17

Many Science Men Listed Amongst the Casualties

Lieut. William Harvey Aggett, 90 Woodlawn Avenue West, has been killed in action. He enlisted as a gunner with a battery recruited from the University in March, 1915. On reaching England he was transferred to a howitzer brigade, where he served for a number of months. He was wounded in July, 1916, but returned to duty, and six months later received his commission, and was sent to France to a Toronto unit of the first contingent. Lieut. Aggett was an Applied Science student of the year 1917.

Lieut. Mark Williams, who was reported missing, believed killed on November 6, is now reported killed in action. He enlisted as a private with one of the University Companies, later receiving his commission. He was a student of the class of 1917, University College. His home is in Burlington.

Worlded
Bombardier James Norman Agnew of Stratford, serving with the C.F.A., is reported wounded. He belonged to the Class 1910, Applied Science.

A letter received by Dr. O'Meara at Wyche College, contains the information that Lieut. T. Stanley Glover was severely wounded by a bullet in the right arm on the 17th of October, while serving with an Imperial machine-gun company in German East Africa. Lieut. Glover enlisted as a private with a Toronto battalion of the second contingent. On reaching England he transferred to the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry in December, 1914, as a second lieutenant, and in March, 1916, received his lieutenantcy, having the previous December been attached to the machine gun corps. He served in France, from April 1915 to October 1916, and in May 1917 left for German East Africa. Lieut. Glover was a Science student of 1917, and also registered at Wyche College.

Sergt. Chester A. Hughes was admitted to hospital on October 26, suffering from a gunshot wound in the left shoulder. He is now in the Norfolk War Hospital at Norwich and progressing favorably. Sergt. Hughes enlisted as a gunner with the 47th Battery, but has since transferred several times since. He was a Science student of 1917 and his home is at Mimico Beach.

Lieut. Robert V. Macaulay is reported wounded. He enlisted with a first contingent battery of the C.F.A. as a bombardier, and was promoted to lieutenant on the field in June 1916. During the winter months of 1916-17 he was on one of the headquarters staffs. He was a B.A.Sc. 1912, and his home is at 22 Fernbank Avenue, Toronto.

Gunner George Arthur McEwen of Yellow Grass, Sask., was slightly wounded in the face about October 22nd. He enlisted at the same time as Sergeant C. A. Hughes in the 47th Battery, and they have both been together at the front. Gar McEwen was also Science, 1917.

Lieut. Leslie Withrow of Moose Jaw, Sask., serving with the machine-gun corps in France has been wounded. He was a Science student of 1915.

Word has reached Toronto that Capt. C. S. Wynne, M.C., has been wounded and gassed, and is at No. 2 Red Cross Hospital at Rouen, Cap. Wynne enlisted with the R.A.M.C. as a lieutenant, and during his first year was M.O. to the Middlesex regiment, but later transferred to a D.A.C. He was awarded the Military Cross in December 1916. He graduated in Medicine in 1914, and his home is in Toronto.

Lieut. Conn. Smythe, reported missing in October, is now known to be a prisoner of war in Germany.

MR. LINDSAY CRAWFORD SPEAKS AT NEWMAN CLUB

Well-Known Orator Delivers Lecture on "Some Side Lights on the Irish Question"

On Friday evening, Mr. Lindsay Crawford of the Toronto Globe, a man whose reputation as an orator is widely known, addressed the members and friends of Newman Club on "Some Side Lights on the Irish Question."

"The Irish question," he said, as an introduction, "is one that has been always present, and will be until it is settled. It was unfortunate that a disagreement should occur in times like these, but all united in extending the hand of sympathy to Ireland."

Mr. Crawford proceeded to show that at all times, and in all periods of English history Irishmen had been to the fore. At one time Irishmen formed two-thirds of the British navy; and at the same time had the same percentage in the army. There was never any disloyalty to England, there was never anything but loyalty to Ireland. Irishmen did what they did, not that they loved England less, but that they loved Ireland more.

The Irish question is one of nationality and the slightest give the contrasts of the high lights and shadows of the peculiar characteristics of the Irish people. They have been universally recognized as a frivolous, humorous, and witty race, so that their moody melancholy character within has been overlooked and forgotten.

"There would be no question if all Ireland was of one mind. Ulster is not, as is generally supposed, the home of Unionism alone. Ulster is divided equally amongst the Nationalists and Unionists."

Mr. Crawford showed the causes that succeeded in driving Protestantism to the side of Toryism, reaction, anti-democracy and to the side of England in regard to the Irish question, whilst the majority which is Catholic was on the side of the Liberal progressive forces.

In the early days of Parnell Michael Davitt was the guiding spirit. The former was an aristocrat, an Irish landowner, who protested against England's hatred for the Irish.

When the English settlers came into Ireland, they regarded it as an outlaw country, where religion was proscribed and presumed not to exist. That the mutual contempt arising at this point should still survive is due to the fact that there is no bridge upon which both parties may meet, and no assembly in which they might find a common ground for agreement. For hundreds of years they lived side by side without understanding each other.

The struggle continued to be not sectarian, but racial, in which questions of both economic and social arose. The settlers planned to keep Ireland weak by keeping her divided. The problem of land was the most troublesome, and both Catholic and Protestant united in the fight against the landowners, agreeing that Ireland alone had the right to rule Ireland.

When Union was secured in 1800, they were still on the same side in politics, and in accord as to the corruption of the campaigns. To-day, conditions are different. The forces are no longer joined. The Presbyterians who united with the Catholics for over a hundred years of Irish history, are to-day on the side of Toryism. Influence must have been at work and the present conditions are the outcome.

Mr. Crawford briefly referred to the attitude of labour men in Ulster, and to the Sinn Féiners, and stated that they did not hate England. Their love was for Ireland, and their hatred for those who oppressed them.

By his personality, no less than his remarkable flow of language, Mr. Crawford held the interest of the audience for nearly two hours. His lecture was interspersed with flashes of wit that are the attribute of Irishmen; and his cool, unprejudiced analysis of the Irish question portrayed a man intimate with Ireland.

Heartily applause was accorded the speaker, and the evening was concluded by singing the National Anthem.

Lieut. J. P. Cavers who went overseas with the Eaton Machine-gun Battery, was transferred to the R.F.C. in July, 1916.

U.C. WOMEN'S LIT. BEGIN STORY CONTEST

Stop! Look! Listen! Ye Would-Be Authors!

The executive of the Women's Literary Society of U.C. offers a prize for the best short story entitled, "Puppets All," to be interpreted as the author's imagination shall suggest. This contest, which was inaugurated last year, fully justified its introduction as a permanent feature of the yearly programme. The stories submitted are not to exceed 3,500 words, and not to be less than 2,500 words in length.

The competition is open to all women undergraduates of University College, and its object is to assist in developing original literary ability in the College. Plenty of this ability is present, but lacks expression. The contest forms one medium for this expression. Where is the girl who has never written some kind of story, however brief or crude? Fish out your story from your private archives, or write a brand new one, and send it in before you forget—or at least before February 1, 1918.

"Y" STUDENTS' BOOK 'CHANGE CLOSES FOR THIS YEAR

After a very successful and prosperous season the Students' Book Exchange of the Y.M.C.A. is about to close down and issue cheques. Perhaps some of our "patrons" have been wondering why they have not received their cheques sooner, but when they realize that the books have been selling right up to the last, they will pardon the delay. Until this season, the business connected with issuing the cheques could not be commenced. However this is now underway and they will be ready for distribution at the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday, November 22. At the same time the books which have not been sold will be ready to be taken away.

Although a war year, the business of the exchange has been much as usual. This receipts have been $216. After five per cent. has been deducted to cover the cost of printing, this will be distributed amongst the students.

STUDENTS USE LIBRARY

The number of students patronizing the University Library has been growing steadily all term as it has done every year. There are no figures yet as to the number of books, for new books have been gradually coming in all year; but it is hoped that figures will be available some time in the near future. No doubt the attendance will grow too as the term advances, although there are several more "Silence" notices this year than previously.

TRAINING COMPANY GAVE 'POT POURRI' LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

CONVOCAION HALL FILLED

Clever Artists of the Company and R.F.C. Again Entertain Large Audience

Before a large and appreciative audience at Convocation Hall last Friday evening, the men of the Overseas Training Company assisted by several men of the Royal Flying Corps, gave their second concert of the season. The entertainment was not the same in detail as that of some weeks ago, although it included the same play "The Lost Silk Hat," as given before. In addition to the artists of the evening, M. Bourguignon, the celebrated Belgian pianist, took part. M. Bourguignon has been invalided home from the Belgian army in which he served with great distinction.

For some time before the opening of the first part of the program, the University orchestra under the able leadership of Lieut. Slater, rendered pleasing selections for the benefit of the people already in their seats. The O.T.C. Octet gave several selections including "Little Johnny went a-fishing", Pte. H. Frederick, of the O.T.C. pleased the audience with selections from Tosca and Huhn, while George Carr of the R.F.C. told several good stories in a rather droll way which gave much merriment to the audience. "Sunset in the Desert" (Ross) and "Drake goes West" (Sanderson) were numbers given by Pte. R. Bottomley, O.T.C. He was enthusiastically encored. The recitation, "The Highwayman", by Alfred Noyes was ably given by Sergt. H. Braham, O.T.C. The recitation had to do with France under the rule of the Bourbon dynasties. Something which pleased all was a character song by Sergt. H. Sinclair, O.T.C. His melody "Some little bug is well going to get you—some day," was well given and appreciated by all. Pte. A. McKenna, O.T.C. was heard to advantage in his selections. A piano solo by M. Bourguignon included a waltz by Chopin and a selection by Granger, the eminent Canadian composer. His playing was received with applause and he was forced to give an encore.

Cpl. P. Merrivale, R.F.C. recited from Calverley and Kipling with much feeling. "Mad Minute" by Sergt. H. Sinclair and Pte. N. Blume, both of the O.T.C., was short, but up to expectations. A change of costume revealed nothing more or less than a different cap and a few steps, those of a step-ladder brought out before the audience. The manual of arms under the direction of Sergt. Bean was exceptionally well done.

Part II consisted of Lord Dunsany's short play "The Lost Silk Hat". All ably acted their several parts, Pte. George Hayes being exceptionally good in The Post.

Pte. Frank Wood, O.T.C. a stage manager, had the stage very artistically decorated with palms and other attractions. Pte. S. Dalton, O.T.C. as musical director and accompanist, ably carried out his duties.

FOURTH YEAR U.C. ELECT PERMANENT EXECUTIVE

On Friday, elections for the Permanent Executive of the fourth year of University College were held. It is to be noticed that the fourth year has allowed the provisions of the new class constitution, a copy of which is expected to appear in The Varsity, and accordingly several changes in the personnel of the Executive have been made.

The following were elected to office: Secretary—R. A. Sampson. Assistant Secretary—F. J. Horning. Re-Union Committee—Miss Littlefield, Miss Sinclair, J. B. Brodie, R. W. Wilkinson.

BUSINESS OFFICE OF "THE VARSITY" IS BEING EXTENDED

Repairs to the Varsity office are now going on apace. It was found that the business office was too small for the growing work of the staff and it was decided to make extensions. Part of the reporters' room is now being partitioned off and will be finished shortly.

PROF. S. MATHEWS AT CONVOCAION HALL

Selected as His Text: "And So We Came to Rome"

"And so we came to Rome." The Rome that Paul came to after his shipwreck was a Rome in the process of reconstruction, a Rome of new ideas, of progression, a Rome that was making history. We too are coming to our Rome, the period of reconstruction and rebuilding which will arise out of the present war. Thus Prof. Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago drew a vivid comparison between our time and that of Paul, before a large congregation in Convocation Hall on Sunday morning, November 18. His text "And so we came to Rome," is found in Acts 28: 14.

"Rome stands in history as the connecting link between the eastern and the western worlds. In that wonderful empire were preserved and reconstructed the forces which make up the important parts of our western life. This course of history was not due to the arrival of Paul in Rome but when Paul reached Rome it was in the period of reconstruction, and he evangelized and helped to instil some of the right spirit into it."

"The early church was not interested in the social life and work. It thought that the world was coming to an end in the near future. After Paul's conversion for fourteen years he moved about preaching to a people who were no longer making history. Their future was their past. He settled in a pleasant pastoral region and worked among people who were the product, not the cause of history. He went out on several excursions preaching and teaching but he always returned to Jerusalem and Antioch. Then Rome reached out and took him. Into the centre of the source of the making of history the Gospel came as a great constructive influence and as such took its part in the making of history."

"There are three ways of facing the inevitable. The first way is that of total indifference. The idea of whatever comes it will find me unbending and unchanged. There is something fine about this attitude but it is not altogether Christian. Another attitude is that taken by people who wring their hands and cry, 'Oh! isn't it dreadful?' and call themselves conscientious objectors. Finding their souls in a state of terror or they say the thing to do is to quit, and then they call it piety. The real Christian spirit lies between the two. We to-day are apt to face what we never expected to see. We will not submit it, but we will transcribe this which is in the process of making. You cannot think of the future without thinking of international democracy, and educational reform. The great constructive period lies in the future. Shall we not carry the ideals and dynamic power of the gospel into this great reconstructive period? We must be creatively, not conservatively Christians."

"It must have seemed to the people of Rome that a very small thing had happened when that Jewish prisoner came to the great city. Yet when this apostle came to Rome, history was in the process of making, and his coming meant a great deal. When we come to our Rome, let us face it and bravely do our part evangelizing the great reconstructive forces."

ONE MAN, ONE OFFICE

Elections seem to be plentiful these days around the University, and it might not be out of place to give a hint to some of the "campaigners"—especially those who have recently come to Varsity. THE VARSITY cannot do better than reprint an editorial which appeared three years ago.

"Everyone knows the man who accumulates offices in various societies and organizations like a snowball on a long and gentle slope. Such a man is wasting himself in a university. He should start right into the political arena where the man who is not jovially pumping his fellow creature's arm is 'out of it'. The University, in which official positions are at best but ephemeral honours of doubtful advantage, is no place for him.

"In fairness we must admit that there are individuals of exceptional executive capacity, who justify their election to more than one office. But the average men who value office and is always 'punning', collects official titles as a stamp vend collects postage stamps, or a small boy collects birds' eggs. The disastrous part of it is that he is merely collecting the titles. The number and the relative importance is the thing. Responsibility and efficient administration are of quite secondary consideration. Realization of the duties and obligations of office is as rare as a genuine friend. Every now and then, in a flash, we are shown the failure of the present system. A straightening-up occurs after some muddle caused by carelessness and the every-day chronic spirit of irresponsibility so marked in our University.

One man—one office, is the general principle, which if applied might go far toward providing a remedy. If a student can make a success of one line of responsibility at a time, it is all he should be allowed. Others should be given a chance to develop their executive ability. There are plenty of capable people who do not push themselves. If he cannot, or will not, assume the obligations connected with his title, he should not be elected to another office.

"In his annual address reported in the Cornell Alumni News, the President of Cornell University speaking of 'student activities', said: 'It is unnecessary to retain students here if these other things are as important as those intellectual interests for which purpose this institution was dedicated. These things are incidental; these things are very subordinate.'

"After all, if a man or woman undertakes one responsibility outside the regular work of the University, it is enough. Not that any individual's interest should be circumscribed, but the work entailed in the conscientious filling of one office in addition to his unofficial obligations will ordinarily leave little enough leisure for sociability.

"At present there are roughly three classes in the University—those who hold office, those who study, and those who do nothing at all. It would be good for all three if the lines of demarcation could be destroyed. Perhaps, too, by a wider distribution of the work of office, and the interesting of a larger number in student activities, the affairs of these activities could be handled with more real efficiency."

GIVE UNTIL IT HURTS

At last week's Canadian Club, Mrs. St. Clair Stowbart who headed one column in the retreat from Serbia, said she sometimes wondered if "knitting" might not be a curse instead of a blessing. Women have the idea that if they knit they are "doing their bit." You invest in a new set of expensive furs, trying to banish the thought of a Victory Bond, and the sound of your knitting needles lulls your troubled conscience.

Can we afford to wear fifteen dollar shoes while the feet of the women in Europe bleed with work in behalf of our cause? Can we imagine a few pairs of socks knit, and a few tears spilled at intervals, measure the depth of our patriotic fervor? Pre-war finery in dress can be seen crossing the campus at any hour of the day. How many are willing to sacrifice a new spring suit for a Victory Bond? How many of the graduating year are considering a phase of work which will bear directly on helping win the war?

The women of the University must surely feel that the National sacrifice is being laid upon each of us individually. Our shoulders must broaden out to share the State's burdens, as well as our own—and heaven knows they often seem heavy enough. We appeal to you to save—in dress and lesser ways—and if at all possible buy a VICTORY BOND. Our slogan should be, not "doing our bit," but "giving our all" to our country's extreme need. If "knitting" denotes your all—knit! If you have more to give—GIVE TILL IT HURTS!

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

DISCUSSION OF LECTURES & GROUP SYSTEMS

BY PROFESSOR HUME

The discussion of lectures and group systems turn on some fundamental issues. Their aim, is, I take it, to get clearer ideas as to the best methods to pursue in educational efforts in a university.

In the public schools we have questions and answers between teacher and pupil. The teacher Socratically tries to compel the pupil to discover something.

In the High School, where the pupil is more advanced, less direct prodding is indulged in—the pupil is supposed to be able to keep moving himself with occasional joltings.

In the University, where the pupil is supposed to be still more mature and self-propelling, the practice has been to attempt to work with the pupil by various methods: lectures, essays, examination tests and discussions.

Now it is evident that from the earliest to the latest, the teacher's efforts are intended to assist an effort on the part of the pupil. If the pupil makes no efforts the teacher's work is in vain.

A good deal of the "discussion" in THE VARSITY takes it for granted that the lecture does not contribute to such effort, but is merely spoonfed information. Discussion is going to compel expression on the part of the pupil, and so force him to think for himself. The discussion is intended to be a return to the Public School method of direct exchange of ideas.

It seems that the group must be quite small—obviously, for otherwise a number will not have time to "exchange" their ideas. Now only one can "discuss" at a time. He then becomes for the time being the lecturer, and the rest of the class the hearers. Furthermore, as a rule in a discussion, the speaker is not trying to evoke replies so much as to state his case, that is, he is not really trying to teach, but to assert his opinion. Of course it is assumed that some one with a rival opinion will respond. Then another lecturer has the floor.

It is supposed that soon all the alternatives will be represented—Will they? In short, all the success in the "group" depends on whether we have volunteers, who both know something about the subject and are willing to state their views and defend them.

It is assumed then that they will come so prepared. But the listeners need not be prepared? It is assumed that they will have to be, because they will have to take part. Very well, it all comes back to this preparation and the compulsion the group puts in such preparation.

Let us now review the group. Are the listeners getting any benefit when not stating their own views? If so they are in the same position as the listeners to the regular lecture.

The regular lecturer has a right to assume that the students come prepared: I am afraid this is the real source of the whole trouble in most lectures. The lecturer does come prepared. His "listeners" do not come prepared. They then do not play the game.

The lecturer, if he knows his business, does not merely hand out a lot of facts. He directs his class to the proper sources. He does not merely state his conclusions. He endeavours first to get the problem before his class, next to indicate various methods of solving this problem. That is, he hopes to get before his pupils the alternative solutions that are supposed to be brought forward by the different members of a group. And he does not trust to luck that such representative views will be before him in the class. He will present views that neither he nor any of his pupils really hold in order to estimate them fairly and get a comparative judgment based on a just estimation of the various alternatives.

Just as a teacher in languages who meets a class making a translation of a difficult passage, presumes that his class has each tried to make a translation before he helps them to disentangle the knots and snarls, so a teacher in history on literature or philosophy has a right to assume a similar preparation and a similar co-operation. If this is not given by the pupils, they are trying to have their thinking done for them by the lecturers—This is futility.

STUNT NIGHT AT VICTORIA COLLEGE

A Large Audience Witnessed the Annual Fete

On Thursday evening last nearly three hundred students of Victoria assembled in the College Chapel for the event of the season, Women's "Stunt" Night. Everyone had been looking forward to this event for some time, and no one's expectations were disappointed.

The programme began by a sort of comedy consisting of the removal of certain "juniors" of the male sex, who persisted in occupying the front seats which the ladies of the Lit. desired in order to carry on the business for the evening. This feat was accomplished by the senior men in a hurried, and not altogether noiseless manner. When the curtain was drawn the business part of the meeting was conducted by the members of the Lit. in an orderly and business-like manner.

The principal part was the "stunts". Each year had to give its own stunt and some of them were really very funny.

The moving-picture studio, by the second year, was a clever burlesque on the most up-to-date cinematography. "Happy Hooligan's Return", by the third year, received rounds of applause. All the scenes were well acted and much talent of voice and dress was displayed by those concerned.

Each scene was accompanied by applause and outbursts of laughter from the audience, mingled with the yells of the respective years. During the evening a well-rendered solo by Miss Egington, 2T0, was much enjoyed by the audience. The meeting concluded with yells and the college song, followed by the National Anthem.

STRENUOUS SOCCER GAME
WON BY PHARMACY

Result Apparently in Doubt

On Saturday Pharmacy and Wycliffe met on the front campus for their first game in the U. of T. soccer series. It was a strenuous game throughout, in which Pharmacy was for the greater part of the time on the defensive. In the first half of the game, Gibson, of Wycliffe, cleverly passed Pharmacy's backs and placed the ball between the posts, but, for some unknown reason the goal was disallowed (thus the score at half-time was blank).

In the second half Pharmacy reinforced their ranks by changing five men. After two minutes' play, Pharmacy, with a brilliant rucj placed the ball in Wycliffe's net. Wycliffe, fully aroused, kept their opponents continually on the defensive, but, owing to the clever work of the opposing goal-tender, they were unable to score and the game ended 1-0 in favor of the druggists.

Pharmacy — Ferguson, Wood, Dean, Laughlin, Sutherland, Crosswaite, Smith, Farmer, Roy.

Wycliffe — Lewis, Barlow, Robins, Twiss, Smith, Georgian, Slew, Kennedy, Gibson, Marsh, Arkison.

VARSITY CHESS TEAM LOSES
TO BEACHES 4-2

Varsity lost to Beaches last Thursday night by a score of 4 to 2. Through the kindness of Professor Keys, the match was held in the very comfortable quarters of the Faculty Union. The play was somewhat closer than the result, and the match really puts a feather in Varsity's cap, for among the Beaches men are the champions of Toronto and Canada, Lane and Mr. Morrison.

NOTICE

Post Office Department,
Ottawa, Canada,
November, 1917.

News Item to the Press.

In co-ordination with the new scheme instituted by the British Government, all parcels from Canada to Officer Prisoners of War interned in Germany or Austria-Hungary containing foodstuffs, on and after January 1, 1918, can only be accepted for onward transmission by the Postal Service if they bear a "coupon" issued by the Prisoners of War Department, Canadian Red Cross Society, London, England.

Under the new arrangement the amount of foodstuffs which may be sent to an Officer Prisoner of War during four weeks must not exceed one hundred pounds. Of this total the Prisoners of War Department of the Canadian Red Cross will send to each interned Canadian Officer, including those attached to other than Canadian units not less than six ten-pound parcels each four weeks. The remaining forty pounds of foodstuffs per four weeks may be sent personally by relatives in Canada, but each parcel must bear a coupon which can be obtained on application from the Prisoners of War Department, Canadian Red Cross Society, London, England.

The right to send food parcels to an Officer Prisoner of War rests with the next of kin, but may be transferred by the latter or by the Prisoner of War himself

The Railbird

Watch THE VARSITY for the dates of the Mulock Cup semi-final and final.

It seems hard luck that a scrappy team of clever players such as St. Mike's had in the Mulock Cup Series this year should be put out of the running in the first round.

The shin-smashers of the local soccer league are busy these days. They may not show pro style in handling the ball, but "Oh Boy!" the way they handle each other is wonderful. Truly the path of the soccer player is hard.

The Mulock Cup game between U.C. and Victoria which was scheduled for Friday was won by U.C. on default.

The rugby season is fast approaching its end and it behooves the ambitious undergrads who are interested in hockey and basketball to wake up their faculties and organize.

What do you think of the Mulock Cup series rugby player who was heard to say that no half back was supposed to tackle?

In one of the late issues of the VARSITY an account was published of a thrilling chess game between the University and the Beaches. Unfortunately U. of T. was defeated by the score 4-2. Being of a curious nature we read the account and were horrified to find that the two Varsity victories came through default. This looks as if interest in chess is dying out in the college. Surely those athletes left us by the war will aid in keeping sport alive.

C. & F. PHOTOGRAPHS.

Members of the Commerce and Finance Club are reminded that the Club photograph will be taken to-morrow, Nov. 20, at 12.10 p.m. sharp at Farmer Bros., 492 Spadina Avenue. All members are requested to be present at the time stated.

to any person. It is advisable that application should be made to the Prisoners of War Department, Canadian Red Cross Society, London, England, for the necessary coupons for parcels packed personally at the earliest possible moment.

These coupons are to be used on food parcels only, and no coupons can be issued for amounts under ten pounds. If, therefore, it is desired to despatch a parcel weighing less than ten pounds an ordinary coupon must be used and the parcel counts as one of the four permissible in four weeks.

Articles may not be sent to any Society for enclosure in any parcel despatched under the Red Cross label. The importance of guarding against any misuse of the label cannot be too strongly emphasized. Such action would not only harm the prisoner to whom the parcel was addressed, but would react on other Prisoners and might endanger the whole system of despatching the food supplies to Officers and men who have fallen into the hands of the enemy.

Parcels for Officers interned in Bulgaria and Turkey come under the new scheme. Owing, however, to the difficulties of postal communication, it is not advisable to send many parcels to officers in Turkish camps. Supplies can be purchased in Asia Minor and it is better to remit money to the Prisoners rather than send many parcels.

This new scheme relates only to parcels containing foodstuffs for Officer Prisoners of War interned in enemy countries, and does not affect in any way the present regulations governing the transmission of parcels to Prisoners of War other than Officers, which regulations remain unchanged.

The needs of Officer Prisoners of War holding commissions in the Imperial Army are looked after by the Central Prisoners of War Committee, 4 Thurlow Place, London, S.W., England. This committee will supply the necessary coupons to the next of kin of these Officers for parcels addressed to them which are packed personally.

Alderman (clancy): "All right me son; but remember this: ye can't niver depind awn a vote ye buy cheap."

"Did you call at Roxley's house?" asked the young doctor's wife.

"Yes," replied the doctor, "and I wish he has sent for me sooner."

"Gracious! Is he so seriously ill?"

"No, just the contrary. I'm afraid he'll be all right again before I get in half-a-dozen visits."—Tit-bits.

Willis—"Going to the party?"

Gillis—"No. I haven't any lady."

Willis—"Come with me. I've got two extras."

Gillis—"Who are they?"

Willis—"Miss Oldbud and Miss Passé."

Gillis—"They're not extras. They're early editions."—Early Bird.

"Yes," said the cynical old sea captain, "when I was shipwrecked in South America I came across a tribe of wild women. Absolutely wild. They had no tongues."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the listener; "how could they talk?"

"They couldn't," was the reply. "That was what made them wild."

Wycliffe

On the evening of Wednesday, November 14, Sheraton Memorial Hall, Wycliffe College, was the scene of the Inter-College Debate, when McMaster met Wycliffe, to decide a very important question, and one that is of vital importance to the future development and existence of this Canada of ours.

In the absence of Principal O'Meara, the chair was taken at 8 p.m. by Rev. Dr. Hallam. After having a violin solo by Miss Marjorie Latimer, the chairman read some "Excerpts from the Constitution", and left the subject in the hands of the debaters to handle as best they could.

The subject, "Resolved that the Dominion Government should include the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk, and the Grand Trunk Pacific in its scheme of Government Ownership of Railways", was of an economic nature and required a good deal of thought and preparation. The affirmative was championed by O. D. Priddle, B.A., and A. E. Look, B.Th., of McMaster; while Mr. E. P. Wright and Rev. A. Simpson, of Wycliffe, ably upheld the negative.

The gentlemen who kindly consented to act as judges for this debate were Messrs. Edwin Bell, A. R. Clute, and Rev. Father Muckle, M.A. While they retired to arrive at a decision, the audience was entertained by several readings by Miss Winnifred Haggar; and also by several solos by Mr. H. H. Marsh. In addition, McMaster, which was present in goodly numbers, filled in with their college songs and choruses. Of course, we also heard from the Wycliffe boys occasionally.

The judges' decision was given by Mr. Bell, who highly congratulated the speakers on both sides for the excellent and masterly way in which they had dealt with their subject, and said, on concluding, that only after a great deal of consideration had they decided that McMaster had won the debate by a slight margin.

After the debate, the students of Wycliffe assembled in the Common room, where ice-cream and cake were served.

Victoria

"Resolved that protective tariff is a menace to the economic development of the country", was the subject of the debate which opened the Rowell Series at Victoria College on Thursday evening, November 15th.

The debate was between the first and second years. The first year which took the negative, was represented by P. A. Annis and Dickinson. The second year was represented by H. M. Wright and Kerr. The question which is a very live issue was ably discussed. The laurels went to the first year. A reading was given by F. G. Weir.

A meeting of the U.L.S. was held on Friday afternoon, November 16th. The Society was fortunate in having Professor Law of Knox College to speak on "The Church after the War." The keynote was the great need for reality, both now and after the war. The greatest interest was shown by everyone present and all were impressed by the message of the speaker.

It was a pleasure to have Rev. W. G. Fagan, President of the Society last year, present and to listen to his remarks which were not lacking a ready joke.

There was an interesting business session as usual after which the assistant critic gave his report. He said that the indirect question was the cause of too much discussion, which in turn had a tendency to lessen the interest in the meeting by those not actually taking part in the discussion. He advised therefore that questions be more direct and to the point.

Sec.-Lieut. Franklin Roy Malcolm, who went overseas with the second draft from the C.O.F.C. in the spring of 1916, is now home on sick leave. He was attached to the Northumberland Fusiliers and crossed to France in December, 1916. On April 1, of this year he was slightly wounded in the hand, and three days later at Vimy Ridge received severe gun-shot wounds in the face. He belonged to the Class of 1919, S.P.S.

Other Colleges

Harvard—The Harvard freshman football eleven does not appear to be showing as good football just now as it did earlier in the season. Being defeated by the Harvard informal varsity in a 35-minute scrimmage in which many of the best varsity players were not in the lineup, was a rather unsatisfactory showing on the eve of the game with Princeton last Saturday.

Pennsylvania—Presidents of all senior classes at Pennsylvania decided yesterday that every former student of that university in the service is to have a Christmas gift from his fellow students.

A campaign has been opened to raise $2,500 to purchase the boxes, each of which will contain a pipe, pound of tobacco, tobacco pouch, box of candy, and a subscription to "Old Penn," the university weekly.

West Point—No army and navy football games will be played this season, according to an announcement by Capt. J. E. McMahon, football representative in the Army Athletic Council. On November 24, the date held open for the navy game, West Point will meet Boston weekly.

WOMEN UNDERGRADUATES MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Mrs. W. R. Lang will speak on "The Franchise Laws"

On Wednesday afternoon next the W.U.A. promises the women of University College further insight into the timely and interesting subject broached at its last meeting. Mrs. W. R. Lang, the speaker of the afternoon, has selected as her theme, "The Canadian Franchise Laws" a subject, it is hardly necessary to point out of which no woman now can afford to be ignorant. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting.

The MINISTER OF FINANCE offers for Public Subscription

Canada's Victory Loan

Issue of

$150,000,000. 5½% Gold Bonds

Bearing interest from December 1st, 1917, and offered in three maturities, the choice of which is optional with the subscriber, as follows:

5 year Bonds due December 1st, 1922
10 year Bonds due December 1st, 1927
20 year Bonds due December 1st, 1937

This Loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest are a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The amount of this issue is $150,000,000, exclusive of the amount (if any) paid for by the surrender of bonds of previous issues. The Minister of Finance, however, reserves the right to allot the whole or any part of the amount subscribed in excess of $150,000,000.

Principal and Interest payable in Gold
Denominations: $50, $100, $500 and $1,000

Subscriptions must be in sums of $50 or multiples thereof.

Principal payable without charge at the Office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the Office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria.

Interest payable, without charge, half-yearly, June 1st and December 1st, at any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank.

Bearer or Registered Bonds

Bonds may be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest.

Scrip certificates, non-negotiable, or payable to bearer, in accordance with the choice of the applicant for registered or bearer bonds, will be issued after allotment in exchange for provisional receipts. When these scrip certificates have been paid in full, and payment endorsed thereon by the bank receiving the money, they may be exchanged for bonds, when prepared, with coupons attached, payable to bearer, or registered as to principal, or for fully registered bonds when prepared, without coupons, in accordance with the application.

Delivery of interim certificates and of definitive bonds will be made through the Chartered Banks.

Bearer bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal only. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid direct to the owner by Government cheque, will be issued in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 or any authorized multiple of $5,000.

Subject to the payment of 25 cents for each new bond issued, holders of fully registered bonds without coupons, will have the right to convert into bonds of the denomination of $1,000 with coupons, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert into fully registered bonds of authorized denominations without coupons, at any time, on application to the Minister of Finance.

Surrender of Bonds

Holders of Dominion of Canada Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, and of bonds of the three preceding Dominion of Canada War Loan Issues, have the privilege of surrendering their bonds in part payment for subscriptions to bonds of this issue, under the following conditions:—

Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, at Par and Accrued Interest.
War Loan Bonds, due December 1st, 1925, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.
(The above will be accepted in part payment for bonds of any of the three maturities of this Issue.)

War Loan Bonds, due October 1st, 1931, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.

War Loan Bonds, due March 1st, 1937, at 96 and Accrued Interest.

(These will be accepted in part payment for bonds of the 1937 maturity ONLY of this Issue.)

Bonds of the various maturities of this issue will, in the event of future issues of like maturity, or longer, made by the Government, other than issues made abroad, be accepted at par and accrued interest, as the equivalent of cash for the purpose of subscription to such issues.

Issue Price Par

Free from taxes—including any income tax—imposed in pursuance of legislation enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

Payment to be made as follows:

10% on December 1st, 1917 20% on March 1st, 1918
10% on January 2nd, 1918 20% on April 1st, 1918
20% on February 1st, 1918 20% on May 1st, 1918
A full half year's interest will be paid on 1st June, 1918

The Bonds therefore give a net interest yield to the investor of about:

5.61% on the 20 year Bonds
5.68% on the 10 year Bonds
5.81% on the 5 year Bonds

All payments are to be made to a Chartered Bank for the credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture, and the allotment to cancellation. Subscriptions accompanied by a deposit of 10% of the amount subscribed, must be forwarded through the medium of a Chartered Bank. Any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank will forward subscriptions and issue provisional receipts.

In case of partial allotments the surplus deposit will be applied toward payment of the amount due on the January instalment.

Subscriptions may be paid in full on January 2nd, 1918, or on any instalment due date thereafter under discount at the rate of 5¼% per annum. Under this provision payments of the balance of subscriptions may be made as follows:

If paid on January 2nd, 1918, at the rate of $9.10795 per $100.
If paid on February 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.46959 per $100.
If paid on March 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.72274 per $100.
If paid on April 1st, 1918, at the rate of $9.90059 per $100.

Forms of application may be obtained from any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank, or from any Victory Loan Committee, or member thereof.

The books of the Loan will be kept at the Department of Finance, Ottawa.

Application will be made in due course for the listing of this issue on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

Subscription Lists will close on or before December 1st, 1917.

MORE CASUALTIES ARE REPORTED AMONG 'VARSITY MEN

Lieut. P. L. Barber Died of Wounds—Five Others Wounded

Lieut. George Drew and Corp. Wilson Have Been Promoted

Lieut. Percy Louis Barber of Peton has died of wounds. He enlisted with the 2nd Universities Company, P.P.C.L. as a private, later receiving his commission. He had been wounded twice previously, in September 1916, and May of this year. He was a student of the Faculty of Education 1914-16.

MISSING.

Word has been received that Lieut. Gordon Allan Cockburn has been missing since November 8th. He enlisted as a lieutenant with a Guelph battery, and was wounded in October, 1916, later transferring to the R.F.C. He attended the Faculty of Applied Science from 1911-13. His home is at 322 Spadina Rd., Toronto.

WOUNDED.

Lieut. Arthur H. Livingstone of Brantford has been wounded. He enlisted as a private with the 5th Universities Company. He was shot in the chest in August, 1916, and was again in the casualty list only last September. He belonged to the Faculty of Applied Science, Class 1918.

Lieut. Sub-Lieut. A. G. Allen Spence was wounded on November 8, and is now in the Royal Naval Hospital at Chatham, England, progressing favourably. He graduated from Victoria College last spring. His home is at 54 Huntley St., Toronto.

Lieut. Barstow Harding Miller is returning to Canada on sick leave. He served as lieutenant with the Canadian infantry in France and was wounded on August 3rd, 1917. His home is in Stonyville. He was a Science 1919 student.

Corporal Elmore Plabott of Hamilton is reported wounded. He enlisted with a battery recruited from the University in March, 1915. He was a University College student of 1917.

MANITOBA STUDENTS ELECT WOMEN TO CHIEF POSITIONS

Women Will Have Control of Student Affairs for First Time

The University of Manitoba has led the way for other Universities in electing women to the chief positions in the control of student affairs. In the recent undergraduate elections in the Winnipeg institution Miss Ellen Bulman was elected president of the student body, an honour never before conferred upon a girl. Miss Isabel Turnbull was appointed managing editor of the university journal, while Miss Marjorie Horner was entrusted with the leadership of the University girls' activities.

The election of women to these responsible positions is but another example of the way in which women are more and more assuming duties and responsibilities lately regarded as the privileges of men alone.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Several University men have recently returned on leave. Among them are Sub-Lieut. W. A. Dufour of the R.N.V.R. and formerly a sergeant with No. 4 G.H. (Med. 1918); Lieut. G. A. L. Gibson, R.F.A., University College, 1916, who was wounded in June; Capt. John L. McDonald, M.B. 1916, of No. 4 G.H.; Lieut. W. E. Poupore, M.C.; B.A., University College 1914; Capt. A. B. Rehmann, who enlisted as a gunner with the 1st Contingent, and is now officer commanding of a mobile veterinary section in France (B.V.Sc. 1911); and Capt. A. A. Swinnerton, Sc. 1916, his brother, A. F. R. W. Swinnerton, was missing last March, and is now presumed to have died.

WOMEN! SUPPORT YOUR OFFICERS

Having taken over our definite share in the editorial work of THE VARSITY, it is now up to us, the women of the University, to signify our willingness to support those officers whom we, through our representatives on the Women's Administrative Council, have appointed to THE VARSITY Staff. It is with this firm belief that the Council is launching a subscription campaign among the women this week. In the name of the Council, I ask that, when the canvasser comes to you, you will not turn her aside with a disagreeable word, but will consider the matter from the standpoint of your duty. For if we, as women students, do not support our University newspaper now when there are so few men to do so, how can we expect to have our ideas and wishes concerning its management respected? Miss Corrigan and Miss McCoy and their staff of reporters are willing to do their share, but we must do ours too. The price from now on is 75 cents.

(Signed) VERA O. SPARLING,
President, Women's Administrative Council.

INTERCOLL. DEBATING SOCIETY WILL HOLD SEMI-FINALS

December 10th is Date Fixed for Meetings

The Intercollegiate Debating Society will hold their semi-finals on December 10, when S.P.S. will meet Victoria and McMaster will meet Osgoode Hall.

The subject for the former debate is "Resolved that the Monarchical form of government secures the well-being of a country better than the Republican form." The debate will be held at Victoria. S.P.S. will support the negative through their representatives R. Hamer, M.A. and W. J. Browne. The Victoria debaters are W. J. Little, B.A. and A. S. Mains, B.A.

The McMaster v. Osgoode debate will be held in Osgoode Convocation Hall on the subject, "Resolved that the Franchise as extended to women on the same basis as to men." S. J. Cole, B.A. and H. E. Wintemute will support the affirmative for McMaster, while J. A. Grace, B.A. and W. Ungar, B.A. will uphold the negative for Osgoode.

The winners of these two debates will contest the final debate on some future date not yet determined.

271 ANCIENT HISTORY DEBATING CLUB HELD THIRD MEETING

All Who Can Should Come to Next Debate

Another interesting debate occurred on Monday at the 271 History Debating Club. The subject "Resolved that German immigrants should be excluded from Canada after the war," was discussed by Messrs. Heaton and Laughlin for the affirmative and negative respectively. The large gathering present were about evenly divided on the subject and some interesting points were raised. Every body turned out next Monday, November 26, at 3 p.m. when Messrs. Green and Finlay will debate, "Resolved that an autocracy is better adapted for war purposes than a democracy." The club meets every Monday from three to four o'clock.

PTE. G. FUSSELL, SON OF CARETAKER OF LIBRARY BUILDING, DIED OF WOUNDS

Pte. George Fussell, son of Mr. Sam Fussell, the caretaker of the University Library, has died of serious gunshot wounds in the thigh after being in France for a year. Mr. Fussell received a cable several days ago announcing that his son was seriously wounded and he received the news of his son's death yesterday. Mr. Fussell is well-known by sight to all University students, and they sympathize with him in his great loss.

Wycliffe. I see the future generations of Wycliffe men, as yet unborn, rising to greater heights because of his present sacrifice. For hark! these men shall leave behind them, instruments of flight and wings shall be added to the budding parsons, who shall one day, roam these halls in great numbers. Then shall come to pass the saying, that I written 'They have become sky-pilots'.

TENNIS MEETING

There will be a meeting of the tennis executive on Thursday afternoon at the gymnasium at 1:30. All the members are requested to be present as it is intended to wind up the affairs of the season.

ALD. L. M. SINGER ON 'JEWISH PROBLEM'

At Meeting of Menorah Society

Advocates Zionism as Best Solution

The Menorah Society held their first open meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 19, at the University Y.M.C.A. The feature of the evening was a very instructive and interesting address by Ald. L. M. Singer, on the "Jewish Problem." Prof. W. R. Taylor, Ph.D., the honorary president, also spoke briefly on the aims and significance of the Menorah Society. Mr. Sweet, president, occupied the chair. "The question of the Jewish problem," began Ald. Singer, "is one that can be scientifically discussed and graphically illustrated." He then briefly outlined the history of the Jews and showed how, in spite of their persecutions and sufferings, for centuries, the Jews have continued to exist and now stand forward with more health and pride than ever before.

What is the Jewish Problem? The few words equal rights. How is it best solved? Mr. Singer dwelt on the various solutions that have been advanced both by Gentile and Jewish writers. Some proposed assimilation, others, exclusiveness, whereas some philosophers stated that the Jews can obtain equal rights by legislation. But all these solutions are purely theoretical and could not by any means forever solve the Jewish Problem. They are inadequate.

"The only practical solution is Zionism," stated Ald. Singer. "For, the very fact that the British Government has promised to do everything in her power to give to the Jews their Holy Land, Palestine, as a 'publicly recognized and legally assured home' is the best vindication of the practicability of Zionism."

Dr. Taylor, speaking about the Menorah Society said: "This year a new Society begins in the Toronto University. It ought to have a broad appeal to the student body. Its purpose is to study the life and history of the Jewish people both past and present. I hope that every student, especially the Jewish student, will recognize the importance of this movement."

The lengthy applause which followed the vote of thanks moved by Mr. Schott and seconded by Miss M. Wladowski, was sufficient proof of the appreciation of Ald. Singer's lecture.

The musical programme was greatly enjoyed by all present. The following participated. Miss Mattie Levi, 'All Hail to Thee, Toronto'; Mr. W. Buck, a violin solo; Miss Ray Levinsky, recitation 'Frank S. Iverman, piano solo; and Miss Ray Spiegel, vocal solo.

Miss Ray Levinsky, the well-known authoress and poetess, held the audience spellbound by her very excellent recitations from Shakespeare: Hamlet's soliloquy, the farewell scene in Romeo and Juliet; and Antony's speech over the dead body of Caesar.

The meeting concluded with singing "God Save the King."

Don't forget the Short Story Contest U.C. Women's Lit.

Those members of The Varsity Staff desiring to order staff pictures and to see the proofs may do so at the editor's office from 11 to 12.30 Thursday.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB WILL PRESENT "LES ROMANESQUES"

The Plot is Delightfully Romantic and Humorous

Music and Dances will Complete the Programme

"Les Romanesques," the French play which the Modern Language Club is giving on Thursday evening at the Canadian Academy of Music, 12 Spadina Road, is one of unusual lyrical charm and of irresistible humour. The story is rather complicated, the principle character being a wall, which divides the stage in two. On one side of the wall lives Percinet, a romantic youth, and, on the other side, Sylveste, a romantic maiden. These two young people are much impressed with their romantic position, as the children of two old men between whom there is a mortal feud, and promptly fall romantically in love. However, it so happens that the two old men are the very dearest of friends, and their one desire in life is to see the young people married, but they know their children are too romantic to fall in love if they are told to. So they have invented a feud and built a wall, and when their plan proves successful their only care is to make it seem quite natural that they are willing to give their consent to the marriage. So they engage a bravo, Stralof, who arranges a kidnapping scene in which Sylveste is the fair victim, and Percinet her rescuer. The play ends happily in a charming little rondel. The lyrical parts are accompanied by a small, but capable orchestra, and a Hawaiian guitar selections is introduced with delightful effect.

In addition to the play, a splendid programme is offered—a violin solo by Miss Mary White, a vocal solo by Miss Lilian Black, and dances in costume by Misses Gwyneth and Audrey Sampson.

The cast of the play is as follows:—Sylveste—Mardette McMaster. Percinet—Dorothy McMillan. Stralof—Gladys Bruce. Bergamin—Margaret Tytler. Pasquinot—Mary Underwood. Spadassino—Marie Peterkin and Anna Munro.

Orchestra—Mary White, Kathleen Asman, Marjorie Buck. Hawaiian guitar—Margaret McCoy.

DENTS MEET O.T.C. IN SEMI-FINALS AT FOUR TO-MORROW

Winners to Play Senior Meds

To-morrow afternoon at four p.m. sharp the semi-final for the Mulock Cup will take place, when Dents meet O.T.C. at Varsity Stadium. The winner of this game will meet Senior Meds in the final at a later date. Admission for the game will be 15 cents, and the proceeds will go as usual toward paying the expenses of the injured players. Dents won their way through a hard group by a narrow margin, while O.T.C. easily outpointed their weaker opponents. This places both teams on an equal footing and a good fast game should result. The following is the standing of the teams in the series:

GROUP I.
Sr. Meds.	2 0
Trinity	0 2
GROUP II.
Dents	2 0
St. Michael's	1 1
Jt. Meds.	0 2
GROUP III.
C.O.T.C.	2 0
U.C.	1 1
Victoria	0 2

Nov. 23—U.C. Women's Literary Society, Women's Union, Prof. Hooke on Claudel—8 p.m.—

POSTPONEMENT.

Owing to the impossibility of obtaining the accommodation—the "Get Together" which was to be held on Thursday evening has been postponed.

HUSH! DID YOU GUESS!

ASSAULT-AT-ARMS AT BIG "T" MIXER TO-NIGHT

The secret is out. Yes! We couldn't keep it any longer. You will wake up on Wednesday, November 21—TO-NIGHT—when you suddenly discover yourself at the Big "T" Mixer, a madly-excited spectator of an assault-at-arms. Do you know what that animal is? A four-footed quadruped eh? Fine guess! Go up head of the class.

Well, fellows, the executive has secured two professional boxers, who will engage in a three-round bout of three-minutes each round. Frank Bull, the International and Canadian champion in the 125-lb. class has won three medals: two in Pittsburgh and once in Detroit in the intercity contest. "Scottie" Lismar, formerly 125-lb. champ has won five medals and is in training now for a bout with a champion from Syracuse. The referee will explain some of the fine points of the game.

But still better! Chas. Walter, who has been, and is the Canadian champion of foil, sabre and bayonet fencing, will give an exhibition, indicating the special thrusts and points which make a successful exponent of this art. He was the main organizer of the Central "Y" Amateur Fencing Club.

This will be a real mixer fellows—all the faculties are intending to mix and we will not sit at faculty tables—we will just mix and have a most enjoyable time together. It is worth 25 cents to meet men of other faculties and exchange views and sentiments with them—to say nothing of the other surprise waiting you. Get tickets from your faculty representative, at the University "Y" or else at Central "Y".

"CLUB POLITIQUE" IS FORMED BY 179 HISTORY STUDENTS

In order to gratify a desire which has been felt by many students for a small informal discussion-group, the Juniors have started the "Club Politique".

The object of the club is, primarily, the discussion of problems of present-day government. The original membership consists of all men students of Class 179 who are enrolled in Constitutional History. Invitations will be issued by the president to any other men who desire to attend the meetings, which will be held fortnightly. The procedure will be of the simplest form. The chairman will open the meeting with a short outline of the topic chosen for the evening. The question will then be thrown open for discussion by all present. The subjects will be live ones and the treatment of them will cultivate clarity of thought and consciousness of expression, qualities which are well worthy of attainment.

The officers for the year have been elected as follows. President, Mr. V. O. Matchett; Vice-President, Mr. C. C. Downey; Secretary, Mr. J. I. Middleton.

The initial meeting will be held this afternoon, November 21, at 2 o'clock in the University Library building. The topic for the meeting will be "The Federal Franchise." Any men who are really interested should communicate as soon as possible with the President.

CO-OPERATION

The present scheme of holding a Union meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. at University College is an experiment which ought to prove fruitful of great good. Fundamentally these organizations are bound together by common aims, ideals and methods. At times of great undertakings—such as the coming missionary campaign—it is almost imperative that they should unite. If therefore, at a crisis, strength is found to lie in unity, should the same theory not hold in the ordinary life of the organization?

Some old Greek philosopher discovered that the history of the world is to move in endless alternation between the state of divided being and that of the Union of all things in the primitive fire. We call for unity in Canadian government, unity in the allies war cabinet, unity of man, woman and child to win the war. For a while we must swallow our high and mighty idea of independence, which the average Canadian has developed to an unwarranted degree. No man can be a "law unto himself". We are here to "pull together" for the common good, whatever that may be.

We are glad that the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are leading in this matter of union, and it is hoped that the other organizations of the University, where at all possible, will follow their good example. In behalf of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. we bespeak a large attendance at their joint meeting which will be held in the near future.

"MUCH OF A MUCHNESS"

There is a conversation in "Alice in Wonderland" which we think University women (and possibly men) could ponder with profit.

The Doremouse is telling a story to Alice and the March Hare about three little girls in a treacle well.

"And they were learning to draw—and they drew all manner of things—everything beginning with an M"—

"Why an M?" said Alice.

"Why not?" said the March Hare.

"—That began with an M, such as mousetrap and moon and memory and muchness. You know you say a much of a muchness."

"Really, now you ask me," said Alice, "I don't think —"

"Then you shouldn't talk," said the March Hare.

Really it is excellent advice. Are we spending our precious four years talking instead of thinking? We talk of all manner of things, "everything beginning with an M" or any other letter. But do we get anywhere? Is it just a "much of a muchness"?

W. U. Literary Society, Students' Council, Debating Union, Dramatic Society, Glee Club, Athletic Society and smaller organizations all have their claims. Each is so excellent in its way that we cannot resist it. We strive to be that myth—"an all round person". In doing so we lose the very thing we come here to get—a power to think and to think to a conclusion? If so our course is a failure.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Note that the Y.W.C.A.—Y.M.C.A. "Get Together" which was to have been held to-morrow evening, has been postponed.

THE VARSITY asks that every possible piece of news concerning student soldiers preparing for overseas, at the front or returned, be handed into THE VARSITY office.

The Modern Language Club is presenting a splendid programme to-morrow evening. Students who take interest in the work which the Club conducts would do well to attend to-morrow night.

There are almost sixty students on the various executives to guide the undergraduates of University College through the present year. In the meantime the Dominion Cabinet has about twenty members.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND MEN

No. 2 —

"THE CHALLENGE TO COLLEGE WOMEN"

Miss Margaret Wrong

The challenge to College women to-day is a challenge to think and then to act. Old catchwords have to be done through honest thought and action as a result of thought. College women must take the lead in this matter. There is a curiously resentful attitude about being made to think, a reluctance to realize that great questions are unanswered and that the responsibility of finding an answer is the responsibility of every individual. There is but little time and that time is so easily filled with noise and bustle, with running from place to place, with learning the sayings of others by heart without digesting them. There is no time to be quiet and to think. There is the challenge to take time to be quiet and to know where we are and at what we are aiming. What we believe in word and whether we are living that belief in deed.

For men the claims of the community have been put clearly before the claims of the individual. Women must put these claims first too. How is this to be done? There is the general appeal for economy. How is that appeal to be answered by the individual? We are asked to save food and money; each individual must think and decide. What degree of discipline is required of each individual in the University that the need may be met? To fall asleep on sentry duty may mean the loss of a battalion. Are we asleep here and what peril does this mean for the community? Have we yet faced sacrifice and service in every detail of our lives? These questions demand thought and then action.

The challenge is so clear and so desperate. Many women are enfranchised. What are we to do with our vote? How are we to be active, rather than onlookers? Can we ameliorate social conditions by the intelligent use of our vote? Have we realized this new power, this new responsibility? Only by honest thought can we do this. Wise action does not issue from a vacuum.

There are new calls for service on every side, new openings for women to fill, old conventions have given way in the sheer of their timor, earphone has to think to find her place in the community. The challenge to thought and action in the University and beyond cannot and must not be ignored.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

It pains u and it grieves us
More than all else in the sheet;
It annoys us and it pvees us —
Please can't you it delete?

Tis a headline that we grouch about,
And a phrase that oft recurs —
The hackneyed work of a foolish lout,
Or some poor local editors.

Now this is the burthen of our lay:
(Pray hark ye of THE VARSITY)—
A "sacrifice" one does not "pay",
And duty earns no "penalty".

Dear Editor, with this we close —
Please do not think us mean
If we suggest when next you doze,
Don't dream the word "supreme".

PROF. HOOKE WILL ADDRESS
WOMEN'S LIT. ON CLAUDEL

The Women's Literary Society of University College presents a programme of unique interest for its meeting of this week. Professor Hooke will speak on Claudel, the French dramatist of the hour. Members of the Society who heard Prof. Hooke's address of last year on Mercoproski will need no encouragement to attend this meeting. Music and dancing complete the programme. The meeting will be held at the Women's Union on Saturday at 8 o'clock.

CHILDREN'S PARTY FOR THE FRESHETTES

The Freshettes have cultivated the right University spirit. At 7.30 p.m. on Friday evening at the Union they will hold a Children's Party, which promises to be quite exciting. Don't forget to keep this evening free and attend the 2TI party.

VICTORIA WOMEN ARE INTERCOLLEGIATE
TENNIS CHAMPIONS

St. Hilda's Give Winners a Close Race
But Fell Behind Towards Close of the Tournament

It seemed as if the weather man were never going to let the women's intercollegiate tennis tournament be played off this year, but finally, two weeks after the scheduled time, he relented and the girls got right to work. The playing was on the Toronto Tennis Club courts as usual, and started on Monday afternoon, November 5. The courts weren't in first class condition by any means, but what's a little mud compared with the necessity of getting the games played off?

On the first afternoon it looked as if St. Hilda's and Victoria were going to have a pretty even run for the championship, which was rather interesting since for the last two years the pull has been between Victoria and University College, but Victoria worked up until Tuesday noon there was no doubt of her final victory. The Victoria players were well backed by a crowd of faithful "rooters", who cheerfully froze for the good of the cause and certainly "helped some".

The final result was that out of a total of eighteen points, U.C. won two, St. Hilda's five, and Victoria, eleven.

Victoria—Misses M. Myers, F. Jenner, D. V. Smith, B. Flanders, J. O. Smith, M. Hewson.

U.C. WINS EASILY FROM VICTORIA

Score was 36-6

Thoburn Makes Some Spectacular Runs for U.C.

Yesterday afternoon University College rugby team completely outclassed Victoria in a Mulock cup game. The score, 36-6 does not indicate the superiority of the U.C. team.

U.C. kicked off and the ball was returned by a Vic half, the ball going into touch, giving U.C. possession of it on Vic's 40-yard line. A hole was discovered in the Victoria defence, and a touchdown was made by U.C., but was not converted. Thoburn, who received the ball on Vic's kick, made a fine sprint up the field. After a series of bucks and some brilliant runs by the halves, another touch was made by U.C.

Toward the end of the quarter Vic assumed the offensive and secured a touchdown which was converted. The quarter ended 10-6 for U.C.

In the next quarter U.C. bucked for another touch. A kick behind the line completed their aggregate for the first half. Score, 16-6 in favor of U.C.

The last half was all in U.C.'s favor. They ploughed through the Victoria defense for big gains. Thoburn made spectacular runs. Four touches, none of which were converted, completed U.C.'s contribution to the score, and the game ended in semi-darkness with the score 36-6 in U.C.'s favor.

The winning team's play was much superior to that exhibited by them in the game with O.T.C.

DENTS DEFEAT PHARMACY EASILY IN SOCCER GAME

Dents and Pharmacy met yesterday afternoon on the front campus, and what promised to be an exciting soccer game turned into an easy victory for Dents. The muddy nature of the ground hindered both teams and prevented them from displaying their true form.

From the beginning of the first half, Dents urged their opponents, and as a result of some pretty combination work, Ferguson scored after about ten minutes of play. Dents kept up their good work and Butler notched their second goal on a fine shot from the side, which the goalkeeper had no chance to stop. This ended the scoring for the first half.

The second period opened with Dents still on the aggressive. Pharmacy tried hard to force them back, but their team work was lacking. On a beautiful combination play in front of the nets, Dents scored the third and last goal of the game.

Dents—Griffin, Smyth, Fraser, Butler, Barnish, Forbes, Day, Edwards, Ferguson, Adams, Sproule.
Pharmacy—Sutherland, McLann, Ferguson, Quinn, Shield, Dennis, Coughlan, Cross-thwait, Roy, Smith, Dean.

VICTORIA DEFEATS U.C. IN THE FIRST WOMEN'S BASKETBALL CONTEST

U.C. Scored Early, But Were Swamped in Last Half

On Tuesday evening, November 13, the first intercollegiate women's basketball game was played in the Household Science gymnasium between Victoria and University College.

University College led off with a score of six to nothing in the first few minutes. They kept the lead most of the first half, but Victoria began to get warmed up, and the half finally ended with the score 10-15 in favour of Victoria. In the second half Victoria led all through and the game ended with score 11-37 in favor of Victoria.

The game was very good. The playing was clean and consistent, only four fouls outside of line fouls being made. The score was a little too one sided during the latter part of the game to keep the interest up to pitch, but the playing continued fast

MISS GRANT ADDRESSED THE MEDICAL Y.W.C.A. YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Told of Work Done by the Department

On Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Medical Y.W.C.A., Miss Grant, Superintendent of the Social Service Department of the General Hospital, addressed a sympathetic group of knitters. Miss Grant spoke in a most comprehensive way of the work done by the whole of the Social Service Department, but dealt more especially with that covered by the medical branch.

The "Service Society" acts as a connecting link between the medical profession and the relief societies, and also as intermediary between physician and patient.

Starting with the organization of the first hospital social Service Department in France as early as 1814, the adoption of the method was traced through England and the United States until in 1911, Toronto fell in line for Canada.

From a brief resume of Dr. Cabot's work in which he points out that work, play, love and religion are the things by which men live, Miss Grant passed over the different conditions in which the assistance of the social worker is invaluable to the physician, and vice versa, incidentally telling of the fears entertained by a Macedonian taking his first ride in the hospital elevator to an unknown place; and finally concluding with the hopes cherished by the Medical Social Service Department for (1) A lessening of crime and disease, (2) better hospital accommodation; (3) a diminution of public expenditure; (4) more intelligent legislation.

Other Colleges

Columbia—Unqualified endorsement of the action of the Trustees of Columbia University in dismissing from the Faculty Professors Cattell and Dana on account of their utterances and actions opposing the war, is expressed in the annual report of the Standing Committee of the College Alumni Association for the year just ended. The report, which is to be presented at the meeting of the Alumni Association, approves in no uncertain terms any action which the Board of Trustees may see fit to take to protect the good name of the University.

Iowa—A decrease of 10 per cent in enrolment for the year is reported by the University of Iowa. The registrar announces a slump of 15 per cent, for the fall registration, but the increased summer session attendance made the loss for the year to per cent. The law college was affected most.

Yale—Registration at Yale University dropped from 3,300 in 1916, to 2,060 this fall.

Nebraska—Thirteen student organizations and thirty faculty members of the University of Nebraska have adopted French orphans.

Kansas—Started military drill on Monday, and women in the college will be required to take the training.

Dartmouth—The Dartmouth enrollment for the year shows a decrease of 600 students. There are at present 900 registered in the college.

Princeton—A total of twelve men, former students of Princeton University, have been decorated for bravery on the battlefields of Europe.

Eight crews competed in the trial heats of the annual fall races at the University of Pennsylvania recently. Coach Wright declares that fall practice has produced some promising material.

and the on-lookers certainly displayed enthusiastic interest.

Victoria—B. F. Anders, J. Smith, F. Snider, C. Kilborn, J. Edginton.

U.C.—M. Wylie, M. MacTaggart, C. Miller, W. Thompson, I. Stoby, M. Tennant.

TRENCH COMMANDMENTS

The "Ten Commandments" of the trench are—

1. When on guard thou shalt challenge all parties approaching thee.
2. Thou shalt not send any engravings nor any likeness of any airship in heaven above, nor any fortification on the earth beneath, nor any submarine in the waters under the earth, for I, the censor, am a jealous censor, visiting the iniquities of the offenders with three months C.B., but allowing mercy unto thousands by letting their letters go first who obey my commandments.
3. Thou shalt not use profane language, unless under extraordinary circumstances, such as seeing thy mate shot, or getting petrol in thy tea.
4. Remember the soldier's week consists of seven days. Six days shalt thou labour, and on the seventh thou shalt do odd jobs.
5. Honour thy King and Country, keep thy rifle well oiled and shoot straight that thy days may be long in the land the enemy giveth thee.
6. Thou shalt not kill time.
7. Thou shalt not adulterate thy mess tin by using it as a shaving mug.
8. Thou shalt not steal thy comrade's kit.
9. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy comrade, but preserve silence on his outgoings and incomings.
10. Thou shalt not covet thy corporal's post, nor the sergeant-major's, but by thy duty and perseverance thou shalt rise to the position of field marshal.—Exchange.

Captain Jones was a very round-shouldered and eccentric officer.

On a particular dark night in Egypt, while practising his company in outpost duty, he approached one of the sentries who failed to halt him.

In a great rage the officer demanded of the now trembling sentry the reason why he had omitted to challenge him.

"If you please, sir," stuttered the confused soldier, "I thought you was a camel."—London Fun

Say, Dad! Lend Me Fifty?

"Lend you fifty cents, my son, for what, pray?" "No! not fifty cents, $50.00 I mean, Dad. I want to get a Victory Bond all my own, I'll pay you back, honest, Dad, some day after I get to work. You said every one should lend a helping hand, I'm not big enough to fight, but I want to do my bit."

"Right you are, son, that's a capital idea; I tell you what we'll do: I'll buy a twenty-year Victory Bond for you—why, just think, you will be thirty-five years old when it falls due, perhaps with a wife and boys of your own—but remember after you begin working it will be up to you to pay me back a little at a time as you may be able."

"That means you'll pay for it in the long run, not I, then when the war is over and our laddies come home again, my boy will feel that even though too small to fight, he tried to do his bit by sending a $50.00 'Silver Bullet' to help win the war."

St. Michael's

On Monday, November 19, a very lively game of rugby took place here, when the Irish and Jews second teams met in deadly combat. This game is an annual event, and is usually accompanied by much friendly rivalry, water and shoe-polish. Both teams had been practising hard in preparation for the event and all were in the pink of condition. The game was closely contested throughout, and not once did it lack interest and excitement. Many players deserve special mention, in particular "Pete" Reynolds of the Hibernians, who bucked like a blue fiend. Time after time "Pete" made yards, and in the first half of the game nothing could stop him. Owing to injuries to his eyes, early in the second half, his efficiency was considerably lessened, although he was still very aggressive. Once in the latter part of the game, half-blinded by excitement and shoe-polish, he accidentally kicked one of the Jewish rooters whose antics annoyed him. Ed. Fallon, who played his farewell game with the Irish, was conspicuous for his tackling. Three or four times he almost relieved "Rusty" Gordon of his arms. McDougall, Irish half-back, a former Ottawa College star, played a steady game and kicked beautifully "shag" O'. Shaughnessy, Mac's companion in the back-field, showed up well, especially in his fine punts. "Pete" Warren ripped the Jewish line like a second "Ross" Craig, and Benny Webster gathered up every loose ball he could put hands on. "Benny" excelled as a defence man, and at centre, he was a tower of strength for the Irish.

Jimmie Ryan, of the Irishers, and Mulvihill and Hagarty, Yiddishers, made several spectacular runs. Gordon, the Jewish captain and quarterback, was the soul of the team, and one of the best men on the field, being surpassed only by Bill Flannery, who was a veritable Hercules and his efforts were a source of great discomfort to his opponents. Ambrose Driscoll's feet formed an impenetrable barrier at inside wing, while Dan Simpson was like a stone wall. Mike Sheehy, Irish quarter, played like a veteran. Mike is light, has lots of speed, and with more practice will make a rugby player. He had the misfortune to be knocked out once in the game, and for about eight minutes was unconscious of all efforts to revive him.

"Red" Nash, Yiddish half-back, was conspicuous for his catching, kicking, and his hair. "Doc" Dermody, although he showed lack of training and condition never once failed to make yards. "Doc" certainly looks like a rugby player—when he wears a rugby suit.

Montague, as referee, was very fair—to the Jews, though several of the Yids claim his pockets were lined with Irish gold. Frequent heavy showers of rain served to encourage the players, although many claim it dampened their ardour. "Pete" Reynolds swears that if he could have laid hands on "Jupiter Pluvius" all would not have gone well with him.

Irish 12, Jews 10.
Jews—Leacy, Dore, Cain, Simpson, Driscoll, Nolan, Donnelly, Sharahan, Hagarty, Mulvihill, Nash, O'Mara, Gordon.

Irish—Webster, Flannery, Fraser, Dermody, Fallon, Shea, Goley, Reynolds, Ryan, Warren, McDougall, O'Shaughnessy, Sheehy.

Trinity

An inter-year debate between representatives of the first and second years will form the chief feature of the programme of the Literary Institute meeting on Friday evening, November 23. The subject chosen is "Resolved that a limited monarchy is the best form of government for England". The names of the debaters have not yet been announced.

Athletic Dinner To-day.

At a meeting of the executive of the Trinity A.A.A. recently, it was decided to hold the annual steeplechase and athletic dinner on Wednesday, Nov. 21. Mr. H. E. Orr, B.A., was appointed recorder and Messrs. Rogers, Bender and Willis were elected to form a handicap committee. The list of entries up-to-date is fairly large and there will likely be keen competition for the various prizes.

Interesting Addresses Coming.

The Theological Society has issued its syllabus for the session, 1917-18. The subjects to be treated are as follows:

Dec. 3—"Church Music" by G. E. Hern.

Jan. 14—"The Catholic Revival,"

Reverend C. E. Emerson

Feb. 14—"The Catholicity of the Church" J. B. West.

Feb. 25—"Spiritualism".

Reverend R. Axon, L.Th.

Mar. 11—"The Recognition of the Layman", A. N. Hoath.

These meetings are open and visitors are made cordially welcome. Mr. J. B. West is secretary. "Phone, Coll. 3501.

TRINITY SPORTSMANSHIP

Despite the fact that the war has left only forty men in College, Trinity entered a team in the Mulock Cup series. Three games were played in all, one a practice game with Victoria, which Trinity won by a score of 97 and the others, two schedule games with S.P.S. and Senior Meds, both of which were lost. The season has been an especially hard one and much credit is due to the captain of the team, Mr. Clark. Not only was much of the material new, but poor luck has seemed to follow them throughout the season, five men in all being incapacitated by sickness and injuries, necessitating the playing of spares and substitutes, which are mighty hard things to find nowadays. The season is over and Trinity may be depended upon to keep up her old traditions and sportsmanship by entering a team as long as there are fourteen men able to turn out.

OPPOSITION WINS DEBATE

The battlefields of France and Flanders are not the only place where war is being waged, for the Literary Institute is once more the scene of stormy reharal engagements. Owing to the few men in College, the meetings are, naturally, not so well attended, but those who do go, do their best to make it a success. The opposition are bringing up their heavy artillery against the Government positions, but only to receive a counter attack as strong as the one they deliver.

Last Friday evening was the scene of the second Party debate of the year. The subject was "Resolved, that the hope of reward influences men more than the fear of punishment". The affirmative was ably supported by Messrs. Bruce and Wallace for the Opposition, and Messrs. Phelps and Robbins spoke on the negative for the Government.

Many were the arguments brought up for both sides, but the critic for the even-

St. Hilda's

The annual Convocation Tea was held on the afternoon of Saturday, November 17th. The Alumni meeting which began at 3 p.m. was well attended. The most important business matter brought up was the question of a life-membership fee, it was decided that there should be a fee of twenty-five dollars and that the money received from this in the future should be invested in government bonds. Victory Loans will be purchased with the fees already paid.

The feature of this meeting was the address given by Dr. Bott on the work which is being done at Hart House for wounded soldiers. He made interesting comparisons between the methods used here and in England; he also described how games and music were found to be of advantage in keeping up the interest of the patient in cases of slow improvement. Dr. Bott said that the money granted by the Government was never used in experimental treatments, and this important branch of the work depended entirely on voluntary subscriptions. He also mentioned the fact that the women volunteer workers at Hart House are proving a great success.

After the meeting tea was served. Then the various toasts were proposed and responded to and the undergraduates entertained the gathering with a variety of songs.

Many of the graduates who came back for the occasion were able to spend a very pleasant week-end at the college.

ing decided the speakers for the affirmative were superior to those of the negative, both in style and matter. The vote of the house was given in favor of the Opposition and, as the Government were defeated at the last party debate, they went out of power, and a new Council elected.

The evening was also enlivened by the presence of the "Misses" Seraphina Sappho and Arabella Clovertuft, who played their respective roles so well in the Mock Trial, on the fifth instant.

The "Lit" is very successful in its attempts, this year, and the Freshmen have shown a good interest in it. Next Friday evening a Debate will be held between the first and second years, and the resolution is "That a limited monarchy is the best form of government".

Congratulations to Mr. D. A. Martin on winning the tennis championship of the University, in "singles".

Deep regrets are felt for Mr. Paul Clark, a member of Arts '18, who was killed in action on October 28, 1917. A memorial service was held in his honour at St. Aidan's Church, on Sunday, Nov. 11th.

The first meeting of the Executive of U.C. 211 will be held in the Women's Union (Hoskin and St. George), Friday afternoon at 4.15.

"Honey" Draws the Line.
I've beamed when you hollered, "Oh, Girlie!"
I've hopped when you bellowed "Oh, say!"
I've fallen for "Dearie" and "Missus,"
And everything else till to-day.
But there's one thing that's got to be different,
From now till the great war is done -
Unless you're prepared for a riot,
You've got to quit calling me "Hun!"

Harrigan was out walking with his new bull pup when he met a friend. Everybody's Magazine reports the conversation.
"That's a fine-looking brute," said the friend, who was an admirer of blooded dogs. "Where do you keep him?"

"Oh, up in my room," said Harrigan.
"Don't you know that it isn't healthy to keep a dog in your room?" asked the friend.

"Oh, he's used to it now," Harrigan answered.

VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

'VARSITY MAKES FURTHER SACRIFICE ON COUNTRY'S ALTAR

Capt. "Bud" Brown, of Famous First Highland Unit, Dies

Many Other College Men Wounded and Gassed

Word was received by his parents on Sunday morning that Capt. Richard Austin (Bud) Brown died of wounds on Wednesday, November 14th. He was wounded on November 9th in the fighting around Passchendaele Ridge, and on November 12 was admitted to No. 3 (C.S.) dangerously wounded in the head. Capt. Brown enlisted as a lieutenant with the 58th Battalion, crossing to England with a draft in the summer of 1915, and later going to France to a famous First Division Highland unit, with which he served until his death. He was wounded at Zillebeke on June 3, 1916, returning to Canada on sick leave in July. He rejoined his battalion in October. In July of this year he was awarded the Military Cross, and has been acting captain for some months. Capt. Brown was an intimate friend of Maurice Malone and Eben Rycie, both University men who made the supreme sacrifice. He was Arts, University College, of the class of 1918.

Lieut. Paul Harly Raney, previously reported missing, is now known to have been killed when his airplane went out of control in a battle with German airmen at Roulers on August 21. The word was received from Lieut. P. O'Brien, now a prisoner of war in Germany. Lieut. Raney enlisted with the R.F.C. in Canada last winter. He was a graduate of Applied Science, 1914, and his parents live in Ontario.

Cpl. Hugh Reid Kay was reported on November 20th killed in action. He was a B.A. of University College, 1915, and was attending Knox College at the time he enlisted with a Guelph Battery. His home is in Fushp.

Capt. Frank Vipond, Chaplain Service, has been accidentally injured. After acting as chaplain in the Ontario Hospital, Orpington and other hospitals in England. Capt. Vipond went to France this summer as chaplain to a Toronto battalion in the front line. On September 6th his horse fell under him and his left arm was fractured at three points, and his leg severely wrenched. He is at present at the Southport Cottage Hospital, and is making good progress. It is doubtful if he can return to the front again, but he hopes to report for duty before long. Capt. Vipond attended Trinity College from 1901 to 1904.

Lieut. J. H. Creighton, Victoria, 1918 has been wounded. He was a supernumerary officer with the 134th Battalion, but went overseas with a draft of officers in August, 1916, and in September was attached to a Highland unit of the first contingent. He was wounded only last July. His home is at 32 Hewitt Avenue, Toronto.

Lieut. A. J. Latorelli, B.A.Sc. 1906, has been wounded. He enlisted with the 75th Battery, and was later promoted captain. He crossed with a draft for the artillery, reaching England about April 7th, being afterwards sent to France.

Capt. C. L. Bath, who attended Trinity College during the session 1911-12, has been wounded. He enlisted in the Eaton Machine Gun Battery, but transferred to the R.F.C., where he was promoted to flight commander. He is a stepson of Lieut.-Col. H. C. Osborne, H.Q., Ottawa.

Lieut. Robert Roy McKay of Hamilton has been wounded. He was a lieutenant with the 76th Battalion, but had been sent to France to a first division battalion. He was a U.C. student 1918.

Lieut. Cecil Roy McCort is in hospital in France with trench fever. He went overseas with the 6th McGill Siege Battery, but last winter he asked for his discharge from the Canadians to join the R.G.A. of the Imperial army. Lieut. McCort was Applied Science, 1915.

DEVOTE SPECIAL EVENING TO PATRIOTIC PURPOSES

Xmas Tree and Overseas Shower on Nov. 31st at Queen's Hall

Many of the Girls in Attendance at Red Cross Lectures

On Tuesday evening, Miss Livingstone, the Dean of Queen's Hall, announced to the girls that this year a special evening was to be set aside for patriotic purposes. On Saturday, November 31, a tea is to be given to which guests are to be invited, each paying an admission fee of 25 cents, and also bringing with them a small parcel which will be sent overseas afterwards.

On this same evening the usual Christmas tree for charitable purposes will be given, the girls themselves making the contributions towards it and entertaining the children who are invited.

A great deal of splendid work has been done this year in the way of knitting. Besides much that has been done for special friends, the girls have used their time and made glad the evening meal hour knitting Red Cross wool between the courses.

In addition to knitting, a great many of the girls are attending V.A.D. lectures every week, some with the prospects of taking up first aid work in the near future.

These classes, which have an attendance of between eighty and ninety enthusiastic girls, most of which are from the city, are one of the surest indications of the fine patriotic spirit of Toronto.

Queen's Hall is proud indeed that she has such a splendid representation at them.

CAPT. BISHOP SPEAKS AT FAC. OF EDUCATION

Take as Subject "Organization for Service"

Capt. Bishop at the Faculty of Education on Monday, November 19, under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A., the students gathered in the Assembly Hall and listened to an instructive and interesting address by Capt. C. A. Bishop. He spoke to the students on "Organization for Service", saying that organized Christian work was found in every country of Europe, and throughout the great mission lands. At the World's Student Organization meeting at Constantinople, in the heart of the land of Mohammed, there were representatives from forty-two different countries. The bonds of all organizations, except the Christian Student organization, have been broken between Germany and England. Both student organizations are praying for each other. One of the first questions to be settled when the war is over is—"How can the bonds of brotherhood be restored?" Mr. Bishop finished his address by telling the students that it was just as important that they be trained in Christian Service as it was to have a high academic standing. Success depends not only on ability, but also the spirit which goes with it, and education should be used for the service of our fellow men. Miss Aymes Campbell the Y.W.C.A. president, was in the chair, and two delightful and highly-appreciated solos were given by Miss Wright and Mr. Carl Adams.

EXEMPTED MEDICALS NOT TO BE UNIFORMED

Occupy Different Status to That of Dent. Sergeants

A rumour that the medical students will have to wear their uniforms all the time on account of recent exemption from the M.S.A. has been circulating the University. Certain students from the dental college have voluntarily enlisted and have been given leave of absence, without pay, to continue their studies. In this case they are allowed to wear their uniforms all the time. However, it is not likely this course will be pursued with respect to medical students. In order to pursue this course the students would have to enlist and be examined for medical fitness. They would then be granted leave of absence without pay, and they would be members of the overseas forces and not of the C.O.T.C.

BIG 'T' MIXER SCORES ANOTHER GREAT SUCCESS

Mr. J. P. Hagerman Delivers Interesting Address in Opening Discussion Groups

As usual the "T" Mixer was held with great success on Wednesday last. The chairman for the evening was Mr. Jenkins of Pharmacy. After a "rapturous" and bounteous repast, the chairman in his inimitable way, introduced Mr. J. P. Hagerman, who was to open the religious discussion group series by addressing the combined groups on "Relating life to life and the source of life."

Mr. Hagerman is an athlete. He was at one time chosen as a representative at the Olympic games. He has trained, travelled and played with all sorts of teams. With all this experience behind him and with a religious experience equal to it, he asserts that he cannot see why the two cannot be related. "I have boxed, but I am none the less a Christian for it. I was won to the Christian life through athletics."

That is the problem that faces every man that he relate life to religion; that he realize that athletics and religion are not incompatible.

After several rousing songs, sung en masse, with Mr. Sims officiating at the piano, Mr. Chas. Walter, his fencing partner and the referee, "the professor", were introduced. After pointing out the things to watch for, they "went to it". Several exhibitions were given of all the different fencing strategies imaginable, and the prolonged applause which greeted the "finale" showed with what appreciation they were watched.

Due to unforeseen and certainly unplanned-for circumstances, the more realistic "mixing" part of the programme had to be changed to a melodious one. However it is just a question whether this was less enjoyable and there is yet to be heard a voice regretting that fact that the owner attended any of the "mixers".

MED. STUDENT A BEAR IN VICTORY LOAN MARKET

Offers a Friday Bargain in Bonds

Although there has been no University Victory Loan campaign, there have been a fair number of Victory Bonds sold among University students. One medical student is reported to have bought up several hundred dollars' worth of bonds and is said to be selling them at a reduced price. Thus any who wish to do a bit of bargain hunting, may do so in the University, without having to wend their weary way downtownwards.

One canvasser was stopped for a moment by this answer to his question (naturally it was not the answer of a University student)—"We never buy from travellers or anybody who comes to the door."

Of course no University student would think so ridiculous and unpatriotic as this. Every student is expected to either buy a Bond or get somebody else to buy one.

There seem to be some poor unfortunate beings who think that the money which will be given for the VICTORY LOAN will be used for other than the purposes stated by the Government. This money is needed for the maintenance of Canada's army and if the Loan fails, Canada will be disgraced and Canada's prestige will be lowered greatly.

C.O.T.C. DEFEAT DENTISTRY IN MULOCK CUP SEMI-FINAL

Game Won in Last Stage on a Fumble by Dents

Best Contested Fixture of the Year

Dents and O.T.C. met yesterday afternoon at the Stadium in the semi-finals for the Mulock Cup. The game was most strenuously contested, and considering the nature of the ground, the players put up a sterling exhibition of rugby. The field was covered with slush, and small pools of water, and it was a pleasant sight for all but the players to see the beautiful tackles coming down in the middle of the pools. However, they seemed to enjoy the fun, and only regretted not having brought bathing suits along with them. Pluvius persisted in pouring all day, and as a result kept the attendance down to a minimum, but they made up in pep, what they lacked in numbers. A few attempts on the part of some of the players to make use of their fists on several fancied occasions added to the zest of the performance. Roberts, Dents' quarter back, was easily the star of his team, pulling off some sensational runs, but a hard tackle in the third quarter affected him, and he could not get away again. Lennard and Taylor starred for O.T.C. It was Lennard's wonderful run which gave O.T.C. the only score of the game and victory.

The game started at 4.15, Dents kicking off. The ball was returned, and Dents bucked for yards. Here Roberts pulled off a spectacular run to O.T.C. thirty-yard line, and again to within five yards of their last life. One good buck would have sent Dents over, but they lost the ball, and their best opportunity to win the game. The quarter ended without a score, with O.T.C. in possession of the ball.

Taylor, for O.T.C., commenced the second quarter by a fine run from his end of the field. Time and again O.T.C. bucked the Dents line for yards, and just when it seemed they were going right through, they lost the ball on an offside. Dents kick a long punt which O.T.C.'s back fumbles, and Dents get ball fifteen yards out. Before they had a chance to make use of their advantage, half-time sounded with neither side having yet scored.

The third period began with Roberts pulling off another sensational run, but was brought down on a hard head tackle, and had to be carried off the field, but pluckily resumed play. Dents fumbled the ball and O.T.C. kicked to Dents back line and held them there. Dents, however, forced their way through, and the third quarter ended with the ball in centre of field.

The last quarter started with darkness extending over the field. Each side realized that there had to be a score this period, and the most strenuous playing resulted. Buck after buck was attempted, but neither team could gain any advantage until Dents fumbled the ball forty yards out. After several successful bucks Lennard got the ball and started to run. Although tackled several times, he got away, and dodging Dents half backs he went across for the only touchdown of the game, which was converted. The game ended in darkness, with O.T.C. holding their advantage. Score 6-0.

Dents—Edwards, Stone, Giffin, McLauren, Stapells, Letellier, McLaughlin, Long, Graham, McGowan, Bell, Fraser, Butler, Roberts.

O.T.C.—Bruels, Lennard, Taylor, Brown, Ralph, McFarlane, Patterson, Robbins, Delaport, Nesbitt, McKendrick, McRohan, Dyer, Mix.

C.O.T.C. TO ORGANIZE REGIMENTAL BAND

Lieut. J. Slatter, of 48th Highlanders, will be in Charge

A meeting will be held on Tuesday next at 4.15 p.m. in Room 26, Mining Building, College Street, to consider the formation of a Band. Any student who can play a band instrument is requested to be present on that occasion. Lieut. John Slatter, of the 48th Highlanders, has consented to take charge, and is willing to give two afternoons each week from 4.15 o'clock to 5.30, if a sufficient number will promise to attend.

PROF. J. GIBSON HUME GIVES STRIKING ADDRESS

Speaks on "Burns—the Man, and Message," at Walker House

Error in Modern Concept Clearly Demonstrated

Prof. J. Gibson Hume, Ph.D., Head of the Department of Philosophy, University of Toronto, gave an interesting and very original address last night to the members of the Burns' Society at the Walker House on the subject: "Burns—the Man and his poetry". Some of the older members were quite startled to find that the usual representations about Burns' poverty, parentage, lack of education were utterly erroneous; being due to early misunderstandings fostered by the writings of Carlyle and spread abroad in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Professor Hume pointed out that all the biographers following Carlyle had busied themselves with his ancestry only on the father's side, whereas as Dr. Hume pointed out, instead of receiving everything in hereditary from his father, Burns received all his weaknesses physically from his father, from whom he inherited ill-health, nervous instability, melancholia, irritability, all of which cursed the poet's life. From his mother he received whatever vigour he had his good looks, his love of jollity, his taste for beauty, his appreciation of poetry—all the things that went to make him poet.

Prof. Hume has special acquaintance with the material side of Burns' family as he himself is related to Burns' on this side. He also showed that instead of Burns being unlettered, ignorant, and uneducated, he was really quite well and thoroughly educated before he burst into public notice with his wonderful writings.

Professor Hume thinks that Burns' prose writings have been quite too much overlooked. In them there is a treasure-house of revelation of the life history of the poet, his hopes and fears, trials, temptations, errors, follies, etc., and from them we can get accurate information about Burns.

He then gave an analysis of some of the great messages in Burns' writing. He taught Love of Beauty and Purity, Love of Home and Fatherland, Love of Nature, and kindness to animals, love of friendship and the world of love. His life gives us lessons and warning, the dangers that beset the gifted child, the value of good literature and home influences. The significance of friends. They hindered and helped Burns' who was a most sociable man and craved companionship.

SPLENDID GIFT OF $500 BY STUDENTS' COUNCIL

67th Varsity Battery is Recipient

The executive of the Students' Administrative Council held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon, November 21st. The sum of $500 was voted to the 67th Varsity Depot Battery. Mr. N. E. Sheppard, the treasurer of the Council, has resigned from the Executive and the Council on account of the pressure of work.

Mr. Childs, President of the Council, announced that the offer of the Men's Council to the Women's Council re the division of editorial responsibility had been accepted.

Mr. McDougall of St. Michael's College and Mr. W. S. Watson of Trinity College were appointed to be the representatives of the Men's Council on The Varsity Board.

The first meeting of the Executive of U.C. 271 will be held in Women's Union (St. George and Hoskin) this afternoon at 4.15.

COMPLAINTS

It is not unusual to receive complaints about THE VARSITY. Some of these are justifiable, but others are not; and it is to this latter class that we wish to direct attention.

In the first place many students, who are not aware of what a College "newspaper" aims to do, criticize the matter which is published. These students can be divided into two classes. The first consists of those who think that the VARSITY ought to be a literary paper. This is not the function of the paper, although we do publish from time to time special articles written on subjects which it is thought will interest the general student body. The other class is made up of those who think that THE VARSITY ought to be a paper like "Life", "Jack Canuck" or similar publications. These students also have the wrong idea of what a College "newspaper" aims to do. True a few jokes make their way into the paper and articles, written purposely in a facetious manner, do appear; but these are only for filler or sometimes to offer a little relief. What THE VARSITY does aim to do is to make an attempt to acquaint the whole University with the events which are taking place in the University. This is our supreme function and, due to the size of the University and the way in which the various Colleges are separated, a very necessary one. It ought to be a matter of education, moreover, for students to read, what other students are doing and thinking—they then realize that there are other students, taking other courses and doing other things.

A second objection is that all the matter which is handed in does not appear in the following issue. It is to be remembered that THE VARSITY is supposed to have only fifty per cent. of the space in any issue for news matter. This space is obviously inelastic. When some unexpected piece of news comes—and this frequently happens—something else has to be left out of the paper. In such cases the articles which are not printed are usually those which come in late; or those which relate to some event which will take place at a distant date. Students interested should keep this in mind.

A third objection is that THE VARSITY does not report all meetings held in the University. In this connection it ought to be remembered that there are veritably dozens of societies and associations in the University, and it is virtually impossible to keep in close contact with all of them. Secretaries of these societies could not do better than send in reports of meetings themselves. These will receive every consideration possible.

THE USE OF ENERGY

Do college girls dissipate their energies? Scatter-brained, hare-brained or keen, clear brained which are we?

Does our life at College lead us to be thinkers, or do we pick the brains of the best writers of books and piece the results of their thinking together, rather neatly to be sure. When given an essay subject do we not at once find out "the book" written on that particular subject—one book preferably if we are unambitious, and aim to get just forty or several books if we aim higher and wish to piece more artfully, intent on deceiving even the wisest professor. Do we ever trust our brains to evolve a thought unpropelled by books of wisdom? Of course we don't. It doesn't pay. The professors think they want original matter, but they don't really. They are steeped in "best thoughts" that our poor crude originalities are puerile to them. They are impatient with our few fragmentary faint, childish gleams of originality, so we go back to the patchwork method.

But the professors are not all to blame. Our manifold activities, sports, parties, year parties, inter-year parties, college parties, small group parties, games inter-year and inter-college, organization meetings, executive meetings, club meetings of all kinds, make hash of our time. No time to think. No power to think if we had the time! No power of concentration! What an arrangement!

Is it true? Don't say sadly, "Yes, it's true" and there let it lie. Don't say indignantly—"It's false"—and not prove your point. Do you think college people dissipate their energies to such an extent that their thinking is hazy or a minus quality altogether? If so, what remedy would you suggest? Should we abolish, regulate, or leave the various organizations as they are? Should we abolish, regulate or leave the various societies and clubs as they are?

Think! Put fifteen minutes' hard thought into it. See if you can concentrate on the subject. If not, why not?

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

MRS. LANG ADDRESSES
W.U.A. ON FRANCHISE LAWS

Point Schedule Drawn Up and Adopted

Dismal weather outside the house adds to the cheerfulness within the house. So might anyone have said on Wednesday afternoon about four o'clock, after coming in from the rain and taking a place around the cozy fire in the Common Room of the Union. Here a large crowd had gathered to attend the third general meeting of the W.U.A. After the minutes and notices concerning the coming Fruit-Pickers' campaign were read, the president called upon the speaker of the day, Mrs. Lang, address the girls upon her chosen subject, "Canadian Franchise Laws".

Mrs. Lang explained that for women there are four distinct franchises in Canada, the Dominion, the Provincial, the Municipal and the School. At present, the Dominion and Municipal franchise seem the most important, because they will be used first. In the Dominion election to take place on December 17, roughly speaking, all women (British subjects) over twenty-one years of age, claiming the relationship of mother, wife, widow, sister or daughter, to a British or Canadian soldier, who has served outside of Canada or to a British or Canadian sailor, may vote.

The Municipal franchise depends on property-holding. Any woman (British subject) over twenty-one years of age, who pays taxes to the municipality, may vote. The talk closed with a warning to those who were entitled to vote to make sure that their names were on the voters' lists.

The point system as revised by the executive of the W.U.A. was then read, clause by clause, discussed and voted upon. The new system which comes into force with the elections for next year, is as follows:

1. That only one office of any kind may be held by a first year girl.
2. That four points be the maximum any girl may hold in her second year.
3. That six points be the maximum any girl may hold in her third and fourth year.
4. That offices be allotted points in the following manner:

(a) Five points—President of W.U.A.; president of Literary Society; president of Y.W.C.A.; president of Modern Language Club; Senior Student of Queen's Hall; Woman editor-in-chief of THE VARSITY; women managing editor of THE VARSITY.
(b) Four points—President of Athletic Association; President of Dramatic Club; Class Vice-Presidents; Secretary of W.U.A.; Secretary of Y.W.C.A.; Recording Secretary of Literary Society; Secretary of Modern Language Club; Treasurer of W.U.A.

ANNUAL MOCK TRIAL AT NEWMAN CLUB.

This evening at 8 p.m. Newman Club held its annual Mock Trial. This year the Trial will be in the form of a Police Court and Mr. John Callahan will be the presiding Justice.

The success this feature has enjoyed in former years fully warrants the expectation of a fine evening's entertainment. All club members, as well as University men and women are urgently invited to attend.

PROF. HOOKE WILL ADDRESS
WOMEN'S LIT. ON CLAUDEL.

The Women's Literary Society of University College presents a programme of unique interest for its meeting of this week. Professor Hooke will speak on Claudel, the French dramatist of the hour. Members of the Society who heard Prof. Hooke's address of last year on Mercoproski will need no encouragement to attend this meeting. Music and dancing complete the programme. The meeting will be held at the Women's Union on Saturday at 8 o'clock.

FOURTH YEAR MECHANICALS
AND ELECTRICALS SEE PLANT

Visit Modern Factory of Eastman Film Co.

The inspection of the Eastman Film Company's plant in this city by the Mechanicals and Electricals of the fourth year, S.P.S., under the leadership of Prof. Fraill and Prof. Arkley, proved a distinct success. This company has one of the most efficient and up-to-date boiler plants in Canada. Mr. Reynolds, the chief engineer, conducted the party around, and took pains to explain everything. One of the interesting features was the ammonia refrigerating system which is used to freeze the moisture out of the air in which films are kept. The boiler-house contains a battery of four 300 h.p. boilers, while room still remains for another such battery. These boilers are fed from artesian wells, the water from which is prepared by going through a "water-softener". The latter proved of much interest. The electric system was also inspected, and the party broke up well satisfied with the evening's visit.

OPEN EVENINGS

THE CANADIAN COLLEGIATE MOVEMENT

BY MISS O. ZIEGLER, B.A.

The University student has exceptional opportunities, in view of which one would imagine that he would feel a special responsibility. If students realize that their education is a gift, nothing more or less, from the people of the Province of Ontario who pay the taxes necessary for the upkeep of our educational institutions. Considering finances only, which is the least important aspect of the case, the fees which he pays do not begin to cover the cost of his education. This fact surely implies an obligation on his part to repay this debt to the best of his ability. One could conceive in no better way of discharging this "educational" debt as it were, than by taking back to our Canadian Collegiate and High Schools, something of that broad outlook upon life, and a vision of its possibilities which a College education is supposed to give.

Recall your own Collegiate or High School, was it a very "inspiring" institution? One would think it fair to say that most of them are not schools in the sense of being a centre for "real" education—a "leading forth" of the pupils into new and fascinating paths. Do we find there any zest in the search after knowledge, any conception of the great variety of vocations through which latent abilities may be developed and human life find adequate expression? They are rather buildings in which a polyglot of from fifty to a thousand pupils (to take the two extremes) meet day by day for nine months of the year. Regardless of their different talents they are put through the educational machine in as short a time as possible. Then they are turned out into the world and expected to adapt themselves immediately to strange and foreign conditions—with little knowledge of books, and less of people, and the process of adaptation is painful in the extreme.

To be more explicit. Consider the lack of an intelligent consideration of one's life work. This has been truer, of course, in the past of girls than of boys. There are numbers of girls who take one or two years' Commercial Course at High Schools and go directly into a business office, very often because they "did not want to be a teacher or nurse, and did not know what else they could do."

This is also the case of the man, or woman, and he usually lives to regret it, who did not go on to College, simply because no one had ever driven home into his consciousness the fact that a college education is invaluable to a man's efficiency, no matter what particular vocation he prefers to follow afterwards.

What of the student who comes to college anxious to take Moderns or English and History, etc., ad infinitum, and discovers that he should have taken Latin, etc., etc., for his Matriculation, which he might easily have done had he known? It seems an obvious conclusion on that he should have learned these things in his own High School.

Finally, and most important, how are our High School students deciding what they are going to do. Is anyone making a big challenge to them to consider it, with all due regard to their individual abilities, from the standpoint of where they can best serve, or is it being decided on the basis of where they can make the most for themselves. The war has revealed the latter method in all its hideousness.

It is just this sort of need that the Canadian Collegiate Movement is endeavouring to meet. It is a large order, but the plan is fairly simple, and certainly effective where it has been already tried. Briefly it is this, to hold conferences in the different High Schools, lasting from Friday afternoon till Sunday evening. Students, graduates or undergraduates of the various colleges give brief addresses on such subjects as "Why go to College?" "Why have a definite purpose?" "New opportunities in Women's Vocations"; etc. Saturday morning the time is taken up with the discussion of the various vocations and their necessary qualifications, the different courses at College, and the fascination and worth-whileness of College life generally.

Friday evening is the open session to which the parents, school-board, etc., are invited. An address is given by an outstanding educationalist on some such subject as "Fitting One-self for Doing One's Bit", with the aim of stimulating the student to think.

Scattered through the conference there are many opportunities of getting to know the High School students, and exchanging points of view. This is often even more enlightening to the College "Grad" than it is to the High School student!

Besides the conferences, an attempt is being made to get thoroughly up-to-date books into the school libraries, to work out suitable programmes for their library societies, and to link up the High Schools with each other, so as to give them a "High School" consciousness. But the conferences are probably the most important place of the movement there have been held already. One instance will show a little of the possibilities in the idea. Monday morning, after one of the conferences, two first forms presented themselves before their principal and asked to be changed from the Commercial Course to Matriculation. They were "going to make college" if they could.

In conclusion these conferences offer a tremendous chance to the College student to discharge his debt by taking back some of his "college" ideas to the High Schools, worth-while ideas we take for granted because only those who realize the bigness of College will realize their indebtedness. It may be added that the time given not only helps out the High School student, but is of inestimable value to that same College person because it gives an unforgettable picture of our High School life. The whole conference is a series, as it were of real moving pictures. But the important thing is that it challenges the High School students to think out intelligently his own individual relation, and the relation of his school, to the world about him; and it is an effort to re-make our largely unintelligible High School machines into something pulsing with the energy of intelligent thought without which education, in any real sense of the word, is impossible.

Poetry

THE CRAFTY FIDDLER.

(The tune the old cow died on.)
"There was a poor man, who had an old cow
And he had no fodder to give her,
So he took down his fiddle and played her a tune,
Consider, good cow, consider
Is this a time of year for the grass to grow?
Consider, good cow, consider."

Some Noises from Ontario.

When Canada sent her sons,
To check the wicked Huns,
From those tyrants little Belgium to deliver,
Some profiteers seized on a mouth-organ
And wheezed this little tune (?)

Consider, soldier boys, consider.
Give the Huns more whacks
Till they turn their backs.
And hit up the Kaiser till he hollers,
But while you boys in France
Are throwing away your lives,
At home, we will pile up the dollars.
While you boys in Flanders trenches
Are wallowing in the mire
We will stack up the dimes and dollars.

Now consider, good boys, Consider.
Is this a time for recruiting?
While we are profiteering
And you are busy shooting
Please tell me who will keep up recruiting?

Consider, good boys, consider
The whole difficulty as I construe it
Is this, why doesn't the other fellow do it?

I am profiteering,
Thou art fighting,
He and she are getting married
We are going to the Movies;
You are going to the Trenches;
They (the enemy) are All on the Job,
Why does not some OTHER FELLOW do something?

Various Voices from Quebec.

"They may take Toronto and they may take Hamilton, but they will never take Zorra".

There are a few men in Quebec,
What are their names? It doesn't matter,
But against Canadian Unity,

These few set up a fearful clatter.

There was a Referendum once,
To try to bounce Canadian liquor;
The other Provinces would ban the curse,
But in Quebec they found a sticker.

Now the Huns are on rampage again.
Where will their outrage stop? You guess it;
They will stop just where they are stopped—That's plain,
Indeed they do themselves confess it.

But why should we Britain's enemies check?
For Canada fight? Should it be expected?
While the Huns don't outrage in Quebec.
Our Province has been much neglected.

For a Referendum let us Call
How it turns out—What does that matter?
It surely will all action stall,
All hopes for Union it will shatter.

As for the boys who fight in France,
They fighting like and they're delighted;
But as they're not fighting in Quebec
Surely our Province has been slighted.

The Huns may Belgium invade,
The fields in France are red and gory;
The Huns may Serbia over-run
To tackle Quebec is another story.

Hun submarines in Baltic raid
May Russians sink and cause disaster;
To come up St. Lawrence they're afraid
If they come in, they'll go out faster.

If Quebec once starts against the Hun
"Twill make those wretched scoundrels shiver;
She will catch the varmints one by one;
And drop them plunk into the River.

GET TOGETHER.

Canada has sent her noble sons,
To repel the wicked Huns,
From those outlaws little Belgium to deliver,
And our heroes promptly went.

Now some more must soon be sent
Our own Canada from tyrants to deliver Loyal Canadians one and All
Now hear the Patriot's Call
To establish freedom in our land forever,
If we all "Get Together"

To profiteers 'twill be cold weather.
To Tyrants a deadly chilling blight,
When we all "get together" for this fight.

Then the miser and the Kaiser
And each silly sympathizer,
Must wake up and get wiser
To the stubborn fact that Might must yield to Right.
Let all "get together" for this fight.
Let us all stand together,
Let us all fight together,
Till we drive back those demons of the night
Till we share in the triumph of the Right—
"GET TOGETHER."

1917

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

Kansas—Unless a petition drawn up at the Phi Chi house last night by forty or fifty students of the School of Medicine is acted upon favorably, Medics threaten to withdraw from the University. The petition which will be submitted to the Chancellor and the Exemption Board of the University asks exemption of all medical students from military training. They feel that they are fulfilling their duty to their country, they declare, by carrying extra work, and that it would be unfair to encroach upon the time necessary to their studies.

LIBERTY LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED
New Plan Adopted Whereby People Can Lend Smaller Sums.

Final results of the Liberty Loan in the United States show that the total subscriptions were $4,617,532,300 or 54 per cent oversubscribed. Secretary McAdoo stated that the success of the Loan would have been impossible without the loyal support and co-operation of the people of the country.

A war-savings plan has been adopted by which people can loan the government small amounts of money. Government certificates of indebtedness are to be sold in two denominations—thrift stamps costing 25 cents each and war-savings stamps costing from $4.12 to $4.23, according to date of purchase. War-savings stamps can be purchased for $4.12 during the months of December, 1917, and January, 1918, but will cost one cent more for each succeeding month in the year 1918. They are redeemable on January 1, 1923, for $5, which amounts to 4 per cent on the amount invested compounded quarterly. When $4 worth of thrift stamps are obtained a war-savings stamp can be secured in exchange for them by paying the difference between $4 and the current price of the war-savings stamp.

This plan makes it easy for every American citizen to save money, while at the same time they will be aiding the government by supplying it with money to conduct the war.

Iowa State—Within less than an hour the students and faculty of Iowa State College at Ames pledged $20,000 as its share of the $85,000 being raised in Iowa for the Y.M.C.A. war fund. The college had agreed to raise $12,500.

DePauw—Meatless, wheatless and even dessertless days are in vogue at Greencastle now. The fraternities and sororities seem to be vying with one another in food conservation. The commons has not yet instituted regular foodless days, and so is still popular.

THE SNOWBIRD

"Say, give us some filler for Friday on the O.T.C." Thus spoke that ogre of an editor. "Think you can get your face in Torontoensis by just loafing around here and looking pleasant. Well, you can't and if you want to see your angelic phiz in the picture you'll have to buck up and send in your dope offender. That O.T.C. is virgin soil, give us a love out it."

Even with a horrible fear clutching our heart we still retained sufficient presence of mind to snuff our fog and carefully intern it in our pocket, for we had seen the editor's basilisk gaze playing on it with availing desire. Seeing the cigs disappear, he transferred above-mentioned gaze to our pallid countenance. Anxiously we stared; 'is face for an evidence of weakening, but in vain. How fondly had we looked forward to that picture in which we might sit at the editor's feet and let "look." (Frankly, since we sent in that last article we have a wholesome respect for his pedal extremities). Now all was past, and the single desire of our soul was to remain unsatisfied. Perhaps we thought a story on the O.T.C. might help to retrieve our lost job, anyway we would try. Let the onus of guilt be on him for excluding us from the congregation of the fourth estate.

As we approached the drill ground an asthmatic bugle (picked up at Ypres) was making the evening hideous. In response, several stepped from the mob of jostling, pushing figures and took up a dignified position. We were intensely interested. This was a new method of having men fall in. We supposed every ten men had a separate and distinct squawk of the bugle to call him to his place. Again the bugle chorled and to our utter amazement the crowd stamped forward and lined up. Disappointed, we strolled over to a near by goal post and deposited ourself against it. Now the roll was called and we were amazed to see the number that answered for one man. Careful soul! He doesn't let soccer interfere with his attendance at drill. Everybody being present, or represented by a lawfully appointed proxy, the fussy little gentleman of Napoleon's men, inspected the condition of their several chins. Intense interest was aroused while he carefully thumbed K. R. & O. to find legal status of a private who persists in illustrating his face with cuts. General Order, K747, 904, Y21, seemed to cover the case, and in pursuance whereof to his (the private's) inordinate and ill-concealed delight, and the corresponding jealousy of the rest, he was ordered to fall out. The Prototype of the Little Corporal, vainly endeavouring to shove the bottom out of his pockets, now informed his soldiers that as several privates persisted in lifting their hats to officers he would institute saluting practice. Admirable officers to take the salute, were found in the goal posts, whose only failing was, and we attribute it to lack of knowledge of British army traditions, too much freedom with the ranks. To overcome this a staff officer is to be procured immediately. We saw in a moment how strict was the discipline, though orders were received in a language redundant of Kentish hop fields and absolutely lacking in the eighth letter of the alphabet a decorous silence was preserved.

Once or twice a man halted, dropped ten paces to rear, about turned and—er—expectorated or tied his laces. Even we realized the delightful little siestas this order afforded. Mentally we decided we should use it to its fullest extent, were we in the Corps.

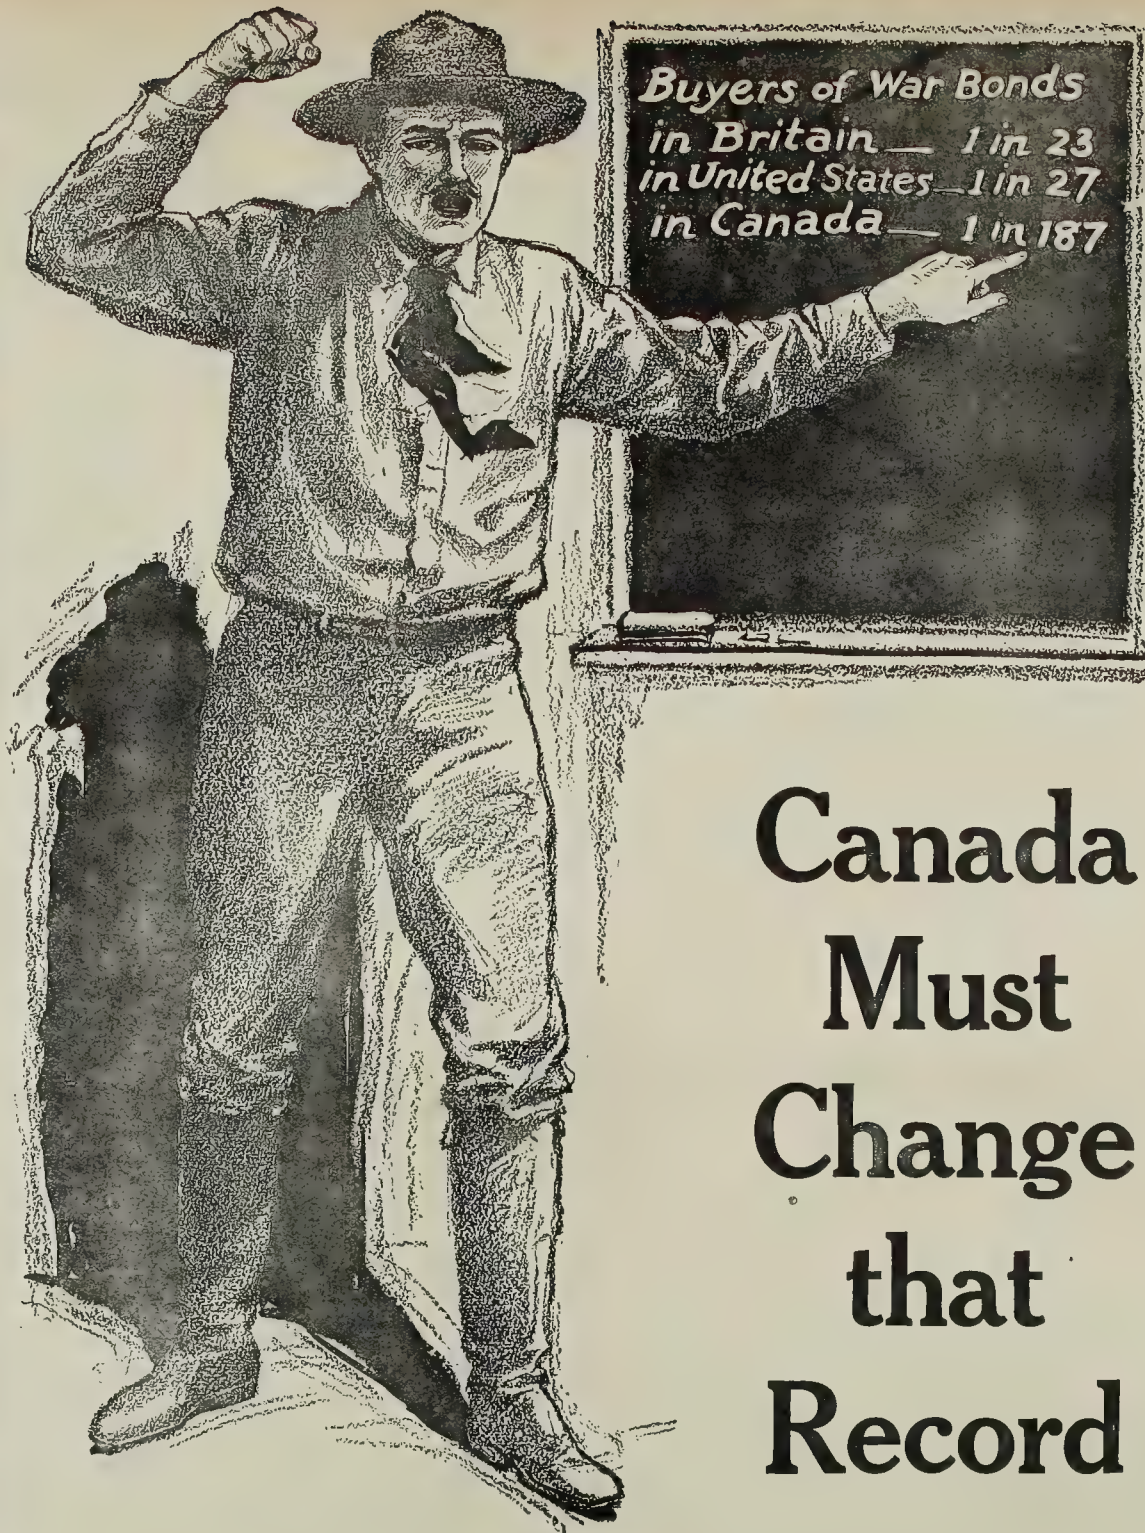

Now chaos was rampant, but from it emerged a humped up human circle. Slap, lang! What the deuce was the matter? Why had that misguided individual lambasted his neighbour, and why didn't said assaulted neighbour revenge himself, instead of thus cowardly retreating? Dearly beloved brethren and sisters, we can only say that the all highest Senate hath decreed: "Two nights a week shalt thou paste thy neighbour and He shall not poste thee back".

STUDENTS' POSITION CLEAR

Get Exemption Until Course is Completed if Less than 18 Months

Instructions from Ottawa to local exemption tribunals regarding the status of medical, dental and veterinary students make the position of men in these professions clear. The instructions read:

"Until further advised, you will exempt medical, dental and veterinary students who will complete their courses within the next 18 months. Those who have longer than this period to qualify in their professions will be treated the same as other men."

FEWER CANADIANS in proportion to the population have lent their money to the nation than have either the British or American people.

This in spite of the fact that the individual wealth of the Canadian people to-day is greater than it has ever been and is one of the largest of any country in the world.

Canada wants you to help change that record now.

You owe it to Canada, to yourself, to your children, to see that it is changed.

If you never bought a war bond before do it now. Be ready when the canvasser calls.

Remember this—That to win this war every man and woman in Canada must do his or her share, and to-day the most important, vitally necessary thing is to buy Victory Bonds.

ST. HILDA'S WIN SECOND GAME OF SERIES

Game Well Contested and Fine Spirit Shown

The second women's intercollegiate basketball game between St. Hilda's and University College was played on Tuesday evening, November 20, in the Trinity gymnasium. It was won by St. Hilda's with a score of 31-5.

The game was well-contested throughout, although luck seemed to be against U.C. from the start. Near the end of the first half one of the St. Hilda's defense was slightly hurt and her place during the rest of the game was taken by a substitute.

The spectators showed lively interest in spite of the precariousness of their position "on the shelf."

St. Hilda's—Misses J. Lennard, N. Elliott, G. Chaffie, H. Smith, M. Ewart, A. Boyd, M. Tom.

U.C.—Misses M. Fennant, J. Rogers, C. Miller, W. Thompson, P. McTaggart, C. Fourn.

The next game in the women's basketball will take place at the Household Science gymnasium next Tuesday evening, November 27, between Victoria and St. Hilda's. Both colleges seem to have very strong teams this year and there is every prospect of an unusually exciting game.

DENTS. DEFEAT JARVIS AT CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.

A fast and furious game of basketball was played at the Central Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday night when the Dents met and defeated Jarvis by a score of 16-9. The game was keenly contested all the way through, the score at the end of the first half being 6-3.

Considering the fact that this is the first time that the Dents had ever met together on the floor, they show promise of making good this year.

Dents—Windrim, Olson, Clark, McCool Best.

Jarvis—Hamby, Uren, Applegath, Becker, Pollock.

INTER-HOUSE BASKETBALL MATCH AT KNOX COLLEGE

Centre House Victory by Substantial Majority

Last Tuesday night the basketball teams of Centre and East House met in the third game of the inter-house matches at Knox College. The final result was 33-22 in favor of Centre House.

The game was fast throughout and hard checking featured. East House got away for a good start, scoring three field baskets in quick succession. By some good combination work Centre soon overcame the lead and the half ended 25-16 in their favour.

The real game, however, developed in the last half. East was determined to carry off the honours and kept the Centre defence busy. Neither side scored for some minutes. Rose for Centre was the first to locate the basket. After that the rings were easier to find and the score mounted up. Dickson for East and Anderson for West were the chief offenders in keeping the score down in this half. Centre secured 8 points and East 6.

The final whistle blew with the score standing 33-22.

Centre—Shugart, Stokes, Rose, Hutton, Anderson.

East—Wilkins, Harkness, Taylor, Dickson, Forin.

CAPT. ARMSTRONG IS AWARDED THE D.S.O.

Capt. Gordon W. Armstrong, R.A., M.C. attached to the 8th North Staffordshire Regiment, youngest son of F. F. Armstrong, 33 Summerhill Avenue, has been awarded the D.S.O. Capt. Armstrong has been wounded twice. He left Toronto in 1916 with a detail of medical men for the R.A.M.C., and after seeing service in Mesopotamia was transferred to France. He is a graduate of Victoria College, 1913, and of Medicine, 1916.

Trinity

Notwithstanding the drizzling down-pour, on Wednesday afternoon, November 21, Trinity showed its sporting spirit, by turning out for the annual steeplechase.

Those who did not run, were used as markers, and the whole affair was a good success. The freshmen again showed what kind of stuff they are made of, but taking a good share in the proceedings, and they promise to be good examples of what Trinity men should be, provided they are guided by the service constantly given them by the members of the second year.

At seven o'clock everyone assembled in the Hall for the annual athletic dinner, which was a good repeat, even though war conditions tended to make it less luxurious than in former years. Everyone, however, enjoyed it, and had sufficient.

The cravings of the inner man, having been attended to, the toasts were proposed in the usual order. The first-year for His Majesty the King was proposed by H. E. Orr, B.A., President of the Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association. The other toasts of the evening were proposed as follows—

The Allies—by the Rev. Prof. Cosgrave, Dean of Divinity and replied to by Prof. Haire-Forster.

Trinity men at the front—by Dean Young and replied to by Lieuts. H. E. Macchall and G. N. Armstrong.

The College—by Prof. Brett, and replied to by the Rev. Prof. Duckworth, Dean of Arts.

The Athletic Association—by Rev. G. G. Wright—a former president of the Association, and replied to by Canon Rigby.

All of the speeches were of a patriotic nature, and while the serious conditions of the present time were borne evidence to, the optimistic and joyous side of things was by no means forgotten. We all hope that by next year, many old members of Trinity will be with us at the annual athletic dinner.

The next order of business was the distribution of prizes and year cakes. The prize list is as follows:

STEELCHASE:
First time cup—D. A. Martin '21.
Second time cup—J. F. Davidson '21.
Third time cup—F. G. Cook '19.
Fourth time cup—J. B. West '19.
First place cup—D. A. Martin '21.
Second place cup—J. F. Davidson '21.
Basketball cup—Year '20.
Year '13 cup—Year '20.
Wiseman cup—Year '21.
Tennis cup—D. A. Martin '21.
The cakes were presented as follows:
'18—W. S. Watson, Esq.
'19—E. F. Willis, Esq.
'20—A. N. Hoath, Esq.
'21—L. J. B. Warner, Esq.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT YET ON MILITARY SERVICE ACT IN RELATION TO STUDENTS

Nothing definite has been decided as yet regarding the standing of drafted men. It is likely however, that they will be granted their year. A meeting was held some time ago to discuss this question, but no definite decision was reached. It is thought that another meeting will be called at the beginning of the new year to settle the question.

REV. S. P. ROSE, OF MONTREAL WILL PREACH SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D. of Montreal, who is to preach the sermon in Convocation Hall on Sunday, November 25th, is very well known in Toronto. He has preached in the University before and needs no introduction to University students.

Dr. Rose has held some of the leading Methodist pastorates in Canada, having officiated in one of Montreal's largest churches, namely St. James, and in Hamilton and Sherbourne Street, Toronto. Dr. Rose is the father of the distinguished Rhodes scholar, Professor Rose of McGill University, one of the most eminent graduates in Classics of any Canadian University.

Do not miss this opportunity of hearing Dr. Rose on Sunday.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE for the COLLEGES and SCHOOLS of Western Ontario. November 30—December 1 and 2.

W. U. A. EXECUTIVE.

There will be a meeting of the Executive of the Women's Undergraduate Association this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Union. Every member of the Executive is requested to make a special effort to be present.

LOEW'S THEATRE.

During the hottest part of the summer, fifty or a hundred "saups" at the Famous Players studio who were engaged with Billie Burke in making a screened version of "Arms and the Girl," stood about for hours at a time, clothed in the regulation German uniform and metal helmet. Notwithstanding the intense heat, however, a general air of good natured humor prevailed at the studio, due to a great extent to the unfailing gaiety of the diminutive star herself who is a general favorite.

During the afternoon, Director Kaufman had several gallons of ice cream sent in, which the "boches" extras and the star alike, consumed with gusto and relish. The picture will run off the reel as smoothly and coolly as if the thermometer had been at a normal position, and when it appears at Loew's Theatre next week it will doubtless win instant success, as it is a wonderful version of the very popular play as it appeared on Broadway. In addition to the above photodrama offering, seven superb vaudeville attractions and a new series of Loew's comedy pictures will be given.

SHALL UNIV. OF ALBERTA CONTINUE WITH C.O.T.C.?

On Monday morning Capt. Alexander met the men taking compulsory physical training in the Convocation Hall, and left to them the question as to whether the C.O.T.C. should be continued. As the Government has refused to grant any more lieutenants' certificates, there will be no lectures given this year, but the remainder of the work will be much the same as in former years. After explaining what signing the C.O.T.C. roll involved, Capt. Alexander asked G. H. Clarke, formerly of the Princess Pats, to say a few words on the situation. Clarke urged every man to sign the roll if possible. The following motion was then adopted: "That it is the judgment of the Class A men (University standard of the University of Alberta that the C.O.T.C. should be maintained."—The Gateway.

Say, Dad! Isn't It Bully?

Why, son, where did you pick up that word? It certainly is not very elegant and to put it mildly does not reflect much credit upon your home training.

Of course, if you mean it as elder folks sometimes say, in a "Pickwickian Sense," as being "John Bull-y," that's all right—for the way in which our people are subscribing to the Victory Bond is very much "John Bull-y."

Just like John Bull, who always does what he starts out to do.

It certainly is grand to see the way in which our people are subscribing.

There's no better way in which to prove to our dear old Mother, our own boys at the front, and the whole world, that to the last dollar we are out to win the war.

BILLIE BURKE.

"Where's your passport?" A momentous question in a momentous wartime play. When all other resources failed Billie Burke's wit, ingenuity and her piquant, entrancing personality saved her from the clutches of the Huns in this remarkable story of romantic adventures in war-torn Belgium. It abounds with adventure and intrigue aplenty in the story of life "over there".

Belted Cambridge Suits Are Strong Favorites With College Men

We have had a persistent call for our new belted suits from young men at College, and these late styles deserve every bit of attention they get. We are showing models with half, three-quarter, or all-round belt, some of the latter detachable. Of especial interest are specimens tailored of blue Irish serge, the coat having four patch pockets with flaps, and an all-round belt. Sterling Cambridge quality and value at $27.60.

Dentistry

The Dent freshmen are "in wrong". Fired with the news that a new machine had arrived from France, for instantly stopping toothache, by the simple method of placing the subject in front of the said machine and starting it in motion, these ardent ones determined to see it or die in the attempt.

They did. But sorry to relate the heads of the "tooth-pulling" college had different views on the subject. Not that they were opposed to this method of curing—far be it from them—but they "figured" that this form of education would only take an hour, whereas the more slothful frosh "opined" that it would take a whole morning. Hence the "hargument".

Well, the long and the short of it is that the students got "dippanous" and marched out in a body, mobbing three conscientious objectors and dragging three along. Then rose up the faculty in their wrath and closed the labs indefinitely until, at least, the students decidedly determined to settle down to work.

When the "arcent" freshmen discovered their dilemma there was waiting and knocking of teeth! Now ye noble first year are cast into "utter darkness" only penetrated by the small page-boy who smuggled out their belongings. What will they do poor things?

Wycliffe

The annual meeting of the Students' Mission Society was held in Sheraton Memorial Hall on Thursday evening last. After the opening hymn, Dr. Cotton read the Isaiah 55 and then led the meeting in prayer.

Brief reports were given on the students' activities during the summer months, by the following students:

Mr. Atkinson, representing Eastern Canada, spoke very highly of the welcome given to the students and of the hearty response made by the people, in turning out regularly to the services, the number increasing as each succeeding Sunday came around.

Mr. Lewis represented Central Canada and confined his remarks chiefly to the Toronto Diocese. This represented the sterner side of the students' missionary efforts. The diversity of the work in this section making it more difficult.

Mr. Wright, speaking in his usual breezy and humorous manner on behalf of Western Canada, gave us a few details of a very happy and enjoyable summer. He, along with Mr. Meen, carried the glorious Gospel to many, who during the winter months, had not the privilege of attending the House of God.

Mr. Barlow, otherwise known from shore to shore as the Sky Pilot, spoke on behalf of the different societies. He spoke of the many evils existing in our camps throughout Canada—especially emphasizing the curse of the liquor traffic. By helping the men socially and spiritually, these societies, through their workers, were able to counteract much of the evil and give to the men an opportunity of striving for something better.

Canon Dyson Hague, the principal speaker of the evening, related his experiences during his Evangelistic tour of the West.

"The outlook in the West" would be a fitting title to ascribe to his address. He had come to this conclusion—"That the West was a young man's country, no half-hearted men need venture one step in that direction. None but earnest men with a living message will succeed in that part of God's vineyard."

He very kindly paid glowing tributes to the men who are labouring and who did labour in the Canon Herbert Mission. He spoke of their characters and their energies and how they all helped to make his mission a great success.

Principal O'Meara, in a few well-chosen words, placed the needs of the Society before the gathering plainly and forcibly.

CLASS CONSTITUTION

Article I.

NAME.—A class shall be known by the name of the year in which it will graduate, e.g., the "Class of 1917."

Article II.

OBJECTS OF ORGANIZATION.—Each class at the beginning of its course shall organize itself for the purpose of unifying and controlling all its interests.

Article III.

MEMBERSHIP.—All students registered in the same year in University College, and proceeding to a B.A. degree, shall be members of the same class. A graduate, who has been an undergraduate for more than four years, may elect to be a member either of the class with which he entered the University or of the class with which he graduated.

Article IV.

OFFICERS.—

1. The officers of the class shall be a president, first vice-president, second vice-president, secretary, treasurer, musical directress, poetess, prophetess, first historian, second historian, and athletic director.

2. The president, second vice-President, secretary, treasurer, second historian, and athletic director, shall be men, and the vice president, musical directress, poetess, prophetess and first historian shall be women. These officers shall form the executive of the class.

3. The members of the Executive shall hold office for one year. No members of the class shall be elected to more than one class office during his undergraduate course. An exception shall be made in case of the permanent secretary, the assistant permanent secretary; and the reunion committee.

4. In the fourth year there shall be elected a permanent secretary, an assistant permanent secretary, and a reunion committee of four members, one of whom shall be chosen by the committee as its convener.

5. The permanent secretary and the assistant permanent secretary shall be men, and preferably men whose homes are 'likely to be in Toronto. Of the reunion committee, two members shall be men and two members shall be women.

Article V.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS.—

1. The president shall preside at all meetings of the class and of the executive, shall enforce due observance of the Constitution, shall give the casting vote in case of a tie on any vote; shall call all meetings of the class and of the executive.

2. The first or second vice-presidents in the order named shall assume all duties of the president in his absence.

3. The second vice-president shall be Class critic. At the close of each class meeting it shall be the duty of the critic to criticize the general conduct of the meeting with a view to the perfecting of class meetings.

4. The secretary shall keep a record of all meetings of the class and of the executive; shall attend to all correspondence of the class, shall prepare and sign all notices of meetings of the class, and shall post the same in the Rotunda of the Main Building at least one week before the time of meeting.

5. The treasurer shall receive an account for all moneys belonging to the class, and shall, under the direction of the executive committee, pay all expenses incurred by the class. At the last regular class-meeting of the academic year he shall submit a financial report to the class.

6. It shall be the duty of the musical directress to provide for the musical part of the programme at all class meetings.

7. It shall be the duty of the poetess, during her term of office to write a poem in which all or various members of the class shall be mentioned in their connection with the class for that academic year, which poem shall be read by her at the last regular meeting of the class for that academic year.

8. It shall be the duty of the prophetess, during her term of office to write a prophecy concerning all or various members of the class, which prophecy shall be read by her at the last regular meeting of the class for that academic year.

9. It shall be the duty of the first and second historian to concur in writing a history of the class and its activities during their term of office, which shall be suitable for publication in Torontonensis, or elsewhere if so desired by the class, and which shall be read by either historian at the last regular meeting of the class for that academic year.

To be continued.

Dr. McMurrich will address Biological Club on "The Origin of Life" in the Biological Building, Room 20, next Tuesday evening.

"CLUB POLITIQUE" MEETING

The next meeting of the "Club Politique" will be held on Monday afternoon, December 3rd at two o'clock in Room 6, Library Building. Any men who are really interested should communicate with the president, Mr. V. O. Matchett.

SPECIAL EXAMINATIONS TO BE OFFERED AT HARVARD.

The Harvard Faculty of arts and sciences has decided that special mid-year examinations shall be held next month for the benefit of men who are leaving soon after that time for military and naval service. This will make it possible for many seniors who would be unable to wait for the regular mid-year examinations to obtain their degrees.

This ruling will affect the R.O.T.C. applicants for the third series of officers' training camps, especially because they must report for duty on January 5, 1918, several weeks before the date of the official mid-year examinations. The special examinations will begin late in December and extend through the first few days of January.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1917.

No. 26

VICTORY LOAN

VARSITY OFFICE,
University of Toronto,
November 23rd, 1917.

Dear Sir,—An appeal for assistance from the Committee organizing the Victory Loan Campaign has come to the students of the University of Toronto, through the President, Sir Robert Falconer.

The President has asked the General Secretary of the Council to use the Council Organization for the purpose of recruiting from three to four hundred men canvassers to assist in the final winding-up campaign finale to take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

The City, for the purpose of the canvass, has been divided into districts, and the University has in a district stretching from Bathurst to Yonge Streets and from St. Clair Avenue to the water front. This district will be divided into 15 sub-divisions, with a minimum of 20 canvassers in each sub-division. Each committee of 20 will be under the supervision of a student captain.

Booths are being erected in the streets, which will act as headquarters for the various districts. You are urgently requested to assist in recruiting men for this campaign. The President has promised to communicate with the heads of colleges to insure that all men, participating in his work, will be given exemption from attendance on lectures, labs or drill. It is essential that the lists containing the names, addresses and phone numbers of the volunteer canvassers be in the hands of the undersigned, not later than four o'clock on Monday.

In putting up this challenge to you men, I would emphasize the fact that, if a man cannot fight, and cannot pay, he can, at the least work. The loan to date has fallen far below the expectations of the Government, and it will require the joint effort of all to carry the campaign through to a successful completion.

You are requested to attend a regular meeting of the Students' Administrative Council to be held in Room 12 of the Main Building at 5 o'clock on Wednesday, November 28th.

Yours faithfully,

COLLIER C. GRANT,
General Secretary
Students' Administrative Council

All should come forward voluntarily and give their names, addresses and phone numbers to their representative on the Students' Council, or to the Class President, or call up Mr. Collier C. Grant at College 5036.

2T1 WILL HOLD CLASS MEETING

The first class meeting of 2T1 University College will be held on Thursday evening, November 29th at 7:30 at the Women's Union (corner Hoskin and S. George). A fine programme was arranged at the executive meeting last Friday. The executive is procuring a speaker and there will be a musical programme and dancing. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout of the freshettes and freshmen, as the executive is doing its best to provide a good, snappy time for them, and if it happens that any first year student does not come out on Thursday night, he or she, will surely live or regret it. So don't forget—Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the Women's Union.

VARSITY STAFF PICTURE.

Tuesday at 12 noon is the latest opportunity for ordering the Staff picture. The proofs are at Room 1 in THE VARSITY office.

C.O.T.C. BAND

A meeting to consider organization of a band will be held in Room 26, Mining Building, to-morrow afternoon at 4:15. Any student who can play a hand instrument is asked to report to Lieut. John Slater, Bandmaster of the 48th Highlanders, who has kindly undertaken the work of organization.

CLASS CONSTITUTION

10. It shall be the duty of the athletic director to represent his class in that capacity whenever necessary or desirable, to foster the athletic spirit among the members of the class, and to organize that spirit when possible.

11. The permanent secretary shall be responsible for all books and documents placed in his hands by the officers of the graduating year. He shall before graduation compile a complete list of all the members of the class with their home addresses and such other information concerning them as he shall deem necessary or advisable. After graduation it shall be his duty to keep in touch with as many members of his class as possible, thus helping the members to keep in touch with one another. To further this end he shall report all permanent changes of his address to the Registrar of the University. In the event of the permanent secretary being removed by death, or otherwise rendered incapable of continuing in office, his duties shall devolve upon the assistant permanent secretary. At graduation the surplus funds of the class shall be placed in charge of the permanent secretary, out of which he shall defray all expenses incurred in the performing of his duty. It shall be within his prerogative to write such a history of the class from time to time as shall be suitable for publication if the class shall so desire.

12. The assistant permanent secretary shall assist the permanent secretary whenever possible. In the event of the office of permanent secretary being vacant, the assistant permanent secretary shall automatically become permanent secretary, and the class, at its next reunion, shall appoint a new assistant permanent secretary.

13. It shall be the duty of the Reunion committee to look after the affairs of the class, as a whole, after graduation, and especially to provide for a reunion of the class at such times as they consider advisable. The filling of vacancies, or other changes in the reunion committee, shall be attended to at each reunion.

14. Every officer of the class, whether graduate or undergraduate, at the end of his term of office, shall deliver to his successor all books and documents in his possession belonging to the class, and such successor shall then be responsible for the keeping of the same.

U.C. WOMEN STUDENTS WILL HOLD SHOWER DEC. 1st

All University College ladies extend a hearty invitation to their city and college friends to the shower which they are having on Saturday, December 1 at 4 p.m. at Queen's Hall, 7 Queen's Park.

Unfortunately the date and object of the shower were erroneously reported in Friday's issue of THE VARSITY. The day is Saturday next, the hour is 4 p.m.

Come and help the men, women and children of France by bringing a gift selected from the following articles needed.

Clothing—Socks, shirts, sweaters, warm woollens of all kinds.

Food—Rice, macaroni, chocolates, cocoa, canned meats and fish, dried fruits, malted milk, klm.

Rubber goods—Hot water bottles, invalid rings, sheeting.

Money is urgently needed.

During the serving of tea a program will be given by a few talented young ladies of Varsity. The admission is 25c.

TORONTONENSIS

Regular business meeting will be held at Women's Union on Monday evening, November 26 at 7:30. Matters of vital importance such as form of book, dedication, etc., will be decided. Reports re contracts, biographies and photographs will be received. Every representative should be present. Social feature has been postponed until next meeting.

FORCEFUL SERMON PREACHED AT CONVO- CATION HALL SUNDAY

Rev. S. P. Rose States Free Personality to Consist in Service of Others

"In the service of others we shall find our freedom, and in the free expenditure of our lives shall we find our lives again." So he was the powerful conclusion of the sermon delivered in Convocation Hall to a large congregation on Sunday, November 25, by Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., of Montreal. The text was taken from Mark 9:50, "Have salt in yourselves."

The speaker stated that the war of itself could not be a positive regenerating force. The personality of the human being must be one capable of working in conjunction with great instruments, in order to realize fully the better time.

"The Law of the Master," urged the speaker, "was an inward impulse and therefore a stayed and reliable guide. The man whose principles changed with changes in the acts of the legislature was unchristian. The inner qualities of a man are an indication of his grasp of opportunity."

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The Students' Administrative Council have made taken this year a liability of $4,700. Of this the men contribute $1,325 in subscriptions to the Varsity. Last year the women contributed $300, but this year only $70 has been raised so far. The balance of the liability is made up through the industry of the men's organizations in soliciting advertising.

The General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council assumes the responsibility of paying this liability and also looks after general student affairs. The women profit as much by his presence as the men and it is only fair that they should assume equal financial responsibility as the men in paying the liability by subscribing to THE VARSITY.

PROF. BRETT ON THE LECTURE SYSTEM

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir,—Your request for a contribution to the discussion about "groups" place me in a dilemma. What has already been said on the subject seems to exhaust the chief points of the theory, and I infer that the questions of staff and finance are not to be considered. There remains little to be said. It seems, in fact, that the next step should be some definite indication of the actual subjects and courses to which the proposed reform would apply, if your correspondents would make statements on those topics the discussion could be given some direct application. For no one is inclined to dispute the proposition that in some subjects and under some conditions, the group method is eminently satisfactory. The opinions which I offer are necessarily biased by a particular experience limited to particular subjects and classes.

The discussion naturally takes the form of a comparison between groups and lectures. Doubtless my own negligence is the reason why I have not seen any attempt to define the nature of lectures: the discussion has seemed to me to imply the advantages of a good group system over a bad lecture-system. But that way of putting it settles the question before it is discovered. This University did not invent the system of lectures and it might be of some use to recall the principles of that system as they have been understood often in the past.

The experience of many generations of teachers goes to prove that students require in the first place, to be one accustomed to high standards of work. To set the required standard it is best for the instructor to take the first part of the course as a subject for lectures, which under proper conditions would be carefully elaborated, based on expert knowledge, and given as demonstrations of method and style. Other parts of the course could then be left to the individual student who would require only occasional direction and advice. Such a scheme presents many INTERESTING MEETING OF WOMEN'S LIT.

Addressed by Prof. Hooke

A most enjoyable evening was spent on Saturday when Professor Hooke of Victoria College addressed the members of the Women's Literary Society.

Announcement was made first of all of the Oratorical Contest, which is to be held on January 12th, 1918. The results of the elections for the contest are as follows:

Fourth year Miss Margorie Lyon
Third year Miss Wilona Crawford
Second year Miss Mary Edge
First year Miss Jean Inwood

It was also announced that Miss Pauline Simpson and Miss G. Tremmer were elected as representative in the intercollegiate debate on the 12th December, between Victoria and University College.

This was followed by a splendidly executed and well-appreciated instrumental solo by Miss Jean Christie.

Professor Hooke then gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on the great modern French dramatist, Paul Claudel.

This dramatist is particularly interesting to us not only through the plays which he has written, in which he represents the new movement of modern mysticism and realism in France, but because of the fact that at different times he has been consul in the United States and China and was consul in Germany at the time of the outbreak of the present war.

To show more clearly Paul Claudel's great value as a dramatist, Professor Hooke outlined and read parts of some of the author's most well-known plays, such as "Lele D'or", "La Ville" and "Le Jeune Fille Vistene".

The address was made even more interesting by reminiscences of the speaker of his different visits to France, the last of which was made to Paris, three weeks before the war commenced.

A splendidly rendered vocal solo by Miss Alice Smith, accompanied by Miss Margaret McCoy, and the singing of the National Anthem, closed a most interesting evening, the only regret being that a larger audience was not present to participate in the enjoyment.

RUGBY FINAL TO-DAY.

The final game of the Mulock Cup Series between Senior Meds and C.O.T.C. will be played this afternoon at the Stadium at 2:30. Everyone should attend.

FRESHETTES CELEBRATE

Hold "Children's Party"

Five and a half per cent may be quite an inducement to buy a Victory Bond, but who can blame the young freshette who, being promised five dollars' worth of fun for five cents, chose the latter investment for her precious nickel. Ask her if it paid? There is only one answer to your question "Five dollars' worth of fun", expresses but mildly the jolly party held at the Union on Friday night.

Food, clothes and a good time are sometimes incompatible and not willing to risk any such catastrophe when a good time was the only consideration, the freshies dressed as children and entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of an old-time "children's party". Folk-songs and dances were a source of great entertainment and taking full advantage of their juvenile role, the freshies indulged in—but that's a secret.

A good "mixer" was provided by the distribution of slips of paper, bearing portions of nursery rhymes. After matching these, those whose verses contributed to the same rhyme were required to dramatize the story, and much originality was displayed in the acting and stage-settings.

Strange to say, none of the "children" demonstrated their impatience for the "cats" to appear, but when they did arrive—lemonade, biscuits in grotesque animal forms, all-day suckers, and barley-sugar sticks—they sat down on the floor and ate and drank to their heart's content. After singing some college songs, the party broke up, and as the "children" filed out the door, they were each preceded with a "grab-bag", for what party would be complete without "something to take home"?

U.C. SOPHOMORE CLASS PARTY TUESDAY NIGHT

Will be Held at 85 St. George Street

The executive of the second year U.C. has planned a class party for tomorrow (Tuesday) night. There will be a program of musical numbers, etc. An opportunity will be given to discuss the activities in which the class is to engage this year. Do you, or do you not want a receipt? Come and vote on it. If you belong to the Class of 1920 your absence from this party will show clearly that you have not a proper class spirit. Miss lectures, miss other social gatherings, but do not miss your first class meeting. The executive is going to make a special effort to make it worth while for EVERYBODY. They realize that we have few enough opportunities to become acquainted with the members of our class. You need the inspiration that to-morrow night's party will give, so be at the Women's Union, 58 St. George Street at eight o'clock.

ORGAN RECITAL

The fourth organ recital will be held Tuesday, November 27, at 5 p.m., and will be given by Mr. F. A. Mouré at Convocation Hall. The programme is as follows:

1. George Frederic Handel (1685-1759). Overture to "Samson".
 2. Felix Alexandre Guilmant (1837-1911). Lamentation.
 3. Charles Marie Vidor (1845—). Symphonie I.
 4. Anton Strelečki (1859—). Aubade.
 5. Franz Liszt (1811-1886). Prelude and Fugue on B-A-C-H.
- The last recital for this term will be held on Tuesday, December 11.

NOTICE.

The 2T1 Executive photograph will be taken on Tuesday, November 27 at 12:15 at Farmer Bros., Spadina Ave. (north of College Street). Note the time. Gowns necessary.

MORE MEN OFFER UP THEIR LIVES FOR THE CAUSE

According to word received by his father last Friday, Gnr. Francis Vivian Morton has been killed in action in France. He enlisted with a battery raised from the University, and has served with it ever since. Gnr. Morton was an Arts student of U.C. 1917. His home is at 65 Walmer Road, Toronto.

Bdr. B. B. Patten died of wounds in Belgium on November 9th. He enlisted as a gunner with the 55th Battery, but transferred in order to get to France with a drafts in March, 1917. Bdr. Patten was a B.A.Sc. 1904. His wife and parents live in St. George, Ontario.

Gnr. William Alexander Denison Sutterley of Hamilton has been reported killed in action. He enlisted with the 67th University Depot Battery. He was a Victoria College student of 1919.

Flight-Commander George Gordon MacLennan, missing since July 20, is now reported killed in action. He enlisted as a flight sub-lieutenant and on June 10th 1917, a flight-commander. He was awarded the French Croix de Guerre in April. He was attached to the 6th Naval Squadron of the B.E.F. in France. Commander MacLennan graduated from the School of Science in 1912, and he was the youngest son of the late Rev. Alexander and Mrs. MacLennan of Owen Sound, Ontario.

Lieut. Cpl. Roy G. Patterson of St. Mary's has been wounded and gassed. He enlisted with a Divisional Signal Company of the Canadian Engineers, and has been with that branch of the service ever since. He graduated from S.P.S. in 1914.

Lieut. Geoffrey A. Wheable of London, Ontario, has also been wounded. He was originally a lieutenant with the 142nd Battalion, but in England was intelligence officer of another unit, until he entered the C.M.S. at Cowborough in February, 1917. He crossed to France in May to a first division unit. Lieut. Wheable attended the Faculty of Education, 1911-12.

Gunner Russell George Scott, B.A.Sc. 1915, whose home is in Toronto has been wounded. He is with the C.F.A.

Lieut. John S. Willis, B.A., U.C. 1914, has been wounded. He enlisted as a private with the first contingent, being promoted lance-corporal in January, 1916, and corporal in May. He was wounded once before on July 24, 1916. His home is at 508 Markham Street, Toronto.

Sapper T. J. Farrelly of the Divisional Signallers is at present at the Canadian Engineers Training Dept at Seaford, Sussex, England, in training for a commission. He received his diploma from School of Science in 1911. His home is in Alma.

Among the University of Toronto men recently reported returning to Canada are Capt. the Rev. G. M. Barrow, Trinity College, who went overseas as chaplain to the 84th Battalion, and then served at Bramshott Camp, Capt. B. L. Guyart, M.B. 1914, of the C.A.M.C.; Capt. S. R. D. Hewitt, M.B. 1914, Staff of No. 4 G.H. and Military Convalescent Hospital, Epsom, Surrey, England; and Major R. M. Hillary, M.D., C.M. (T) 1890, Medical Officer to the 127th Battalion.

'VARSITY CASUALTIES

Criticism has more than once been made of the amount of space given by THE VARSITY to recording the death of University students on the field of battle. It is felt that sufficient attention is not paid to the record of these men, and that tribute to their services is lacking.

The information which is published about a student, whether he be killed in action, wounded, missing, promoted, honoured or returning to Canada comes from the Roll of Service office, which has files containing all available facts relating to the students overseas. The fullest details possible—so far as they are contained in these files—of the man's connection with the University and his history on active service are given. Sometimes the information at hand is so slight that it can be published in a few lines, but this is not the general rule. Details more intimate than the foregoing are occasional—THE VARSITY can hardly be expected to be acquainted with the life of people whom it does not know or concerning whom information is impossible to obtain at once—possessed by THE VARSITY; but these are rarely, if ever published for the simple reason that comparisons might be made.

As far as paying tribute to the services of the men overseas, is that necessary? Does not the record of the service of these men speak in terms more eloquent and triumphant than anything which THE VARSITY or anybody else can say? We rather imagine that the vast majority of the men concerned would be content to have their record appear unadorned with tributes which in time would become trite and hackneyed.

HELP THE VICTORY LOAN

An appeal has been issued for three or four hundred University students to assist in final canvass in aid of the VICTORY LOAN during the last three days of this week. There is still a long way to go before the amount desired will be fully subscribed; and a special effort is to be made in this, the last week of the campaign, to reach everybody. Hence the need of more workers.

This call is one which should be soon answered by students. It is one way by which we who are left can show that we are willing to lend whatever assistance possible to the work of forwarding the cause of our country.

It is understood that men volunteering for this campaign will be exempted from lectures and other academic work. But some will remain, and they will secure an advantage over the others. Would it not perhaps be advisable to suspend all lectures and turn the whole male student body, at any rate, into the work of soliciting subscriptions to the loan. Such action would remove any inequalities, which it is feared might arise; and a moral force would be created which would be of undoubted influence.

Leaving that matter aside, however, turn in your name as a volunteer as soon as possible.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A month from yesterday will be Christmas. Patronize THE VARSITY advertisers!

Students possessing the right to vote at the coming election should make sure that their names are secured by the enumerators. Watch the daily papers.

Remember the University College Y.W.C.A. Y.M.C.A. missionary meeting at the Women's Union to-night. See elsewhere in to-day's issue a fuller announcement.

In Friday's issue and to-day's we publish the proposed Class Constitution which was drawn up for the use of the various years in University College. If this Constitution is followed, uniformity will be secured; and it might not be out of place to suggest to the various secretaries that they retain a copy for future reference.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—What most interested me in the recent literary joust between THE VARSITY editorials and sundry correspondents, regarding the true character of the notorious "Rebel", was the admission by both sides that the University is very much in need of a magazine for vital, thoughtful and representative discussion by the students of the issues of University life. It is not minimizing the merits, in its own field of anonymous satirical brilliancy, to state that the "Rebel" does not satisfy the above-mentioned need. But if ever there was a time when it was impelling on the student to possess a medium thru which earnestly to supplement and test the wisdom of his professors, that time is the present. And for the reason, that the approaching close of the war will usher in a period of world-reconstruction, that will call for all the intelligent aid of the student.

The decade immediately preceding the war was already pregnant with social and industrial reformations—with concomitant intellectual re-valuations. At the outbreak of the war it was thought that the abrupt re-plunge of mankind into barbarism might stay for at least fifty years the social changes that had been impending. So pervasive was the new social spirit, that the war, a vast dispute over the "balance of power", (imperial, military and industrial), must needs be wrapped around with moral and intellectual issues. Clamorous as these seemed to be at the beginning of the war, in political essence they were echoes of 18th Century struggle for political emancipation, and as such served to obscure the real character of the struggle. Their barren resurrection was the result of a tacit refusal to see ourselves—of our division of the world-situation into the two categories of God and the devil. The fact that the Devil, like God, is international property, was ignored. Is it a wonder that these issues—truly musty from the "corridors of time",—soon became wearisome and had but an ephemeral existence?

But history recovered its balance, and humanity its social perspective. The need for social change and re-adjustments, long idealized, temporarily stifled by the war, was realised in Russia. The real issues of to-day, that the war has made even more manifest, are found to be in the continuation of the pre-war-time social fermentations.

If this is a truthful appraisal of the character of the times, it is of intense interest to the student to discover the attitude of 'Varsity professorism towards these new social visions and realizations. Does it stand abashed, and is there greater sincerity behind its now frequent silence, than its public professions; or does it still cling with an impervious and simple faith to the convenient categories of the first war-year? If the cry of "pro-Germanism" is not to stifle rational discussion for always, it is incumbent on the student to begin sweeping away the cobwebs that have been woven around the one-time esteemed force of intellectual criticism.

Moreover, in view of his vision of an intelligently and sympathetically reconstructed society, may not the student further ask that his intellectual studies be more vitally and pragmatically co-ordinated with the social demands of our day. If professorism is by its very nature doomed to a virtuous conservatism (and this might rightly be questioned) can the student ever forget that his stay at the University is comparatively transitory? He leaves quickly for the outside world of action and of thought, to create new values among other men engaged in doing the same. The conservation and representation of the values of the bygone, he leaves to people who make this their profession. The Department of Ancient

St. Hilda's

A meeting of the Literary Society was held on the afternoon of Thursday, November 22. The feature of the programme was a debate on the subject—"Resolved that conscientious objectors should be conscripted", which resulted in a decision in favour of the affirmative. Keen interest was displayed in a matter which is of such great concern at the present time, and many arguments were found to uphold both sides of the question.

The speakers on the affirmative were Misses A. Garrow '19 and V. Crossley '20, while the negative was supported by Misses E. Evans '18 and L. Elliot '19.

As this was the model debate, Miss L. Scott, after announcing the judges' decision, gave their criticisms on the style and contents of speeches on both sides.

A piano solo by Miss E. Dixon '21 was appreciated by all present.

Victoria

Victoria College Choral Club has re-organized for the coming year. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Bowles, the choir which has greatly augmented its numbers is busy preparing a concert programme which will surpass, even that of last year. The debut of the concert will be announced late. Watch for it! Don't miss it!

We might add that the Choral Club is an organization of college ladies who are endeavouring to fill the vacancy left by the Victoria College Glee Club most of the members of which are now employed in the various departments of military service. Last year may be taken as an indication the ladies are certainly doing their bit.

History may be pardoned for basking in the glory of the bustling age of Pericles. But of the Department of Political Science, the student who is sensitive to the "Zeitgeist", has a right to demand something more than Jeremiaads over the increase of social ownership and regulation of industry, and over the wane of Adam Smith's prestige. Does the Department of English fit in with the conscious needs of the student, when it is content with prescribing for study, the symmetrical simplicities of Ruskin and the valorous word-mongering of Carlyle? Is only the post-graduate estimable and trustworthy enough to be offered a course in the study of modern British life, thought, art and criticism, as embodied in the works of Shaw, Wells, Galsworthy, Conrad, Chesterton, etc.?

Considerations of space prevent me from mentioning several other departments that I consider, might be criticized with similar and equal validity, for a want of modernity and therefore of reality, in their work. But I think I have already sufficiently indicated how a 'Varsity magazine might be instrumental in the critical expression of the student mind. Such a magazine might well have for its ideal, the words of Dewey of Columbia, "Anticipation is more primary than recollection, the prospective than the retrospective. Any control attainable by the living creature depends upon what is done to alter the state of things. Imaginative forecast of the future is the quality of behaviour rendered available for guidance in the present."

Your respectfully,
EMM. ESS.

WEST HOUSE HUMBLER THE CENTRE QUINTETTE

The West House quintet humbled the Centre five last Thursday night in the inter-house games at Knox College. Final score 19-14.

Only two of Centre's regulars presided, the others having lately joined the Fencers' Club. This win places the two teams on an even footing. Both have won 2 and lost 1. East has lost both games played.

Sharp at 9 the whistle blew for hostilities to commence. To begin with, Acheson and Parker for West put in four baskets before Centre was able to secure the ball. After that the match was evenly contested. The score at full time was 19-10 for West House.

The tables were turned in the second half, West being distinctly outplayed. Time after time West tried for counts but failed. Centre was successful in blocking West and netting three baskets, one of which the referee disallowed. Full time blasted the hopes of Centre of overcoming the early lead.

Snappy play marked the latter part of the play. Stokes made 12 of the 14 points not held by Centre.

West—Parker, Hodges, Acheson, Cook, Kilborn
Centre—Stokes, McEwen, McQueen, Anderson, Hutton

SEN. MEDS WILL TACKLE O.T.C. IN MULLOCK CUP GAME

The climax of the struggle for the Mullock Cup will take place today at the Stadium when Senior Meds meet O.T.C. The ball will be kicked off at 4 sharp and the game will be run off as quickly as possible in order to close in daylight. As usual an admission of 25¢ will be charged and spectators are asked to come through the gate instead of over the fence.

Wycliffe

On Saturday, at 12:15, Dents and Wycliffe met on the front campus to play off their game in the soccer series. The game was to have been played on Friday, but was postponed by mutual agreement, Wycliffe being unable to produce a full team for the scheduled time.

The members of both teams played at a great disadvantage on account of the skiff of snow that covered the ground, nevertheless, some real clever playing was done at stages of the game, especially by the Dents in their combination. From the time the whistle blew no one seemed to have a chance to be idle, or to suffer from the cold wind, which assisted Wycliffe in the first, and Centre in the second half.

During the second half both teams played very well, under the conditions, and one could easily see that the snowy ground was a great handicap to Dents. Dents scored two minutes before time.

Half time, 1-0 for Dents.

All through the second half Dents showed their superiority in combination, and by means of it scored two more goals, thus making the score at full time, 3-0 in favour of Dents.

Dents—Griffin, Smyth, Fraser, Butler, Brandy, Forbes, Day, Edwards, Ferguson, Adams and Sproule.

Wycliffe—Lewis, Robins, Barlow, Dudley, Smith, Geoghegan, Jones, Shaw, Twiss, Gibson and Atkinson.

Referee—Brown, S.P.S.

VICTORIA

A very successful meeting of the Victoria College Y.W.C.A. was held Thursday afternoon from four to six in the Union. The meeting did not assume the usual form, but was a delightful surprise. A small admission fee was charged and in the course of the afternoon refreshments were served around the grate fire. Then followed a lively discussion on impromptu topics. A violin and a vocal solo brought the very pleasant meeting to a close.

Newman Hall

On Friday evening, Newman Club held its annual Mock Trial. The scheme was laid in a police court and the decisions were of the summary variety. Mr. John Callahan officiated in the capacity of Justice and his verdicts, to say the least, were veritable flashes of genius. The court opened with a very heavy docket and an opposing array of counsel. The first case to come up for consideration was one of assault—O'Donoghue v. James. The plaintiff was first called and after being carefully sworn on a volume of Edinburgh Review, deposed said that he had met defendant, Miss M. James, whilst he was pursuing his vocation of plumbing in a wine-room. Captivated by her winsome manner, etc., he had invited her to the plumber's picnic, but unfortunately his better half wouldn't let him take her, so he went alone. Coming home at an early hour of the morning, he met accused, and what he thought was her twin sister. Positive this was not an optical illusion, they accosted him and said "So this is you." Upon his (the plaintiff) strenuously denying this, they (the James' twins) knocked him down, and brutally assaulted every inch of his 6 foot 5 1/2 inches. Woke up in hospital.

In the hands of the defence, Counsel the evidence was unshaken. He was absolutely positive she had kicked him.

Dr. Kill-m-quick (F. Poulin), the physician who attended the injured man, being sworn, said he had an upstairs office. Questioned re ground floor, said that it was occupied by an undertaking establishment. He claimed that on the night of assault he heard dull thud of a body striking pavement, made a superficial examination. Questioned as to the thud, said he wouldn't go so far as to say it was caused by a fall of a human being. In fact, he was not sure whether plaintiff was one or not.

Under grudging cross-examination the astounding fact was disclosed, that he (Dr. Kill-m-quick) did not find it hard to live up to his name. Claimed that plaintiff's recovery was miraculous, as he had done his best to put the other foot with the one in the grave.

At this point the judge severely rebuked Cop (W. J. Brown) for slouching in box. In his evidence, cop said Miss James was so vindictive that the boy scouts had to be called in to make arrest. Indeed, three of his molar were summarily evicted from his jaw by plaintiff's fist.

The defendant entered box on her own account and earnestly claimed she was a peaceful woman. Had seen plaintiff on night of assault on Chestnut Street, talking from one lamp to another. Had tried to help him. Certainly she had not hurt him. Never drank anything stronger than cod-liver oil.

The learned Justice found prisoner guilty and sent her to asylum for six months, or pay a fine of 200 francs. Prisoner elected the asylum. The decision of court was no doubt influenced by the pitiful appearance of O'Donoghue.

The next case was one of alienation of affection, Mrs. Francisco X. Burrows v. Mary Theda Barra Corrigan, the latter a beautiful actress. In a touching manner Mrs. Burrows described the cooling of her husband's affection, on and after arrival of defendant in neighbourhood. Affairs culminated on a beautiful summer Sunday, when plaintiff was about to cut her son's hair, she saw hubby holding hands over the back fence. Questioned re present whereabouts of hubby, said he was in hospital. Would never live with him again, as he would not recover. Wiltbert Eveccema Burrows claimed his "old lady" was a "live wire". His dad did same old boy since mother "poked" rolling-pin on his chin. Had never heard words, as father was over back fence. Saw "old lady" coming and tried to warn his pa. Refused to take hint and was now in hospital. She was here arrested on bench warrant for perjury.

Accused claimed it was a case of mistaken identity. Had heard great noise on her retreat from fence. Mrs. Burrows made biggest noise as she was biggest. The Judge her interfered, and ordered Counsel to sit down, and found prisoner guilty. Sentence—Sing Sing.

Washington Students and faculty have pledged $10,000 as Washington's contribution to the Y.M.C.A. war fund. The Western Washington Conference colleges have promised a total of $23,500, or almost twice as much as was apportioned for the entire state.

Harvard—There will be no regular hockey team at Harvard this year. The New York Amateur Hockey Association has also decided not to play this winter.

My remarks are already too lengthy, but I will add a conclusion. In addition to interest in the student, let there be an interest in the teacher. The most effective method, as here maintained, is one which combines exposition with direct individual instruction. The latter part of the work should be devoted to those of the class who earn the right to it. For the exact problem which can be dealt with by question and answer is an affair of the individual mind, while every large class on the present basis seems to contain a certain number of persons who voluntarily accumulate so many occupations (including social, political, literary and mercantile undertakings) that the most optimistic teacher in the end realizes that his aspirations are futile, the consequent apathy is inevitable. A great teacher, whose reputation was European, once gave me a brief but precious lesson, as I entered he asked "Have you read the book I mention?" He listened to my excuse and replied simply, "Come back when you can say that you have had time!" In addition I realized that to knowing his subject he knew how to teach it.

Yours sincerely,
G. S. BRETHERTON

Shadowland's Greatest War Play
"ARMS AND THE GIRL"
with
BILLIE BURKE.

"Where's your passport?" A momentous question in a momentous wartime play. When all other resources failed Billie Burke's wit, ingenuity and her piquant, entrancing personality saves her from the clutches of the Huns in this remarkable story of romantic adventures in war-torn Belgium. It abounds with adventure and intrigue aplenty in the story of life "over there".

Say, Dad! What's a Tight-Wad?

A tight-wad, my son, is one who holds his "wad," or roll of bank bills so tightly in his hand that no one else can get a "look in" on it.

Toronto abounds in magnificent, most magnificent givers as those who canvass for Patriotic, Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. funds can testify, but on going the rounds you do strike tight wads.

Such men are ready enough to pray "God bless me and mine," but give mighty (spelled mate-y) little to bless anyone else, or help any good cause.

There is a celebrated painting—I wish you could see it, my son—in a London Gallery, by an English artist named Watts, which carries an impressive lesson to all who see it.

An old warrior has passed away, his body lies beneath a pall, his old helmet and armour near by, whilst above him are the words:—

"What I spent I had.

What I kept I lost.

What I gave I have."

What he kept was lost because dropped this side of the grave; what he gave was all that awaited him in the Great Beyond.

Listen, my boy, the man who in this time of national need, plays "tight-wad" when the world's liberty is at stake, is a disgrace to humanity.

Victory Bonds with 5 1/2 per cent. interest, however, are such a good thing that even the tight-wad will not be able to resist.

Whatever you are, son, don't be a "tight-wad" miser and miser-y, like the Siamese twins, are inseparable.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1917.

No. 27

MASS MEETING WILL BE HELD AT NOON TO-DAY IN CONVOCATION HALL

Sir Robert Falconer, Mayor Church and Mr. Norman Somerville Will Speak Concerning the Victory Loan

A mass meeting of the students of the University of Toronto will be held at Convocation Hall at 12 o'clock, noon, to-day, in the interests of Canada's Victory Loan.

Mr. Arnold Ivey, captain of our District, No. 4, in conjunction with the organization of the Students' Administrative Council, the Class Organizations and the Y.M.C.A., and in co-operation with Sir Robert Falconer, and the heads of the various faculties, has recruited several hundred of enthusiastic canvassers from among the students of the University of Toronto.

Every class, or faculty is represented by its team, or teams, and all men will work with School men, University College men with University College men, etc.

The skeleton of the organization is now complete, but, in order to make it a live body, it is necessary to have a rousing meeting when all will be present. The students have accepted the challenge. Much is expected of them, and much must be accomplished.

Should the people of Canada fail their Government in this hour of crisis, the effect would be disastrous to our national credit. The objective is $300,000,000, and, if a million dollars less are raised, so much is subtracted from the power of Canada to win the war, and it is equally true that for every million added to the objective, the power of Canada will be correspondingly increased.

R. J. Fleming, chair man, Extension Committee will preside, and Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, Mayor Church, Mayor of the city and Mr. Norman Somerville, Executive Head of the Organization, will be present and will speak.

JANUARY SUPPLEMENTAL EXAMINATIONS.

Arts students writing at these examinations are advised that their applications should be in the hands of the Registrar not later than December 1.

VARSIY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Sapper Charles Forrest Patterson, Victoria College 1918, of the Divisional Signallers, was killed in action on November 13th. He enlisted in January 1916. He was promoted corporal, but reverted on going to France.

Lieut. George Roy Weber, B.A., Victoria College, 1916, is reported killed in action. He went to France with an Ontario battalion. He had attained the rank of captain, but reverted on going to the front. His home is in Hamilton.

Sergt. Thomas Vincent Sparling, Victoria College 1918, was reported as killed in action on October 30. He enlisted in June 1916 and went to France in August 1917.

Lieut. George Stacey Stratford was reported as killed in action on November 17th. He enlisted in May 1915 in the 2nd Universities Company. He was wounded at Lissebeke in June 1916. Subsequently, on his recovery, he received a commission, and returned to France as a lieutenant in his old battalion. His home is in Brantford. He was a student in Applied Science, 1916.

Lieut. Arthur Joseph Latonnell, reported wounded a few days ago, is now reported as having died of wounds. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1906, and before enlisting in the C.F.A. was City Engineer of Edmonton. His brother is Mr. A. Latonnell of the City Works Department, Toronto.

WOUNDED.

Gnr. A. G. Calbeck, Dent, 1919, of Dunnville, was reported wounded on November 19. He enlisted with the 67th Varsity Battery, but transferred in December 1916 to a howitzer battery.

Lieut. L. L. Davidson of Regina, Sask., has been gassed. He went overseas with the 152nd battalion. On going to France he was attached to a first division unit. He was University College 1917.

Gnr. W. S. Fisher, also University College 1917, who joined the 67th Battery, has been reported wounded. His home is in Nanaimo.

Lieut. H. B. Galpin, Ed. 1911-12, was reported on Saturday to have been wounded but returned to duty. He enlisted in March, 1916, as a gunner with the 55th Battery, and received his promotion to corporal, and then sergeant. His home is in London, Ont.

Bdr. J. A. Harcourt, Med. 1920, of Cayuga, has again been wounded. He enlisted with the 67th Battery, going overseas with a draft in June, 1916, and crossing with a howitzer battery to France in March 1917. He was listed as wounded in July.

Gnr. Andrew Lane, B.A., U.C. '14, who was attending Knox College at the time he enlisted with a howitzer battery at Guelph, has been wounded for the second time, the first occasion being on October 27th, 1916. His home is at Holyrood.

NOTICE.

Owing to the importance of the Victory Loan Campaign and to the fact that it must be a thorough success, the University "Y" Finance Campaign has been postponed. Next Tuesday starts it off—December 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th.

November 26th, 1917.

To the Students of the University:

Those in charge of the Victory Loan have sent me an urgent request to secure as many men students as possible who will take part in canvassing the city during Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the present week. They wish to secure at least five hundred. I have asked Mr. C. C. Grant, Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council to organize the effort under the auspices of the Council. I have also written to the Head of each Department in the University asking him to arrange for any extra lectures or laboratory work, that may be necessary for students taking part in this patriotic duty in order that they may not suffer through non-attendance or in the examinations. I hope that students will find themselves able to perform this service as a duty for the country at the present time.

In view of this action the University will NOT be closed on Wednesday afternoon, which the Mayor has announced as a Civic Holiday, the reason being that the University can in my judgment perform its larger service through the canvassing by students on the last three days of the week.

ROBERT A. FALCONER,
President.

INSTRUCTIONS TO UNIVERSITY VICTORY LOAN CANVASSERS

Must Know What Bonds Are, Why Issued, and to be Able to Answer Any Question About Them

There was no demand for the first adding machine, it had to be sold. The urgent demand for bonds in this city, has probably been filled, a further demand must be created. What is required is, that more bonds should be sold, and sold to people who are not particularly anxious to buy. Each canvasser must determine that he will sell bonds, and realize that his own personality is his chief asset. In order to sell bonds you must know what they are, why they are issued, and be able to answer any question asked of you by the buyer.

Every man will have to fortify himself, and determine what his chief selling arguments are to be. Every sale may necessitate a different line of attack, and particular care should be taken to use the right argument at the right time. From the technical standpoint, there are certain facts to be well understood as, when making a sale, an application form is to be filled in. The canvasser, not the buyer will do this.

How to Fill in Application Form.

1. Fill in amount of bond as $50, $100, $1,000.

2. Fill in maturity, which the purchaser desires; there are three, due in 1922, 1927 and 1937.

3. Give name of bank and branch at which purchaser would like bonds delivered preferably their own bank, and, if they have no bank account, suggest the nearest branch bank. All bonds must be delivered through a bank.

4. State denominations desired. A purchase of $1,000 worth of bonds may have 20 bonds of $50 each, 10 bonds of $100 each, 2 bonds of $500 each, or 1 of $1,000. It is best to sell one bond for the total amount subscribed.

Form of Bonds.

3. A. COUPON BEARER BOND. These are payable to bearer, with coupon attached, which coupons are detached on interest days; the interest being collectable at any bank. Such bonds are almost legal tender, but like the dollar bill, if lost, are gone.

B. COUPON REGISTERED BONDS. The form of this Bond is the same as the Coupon Bearer Bonds with the exception that the owner's name is registered at Ottawa, so that, if the bond is lost, notification can be sent and payment of coupons stopped.

C. FULLY REGISTERED BONDS WITH INTEREST PAYABLE BY CHECK. This bond has no coupons. The owner will receive a cheque from Ottawa on interest days.

Where a purchaser has no proper place to keep a bond, this latter is probably the best form as it is absolutely non-negotiable.

Signature of Applicant.

6. This must be secured.

7. State whether the buyer is Mr. Mrs. or Miss, and give full Christian name.

8. Give address, number of street, and city.

Registered Bonds.

9. Bonds may be purchased in the name of the University of Toronto.

COL. ROOSEVELT SPEAKS TO CROWDED ARMORIES

Noted American Addresses Toronto Citizens on Behalf of Victory Loan

When Sir Thomas White introduced Col Theodore Roosevelt at the Victory Bond meeting on Monday night he said, "I find it an agreeable duty to introduce to you a man who needs no introduction to any Canadian audience, not to any audience in the British Empire", and so it seemed, for he was greeted as any of our own nationality would have been with mad enthusiasm, and "come on Teddy".

Mr. Roosevelt came to speak of War Bonds, his speech itself was a peace bond—a bond of union between the peoples of United States and Canada. It wasn't that he turned around our field-glasses that he looked into the American amphitheatre, he made us feel that field-glasses are no longer necessary—that we are fighting hand in hand.

"I came here to express my pride and my confidence in you and to speak simply of the task that is yours and ours," he said. "I have to say only what I have said to my own people on behalf of the Liberty Bond for victory and liberty are interchangeable terms in this fight. To-night when I ask you to buy Victory Bonds I ask you to do your duty and at the same time be good to yourselves. Every person should buy as many of these Bonds as he or she can get. Almost any other security can turn back, but Canada is going to last for a few thousand years—or if these bonds become bad it will be because Canada's gone and then it won't matter to you anyway."

"Great though Canada's sufferings have been, much as she has submitted to, I ask you to remember that with the exception of a few women there are no people behind who suffer as the men must suffer at the front. The least we can do is to back up the men at the front by every resource in our power, and as for the older men like myself, who would like to be in it and are out of it, I say if you can't go across, come across."

After speaking of the issue at stake and of what the Canadian colonies have done Mr. Roosevelt finished with "you Canadian men and women who have chosen to walk the hard and glorious road of service and sacrifice—you have made your bodies the servants of your souls."

"Only the man," he proceeded, "who bears his full share of the common burden is entitled to his full share of the honours, to self respect and to respect from us. Do you realize that although all sensible men wish to avoid war while it is a crime to be avoided that if war comes it is a crime to flinch. Never hit at all if you can avoid it, but never hit soft. Nobody is grateful for being hit a little. If you hit a man he won't feel sentimental about it. If you do hit him put him to sleep. Remember the way to impress a crook isn't to impress him that you are honest."

Col Roosevelt says he is often asked, "Why send our boys to fight abroad?" His answer is: "We send our sons and brothers to fight behind the Allies on the other side now, so they won't have to fight without any allies at home later."

"As some of you know I have never regarded neutrality as a sacred right. The most striking example of neutrality throughout the ages was Pontius Pilate."

O.T.C. DEFEAT MEDS. 10-0 IN THE MULOCK CUP FINAL

On Frozen Snow-Covered Field Soldiers Dispose of Surgeons in Closely-Contested Battle

The Mulock Cup finals were played off on Monday afternoon between Meds and O.T.C., Meds losing by a score of 10-0. The game was played at the Varsity Stadium before a small but spirited crowd. The field was covered with ice and the temperature quite close to zero.

Meds turned out to face the Soldiers' with a very fine aggressive, well drilled and practiced up first rate stages, and McPherson on the half did most of the running and catching, and played a very strong and heady game. The former got away a number of times through a broken line, but on account of the icy field his speed could not very well be displayed. Russell, the new centre-half, is a fine old-time rugby player and excellent booter, and showed signs of his past prominence in the field. He kicked high and far, thus giving the wings plenty of time to get under their man.

The game started, Meds kicking off against the wind, and O.T.C. returning Meds tried to devote their time on getting every punt as soon as possible, while possession of the ball to bucking, which gained considerably. After Meds had been offside a couple of times, O.T.C. had the ball five yards out, and after one plunge was smothered, another was tried by Breuls, which was successful. It was converted, O.T.C. 6; Meds 0.

In the second quarter Meds showed class and speed, having the best of the play and in O.T.C.'s territory continually, but they missed several great opportunities for touchdowns. O.T.C. fumbled the ball on their ten yard line and Poulin jumped on it.

In the third quarter some small scraps were detected and men penalized. O.T.C. kicked continuously and when Meds dropped the ball on their own line and the man trying to carry it farther out was thrown back and in touch, which counted two more for O.T.C. Another point was scored by O.T.C. in this period, when Taylor kicked to Hayes, who was nailed behind the line.

O.T.C. 9, Meds 0

The last quarter was bitterly contested and would have had some spectacular plays, but the field was icy and the men could not get very far. Taylor of O.T.C., and Hayes of Meds, made runs of thirty yards, but they resulted in no score. Taylor kicked to McPherson, who was caught behind the poles and this ended the game.

Final score: O.T.C. 10; Meds 0.

O.T.C.—Brown, Breuls, Taylor, Leonard, Mix, McCredan, Dyer, McKendrick, Nesbitt, DeLaperte, Patterson, Robbins, McFarlane, Rolph.

McPherson, Bastow, Hayes, McPherson, Russell, Sinclair, McLeod, Scott, Tiffin, Hogarth, Brown, Lazebny, Poulin, McKay.

McKay and Poulin on the outsides are both good tacklers, and played a very fast and strenuous game till the final whistle. They were up and under every tackle. The latter was accused by referee for being offside, but he objected very much. These offside really won the game for O.T.C.

"Mike" Brown and Lazebny led their backs with great gains each time, but Meds time and again lost the ball, after getting as close as possible to O.T.C. line.

The O.T.C. brought out a much better squad than the time they played against Dents.

Their halves could run, catch and kick the ball in great style, but had they not got the "breaks" the score of 10-0 would never have been registered.

NOTICE.

The Victoria Women's Literary Society will hold its first inter-year debate in the regular meeting on Thursday (to-morrow) afternoon. The representatives of the first and second years will debate on: "Resolved that the study of the English Bible should be placed on the curriculum of the Public and High Schools of Ontario."

NOTICE.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

If you want a ticket to hear Dr. Speer next Sunday at Convocation Hall, 11 a.m., see your Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. president, Thursday. (Only one ticket to each student and a limited number at that). No tickets at the University "Y".

MR. MOURÉ GAVE BRILLIANT RECITAL

Renders Selections with Great Technique and Pleasing Effect

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Mouré gave another of his delightful recitals in Convocation Hall. The recital was well attended and those present certainly enjoyed the feast of music.

Mr. Mouré's first number was the Overture to "Samson" by Handel. The Overture which Handel himself thought very highly of opens with a dignified introduction. This gives place to a spirited Allegro which is followed by a Minuet. The combinations of the three movements forms a composition of a very classical nature.

The second number was the "Lamentation" of Félix Alexandre Guilman in memory of his friend the Abbé Gros, who was killed by the bursting of a shell during the siege of Paris in the Franco-Prussian war. This composition is one which appeals very much to present audiences, because it has the peculiar harmony and solemnity of a memorial.

Mr. Mouré chose as his third number four movements from "Symphonie I" by Charles Marie Widor. The Prelude is a delightful little composition whose technique shows the work of an experienced composer. The Intermezzo consists entirely of arpeggio passages of varying tone-colour distributed over the different manuals of the organ against a theme in the pedals. The Adagio is a beautiful movement, the soul-pouring of a sweet soothing theme. The Marche Pontificale stands in a direct contrast to the Adagio. It is stately without being twined, and is universally known as one of the finest ever written for the organ.

For the fourth number Mr. Mouré repeated a delightful selection from one of his earlier programs, which was encored again. This delightful little piece is Aubade by Anton Steyri. It reminds one of perfume fountains tinkling in beautiful fairy gardens.

The last number on the program was the Prelude and Fugue on B-A-C-H by Franz Liszt. This work, which is one of the few original compositions for the organ by Liszt, is based upon the notes B flat, A, C, B, which make up the letters in Bach's name. There is no doubt between the Prelude and Fugue, the latter commencing misterioso after a descending scale passage and leading by sections of almost bewildering harmonic complexity to a magnificent climax. The resource with which Liszt builds up the work upon phrases constructed from these notes and their transpositions is truly extraordinary and requires great technical skill in performance. An instance of Liszt's fondness for startling contrasts occurs just before the end, where the subject appears for a moment pianissimo amidst the majestic chords of the close.

Mr. Mouré will give the last recital for the term, Tuesday, December 11th.

271 CLASS MEETING

The Class of 271 will hold a meeting Thursday evening November 29 at 7:30 o'clock in the Women's Union. Dancing and refreshments complete a very fine programme of music and speeches. Every freshette and freshman should be present to make the meeting a success.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND THE W. R.

The message which Colonel Roosevelt brought to Canada on Monday evening last offers a fitting opportunity for THE VARSITY to say a few words of appreciation and admiration in regard to the effort which the United States and American universities are making in the present war.

THE VARSITY has read with much interest the various American College papers which come to this office. They tell of the men going off to campaigns for the Red Cross and kindred societies; of generous subscriptions to the Liberty Loan and in general show an attitude of hearty support for the cause in which the Allied nations are engaged. In this way the American universities are but reflecting the whole-hearted manner in which the American nation has organized and is organizing for the war. Colonel Roosevelt said he did not come to advise but to admire Canada. Canadians can say the same of the United States, for all admire the earnest manner in which the American Government has taken command of the situation, and has seemingly avoided the some of many mistakes which other governments have made. May they succeed in all their efforts.

From the existence of this mutual friendliness, it is to be hoped, as Colonel Roosevelt said, that there will be a better feeling created between Canada, the British Empire and the United States. This feeling is present to-day and is daily growing stronger. It affords a "silver lining" which ought to mean much for all of us.

WOMEN STUDENTS! SUBSCRIBE TO "VARSITY"

How do the thousand women, not subscribing to THE VARSITY, inform themselves of the events in our University circles? Are they not interested in anything beyond their own shell, or do they prefer relying on that most unreliable source of information—the old-fashioned, second hand gossip ping-tête-a-tête?

The canvassers of the Womens' Student Council are busy at last, and when we have their final returns not one of the thousand non-subscribers should be clutching that seventy-five cents, which properly belongs to THE VARSITY. In previous editorials there has been sufficient emphasis laid on the women's part in the Varsity. This canvass is the climax. If you possess an ounce of esprit-de-corps, show your interest in THE VARSITY by subscribing—whether the canvasser has asked you or not!

ATTEND TO-DAY'S MEETING

Elsewhere in to-day's issue appears a notice calling for a mass meeting in Convocation Hall to-day to organize the student canvassers for the Victory Loan campaign. Action has greater force than words; but this meeting is essential if the students are to make a success of the canvass. It is necessary also that all students, who have volunteered their services be in attendance. Be on time and consequently enable the speech-making to be finished as soon as possible.

If any student has not yet come forward the opportunity is still open. Come and lend your aid to this worthy cause.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

We would like to make the person or persons responsible for the frigid atmosphere of the North Lecture Room in the Medical Building on Monday morning last, sit there some day for an hour; and see how they enjoyed themselves.

There are 1109 women enrolled at the University;
98 women subscribe to THE VARSITY;
1011 women ought to subscribe.

We are impatiently awaiting the results of the campaign, under the direction of the Women's Student Council.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

"A CHALLENGE TO MISSIONS"

David O. Arnold, B.A.

The pen picture of the missionary in black apparel with a thick Bible under his arm and a broken umbrella under the other, with a small group of natives around him, has always been a misnomer and has faded into the past. Modern missions signifies something vital, something very real, and if hitherto the average student has evaded the problem of missions, if he has considered the question in the light of purely religious activity, then the new significance which attaches to missions, demands that he face the situation squarely and that he devote some genuinely honest and penetrating thought to it.

The challenge to missions in 1917 must of necessity be a different challenge to that in 1914. The greatest fact in modern politics has been the growth of nationalism, the dominant principle of modern history has been the ideal of nationalism; and the reputation of a statesman has depended upon his power to aid the national state in realizing its independence and developing its character. Enumerate the great statesmen whose personalities have left a permanent impression on the institutions of their countries and test the veracity of the foregoing statement.

But this war has revolutionized many of our ideas and we have concluded that a revaluation of values is imperative, that a new emphasis must be placed where formerly only minor importance was attached. This war has indelibly impressed us with the fact that while nationalism is very important, internationalism is the keynote and the vital pivot about which the wheels of humanity turn. This war has revealed to us more clearly than we ever realized the fact that the Universe is composed of component parts, nations, that the various nations are inseparably connected, that what one nation does have a very definite influence on another nation, and for that the perfect harmony of the whole, there must be perfect harmony among the constituent nations. Yes, the war has caused us to "about turn" and has transformed some ideas which we regarded as fundamental and as the basis of society. Now, the most valued statesmen in the eyes of the world are of the Lloyd George type who have this world-wide vision, who are concerned, not so much with nationalism, as with internationalism, not so much about making any nation "safe for democracy" as with making "the world safe for democracy."

But what has this to do with missions? Just this, the missions has taken on this international aspect. Missions is no longer a question of sending a graduate in theology to China or Japan to preach the Gospel—it is a question of sending all types of Christian leadership to other nations, to promote human welfare and to establish friendly relations among the nations. That leadership may express itself through the work and life of a minister, a doctor, a politician, a scientist, a dentist, a professor or teacher in a university, or director of physical education. Every nation of the universe needs this leadership—many nations as China, Japan, India, are crying for it. Heads of governments, rulers, business men, etc., in all these lands (not foreign lands more than ours), testify that the influence of these Christian missionaries can not be estimated. Dovens of concrete examples illustrative of this might be cited but space does not permit.

Fellow students, the challenge is yours. The work is yours, for if leadership does not come from our universities, where is it to come from? The opportunity is staring you in the face. What is your answer?

MRS. N. W. ROWELL
ADDRESSES VIC. WOMEN

Gives Interesting Address at Students' Union on "The Present Political Situation"

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. N. W. Rowell who is a Victoria graduate of '96 addressed an intensely interested audience of Victoria women at the Students' Union on the "Present Political Situation". Mrs. Rowell did not make a party speech, though she said frankly that she sincerely hoped, in the interests of our cause in the war, that Union Government would be sustained. "Canadian politics," she said, "is no longer purely domestic—it now has a significance in European politics and must be interpreted in terms of the larger issue. A Union Government would mean the whole-hearted backing of the whole country to the men at the front." "There isn't a right-minded person in the whole Dominion," said Mrs. Rowell, "who does not want to support our men—not one who wants this country to tarnish the fair name that Canada's soldiers have won for her on the battlefields of Europe. To sustain our name and fame we want the strongest possible alliance of strong men who are willing to sink their differences in a long hard pull toward our cherished goal."

But chiefly Mrs. Rowell spoke as a woman busy in committee work, who is very anxious that the women who have been given the responsibility of the vote will accept their responsibility, and use their power and influence in this crisis. For with the women—the men say rests the decision, and every woman will have to share the result of the election whether good or ill.

"This is no time for bitterness or prejudice—now, if ever, sanity, self-control, and fair-mindedness is demanded of us—and these things a University education should develop. The contribution of the women to this election must be their influence for these principles—for many of them have no vote." The address closed with a strong appeal for all to bestir themselves and see that every woman who has a vote uses it. The meeting was thrown open for questions, and several technical points were cleared up. Every woman present went away with the determination to do all in her power to see that every woman who can vote.

Girls as "Shines"

A shoe-shining parlour managed by girls has been established at Cornell College in Iowa for the benefit of the Y.M.C.A. war work fund. It is said that some of these ambitious women are to shuck corn at $5 a day to help obtain the $5,000 that is Cornell's allotment.

Princeton has a total of 2,103 men now in the service. Of this number, 970 or over 45 per cent. are in the army.

Minnesota—The University is planning to establish a permanent roll of honour of all Varsity men who have gone into war service. A complete list of former students would be compiled with their respite live addresses as far as can be ascertained. This list, it is intended, will be posted in some prominent place in one of the main buildings on the campus.

Washington—A wind tunnel is being constructed at the University for the aerodynamics course. There are only eight other similar tunnels in existence.

Ohio State—A unique plan has been devised by the department of electrical engineering at the university, to keep track of its alumni. A large map of the United States is used and numbered tacks mark the position of each alumnus. A notebook hangs at the side with an indexed list of 500 names and corresponding tack numbers.

Sophs and Frosh Get Rough.

At De Pauw the Frosh and Sophs recently held a free-for-all, in which several men were injured more or less seriously. The Sophs wielded strong clubs in this battle, and the Frosh opposed with paddles. These proved to be ineffective, and many Frosh were taken from the melee somewhat worse for wear. One man was severely punished, and for a time it was thought he was dangerously injured.

9,500,000 PURCHASE BONDS OF SECOND LIBERTY LOAN

Washington, November 27.—Fully 9,500,000 individuals, or one out of every ten persons in the United States, subscribed to the second Liberty Loan, in comparison with the 4,000,000 who applied for the first loan.

On account of this satisfactory response, a third loan will probably not be necessary this year, despite the fact that the war, as conducted to-day, is the most costly of all human undertakings. The increased demand for bonds indicated that the potential market for bonds in the United States has been broadened materially.

O.T.C. AT QUEEN'S.

The latest orders officially are that all men registered in Medicine prior to Nov. 1st, 1917, whether exempted or not, must enlist in the O.T.C. This applies, we understand, to those who come under the Act.

Quite a few have enlisted from the other faculties, and quite a few who are not eligible yet for service under the Act. The drills and parades are compulsory for the Medicals, but for the voluntary members the rules will not be so exacting.

Now that the O.T.C. is on a strictly military official basis, and the instructional work under sergeant-majors who have seen service overseas, it is to be expected that there will not be a man in the University who is not in khaki taking 't's course.

"The American University Union in Paris is meeting with distinct success," said President Harry B. Hutchins, on his return from New York, where he attended the session of the trustees of the Union. "The organization now includes 90 colleges. The headquarters in the Palace hotel on the Place du Theatre Francaise is not spacious enough to accommodate the Union, and additional quarters adjacent to the present structure have been obtained."

Professor, Chas. B. Vibbert, who, as a member of the executive committee abroad, represents Michigan, has established a bureau to take care of Michigan men. Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Princeton, and Yale also have bureaus to accommodate their men. The other colleges in the Union are provided for by a special staff.

Prof. Vibbert will be assisted in his work by Warren J. Vincent, graduate of the University, who has volunteered to go to France at his own expense.

The American University Union is constantly expanding, having already a branch in London. Another branch in the French Alps or on the Riviera is being contemplated, and a branch in Rome will be established soon.

FIRE IN WOMEN'S RESIDENCE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

Fire in a girls' rooming house on 615 East University created quite a stir in the vicinity of the engineering arh at six o'clock one evening last week.

"Don't you think it's getting rather warm in here?" asked one girl of her room-mate. The next moment excited voices informed them that the roof over their heads was blazing. Then things started.

Instead of swooning, a roomer grabbed a dust cloth, her laundry bag and some rubbers and rushed these possessions to safety. Gallant by-standers were drafted to rescue valuables, and as one young man staggered down the stairs, laden with heaps of girls' apparel, he was heard to remark perspiringly, "This is no place for me."

The fire, which arose from chimney sparks, did very little damage as all clothing and valuables in the vicinity of the blaze were removed before they could be harmed. The fire apparatus quickly extinguished the conflagration and the crowd of onlookers hastened along to their dinners.

NEW ARMY BALLOON SCHOOL TRAIN MEN FOR SERVICE.

"The usefulness of the 'kite' or stationary balloon is not generally known. One familiar with its employment says that at the balloon school an applicant for officer's commission must first qualify as a pilot of spherical balloons. Then they are taught to become pilots and observers in the 'kite' balloons.

"This balloon is expected to ascend to a height of about 3,000 feet, with a wire attached to it, by which it is drawn down when desired, by motor power. In war, these balloons are located from three to five miles from the first line of trenches, and from the basket two men, a pilot and an observer, gives the range and results of firing by telephone to the artillery.

"Applicants must be citizens of the United States, not under 19 years of age or over 35. Must have a good education and three letters of recommendation.

"After passing the examination required, the applicant is enlisted as a first-class private in the Aviation section of the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps. The time of training depends upon the man's ability. If he qualifies as an observation balloon pilot, a lieutenant's commission is issued. From the time of his entrance into the school until he is commissioned he receives $100 per month, quarters and food allowance. As second lieutenant, $1,700; lieutenant, $2,000 annually. Requests for application blanks should be made to the President Aviation Examining Board, Fort Omaha, Nebraska.

An alumnus at this camp writes that some splendid men from the University are in training on there, and that large number of them are recommended for commissions. He also advises that the men should not miss this opportunity, especially if they cherish the faintest idea of entering the service.

MANY KANSAS VARSITY MEN WANT EXEMPTION FROM DRILL AND PHYSICAL EXERCISE

The department of physical education is taking up the applications for exemption from exercise and military drill this week. Blanks to be filled out by the applicant for exemption have been made and all applicants are required to fill out these blanks before their claims will be considered.

Those who apply for exemption on the grounds of physical disability will be required to present themselves at the University hospital for physical examination. The examining physician will make the required examination, and recommend that the student be required to take whatever form of exercise seems best fitted to keep him in the best physical condition.

When the student desires exemption on account of outside employment, he will be required to certify that he is regularly engaged in outside work, and must give the amount of work done and state by whom he is employed. In addition he must submit a schedule showing how his time is taken up from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon. This schedule must show his class periods and the periods when outside work is done.

He must also make a statement asserting that it is absolutely essential for him to do outside work in order to remain in school. Students engaged in outside work must furnish signed statements from their employers certifying that they are employed at the hours indicated on the schedule.

A statement is sent to the parents of all

A STORY FROM THE FRONT
One day an ammunition dump blew up. Cordite was blazing, shells and bombs bursting, and splinters and whole shells flying everywhere in the vicinity. The atmosphere was full of smoke and resounding with metallic whines. Out of a shack hard by came a darky, loaded to the waterline with kil, blankets, rifle, etc., and up the road he dangled.

"Here! Where are you going?" shouted an officer.

"I ain't goin', 'uh," panted the darky. "Isc gone".—Life.

TRUE TACT
The heroism of France has made the French language popular.

On this head there is a story illustrating the tack of M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador.

"Taka—er—eska voo voo-ly—I mean—er—passy-moi, sill voo play—er—"

M. Jusserand laid his hand on the senator's shoulder, and in his excellent English said:

"My dear sir, my very dear sir, do, please, stop speaking French. Your accent is so Parisian that, positively, it makes me homesick."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

TAKING HIS ADVICE.
"Though this is regarded in civil life as a trivial matter, in the army it is a very, very serious thing. I can quite understand you, a recruit, not realizing that, but I am obliged to punish you. However, I will be lenient with you. Seven days 'C.B.'"

And, continued the C.O. advisingly, "In future, play the game! Be a sport, Atkin! I am!"

"You are, sir?" queried Tommy, apparently amazed.

"Yes, I am!" replied the C.O., waxing indignant.

"Well, then, s'r," said Tommy, earnestly, "I'll toss you, fourteen days or nothing!"—

Extract from "The Weekly Telegraph."

HONESTY
A Baltimore business man was sitting at his desk when a coloured man, who sometimes waits upon him in a certain cafe entered the office.

In response to the business man's query what he could do for him, the darky replied:

"I've got a chance to change my position, sub. You kin say a good word fo' me, sub, can't you? Tell 'em I'm honest an' such."

"Of course," said the business man "you're a good waiter, Tom, but I don't know anything specially about your honesty."

Well, sub, tell 'em yo' thinks I'm honest. Dat'll be enough."

So the business man promised he would.

"Thank yo', sub, thank yo'," said Tom, with a deep bow. "When yo' come over to-morrow, sit at my table and I'll give yo' a short-check."—The Lamb.

No action will be taken on applications until all blanks are properly filled out and returned. Over 150 applications for exemption have been received.

Article VI.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

1. At the first meeting of the class in any academic year, nominations shall be received for officers for that year.

2. Withdrawal of nominations must be made within forty-eight hours.

3. In the event of the election to any office being contested, a poll shall be held in either East or West Hall between the hours of twelve and two, on some day at least one week distant from the day of nomination.

4. The officers of the executive, who are men shall be nominated and elected by the men only, and the officers of the executive who are women, shall be nominated and elected by the women only. This shall not apply to the president of any year, nor to any of the permanent staff.

5. The voting shall be by secret ballot.

6. At the nomination meeting two members of the class shall be appointed as returning officers, and they shall be responsible for the conduct of the polls.

7. In the event of vacancies occurring in the executive during the year, they may be filled at any meeting of the class at which there is a quorum. In case such an election is contested the voting shall be by secret ballot.

Article VII.

MEETINGS.

1. It shall be the duty of the ex-president of the third year, or in his absence, the ex-vice-presidents, ex-secretary or ex-treasurer in the order named, to call and preside at a mass meeting of the incoming first year, for the nomination of its class officers. This meeting shall be called not later than one month after the day on which the University opens.

2. Not later than one month after the opening of the University, the ex-president, or in his absence, the ex-vice-presidents, etc., of the first, second, and third years, shall call and preside at a mass meeting of his class for the purpose of nominating class officers for that academic year.

3. There shall be at least one regular class meeting in each term of the academic year.

4. The executive, or the president at the signed request of not less than TEN members, can call a special class meeting at any time by giving notice of such meeting at least one week in advance.

5. In either term it shall be the privilege of the class to hold a class reception. The form which this reception shall take, the date and place of holding it, and the financing of it, shall be decided by a majority vote in an open class-meeting.

6. The terms of Art. VII, sec. 5, having been complied with, the executive shall act as a committee to manage the reception.

7. (a) A quorum in class meetings shall consist of twenty per cent. of all the members of the class

(b) A quorum in executive meetings shall consist of a majority of the executive.

8. Rules of order observed in class meetings shall be those of the Students' Administrative Council, except Arts. XI, XVIII and XIX of those rules.

Article VIII.

AMENDMENTS.

Any amendment of this Constitution shall be made by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any class meeting at which there is a quorum, notice of such proposed amendment to be given at least two weeks in advance.

NOTICE.

2T1 Class Meeting at the Women's Union (St. George and Hoskin) on Thursday evening, November 29th at 7.30.

First Mrs.—Isn't your son rather young to join the army?

Second Mrs.—Yes, very young, but then, he is going to join the infantry. —White and Blue.

2T1 HISTORY CLUB AGAIN DEBATES

The fourth weekly meeting of the 2T1 History Club was held Monday afternoon in the Library Building where a very successful debate took place. The subject was: "Resolved that an autocratic government is better adapted for conducting war than a democracy." Messrs. Green and Findlay were the principal speakers, supporting affirmative and negative respectively. Mr. Green in favouring autocracy placed his points clearly, and as an example of autocratic efficiency (and Germany's success as an example. Mr. Findlay in reply endeavoured to prove that this form of government was less efficient and referred to the downfall of the Russian autocracy. The affirmative laid so much stress on German autocratic achievements that J. M. Smilie, in boiling enthusiasm, declared that German autocracy caused the war. Mr. Green arose, stamped his foot on the chair and declared that Mr. Smilie's points were no good and had nothing to do with the debate.

Messrs. Heaton and Clothier delivered excellent two minute speeches although two minutes proved insufficient for Clothier.

A very promising debate is promised for next Monday afternoon by Messrs. B. yson and Goldstein. "Resolved that capital punishment should be abolished". All welcome!

1917
EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

WYCLIFFE BATTLE TO A TIE WITH McMASTER

In a snow storm and on an icy field, Wycliffe and McMaster were unable to score in an inter college soccer fixture last night. Although there were many "spills" owing to the character of the ground, there are no casualties to report.

With the advantage of the keen wind, McMaster in the beginning of the first half kept 1 two, the Wycliffe goaler busy. Gradually Wycliffe forced their opponents back and assumed the aggressive. The elements made it difficult to know when and how far the ball was going.

The game was fairly even in the second half, Wycliffe perhaps having the edge. Although each side did its best, neither was able to come through with a goal, due to the good work of Richardson in goal for McMaster and Lewis for Wycliffe. Smith, Lea and Stale showed up well. Robbins, a Wycliffe regular, was off owing to an injury sustained last game.

Individual booting of the pigskin featured.

Wycliffe—Lewis, Barlow, Geoghegan, Wright, Smith, Marsh, Atkinson, Shaw, Jones, Lea, McEwen.

McMaster—Richardson, McDonald, Jamieson, Sinclair, Dick, Cain, Stale, Carr, Miller, Schatz, Webb.

COL. ROOSEVELT.

and we have never regarded him with any particular reverence."

With reference to conscientious objectors, Col. Roosevelt believes that they may have a conscience about fighting, but also that we should have a conscience about letting them vote.

In conclusion Mr. Roosevelt told us "Personally, as regards Canada and the United States, I think the time is already dawning when Great Britain and the United States can declare that no question can arise between Canada and the United States which isn't to be determined jointly as questions between your various provinces are determined at Ottawa or the various states at Washington.

"Thank heaven I can talk to you to-night and say that our people are awake and have the same purpose as yourselves. We intend to see this fight through, we intend that the fight shall be fought to a finish, that is to win the war no matter how long it takes, no matter what it costs, until we make our own terms."

Correction.

Cpl. Benjamin Bell Patten, B.A.'s '04, of S. George, was erroneously reported as having died. He was gassed a short time ago, and latest reports indicate that he is making satisfactory progress. A cousin, Bertram B. Patten, also of St. George, and serving in the artillery, has been reported as having died of wounds.

of one person, and registered in the name of another. In the case of Registered Bonds, the name of the person, to whom the dividend cheques are to be sent, must be given. In the case of coupon bonds, this is not necessary as the possessor of the coupon will collect the interest.

10. Ten per cent. of the amount sold is to be collected at time of sale. No cash is to be accepted. The purchaser—who has a bank account—may give his own cheque, or use the cheque at the bottom of the Application Form. On this cheque form it is necessary to write the name and address of his bank.

12. Where purchasers have no bank account, they are to fill in an undertaking to pay cash on December 1st, and are to state on this form, at which bank they will make the payment.

Complete instructions will be given at the meeting to be held in Convocation Hall and specimen forms, with instructions, will be handed to each canvasser. It is, therefore, absolutely necessary that every canvasser attend this meeting.

NO TRUTH IN CURRENT RUMOUR

When Superintendent Campbell was interviewed regarding the rumour in the last copy of "The Rebel" as to the probability of the University closing for the month of January on account of the shortage of fuel, he said that he had heard nothing of it, and that it was only a rumour.

There are many different opinions on this subject. Many are in favour of the University closing, while others think it a very bad scheme, as it would mean that they would have to stay in Toronto a month later in the summer.

THE "MELTING POT"

The arrangement for the "Melting Pot" are well underway and several big features for the big concert have been secured. The Melting Pot will take the form of a concert and for all faculties. It will be held in Convocation Hall on December 11, and as the authorities say it will be exceptionally good.

As the men will be out canvassing for the Victory Loan, there will be no meeting of the U.L.S. on Friday night, Nov. 30th.

Say, Dad! What's a Tight-Wad?

A tight-wad, my son, is one who holds his "Wad," or roll of bank bills so tightly in his hand that no one else can get a "look in" on it.

Toronto abounds in magnificent, most magnificent givers as those who canvass for Patriotic, Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. funds can testify, but on going the rounds you do strike tight wads.

Such men are ready enough to pray "God bless me and mine," but give mighty (spelled mite-y) little to bless anyone else, or help any good cause.

There is a celebrated painting—I wish you could see it, my son—in a London Gallery, by an English artist named Watts, which carries an impressive lesson to all who see it.

An old warrior has passed away—his body lies beneath a pall, his old helmet and armour near by, whilst above him are the words:—

"What I spent I had.
What I kept I lost.
What I gave I have."

What he kept was lost because dropped this side of the grave; what he gave was all that awaited him in the Great Beyond.

Listen, my boy, the man who in this time of national need, plays "tight-wad" when the world's liberty is at stake, is a disgrace to humanity.

Victory Bonds with 5½ per cent. interest, however, are such a good thing that even the tight-wad will not be able to resist.

Whatever you are, son, don't be a "tight-wad"—misere and misere-y, like the Siamese twins, are inseparable.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB GIVE LES ROMANESQUES

Play Cleverly Performed by Amateur Artistes of University

At the Canadian Academy of Music on Thursday evening last the French play of Edmond Rostand's "Les Romanesques", was presented by the Modern Language Club.

The programme commenced by an overture from the orchestra, which consisted of Miss Mary White, Miss Kathleen Asman and Miss Marjory Buck; and by the singing of La Marseillaise, which was followed by a short speech from M. de Champ in his own inimitable manner, in which he welcomed the audience and summed up the play for them.

The curtain then rose upon a most artistically arranged stage. Several remarks were overheard regarding its charming setting, and the Stage Managers deserve special commendation for their achievement of a very beautiful garden, with the principal character of the wall dividing the respective grounds of Bergamin and Pasquinet. Over this wall confidences were exchanged by "Les Romanesques", the role of the hero, Percinet, being sustained with manly beauty by Miss Dorothy McMillan, who divided the honours as "star" with the charming lit le heroine Sylvette, most excellently acted by Miss Mardette McMaster.

Miss Margaret Tytler acted the part of Bergamin, the father of Percinet, with great realism and ardor, and Miss Mary Underwood took equally well the part of Sylvette's father, Pasquinet.

The exciting part of Straforel was nobly upheld by Miss Gladys Bruce, and of his Spassadini by Miss Marie Peterkin and Miss Anna Munro, most fearsome looking soldiers of the night Percinet rescues his Sylvette from their clutches and is congratulated by the respective parents and rewarded for his noble deed by the hand of the fair lady, a union which both generations of the family had been trying to effect, but by different means.

Hawaiian guitar selections were introduced by Miss Margaret McCoy during the lyrical parts of the play with delightful effect.

After the curtain fell, little Miss Audrey Sampson danced most daintily a little fairy dance in costume; and was followed by Miss Mary White, who favored the audience with two violin solos excellently rendered, and most ably accompanied by Prof. Holt. Miss Lillian Black then sang a French song, and was enthusiastically encored. Miss G. Sampson, the older of these two talented sisters, then danced with as much grace as her sister, and the programme came to a close with the National Anthem.

The Club is to be congratulated on the very excellent production, and a well-filled hall realized over $20 for the relief of French war sufferers.

MAGNIFICENT IMPETUS GIVEN TO VICTORY LOAN

Varsity Lines Up Once More to Help Canada

Sir Robt. Falconer, Archdeacon Cody and Others Speak at Convocation Hall

Convocation Hall was the scene of a very patriotic and memorable mass meeting last Wednesday afternoon. It was a mass meeting, the importance of which could not be sufficiently appreciated by those present, but in years to come will be looked upon and recorded in the annals of Varsity history as one of the most patriotic meetings ever held for it was in the interests of Canada's Victory Bonds. In addition to the splendid records of her sons in the firing line, the nation these gallant student soldiers have won for their country and Alma Mater by their conspicuous bravery at the front, the Toronto University has now launched on a new patriotic endeavour, namely, aiding the country financially by selling Victory Bonds and thereby backing the men at the front. The meeting was well attended. Rev. Sidney Childs, president of the Students' Administrative Council, occupied the chair. The speakers were as follows: Sir Robert Falconer, Archdeacon Cody, Mr. Warburton, Mr. Arnold Ivey and Mr. Collier C. Grant, B.A.

Mr. Childs, in opening the meeting, referred to Varsity's proud record in this war. Over 4,000 graduates and undergraduates bravely responded to the call of their King and Country. Nearly 300 of this number will never return. They have paid the supreme sacrifice for the sake of justice and freedom. "The issue is more important to-day than ever before," stated Mr. Childs. "An appeal that comes to us to-day is sacred. Victory abroad must be preceded by victory at home. We need more money to prosecute the war and to bring it to a successful conclusion. The potential power of the successful Victory Loan is enormous." Mr. Childs concluded with an appeal to the students to support the organization of the Students' Council. He also announced that Mr. Norman Somerville, executive head of the organization, who was to be present at the meeting, had sent Mr. Warburton to take his place, owing to illness. Mayor Church was unavoidably absent.

The first speaker to be called upon was Sir Robert Falconer. His speech was brief. He appealed for 500 volunteers to sell Victory Bonds, Thursday, Friday (to day) and Saturday; and assured them that they will not suffer through non-attendance or in the examinations, for he had written to the head of each department in the University asking him to arrange for any extra lectures or laboratory work that may be necessary for those students participating in this patriotic duty. There will thus be no necessity for closing the University during the campaign. "The matter is well known to you," began Sir Robert. "The Victory Loan is the greatest national individual effort. It is an aim that would have been undreamed of three years ago, for they would have thought of it as very colossal. It must be a success." Then, turning to the students he said: "There is an absolute need of 500 volunteers. Many of you who cannot give, can at least persuade others. The students and staff are willing to make a sacrifice. A splendid opportunity for patriotic work is given you to labour hard for three days." The President also stated that he wants a list of the names of those actually engaged in this work.

Archdeacon Cody made a very forceful and effective appeal. He pointed out the seriousness of the present situation and the great need of money to reinforce our men at the front. "The first overwhelming duty is to win this war, and this Victory Loan campaign is an integral part of the war," he began. "We can have no permanent peace until Germany is beaten. Remember, the climax is at hand! Are we to slacken when we are almost in the Promised Land? This is no time of slackening of effort. You go out in the campaign with the spirit of hopefulness, determination and concentration. For if ever there was a time when a struggle could be called a crusade it is now. When you go out to canvass apply your skill, the knowledge you have gained at this University. In so doing

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE FROSH HOLD ENJOYABLE PARTY

Interesting Program of Cards,
Dancing and Music

Last evening at the Women's Union, the Class of 211 of University College held a most enjoyable class party. Great enthusiasm was displayed and the large turnout numbering about 150, showed that the College spirit was still burning fiercely in the freshman year. The party opened with the "Toronto" song, followed by Varsity and U.C. yells. The president, Mr. Novle, then addressed the gathering, thanked the students of the class for electing him, outlining to them the aims for the coming year. His neat address was followed by hearty applause. A business meeting open to all the students then followed, and matters of common interest were discussed and decisions arrived at. The remainder of the evening was spent enjoyably by all. Everybody did something, some danced and the dance was a huge success.

Cards also attracted many, even some of the Methodists entered into the contest with great enthusiasm. The games were fast and furious, and many freshmen incurred the life-long hatred of several freshmen for unwittingly tramping his partner's ace. Others engaged in the various contests provided and displayed their ability to distinguish between advertisements for R.V.D.'s and "Old Dutch Cleanser".

The party broke up about 12 o'clock, and couples wended their way homeward in all directions—some noticeably towards Queen's Hall, and "he who came alone departed not thuswise" seemed to be the motto of the evening. It is hoped that the succeeding parties will be as enjoyable as last evening's. Meanwhile, the next social event for the freshmen centers around Friday evening, December 7th. Do you know about it? If not, inquire from a 211 brother. It's going to be a real affair. We know.

DR. SPEER, OF NEW YORK WILL PREACH SUNDAY SERMON

Tickets for the Sunday Service in Convocation Hall (Dr. Robert E. Speer, speaker) can be secured from the Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. president of your faculty. There is a limited number of tickets and only one to a student. Tickets will not be given out as formerly—if you wish a ticket and if you intend to use it, go to your Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A. president. Admission by ticket until 10.50 only.

C.O.T.C. BAND

A very encouraging meeting was held last Tuesday for the purpose of organizing a band. Over twenty-five players signified their intention of joining, and Lieut. Slatter will hold the first rehearsal (Friday) afternoon at 4.15 in the University Y.M.C.A. building. Any students who are players of band instruments, who have not yet done so are asked to report to Lieut. Slatter this afternoon, so that the organization may be completed and work commenced.

you will maintain the lustre of the University, the splendid conditions of the past."

Archdeacon Cody then dwelt on the Victory Loan and showed how money invested in these bonds is well invested, both from an economical, moral and military standpoint. "The day of peace will be ushered in sometime. It will be a day of reconstruction. Your investment in the Victory Loan is therefore safe from the economical point of view. Further, there will be moral results. For if the people, by spending their money buying Victory Bonds learn the lesson of thrift it will be a moral legacy for this struggle. Every man, woman, or child, in Toronto, who buys a bond becomes a shareholder of the Dominion, of all its resources. And by

UNIVERSITY WILL CLOSE ON 14th OF DECEMBER RE-OPEN ON JANUARY 3rd

"After full consideration it was decided unanimously that it would be necessary in view of the approaching Dominion elections which are to be held on Monday, December 17, to postpone the Term Examinations from that week to the beginning of the next term in order that students who wish to vote at home may have the opportunity of doing so. As Thursday, the 20th, is the day on which the term was announced to close, it is altogether probable that few of these students will return, and the classes may be greatly reduced in numbers. This fact, together with the necessity of economizing in the consumption of coal, leads the Caput therefore to change the date of closing of the term from the 20th of December to Friday the 14th, at noon.

"It was also resolved to change the date of the opening of the Easter Term from Tuesday, the 8th of January, to Thursday, the 3rd.

"It was further decided that in the Faculty of Arts lectures shall close in the Easter Term at the end of March, so that all examinations shall be over by the beginning of May, and that Commencement shall be held on Friday, the 17th of May."

UNIVERSITY OCTETTE FIRST REHEARSAL

Will Make Debut in the "Melting Pot"

On Tuesday last the first rehearsal of the University Octette was held at the University Y.M.C.A. The voice test took place last week and a large number of splendid singers from all faculties turned out to try for a position on the first vocal octette, which has been organized in the University. The conductor who has been chosen, Mr. H. S. Martindale, B.A., a Victoria graduate, is a musician and choir leader of this city. Mr. Martindale was delighted with the voices of the men. With a view to the blending of the voices the following men were chosen: First tenor, Messrs. G. M. Pennock and Macdonald, Meads; second tenor, Messrs C. W. Adams, F.O.E. and R. G. Agnew, Dents; first bass, Mr. H. C. Binkley, Victoria; Mr. P. L. Irvine, Meads second bass, Mr. D. O. Arnold, Y.M.C.A.; Pte. W. F. Bowles, O.T.C.

Mr. Martindale has chosen some excellent music at the University Octette will make its debut at the "Melting Pot", the grand interfaculty entertainment to be put on by all faculties in Convocation Hall on December 11. Keep this date open and watch for further announcement in Monday's issue.

OPENING SESSION OF WEEK- END CONFERENCE TO-NIGHT

Are you aware that to-night at eight o'clock in Knox College the opening session of the big week-end conference is to be held. Who is going to attend? Everybody! Delegates from the O.A.C., Western University, Woodstock College and other Schools are here. Delegates from every faculty of the University of Toronto and McMaster will be there. But there will be room for you.

What is the Conference being held for? To find out from men who know what the missionaries are doing during these war days. You are interested in how India has been held for the British Empire. Mr. J. B. McLaurin and Dr. J. M. Waters will have a forceful message from that part of the Empire. You are interested in modern movements in China. Then come and hear Dr. Harold Balme, professor of Surgery, Shantung University, China, and Dr. W. E. Taylor.

Are you concerned in the international questions of to-day? Christian missions are one of the greatest international movements of the present day. The Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man taught to all nations is the surest way to friendly understandings among all peoples. Can you afford to miss this opportunity of hearing Christian internationalism discussed by most able speakers.

Dr. W. E. Taylor of China will speak to-night.

NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Soccer Association to-night at 5.15 in the gymnasium. All members are requested to attend.

"BIBLE IN SCHOOLS" IS SUBJECT OF DEBATE

Victoria Women's Lit. Hold Enjoyable Evening

The first inter-year debate in the Victoria Women's Literary Society took place in the meeting yesterday afternoon. Misses True Davidson and Eva Ryan '21, upheld the affirmative against Misses Elsie Galloway and Victoria Scarrow '20, on the subject "Resolved that the study of the Bible should be placed on the curriculum of the Public and High Schools of Ontario." The decision was given in favour of the sophomore champions who most assuredly are to be congratulated on the mastery with which they handled their subject and especially on the impression they succeeded in communicating to the audience of having a fund of reserve force behind their arguments. But their opponents, in spite of inexperience in college debates were just barely outdone, and gave promise of great things in the future.

While the judges retired to deliberate on the debate, the audience was delighted and highly amused by three impromptu debates on the subjects: "Resolved that professors got more enjoyment out of college than students do"; "Resolved that 'whiting' is better than any other grit on the market"—the affirmative of which was humorously and successfully maintained by a proficient student of Household Science, who will some day be a famous household-supplies agent; and "Resolved that a photographer must be a hypocrite to be a financial success."

The musical part of the programme consisted of a well-rendered solo by Miss Jean Edgington '20, "Where my caravan has rested", and lively year songs, followed by "Toronto". The audience heartily attested that the gathering was one of the most successful Lit. meetings this year.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OF U.C. HOLDS INITIAL PARTY

Reception Idea Suffers Additional Rebuff

The first of the second year's class parties came off in fine style on Tuesday night. About seventy members of the class were present. The president's speech, which opened the programme was splendid. This was agreed to by everyone. In fact Mr. Tail's remarks were so original and so a propos, that no room for doubt as to his aptitude for his new office was left in anyone's mind. Miss Christie and Miss Cosgrove contributed to the programme. Each in her own well-known way. The piano solo of the one and readings of the other were immensely enjoyed. Afterward the members danced or played cards; and to all appearance everyone had a good time. The class voted down a reception and decided in favor of several parties similar to Tuesday night's. These will follow each other at intervals during the year it is hoped to the members' increasing enjoyment.

PREMIER HEARST IS GUEST OF VIC COLLEGE WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

In Informal Address Shews Women's Position in Present War

Her Status Materially Changed

Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario, was the honoured guest at the annual meeting of the Victoria Women's Association held in Victoria College Chapel on Wednesday afternoon. Others on the platform were Chancellor Bowles, Dean Wallace, Mrs. Dr. J. W. Graham, president of the Society, and Miss Skinner, head of the Victoria Union. Sir William desired not to give an address in the ordinary sense of the word, but to chat over some of the changes brought about by women and her participation in the war.

By far the greatest and most far-reaching change is the new status of women politically. In England, even Mr. Asquith no longer regards enfranchisement as before the war. Women have proved their worth and must now take their part in the reconstruction of the country. In Ontario, women have already been granted the franchise, not as a reward for war work, but as their sacred right, and Sir William firmly believes this is a step in the right direction and that the Government will be supported by the women of the Province. The great reason why the Dominion Government has not granted the franchise to all women is because of the existing naturalization laws in Canada. At present, the wife of a foreigner becomes a British subject through her husband's papers. To have given all women a vote at this critical time would have been little short of a crime.

The present wide-open system of naturalization is to be restricted in January by the introduction of new naturalization laws, requiring on the part of the alien one year's residence in the country, proof of an adequate knowledge of either the English or French language, also an examination by a judge to ascertain if the person has proper qualifications for naturalization. If a woman be given the right to vote, she must be naturalized in the same manner.

The war has changed woman's status socially. She is to be found in all departments of trade and labour as never before in history. We find her in munition plants, banks, out doing agricultural work, on the fruit farms, and in a thousand other places. A greater appeal than ever is to be made this coming year for women to help on farms. England and France, of course, are showing us how splendidly women are filling vacancies. But this movement brings many problems in its trial. Will the women be willing to relinquish her position to the returning soldier? Moreover, these women will lack the knowledge of home-makers, and none of us should minimize the place of the home—that power of the Anglo-Saxon race. Women must help solve these problems.

To the women entering public life, Sir William tendered some friendly advice. They must be prepared for criticism—the kind which often keeps the best man from entering public service. They must remember that all the saints are not among the women, nor all the sinners among the men, and that all wrongs will not be done away with because they have the right of franchise. His advice was not to become fast, not to become agitators for the sake of agitation. Study to be sure a theory is right and practical. Let them remember they cannot ignore public sentiment, but they can educate it. No matter how a man may differ from their opinion he may be sincere. The person to be least respected, be he man or woman, is the one without an opinion. Greatest emphasis was laid on the responsibility of the ballot as a sacred trust.

In closing the Premier gave a message to the mothers of sons in France from the matrons of the hospitals. "How brave they are! Not a word of complaint! Your men from Canada are always gentlemen". He spoke of the religion of the soldier as the most sincere to be found anywhere. When General Byng was over the Canadians they were never sent to battle without kneeling in prayer. The statistics show that over eighty per cent. of the men who have won medals have been men connected with churches. The Premier

Captains.

It is absolutely necessary that you send in the name, year, and faculty of each member of your team, together with the amount of time each individual member spent on the canvas, to Mr. C. C. Grant, Varsity office, by Tuesday next. As stated at the mass meeting in Convocation Hall, Mr. Grant will forward these to the President, thus guaranteeing that the canvassers will not only be excused from lectures, labs and drills, but also that their willingness to assist in the final effort of the Victory Loan will in no way jeopardize their academic standing.

Mr. Ivey, Captain and Organizer, Congratulates Men

Mr. Arnold M. Ivey, captain and organizer of District 4, when interviewed by THE VARSITY late yesterday afternoon, regarding the progress made in the first day of the campaign said: "While nothing definite can be said about the actual returns, as it is a bit early yet, you may say that what results we have are very satisfactory. I want to state my appreciation of the whole hearted way the boys are entering into the Campaign. Considering the fact that practically all are new at the business, their returns for the first day have been very good, and I sincerely hope that the standard which was set to-day will be kept up, and even excelled in the remaining two days of the campaign. Many of them have been told by those they have called on that they have already invested. I would like them to impress upon the people that up to the present the slogan has been: 'Buy a bond!' Now it is 'Buy another bond'. The co-operation shown by investors has been great but they must be shown that still more is needed. $75,000,000 is Toronto's objective and $15,000,000 have to be raised during these days, the final stages, and the work done by the University of Toronto students will be of vital importance."

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB MEETS TO-DAY

The Political Economy Club will conclude its present series of studies on the subject of food control this afternoon. At an earlier meeting Mr. Cudmore addressed the Club on "The Economics of Food Control". Subsequently a debate was held on the advisability of government regulation of food prices, production and distribution. To-day, the Club will have an opportunity of hearing an advocate of such control present the case for Government enterprise.

Mr. Squires, who was appointed by the Provincial Government to undertake the distribution of the supplies of fish secured from Ontario waters, has kindly consented to address the Club on the object of his work—what he hopes to accomplish and how he expects to accomplish it. From intimate knowledge and experience he will be able to speak authoritatively on the actual working of Government enterprise in the production and distribution of at least one kind of food.

The Club will meet in Room 1 of the Library Building, this afternoon (Friday, November 30) at 3.30 o'clock. All who are interested in such subjects of present-day interest are invited to attend. After Mr. Squires' address, the meeting will be thrown open for discussion.

was deeply moved as he spoke of our men and their example of Service and Sacrifice.

In the course of the programme Mrs. Graham announced that since April, 1915, the Victoria Women's Association had given $4,092 to the University Base Hospital Supply. Miss Skinner gave a very promising report of the new Victoria Students' Union and Private McKinn's of the O.T.C., rendered two solos which were very much appreciated. The last few minutes were given to Mr. Correlli of the Royal Ontario Museum to describe the wonderful painting of the artist, Goetz, entitled, "The Crucifixion", which hangs at the back of the Victoria Chapel. After the meeting the ladies adjourned to the Patriotic Tea Room at the Victoria Union.

WILL YOU HELP?

As we wind our way past the Women's Reading Room in the University Library, we sometimes give a thought to the good work for which it is being used—why not give more than a thought? Why not spend a spare hour in helping along the good work?

This room was placed at the disposal of the Red Cross Society through the kindness of Mr. Langton. In it are cut, sorted and stored the articles which are made up, in the work room upstairs. The supplies made here are sent to the Canadian branch of the Red Cross Society in England, and are distributed to the different Canadian hospitals.

It might be interesting to note that the Canadian branch of the Red Cross Society in England is furnishing the No. 4 University Base Hospital with supplies. When the staff of this hospital left Salonica, they handed over their equipment to the British unit which replaced them. Consequently, when they opened a hospital in Basingstoke, England, where they are now situated, they depended entirely upon the Canadian Red Cross for hospital and surgical supplies.

In addition to supplying the Canadian hospitals the Canadian Red Cross Society aids the Allies and has undertaken to furnish the French with five thousand cases of supplies every month. Very often they have not been able to keep their promise, owing to the fact that the amount of work turned out was not equal to the demand.

Within the past year, the amount of work done by Canadian women has shown a marked decrease. Why? Is it because we are not serious at heart? Are we slacking? Then, there are always a few faithful workers; but how many University women think of volunteering to spend any time in the work-room? The need for supplies is great. The boys who need those supplies are not slacking. Have you their welfare at heart? Then prove it by offering your services. The ladies in charge of the work-room will be glad to have your assistance if only for one hour a week. Be generous, and—work!

STUDENTS AND THE UNIFORM

In view of recent discussion in the "Correspondence" column of THE VARSITY, the following editorial from "The Daily Maroon" of the University of Chicago is of interest:

"There has been much discussion on the question: Should members of the R.O.T.C. wear their uniforms on and off the campus, except for drill? There are various phases to the problem.

"The continual wearing of the uniforms during the University day would add considerably to the esprit and the esprit de corps of the corps (if that repetition is permitted). The mere fact that all members could be recognized at once and all times by the khaki symbol of their presence in the corps would not only make more possible a feeling of camaraderie among the men, but it would also assist toward developing discipline.

"One objection to enforced wearing of the uniforms is that the men themselves would resent such enforcement, inasmuch as they have not enlisted in United States service but are merely taking a course in military training at the University of Chicago. The justice of their point of view is obvious.

"There is also talk against wearing the uniforms off the campus. As one senior remarked yesterday, a fellow wearing his R.O.T.C. uniform downtown is universally given credit, by people who do not know of the University corps, for being enlisted, perhaps, or for being from the Fort Sheridan training camp. The senior remarked that such conscious or unconscious misrepresentation was pure and simple camouflage. Of course the military department does not wish its khaki to be used as camouflage.

"There are several points of view concerning the question. Undoubtedly the University is interested. It surely ought to be interested to the extent of inquiring why the members of the University band are permitted to wear their khaki camouflage wherever and whenever they please. And surely the military department itself is willing to express its own point of view on the question."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

One of the recently formed student societies—the Menorah Society—is growing stronger. Its work is interesting and important, and is receiving increasing attention.

If the whole of the University Orchestra is as good as the "Remnant", which performed at Wednesday's "Mixer", it ought to be well worth hearing.

The Mulock Cup series is over for another year. All the men who played on the teams are well worthy of praise for "carrying on" under such adverse conditions. Congratulations are due O.T.C.

"Side-stepping" is an easy occupation—especially when carried out on paper. It is so easy to take up one's pen, ignore all opposing arguments, and proceed to create a pretentious "camouflage". But perhaps we grow too definite—and that is against all rules of "side-stepping".

"A CHALLENGE TO MISSIONS"

Prof. E. F. Burton, Ph.D.

The appeal of missions comes with particular aptitude to the student who, more than any other young man or woman, is for a few years a spectator of life awaiting the decision as to where to cast his lot. Sooner or later the question as to our aim in life emerges and will not down. How we long for some over-ruling power to wake the decision for us, and settle our life work once for all! Each one must decide for himself what his aim in life shall be.

There is a parlour game called Fort, in which one shoots marbles at the so-called fort to overturn kings and queens and guard, for which one counts twenty-five, ten points and so on. What a caricature of the very real game the boys and men are playing on the Flanders fields. How many of us have been playing or intending to play the parlour game in life all unmindful of the great real game beyond. To one and all the challenge of Christian missions comes with redoubled insistence in these times of world strife.

The challenge to sacrifice—In these days of such intense sacrifice of both the women and men of Canada, the sacrifice of the person who leaves home and friends to serve the cause of Christ in some far-off land does not frighten us from such a prospect. But such a life does offer an opportunity for a continuance of the spirit of sacrifice which ennobles a nation.

The challenge to heroism—What an inspiration comes to us from our heroes! The happenings of the present day give us an enthusiasm for our country which the dry recital of far-off Balaklava or Lundy's Lane could never kindle. So the mission fields of to-morrow we shall continue to be inspired by our Livingstone's and Carey's yet to come.

The challenge to service—From what ever motive, every young man or woman is planning to serve in some way his day and generation. If the motive be the acquirement of riches, we should realise right at the start that we are of all men the most miserable. In everyone there is a nebulous desire to serve. Whether from a medical or a purely educational point of view the opportunities offered in the so-called non-Christian lands are such as come to very few in the home lands. As for the larger service to humanity progress the world over, who can estimate the influence of the men and women whose lives have been given in this service? It is a remarkable fact that China, Japan, and India are all ranged against the power that is the negation of Christianity.

The challenge to united action.—On every hand we hear pleas for a simplified Christianity and united action. Is it not time for the formation of a War Council of those allied against the powers of evil? The leaders of this united action must come from the University men and women of to-day.

Correspondence

The Editor of THE VARSITY.

Sir,—Would you kindly afford me space to meet some objections to the undergraduate course in English, urged by a writer in your issue of November 20th, to indicate very concisely why the most recent writers are not included.

1. Why should they be included? What prevents the undergraduate reading the prose or poetry of his own days? What help or introduction is necessary—except the historical introduction which is given by the study of the literature that precedes. Those who have no special educational advantages can, and do read contemporary writers; but between us and the past, there is a gap—naturally widening with the lapse of time—which unaided and unsystematic reading finds difficult to pass. To be able to escape from the limits of our own time, is of the essence of higher education.

2. The surest way to develop insight and taste is through familiarity with, and appreciation of the best that has been thought and written in the past. The only basis of confidence in our own judgment of matters purely literary—matters of taste and aesthetics—is our power of appreciating at least some considerable portion of what has approved itself and been stamped as "classic".

3. Everyone must be aware of the extraordinary diversity of opinion as to contemporary production; only those familiar with the criticism of the past know how unreliable such opinion is. Of antecedent literature a competent instructor speaks, not on his own authority merely, but in virtue of a general consensus, his comments are not merely his own, but the accumulation of many minds. Would Professor Bradley's "Shakespeare's Tragedies" have been as helpful and illuminating, had he been under the necessity of relying only on his own insight, without availing himself of the labours of countless Shakespearean critics? If an Elizabethan professor had lectured on Shakespeare and on Homer, who can doubt as to which course would have been the more adequate and helpful?

4. The graduate student must have at least covered the English literature included in the undergraduate course; he must further extend these studies. He has, therefore, in some measure, a background and basis for the estimation of the literature of the present. And this literature—just because its place and characteristics have not been fully examined and pronounced upon—affords him an opportunity for independent investigation and judgment which is an essential part of graduate work. UNIVERSITY ROLL OF SERVICE SOON TO BE OUT

Prof. Smith Announces Particulars Concerning the Publication and Its Distribution

The University Roll of Service is nearing completion. The copy is all in the hands of the printers, and it is expected that the book will be finished in a few days.

Professor Smith's original intention was to have the Roll ready in October, but it has been unavoidably delayed, as the University Press has a great deal of other work on hand, and the preparation of a publication of this special character is inevitably slow if it is to be accurate. Also several changes in printing have been necessitated by recent casualties.

Six thousand copies in all will be printed, but of these over four thousand are to be given to the parent or near relatives of the Varsity soldiers whose names appear in the Roll. Twenty-five hundred of these have already asked for copies and the remaining fifteen hundred copies will be reserved for those who have not yet applied.

About five hundred more will be sent to the Canadian journals and public libraries, and also to the universities of the British Empire. Possibly a thousand copies will remain for general distribution. As far as can be said at present they will be given to those who first apply for them; but if the demand becomes likely to exceed the supply, some restrictions will be placed upon their indiscriminate distribution.

As new casualties are being reported almost daily, Professor Smith intends to issue a supplement in about six months, if possible before the end of the session. Additional supplements will be published as often as necessary until the end of the war, and these will be distributed as before.

When the war is over the University will probably publish some kind of memorial volume, probably containing a somewhat expanded version of the Roll of Service, but the form in which this will appear has not yet been decided.

JOINT MEETING OF U.C. MEN AND WOMEN HELD

Rev. Mr. McLaurin Delivers Address --Social Evening Follows

At a joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. held on Monday night at the Women's Union, 55 St. George Street, Rev. Mr. McLaurin, a missionary from India, gave a very interesting and inspiring address on missionary work in India. The purpose of the meeting was to arouse interest among the students and was a preparation for the conference to be held at the end of the week in Knox College and Convocation Hall. Mr. McLaurin told of the great work which the missionaries had performed in India since the beginning of the war in combating the German propaganda which was so easy to perfect owing to the extremely superstitious nature of the natives. The British Army headquarters in India paid the missionaries the great tribute of saying that they were the only men who could keep the natives loyal. The speaker dwelt on the direct results obtained in the work with natives and gave many instances of the transformation of villages through the teaching and influence of the missionaries.

After the address the evening was spent socially with coffee, cake and conversation. The meeting closed with the singing of college songs.

MENORAH SOCIETY.

There will be a meeting of the Menorah Society on Tuesday, December 4 at 7.45 p.m. at the University Y.M.C.A. The programme for the coming year will be discussed. It is imperative that everybody turn out. All those who desire to become members have the best opportunity of doing so at this meeting. Remember! This may probably be the last meeting this term!

PATRIOTIC TEA ROOM

The sophomores of Victoria College have charge of the Patriotic Tea Room at the Union, Friday, November 30. Special treats! Special music! Everything special. Come and enjoy a cup of tea from 3.30 to 5.30.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY.

The Seminar in Botany will meet on Thursday, November 29 at 4.30 p.m. in the Botany and Forestry Building, 11 Queen's Park. A paper will be given by Miss J. G. Wright.

BIG MISSIONARY CONFERENCE ON "CHRISTIAN INTERNATIONALISM"

Are you planning to spend the coming week-end attending the meetings of the big Missionary Conference? If not, now is the time to arrange your plans so as to take in every meeting. Why should you go to a Missionary Conference, you ask? Because these days everybody is interested in international questions. Foreign missions form one of the greatest of these questions. Christian internationalism is a subject of deep interest to every Christian student whatever his faculty or course.

The conference is going to be held in Knox College and Convocation Hall. Such live subjects as the following are going to be dealt with by very able speakers: "The challenge of the Moslem World"; "Modern medicine and China's millions"; "The Present Emergency in China"; Robert E. Speer, who always fills Convocation Hall to its capacity, is to be here. Dr. Harold Balme who just a few weeks ago stirred the Meds with his talks on China, will be back with us. Canon Gould, one of our great Canadians, has consented to talk to us.

Can you afford to miss this, the biggest event that will happen around Varsity this year? Many have said things are dead. Here is something that will live things up. Broaden your education. Deepen your sympathies. Get interested in the greatest movement the world has ever known—Christianity. Be at every meeting from Friday evening, November 30 till Sunday afternoon December 2.

College Men and the War

[The following is an article written by the Honourable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War of the United States, for the various American Universities.]

When the call to national service arose spirited young men everywhere of course wanted to be employed in a patriotic way, and I suppose there is scarcely a young man in any college in the country who has not very anxiously addressed to himself the question: "What can I do?"

I think there is no general answer to this question. Even in those cases where it would be obviously better for a young man to stay at college and prepare himself for later and fuller usefulness, yet if the young man in so doing acquires a low view of his own courage, and feels that he is electing the less worthy course, the effect on the young man of that state of mind toward his own actions probably would be so prejudicial that it ought not to be encouraged.

To the extent that the men in college are physically disqualified, or to the extent that they are too young to meet the requirements of the department, it seems quite clear that in the present state of the emergency their major usefulness lies in remaining in the college, going forward with their academic work. The knowledge that the students will acquire at college will equip them for subsequent usefulness if the emergency lasts until their call comes.

But we do not want to chill enthusiasm. We want to preserve enthusiasm and cultivate it and use it; but we do want to be discriminating in our enthusiasm, and prevent people getting the notion that they are not helping the country unless they do something different which very often is not the case at all. The largest usefulness may come from doing the same thing. Now, it is not unnatural that there should be these ebulliences of feeling, this desire to change occupation as a badge of changed service and devotion to ideals. Our colleges can exercise a steady influence in this regard.

We are going to have losses on the sea; we are going to have losses in battle; our communities are going to be subjected to the rigid discipline of multiplied personal griefs scattered all through the community, and we are going to search the cause of those back to their foundation, and our feelings are going to be torn and our nerves made raw. There is a place for physicians of public opinion to exercise a curative impulse. The young men who are in our colleges, who go to their homes from our colleges and make up a large part of the direction of public opinion, can exercise a curative influence by preaching the doctrine of tolerance, by exemplifying the fact that it is not necessary for a nation like the United States, which is fighting for the vindication of a great ideal, to discolour its purpose by hatreds or by the entertainment of any unworthy emotion.

NOTICE.

LETTER TO "MICHIGAN DAILY" ADVOCATES FRIENDLINESS

The drawing together of the English-speaking nations—for the British Empire—is now correctly understood to be but a great commonwealth of nations, a larger English-speaking United States—makes it eminently fitting that this relationship should be recognized in our patriotic mass meetings. At the concerts held on ocean liners, Americans and Britons have often joined their voices in singing the splendid verses of the international hymn to the common anthem of "America" and "God Save the King." May I here echo the request of Major-General J. F. Bell, U.S.A., in yesterday's New York Times that the singing of these verses be encouraged.

"If, on proper occasion," said General Bell, "the singing of these international words could be encouraged it would at the least tend to cultivate cordial relations with a nation with whom for many years has endeavoured to manifest cordial friendship for us."

The first and last verses of this international hymn are:

Two Empires by the sea,
Two Nations great and free
One Anthem raise,
One race of ancient fame,
One tongue, one faith we claim,
One God, whose glorious name
We love and praise.

Now, may the God above,
Guard the dear lands we love,
Both East and West
Let love more fervent glow,
As peaceful ages go,
And strength yet stronger grow,
Blessing the best.

I would offer the suggestion that the words of these stanzas be added to those of "America" in the future programs in which our national anthem is printed, to the end that they be learned by heart.

BIG T.C. AUDIENCE HEARS MORGENTHAU

Former Ambassador Gives Vivid Word Pictures of the Turkish Atrocities.

"Living, peaceful, industrious lives, the Armenian bankers, merchants, doctors, and lawyers residing in their own country, were suddenly beset by the Turkish official at the outbreak of the war and deported, robbed, and finally massacred by the scores," said Ex-Ambassador Morgenthau in his talk at the Horace Mann auditorium last Friday, the first of a series of war addresses for Teachers College. When the refugees were being moved by the deportation order of the Turks, more than five hundred thousand were massacred and nearly a million perished. Women and children were left destitute and homeless and it was one of the privileges of the Embassy to aid in the relief work.

The Turkish government interfered with the many brave sacrifices being made by the American men and women, who took care of the sick and the poor, respective of creed, said Mr. Morgenthau, and those Americans deserve a tribute of appreciation and applause from us over here.

"Turkey," said the speaker, "is a strange land with strange scenes. I am especially reminded of a scene at Constantinople, as there passed across one of the bridges, a throng of people and a multitude of vehicles. Every nation on earth was represented, including the Royal princess, the bare-legged Arab, the shepherd with his flock, a modern trolley car clanging on its way, and an ancient carrier plodding along."

The government of Turkey, said Mr. Morgenthau, recognize religious distinctions as political distinctions because the governments of Europe forced them to. Although the government is a limited monarchy, the Sultan now enjoys very few privileges. The Senate and the Cabinet have all the say in the running of the government. —Columbia Spectator.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS PLAN TO HONOUR MEN IN SERVICE

President Hopkins of Dartmouth University, and President Lowell of Harvard have united in an endeavour to further plans for a new degree, which will be given to those students who have entered the service of their country for this war. Both of these men have written to the Yale News in regard to their idea, and express themselves as being in favour of some such degree as Bachelor of Military Science, which would tend to show the purpose of the honour, without giving the men credit for the completion of their academic work. —Daily Princetonian.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.

Sir,—When every casualty list contains the names of University men who have fallen in action it is obviously impossible for you to deal adequately with each case, but your five-line notice in a recent issue announcing that Cpl. Hugh R. Kay had been killed in action struck me as being pathetically inadequate to record the death of one of the ablest graduates of University College. I remember Kay especially well as a freshman and throughout his college course, and I have known few students who seemed to me more promising. His intense interest in all important questions, his fearless, self-reliant originality of mind, his modesty, his unusual ability—all gave promise of a man who would make his mark and who would be one of the greatest assets of Canada. Two or three weeks ago I had a letter from R. A. Mackay, also of Knox College who is serving in the 43rd Battery (Kay's unit) in which he said: "Perhaps you know that Kay has been awarded the Military Medal. He has done excellent work as a linesman, and has the reputation of being the best judge of shells in the Battery."

I had a long interesting letter from Kay himself written on October 19th. He was expecting to be sent almost immediately to an officer's training school. The following extract suggests something of the charm of his character, and may be of interest to those who knew him:

"We have had on the whole a quite fortunate experience of artillery work in a number of positions. We have had our due share of casualties, so that drafts have been needed to refill the ranks. Running an eye over the line-up at the cook-house door one sees a great many strange faces, and of course we who are of 'the originals' look down with a measure of contempt on drafts who are known familiarly as 'remounts', and who have had experience of nothing but the 'battle' of Shorncliffe."

But we ourselves have had our views changed many times. The scholars and would-be heroes of U. of T. and Knox College have become quite reconciled to cleaning harness and grooming horses. The men who can "roll to bed with a Latin phrase and rise with a verse of Greek" do not always make the most efficient gunners or N.C.O.'s, and clearly the man from the Peace River country who has been ranching for years has in him the making of a better horseman than the average student.

Most men are specialists. For my own part I have specialized (almost of necessity) in telephones and wiring. While the battery is in action this is fairly interesting work. But there have been many changes even since we came over, for the thin wires laid over open country or in trenches are giving way to a system of buried cables. But a linesman has an interesting and often a strenuous life. He is left quite a good deal to do his own work and is "on his own" so to speak. Perhaps for that reason I seem to have found my work and my place in that specialty.

Many of us are very tired of war. For it simply means position after position, and it is perhaps quite natural that we should wish to be done with it all, and back to a more normal way of living. As the days pass and the rather crude ways of living and working commence to pall we sometimes ask each other what we are living for anyway. Some live for mail days, others for leave. There are those who live for their meals and to sleep while others live for gambling. Some live for glory and some for promotion, and others again because they do not know of a very convenient and easy way of dying. Most of us, I fancy, live for all of the above things, but I am sure we all live for the day on which we will be able to say that we have seen the day dawn on which peace was declared.

In spite of the above we are all a very hopeful, hearty lot. At present we are not in action, and if you could drop into the structure of corrugated iron and lumber which seven of us call home at present I am sure you would find us an agreeable lot. The shack we put up ourselves and it is something of a triumph. The tents are an even greater triumph. With a little stove in the centre we are not so badly off on these chilly days of October."

It is in the death of Kay and hundreds more of the flower of our young manhood that we realize the greatness of the prize for which we are striving and the awful character of the price which we have to pay.

Yours,
MALCOLM W. WALLACE.

UNIVERSITY GRADUATE WANTED FOR TEXAS MILITARY COLLEGE

The Texas Military College, situated at Terrell, Texas, desires the services of a University graduate, unmarried, who has seen service at the front, and has been invalided home, to handle the military discipline of the College, and to teach mathematics. The particulars of the salary, etc., can be obtained on application to Lieut.-Col. W. R. Lang, Headquarters, 149 College Street, Toronto.

PROFESSOR CRITICIZES SEIZURE OF ALSACE.

In his new book, "Alsace-Lorraine Under German Rule," Professor C. D. Hazen, Law Professor at Columbia, scathingly condemns the Germans for their seizure of the provinces. He takes the position that the two hundred years Alsace-Lorraine was French, which include the period of progress during the French Revolution, count for more than the eight hundred years of stagnation during which they were German. Professor Hazen gives figures to prove the wholesale emigration from the provinces since their annexation—as late as 1905-10, 5,000 Alsacians emigrated, and he also describes in detail the persistent and brutal attempts towards their Germanization. Professor Hazen insists that the question of Alsace-Lorraine was not settled in 1871, and that the provinces must be restored to France at the conclusion of the war.

Hold—That—Line—Varsity

In the pre-war days the stadium grounds on many occasions reverberated with this triumphant expression of cheer and confidence.

A Crisis in the game! Our team is not scoring and the opponent team is on our very line, with the ball in its possession.

Distinct and steady, separated by well-timed intervals, come the words

HOLD—THAT—LINE—VARSITY

Look! Jack Maynard has grabbed that ball. Out of the mellee, dodging, sidestepping, working in co-operation with "Pete" Campbell, Charlie Gage and Hugh Gall, he carries the ball on and on to Victory.

Yesterday morning, our canvasser teams struggled hard to hold their line. In the afternoon, they worked with set faces. This morning comes the message from headquarters through our captain Arnold Ivey:

Out Ye Men of Varsity—Over and at Them

The spirit of Hugh Gall, of Jack Maynard, of Jack Newton, of Charlie Gage, all now in France, will spur you on and on until the crest of your objective fades in your rear and Toronto, and Canada, and the Empire and the best of all 4200 soldier men from the University of Toronto will know that those who cannot go, have done their duty, that the

HIGH GRADE BASKETBALL IN INTER-HOUSE CONTEST

East House Goes Down After Valiant Struggle

Another match in the inter-house basketball schedule at Knox College was played off last Tuesday evening when West House met East House. The game was very fast, perhaps the fastest of any of the games up to date and some pretty work was done by both teams. The West House men, under the leadership of "Cap" Cook, had the margin on their opponents who nevertheless put up a splendid fight to overcome the strong lead acquired by West House during the first half.

The first half was characterized by snappy combination play. East House scored the first basket, but West House soon "got the range" and notched ten points in quick succession. From that point they were never headed and the half ended with a score of 24-8 in favour of West House. The second half saw East House making splendid efforts to overcome the lead, and West House played a defensive game, using combination and thereby scoring several more baskets. Full time found both teams going strong with the score 28-14 in favour of the West House.

West House—Cook, Atchison, Stewart, Hodges, Henry.

East House—Dickson, Douglas, Wilkinson, Taylor, Forin.

LATEST REGULATIONS FOR MEDICAL AND DENTAL STUDES

First Year Men Are Not to be Exempted from Service

It is customary to read of "red-tape" in connection with war departments, but civilians ordinarily are not affected. Lately, however, our own Militia Department has inaugurated what Ian Hay would call "a practical joke department" to harass the nerves and patience of sundry medical, dental and veterinary students. Below is published the latest bulletin—it appeared in yesterday's daily papers—but it may be changed by now.

"There has been one more ruling added to the list of those already made regarding medical, dental and veterinary students. The latest regulation confines exemptions among all such students to those who have already completed their first year. Students of the above three classes who are in their second, third, fourth or fifth years, to whom exemption has already been refused, and who are listed to be taken on the strength, are not to be granted their appeals but may be given leave of absence from the army, without pay, on the recommendation of the head of the institution where they are registered, provided they are taking up the regularly prescribed military course, and provided as well they declare their willingness to serve immediately they have completed their course. In the case of graduate chemists to whom exemption has already been refused, there is to be a similar leave of absence, provided proof is submitted to the satisfaction of the district Leave of Absence Board that their services are required at home for the national interest."

APPLIED SCIENCE '15 WILL REMEMBER COMRADES.

The graduates of the Faculty of Applied Science of Class '15 who are in Canada, are holding a meeting at the Queen's Hotel, Saturday evening, December 1, for the purpose of completing arrangements to send a box to each of the men of the year who are overseas—about 104 men. Relatives and friends who wish to contribute should send their contributions to Mr. E. M. Montith, 51 Grosvenor Street.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CRYING QUESTION OF THE HOUR

Official Curriculum Censured for Criminal Neglect

The war has done a great deal to emphasize the importance of a physical education. It has pitilessly shown up all the defects of the preparation of our man-power as it has that of our artillery.

At the very time when athletic education is receiving, on the front, the most brilliant praises from all our chiefs, where its adepts are receiving congratulations on all sides, it may be noticed that the official curriculum has calmly forgotten to prepare Canadians to be soldiers. The school curricula do not give gymnastics and sports any serious place among the subjects they contain. We may say that sports are rather tolerated than accepted. When will the authorities realize that the young men of to-day are insufficiently prepared; that they have not the muscular weight necessary to make a soldier immediately, but require months of difficult training?

Thus it is absolutely necessary, not only to encourage sport, but to organize it to plan out in advance a logical graduated programme, which will lead boys through their school-days to athletic societies and thence to the regiment. To-day the military athletic education is the most important chapter of this work of athletic formation, but to-morrow, after the war, the post military training will be as necessary as the previous ones. This connection with athletic societies will enable men to preserve through later life the high state of physical perfection acquired by long and continual preparation as a soldier.

Consider the requirements of a soldier in modern warfare. He must be a being capable of varied physical effort, an effort which is now brief and violent, now slow and sustained. He must have a brain accustomed to rapid physical decisions, which may at times be the means of saving his life; he must have a strong unwavering soul to face peril, suffering, the unknown. He must be in the habit of immediate, comprehensive, physical obedience to the will of the chief. He must have a soul-knowledge how to command, because it has first learned to obey. The soldier of to-day is often the leader of to-morrow, and when his military career is completed, he should not be allowed to lose his state of physical efficiency.

If all this is to be brought about, physical training in all the stages of education must not only be permitted, favored and relieved of all hindrances, and responsibilities, but must be made compulsory. Our country needs our bodies as well as our brains and as compulsory education has reduced the number of illiterate people, so will compulsory physical training reduce the number of unfit for military service. Our country, which insures to each of us a minimum of safety and of civilization, is entitled to require if we wish to be defended by it and by those upon whom it calls for our defence, that we begin by submitting to the best physical training capable of enabling us to take for ourselves an effective place in the ranks of its defenders.

What He Would Do.

A student at the medical college came in to call on us the other morning. And while we have a partiality for medical students, we must confess to an aversion to some of the themes they choose for their light conversation. This one went into details about the dissecting room which caused us to interrupt with some remark about the beauty of the weather.

"Ah," said he, "your tartaric tactics remind me of a quiz I underwent the other day. You know I am in the graduating class. Well, one of the professors said: 'Mr. Whozis, let me ask you. Supposing you were conducting an autopsy, and suddenly the subject showed signs of life. What would you do?'"

"Why," said I, "I'd change the subject."

VICTORIA LADIES WIN HOTLY CONTESTED GAME

Result Long in Doubt—Final Score 24-14

In the basketball game between Victoria and St. Hilda's on Tuesday evening in the Lillian Massey gym, Victoria won with a score of 24-14.

The teams were well matched and the game was the most closely contested one so far in the series. Victoria kept the lead straight through, where there was any, but St. Hilda's tied them over and over again. In fact the score was a tie six minutes before the end of the game. At half time it was 8-6, Victoria being only one basket ahead.

Rooters for both sides were much excited, very much crowded and very warm. It certainly was a strenuous game and one calculated to keep the interest up to the last moment.

Victoria—Misses B. Flanders, J. O. Smith, F. Snider, C. A. Kilborn, J. Edgington, C. E. Kilborn.

St. Hilda's—Misses J. Lennard, N. Elliott, M. Harrow, D. Whittier, M. Ewart, A. Boyd.

ANGLICAN CLUB

On Tuesday afternoon a splendid gathering of the Anglican Club met at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas. After a very sociable hour spent over the tea-ups, the president, Miss Gwendoline Hiles, addressed the meeting.

This was followed by an address from Mrs. Griffith Thomas, who has been honorary president of the club for over six years. Mrs. Thomas once more put before the club its aims, and urged the girls to take a greater interest in deaconess work, and Christian work in general, and also to attend the meetings more conscientiously.

Miss Watts, the deaconess representative, then spoke a few words and asked for volunteers to help in the entertaining of children at the Mission on Thursday afternoons.

It has often been a matter of comment that the Anglican Club has not taken up a definite study of the Bible. This fact was brought under discussion and in consequence it was decided to hold in future a Bible study group every Sunday afternoon, under the able leadership of Mrs. Griffith Thomas, at her house on St. George Street. These classes are not to take any away who have previously belonged to any other study group, but merely a special study of the Bible for Anglican girls and will not conflict in any way with any other groups they may wish to attend.

Say, Dad! What's a Tight-Wad?

A tight-wad, my son, is one who holds his "Wad," or roll of bank bills so tightly in his hand that no one else can get a "look in" on it.

Toronto abounds in magnificent, most magnificent givers as those who canvass for Patriotic, Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. funds can testify, but on going the rounds you do strike tight wads.

Such men are ready enough to pray "God bless me and mine," but give mighty (spelled mite-y) little to bless anyone else, or help any good cause.

There is a celebrated painting—I wish you could see it, my son—in a London Gallery, by an English artist named Watts, which carries an impressive lesson to all who see it.

An old warrior has passed away his body lies beneath a pall, his old helmet and armour near by, whilst above him are the words:—

"What I spent I had.

What I kept I lost.

What I gave I have."

What he kept was lost because dropped this side of the grave; what he gave was all that awaited him in the Great Beyond.

Listen, my boy, the man who in this time of national need, plays "tight-wad" when the world's liberty is at stake, is a disgrace to humanity.

Victory Bonds with 5½ per cent. interest, however, are such a good thing that even the tight-wad will not be able to resist.

Whatever you are, son, don't be a "tight-wad"—misere and miser-y, like the Siamese twins, are inseparable.

"MORALITY," THE THEME OF DR. HASTINGS' ADDRESS

Toronto's Health Officer Captivates "T" Mixer

The men who assembled at the Central Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday night at the "T" Mixer, expecting to hear something interesting and instructive, were not disappointed. After the grand assault upon the "eats", Chairman Bowles of Victoria College, "apologized" for the remnant of the University orchestra which had played during the meal and introduced the speaker, Dr. Charles Hastings, M.O.H.

Dr. Hastings, in his opening remarks, stated that in view of the fact that he is of Celtic extraction and had but a short time at his disposal, he had thought it out to present the main portion of his address in the form of a paper, so that he might not do as the famous Thackeray had once done and think of his wit points on the way home. He then proceeded to present to the men a clear, frank statement of moral conditions.

In dealing with his subject "Morality in the City of Toronto," Dr. Hastings gave figures to show that before the water supply of the city was made fit for use the mortality from typhoid fever had been high, but now, through the preventative measures taken in the purification of the supply, the death rate from this fever has been greatly reduced. "We try to blame the Almighty," said Dr. Hastings, "for the results of thence of our own sins. If we had not taken the preventative measures necessary to guard the health of the citizens of Toronto, man would have claimed that the great numbers who, otherwise, would have died from typhoid had been carried off because of divine wrath and as a scourge from God." He proceeded then to show how diseases may be avoided by taking proper precautions and in this connection pointed out how great a part prevention could and should play in the curtailing of the spread of venereal diseases. "We can prevent them," said Dr. Hastings, "and we are not doing so."

In his interesting way, Dr. Hastings presented facts and figures gleaned from various sources, in connection with his study of venereal diseases, which were appalling. In clear, forcible terms he impressed upon the men present the awful extent and the disastrous results of disease due to the social evil in their effect, not only on the guilty, but on the innocent members of society. Smallpox and like diseases are controlled by regulation and authority is given, which enables the health officers to take steps to prevent their spread, and thus protect society. But such authority is not given in the case of venereal diseases, and there is no adequate legislation affecting them, so that the most virulent cases of such diseases are left unchecked and may spread to innocent persons, bringing untold misery and suffering in their train.

In concluding his remarks, Dr. Hastings offered to answer any questions asked bearing on the subject and made an appeal for outspoken leadership on the part of University men in aiming at better education along sex lines and more legislation in connection with the control of venereal diseases. The hearty applause of the men testified to their appreciation of the speaker, and his frank handling of a subject too often dealt with in an apologetic manner.

The various faculties then adjourned to rooms assigned to them to organize the religious discussion groups, which it was announced were to meet after succeeding Mixers. Further announcements regarding these groups and their discussion topics will be made before the next Mixer, which the executive claims, will be an eye-opener.

Trinity

The inter-year debate held last Friday night between the first and second years on the subject, "Resolved that a limited monarchy is the best form of government for England," resulted in a victory for the sophomores. Messrs. Colgate and Graham upheld the affirmative and Messrs. Gossage and Warner, the negative.

Strong arguments were advanced by both sides, though it was obvious on the whole that the pros had somewhat the better of it. At the conclusion of the debate a spirited discussion took place. Professor A. H. Young and the Reverend Canon Rollo acted as judges for the evening.

"Resolved that the influence of man on civilization has been greater than that of woman," is the subject chosen for the debate at the meeting of the Literary Institute to be held on Friday night. Messrs. Lawrie and Boggs will present the case for men, while the names of the champions of the fair sex will be announced later.

LATEST DRAFT FROM O.T.C. STILL AWAITING ORDERS

Interesting News of University Men

The work of the O.T.C. is in the most flourishing condition. New recruits are being taken on every day, and men are being sent away on different duties continuously. On the first day of November there were 178 on the companies' roll, to-day, there are 209.

The draft of 39 men which was selected by General Gwatkin four weeks ago is still "knocking about town" awaiting further orders to proceed overseas. A new draft, some forty in number, is being prepared and will likely appear before the General about the middle of next month.

Although still on the Company's roll, Lee-Cpl. Kirby, Victoria, Corporal Ball, S.P.S.; Ptes. Cooley, Ashbury, Victoria; Daniell, S.P.S., are on the ocean now, proceeding to England to report there to Prof. McLennan at the Admiralty. They are to take up research work in the department of mines and torpedoes. They are to remain indefinitely on the Company's roll, but will likely be given the officers' rank on taking up this work.

Twelve men are temporarily acting as musketry instructors in Central Ontario regiments. Thirty-nine are taking a course at the School of Musketry, while fifteen are taking the course in the Lewis automatic rifle. The remainder of the Company are on parade.

Their chief stunts have been appearing on public parades. Two officers and fifty men acted as a guard of honour to Colonel "Teddy" Roosevelt on his recent visit to this city. The Colonel carefully inspected the men and minutely questioned Mr. Bowles, who was in charge, about the Company and its work. Besides this the whole Company paraded behind the tank and also appeared in the great Victory Loan parade on Wednesday. During the summer they held their own church services, but now they parade to Convocation Hall every Sunday morning. Canvasers for the Victory Loan visited the members of the Company, seeking subscriptions and "cleaned up" quite a pile.

Friends of Dick Ryan of Victoria '15 will join with the Company in regretting the loss of such a man. He left the Company to join the R.E.C. and has just been reported killed in France—no particulars have been received.

The men, some fifteen in number, who have applied to R.N.A.S. were medically examined on Wednesday and were to appear before the authorities for the final decision to-day. As there is no R.N.A.S. training done in Canada they will likely proceed at once to England. The ordinary procedure is to send the men over in civies and then give them their commissions on landing, after which they enter upon their course. During the Company's existence some twenty-five have been sent to join the R.N.A.S.

Some of the latest recruits are: C. A. Bender, 3rd year, Trinity; R. V. Elliott, S.P.S. '15; A. G. McDougall, U.C.H. O. Brown, S.P.S. '11; R. Mathews, S.P.S. '14; C. A. McDowell, S.P.S. '15; G. R. Edwards, S.P.S. '15; Walter Bowles, Victoria.

C. O. T. C.

At last the C.O.T.C. is almost "ship-shape". Everybody, except for a delinquent here and there, is in uniform. The greenest can almost "form fours". And it certainly is a credit to the ten returned men who are instructing the way the men have been knocked into shape.

The first period up to 4:45 is given over to squad drill; after that until the dismissal at 5:30, the men are given "physical training". In reality this is not truly "P.T.". It, so far, is simply a series of games. These are part of the "P.T." course and are introduced to alleviate the tedium of continuous set exercises. Later on, when the weather drives them in doors—rather into the Hart House—the real "stuff" will be taken up. Here there will be little room for games and progress in the "P.T."—a la regulations—will be rapidly made.

The men who have been wandering around between "the devil and the deep blue sea"—that is between drill and gymnasium work, have been located at last.

At the request of the president, Lieut. Col. W. R. Lang, O.C., has called off all drills on Thursday and Friday so that the men may participate in the final campaign.

Capt. G. F. Boyer, who went overseas as a captain with No. 4 C.H. is returning to Canada. He served on the staff of the A.D.M.S. at Shorncliffe, and at Granville Canadian Special Hospital at Ramsgate. He is an M.B. 1907, and M.D. of 1911. His home is in Kincardine.

To-Day's Poem

The following poem, printed in the November number of the University "Monthly", was found among the papers left by Lieut. Leo Buchanan, B.A., LL.B. It was written in England shortly before he crossed to France. A few weeks later he was killed in action at St. Elloi on April 19th, 1916.

A moment now to say "good-bye,"
The bugles ring their piercing cry;
"Fall in, fall in," a thousand feet,
Tramp to their places in the street.

A moment fleet as flash of swords,
Time for a dozen gasping words—
Yet I shall live it o'er and o'er,
In silent watch and battle roar.

Give me your hand—and may I choose,
A guardian for the things I lose;
'Twould be, that from your inmost heart,
My image may not quite depart.

So when in storm, and dark and cold,
A thousand leagues away we hold
Our solemn watch in pits of dread,
Where lie entombed the myriad dead

That I may hold a solemn faith,
That when across your eyes, a wraith
My face appears, a shade of fear,
Brings to your eyes an unshed tear.

That when they tell a thousand tales
Of war, your cheek a little pales,
And that you scan with pause of breath
The narrow print of deeds and death

For me, and if my name is there,
And you should find a record fair,
That you will pause and turn aside,
And know a more than foolish pride.

Some day you'll hear the thrilling strain
"Fall in," for those who come again.
If I am left on Flanders' coast,
For me in echo, the "Last Post."

The moment's past, again good-bye,
The bugles ring their piercing cry,
"Fall in, fall in," a thousand feet,
Tramp to their places in the street.

becoming shareholders of this wide Dominion, they will naturally take a keen interest in its welfare. I cannot therefore conceive of a better way of spreading patriotism than by buying Victory Bonds. Finally, these are military results, for you will tend directly to influence the issue of the war."

Archdeacon Cody concluded by stating that the work the students are doing in this campaign must not be slighted. It is of the most vital importance. "It is a step for national manhood." Link your service with the boys across the seas. "Sound out to the Kaiser the note of despotism for it would cheer the boys at the front." "Men, munitions, food, money all are needed. Let us give them that with spirit of determination, sacrifice, as that given by the boys at the front."

Mr. Warburton then gave a very able outline of the nature and aims of the campaign. The campaign was organized with an objective of $300,000,000 in Canada, of which amount $75,000,000 were to be raised in Toronto. "There is no doubt that this sum will be realized," stated Mr. Warburton quite confidently. About 60,000 in Toronto have already bought Victory Bonds as compared with 45,000 of any previous loan in Canada.

"The nation is in dire need of your help," said Mr. Warburton. "The state wants the help of every citizen. Don't dodge any task if you find it difficult. This is the challenge of the nation. I covet your participation in such a worthy cause because it means a larger, richer life. It means greater unification of the people and the nation."

Mr. Warburton told of the number of the greatest business men he had approached, and asked their co-operation in this movement. Although loaded with business, they laid it off for a time, in order that they may be able to do their "bit" for their country. Surely, urged Mr. Warburton, "if such men on whom very great responsibility rests, are willing to make sacrifice, ought not we students be glad to accept the challenge only for a few days?"

Mr. Arnold Ivey, captain of our division, No. 4, and Mr. Collier C. Grant, secretary of the Students' Administrative Council, both of whom are responsible for the organisation of this campaign, divided the various faculties into teams, each team having a district for themselves. After the meeting the captains of the teams met and mapped out their districts.

LOEW'S THEATRE.

"Man's Woman" the feature photodrama of next week's offerings at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden, is said to be one of the most wonderful dramatic plays produced on the screen in recent years. Charming Ethel Clayton, the star, who is supported by Rockcliffe Fellowes, portrays the role of a young wife, whose life is directed by schedule with no authority and little freedom. Petted and pampered she is little better than a house cat. The young wife finally rebels at this intolerable situation and wins her way to freedom that eventually brings happiness to her and her husband. The story also involves a wonderful raid in a fashionable gambling house. "Fatty" Arbuckle will be seen in his latest edition "Fatty at Coney Island," a side-splitting comedy film. Raymond and Caverly, two clever funmakers in their latest edition of "The Submariners," will head the vaudeville attractions which will include six other superb acts, all of the stellar type. The third instalment of George Ade's fables in pictures will be shown on the screen.

DR. R. E. SPEER, OF NEW YORK DELIVERS AN INSTRUCTIVE SERMON

Took for His Text "And Therefore Give Me This Mountain"

Says Caleb Would Be a Good Example for Young Men and Women

Convocation Hall was filled to its utmost capacity—Even the top gallery and the spare chair seats were occupied by everyone who could possibly secure a ticket to hear Dr. R. E. Speer, of New York, preach the University sermon. The text was taken from Joshua 14:12, "And therefore give me this mountain."

"The finest characteristic of the Old Testament," said the speaker, "is the unflinching candour of the writers. There is no white-washing of their heroes, and if any slip occurs, the whole shameful story is set down without concealment. But in all we are told of Caleb, whose words are the words of the text, there is no shadow or stain on his character. We find him uncompromising, generous, honoured. He is fearless and unhesitating in his choices and always chooses the right thing. In him is shown the relationship between choices and character and in him we see the inner play of what he is, what he does and what he says. And now at this time when decisions and choices are being made, Caleb would be a good example for young men and women to keep before them."

"We are told little of Caleb's childhood, but it must have been one in which the qualities which stood him in good stead in after life were well nourished and developed. He must always have chosen the hard thing, and made his choices without hesitation. Character lies back of all our decisions, and we understand the character of a man through his decisions. We will be revealing to-day to ourselves and others our character by our decisions. A man may be judged by the books he reads, by the magazines that he buys. When the sun goes down, God will know us better than in the morning, and we will have made choices that God had not wished us to make. But of course the converse is true and it is the choices of determination and integrity that form our character. Everything changes with the strong determination, even the features and the voice. By clean living and obedient willings, to-day we can recover what has been lost yesterday. Let us refrain from something to-night and the next strong determination will be easier for us. What I am to-day is the product of what I have been in the past."

"To-day, men should not cry Safety First, but Danger First. No voice of selfishness and of self-prudence should find its way out of the heart of man, but to-day he should say as Caleb said, 'Give me now my mountain.' Let us hear the voice of the old man speaking to us against prudence and impudence and past discouragements and disappointments. He did not want any quiet nook, or an easy chair, neither did he have any false confidence in his own virility, but in every accent, with great trust, and with a living fear and faith in God he says: 'The Lord God will be with me still!'"

"Now we face our choice. What now are you going to do for the nation and humanity, and for yourself and your own. Out of the great past let a call come to the personal life of each one of us, and as we face loyalty and life and love, let the spirit that is in Caleb's soul course through our very fibre and may we also say 'Lord give me my mountain.'"

THE MENORAH SOCIETY WILL MEET TO-MORROW

The Menorah Society will hold a regular meeting to-morrow (Tuesday) at 7:15 p.m. sharp at the University Y.M.C.A. The business for the coming year will be discussed. Every member is requested to be down in time. All those wishing to join the Association may do so at this meeting. On account of the term being shortened this meeting may probably be the last of this term. Every undergraduate and member of the staff of the University is eligible for membership.

BASKETBALL.

On Tuesday at 5 p.m. a meeting will be held in the University gym for the purpose of organizing the basketball series. Any College or faculty wishing to have a team in the Sifton Cup series must have a representative present at this meeting.

MR. SQUIRE DELIVERS INTERESTING ADDRESS AT POLIT. ECON. CLUB

Speaks on Government Enterprise in Food Distribution and Control

Friday afternoon the Political Economy Club enjoyed a very interesting address by Mr. Squire, on "Government Enterprise in Food Distribution and Control." Mr. Squire is the official entrusted by the Ontario Government with its newly undertaken functions of supplying the retail market with fish from provincial waters. Owing partly to the inclement weather and partly to the large number of men engaged in the canvass for the Victory Loan, the attendance was rather small, especially among the ladies.

Five main points brought out by Mr. Squire were the possibilities for more economical food distribution by the Government, and the substitution, through Government encouragement, of the use of fish instead of exportable meat products.

It was really the second consideration the need of conserving beef and bacon supplies for overseas consumption, that led the Government to undertake its present enterprise. It was realised that it was of little purpose to advise the people through the press to curtail the use of these foods, unless satisfactory substitutes were made available. Through the publicity campaigns that have been conducted, the demand for fish has increased tenfold, and in spite of the large quantities of fresh-water fish that are being marketed by the Provincial Government, and the still greater supplies of sea fish provided by the Dominion authorities, the regular wholesale and commission houses find that their business has increased even in the face of Government competition. The fact that demand has increased even more than the supply has been augmented, is the reason that competitive prices have not dropped to near the level fixed by the Government for their products. As it is safe to assume that every additional pound of fish used means a proportionate quantity of other meats for export, it seems that the primary object of this Government enterprise is being achieved.

Not only has this national or patriotic purpose been proved attainable, but the steps taken to secure it have resulted in more economical distribution than obtains in the ordinary run of business. The Government has succeeded in reducing the cost of handling from the time of catch to the retail sale of the fish. The "spread" in price has been very materially reduced. The Government is able to pay the fisherman as much or more for his catch, pay full charges of transportation and deliver to the retailer to sell at a price about eight cents lower per pound than privately sold fish, and yet show a substantial profit on the whole proceeding. If the Government can eliminate the wastes of competition and conduct business at lower actual costs on a strict business basis, has it not justified its undertaking?

During his address Mr. Squire answered many questions asked by his hearers, and at its conclusion a lively discussion ensued—in itself a mark of the sincere appreciation of the Club for a most interesting afternoon.

Re VOTING IN FEDERAL ELECTION

In the last few days many questions have arisen as to whether out-of-town students can register and vote in Toronto in the coming Federal elections. These questions were not satisfactorily answered by local officials. In an effort to obtain some regulation on this point the following telegram was sent to Mr. W. F. O'Connor, General Returning Officer.

W. F. O'Connor, Esq.,
General Returning Officer, Ottawa.

As Editor of The Varsity, University of Toronto, and on behalf of the students who come from outside of Toronto and cannot go home, I request a definite ruling as to how these students will register for the coming election and where they will vote.

R. A. SAMPSON.

To this telegram the following answer was received:

R. A. Sampson:

Regret inability to understand your telegram. Don't know what you mean by request for coming elections. Students like all others may vote in any place where they have resided for one month if residents of province for one year and if they are on lists. Many will be qualified to be on the lists in more than one place. The law is the same for students as for all others. W. F. O'CONNOR.

It will be seen that the reply does not answer the questions raised. The onus now rests on the students. The Varsity makes the suggestion that each student voter communicate at once with the returning officers of the Toronto riding in which he or she resides, and find out definitely the status of the students. Appended is a list of these returning officers.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Died of Wounds.

At the Empire Hospital, Vincent Square, London, England, on Thursday, November 29th, the death occurred of Lieut. Hugh Jarman Watson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Watson, 77 Rosborough Drive, Toronto, of wounds received in the battle of Vimy Ridge last April. Lieut. Watson was attending Victoria College at the time of enlistment with the 124th ("Pals"), Battalion. He was a member of the Class of 1917.

Lieut. Lawrence Lovell Davidson of Regina, Sask., reported killed on November 20th, is now reported died of wounds. Lieut. Davidson was a student of University College, 1917, and enlisted with the 152nd Battalion, but on going to France was posted to a first contingent battalion.

Lieut. Stewart M. Goodere has been killed in action according to advice received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Goodere of Ottawa. Lieut. Goodere went overseas with the C.F.A., but early this year transferred to the R.C. with which he was serving at the time of his death. He belonged to the Class of 1918 of University College.

Wounded.

Gnr. John W. Ward of Waterford is reported wounded. He enlisted with a battery raised at the University early in March 1915. He was a Science man of 1917.

Flight Sub-Lieut. A. L. Hatcher, B.A. Victoria College, 1915, and Med 1918, who enlisted with the Overseas Training Company, later transferring to the R.N.A.S. is now serving in Italy.

K. V. Strutton, B.A., Victoria College, 1916, has transferred from the Royal Warwickshire Regiment to the R.N.A.S.

Sergt. R. E. K. Neelds, who enlisted with the same battery as Gunner Andrew Lane, is reported wounded, but returned to duty. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1911.

W. B. Redfern, B.A.Sc. 1909, is now a lieutenant with the 27th Battery, C.F.A. in France attached to the 53rd Siege Battery.

C. R. Avery, B.A.Sc. 1913, M.A.Sc. 1915, is with the 27th Battery, C.F.A. as a lieutenant.

MAJOR S WALLACE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Former Lecturer at 'Varsity

Vocational training, fitting holders for occupations after the war, has been enlarged lately by the Canadian overseas military administration, with the addition of a regular educational course.

The Y.M.C.A., which is keenly interested in the scheme, was instrumental in having Professor Tory, Saskatchewan University, Regina, sent to England to investigate the possibilities. The establishment gives each Canadian area in England a vice-chancellor and senate composed of certain officers. Additional technical instruction is connected with the vocational training of soldiers, who are now enabled to attend classes in various subjects, such as arithmetic, mathematics, history, literature, languages, commercial courses, shorthand, typewriting and telegraphy. Soldiers in every stage of education find classes to suit their degree of advancement, ranging from the most elementary to university work for men who were students prior to enlisting.

A number of soldiers who were formerly school teachers or lecturers in Canadian universities have been appointed as instructors. Major Stewart Wallace, formerly lecturer in history at McMaster University and Toronto University, and on duty in England the past year, has been appointed president of this organization, which is known among the troops as Khaki College.

SOPH. SERGEANTS' CLASS OF DENTISTRY HOLD ELECTIONS

The Sophomore Sergeants' Class, the members of which spent the summer at the different training camps throughout the Province, and who recently returned to School on furlough, held their class elections on Friday. The following officers were elected:

President—G. A. Gomeroy
Vice-President—L. E. MacLachlan
Secretary-Treas.—Jack R. MacLachlan
At-Home Committee—H. R. Bateman and D. A. Watson.
Soccer—H. Caulfield
Hya Yika—G. A. Morton.

'Varsity MAKES PROUD RECORD IN THE VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN

Over $250,000 Secured by the Hard-Working Volunteers

Full Announcements Will be Made in Wednesday's Issue

The Toronto University may justly be proud of the fact that in every patriotic endeavour it has participated ever since the outbreak of the war, it has always met with marked success. This can quite easily be proven by the honours her graduates and undergraduates have won on the battlefield, her success in the various Red Cross Campaigns, and latest of all, her splendid record in last week's Victory Loan Campaign. Of the $75,000,000 which the whole City of Toronto had set as its objective, the students of 'Varsity—about 500 of them, have themselves secured over $250,000. This sum as compared with Toronto's objective appears small. But it must by no means be slighted and regarded as a negligible factor. For it must be remembered that every dollar the students have brought in is like found. The city had already been canvassed for several weeks, every house had been "combed". After it had seemed almost impossible to obtain any further subscriptions to the Victory Loan, an appeal was made to 'Varsity for help. About 500 volunteers were at once "let loose" for subscriptions. One can easily imagine how hard they must have worked in order to secure over one quarter of a million dollars' worth of subscriptions after the field seemed almost "barren".

The Varsity knows of many volunteers who were so enthusiastic in their work that they went without their meals. On Saturday last the real spirits of the canvassers were quite manifest. They proved themselves worthy of the traditions of their Alma Mater. Much credit is to be attributed to these students who sacrificed all their time in this noble cause. Their work is highly appreciated.

The complete amount collected is as yet not known, and will be published in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY.

The following are the views regarding the students' participation in the Victory Loan Campaign as expressed by several of the mainstays in the campaign:

"The positively dogged manner in which our canvassers stuck to their heels when their districts had been combed, and 'fine-tooth combed', was admirable, to say the least. The proud spirit with which they tackled their task could only mean success." Collier C. Grant, General Secretary.

"Having been in close touch with Mr. Arnold M. Ivey and the captains and business men in charge of the teams since the beginning of the Campaign, I feel fully qualified to state the general opinion of these men regarding the way the boys have responded to the call made on them. All unite in saying that the University of Toronto students are among the most willing and most enthusiastic workers they have met. The business men are particularly pleased and frequent mention has been made of the good work the twenty Med girls have been doing in section 6. The aid given by the students will be remembered for a long time."—F. J. Sullivan, Managing Editor, THE VARSITY.

"I wish to take the opportunity through your paper to express my thanks to the gentlemen of Meds II, who acted on my team. They gave the very best kind of support to the Campaign and were untiring in their efforts to make it a success."—E. Mack Fielding, Capt. Sub-Dist. N.

The following are some of the sightings on the Victory Loan Campaign:

The "Business" Man.

Selling Victory Bonds to the "business man" rather failed in one place. A certain lady, when approached by the canvasser, stated that her husband would see about it "in his business place". She, however, refused to state his place of business. So another canvasser was sent and was met with another blank refusal. "He doesn't want to be bothered with you", was the answer. Likewise a third time. In perplexity and curiosity, the district captain looked the man up in the directory. He found the answer—her husband was dead!

The Victory Loan Parade.

An amusing incident occurred in connection with the big Victory Loan Parade. Behind the big aeroplane marched flight after flight of R.F.C. cadets. One realized that here indeed were the pick of our Canadian lads. Several small boys standing by the curb, however, were evidently not similarly impressed. After the long column had passed, one little fellow ran out into the road and seeing a company of infantry approaching with their gleaming rifles, he piped—"Oh papa, here come the soldiers!"—Exit several R.F.C. men who were standing in the immediate vicinity!

MR. KIRKWOOD WILL SPEAK AT BIG "T" MIXER

Beware of forgetting that Wednesday night is the "T" Mixer night. This may be your last chance. So do not lose this opportunity by forgetting. Write down in your memorandum, opposite December 5th that Mr. Kirkwood, of the MacLean Publishing Company, will speak on "A straight-edge for Life" at the Central "Y". Supper at six sharp; orchestra while you eat, and the "gang all there". Watch Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY for further particulars about Mr. Kirkwood. He's a "live wire".

MR. MACLACHLAN WILL ADDRESS E. AND M. CLUB

The Electrical and Mechanical Club will hold a dinner for all years in Applied Science on Wednesday, December 5, in the Hotel Waverley on Spadina Avenue. A good square meal is promised, which will be followed by music and speeches. Mr. MacLachlan is a member of the Inventions Board of Canada, and will speak on the "Human Element in Engineering". He spoke at the Y.M.C.A. reception to Science men earlier in the term and consequently needs no more introduction to those who heard him on that occasion. He knows how to give a rousing speech and the Club is to be congratulated on being able to secure him. Mr. Neilsen, of the Toronto Electric Company; Prof. Arkley, and others, will also speak. See the Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY for a fuller account of the program. Tickets may be secured from your year representative for $1.15. At this exceedingly reasonable price it is expected that everybody will be there. The Club is yours—give it the support of your presence next Wednesday.

FOURTH YEAR U.C.

A program of special interest has been arranged for the class social on Tuesday evening, December 4, at 7:30 at 85 St. George Street. The ITS orchestra will make its initial appearance. In addition, individual numbers, vocal solos and readings will also have their place. Later will come dancing and cards, to say nothing of cats. If you are not acquainted, come out and meet your class. If you are, come and spend an evening among friends. Tuesday, Dec. 4, 85 St. George St. 7:30.

WORK AND ITS REWARD

These are the days, when the first enthusiasm of getting back to college has waned, and good resolutions have had time to be broken; the days when the professors are selecting in their mind's eye the successful candidates in the Christmas examinations.

How many of us comfort ourselves with the thought that often the most successful people in college and out are those with only a fair amount of intelligence! That is the ointment, but the fly soon pesters us. Success comes through grind, grind, grind. Ask the scientist how he worked out his invention, ask the violinist how he became a master, or the student how he became proficient in the foreign language! Great men in Europe have ascribed the fact that Americans fail to reach the top, not to their want of genius, but to their lack of persistence. It is really hard to plan one's twenty-four hours and then stick to it, but it is the way to be successful.

What is Liferly! Our childish belief that it consisted in being able to do anything we please has faded into the more mature knowledge that true liferly is merely living under control. Habits are the hardest things in the world to conquer, but where there is a will there's a way. Let us stick to our work with bulldog tenacity. After all a man's paradise is his reward for the grind.

SUPPORT THE "Y" CAMPAIGN

Thus runs the old "saw": You need the "Y"! The "Y" also needs you! Come forward students. Let all work together and uphold the old adage.

The "Y" Finance Campaign of the University commences To-Morrow, December 4th, and continues until December 7th. It was postponed on account of the Victory Loan, which the "Y" wanted to support and assist in every way possible, in order that it should be a decided success. Now, the "Y" asks for your support. What is your answer to their appeal?

Has the old "Y" helped you in locating a room? What do you think of the handbook they published for every student, both men and women. Is the "Y" Building attractive? What about the piano, Victrola, newspapers; English, American and Canadian magazines, games, etc.? What about the Freshman receptions?

An admirable feature of the Campaign is the fact that a large proportion of the returns is to be turned over to the overseas work of the "Y" to help the Canadian soldiers at the Front.

Get busy, and help the "Y" realise its objective of $2,000—$1,000 for overseas work.

GIVE! GIVE!! GIVE!!!

Don't dodge your canvasser.

THE CANVASSERS HAVE DONE WELL

At the time of writing the Victory Loan Campaign is not yet finished. On Thursday and Friday, however, the University students who assisted in the canvass, received application to the amount of about One Hundred and Seventy-five thousand dollars. This is indeed a good record, when the experience of the canvassers is considered, and if the students are able to reach their objective—Three Hundred Thousand Dollars—the congratulations of the whole University are their honest due. These men have done as much, if not more, to assist the cause of the Loan than those who have directly subscribed. All honour to them for the sacrifice of their University activities and work, and for the assistance which they have given in this critical time!

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

In a recent number of the Trinity University Review appears an editorial on the lack of Trinity news which appears in THE VARSITY. Since that editorial was written, Trinity has sent in a creditable amount of matter. If all other Colleges did as well, there would be general satisfaction. Trinity is comparatively a small College, but it possesses a spirit to be admired.

A recent editorial in THE VARSITY on "Varsity Casualties" is not to be taken in the light that letters relating to students are not desired by THE VARSITY. We are always glad to receive letters, supplementing the facts which are available for us, in regard to Varsity men who are overseas or who have returned. Friends of these men, or perhaps members of the Faculty might assist in this connection. These letters will be published as space permits.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

To-Day's Poem

YE WINSOME IDEAS OF YE BOLD AND FEARLESS REBEL!

(Not very likely to be recited at the Rebel dinner, 1918).

Go, boy, and bring my saddle-bag,
And, at the front door, leave my nag,
And put the saddle upside down;
I'll get my name up in this town.
Of course, that's neither here nor there,—
Our single motive's to declare "Rebellion is a holy thing!"
That's the great credo that we sing
And, jove! we sing it well we deep,
Delightful Dons! Ourselves we steep
In paradoxes. There's no rest
For either dogs or men oppressed
When our keen darts of common-sense
At last transfix their brains so dense
You'd think a common, silly ass,—
Their ninnies is simply crass!—
Would turn a saddle upside down
Then recognize, if not a clown,
The glorious chance for improved seat;
These upturned flanges can't be beat.
Just nail a board across the back;
A hook outside to hold one's pack.
Inside, a cushion for repose,—
A little wobbly for a doze?
Perhaps! But with one's pipe —no goods!
There's sweet dream haze to think up Odes!

Well, boy, let's have my saddle-bag.
And, after that, bring round my nag.
You'll curry-comb that beast? Why, boy!
Have you no common sense alloy?
This is a shaggy, Rebel horse;
No scented, groomed nag, or worse,
For men! Fie! Fie! on curls or starch
On either me or on my boss;
"Down with the proper and correct
As on your way you march,
To save mankind can you expect
Till you abolish starch."

What next, sweet boy? You'll make me cross!

"My gown?" No, wag; my bathing-suit;
To cool, fresh air am I recruit,
To porous clothing; so the heat
Will leave the pores not quite effete;
The epidemics, make it tough;
You cannot get cool winds enough.
Down, down, I urge, with influenza;
Our teeth may chatter a cadenza.
What's that to do with Rebel? No;
My bathing-suit, I say, for so
I'll go attired to the feed
Just as to lectures, so I rede
Ye all to do. Lo, my patters!
My very vests, my number tens,
To visualize upon the table,
And thump them, too, for all I'm able
At ev'ry humanizing joke—
This is, indeed, my joy; to poke
Contempt at academicisms

Well, now, my boy, there's just my bag!
Pack that until you see it sag.
My green thesaurus and my book
Of rhymes, —don't leave them out; and look

To see that there is pen and paper;
In Lists I'm sure to have the caper,
Literary jousts in Dandy rhyme.
You see the pun? I make them dense,
Old Chaucer's name was Dan. In time,—
This chatter has to stop —the sense
May rise, like serum in drawn blood of horse,
An old experimental horse, of course,—
That's what I mean,—
A pretty metaphor, I wcen.

Well, boy, pay strict attention:
I'll say things slow.—
I'll mount,
You're sure the light
Is burning bright?

Nothing can break asunder?
The caps can see my number?
Oh! where's my banner so discreet,
With slogan: "Down with everything"?—
Like Oscar in that London Street,
The lily in his hand, and ring,
Upon his finger, gorgeous blue;
He was a bloomin' Rebel, too.

Re MULLOCK CUP FINAL

To the Editor of the VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Several statements in the report of the Mullock Cup final, contained in your Wednesday's issue, appear misleading to us, so we should like to use some of your space to set before your readers a few facts concerning O.T.C. Mullock Cup champions.

In the first place it has been extremely difficult for O.T.C. to maintain a team in the series. This has been due to the exigencies and requirements of military life. O.T.C. rugby practices have been few, their men have played all their games after a hard day's drill. Yet their record has been excellent. We append the scores of this season's games.

O.T.C. 14; St. Mikes 2 (exhibition)

O.T.C. 27; U.C. 5.

O.T.C. 31, Victoria 0.

O.T.C. 6, Dents 0.

O.T.C. 10; Meds 0.

Thus O.T.C. scored 88 points to their opponents 7. Their touch line was never crossed by a hostile back or run. The only touchdown secured against them was the result of a fumble behind the line. With a record for offensive and defensive play of this kind we feel that it is misleading to read in THE VARSITY that "offside really won the game for O.T.C.", that O.T.C. had all the "breaks" and similar statements. Offsides put O.T.C. in a position to back over Meds line, and they came through with the punch. In the second quarter Meds had O.T.C. in a similar position, backed up to their five-yard line. But Meds could not back through. They were stopped by O.T.C. line holding in the pinch. Surely, with all due respect to Meds players (against whom we have absolutely nothing to say), this was not a case of offsides or breaks securing a win. And, if the six points scored by the touch are counted nil yet O.T.C. still had a margin of four points, which they won by good, hard rugby. On the contrary, Meds could not score a single point.

The writer of Wednesday's report also occupies considerable space in describing Meds speed, which, he claims, was handicapped by the frozen field. Yet, is it not reasonable to suppose that O.T.C. players were hampered by the same handicap? Mr. Breuls, Mix, Taylor, the outsiders, Rolph and McFarlane and others on O.T.C. team, are recognized as speed artists too. Also, O.T.C. made their backs through Meds line at least as often as Meds backed through O.T.C.'s.

The author of this report, in softening Meds defeat, also states that "O.T.C. brought out a much better squad than when they played Dents". This seems strange since we know that with one exception, the same O.T.C. men played in both games, and, moreover, didn't have a single practice between the two games. The one exception, Cooley, the kicking half, was laid out with a broken nose early in Tuesday's game.

We have nothing to say against Meds. They are a good team, and put up a sportmanlike battle. But we do feel that a report which is virtually a panegyric of the losing team is scarcely a fair one, especially when it appears to insinuate, whether intentionally or not, that O.T.C. did not merit the cup they have won. Also, when play and players were being discussed, it seems to us that an impartial statement would not have discriminated between Meds and O.T.C. to the almost absolute exclusion of the latter.

OPEN EVENINGS

RUGBY NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Mulock Cup Executive on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. All members are requested to be present.

Other Colleges

Wisconsin.—Wisconsin students are not going to hold a Junior "prom" this year. Instead of that luxurious social function a Liberty Dance is to be given and the proceeds will be used to purchase government bonds.

Dartmouth. Despite the war, Dartmouth is showing great spirit in all forms of college activities. In addition to following her usual athletic program the Dartmouth Musical Clubs and Dramatic Association are to give their customary performances this year.

New England Colleges.—Recently obtained statistics show that nearly half of the college students of New England are in some kind of war service. Out of 20,000 men in 20 New England colleges, 5,239 joined the colors immediately and 4,100 went into agriculture and other branches of war work.

Chicago. The women of the University of Chicago have formed a rifle club and are practicing regularly. The coaches express great satisfaction with the marksmanship of the women.

Dartmouth.—The Dartmouth Battalion is in the midst of most intensive training. A week ago a sham battle was fought in which trenches, mines, machine guns, gas attacks and barbed wire were used.

Dartmouth has instituted a daylight saving system. Under this plan the classes are moved up one hour earlier than during the past.

New Hampshire.—A New Hampshire back, Irvine, is credited with making the longest run for a touchdown made this season. In the game with Dartmouth, he carried the ball over the line from his own five-yard line.

Pennsylvania.—Penn's Junior week festivities will be in on Thanksgiving Eve and will last through Saturday. A concert, football game, dinner, ball and theatre party comprise the entertainment.

Penn State.—A tie-up scrap has been inaugurated at Penn State by the Student Council. The object of the scrap is for the contending sides to tie up as many of their opponents as possible in as many five minute periods as are required to get all the members of the class into the fray. But fifty men from each class will participate in each struggle.

Princeton. Seventy-six members of Princeton's faculty are engaged in government war service. The proportion of the faculty in the service is as great as that of the undergraduates.

The Secret of Success.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the sphinx of a company of railroad attaches.

"Energy," said the coal in the fire-box. "Be first," said the pilot on the engine. "Keep yourself under control," said the air brake.

"Have a good foundation," said the ties of the track.

"Connect yourself to big things," said the couplers.

"Prepare the way for your coming," said the whistle.

"Keep on the right track," said the locomotive.

"Look neat," said the Pullman car.

"Be sure you have a clear track," said the headlight.

"Keep-a-going," said the steam.

"Have a system to your work," said the timetable.

"Despise not the power of small things," said the coupler pin. —Frederick D. Lamb.

HOURS OF DRILL

Class 1—University College and Victoria—Monday and Wednesday.
Class 2—Medical Faculty—Tuesday and Friday.
Class 3—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's—Tuesday and Thursday.
Classes will assemble at the Hart House gymnasium on the days stated, at 4.10 p.m.

Read Plato and Aristotle.

"The classics are more important than engineering, for the engineer only works in a small corner of the frame-work which the classics build up," said Prof. R. M. Wenley last night in his talk before the Classical Club on "Classics and the War."

According to Professor Wenley, there is only one way in which to understand the present war situation and that is by a careful study of Plato and Aristotle, for they are the only authorities in politics and ethics. "The scientists of to-day cannot write because they do not know the English language," said Prof. Wenley. "Consequently their work suffers. They have no means of adequate communication."

In conclusion Professor Wenley said "You do not need to bring the classic up-to-date to make them practical for they are more than up-to-date now. They are in the lead."

Before 10,000 people, the Princeton yearlings defeated the Yale cubs 9 to 7 in a spirited contest. Fumbles paved the way for both touchdowns, but Princeton outplayed their rivals and deserved the victory.

Oklahoma.—Luther Miller recently broke the record of the five mile cross-country course at the University of Oklahoma, trotting the distance in 29.6, 54 seconds faster than the previous record made by Fieals in 1914. The sooner cross-country pack is rapidly rounding into shape and should furnish real competition for Kansas to-day.

Iowa.—Within less than an hour the students and faculty of Iowa State College at Ames pledged $20,000 as its share of the $65,000 being raised in Iowa for the Y.M.C.A. war fund. The college had agreed to raise $12,500.

Nebraska.—The University of Nebraska is sending the college daily free to all students in the Army.

Pittsburg.—Pittsburg will not claim the Eastern championship this year, inasmuch as Harvard and Yale have not had teams and the other large Eastern Colleges have been materially weakened by the loss of many veterans.

No Interest.

Colonel—"Now, be careful about exposing your men, captain!"
Captain (and owner of society journal)—"Rest easy, colonel. There's not a chap in my troop that the public takes the least interest in!"

Bilton—"Aren't you spending too much."
Mrs. Bilton—"No, dear; you don't make enough for me to do that."

A Boomerang.

"Willie, your master's report of your work is very bad. Do you know that when Woodrow Wilson was your age he was head of the school?"

"Yes, pa; and when he was your age he was President of the United States." —Tit-Bits.

"What languages does he speak?"
"C o l l, I a s c l a l l a n d A m e r i c a n."

"So young Kelly has gone wrong?"
"He has. He's escaped from Sing Sing in spite of his mother's prayers!"

"THE ASSOCIATED REBELS" HOLD REGULAR MEETING

"The Associated Rebels" is the euphonious and perplexing name of a new club that has all of a sudden sprung up. The nature of it is a mystery and has kept a host of students guessing. All that is known however, regarding this club is that they hold their meetings semi-monthly at Victoria College. At their meetings their intellects are nourished to capacity on some philosophical discussions, such as Morality and Religion, Free Will and Determinism, Hypnotism and Hallucination, and a number of other subjects shrouded with mystery. At their last meeting held Thursday evening, November 29, at the Women's Union Victoria College, a splendid paper was read by Mr. C. L. Bole on "Immortality". He traced the views of the ancient, mediaeval, and modern philosophers on that subject. A very "heated" discussion lasting for several hours, was not sufficient to convince those present as to whether man is immortal or not.

Miss Skinner, B.A., and Mr. Edwin J. Pratt, M.A., Ph.D., were the guests at the last meeting. The officers of the Club follow: President, Miss Ruth McFarlane '18, treasurer, Cecil L. Bole '18, secretary Mr. Stinson '19.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on December 12. A paper will be read on "Morality and Religion."

DEBATE.

What? All murderers should be hanged? Mr. Goldstein says yes! Mr. Bryson says no! Which is right? Come to Room 5, Library Building, freshmen, and hear one of the 211 Debating societies' interesting discussions. Bring your ideas, they are worth something. The new debating system will be explained and you will be assigned a current topic. Don't forget—Monday at 3 p.m. in the Library Building.

FRESHMEN OF 211! HALT!

Sh! Sh! Remember the good time last Thursday evening? Do you want to have a better time next Friday evening, December 7th? Sure! Ask a 211 brother and get wise by 4 p.m. to-day (Monday). Get together fellows. "Hail, Hail the gangs all there"—Now.

Say, Dad!
What's a Tight-Wad?

A tight-wad, my son, is one who holds his "Wad" or roll of bank bills so tightly in his hand that no one else can get a "look in" on it.

Toronto abounds in magnificent, most magnificent givers as those who canvass for Patriotic, Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. funds can testify, but on going the rounds you do strike tight wads.

Such men are ready enough to pray "God bless me and mine," but give mighty (spelled mite-y) little to bless anyone else, or help any good cause.

There is a celebrated painting—I wish you could see it, my son—in a London Gallery, by an English artist named Watts, which carries an impressive lesson to all who see it.

An old warrior has passed away—his body lies beneath a pall, his old helmet and armour near by, whilst above him are the words:—

"What I spent I had.

What I kept I lost.

What I gave I have."

What he kept was lost because dropped this side of the grave; what he gave was all that awaited him in the Great Beyond.

Listen, my boy, the man who in this time of national need, plays "tight-wad" when the world's liberty is at stake, is a disgrace to humanity.

Victory Bonds with 5½ per cent. interest, however, are such a good thing that even the tight-wad will not be able to resist.

Whatever you are, son, don't be a "tight-wad"—misere and miser-y, like the Siamese twins, are inseparable.

DR. McMURRICH DELIVERS ADDRESS ON "ORIGIN OF LIFE"

Scientists Have Taught in Vain for Centuries for Elusive Theory

Many Physical Phenomena Clearly Dealt With

Taking as his subject the "Origin of Life," Dr. McMurrich delivered a very interesting and instructive address to the Biological Club. The speaker commenced apologetically, saying that nothing is known of the actual origin of life. It has, however, been the quest of scientists of all ages to seek a theory which would fulfil the necessary conditions governing the origin of life. The Greek school of philosophy, which grew up on the shores of Asia Minor, attempted the solution of this question and many other similar problems, which had been ascribed to the supernatural as transcending the bounds of human reason. This school endeavoured to explain the phenomena of everyday life, and later the same principles were applied in the solution of life itself. No doubt these philosophers succeeded, partially at least, in forcing back the will of the supernatural. Now the pendulum swung the other way. Plato assigned to the realm of metaphysics many phenomena of which later scientists reached adequate solutions. Mysticism introduced from the Orient and that of Plato held sway throughout the Middle Ages. We have record of the exorcism of spirits, of magical draughts and potions imbibed to the tune of tuneless incantations. Even as late as 1788 seven devils are reputed to have been cast from a man in the English Cathedral at Bristol. Obviously, it would almost be heresy to attempt the solution of such questions as the Origin of Life so long as the world was in the thrall of mysticism.

Dr. McMurrich showed that biologists are divided into two great schools, the Vitalists and the Mechanists. The Vitalists maintain that the origin of life cannot be explained physically, and attribute it to the metaphysical. They claim that life originates in the action of some force unknown to the physical world. The Mechanists argued that life's origin is in physico-chemical forces of the same kind as those known to physicists, but which, as yet, are not understood. The line of thought taken by the mechanist group has revolutionized many old ideas and cleared up mysteries heretofore unfathomable. This is particularly true of the branch of science dealing with organic substances. Many substances secreted by living organisms were called organic because they contained the vital force, such that the chemist could not make identical substances in the laboratory. Here again the physical sun pierced the metaphysical cloud, and the scientific world parted with another obsession, and a new field was entered by the seekers after Truth. Then followed the explanation of many physical processes and phenomena, the Osmotic process by which sap rises in trees, the catalytic phenomenon by which reactions are hastened without the destruction of the catalyst, which, one day, may explain certain physiological actions at present unknown. And, finally, the phenomenon of surface tension was explained by physicists, and applied by biologists to explain the form and action of many minute and elementary forms of life.

The speaker stated that previous to Darwin's time, each form of life was believed to have had a separate creation. Although Darwin crystallized the evolution theory, he did not originate it by any means. This theory possibly had its inception in the Roman School, and had cropped up at intervals till Darwin's time. Though Darwin's theory is accepted in part, later biologists do not agree with him concerning his idea of unlimited variation. Generally, they believe that the directions in which a given form of life may develop are limited, just as a crystal which, when tipped off one facet, must fall into another facet.

While seeking the simplest form of life

Queen's Hall

Hundreds of people streamed into Queen's Hall on Saturday afternoon, each bearing a parcel for the "French Shower", and such a variety of articles were assembled! Chocolate, Klim, macaroni, Oxo and many other eatables, besides sweaters, hot-water bottles and over a hundred pairs of socks were brought, and will shortly be sent to the destitute in the north of France.

A number of things were raffled and others were auctioned off, the guests responding very generously to the appeal to "bid higher!" The tea-room was decorated with flags and yellow chrysanthemums and proved a financial as well as artistic success. Those who were interested in peering into the future had their fortunes told from their tea-cups, or, going into a small booth, they had their hands read by the shadowy light of a candle. One hundred and seventy dollars in money was taken during the afternoon, and will be given to French relief. The evening of the festive day closed with an informal dance.

St. Michael's

A debating contest has been arranged in the College, open to all art students and to the winning team a prize of fifty dollars is to be awarded. Seventeen teams have entered. The first debate was held on Friday evening. The subject was - "Resolved that the growth of cities in Canada is detrimental to national prosperity." The affirmative was upheld by J. B. Ryan and B. Markle, while opposing them were A. Kelly and J. Manley. The debaters brought forth their points quite forcibly and distinctly and in awarding the decision in favour of the negative side, the judges claimed that it was only by a very narrow margin that they had won.

In addition to this, the members of St. Charles Literary Society and College Glee Club put on a very interesting entertainment. Messrs E. Murphy, L. Barlow and J. Rossiter, rendered several vocal selections. A sketch "Wanted a Male Cook", was well presented by four members. The evening came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem. The boys have taken exceptionally great interest in the volunteer Victory Loan campaign. Almost all have given a hand and much credit is due to C. J. McDougall who organized the teams at the college.

known at present, at the same time we are getting nearer to the original form as it first appeared, and also as it first appears now. There are bacteria whose existence is known to scientists, but which are invisible even with the aid of the ultra-microscope. Dr. McMurrich here introduced some interesting calculations to indicate the possible size of these extremely minute bacteria. When optical instruments are so perfected as to make possible the examination of these forms, it will mark a new epoch in research in this line. However, by gradual delving into the unknown, the veil of the supernatural is being gradually pushed back, revealing to those following the mechanist line of thought, many phenomena concerning the origin of life. The mechanists are approaching the ultimate. Discussion now followed among the thirty students in attendance.

The following were appointed to complete the executive committee: Mr. Page, second year councillor, Miss Barlier and Mr. Beasley, first year councillors.

1T9 U.C. CLASS PARTY

Next Wednesday evening will be a big night for the Class of 1T9, the event being the second party of the year. Those who came to the other affair do not need any urging to be present as everyone voted it a great success. There will be a short and very entertaining program, followed by dancing, cards and refreshments. Every member of 1T9 who is looking for a jolly evening and would like to know his classmates better, should come to the Union, 85 St. George Street, at seven-thirty on Wednesday night.

"CLUB POLITIQUE" WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The second meeting of the "Club Politique" will be held this (Monday) afternoon, at two o'clock, in Room 6, University Library Building. The subject for discussion will be a continuation of the topic considered at the last meeting, "The Federal Franchise." Any men who are not members, but are really interested should communicate at once with the President, Mr. V. O. Matchett.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

STUDENTS SUCCEED IN GETTING $343,950 FOR VICTORY LOAN

Last Returns Brought in Yesterday—Letter of Appreciation

The student canvassers in the Victory Loan campaign succeeded in obtaining a total of $343,950.00. The most optimistic opinions set their objective at $250,000, as all their districts had been thoroughly canvassed before they took them over. Their achievement in securing nearly $100,000 beyond this objective has been the cause of the receipt of lavish praise from every side, a sample of which is contained in the letter printed below.

The figures of the work of individual teams are not available, owing to the fact that all the returns were not made at the same place; some being made at team headquarters down town, and some at the Varsity office. All the teams, however, secured over $20,000.

A picture will be taken later for publication in Torontonensis, of all the team captains and campaign organizers. Those concerned are advised to watch THE VARSITY for announcement of the time and place.

The following letter was received by Mr. F. J. Sullivan from Mr. Frank A. Rolph, a prominent business man, who has taken a large part in organizing the Victory Loan Campaign in Toronto, and who is therefore well qualified to write as he does. Such praise, coming from him is not mere flattery, but earnest appreciation of the work of our student canvassers.

Toronto, Dec. 3, 1917.

F. J. Sullivan, Esq.,
Managing Editor, THE VARSITY,
University of Toronto,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Victory Loan Committee, and certain business men in charge of the sub-divisions in District E, under whose direction the University students were working on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, I would like to express the appreciation which Mr. Ivey, the chairman, who is

THE "Y" COMMENDED

"I have been asked to say a word to the students in behalf of the effort which the officers of the Y.M.C.A. are about to make to secure funds for their work in the University and overseas. I am glad to commend this effort as I am convinced that the Y.M.C.A. has been doing most valuable work in the University and may be trusted to put to excellent use the contributions that the students may make, which I hope will be generous."

Y.M.C.A. FINANCE CAMPAIGN OPENS DEC. 4, 5, 6, 7

Give Generously and Show Your Gratitude

Again you are asked to contribute towards a noble cause—that of our own "Y". The students "Y" has attempted to assist in every way possible the lot of Varsity men, by securing a room and board list, by providing every student with a handbook at considerable expense, by giving the Freshmen a warm welcome and helping him to get "squared away" generally, by making the Association building a social centre for all faculties, placing there a piano, Victrola, newspapers and magazines at the disposal of all students, and by making the place as congenial as possible.

A representative of the "Y" will see you this week. Be ready when he asks for your support. Let's work together. In union there is strength. Measure up to the work fellows. You know what is expected of you.

TO THE YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN OF ONTARIO

In view of the uncertainty as to the end of the war it is essential to conserve and use to the best possible advantage all resources of the country, both human and material. When peace comes the struggle for existence will not cease. Wasted lands must be restored and the economic loss which the world will have suffered must be made up. Science will be called upon to reinforce industry, to create the most favourable conditions for human life, and as far as possible to rehabilitate the world. There will be a great demand for leaders in every department of science, medical and applied, and in the other professions, including teachers in school and college; for we must have educated people if we are not to fall behind in the race. War has already cut off a large number of the best of those who are looking forward to such work, and as the conflict continues the number will greatly increase. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the young men and young women of the Province who are now in the schools and who are preparing to enter the universities, should show their patriotic spirit by using every diligence in their work, and that the young men should enter the universities, begin their career, whether in the Arts course or the professions, so that when the call for military service comes to them at the age of twenty, if such a call is then necessary, they will have completed satisfactorily a portion of their university training. When they return, as I hope they will, after their active service, they will then be able to resume, with the least possible loss of time and energy, their professional or academic career where they dropped it.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) W. B. HEARST,

Prime Minister of Ontario.

COME TO-NIGHT TO FINAL "MIXER" OF CHRISTMAS TERM

Mr. Kirkwood, of Maclean's Publishing Co., Will Speak

To-night is the big night—the final "Mixer" of the Michaelmas term. These weekly meetings inaugurated this year by the Y.M.C.A. have been very successful in bringing the men of different faculties into touch with each other. Every faculty has been well represented and the enthusiasm has been great.

Due to the election campaign, Victory Loan and other pressing demands for service, the committee found it difficult to obtain speakers. However, the best that were available were obtained, and all must agree that the programs have been adequately varied, deep interest has been maintained.

For the concluding meeting the committee has been fortunate in obtaining Mr. Kirkwood of the Maclean's Publishing Company. A man who has succeeded in business of interest to men of all faculties, ought to attract a large crowd. There will be vim in every word; business meant in every gesture.

The melodious strains of the orchestra will add the musical sounds of the coffee drinking contest, which will accompany every supper. Come and help steal your neighbor's pie. You can buy your ticket for 25 cents at the University "Y" or from your faculty representative. Your chum will be there. Why not you?

179 VIC. HOLD CLASS MEETING

Men, as Hosts, Give Females a Good Time

179 Victoria held a most interesting class meeting on Friday, November 30, at which the men of the class were hosts. On this occasion, the new class song made its debut under the able chaperonage of a mixed quartette, consisting of Messrs. Kilborn and Odell, and Messrs. Bull and Shauer. After some deliberation on the weighty matters of business, the class settled back in its chairs to enjoy a thoroughly delightful program furnished entirely by the "masculine minority" which had augmented its numbers for the occasion. Mr. Sine 20 played two well received piano solos, and a male quartette consisting of Messrs. Shaver, Wolfraim, Binkley and Moore, sang most effectively a dainty lullaby. A reading by Mr. Agnew and speeches from some old and new members of the year, completed the programme. But the refreshments which followed proved the men to be as skillful in the culinary art as they are in the art of entertaining; and while the rain poured outside, the Class of '19 chatted together, forgetful of it, over fragrant cups of coffee.

STUDENT MISSIONARY CONFERENCE MET AT THE KNOX COLLEGE CHAPEL

Missionary Opportunities in India and China Told by Able Speakers

The Missionary Conference for the study of "Christian Internationalism" opened on Friday, November 30 at eight o'clock in the chapel of Knox College.

1st Session Friday, November 30 at 8 p.m. in Knox Chapel. Mr. C.W. Bishop B.A., as chairman of the meeting, introduced the first speaker of the evening Miss Sara E. Snell, A.B., of New York, who chose as her subject, "The Call of the World to college men and women." She pointed out the danger of limiting our world to the western hemisphere.

Referring to the time of reconstruction after the war, Miss Snell said, "In considering the reconstruction of the world after the war, we cannot forget the suffering peoples of heathendom. If this war is to be a success, the whole world, not just one nation, must advance."

In suggesting ways of helping the cause of Christianity in the world, Miss Snell said, "In the first place we must know about missions, and in the second place we must have enthusiasm and organized missionary effort. Any church that has lost the missionary ideal, has lost the heart of Christianity."

Mr. Bishop then introduced the Rev. W. E. Taylor, M.A., D.D., of China, who presented "The present world situation." Mr. Taylor began, "We face an unparalleled world situation. This is just as true of the non-Christian world as of the war. The Orient is now open, but it will not always remain so. Mr. Taylor in his forceful way, said, "We shall see, my words, a movement in our own generation of the educated classes of India. In China in 1905 there were no more than 200 students, who had western learning. Now there are 92,000 schools and colleges that teach western learning in China. But China has just started. Now there are one and half million students in her colleges, but if she were to have the same proportion as even Japan, she would have forty million students." He closed with, "In view of the fact that we have only one life to live, let us spend it to the best advantage," and referring to a motto at the platform, he said, "As go the colleges, so will go the world."

2nd Session—Saturday, December 1 at 10 p.m. in Knox Chapel. Mr. Bishop introduced Canon Gauld, the first speaker of the morning session, who had as his subject, "The challenge of the Moslem World." He said, "There are two marked tendencies which we might almost describe as equal and opposite. The first a destructive and the second a constructive tendency. First the destruction of the Pan-Islamic movement, a movement which looks toward the reviving of the forces of the Mohammedan faith and the returning Ideals of Mohamed. This movement gained a great impetus as a result of the Kaiser's visit in 1898, and who constituted himself as head of this movement. The second destructive force is the Kalif movement or the one headship of the Mohammedan faith which has been assailed, repelled, and disallowed, by Mohammedans as a result of the war."

"The two consolidative tendencies are, first, the forming of the country of the Hejaz, who have in their territory the holy cities of Mohammedanism, into a separate kingdom under British protection. One of the greatest strokes of British statesmanship was this stroke. The second constructive tendency is the sixty millions of Mohammedans in the British Empire."

The next speaker was Mr. J. B. McLaurin, B.A., B.Th., from India. He spoke very ably and forcefully on the subject of "The Appeal of India." Speaking of the work of the missionaries in India at the present time, Mr. McLaurin quoted the words of a British general—"No class

MANY LIVE PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED BY "CLUB POLITIQUE"

Those Interested Should Communi- cate with Mr. V. O. Matchett

A most enjoyable gathering of the "Club Politique" was held on Monday afternoon in the clubroom at the Library Building. Mr. C. M. Luke took the chair during the discussion. The topic selected for the meeting was "The Federal Franchise." The consideration of this problem brought up several points of controversy, and encouraged lively argument on such subjects as: "Should the alien in Canada be required to show himself qualified before he is allowed to vote?" "Is it advisable that the educated class hold the balance of power in the State?" "Would it be advantageous to have voting made compulsory?" "To what extent would these modes of procedure endanger the principles of democracy?"

Such questions as these occupied the attention of the Club during the afternoon. The interest displayed in the discussion of these topics left no doubt as to the favour which the Club is finding in the opinion of the students.

Mr. F. S. Woodhouse was nominated as chairman for the next meeting. It has been decided that, owing to the shortening of the term, this will be held on Wednesday afternoon, December 12th, at 2 o'clock in Room 6, University Library Building. The subject will be: "Whether rights should be commensurate with services"; and also "The Referendum Problem". Any men who are not members of the Club, but who desire to attend, should communicate with the President, Mr. V. O. Matchett.

NOTICE

On Thursday, December 6th the Mathematical and Physical Society meets in Room 43, Physics Building at 4.15 p.m. Graduates of '17 will have charge of this meeting.

The postponed meeting of the Students' Administrative Council will be held in Room 12, Main Building, one week from to-day at 6 p.m.

E. AND M. CLUB HOLD THEIR ANNUAL DINNER TO-NIGHT

Good Speakers Will Talk on Interesting Topics

School men—Electrical and Mechanical! The annual dinner of the E. & M. Club will be held To-Night, December 5th in the Waverley Hotel, corner College and Spadina. It is going to be a real, live, snappy evening; plenty to eat, drink and smoke—to say nothing of good music, and then—speeches. The speakers are Mr. W. MacLachlan, "The Human Element in Engineering"; Mr. J. F. Neils, "Notes on D.C. Feeder Systems"; Prof. L. M. Arkey, "Industrial Research"; Prof. H. W. Price, "Lighting". It is not necessary to tell you that these addresses will be full of "pep"! Those who have heard these speakers before know that and will be there. In fact, you could not keep them away. But to junior members of the Club let us say that you will miss something of great interest, and of great importance to your engineering career, if you fail to be present to-night. You may not have heard all these men before—come and do so now. Come and have a good meal, a good time and hear prominent men in the engineering world tell you something worth while. Get your tickets now and be there at 7.45 sharp—or you'll miss the soup! Now boys, all together, a little of the old School "spirit"—come!

WIDER READING

To accuse university students of narrowness in their reading may appear at first paradoxical. The arrangement is nevertheless more just than might seem. How many students really take the opportunity offered them by four years at college of increasing their familiarity with even the best English writers of fiction? Most read a few novels and essays which are laid down for examination, and here their cultivation of the "literature of power" ceases. Many no doubt say, "We have not time now; when we have finished with textbooks and dictionaries we will have more leisure for promiscuous reading." There could not be a greater mistake. The truth is, that never again will the student have so favorable an opportunity for widening his knowledge of literature as during these four golden years.

We are aware that much stress has been laid of late on the value of intensive study. And it is indeed wise to limit our curriculum so that we may attain the culture that comes from the mastery of one subject or branch. But in growing deep we may become narrow. Because a man is studying mathematics, is he to retain ignorant of Shakespeare, Thackeray and Browning? Or while he is making a serious study of these immortals, should he close his eyes to such clear-burning if lesser luminaries as Barrie, Chesterton and Kipling, when by turning for a while to these he may at once refresh his spirit and widen his literary taste?

If the time many of us now spend on fleeting periodical literature were given to the masters of fiction, in our own day and the past, how much more would our natures be enriched! Is it because we are accustomed to stand in awe of the great novelists, and have come to regard the reading of them as a sort of sacred task, like our morning tub instead of as a pure delight, that we waste so many spare hours on mere print? But it is a fact that we do. Therefore this plea for wider reading, and a more general cultivation of the masters of fiction.

ASSIST THE Y.M.C.A.

'Varsity men were successful in obtaining subscriptions from other people for the Victory Loan. The call has now come for the students to make contributions themselves to a cause just as worthy. The reference is to the Y.M.C.A. campaign, which began yesterday in the University. The Y.M.C.A. is an integral part of 'Varsity and it carries on a most important work among the student body. The students are well acquainted with the various services which the Association ordinarily makes, and consequently nothing further in explanation of these needs to be made. This year, however, the Association has increased considerably the number of its activities, and has come into even closer touch with the students; and the students have appreciated this extension.

But now an appeal has come from the Y.M.C.A. for aid more substantial than moral help. Two thousand dollars is required. Half of this amount is to be devoted to the Overseas Y.M.C.A. work and the remainder for the University work. Each student is asked to come forward and help, to the best of his ability, the Association to realise its objective.

The campaign continues until Friday next. Remember the Y.M.C.A.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

In future, letters exceeding two hundred and fifty words will either be cut in length or will find their way into the waste-paper basket.

The thanks of the Victory Loan Campaign Committee to the students, who worked in the late campaign, ought to be a source of gratification to these men.

Anybody who advocates concentration should go to Room No. 26 Medical Building, some day when the people in the room above are making their peculiar noises, and try to listen attentively to a lecture.

Some time ago we said that the Students' Directory would make a nice Christmas gift. At the time we were taken to task for making such a remark. We are sorry—we meant a New Year's gift.

That comment on "side-stepping" has aroused much interest in various parts of the University. We hope that some of these "side-steppers", whom we have thus unintentionally discovered, will change their ways and, in future, keep to the straight and narrow path.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

C. O. T. C.

When the men who had been absent for the previous drills had been brought before Capt. Blake-Forster, A-A O.T.C., they began to realise then this military instruction was not a game with which they could play "fast and loose". Every man's record is daily reported and especially his attendance. If he does not obtain a certain percentage—like 80 per cent., although the Senate has not definitely decided this—there are two courses to be followed. If the delinquent is a Class A man, he will be at once reported to the chief registrar of this Military District, as not eligible for exemption on the grounds that he is taking military instruction. Those who are not "draftees" will be reported to the Senate, who may award a star in that subject. The men in charge of this military instruction are determined that it should be treated seriously and the men are warned not to miss drill, except under the most serious and unavoidable circumstances.

The band practices will not be counted in place of the ordinary drill. The idea was that the band should be made up of the "cripples" and men taking gymnasium classes, who will be exempt from attending those classes. But playing in a band is not military instruction, and cannot be substituted. However, if there are any who have taken one of two years' drill with the C.O.T.C. and wish to join the band they may be allowed to do so by applying to the Senate in the ordinary way for exemption from drill and permission to join the band. With such cases, the Senate will deal very generously.

The following from the O.S.T.C. have left with the R.N.A.S.—H. A. Sutherland, G. A. Hodgetts, G. G. Rolph, J. M. Catto, H. G. Clapperson, H. M. Keith, J. W. Taylor, K. R. Kirkwood, Hugh Black.

Those who applied to Col. Lang from the University have not decided to notify him as yet of the decision in their respective cases.

Knox

Centre House won from East House by default last Thursday night in the inter-house games at Knox. As a result West and Centre House tied for honours. The final game which will be keenly contested will be played Thursday night.

	Won	Lost
Centre	3	1
West	3	1
North and East	0	4

On Friday night at 4.30, Knox and Victoria basketball teams will clash at Victoria. In the inter-house matches at Knox some players have developed, and a fast team will represent the College. Victoria has some good ball-tossers, so a snappy game is looked for.

Victoria

There will be a joint meeting of the W.L.S. and the U.L.S. on Friday evening, December 7. Further particulars will be published in Friday's issue.

It has lately come to the notice of THE VARSITY that the University is to lose one of its faculty members, Mr. A. Lipari, M.A., of the Italian and Spanish Department, who has been called out by the United States Government, and consequently will have to drop his work at the University. Mr. Lipari expects to leave on Thursday evening, and hopes to be sent either to Italy or France. The students in the various Spanish classes view his going with no little regret, but the exigencies of the war are not to be denied.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR COLORS SHOULD BE MADE BY FRIDAY

Managers and captains of Mulock Cup teams are notified that all recommendation for colours must be signed and handed in to the secretary of the Mulock Cup Series executive, G. W. Carroll, 199 Western Ave., Toronto. These letters must be sent in before Friday of this week. There will be a meeting of the rugby executive on Tuesday next at 5 p.m. at the gym to consider the recommendation.

2T1 ATTENTION.

Notice is given to 2T1 Class members that the Freshmen's Friday night party, mentioned in Monday's issue of THE VARSITY, is a private affair, and not under the auspices of the Class Executive.

A meeting of the 2T1 executive will be held on Thursday, December 6th at 4.15 p.m. in Room 19, Main Building.

ALUMNAE NIGHT OF U.C.

WOMEN'S LIT. IS DEC. 8th

Surprise is Promised

That most alluring of all things, a surprise, is promised the members of the U.C. Women's Literary Society at their next meeting. Alumnae Night has always been one of the jolliest meetings of the year and the mystery which at present enshrouds the programme does not at all daunt our confident expectations. Whatever it is, it is sure to be delightful, so let both graduates and undergraduates flock to the Union at 8 o'clock on Saturday next. In case imagination needs a more substantial stimulus, one detail, we are permitted to vouchsafe—there will be "eats".

FRUIT PICKERS HOLD
CONCERT ON DEC. 7th

Don't forget the "Fruit-Pickers' Concert". The play will be staged in Convocation Hall, December 7, and is awaited in breathless anticipation by those whose curiosity was whetted by the "petit mouchoir" given in the Women's Union some time ago. Each "farmeress" will wear the regulation fruit-picking costume and will sing and act in true farmer fashion. Many songs will be recognized by the tune only, the words being changed slightly to suit the notion of the singer. Come and have a laugh and incidentally fill the coffers of the Red Cross.

U.C. WOMEN TO SUPPLY
PRESENTS FOR CHILDREN

The women of University College are going to supply presents for certain children's clubs in the University Settlement. The collection will be arranged by the women of the year executives. Gifts are to be brought to the Christmas Party at the Union, Thursday, December 13th. Particulars of what is required can be obtained through the women on the year executives.

2T1 DEBATING CLUB
HOLD FIFTH MEETING

Able Speeches by Messrs.
Goldstein and Bryson

The fifth weekly meeting of the Club opened at 3 a.m. Monday at Room V in the Library Building with Professor Brown in the chair. A new system was unanimously adopted for the allotment of debates for the rest of the year.

After the completion of the business John Laughlin, the president, took the chair and officiated for the rest of the meeting.

The topic for the day, "Resolved that capital punishment should be abolished," was then thoroughly debated under the able leadership of Messrs. Brown and Goldstein, leaders for the affirmative and negative respectively.

Altogether the previous business cut short the time of the two main speakers, nevertheless, Mr. Bryson in a short well-prepared and excellently delivered speech, put forth his views, many of which Mr. Goldstein ably repudiated.

A short general discussion then took place, during which many interesting points were advanced.

The criticism by Prof. Brown was greatly appreciated by all members of the Club. Mr. Bryson and Mr. Goldstein were, however, free from criticism as both spoke so well.

The next meeting will be held on the 14th of January. Watch for the announcement of topic and leaders.

DENTS ARE SOCCER CHAMPIONS FOR THIRD YEAR IN SUCCESSION

McGowan Injured in 2nd Half

Score was 3-0

For the third successive year, Dents have won the cup presented by the soccer association of the university. By defeating Victoria yesterday in a gruelling contest by a score of 3-0, they finished up the season with a clean record of four games won, each by the same margin—without being scored against.

The day was ideal for the game. Dents won the toss, and took the north end. The teams played hard right from the kick-off, and both seemed equally matched. Dents had the advantage in speed, whilst the back division of Victoria formed a heavy defence line. Sproule and Day tried several rushes down the field, but always with little success, Mutard being impracticable in goal.

Shortly before half-time, Dents rushed the ball down the field and Ferguson broke through, Minard however blocked the ball and McVitty of Victoria rushing in, knocked the ball in his own goal, drawing first blood for the victors. The whistle prevented further scoring in this half. Score 1-0.

In the second half Dents kicked off the ball hovered around centre, and once McGowan dribbled the ball down, only to be checked by the opposing backs. McGowan fell and broke his thumb and had to retire from the game to be treated.

Bouck replaced McGowan at centre and Blatchford went on. Victoria seemed to lose heart with their captain away, and soon went to pieces. From now on Dents had the best of the play. Sproule scored ten minutes later and Day banged one in just before full time. Final score 3-0.

For the victors, Forbes and Fraser played sterling games, whilst the forwards displayed some good combination.

For the losers, Mutard in goal showed up well, and but for his excellent work, the score would have been greater. McGowan, Lang, and Hunter were always dangerous men on the forward line. The line-up was as follows:

Dents—Goal, Griffin, backs, Fraser, Smythe, halves, Barnsley, Forbes, Butler, forwards, Adams, Sproule, Day, Ferguson, Edward.

Victoria—Goal, Mutard; backs, McGinley, Bull, halves, Bouck, McVitty, Johnson; forwards, Hunter, Lang, McGowan, Gordon, Smith. Bouck replaced McGowan at centre and Blatchford substituted.

Referee—Browne of S.P.S.

Owing to the early closing, the game between Victoria and St. Hilda's will be played off on Saturday evening, December 8 at Trinity gymnasium, and the last game of the series between University College and St. Hilda's will be played Monday or Tuesday of next week.

NOTICE.

The class of 2T1, Victoria, most heartily invites you to the patriotic tea room, Friday, December 7th. You will be charmed by the menu, service and music.

JUNIOR MEDS. WIN BASKETBALL GAME

Defeat St. Mike's by Score 25-18

The first exhibition game of the season in basketball was played between Junior Meds and St. Mike's at the Central "Y" on Monday, December 3, the former team winning by a score of 25-18.

The game was hotly contested, and a display of "pep" and speed was noticeable. At half time the score was 13-8 in favor of Meds, and then some changes took place, everybody getting a try-out on both sides.

For Junior Meds, the old basketball star of Medicine, Urquhart, was out to lead the squad to victory, although having been out of the game for two years, and not handling a basketball since. He, nevertheless, displayed speed, and great ability at shooting, scoring about 18 out of the 25 Meds gathered in. Ireland, Skinner, Kilgour, Tenes, McDonald and Trackman helped along, and showed that they had once before seen and handled a ball.

As to St. Mike's, they had a nifty and speedy bunch, and showed Meds' that it is going to be no "cinch" for them to "cop" the Sifton Cup. In the brothers Carroll, St. Mike's have two speedy and heady players, who can make a shot from almost any angle. The team worked in great harmony, it is possible that the squad had a few practices before, while Meds were out only once last Monday.

Jr. Meds—Ireland, Kilgour, Urquhart, Trackman, Skinner, MacDonald, Markewitz, Tenes.

St. Mike's—B. Carroll, G. Carroll, McIntosh, A. Brown, S. Brown, Bidner.

VICTORIA WOMEN DEFEAT UNIV. COLL.

Last Game of Series Takes Place Next Week

In the women's basketball match on Monday evening, between Victoria and University College, Victoria won with a score of 29-8.

On the whole, neither side played as well as in their first game, and as a result the match was much slower. There was a fair amount of good passing, especially on the part of the U.C. team. The score at half time was 19-6 in favour of Victoria.

Victoria—Misses Bea Flanders, J. O. Smith, C. F. Kilborn, F. Smider, J. Edington, E. F. Kilborn.

University College—Misses M. Whyte, M. McTaggart, W. Thompson, C. Millar, M. Tennant, J. Stolpe.

BASKETBALL EXECUTIVE CHOSEN YESTERDAY

Yesterday a most enthusiastic basketball meeting was held in the gym. Last year's games were reviewed and the prospects for the coming season were discussed. The following executive was elected—President—S. A. Moore, Victoria.

Vice-President—W. E. O'Shaughnessy, St. Michael's.
Sec.-Treasurer—A. A. Urquhart, Jr. Meds.

Executive—H. Borsook, U.C., G. Hancock, S.P.S.; G. Brown, O.T.C.

There will be a meeting of the executive at the gym on Thursday at 5 o'clock to arrange a schedule. Any college or faculty wishing to have a team in the series will communicate with the Secretary, Treasurer, C. H. Urquhart (N. 1961) before Thursday noon.

JUNIOR MEDS. HOLD BASKETBALL PRACTICE

The Junior Meds were out last week for a basketball practice, twenty men turning out. With Urquhart, the "Meds star", and some Senior O.B.M. men, who are freshmen at Medicine, it looks as if Senior Meds, without the presence of "Muckle" McLean, will have Moore and his men of Victoria to give them an argument for the Sifton Cup.

There is also a bunch going to turn out from the Sophomore year, and that will make about thirty men that "Arge" will be able to pick his "crack" basketball team from for the coming series.

"It's Simply Scrumptious!"

The word "scrumptious" is a reminder of boyhood resurrected just yesterday—we hadn't heard it for years.

We had sent a diamond ring on approval to an out-of-town customer. He kept it of course. When returning payment he said, "It's simply scrumptious"—that told the whole story in just three words. He was enthusiastically delighted with the quality of the diamond, the appearance of the ring, the good value we had given him, and our general way of doing business. In other words he got what he wanted, in the way he wanted—a mutual satisfactory transaction such as we always strive for.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

of men has a bigger Imperial work to do than the missionaries. You can do more, trained as you are, to keep India quiet, than any number of British officers can do in a long time." One of the greatest works done for the Empire in India is the checking of false rumors by the Christian missionaries.

The third session took the form of group conferences, but all united again for the fourth session which assumed the character of a medical address session.

4th Session.—Saturday, December 1 at 8 in Knox Chapel. The chairman for the evening, Mr. W. E. Taylor, introduced Dr. Waters, of Central India. Dr. Waters after dwelling for a few moments on India's part in the present war, passed on to the practical side of medical missionary work in Central India, and gave some very amusing and yet touching incidents of his life and medical work there. He showed how the ignorant natives, without any knowledge of medicine, constantly lose their chances of being cured by not knowing what to do. He referred to a woman who had lost both eyes because some "quack" doctor had tried to operate on her eye with a dirty needle. Dr. Waters closed with an appeal straight from India to us in the home lands.

Dr. Taylor then introduced Dr. Balme, of Shantung University, China, who spoke on "Medicine and China's Millions". He spoke of a man whom he had found sick of a contagious disease, and when his kinsmen knew this, instead of caring for him they took him out upon a garbage pile to die. He was rescued and cared for by Chinese Christians. Dr. Balme pointed out the great change in the souls of the men who would do this. He then gave an instance of a Medical missionary, who so gained the love of the people among whom he worked that when he fell sick with typhus, fifty heathen men prayed to their own gods that a year might be taken off the lives of each if the foreign doctor's life might be prolonged. Dr. Balme closed with, "There is only one thing for China. Go and plant that seed, the Gospel!"

D	.38

As will be seen from the report of the recorder, Mr. Harold E. Orr, B.A., the cup was captured by the year '21, with a handsome total of 176 points. However, an extenuating circumstance rather condones the goose-eye of year '20 in the steeplechase handicap, inasmuch as it succeeded in landing the year '13 cup with a score of 43.8 points for general excellence.

MR. KIRKWOOD ADDRESSES UNIV. MEN AT "T" MIXER

Last Social Meeting of Michaelmas Term a Success

The last of the big "T" Mixers, which have been held weekly for the latter part of this term, took place on Wednesday evening last. What is meant by the "last" of the Mixers is that it was the last of these social functions which will be held this term. There are going to be others after the new year, the first one to be announced before-hand in THE VARSITY. Last Wednesday's supper was up to the standard of former ones. The University orchestra was out, and enlivened the situation. On the conclusion of the supper, Mr. Stapells, as chairman, briefly addressed the meeting. He thanked the men for the interest they had shown in this new feature of University life, and hoped that they would continue their patronage after the new year. The management was doing all in their power to further the interests of the men, and it was up to the men to show their appreciation of the efforts put forth by attending these social gatherings. He declared that the concert to be put on in Convocation Hall, next week, "The Melting Pot", was well worthy of their patronage, and advised all to go.

Mr. Kirkwood, the speaker of the evening is connected with the Maclean Publishing Company, in which company he has made quite an enviable reputation as an advertising man. It was not of his success, however, that he came to talk, but on a more vital subject. In a quiet, impressive and forceful manner he poured forth a message of burning interest to every college man. He chose as his subject, "A Straight-edge for Life". He told what that straight-edge was.

"We all have dreams," he said. "There are the dreams of engineers, of lawyers, doctors, of poets, of all men." But we must not let our dreams lead us into a life of inertia—they must rather rouse us from such a condition. We naturally avoid anything discomfortable, with a degree of hardship in it. But it is just when we think ourselves safe, that we are in the greatest peril. Too often we think of prosperity to be won over the bodies of others. That kind of prosperity is not desirous. But to be continually baffling against disincinations and overcoming them is an indication that one is on the highroad to prosperity. Prosperity or success does not lie in the pulling down of others, in cheating them. We must build ourselves in others, not climb over the fallen bodies of others. If our lives are to be enriched, we must enrich the lives of others. Success hurts no brother, but helps him.

Mr. Kirkwood strongly warned any man from taking promotion, if he was not fit for it. It was a bad thing to take a position, and school yourself or it, after you had taken it.

"If we sow good seed in this time of life, it may be dormant for a time, but it will come into blossom and bear fruit to save our old age and make life at the close blessed forever, for ourselves, and for others," concluded Mr. Kirkwood.

VARSVITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Professor Smith has received the following details in a letter from Mr. Adam Foster of Goderich regarding the death of his son, Sec. Lieut. Frank Foster of the R.F.C.

"As you requested me to let you know the latest details of the late Frank Foster's death, I will now try to tell you all we know and I think we have heard all that we can hear. Capt. Sharpe and Capt. Carrie of the Y.M.C.A. went to the squadron our boy was attached to, and got the particulars from first hand. It seems that he went out on patrol duty, and in the evening a storm broke over that part of the country. A number of machines were making for the aerodrome, our son among the rest. He had almost landed when another machine got in his way, and to avoid a collision he took a terrible risk, and he lost. The officer says he landed he would have been all right, but most likely the two men in the other machine would have been killed. To avoid a smash he tried to climb up too straight. A big building was also in the way. He got about two hundred feet up when his engine stalled, and the machine crashed, killing him and the observer instantly. The hardest part to tell is that the machine took fire, and the inflammable parts destroyed. They tell us that Frank and his observer were killed by the fall and did not suffer. I hope that was so. I am afraid he suffered a tragic death."

Word has reached the University of the death in action of Lieut. Robert John Gunn Dow, B.A. Trinity College, 1906. Lieut. Dow enlisted as a private in the 151st Battalion, winning his lieutenancy and later his captaincy. He reverted, however, in order to get to France. His mother lives in Edmonton.

Lieut. Roy A. Forsythe, only son of Mr. J. A. Forsythe of Toronto, is reported missing. He enlisted in November, 1914, as a private in the 19th Battalion, and went overseas the following May. He obtained a commission in the Royal Field Artillery last March. For the last three months he has been acting as an observer with the R.F.C. He was a member of the class of 1916, U.C.

Lieut. Lawrence Kert of Englehart is also reported missing. He enlisted as a lieutenant with the Canadian Infantry, but transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, where he has been acting as a pilot. Lieut. Kert was a University College student of 1918.

Gunner E. B. Dusan, Applied Science, 1917, has been awarded the Military Medal. He enlisted as gunner with a battery raised from the University in March, 1915, but transferred to a howitzer brigade in England in September, 1915. He crossed to France in January, 1916, and was wounded the following July. His home is in Picton, N.S.

Two Royal Naval Air Service men who have recently returned to Canada are Flight Lieut. Maurice Kingsford and Flight Commander H. S. Kerby.

Lieut. Kingsford was with the 20th Battalion as supernumerary lieutenant, but transferred to the R.N.A.S., and was sent to the front in September, 1916. While returning from patrol on April 5th a new machine crashed, and his hip was dislocated. He is a graduate of U.C. 1915.

Flight Commander Kerby is a Science graduate of 1914. He enlisted with the R.N.A.S. and saw service at the Dardanelles. He was invalided home from there in April, 1916, but returned to England in October 1916. Since then he has been with the R.N.A.S. in France. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross recently for "the great courage and initiative shown by him on many occasions, notable on August 12, 1917, when he attacked hostile machines returning from a raid on England. One hostile machine was driven down by him to the water, where it was observed to turn over". His home is in Calgary.

Julian Patrick, of Victoria College, 1917, has received the appointment of assistant to the Naval Attache at Rome. He

LIEUT.-COL. LANG HAS HAD A DISTINGUISHED MILITARY CAREER

He Is Now Director of Military Studies at the University

"Bearding the lion in its den" has usually an element of danger unless the lion be "a man as other men are" and like Bottom's lion, can "roar you and swallow any nightingale". Then even a staff reporter of THE VARSITY may venture with impunity to secure some details of its past life—in this case the enquiries being confined to military activities and not to academic ones. The Director of Military Studies at the University controls these from district headquarters on College Street—he is a general staff officer, a position calling for that intimate knowledge of military matters which only long experience can give. Colonel Lang was "raised" within earshot of the bugle-calls of a barracks and when a fourth year student at Glasgow University (some thirty years ago) obtained his commission in the local Royal Engineers Territorial (then volunteer) unit, taking his first two months infantry training at the barracks with the battalions of regulars quartered there, and his equitation with the 6th Dragoon Guards. He served in the 1st Lanarkshire Engineers until coming to Canada, and even after that, for some years, he crossed the Atlantic each summer to put in his training in camp in Scotland where he was in the Scottish Air-Line Telegraph Company, R.E.

But Colonel Lang's pre-Canadian military experience was not confined to the annual drills of his own unit. For many years during the long vacations which fall to the fortunate lot of University men, he took courses at the School of Military Engineering, and with the mounted units of the Royal Engineers at Aldershot, besides spending periods of from one to three months doing duty with crack British regiments of the regular army, such as the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, the Warwicks, the North Staffords, and with the Scots Greys and the Royal Artillery. Colonel Lang was "through the mill" of the army autumn manoeuvres on Salisbury Plains on several occasions, where, as he said, one had all the discomforts of the real thing with none of the danger or glory.

He volunteered for the South African war, but was detailed to relieve the permanent officer who was adjutant of his corps, and so permit the latter to proceed overseas. While holding this position he was appointed to the Chemistry Chair in Toronto University, obtaining leave of absence to assume his academic duties here; Sir William Otter, who was then in command of the Toronto Military District, asked him to organise a corps of engineers here, which he accordingly did, becoming "seconded" (as the military phrase is) for service under the Canadian Government. This company of engineers was the first "field" unit in Canada, and for several years was recruited entirely from amongst Varsity students. The late Thrift Burnside and "Corkie" Macdougall were his original lieutenants, and such well known University men as Percy Biggs, Harold Gzewski, Gordon Fleck, the late Tommy Irving, D.S.O., Charlie Hertzberg, M.C., and his brother Harbor, all served under him in this corps. When Colonel Lang relinquished the command of the Engineers to take charge of the C.O.T.C., there were three field units in the district, as compared with the original company of fifty-five with which he started that branch of the service here.

Colonel Lang has been twice on what he termed "Piccadilly" campaigns, once as

Lieut.-Col. W. R. LANG, C.O.T.C.

Acting-Adjutant of the East of Scotland contingent, sent to Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee celebrations, and again as Adjutant to the Canadian contingent, which went over for King George's Coronation in 1911. Since 1914 he has been a busy man. That winter's instructional work with C.E.F. troops, and with the first year's training of the C.O.T.C. was followed by the commencement of the District School of Infantry (affectionately termed the "P.S.I." though Colonel Lang says this term is incorrect) at Niagara, and later at the Old Technical School Building on College Street, where over three thousand officers of all grades went through the hands of the school staff—composed almost entirely of Toronto University men—until sent to Camp Borden when his duties became more generally related to the training of all ranks.

In spite of repeated requests on his part to be sent overseas, this privilege has always been refused on the grounds that he was required here to train others, and that he could not be spared. "There are lots in the same boat," he remarked: "there's Colonel LePan, Colonel Massey, Major Bramfit, and the others who are training the Poles; also most of the officers at headquarters. But this is a war where individual interest and ambition must give way to the general good, though it is a great disappointment to have served all these years and not to have a chance now of making good in command of troops at the front". Colonel Lang is one of the new officers in the district who have a Staff Course Certificate, in addition to those obtained in the Old Country, where he sat the same examinations as do officers of the regular army.

The reporter was induced at this stage to leave by the promise of a copy of "The Guide", a manual for young officers of the militia written by General Sir William Otter, the second part of which is from Colonel Lang's pen, and deals with military organisation.

THIS TELLS MORE OF "MELTING POT"

This Entertainment is Calculated to Take Place of Mock Parlia- ment of Old

During several previous issues of THE VARSITY notices of the Melting Pot have appeared, but no official announcement has been made as yet. Last week and the early part of this, the Victory Loan rightly occupied the students' undivided attention, it was deemed unwise to enter into a full explanation. So, in this issue the opportunity is taken of bringing before the eyes of the student-body authoritative information about the Melting Pot.

The Melting Pot is an interfaculty entertainment to be presented at Convocation Hall, next Tuesday, December 11th at 8 p.m. The Y.M.C.A. has long recognized that one of the great needs of the University is an occasion on which students of all faculties can freely mix together. So at the Conference at Knowlton last summer, they definitely arranged for weekly mixers—"Big 'T' Mixers"—as they are called, for all men students, and for one big interfaculty concert at which all colleges and faculties were to be represented both on the platform and in the audience. The big "T" mixers have already proved a fine success and the Y.M.C.A. is now prepared to present to the whole University the best entertainment possible—the Melting Pot.

Since the opening of College last September, the "Y" have lost no time in preparing a fine programme. The indefatigable R. G. Agnew, of Dents, has been working day and night for the last month arranging the concert and has now things in fine shape. This is the programme Mr. Agnew promises:

PROGRAMME.

1. University College—"Singers of the Sunny South"—The famous Mose and Sambo make their first appearance before an Ontario audience.
2. Faculty of Education—"School-days"—An instructive exemplification of modern scientific methods of pedagogy.
3. Victoria College—Court scene from Pickwick Papers.
4. O.S.T.C.—Vocal selection
5. Veterinary College—"Operation for Appendicitis on a bow-wow"—Ancient methods of vivisection depicted.
6. University Orchestra—Selection.
7. Medical College and S.P.S.—"The Blow-up of Algernon Blow." He blows sky-high.
8. University Octette—Selections.
9. Dental College—"Extraction Clinic in Texas."

The programme is thus fully representative. One thing more should be added. There are approximately 1,800 seats in Convocation Hall. There are nearly 2,500 students in the University and a considerable public outside who will wish to attend the entertainment. A word to the wise is sufficient. Get your tickets at once. The following are college representatives.

University College—F. C. Hastings.
Victoria College—G. C. Denton.
F.O.E.—H. Kemp.
Veterinary College—F. H. Miller.
Medical College—H. G. Clark.
Dental College—R. G. Agnew.
Applied Science—Inquire at "Y"
Tickets 25 cents. Proceeds for patriotic purposes.

HEAR REV. W. H. SEDGEWICK ON SUNDAY AT CONVOCATION

Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, of Hamilton, who preaches the last sermon of this term in Convocation Hall this Sunday, is minister of Central Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, which is the leading church of that city. He has also occupied the Central Presbyterian Church pulpit for several years.

Mr. Sedgewick is one of the most thoughtful preachers in the Presbyterian Church and is peculiarly attractive to a thoughtful audience. He has preached on many important occasions such as the assemblies of the Presbyterian Church. Those who hear him Sunday morning are assured of a good sermon and every student should take advantage of this opportunity.

C.O.T.C. BAND.

Official Notice.

Members of the Band will parade at the C.O.T.C. Orderly Room (basement of Mining Building) on Tuesday and Fridays at 4.10 p.m. under Sergeant-Major Hunt. After a short preliminary drill (to enable them to conform to military movements) they will report for band practice in the University Y.M.C.A. Building, under Lieut. Slatter, who is kindly giving his services for the purpose. Attendance on these days will be accepted as sufficient to meet the requirements of the Senate for attendance at military drill.

(Signed) W. R. LANG,
Lieut.-Col.,
O.C., U. of T., C.O.T.C.

C. O. T. C.

Through a misapprehension this column in our previous issue contained a statement regarding the conditions to govern the band of the Corps, which was only partially the case. Band practices are to count as part of the drills. Those gentlemen who so kindly give their musical talents to the band will, it is understood, be taken out of their present classes and formed into a special detachment, which will parade on practice-days (see Corps Orders being published) at the C.O.T.C. Orderly Room, Mining Building, at 4.15 p.m. and after a short drill under the Corps' Sergeant-Major, will be taken over by Lieutenant Slatter, whose kind offer to train this organization is heartily appreciated by the whole student body. The band must be able to march and perform many evolutions to be of use, though the "strenuousness" of the physical training required of its members need not be as great as that for the others—at any rate when no long marches and field days are expected as at present. It is hoped that a number of students undergoing physical training at the gym will be able and glad to give their services to the band, though debarré from taking the ordinary C.O.T.C. work, and thus swell the numbers as well as providing pleasure to their fellow-students. To these THE VARSITY expresses regrets that a term used in our last issue regarding them has apparently given offence where only a sportful and kindly euphuism was intended.

THIRD YEAR U.C. HOLD LAST CLASS MEETING OF TERM

Third year U.C. held their last class party of the year before Christmas last night at 85 St. George Street, about 100 being present. The party started early, and after selections by Miss Joan Christie and Miss Kathleen Cosgrove, dancing and cards entertained those present. About 10.30 dainty refreshments were served and the party broke up about 11 o'clock. Expressions of having spent a pleasant evening were heard on all sides and the executive is to be complimented on the successful entertainments they have provided during the fall term.

FRUIT PICKERS' CONCERT DEC. 12, CONVOCATION HALL

On Wednesday evening, December 12, the fruit pickers of University College, St. Hilda's and Victoria, will give a musical and educational programme at Convocation Hall, on some of their work during the past summer. Addresses will be given by Mr. W. A. Riddell, Superintendent of the Trades and Labour Branch, and also by Lady Falconer.

Those who would care to know how their fruit was picked last summer, come and see the fun! Parodies, witty dialogues, moving pictures.

NOTICE.

The next meeting of the Biological Club will be on January 8th, not December 11th, as previously announced. On that date Dr. Huntsman will address the Club on "Biological Work in the Gulf of St. Lawrence."

THE UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT

Students of the University,—have you any conception of the important work carried on at the University Settlement?

This Settlement, located at the corner of Peter and Adelaide Streets, has a large field of service, roughly speaking the area below Queen from Bathurst to York streets.

Recreative and social clubs form a very important part of the work. There are boys' clubs and girls' clubs, graded according to the ages of the members. These clubs provide exceptional opportunities for the youthful section of the community to become acquainted. In them splendid sportmanship qualities are engendered, the moral victory of a good loser being emphasized quite as much as the victory of the winner. At the Mothers' Club once a week the matrons meet and forget for a few hours their many household cares.

At 'play' school every morning the tiny tots, too young to be sent to school, assemble while their busy mothers go about their many duties. Nor are the babies forgotten. Every week a baby clinic presided over by city nurses, is held. Here the mothers receive expert advice on the care of their infants.

One phase of the usefulness of the Settlement is the instruction given in evening classes, chiefly in English, for the benefit of the rapidly growing foreign element. This is really a boon to the foreigner to whom the lack of a command of English is a serious handicap, economically.

The Settlement workers supervise the community work carried on at the Ogden School by the Toronto Playground Association, where gymnastic classes, dancing classes and calisthenics are kept in full swing.

The undergraduates give little support in finances or interest to this cause. The University looks largely to its graduates to maintain the work of this splendid institution—but the undergraduates should learn what it stands for.

On Friday evening, December 7, there is a membership meeting at the Ogden School, Phoebe Street, near Spadina. You are invited to attend.

This is your opportunity!

CONVERSATIONS

We were just thinking the other day what the world would be if we could not talk, and that the gift of speech is really a wonderful thing after all. Then we considered conversations. What a large part they do play in life! Whether we discuss the weather, or each other, or the war, or the game, or the professors, what an interesting thing it is to talk! Especially in lectures. And among the most interesting are other peoples conversations. On the street, on the cars, in stores, you hear them, ranging in length from scraps of sentences heard as you pass, to detailed accounts of household calamities from the woman on the strap next you. The last was interesting enough, but less so than the scraps. They open up a field for speculation in anyone interested in human nature, and it is lots of fun wondering what comes before and after. One thing we have noticed: If you pass boys old enough to wear long pants, you hear "and she said"; while if you are within ear-shot of girls old enough to powder their noses, it would be "and he said." Such is life.—The Manitoban.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The box on the front page should clear up the band muddle. It did not seem right to us that a man should both drill and give his time to the band.

This is the last day of the Y.M.C.A. campaign. The "Y" has done good work this year. Now is the time to show your appreciation and also to co-operate in the overseas work.

Members of the graduating year are again requested to return their proofs to the photographers as soon as possible; and also to hand in their biographies to the Torontonensis Board.

The editors of THE VARSITY reserve the right to say whether or not voluntary contributions will be "boxed" and also in what part of the paper these articles will appear.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

No. 5—

"BIBLE STUDY"

H. J. Walker

Like the star-shells that intermittently pierce the sinister gloom overshadowing No Man's Land, during the long night watch, and set in bold relief all objects and life in that desolate and untenable land, just so has this war revealed with clear cut certainty, distinguishable to all, the great realities and fundamental needs of man. It takes sacrifice to force men back to realities and fundamentals. Men do not sacrifice unless moved by some compelling purpose or ideal. A great life entails correspondingly great sacrifices, purposes and ideals.

The primary and major ideal of every purposeful student should be the achievement of character. One's life must be so planned and regulated that all may contribute to the achievement of character. Character building is the great task and responsibility of all. Let us not forget Thomas Arnold's words to the boys of Rugby—"The only thing of moment in life or in man is character."

If this be true our next question is what are the great means to character building?

To this there can be only one satisfying answer and that is—"The personal association with significant lives, and some sharing in their best visions." There is no other avenue comparable to this for the building of character. Living examples are the great need of man. George Eliot gave a fine expression of this great truth, when she wrote—"Ideas are often poor ghosts; our sun-filled eyes cannot discern them—they pass athwart us in their vapour, and cannot make themselves felt, but sometimes they are made flesh; they breathe upon us with warm breath, they touch us with soft, responsive hands, they look at us with sad, sincere eyes, and speak to us in appealing tones; they are clothed in a living human soul, with all its conflicts, its faith and its love. Then their presence is a power, then they shake us like a passion, and we are drawn after them with gentle compulsion as flame is drawn to flame." This is the greatest service between man and man, and is the great means for achievement of character.

If also the accumulated witness of such significant lives and world leaders as Livingstone, Lincoln, President Wilson, Col. Roosevelt, Secretary Lansing, John R. Mott, etc., show us that they found it necessary or let us say even desirable to make Bible Study an integral part of their life, surely we are not so presumptuous to think that we can do without, that which they felt was an absolute essential in their lives.

If as we have stated, the one great means of achieving character is "personal association with significant lives, and some sharing in their best visions", then it behooves us to look to those significant lives that are marked by great purposes, great convictions and great decisions. They must be lives of sterling character. Where else then may we turn than to the Bible to find such exemplary lives fulfilling these exacting requirements? The Bible contains great series of biographies of great and significant personalities, which find their culmination in the life of Jesus Christ. Here we see the complete and perfect character. Let us go to this source if we wish to achieve character.

The great value to be obtained by persistent study of the Bible is inestimable. Give the Bible a chance, and it will work wonders in the life of a man. Let us study the life of Christ who came that we might have life and have it more abundantly. Let us develop the presence of Christ by our study of his life as portrayed in the New Testament, let us share His visions, and there can then be no question of our final achievement of character. It is the only book that teaches us really how to live. Bible study review in the light of a means to character building should commend itself to every student.

To-Day's Poem

THE SOLDIER'S IDOL.

When you're thinking of your heroes, who are fighting modern Neros,
And you're all excited with the thrills of war.

When you're reading of the battle with its slaughter and its rattle,
Where our boys did deeds we'll think of evermore;

When the poets sing the praises of our lads who fought like blazes,
And record the day in everlasting verse,
When you write your Roll of Honour
Don't forget to place upon her
The name of every Red Cross nurse.

There are lots of women sitting, thinking
Of their men and knitting
For the boys who've gone to fight their country's foes;

There are thousands, too, of others, who are packing for their brothers
Boxes full of good things everybody knows.

How Britannia's daughters answered that call for aid from Flanders,
And did their best to lighten war's dark curse;

But without exaggeration, the pride of all the nation
Is the girl who went as Red Cross nurse.

She left her friends, her home, her all, in answer to her country's call,
And made a sacrifice that calls for grit;
And with skill and sweet compassion in her able, kindly fashion,

She has nursed the boys who went to do their bit.
With the wounded and the dying who in hospital are lying,

Like an angel sent from Heaven she'll converse,
And not a soldier sick or well, but would fight his way through Hell,
To protect that gallant Red Cross nurse.

CORF. W. H. YORK,
220th Battalion.

PAINFUL SUBJECT.

"Count, would you love me just as much if I had no money?"

"How can you ask such a question, my adored one?"

"Oh, it's due to idle curiosity, I suppose."

"Please do not harrow my feelings so. The thought of you being without money is more than I can bear."

FORMATION OF A DRAMATIC SOCIETY

A meeting was held in the Assembly Hall on December 3rd for the purpose of organizing a Dramatic Society. Mr. Crawford, headmaster of the University Schools, was in charge of the meeting. Mr. Jones was unanimously elected honorary president. Other officers were elected as follows: President, Miss L. Cassidy; Vice-presidents, Mr. Pakenham and Miss Laidlaw, secretary-treasurer, Miss Morgan; business manager, Mr. Newton; councillors, Miss Murray and Miss Willmott, Mr. Sheehy.

QUOTH THE RAVEN—"KNIT SOME MORE."

And the ladies, ever knitting
Never quitting, still are sitting,
Knitting things no living mortal
Ever, ever saw before.

And no single word they utter
Till at dusk they softly flutter
From their rockers to the door
And a voice comes from the shadow
Where they cluster near the door
"Thursday next, at half-past four."

WHAT'S HE GOING TO BE.

"Yes," said the nice little old lady:
"I am much interested in the war. I have two nieces who are going to be Red Cross nurses, and one fine nephew who is now at Ft. Sheridan studying to be an Armenian."

BASKETBALL

A meeting of the basketball executive took place yesterday afternoon at the gym, for the purpose of drawing up a schedule. Great interest is being displayed in this increasingly popular sport, judging by the fact that twelve teams have been entered, representing almost every faculty. Great difficulty was experienced in arranging a schedule, so as to have no clashing with drill classes. The teams were arranged in three sections, to play on the following week-days.

Section I.—Jr. Dents, St. Mikes, Trinity, Jr. Mds.—Wednesday.

Section II.—Victoria, O.T.C., U.C., Sr. Mds.—Thursday.

Section III.—Sr. Dents, F.O.E., S.P.S., Jr. Mds.—Friday.

A meeting will be held on Wednesday, December 12, for drawing up the section schedule.

Other Colleges

Four Yale Students Killed in War.

Four Yale undergraduates have died in the service of their country since our entry into the war according to an announcement in the Yale News. Two of the men were killed in action in France, last August, while a third died as a result of a fall from an aeroplane in a French school. The other man lost his life learning to fly in America, at the du Pont school. Besides these men, six graduates have lost their lives in connection with the war, four on the Lusitania, one in an automobile accident in an American R.O.T.C. camp, and the other in the English aviation service.

Columbia Leads Colleges.

Reports to the National War Work Council of the Y.M.C.A. show that much interest has been taken in the work in the various colleges, and that they have far exceeded the expectations regarding their quotas being fully subscribed. Columbia University finished its campaign on Saturday, having raised over $48,000, which gave them the lead in the subscriptions, while Yale was a close second with more than $46,000 donated. Harvard followed third with $45,000.

The subscription per capita at Columbia amounted to only $3.34, being exceeded by both of its closest competitors, Harvard and Yale, and also by Princeton, which, as stated above, had a greater individual donation than any other eastern University.

Drake—A mammoth service flag to fly from the campus flag pole with a star for every Drake man in service is being subscribed for by members of the University.

Lawrence—The college is considering the plan of changing the academic year from the term of two semesters of 18 weeks each to four semesters of 12 weeks each, following the plan in operation at the University of Chicago.

Wisconsin—Instead of a Junior Prom, the junior class is to hold an inexpensive Liberty Dance, investing the proceeds in Liberty Bonds. In a large mass meeting, the women students voted to oppose all formal parties during the year.

Harvard—A gift of $50,000 from Mrs. Samuel Parkman "for the care of the Yard or other grounds of the University" creates the only endowment possessed by Harvard for the care of the grounds.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND

The University College Student Volunteer Band has elected the following officers:

President—R. S. Stone '19.
Vice-President and Convener—Miss N. R. Wilen '18.

Secretary-treasurer—A.C.S. Smith '19.
Literature Convener—Miss D. Day '21.
Extension—A. C. Taylor '21.

Candidate Conveners—Miss A. W. Campbell, B. A. and Ian McEown '20.
Reps. to Union—Miss N. R. Wiley and A. C. Taylor.

"I do, sir! And I hope she inherits those qualities from her father."—Passing Show.

"America is composed of three classes of men: first, those who have succeeded, and second, those who haven't."

"Yes? And the third?"

"Oh, they're the fellows who write articles for the magazines telling the second class how the first class did it."

First Imp—"Notice how cool hell's growing?"

Second Imp—"Well, you know this is fuel conservation week."

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SOCCER T's

Recommendations for University colors for players on the inter-faculty soccer series are to be handed in in ink to the president, W. J. Browne, of S.P.S. or at 28 St. Joseph Street, before Tuesday, December 11th. A meeting will be held on that date at 5.30 p.m. in the gym, to consider the recommendations.

NOTICE.

The Victoria College Patriotic Tea Room will be open Friday, Dec. 7, from 3.30 to 5.30. The freshettes are to be in charge for the afternoon. Special Christmas features will be in evidence. There will be an excellent musical programme by violin and piano. An attractive menu offers. Frosh sandwiches. Tea or coffee. Ice cream and cake. Pie a la 2T1.

Don't forget the women's basketball game between Victoria and St. Hilda's at Trinity gymnasium on Saturday evening. It is going to be "some game!"

NOTICE.

The year representatives of U.C. Athletic Association are notified that they are to turn in their athletic fees on or before Tuesday, December 11 to J. B. Ridley, Treasurer of the Association

LOEW'S THEATRE.

It is a matter of screen history that the picture version of Grace Miller White's story "Tess of the Storm Country" which comes to Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden next week, received a hearty welcome from many patrons of the photoplay. The sequel "The Secret of the Storm Country," will meet with a like reception from the admirers of the little heroine first impersonated by Mary Pickford. The latest of Grace Miller White's stories to be produced in film form has been given the advantage of Norma Talmage's winning personality and excellent ability and has also received expert assistance from Chas. Miller and members of the supporting cast.

The scenario was made by M. Murrillo and Courtney Riley Cooper, and the contribution of J. M. Schenck to the select picture programme will equal, if not surpass, the popularity of any of the earlier Norma Talmage photoplays. Such being the case there only remains to give out a brief synopsis of the story and to point out to the author of the subtitles that the character dialogue is not like anything on earth or the waters under the earth.

In addition to the above offering, seven vaudeville attractions, headed by "The Phun-Phields" in "Scenes in a Telephone Exchange" will be given.

On Friday evening, December 7th at 8.15 in the Technical School (Lippincott Street entrance) Madame Victoria Horta will give an illustrated lecture on her experiences in Brussels at the time of its occupation by the Germans. The meeting is under the auspices of the University Women's Club and the United Alumnae of the University of Toronto.

Mrs. N. R. P. Parker will sing, and the Belgian National Anthem will be played by Mr. Bourignon.

Don't miss seeing the splendid slides and hearing the moving stories that Mme. Horta has to tell of her experiences in Belgium. A silver collection will be taken up for the relief of Belgian children

119 HISTORY STUDENTS HELD INFORMAL MEETING

Miss Nina Millen Gives Party for Fellow Students in Honour History

"Dese bones shall rise again". No History student who has toiled through dusty tomes in search of bluff King Hal's heart, or fallen with Charles through innumerable pages of original documents ever imagined that this prophetic refrain could be applied to Tudors or Stuarts. Countless generations of students have left them properly dead and buried at the end of countless years. Nevertheless, last Monday evening, Tudors and Stuarts reappeared with stately grace and ribald jest to celebrate in joyous anticipation the day when Kings, and Plato and chronological order shall be no more.

This gay assembly, in other words, was a party given by Miss Nina Millen for the third year students in Honour History in University College. Much reading of original documents has developed, not only a keen insight into royal ways, but also a haughty disregard for a mere Pollard or Gardiner, and so these venturesome juniors thought it necessary to demonstrate for their own satisfaction just how history is done. Thus it happened that Henry VIII, with the disconsolate Catharine of Aragon, trailing after him, and James I, Wolsey, Cromwell, Ann Boleyn, Elizabeth, Prince Charles and many another, appeared at last in the true light of love, laughter and midnight coffee. Never more shall Tudors and Stuarts remain buried in dusty folios. They boldly stalk through College halls.

In a delightful spirit of friendly rivalry, both dynasties gave charades representing some characteristic of their respective periods. The Tudors' word is a "statesmanship", which gave ample opportunity for the faithful portrayal of history. King Henry proved to be delightfully human. He was not all for expediency, after all. His flirtations with Anne Boleyn (Henry VIII, c. 13, 7) were wildly reckless and bespoke a gay and youthful heart. When, forewarned by a dream of the rise of the Stuarts, Elizabeth demanded the head of a Stuart, and was presented in much state with a cabbage head, the verdict of history was substantiated. The Tudors really were rather clever people.

The Stuart charade was based on the phrase "divine right", and was quite as puzzling as James' theology. James, his lovely Queen, Prince Charles, dashing cavaliers, gun-powder plotters, and the bloody battle of Worcester, all passed by in bewildering review. An accurate grasp of detail from the draping of the Queen's gown to the tilt of a certain noble lord's moustache, and the intelligent understanding content marked the working out of the Stuart plot.

The evening ended with a short dance, and the sight of Cardinal Wolsey swinging Sir Lambert Simnel through the steps of "Sir Roger de Coverley" is not soon to be forgotten. Gay cloaks, waving plumes, gorgeous gowns and glittering jewels are laid away but Tudors and Stuarts shall live forever.

Victoria

As was previously announced, there will be a joint meeting of the W.L.S. and U.L.S. on Friday evening, December 7.

A very interesting programme has been arranged, the leaders having been fortunate in procuring Capt. G. H. Armstrong, D.S.O., a Vic graduate of '13, and a graduate of Medicine of '16. Capt. Armstrong has been "over the top" nine times. He will relate his experiences and exhibit his war trophies.

There will be two open debates,—"Resolved that compulsory physical training should be extended to the whole student body", and "Resolved that in the best interest of Victoria the U.L.S. and W.L.S. be combined". Several musical selections will be rendered by the members of each society.

"Resolved that a monarchical form of government better secures the well-being of a country than does a republican form", is the subject of the semi-final debate to be held in Victoria College Chapel on Monday evening, December 10th.

Messrs W. J. Little, B.A., and S. F. Maine, B.A., will champion the affirmative for Victoria, while Messrs Wm J. Browne and R. A. Hamer, M.A., will uphold the negative for S.P.S. The judges for the debate are Prof. A. H. Young, M.A., C.D.L., R. J. Buks, B.A., and a third judge to be appointed by the Wychffe. An excellent program has been arranged, and we hope to see a large attendance of Victoria students for the occasion. Prof. N. W. DeWitt will be the chairman of the evening.

S.P.S.

SCIENCE 15 REUNION.

"The dead men were strewn so thickly that we had to walk over them. Sometimes for weeks the bodies lay unburied and decaying. As fast as could be the poor fellows were buried where they fell and in this work German prisoners were forced to assist. At the Somme, when these prisoners were first ordered on this work it was necessary to force them at the point of the bayonet for each feared that it was their own grave they were themselves digging, and not the last resting place of our own poor fellows. It was hard to convince these Hun prisoners that they were not to be so inhumanly treated but when they saw truth of our statements they very gladly and willingly did the work."

This, Corporal A. R. Mendizabel, who received the D.C.M. recently, told the School of Science men of Class 1915, at the dinner of his classmates in Canada held at the Queen's Hotel on Saturday night last. Gunner K. D. McDonald and Gunner Swinnerton, also told of breathless experiences and escapes, and the feeling with which the men "over there" look for news from home. The class of 1915 graduated with about 167 men and of this number there are 104 now overseas on active service and others of them have made the supreme sacrifice. But the fellows in Canada have not forgotten for at the dinner arrangements were all completed and now a box is to be packed and sent to every one of the men overseas from their classmates in Canada. An endeavour is to be made to make this a regular treat for the S.P.S. men never forget.

Knox

Monday night or we might also say early Tuesday morning, saw great doings, at Knox College in several houses, particularly North, Centre and East. Several reckless spirits in East House entertained a guest from Centre House to a midnight banquet, much to the annoyance of other inmates of East House, who were trying to get to sleep. The conversation and arguments ranged all the way from women to camouflages, while the party enjoyed several pies and hot beverages, etc. As the first streaks of the approaching dawn were tinging the sky, one brilliant thought himself that it was nearly time for breakfast, and it was necessary to "fuss up". On the road (consisting of several flights of stairs) home a disaster befell one of the party in the shape of a crash of the several pie tins he was carrying. It was altogether too much for those who had endeavoured to secure some sleep and a dozen white coated, blinking sufferers, madly bare-footed forth to drink the blood of the carousers who had quickly made off. During the evening a window was broken and sundry damage inflicted. It seems that such scenes singularly occurred in Centre and North Houses with the result that Wednesday evening a special court martial of the House Committee tried the offenders. East House contributed four delinquents, namely, N. Douglas, "Mutt" Forin, "Jeff" Forin and J. Stewart. The rest of the prisoners were made up of R. Harstone and "California" Shugart. Several renegades were missing, but those that were present received a sound lecture and left the court "wiser and better men"—so the court said. Meanwhile?

"A new scheme for governing Ireland is being proposed. It will probably meet with the approval of Ireland."

"Then it must be the abolishment of the British Empire."

LOOK! THE "MELTING POT" WILL BE GIVEN TO-MORROW NIGHT

Interfaculty Entertainment With Assistance of O.S.T.C.

Proceeds for Halifax Relief Under Patronage of Sir John Hendrie

What is the cause of the excitement evident in the University this last week? Everywhere one sees groups of students talking interestedly about one event. Is it the Victory Loan? That has come and gone. The Dominion Elections? They are a week ahead. The fight at Cambrai or the Russian situation? The news is too indefinite. What is it then? There is but one answer—it is The Melting Pot.

Considerable curiosity has already been aroused as to what the Melting Pot is. One veridical freshman vaguely suggested it might be a culinary utensil in use at the School of Domestic Science. Another bright one surmised it was a children's game for roasting the Kaiser. But of course all The Varsity readers know it is an interfaculty entertainment at Convocation Hall to-morrow night, Tuesday, December 11, at 8 p.m.

The reasons for an entertainment of this kind have already been stated in the last issue of THE VARSITY. However, to satisfy every student and professor as to the validity of such a concert a summary of the reasons follows it.

REASONS.

1. The Melting Pot is a real mixer. Not all, yet most faculties are represented in the programme. A like representation is of course also counted on in the audience. This is the first interfaculty entertainment at Varsity, and is a result of the growing desire for the broadening of the student while at College. Some undergraduates it is unfortunate to say, get into a real rut, and never meet people or take in events outside the narrow walls of their own college. The present-day demand is for a wider life and the student who fails to recognise this is making a bad mistake. The Melting Pot furnishes such an opportunity. In fact, it originated in the mind of one of the University professors themselves.

2. Several of the colleges and faculties have temporarily withdrawn their separate college entertainment. The Melting Pot combines all these into one. Each student therefore, should regard The Melting Pot as the concert to which his own college entertainment has been transferred.

RESULTS.

The future is very difficult to look into in these troublous times. One thing, however, which the Y.M.C.A. yearns to see is an annual mixer for the who-letudent body—in other words that this entertainment will establish a precedent. Besides this, the formation of a men's, or a men's and women's, dramatic club, is looked forward to. Such an institution has been unheard of before, or if attempted has failed. The programme of The Melting Pot is almost wholly humorous, but it forms the starting-point for more dramatic work of both a tragic and a comic nature.

PROGRAMME.

This was printed in the last issue of THE VARSITY, but for those who did not per chance see it, it is reprinted in this issue.

1. University College—"Singers of the Sunny South"—Mose and Sambo make their first appearance before an Ontario audience.—Assisted by the 7am-Buk Quartette.
2. F.O.E.—"School Days"—An instructive exemplification of scientific methods of pedagogy.
3. O.S.T.C.—Vocal selection
4. Victoria College—Court scene from Pickwick Papers.
5. Veterinary College—"Operation for appendicitis on a Bow-wow"—
6. University Orchestra—Selection.
7. Medical College and S.P.S.—"The blow-up of Algernon Blow"—He blows sky-high.
8. University Octette—Selection
9. Dental College—"Extraction Clinic in Texas".

Tickets may be procured from your college representative, or college post-office, or from the University College post-office, or from the University "Y," and the following college representatives:

U.C.—F. C. Hastings and H. G. Stapells.
F.O.E.—H. R. Kemp
Victoria—G. C. Denton
Veterinary College—E. I. Miller
Med.—H. G. Clark.
S.P.S.—W. G. Wootton and E. J. Marnham.
Dents R. to Agnew

The tickets are only 25 cents each. Invitations—The "Y" has had an invitation printed in folder-form for every student in the University. This invitation also contains the programme of The Melting Pot for reference. See that you get yours with the copy of THE VARSITY or at your college post-office.

Patronage—Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario has kindly consented to act as patron. Nothing could be a better recommendation. Evidently Sir John Hendrie appreciates the purpose of the entertainment as it fulfils the ideal of the Y.M.C.A.

Proceeds—The funds raised are for the Halifax relief. Charity begins at home. It has now been considered more advisable to give the proceeds to the Halifax relief, which is the most pressing of the moment. The amount of money to be obtained from the entertainment is, of course, uncertain. Instead of charging the usual price of $1.00 or 50 cents, the whole house has been thrown open at 25 cents a seat. The students have been called upon lately to meet many expenses, so it was decided to cut down the price of the tickets to a minimum. Nevertheless, with a full house a considerable sum should be turned over to the Halifax relief fund.

Men, women, professors, of all colleges and faculties—go to The Melting Pot to-morrow night for your own fun and to co-operate in a new University movement.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Lieut. Norman A. Keys, M.C., son of Prof. D. R. Keys, 87 Avenue Road, has returned home from a three months' leave. Lieut. Keys went overseas in June, 1915, with the 3rd Universities Company, and has been three times wounded. For his work around Fresno, where for eight hours he held his objective against heavy odds, he was granted the Military Cross. Lieut. Keys, who is 28 years of age, was a B.A. in Arts from Victoria College in 1910.

Lieut. Hugh McLaughlin, son of J. McLaughlin, K.C., 82 Bedford Road, was another Varsity graduate who came back home on leave. Lieut. McLaughlin went overseas in March, 1916, with Lieut. Col. McCausland's battalion. He has been at the front since June of that year, and was wounded last March. He is a B.A. of University College, 1913.

Capt. George Ewart Wilson, 205 Bloor Street east, who was for the last six months chief surgeon of the Kitchener Military Hospital at Brighton, was among the Toronto officers who have lately returned home on leave. He went overseas with No. 4 University General Hospital and was stationed with that unit at Salonika. Last Christmas he was invalided back to England. Capt. Wilson is an F.R.C.S. of London, England.

TORONTONENSIS.

Representatives are requested to attend the regular business meeting of the Editorial Board to-night at 7.30—85 St. George Street. Business will be followed by a special social feature.

Halifax Child Sufferers' Relief Fund

Help! Help the suffering. Voluntary contributions of money are asked from all the men and women of the University to buy material to make clothing for the child sufferers in Halifax disaster. The use of the work room at the Library Building has been secured for Tuesday and the women who can use machines are requested to help in making up the material. Volunteers are wanted at the Union on Monday evening to cut the garments. Contributions of old clothing will be gratefully received at the Union up till Tuesday noon.

MECHANICAL AND ELECTRICAL CLUB HELD DINNER

Mr. Neilds Gave An Address on Power Economy

Professors Arkley and Price
Also Spoke

The Electrical and Mechanical Club dinner held in the Waverley Hotel on Wednesday evening was a complete success. Nearly all members were present and it was noticeable that they arrived even more promptly than they do at lectures. Dinner began promptly at eight o'clock and was voted excellent. After a toast to the King, the president of the Club, Lieut. Fraser, introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mr. Neilds.

Mr. Neilds is no stranger to School men and was greeted with hearty applause. He came from Manchester University and after some years of travel, settled down with the Toronto Electric Company, where he is at present a very prominent engineer. Mr. Neilds' address on "O.C. Feeder Systems" was given on a "Power Economy" basis, rather than on technical or constructional lines. He touched on overhead distribution as compared to underground, pointing to the difficulties in each system. The nucleus of his address might be summed up in two words he often used—economic area.

"The keynote," said Mr. Neilds, "is economy on production losses. Obtain maximum results with least expense." He went on to show that capital, to meet the interest on the Victory Loan, would be made largely out of "engineering economy", and urged everyone to realise their responsibility in this work. Water-powers, should be extended, and coal conserved for use as auxiliary power. Feeder systems would be run economically. Do not try to heat the city streets by running lines to too-distant customers—it doesn't pay! Then he proceeded to enumerate many of the minor details which produce power losses, and how these might be rectified. Also he showed where a great field of study lies for men in devising methods of picking up a network quickly and cheaply. In closing, Mr. Neilds expressed his happiness in meeting the students once more. Mr. Sine then favored the crowd with a piano solo, after which Prof. Arkley began his talk on "Industrial Research".

It was evident from the start that Prof. Arkley knew what he was talking about. His address took the form of demonstrating the real engine, an invention of his own research, designed to develop thousands of horse-power from waste gas. In the design of this engine, Prof. Arkley acknowledged his indebtedness to ex-Prof. Hot-Air Regalgen of this University, who had spent much time assisting in the design and incidentally gave part of his name to the new machine. Prof. Arkley had a life-size model of the machine set up on a nice box before him as he spoke, and he proceeded to demonstrate several "power curves" from various "gas producers". This wonderful machine is so designed that it will work when set up in an open window—thus permitting of free exhaust outside. A power curve for each hour is drawn by an automatic photographic recorder attached to the machine. Every one present agreed that it was one of the seven wonders of the world, if not indeed in a class altogether

MR. MOURÉ WILL GIVE RECITAL TO MORROW

The fifth and last organ recital of the term will be given by Mr. F. A. Mouré on Tuesday, December 11th at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall. The programme is as follows:

1. Samuel Sebastian Wesley (1810-1876). "Choral Song and Fugue"
2. Peter Ilyich Tchaikowski (1840-1893). "Adagio lamentoso"
3. Alphonse Maillly (1833—). Sonata in D minor.
4. (a) A. M. Goodhart, Study upon a Cipher. (b) Jacques Offenbach (1819-1880). Barcarolle.
5. Leon Boellmann (1862-1897). Finale (Second Suite).

These recitals will be resumed on Tuesday, January 15th.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY UNIVERSITY COLLEGE BAND

The following officers have been elected by the University College Student Volunteer Band.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING.

Monday evening, December 10th, the Modern Language Club will hold a "French meeting" at the home of Miss Edna Mitchell, 614 Avenue Road. Papers, charades and music form a very excellent programme, which has been carefully prepared by the executive.

PRINCIPAL HUTTON WILL ADDRESS CLASSICAL ASS'N.

Tuesday evening, December 11 at 8 p.m., the Classical Association will meet in the Union. Principal Hutton has very kindly consented to give an address which will be very instructive.

by itself. At the close of his speech, Prof. Arkley gave a practical demonstration of how the engine worked when hot air was applied and the electric brake released.

Prof. Price's address on "Lightning" was extremely interesting. He told simply and briefly how lightning and lightning arresters act. In speaking of the nature of electricity in the air, he mentioned an interesting experience he had with the wireless aerial that stretches between the School and the tower of the Main Building, and during a heavy snowstorm this wire was observed to give a spark one and half inches long, about every fifteen seconds, showing the great quantity of electricity which the snow flakes were carrying down on them. Prof. Price illustrated his address with many fine slides, showing the construction of various types of lightning arresters, use on powers transmission lines.

REV. W. H. SEDGEWICK DELIVERED A VERY INTERESTING SERMON

Took for His Text the Parable of the Good Samaritan

Piety and Humanity Cannot be Separated in True Christianity

C. O. T. C.

The C.O.T.C. band situation has finally become straightened out. Acting upon orders issued in Friday's issue of THE VARSITY, the men of the band assembled before the door of the Orderly Room Mining Building. Sergeant-Major Hunt lined the boys up for a few minutes, after which they marched over to the "Y" building. Lieut. Slatter then placed the men in their respective band positions, and called upon them to sound the opening note of "O Canada". After an hour of hard work the men were dismissed and another drill period was over. All men who are not already uniformed must procure their uniforms through their different faculties. All men now have been provided with instruments, but any who wish to join should do so at once, as few instruments are available. Any so desiring should see Mr. King at Room 7, Mining Building, at once. Lieut. Slatter has said that he would like to have a band of between 30 and 40 men. At present about 25 are on the roll. The brass section of the band is fairly strong, particularly so in cornets. However, there are still good opportunities for any flute players, or players of other reed instruments. The band practice two evenings a week, falling in at 4.10 at the Orderly Room door and doing squad drill for 20 minutes or so. It then repairs to the "Y" for practice. Next Tuesday is the last practice before Christmas.

PROMOTION.

Class 4—Dentals—To be colour-sergt. —Sergeant G. O. Stewart.

PARADES.

Owing to the Christmas vacation, parades will be discontinued after Thursday, December 13, and will be resumed on Monday, January 7th.

ATTENDANCE.

Officers in charge of classes will, not later than Saturday, December 15, supply the Adjutant with a complete roll of the men under their command, with a statement of attendance, at drills, and such other information asked for in the memorandum sent to them by the O.C. on December 1.

BAND.

Members of the band will be placed in a separate squad, which will parade at the C.O.T.C. Orderly Room (basement of Mining Building) at 4.10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays, under Sergt-Major Hunt, who will hand them over for instruction to Lieut. Slatter, Brigade Bandmaster. The attendance on these days will be reported to the Adjutant and will be accepted in lieu of attendance at the drill classes.

BADGES.

It has been brought to the attention of the Officer Commanding, that some members of the Corps are not wearing the cap and collar badges required by the regulations. Officers in charge of classes will, at the next parade, warn these men and instruct them to obtain badges at the Q.M.'s Stores (Mining Building) without further delay.

T. A. REED, Lieut.,
For Adj. U. of T., C.O.T.C.

ANGLICAN CLUB MEETING.

The Anglican Club will hold a meeting, Tuesday afternoon, December 11, at the Deaconess Home, 170 Gerrard Street at 4 p.m. Mrs. J. Thomas will address the Club.

"God and one man can make a religion but it takes God and two men to make Christianity". This was the striking introduction of the sermon delivered by the Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, of Hamilton in Convocation Hall, Sunday morning. The text was taken from the tenth chapter of Luke—the Parable of the Good Samaritan. In an able and interesting manner, Mr. Sedgewick discussed piety and humanity, with regard to their relations to each other and effect upon mankind.

"Piety and humanity cannot be separated in true Christianity, but time without number they have been divorced. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, men forgot humanity, and exalted piety, and did not think inhumanity inconsistent with Christianity. The Inquisition was established in Spain in the service of God; pious men engaged in the slave trade; and other things we now see to be contradictory, occurred. On the other hand, at the present time we seem to have humanity, but with little piety."

A new religious sentiment, based on the teachings of Jesus is gradually spreading. This is the age of humanitarianism. Never before has there been such enthusiasm for the service of man. At first sight the present war would seem to indicate this, but it actually proves the statement. The war itself is being fought in defence of mankind, and in connection with the relief of war sufferers and the treatment of wounded show that it is really the most humane war in history. All the great humanitarian organizations of the world are products of the past century, yet piety does not characterize the age.

If I must choose, I prefer the 20th century, which establishes hospitals and charities, to the 10th century, which maintained an inquisition; the age which fights for democracy to that which enslaved weaker peoples. But why choose? Piety and humanity go together and what God had joined, man cannot with impunity tear asunder."

As an illustration, Mr. Sedgewick gave the views of a pronounced humanitarian, who has just returned from a visit to the front. "Faith," said he, "is the only panacea for human woes. I am convinced that in that tempest of human strife, God contrives the whirlwind and rules the storm. Without faith it is impossible to understand and anything which shuts out God leaves everything unexplained."

"The astronomers who look away from our planet are best able to understand it, and are thus of great service to the world, in the prediction of weather, making calendars and in calculating time. In the same way one who looks away from life may be able to understand it best and attain the highest ideals. But we need piety for the fulfilment of human duty and accomplishment of human task, and the highest duty of life is service."

Liberty means the voluntary obedience to self enforced law, but it must be accompanied by brotherhood—regard for the rights of others. It is not enough to make the world safe for democracy, but to make democracy safe for the world.

We shall never have a kingdom of righteousness and justice, unless it is infused with the spirit of humanity, the fashion of the day and with the spirit of piety which is the fashion of eternity."

FRUIT PICKERS' CONCERT DEC. 12 CONVOCATION HALL

On Wednesday evening, December 12, the Fruit Pickers' of University College, St. Hilda's and Victoria will give a musical and educational programme at Convocation Hall, on some of their work during the past summer. Addresses will be given by Mr. W. A. Riddell, Superintendent of the Trades and Labour Branch, and also by Lady Falconer.

Those who would care to know how their fruit was picked last summer, come and see the fun! Parodies, witty dialogues, moving pictures.

CRITICISM

Orthodox articles on "Criticism" generally begin by stating that there are two kinds of criticism—destructive and constructive. The destructive kind is taken up first and always deplored—and then after a formidable array of "howevers", "moreovers" and "in additions", the conclusion is reached that constructive criticism is the better of the two; and the only kind which should be used. Usually, however, in the heat of this comparison, the duty of telling critics that they should be well informed on whatever subject or object they criticize is neglected. Unfortunately this side of the matter is more often than not left to the nebula of assumption.

That this assumption, in the case of University students, is not always founded on fact, becomes evident when criticism made by members of this University in regard to the University and student institutions are taken into account. In moving about among the student body one hears criticism, against everything and everybody in connection with the University—criticism which frequently does not take into account the true facts of the point at issue. A considerable amount of the criticism which appears in print is also open to the same objection. Last, but not least, THE VARSITY sometimes has received letters, complaining in loud terms about this or that, which have shown an absolute lack of knowledge of the matter in question.

This is a state of affairs which ought not to exist in any place much less a University. We are often told that one of the main purposes of a University course is to engender in the student a desire to seek the truth—and the truth only—in regard to any or all subjects. We students would do well to put this teaching, not only in regard to the University, but also in connection with all matters, into practice. Let us remember that there are influences coming from the past which determine to a great extent the condition of things in the present. Let us also remember that the present condition of things is frequently only temporary, made with an eye to the future, and to be changed after the pressure of actual experience has shown any defects. Accordingly when we wish to criticise, let us keep in mind these facts, and endeavour also to obtain all possible information which has anything to do with the subject of the criticism. When an honest effort is made to do this and when our arguments are advanced in a moderate manner, then, and then only, will our opinions carry any great weight.

COLLEGE JOURNALISM

"College journalism is one of the unappreciated arts. And yet it is more than passing strange that it should be, for, as a means of preparation for the future of any student, its equal is difficult to discover among the various activities of college life.

In no matter what branch of business or professional life the college graduate finds himself, he is obliged to have ideas and to express them on paper at times. Because he is a college man, he is supposed to think intelligently and, by the same token, he is expected to possess the ability to express his ideas lucidly and accurately.

English courses in the curriculum of every University are designed to furnish the required training along these lines. But it is recognised by every teacher of English that one of the most serious weaknesses of present day training in composition is the lack of a definite aim of the student in his writing, and a corresponding lack of interest on his part in doing work that has no real purpose.

To report actual events for publication in a school paper gives the student both material and purpose; and there is no branch of writing that demands more excellent practice in the co-ordination of ideas and rapidity and clearness of observation.

The desire to write well is incipient in every college student. Nothing is more amusing than to see a writer wrap himself in a maze of words from which it is more difficult to extract the meaning than it is to "squeeze blood from a turnip." Nothing excites more admiration than a business or social letter that is couched in clear, flowing English. Yet many of us content ourselves with a 'hit and miss' method of writing on the grounds that we are not possessed of that spark of genius that enables us to put our thoughts on paper.

It is the aim of a college paper to entertain, to furnish news, and last, but by no means least, to serve as a means for the development of literary ability among its contributors."—The Mississippiian.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

THE SNOWBIRD

Christmas comes but once a year (personally, we would like it a little oftener). Eleven months having elapsed since the last universal celebration of this nature, and Indian summer, having duly passed peacefully away, instinct and intellect leads us to believe that Christmas is about due again. We were made absolutely sure of it by the following and crave your kind indulgence and ear whilst we relate. The other day, while selling Victory Bonds, we called at a certain house and inquired for Mrs. Whoosis and were informed that she was down town. The natural question which immediately presented itself to our analytical mind was—"What was she doing down town?" Amateur third degree tactics finally brought forth the startling information that she had taken the children down town to show them Santa Claus (we would mention where, but far be it from us to shew preference to advertisers). On hearing this we were more than certain that Christmas was indeed upon us. It flashed into our mind to take some fair, anonymous 'rebels' down to see Santa ourselves. What indeed could give us greater pleasure, than explaining to the little dears how Santa came to be in the city ahead of schedule and behind his reindeers, and quieting the qualms of incertitude which might be beginning to seek into their awakening intelligences regarding the authenticity of the whiskers of the individual in question. However, one hopeful might raise an interrogation as to the domiciliary abode of Santa's better-half. When this horrible thought assailed us, we decided to forego the sweet comradeship of their innocence, for out of the mouths of babes come questions which even the exchange editor can not answer.

We strongly advise the noble spirit of give and take for the Christmas season, but mostly the latter. We will take anything we can get our hands on. In fact in order to facilitate the free and open generous spirit of spontaneous giving we are going to prepare an itemized list of useful articles, helpful hints so to speak, which will be posted in all conspicuous places. To eliminate confusion and the needless expense of duplication, we would suggest the total obliteration on the list of the articles of your choice. As a special consideration and peace offering for the business manager, we have so arranged this list that all the little remembrances may be purchased from our advertisers. The good in this is ever you, foolish reader, can dream of, because you are indirectly benefiting each and every one of the 2,438, we won't say student, at the University, of issue of the current year.

But passing from the sublime to the ridiculous, we reiterate Christmas will soon be here, so do your Christmas shopping early and often, keep to the right and carry small parcels.

A NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Mr. Arthur Livingston, arguing the cause of "Academic Freedom" in The New Republic of November 17, declares that "the hope of higher education lies—not in the initiative or tolerance of a terrified fundamental system—but in a National university, founded on the model of the Supreme Court independent of wealthy donors and their designated successors, independent also of the Congressional majority, created by the wealth of the whole people, with professors elected by the democracy of experts in their respective subjects, presided over, in administrative matters, by the President of the United States, endowed with life tenure on the same conditions as Supreme Court justices. Such a university, with its integrity thus guaranteed, would not be a refuge for radicalism, to be sure; but it might occasionally ensure a livelihood to an accidental genius developing late in life. Generously sustained by the people it would put the sicklier foundations out of business and make the stronger ones live up, not to the ideas of deceased grocers interpreted by pecunious respectables still undecided, but to the standards set by the best scholars, working, thinking and writing in safe and, secure environments. When the world has been made safe for democracy, cannot this great Republic find a few hundred acres of land near Washington for a free and democratic university? We shall need neither guns nor battleships in the era of peace that present conception is to win for us. We can find it with a Liberty Loan to education and sustain it for an insignificant fraction of the average military budget."

The great difficulty with Mr. Livingston's utopian idea is that it is too much so. A National university is about

Other Colleges

Ohio—Fraternity representatives at Ohio State university followed the example of the student council by voting unanimously to abolish formal social affairs.

Wisconsin—The university has taken steps to eliminate peanut politics. Students campaigning for votes will be called before the student council.

Oberlin—Women at the university have a special stand reserved for them at football games this season. They also have a special cheer leader.

as far from the American consciousness as a Federal Poetry Council or a National Prize for Excellence in Public Speaking. The American people are not ready for the conception of a National university, neither would they be willing to contribute their money to its upkeep. For them such an institution is far from necessary; public ownership of the Colorado coal mine, governmental control of some of the corporate railroads, state care of the poor and widowed—these are some of the things which public considers more necessary for progressive American life. And that same public would vehemently declare that the only hope of higher education does not lie in a National university, but rather in an efficient reorganization of present educational systems. Mr. Livingston would remedy the situation with one fell swoop. The American public would see the improvement come in inexpensive stages.

Moreover, Mr. Livingston's "expose", as the journalists would say, of his great idea came quite surprisingly at the close of his very solid article. That great idea was not warranted by what had gone before. For he cited particularly the European universities in his argument against the American educational institution, knowing full well that in no one of the European states is there a National university. And hence, when Mr. Livingston declares that the hope for higher education in America lies in a National university, he forgets that it is not the only hope. There is also a hope in the reconstruction of the educational system now in force and particularly of the status of state universities. State universities should be living representatives of what a National university might possibly be; the University of Utah should be prevented from being established as practically a church institution where free discussion of religion is barred, and the University of Illinois should be prevented from a panic-stricken attitude toward free discussion of political matters.

This National university of Mr. Livingston might well succeed without a "few hundred acres of land near Washington". It could be incorporated in spirit in the state universities. And this hope for higher education is not "in the initiative or tolerance of a terrified foundational system."

VICTORIA WOMEN ARE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS Methodists Beat St. Hilda's

Victoria holds the women's basketball championship this year as the result of a well-matched game between Victoria and St. Hilda's on Saturday evening.

In spite of the snow storm, and the consequent irregularity of the car service, the Victoria team and a faithful crowd of enthusiasts managed to struggle up to Trinity after St. Hilda's had almost given up all hope of their arrival. The game started rather late, but with an undampened determination to win on the part of both teams. Every available atom of space on the shelf and ladders and even the beams of Trinity gym was occupied with rooters and the excitement ran high.

During the first half the Victoria forwards did some splendid shooting so that the half ended with the score 21-1 in favor of Victoria. In the second half, however, St. Hilda's certainly played the better game and managed to tie the score one minute before time was up. Nevertheless, before the whistle blew, Victoria scored one more basket, making a very dramatic climax. Final score, 26-24.

The game was the fastest in the series, and was well held down throughout by the referee, Mr. Buscombe. There still remains a game to be played off between St. Hilda's and University College early this week, but the game between Victoria and St. Hilda's decided the championship.

Victoria—Misses B. Flanders, J. O. Smith, F. Snider, C. A. Kilborn, J. Edgington and C. E. Kilborn.

St. Hilda's—Misses A. Boyd, M. Ewart, D. Whittier, M. Harroon, N. Elliott and J. Leonard.

CENTRE HOUSE DEFEATS WEST

By defeating West House last Thursday night Centre House are winners in the inter-house basketball matches at Knox College. With only five minutes more to play, and West four points ahead, Centre made a spectacular finish, netting enough to win. Final score, 18-19.

The first half of the game was not well contested. Rose secured three baskets for Centre within a few minutes, and Stokes added another one before West got going. The West line then held Centre scoreless for the rest of the half and Henry and Hodges notched four baskets and a foul.

A good brand of basketball was exhibited in the last half. Both sides checked well. Cook was the first to score. Bole got the range and put one in for Centre. Gradually West drew away and looked to have the game tucked away, but Stokes and Rose sprung a surprise. By some fast combination work, Stokes scored two field shots and Rose netted the one that broke the tie.

Stokes, during the game had his eye badly cut.

West—Hodges, Henry, Cook, McPherson, Kilborn.

Centre—Rose, Stokes, Bole, Anderson, McGowan.

VICTORIA DEFEATS KNOX

Last Friday Victoria defeated a Knox basketball quintette in a closely contested game. Plenty of speed and pep was displayed by both sides. Vic played much better combination, but it was broken up by the strong Knox defence. The strong right arm of "Cap" Cook prevented Vic from making a larger score.

It was several minutes in the first half before either side scored, then Mootie dropped one in for Victoria. Mootie added a couple within a few minutes of each other. Heavy of Knox discovered and were going strong when the whistle blew half time. Score 6-6.

The last half was fast and scrappy. Mootie made a fine shot some distance out from the basket, putting Vice ahead once more. Mutart scored soon after. Knox developed much better combination as the game progressed. Parker started the scoring for Knox by dropping one in the basket. Vic scored on a foul. Each side netted another before full time.

Mootie was easily the star of the game but was well checked by Henry.

Knox—Parker, Stokes, Henry, Cook, Douglas.

Vic—Mutart, Mootie, Frid, Gordon.

MICHIGAN PLANS HOME FOR THEIR SOLDIER BOYS.

That the women "back home" are playing a higher role in the thoughts and affections of the University men fighting in France than they ever did in America, is the statement made by former Prof. C. B. Vibbert, now in France, in his appeal to the collegiate alumnae to aid in the equipping of a lounging room for Michigan men in the American University Union in France. This room will be known as the "Collegiate Alumnae Room."

NO OBJECTION POSSIBLE. No possible objection can be attached to this project either in France or in America, according to Professor Vibbert, since the work in Paris of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is supported by one woman. The consensus of opinion of the Michigan men in France regarding this proposed work of the alumnae is that it would be appreciated highly as an evidence of interest and good will put forth by Michigan university women.

EXPENSE WILL BE HIGH. To maintain this "Collegiate Alumnae room" it will cost the association about 6022.50 francs a year, or 6.50 francs a day. Should the present value of the French franc continue at the low level of 17.31 cents on the exchange, the contribution of the alumnae will have to amount to $1,042.50 a year.

The Michigan branch of the University Union is desirous of maintaining a large lounging room, such as the men are accustomed to in clubs or fraternities. It also wishes to have a number of newspapers and magazines with perhaps good sketching or reproduction of some kind on the walls.

WILL BE MICHIGAN HOME. In summing up his appeal to the women of Michigan, Prof. Vibbert says, "I am already beginning to realize what a strain it puts upon a man, even a man who has had some experience in knocking about the world, to be suddenly transformed from the easy-going routine of civil life to the rigors of a military regime, to be transported 4,000 miles across the sea to a country whose geography and climate are new to him, whose language he does not speak and where he has no home to which he can go for even a short respite. Such a 'home' I shall attempt to make the 'Collegiate Alumnae room' for our Michigan men."

A Street Car Discussion

When passing our store in a street car, two men were overheard discussing the Ryrie Bros. business. The one remarked that since he "had never been in a position to buy anything very important in the jewelry line, he had never been in our store."

The other replied, "Do you know, I felt that way myself once, until I dropped in with a fellow one day, and found they had just about as many little odds and ends as a 10c. store, and mighty classy too; now no matter how trifling a thing I want, I never think of looking anywhere else for it."

Now that man knew what he was talking about, and if you will just try it out this Christmas you'll tell the same story.

We're ready for the man who can talk in the hundreds and thousands of dollars, but for little gifts for man, woman and child, between 25c. and $5.00, no place in the Dominion can touch us. RINK OPENED.

A great change has taken place at the soccer field at Vic. It is now converted into skating rink with two hockey cushions and plenty of other ice for skating. It was open to the public for the first time this season on Friday night and a goodly number assembled to enjoy themselves in our greatest Canadian winter sport.

The debating society held a very successful meeting on Thursday afternoon at 4.30 p.m. As the meeting was somewhat late in starting the usual opening entertainment was dispensed with and the debate proceeded. The subject was—"Resolved that capital punishment should be abolished". Several strong points were brought forward by both sides and some excellent views on the subject were unfolded by the debaters. After the debaters had finished, the critic's report was received. It consisted of friendly and well-measured criticism of the style and manner of delivery of the debaters. While the judges retired to consider the arguments, those present enjoyed a well-rendered violin solo by Mr. Roseborough, 271. The decision was given in favour of the affirmative on the ground that they brought forward more points, some of which were exceptionally well proved. It is hoped that more will join the society in the near future as it both is entertaining and helpful.

M. AND E. CLUB

Good music was given between speeches by Messrs. Duff, Orr and Sine.

The last address was given by Mr. MacLachlan, who spoke at the University Y.M.C.A. reception to Science men this fall. His address on the "Human Element in Engineering", was at once a revelation and an inspiration. He showed that the real engineer of to-day is the one who can control and direct men as well as the forces of nature. He emphasized the great need of such leaders during and after the present war, and urged the men to be more than mere walking encyclopedias of knowledge. "The University does not produce engineers; it is the Grindstone, where the Tool is so sharpened that it can do the work arising in life." Furthermore, he advised that a man be as perfect as possible in whatever capacity he is working—be it only a junior position or as a consulting engineer. "Executive ability—or the art of handling men; that is what money is paid for," said Mr. MacLachlan. He urged that engineers be loyal to their employers and to learn to respect the knowledge of men of other professions.

The speakers dealt with the various phases of an engineer's life—as an employer, a soldier, and a citizen. He urged employers to become interested actively in "welfare work," to which the term "safety-first" has been somewhat improperly applied. As a soldier the engineer is one of the most important factors in the successful prosecution of the war. He spoke at some length on the duties of an engineer as a citizen. He urged that they take a more active part in the governing of our country; that they assist actively and judiciously in the solving of the problems between capital and labour. No one hearing Mr. MacLachlan could help being impressed with the great field of opportunity which he showed to be spreading out before every engineer. In closing he quoted the last few lines of Kipling's "If"—

Messrs. McLeod and Duff moved a hearty vote of thanks of the speakers and the dinner broke up by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and giving three hearty yells.

THE "MELTING POT" CAPTIVATES AN APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

Varied Talent of University Appear in Convocation Hall

Last night the 'Melting Pot,' the inter-faculty entertainment arranged by the University Y.M.C.A. was presented before an appreciative and representative audience. This is the first pan-University concert, and forms the starting point of a series of the entertainments to be presented annually. Its purpose is to unite the different colleges and faculties in a common organization, to stimulate dramatic work on the part of the men-students, and incidentally to raise funds for the Halifax fund.

During the course of the evening it was announced that Victoria had found it impossible to present its skit, the courtroom scene from Picwick Papers. However, that college was still represented, assisting University College in the latter's minstrel. Since one of their men had to leave the city suddenly, Veterinary College also had to withdraw their stunt at the last moment. Nevertheless there was a full program. The first item was the University orchestra, which rendered several pleasing selections.

The Minstrel Show put on by University College followed—"Singers of the Sunny South" as it was styled. Mose and Sambo (H. G. Stapells and F. C. Hastings) were very amusing. The Zambuk quartette also sang a couple of songs in true minstrel fashion.

Faculty of Education followed with "School-Days," a typical class-room scene of the backwoods school showed young school-children frolic to their hearts' content at school at the time of the inspector's annual visit.

The University Octette, a new organization, under the leadership of Martindale, B.A., sang Kipling's "Hymn Before Action".

The Dental College, with their "Extraction Clinic in Texas," was good. It took some ten surgeons to extract the tooth of one young unfortunate school-boy.

Medical College and Applied Science put on a play, "The Blow-up of Algernon Blow". Blow was a young braggart, more common at the University before the war. His college mates decided to "un-blow" him in a novel manner. He is scheduled to a gladiatorial combat with Jones, a timid book-worm. At the last moment, however, Blow's perpetual pall leaves him and he backs out of the combat, craving mercy, and promising never to blow again.

WISCONSIN STUDENTS RESENT ACCUSATION

By declaring in a public address that University of Wisconsin students appear to lack patriotic leadership and do not show the "militant patriotism" that is fitting at this time, Carl S. Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, has brought out protests from students and faculty and demands that the university's answer to the call of war be set beside that of any other state university for comparison.

Mr. Vrooman addressed a mass meeting of students in the university armory in the afternoon, and declared that the students "were less responsive than any audience I have talked to before." The students reply in their daily newspaper that at the same mass meeting, after Mr. Vrooman's address, $7000 was subscribed to the Y.M.C.A. war fund.

The Daily Cardinal, student newspaper, replying in an editorial, pointed out that $190,000 was subscribed on the campus in the Second Liberty Loan campaign, that the university over-subscribed its quota of the Y.M.C.A. war fund, that over 500 students are in military service, another 500 are in other war service, and that practically every student organization is working hard to make easier and more pleasant the military life of soldiers in the camps.

BOTANICAL SEMINAR HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Miss J. G. Wright Speaks on "Problems of Plant Distribution"

"De Candolle and Problems of Plant Distribution," proved to be a thoroughly interesting and well prepared subject as presented by Miss Wright at the last meeting of the Botanical Seminar.

Alphonse de Candolle was born in 1810, the son of the illustrious Professor of Botany of Geneva. His early education led him to the study of law, but he later applied himself to botany and succeeded his father as Professor of Botany and Director of the Botanical Gardens of Geneva. His father had made a study of European plants, Humboldt had described the flora of the new world, and many other descriptive treatises of plant distribution were in existence. The younger de Candolle followed these with the first text on plant geography, the "Géographie Botanique Raisonnée" which included not only the mapping out of the earth's surface into regions and areas of vegetation, but also the tracing the causes which had brought them about and led to their restriction and mutual relations.

You understand, de Candolle was thoroughly scientific. If the plant distributions could not be explained by the then present formation and climatic conditions of the earth, he sought an explanation in factors of the geological development of the earth. He thus used the knowledge of the allied sciences and by his analytical methods succeeded in raising plant geography to the plane of these.

The paper was followed by a discussion, led by Dr. Faull and Dr. Howe, of the present trend of plant geography studies, and of the application of the knowledge of the subject to the solution of economic problems. Such problems as those of sand dune formations along Lakes Erie and Michigan, and in Eastern Ontario, and of the reforestation of waste lands will be solved as a result of researches in this important field.

Indeed, a few years ago, Professor Cowles of Chicago University was called upon by the United States Department of Justice, to act as ecological expert in some government cases in Arkansas. Certain areas along the Mississippi River had in the original surveys in 1847 been marked out as lake areas. At the present time these areas are grown over with heavy timber of great value; the land is very fertile and would be excellent for corn and cotton crops. But as it is termed 'lake' land, it cannot be homesteaded and farmed. Now, a lumber interest looked with envy on the wonderful timber, purchased riparian rights from the adjacent land owners and began to cut the timber. The U.S. Government entered suit against them on the grounds that the original survey was fraudulent, and that their riparian rights were invalid. The problem was this: Was it a lake covered with water in 1847? Dr. Cowles studied the age of the trees and found them to be hundreds of years old, and from careful studies of plant formations and successions in that part of the country, claimed that such timber trees did not thrive in water, and could not belong to the plant succession characteristic of drained lake regions. Therefore he concluded that even a thousand years ago these so-called lakes must have been land. In spite of the fact that some of the inhabitants testified to having seen the lakes, the conclusion was that "it is safer to believe a tree than a man"; and the Government won the case.

WOMEN WORK WELL FOR THE HALIFAX CHILD SUFFERERS

All Articles Will Be Finished and Sent To-day

Notwithstanding the fact that University students have, during the past fall, almost continuously been called upon for contributions of time and money for charitable purposes the response to the hurried appeal of the Halifax child sufferers has been most gratifying. For the past two days donations of money and articles of apparel have furnished the women of the University with ground work for their enterprise. Tuesday was devoted entirely to the making of children's garments, the material for which was bought with the voluntary donations. A continuous stream of women poured into the work room of the Library yesterday, never less than a hundred being present. Rompers, jackets, dresses and all other necessary articles were made. The work will be finished by noon to-day and the articles immediately sent to Halifax.

The response in this matter has been most gratifying and it may possibly furnish an incentive for an organized Red Cross Association composed of University women. Doubtless on account of the proximity of the Halifax disaster the women have realized more clearly the necessity of work of this kind. The purpose of the Red Cross work is of a similar nature only many times magnified and should excite the same enthusiasm.

Victoria

Doubtless a look of surprise passed over the faces of the former graduates and professors of Victoria College as they, from their places on the walls, noticed the members of the U.L.S. and W.L.S. taking their places together before their eyes. One can scarcely imagine that it was altogether a surprise to all, as some must have had their ears open while the joint cabinet was holding its meeting a few days ago and it must have been the subject of considerable gossip and speculation in some of the class groups during the day which have followed. However, they are never seen to be absent from their own 'clique' and as they have never been heard to speak out loud, it is quite impossible that the news could have spread far. If all that is said regarding professors be correct, they, at least, would have been too busily occupied to even have suspected what was about to take place.

As the lights flashed on, there was a general stir as everyone gave his neighbour the wink to sit up and look wise, that being a law which must not be broken while there is any danger of the rising generation casting an eye upon them. As a few girls wandered into the room and sat with their backs turned, one of the earliest lady graduates whispered to her neighbour, "My, I always feel so relieved when the girls appear in their gowns. I do detest those present-day dresses, they are far too—". But the sentence was not completed for, just then, in came several, men and those on the walls were forced to silence for fear of being overheard or seen stirring.

It would take too long to describe the expressions which passed over the faces of the wall-inhabitants for the next two hours, as seen by a close observer, so varied were the looks of surprise, dismay, amusement and pleasure. It was not till the next day, when the buzz of the many voices had subsided, and the ladies were taking their afternoon nap, that two of the professors, having waited long for a chance to speak in peace, started up the following conversation—"Do you know, my friend, I am often glad when I think of how patiently I can wait for these gossippers to get through with their chat. I suppose I owe it to my long training in the lecture room." "Yes, indeed, I did not always think thus, but I quite agree with you."

VICTORIA DRAMATIC CLUB HOLD SUCCESSFUL EVENING

Many Delightful Readings from "Twelfth Night" Scenes

The meeting of the Victoria Women's Dramatic Club held at Victoria Union on Monday evening was a decided success in spite of the rivalry of the rink.

The feature of the evening was the reading of selected scenes from "Twelfth Night" by members of the Society. The parts were assigned only two days before so very little practice was possible. As a surprise the girls appeared in impromptu costumes which added greatly to the fun and effectiveness of the performance. They all did very well indeed. Elizabeth Fisher as Malvolio was particularly good. The two worthy knights, Sir Toby and Andrew with their good friend Feste, the clown, also deserve special mention, while "Viola" made such a pretty boy that we could not wonder at Olivia's falling in love with her. The reading was very kindly directed throughout by Professor Edgar.

A song by Miss Alta-Lind Cook, a violin solo by Miss Ruth Lawson, and the meeting closed with the singing of "My Father sent me to Victoria".

The cast was as follows:

The Duke..	Miss R. Fellows.
Sebastian	Miss M. Davis.
Antonio	Miss Hazel Carley
Fabian and Curio	Miss H. Stewart.
Sir Toby Belch	Miss M. Deeves
Sir Andrew Aguecheek	Miss D. Duggan
Malvolio	Miss E. Fisher
Feste, the clown	Miss E. Galloway.
Olivia...	Miss Mary Marshall
Viola...	Miss Jean Hutt.
Maria	Miss F. Snider.

SCHOOL AGAIN WINS INTER-COLLEGE DEBATE

A very interesting debate was held in Victoria College on Monday night between S.P.S. and Victoria. The subject was "Resolved that a monarchical form of government better secures the well-being of a people than does a republican form of government." After much discussion as to proper definition of the subject, the judges awarded the decision to the negative.

The debaters were A. Mone, B.A. and W. J. Little, B.A., (Victoria) for the affirmative; and R. A. Hamer, M.A. and W. J. Browne, S.P.S. for the negative.

'VARSITY RINK OPENS TO-NIGHT OR THURSDAY

Conditions are Ideal for Prosperous Season—Modern Improve- ments Installed

The rink is almost ready for skating and should open this evening or Thursday if favorable weather conditions continue, the blizzard of Saturday last delaying the preparations somewhat. The skating course has been enlarged this year and larger lamps, 750-watt nitrogens, installed for the hockey cushions, while the steam heating plant has been extended to include the whole of the Stadium. The buffet lunch counter, which was inaugurated last year and which proved such a success, will again be in charge of Miss Sutton of the Diet Kitchen.

Hockey clubs desiring hours should make early application and secure the special rates for tickets offered by the management. Every attention is paid to the comfort and convenience of the patrons and the accommodation is superior to that of any of the city rinks. It is essentially the Students' Rink and should be patronized by all Varsity students, for whom there are specially reduced rates. There is no war tax to be charged this year. The inter-faculty hockey games are played at the Stadium, both of the men and the women students.

MULOCK CUP EXECUTIVE.

There will be a final meeting of the Mulock Cup executive this afternoon at 5 p.m. All members will kindly be present as business is urgent.

Varsity Staff Notice.

Staff pictures may be obtained on Thursday after 11 o'clock in either rooms 1 or L.

Varsity's Roll OF HONOUR

Capt. Carleton Main Clement, who has been missing since last September, is now reported to have been killed in action. He qualified as a captain in the British Columbia Horse, but threw up his commission in order to get overseas, joining the 47th Battalion as a private. He left Canada in June 1915, and subsequently transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. From a lieutenant he was promoted captain and flight-commander, and in July, 1917, was awarded the Croix de Guerre. Capt. Clement attended Victoria College from 1912 to 1914. His father the Hon. Mr. Justice Clement lives in Vancouver.

Sapper Aubrey Thomas McFadden Victoria College, 1917, has died of wounds. He enlisted as a sapper with the Divisional Signallers. His home is in Penetanguishene.

A memorial service has been held for Lieut. Robert Edward Taylor, at his home in Woodlee, who has previously been reported missing after an air battle east of Arras last September. He was an Applied Science student of the Class of 1917.

Missing.

Lieut. C. E. Ogden, University College, 1914, is missing. He enlisted as a private with a Q.O.R. first contingent battalion, and while serving with that unit was awarded the Military Medal in November, 1916. He afterwards transferred to the R.F.C., being granted his commission. His home is in Toronto.

Appointment.

Major William Bethune of Hamilton has been appointed M.O. of the Central Military Convalescent Hospital. He enlisted with No 2 General Hospital, but from November 1914 to March 1915 was in France attached to the 13th British General Hospital. From March 1916 till May of this year he was president of the Travelling Medical Board in England for Canadians, when he was invalided to Canada. He was a graduate in Medicine of 1907.

VIC. FRESHMEN LOSE TO SENIOR TEAM, 16-14

In a game played last night in the College gym, the College defeated the freshmen team by a score of 16-14. The game started a little after eight, with a number of St. Hilda's and men as rooters and spectators.

In the first half the Seniors played the better basketball, making the score 11-6 in their favour by half-time. In the second half the freshmen showed a little more life—perhaps brought about by a faint vision of the cup—and played a better game; but they were unable to overtake the lead gained by the Seniors.

The brand of basketball played in the first half was fairly good, but in the second half owing to too much speed and an over desire to win, it deteriorated into a game of soccer.

For the Seniors, P. Lowe played by far the best game; while D. A. Martin shone for the freshmen.

Seniors—Patterson, Keene, Clark, Lowe, and Oxon.
Freshmen—Gossage, Martin, Warner, Ramsey and C. Martin.

RETURNED VARSITY MEN MEET IN UNION ON DEC. 14.

The next gathering of Varsity men who have returned from overseas will be held in the Faculty Union on Friday afternoon, December 14 at 4.30. This date was fixed before the change in the closing of term. It is hoped, however, that all the returned men in the University who are in Toronto on that day will be able to be present. Will they kindly accept this notification and pass it on to any others whom it concerns. Those who can be present are asked, if possible, to notify Professor G. O. Smith. (Telephone on the University switch).

One of the best ways to avoid the Christmas rush is not to go shopping at all, at all.

In Time of Storm.

It is an old and trite saying that the worth of a man is best judged by his conduct in times of trial and excitement. Such times are the present, each day bringing new questions to be solved, new issues to be faced. It is just in such times as these that calm thought, sane reasoning, restrained feeling, and judicial poise of mind are most needed. And it is just in such times as these that the stronger intelligence shows its strength; the weaker, its weakness. From people who have enjoyed the great privilege of a university education, it is but natural that such habits of thought should be expected. The educated members of society, especially of a democratic society, should provide in moments of storm and passion, that fairness and comprehensiveness of viewpoint that all too often is lacking; should counter-balance the rabid cries of press and demagogue; should endeavour to substitute reason for argument, fact for rumour, straightforward statement for insinuation and innuendo.

It is greatly to be regretted that this is not always, though generally the case. Sometimes it happens that those, from whom most may rightly be expected, are most disappointing in their conduct. In the heat of conflict, the anxious protagonist is tempted to descend to the level of his opponents; like Voltaire, he may stoop to unworthy contest, and seek to fight the devil with fire. Some very recent examples of this tendency we have had. One Canadian professor has permitted himself to call a great class of his fellow citizens "vermin"; another, less violent, but in a moment of judgment not more sound, has said, "I will not call every man who votes the ——— ticket a traitor, but, for myself, I feel that in supporting him I would be committing an act of treachery to my country and to the cause of civilisation." Now such pronouncements as these are quite unworthy of their authors. If we cannot respect our opponents, if we have not imagination enough to appreciate their point of view, at least we may refuse to indulge our passions in mere abuse. In time of storm it is our duty as well as our privilege to maintain judicial calmness and clearness of vision; and be our desires ever so eager, we shall not fight the less effective for it.

Washington and the War.

"There has never been such an atmosphere of staidness at Washington as there is this year. There is no frittering away of time—few journeys to the avenue for "food", few social affairs and less money spent at the movies than last year.

"The library is always full of people, and students are heard to remark that they have never been more anxious to study, realizing that that is their duty in the great crisis.

"But it is true that people cannot live the same lives they lived six months ago. Their country's trouble has mentally unnerved them. It has taken the smiles from their faces, changed the tenor of their conversation and throbs incessantly in their brains when they are busy at their daily tasks.

"Under such conditions concentration is impossible. The student's desire to get the most out of his studies should not be questioned; his professors should realize that he cannot be expected to make as high grades as in former years when his companions were on the campus instead of the battlefields of France."—Washington Daily.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

now. "I have been waiting to get your opinion of last night's meeting. I know right well, Prof. ——— was very much shocked and I am indeed pleased that he is now sleeping so that he cannot get a greater shock by listening to what we say. I was rather surprised at first—" "Oh, I was not in the least for I fully expected the like after hearing that some of the women are voting in this election." "Now please do not let us get talking election; I thought we had that question quite well threshed out yesterday. What I wanted to say was that altogether I was quite delighted with the meeting. I enjoy those love songs, such as Mr. Blackburn sang and Miss Marshall certainly has a sweet voice." "I notice you say nothing about the violin selection by Mr. Roseborough? I know it reminds you of the dance and ———." "See here boy, I have always thought well of the violin and, to let you into a secret, when I was young I could dance as well as the next one, even if my parents did not know; but I was more than pleased with Mr. Roseborough's playing."

"After listening to that talk by Capt. Armstrong, I never before felt so sorry that I was not young again so I could be a soldier in this war. I scarcely believed all I had heard about the cruelty of the Germans, but when a fellow sees a revolver used by a non-combatant and the deadly bullet before his eyes he knows it to be a fact." "I was quite interested in the gas protectors, and other articles which he displayed. I didn't like the idea of the poor chap being blown into that mud hole a month ago, just before coming home, but I suppose we should not kick when he does not. If you remember he always was a plucky chap and a good sport while attending here." "Did you see the way the women took up the idea of knitting socks during Christmas holidays for him to send to his English soldier boys?"

"When the subject for debate was given out I quite believed that the affirmation would win, since the meeting seemed to be a success. I thought that alone would prove that the two societies should write but I suppose Victoria is not ready to admit as much yet." "It was interesting to compare the way each society carried on its business session. I scarcely know which impressed me more favourably. However, it was quite thoughtful of the men to cut their business short for I could see the band had its attractions. I scarcely understood what it was at first till I remembered having heard someone say that Vic Rink would open last night."

"What do you say to having a nap? There is plenty that I would like to say about that speech of Capt. Armstrong's but we can talk that over to-morrow Good-night."

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB
HELD LAST MEETING

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Miss Edna Mitchell, Monday night when the Modern Language Club held their last meeting this term. McLe. Malaval gave a very interesting address in French on Bretagne which was much appreciated. Miss Janet Hanna gave a paper on the physical features of France and Miss Doris Sommers spoke on how the climate of France effects the French nation. Miss Marion Squair sang two delightful little songs and refreshments were served.

TWO PRINCETON MEN ARE GIVEN FRENCH WAR CROSSE.

T. Martin '17 and W. D. F. Hughes 1919 have been awarded the French War Cross for courage and daring in removing wounded under heavy shell fire. Both were members of the American Ambulance Corps, and have been working behind the French front during recent operations around Hill 304, in the Verdun sector.

TIMELY RULES FOR COLLEGE TALES.

Anybody can write a story about college life. If he has not attended a college, so much the better. His imagination is less hampered. A few simple rules follow for the guidance of our future greats.

- 1.—All heroes are named Jack, Dick or Stanley.
- 2.—All college men wear sweaters always, and smoke short, fat-bowled pipes.
- 3.—There is always a "Fatty" who is a funny fellow.
- 4.—Any four college men make up a quartette, which can sing "Merhileee we-ro-hull ahonng" at any time.
- 5.—All college men are wooing a girl named Dorothy or Betty, who is "sweet and pure as an angel."
- 6.—All college men address each other as "old hoss."
- 7.—College men never study, but spend their time in tossing repartee back and forth.
- 8.—All college rooms are adorned with pennants.
- 9.—All college men call their fathers "Pater" and speak of the "honour of the dear old school" in a husky voice.—Selected.

GIRLS WORK WAY THROUGH VARSITY

During the year 1917-18 there were about 200 girls in the University of Texas who paid their way in full or in part, or who had earned the money before attending the institution. Exact figures are not obtainable this early in the term, but there is approximately the same, if not a higher, percentage of such girls for the current year of 1917-18.

Many girls who would like to enter the University of Texas write to obtain positions, and are in this way enabled to receive a college education.

Yale will enter the Intercollegiate Basketball League, thus making the league schedule intact despite war conditions.

"On the street car the other day there were two negro women. They were not near each other, but carried on a conversation by looking around the passengers.

"Are you going to vote?" asked one.

"Course I've givine to vote," said the other one. "Two bits looks good to me."

TAXES—DEATH.

With the approach of the time-limit within which every student has to part with part of his hard-earned shekels (Father's) for fees, it is very pertinent to enquire where the University gets its support—from whence come the large funds for salaries and maintenance. Of course every student realizes that his "bit" is only a drop in the bucket. If the University had only to depend on these, it would not be in the receiver's hands.

Toronto University has quite large investments in property and derives quite a revenue from this source. But this also is a meagre bagatelle. Its main support is from the Provincial Government—and $500,000 was the government grant last year. This is a large amount, but how inadequate it is, may be gathered from the deficit, $55,000. This also has to be made up by the Government—in a special grant I suppose.

So far so good. But it may interest and maybe amuse the students to know that we are dependent for our education on a tax levied on the surplus "swag" accumulated during their lifetime, by stockbrokers, speculators, food profiteers, etc. The act, called I think, the University Act, calls for a certain percentage of the surplus dues to be granted to the University, a yearly average being determined every three years.

That this is not just a piece of fool legislation is explained in this way. The Government was casting round for some sure source of revenue to tack this grant to, and realising that "Nothing is sure except taxes and death," took a slice out of the succession dues. They also figured that as the population increased, this source of revenue would also. They had no idea that the University would grow at such a pace as it has done. The fixing on a percentage also precluded any discussion in the legislature by possibly ill-informed legislators. But with that $55,000 deficit staring one in the face, and added to this, a little item of some $4,000 for interest on overdraft, one cannot help but conclude that the crop of dead phycocrats has not panned out so well as our early legislators expected.

Toronto University is a growing institution, growing to meet the needs of a growing population. It is a provincial institution, situated in the province's large town and capital. Why should it not be supported directly by taxes on living people—a percentage tax—which will grow directly as the people grow, and not by an uncertain revenue depending on rate of death of Ontario's millionaires.

Vote for the Liberal Candidate

And crowning a life time of effort he stands as he has stood through forty years of public life, for a united Canada.

The Issue in this Election !

Shall Canada continue to Fight, or shall she slink from the field ?

This Election is the most awful crisis in our history:--

Are we going to retain the honor of Canada, or are we to be known to the world as a nation of quitters ?

Are we going to retain our place in the world's markets, or are we to lose both foreign credit and trade ?

Are we going to place ourselves under the domination of the French Canadians, who, by spurning their duty in this war, made Conscription necessary ?

Patriotic Canadians Carry On !

On December 17th these questions will be answered by the voters of Canada at home and overseas. The brave men and women in France who have sacrificed home comfort and loved ones for our liberty, the men and women at home who believe in Canada, believe in the cause and in the maintenance of Canada's honor, will cast their votes to

SUPPORT UNION GOVERNMENT

The representative men of the two great political parties came together in Union Government to make Canada's effort in the war most effective in the support of our men at the front with additional forces, and to direct and control the industrial and economic life of Canada to the end of winning the war. An additional 100,000 reinforcements are urgently needed. Union Government will continue to raise the force quickly and impartially under the provisions of the Military Service Act, 1917. Laurier, Bourassa and Quebec think we have done enough, and are in favor of deserting our men, breaking our pledge, ruining the country's credit with our Allies, and trailing Canada's honor in the mud of world opinion. Quebec, having failed to do her duty, is now trying to bend the rest of Canada to her will.

Wives, Mothers, Daughters and Sisters--
You Have a Vote

Every woman may vote who is a British subject, 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person, male or female, living or dead, who is serving, or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada, or of Great Britain in the present war, or who has been honorably discharged from such services, and the date of whose enlistment was prior to September 20, 1917.

THE Y.M.C.A. FINANCE CAMPAIGN PROVES A GREAT SUCCESS

Final Results Not Yet Available --Over $750 Secured

The final results of the Y.M.C.A. finance campaign are not yet available from all the faculties, but sufficient returns have been received to allow us to give an approximate list which will in no case differ greatly from the actual total.

The objective which the canvassers sought to attain was $2,000, but, owing to the recent Red Cross Campaign, the Sailors' Tag Day and the proximity of Christmas and the vacation they did not meet with the success which was anticipated. Nevertheless, all things considered, the total so far received is very satisfactory, and the canvassers are to be commended for their efforts.

Pharmacy was in the midst of their term exams and so were unable to join in the campaign. They will, however, raise their subscription as soon as possible next year and should swell the total considerably.

The following is the approximate list:

Medicine	$200.00
Dentistry	200.00
University College	120.00
Victoria	65.00
S.P.S.	50.00
Trinity	25.00
F.O.E.	25.00
Vets.	25.00
Wycliffe	20.00
Knox	13.00
Forestry	1.00
Pharmacy (no return)	—
Outside subscriptions	10.00
Total	$751.00

The University "Y" takes this opportunity of thanking the students for their generous support and the organizers and canvassers for the zeal they showed in pushing this work.

MICHIGAN WOMEN MUST ALSO SERVE.

Every Michigan woman over sixteen years of age is expected to register for some form of war service. Registration will be conducted by the State Women's Defense Committee, and although not compulsory, it will be made as general as possible.

During the first two years of the war, England placed more than 1,000,000 women in industrial positions left vacant by men at the front. A tremendous force of volunteers was required to cook for the workers, to care for their children during the day, and to take their places in the factories week-ends that the work might go on while the regular workers had one day of rest.

Similar emergencies will have to be met by women in the United States. Already the country has found 1,000,000 men out of industrial, professional, and civic life. Succeeding drafts will take many more.

The registration of women is a government census, aiming to furnish to the government in the coming crisis with a record of women willing to fill the vacant places, either as paid or volunteer workers. —Michigan Daily.

ANOTHER IDIOSYNCRACY

Rumours have been prevalent during the last few days of the nature of the work on the front campus. A little information on this question would not be amiss. For two nights in succession the Flying Corps men have been hard at work with shovels, and wheelbarrows. They worked without lights, and with little enthusiasm. On being asked whether they were clearing away the snow to prepare the spot for an open-air rink, as some had thought, they replied that it was for no such purpose. When a sufficient area had been cleared of snow and the bare ground exposed, the men were lined up and had their photograph taken.

So on the day following, the two nights' work, on an elevated position, a photographer snapped the men. Now and until the snow drifts in and fills up the space, the ground is being used for a parade ground for the men.

'VARSITY WOMEN GIVE FINE REPRESENTATION OF WORK ON THE FARM

Lady Falconer and Others Give Interesting Addresses

The fair co-eds who renounced their summer vacation in the interests of the National Service League, were well recompensed for their sacrifice by the distinct triumph which they scored in their entertainment, Wednesday evening. The warm tribute paid to them by Lady Falconer and Dr. Riddell, as well as their own demonstration of the joys and sorrows of farm life, aroused the envy of all who had missed this opportunity, stimulating in them a strong desire to go and do likewise.

Dr. Croftman, in his opening address, praised this "back to the land" movement, and told several amusing anecdotes of the girls who had not only taken the men's jobs, but also their overalls. In summing up his remarks, he added—"The men will have to step lively to get away from these girls who work in the field." What could he mean?

"A Day's Work in Winona Camp," as staged by the girls of Victoria College, pictured the daily routine of the "farmer-ess." The clang of tin plate and spoon announces breakfast, which is disposed of with little regard for the dictates of etiquette, and interrupted by a wild rush to be in time for the wagon, that serves as jitney, between the camp and tanning factory. We see the girls hulling berries then stretched out dead-tired on the floor, only to be roused by the arrival of the mail. We are transported to an orchard containing one marvellous cherry tree, constructed with three tables, a box, a pail and a branch of scrubby twigs. But it serves to demonstrate the perils of an occupation in which even the would-be cherry-picker or her basket, is sure to meet with disaster. The current path was a work of art, and as the diminutive fern and scraps of green paper, which comprised it, were thoughtfully labelled, the imagination of the audience was not over-taxed.

The girls of University College produced an entertaining skit in which "A Professor Visits the Farm." The professor arrives in full dignity of gown and spectacles, carrying the inevitable note-book. He is greeted by two "hayseeds," who have just been bemoaning their luck in having to put up with the University "gels," who have been sent to their farm. The farm hands arrive and in a series of clever parodies, they acquaint the professor with the varied activities of farm life. In the meantime he converses with the two old farmers and tells them of the new degree—"Spinster of Farmacy," which is to be conferred at the University of Toronto. If the vocal solos so artistically rendered are typical of the entertainment provided at camp, farm life needs no other recommendation. The appreciation of the audience can best be judged by the repeated encores.

"All Work and No Play," as presented by the girls of St. Hilda's College, pictured an evening in camp—mending, knitting, washing, writing—all to the accompaniment of a splendid orchestra. All phases of the fruit-picker's life were vividly described in motion songs, the girls at the wash-boards keeping equally good time as the musicians. The repertoire of farm songs was augmented by college favorites, and "Old King Cole" made a tremendous hit. In this skit, as well as in the others due prominence was given to the economic question, which evidently assumed serious proportions, as the girls were forced to wash their own clothes. As for caterpillars, there seemed to be an unwarranted aversion to these soft, harmless little creatures.

The programme was varied by moving pictures of farm life, which were greeted with audible expressions of satisfaction by those who recognized themselves on the screen. Lady Falconer gave a most interesting account of the part played by the Y.W.C.A. in the provision of hostels and camps for the use of the girls working on farms. The task was an exceedingly difficult one, but was undertaken with that untiring energy which insures success. Dr. Riddell conveyed to the "fruit-pickers" the appreciation of their services, from the Fruit Growers' Association, the farmer, the National Service League, the Government and the men in the trenches.

OSGOODE HALL WINS FROM McMASTER IN SEMI FINAL DEBATE

Last Monday evening at Osgoode Hall was held one of the semi-final debates of the Inter-Collegiate Debating Union. McMaster University and Osgoode Hall were the contending parties, McMaster being supported by Messrs. S. J. Cole, B.A. and H. E. Winute, and Osgoode by Messrs. J. A. Grace, B.A., and W. M. Unger, B.A.

The subject, "Resolved that the franchise should be extended to all women in Canada on the same basis as men," was defended by McMaster, with Osgoode taking the negative side.

The main arguments advanced by the affirmative were (1) the extension contemplated was in keeping with the progress of the evolution of women and as such, it was necessary for the realization of democracy; (2) that it would have a beneficial effect upon the political realm and upon woman herself; (3) that it was necessary for the protection of the home, of the children and the working woman, (4) that the expense to which it had already been granted, made it incumbent upon the legislators to extend it to include all women.

The arguments advanced by the negative chiefly embodied biblical objections to the enfranchisement of women. The fact that women should be active in politics, was foreign to the realm of women. Furthermore such participation was contrary to philosophical principles, and was a realm altogether apart from that of women.

The judges were Alderman G. A. Archibald, Rev. E. J. McCorkell and Mr. P. Gillespie. The decision agreed upon was in favor of the negative.

'VARSITY GRAD. HAS BRILLIANT CAREER

Dr. Edna Guest Appointed Senior Medical Officer of S.W.H.

One of the most romantic careers achieved by a Varsity graduate since the outbreak of the war is that of Dr. Edna Mary Guest, an M.D. of Toronto University of 1910. Dr. Guest, who was a lieutenant in the Northamptonshire War Hospital at Duxton, England, has been appointed commanding medical officer of the Scottish Women's Hospital, Corsica.

The new appointment is a result of the recognition by the Imperial authorities of her work. She took a course at the University after graduation and later did post-graduate work in the States. A sister, Emily Jane Guest, who is a B.A. of University College '09 and a M.A. of '01, is V.A.D. nurse at the Northamptonshire Hospital. Their home is at Elginfield, Ontario. She is a former member of the staff of the Belleville High School.

WOMEN DO NOBLE WORK IN AID OF THE HALIFAX CHILD SUFFERERS

A Large Supply of Children's Garments Has Been Sent Away

That the University women are industrious and are only too glad to lend a helping hand to any just cause, has been quite evident ever since the outbreak of the war. They have volunteered for every field of duty, both at home and at the front. Their enthusiasm, pluck, valour, and that stick-to-it-ness, which is characteristic of every true Britisher, have won the admiration of all by the splendid way they have acquitted themselves. Last summer a good many 'Varsity women did their "bit" by spending their vacation, not in a "killing time" fashion, but at hard work on the farm. At the last Victory Loan Campaign, in which 'Varsity was distinguished itself, there were approximately twenty-five women who volunteered as canvassers. Besides, during the fall they have assisted by contributing their valuable time and money for all charitable purposes. And latest of all, came the hurried heart-breaking appeal from the poor tiny tots of the once beautiful city of Halifax. Many of these poor children were left without clothing, parents, brothers, and sisters, after that terrible disaster. The University women, at the very moment they received the appeal, set to work, over 100 of them, producing most gratifying results.

From Monday till Wednesday afternoon the voluntary donations reached the total of $90.65. These donations of money and articles of apparel furnished the women with ground work for their enterprise. The whole day Tuesday was devoted to the making of children's garments. The total expenses for the material amount to $46.90. Their working headquarters were at the Lillian Massey Building and at the work room of the Library. There the women were busily engaged making rompers, jackets, dresses, and all other necessary articles.

The following are the results, 4 dozen pairs of socks, $21.45 pairs bloomers, 40 dresses. The Household Science also furnished 6 undershirts, 7 pairs rompers; the Base Hospital gave 6 pairs of socks. They donated flannel for the dresses, and 12 large bundles of clothes. All that material together with $23.75 in cash were immediately sent to the headquarters of the Toronto Red Cross from where they will at once be sent to Halifax. All work was finished by noon on Wednesday.

ANGLICAN CLUB HOLD SUCCESSFUL MEETING

Miss Thomas Outlined Work of Deaconess House

One of the most enthusiastic and successful gatherings of the Anglican Club took place on Tuesday afternoon at the Deaconess Training School. A great deal of Red Cross work in the way of hospital supplies and cheese-cloth handkerchiefs was accomplished.

Before serving tea, Miss Thomas addressed the club, outlining very accurately the work of the Deaconess house and urging the girls to take up the training after graduation, if not for work as missionaries or as deaconesses, at least for the benefit of the actual training. This training consists in a knowledge of theology, the lectures of which are taken in the University, a training in social service, and also a thorough practise in nursing.

After tea the club was honoured by a visit from Mrs. Griffith Thomas. The matter was then brought into discussion of making graduation from University the required standard for entering upon deaconess training instead of the formerly required matriculation, which was not always obtained.

The afternoon closed by the taking up of a splendid collection for toys and gifts for poor children.

On the whole the Anglican Club has been very successful this year. Red Cross work and Bible study groups have made splendid progress. It is to be hoped that the New Year and the ever approaching examinations will not in any way dampen the enthusiasm of the members.

VARSAITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

At the presentation of decorations by the Lieutenant-Governor on Wednesday, the Military Cross won by the late Second-Lieut. Cecil Victor Perry, R.F.A., was given to his parents. He was killed in action on April 23rd. His Military Cross was won in September, 1916. The official account reads: "For gallantry and resourcefulness as F.O.O. in Switch Trench on 15th September."

"During the attack on Switch Trench some German snipers in our small redoubt on the flank were holding up our infantry, and had already shot the F.O.O. of another battery, and the stretcher-bearer who came to take him away. Lieut. Perry, having borrowed some rifles from the infantry, armed himself, another artillery officer, and two of his signallers, and on his own initiative worked round to a point, from which they could see into the redoubt. By this means they prevented the Germans in the redoubt from shooting, and the infantry were able to advance."

"On a previous occasion, during the attack on the 18th August in Delville Wood, Lieut. Perry displayed great courage and initiative in Edge Trench, taking charge of some infantry who had reached the trench, but had had all their officers killed or wounded, and assisting to hold the position for some time."

Pre-J. P. Magwood, a Victoria graduate of 1917, has been reported ill. He went overseas as private with an Eaton M.G. Battery and was transferred to the Royal Field Artillery. He was wounded on August 28, 1916, and granted a sick leave. He returned to Canada on November and again went overseas. His home is in Toronto.

Driver Esler W. Thomson, '18, U.C. has been reported wounded by a piece of shell on November 6. He arrived in England on November 18, and admitted to St. Anselm's V.A.D. Hospital, Walmer, Kent. He expects to return to France in several months.

Second-Lieutenant Henry Lawrence who was believed killed, has now officially been reported killed on June last, according to an official notification received by his family. He went overseas on June, 1915, with the Second Universities Company as a lance-corporal, later transferring to the Second Yorkshire Regiment.

RETURNED 'VARSITY MEN MEET IN UNION TO-DAY

The next gathering of 'Varsity men who have returned from overseas will be held in the Faculty Union this afternoon at 4.30. This date was fixed before the change in the closing of term. It is hoped, however, that all the returned men in the University who are in Toronto to-day will be able to be present. Will they kindly accept this notification and pass it on to any others whom it concerns. Those who can be present are asked, if possible, to notify Professor G. O. Smith. (Telephone on the University switch).

THE DISILLUSIONMENT OF COLLEGE

"Sometimes a wistful feeling comes to the mind of a senior as he sees his freshman friend become enthusiastic over a trifle. Sometimes the senior wishes he might become a freshman again, so as to enjoy with greater intensity the life at college. Life seems to him gray and drab, the glorious golden moments he once experienced have passed away. College is the same old thing, a mere routine, an intellectual rut. He has served his apprenticeship in the factory of education, the life of the mature worker does not fulfil the promised happiness.

"There are several remedies for this disillusionment which many college men feel. One of them that seems far from the subject and yet is very close, is the remedy, exercise. We are all of us animals, and yet some of us try to neglect the animal for the intellectual. We need to keep our physical body taut and well. We must remember the ancient Greeks, philosophers of the art of living, who took care of the physical as well as the mental side.

"Another remedy is more interest in the work we are doing. We must delve deeper. We must pick our ideas to pieces and build them together again. The man who is all the time looking for new things does not find life dull. He is too busy building a new world in his mind."—Michigan Daily.

CHRISTMAS, 1917

With this issue THE VARSITY ceases publication for a short time, and as Christmas will have come and gone before Varsity reopens, a reference to the holiday season is in order.

In a few days we will be singing and hearing of the Prince of Peace; and at the same time the condition of the present-day world will come before us. We will think of the recent disaster in our own country; of our friends and relatives across the seas; of the three hundred and forty Varsity men who will never return, and of the sorrow with which mankind to-day is surrounded. Amid such feelings many will consider the old-time Christmas festivities out of place, and the usual greeting, "A Merry Christmas," a mockery.

But the present is no time for depression. The problems which we face to-day will not be solved by such means, but can only be met and conquered by a spirit of sober yet cheerful determination. In this connection we have only to look at the Old Country, which to-day is meeting the present situation, as it has met others, resolutely and withal cheerfully. Up to the present, though the burden be heavy, there is no sign of turning-back. Canada also seems determined, and if all of us have not yet attained the additional point of view—now is the opportunity. The Christmas season is at hand. For a short time, at least, we will be thinking of others. The spirit of fellowship will be abroad and the burden of others will be cheerfully lightened.

May this feeling be extended to a broader sphere, and may we be thereby enabled to lend of our full support to the end that a year from now, we can, one and all, wish from the heart the old greeting, "A Merry Christmas."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The "side-steppers" are still present.

The first issue of THE VARSITY next term will be Thursday, January 3rd.

We are sorry to remind you, but examinations—personally we think these jousts ought to be called "The Battle of Wits"—are coming at the beginning of next month. Be prepared!

"The Melting Pot" which was given on Tuesday night is a new feature of the Y.M.C.A.'s work. The Y.M.C.A. is to be congratulated for their enterprise in times such as these, and it is to be hoped that their wish—that "The Melting Pot" should become an annual inter-faculty event—will be realized.

The political advertisements which appeared in Wednesday's issue have excited considerable comment. Some resented the appearance of the advertisement of the Opposition party; others thought the Government was accorded far too much space; and still others thought that no political advertisements ought to be inserted in THE VARSITY.

The editors wish to state that they have not the slightest control over the advertising matter, which appears in the paper. THE VARSITY is published by the Students' Administrative Council. The General Secretary of the Council is Business Manager of THE VARSITY, and he alone is responsible, both as to quantity as well as quality, for all advertisements in the paper.

The women of the University deserve much credit for their speedy response to the appeal of the Halifax child sufferers. The results of their accomplishment in this matter are indeed most gratifying.

To-Day's Poem

THE CHARGE OF THE KNITTING BRIGADE.

Half a stitch, half a stitch,
Half a stitch onward,
In the Assembly Hall,
Toiled the One Hundred.
"Forward the Knitting Brigade!
Charge for the wool," she said,
Straight at those skeins of yarn,
Dashed the One Hundred.

"Forward the Knitting Brigade!"
Was there a girl afraid?
Not though each unskilled maid
For a while blundered;
Their's not to make reply,
Their's not to reason why,
Their's not to do and die,
So at the wool four-ply,
Charged the One Hundred.

Balls to the right of them,
Balls to the left of them,
Balls all around them,
Flying unnumbered,
Gallant the charge they made,
Dauntless and undismayed
Fearsome and fast the raid,
Of the One Hundred.

Clicked all their needles bare,
Clicked as they turned in air,
Jabbing a finger bare,
Letting fall stitches where,
Someone still blundered.
Stitches 2 plain, 2 purl,
Knitted each zealous girl,
Ninety-nine hundred.

Wristlets to right of them,
Wristlets to left of them,
Wristlets all around them,
Lying unnumbered,
Back from the charge came all,
None did in battle fall;
Answered the mustered call,
All the One Hundred.

When can their glory fade?
Oh, the wild charge they made!
All the school wondered,
Honour the charge they made,
Honour the Knitting Brigade,
Noble One Hundred.

Correspondence

Re POLITICAL ADS.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—I am taking this opportunity of protesting strongly against the introduction of the University paper into the arena of party politics as exemplified by this morning's edition of THE VARSITY. Seven columns of the paper are given to the most flagrant outpourings of party invective which have yet appeared in a Toronto paper. The direct object of the full page display on the last page of this issue is to stir up bitter racial animosity, to set one section of the population against another and to create discord in our University, whose academic life should not be ruffled by the slightest breath of Mundane paltriness. New England College Men Enlist.

Statistics recently compiled show that nearly half of the college students of New England have enlisted in some kind of war service. Out of the 20,000 men in the twenty New England colleges 5,249 joined the colors immediately and 3,000 went into agriculture and other branches of war work.

Aesthetic atmosphere of our University is to become fetid with the putrid aroma of a party cant.

In both party ads highly debatable questions are given with a charming sang froid, as gospel truth, which the poor governed rustics of Canada's greatest University are requested to swallow in toto. Are we, I ask you, expected to respond to the flagellations of party ads. If not, why are they allowed to be printed and if so, a crowning insult to the men and women of the University of Toronto has been perpetrated.

I am not writing a panegyric on either party, but with a great majority of the students I protest against this unprecedented, uncalled for, and totally condemnable attitude of THE VARSITY in permitting ads of a bigoted and insulting nature to appear in the columns of a paper to which I am forced to subscribe. If my subscription is compulsory, I at least should not be insulted by having my attitude in this election pointed out to me in the columns of a college paper by any party organization in Canada.

Such ads MAY BE necessary for the edification of the unlearned, but being unnecessary from a financial and ethical point of view in THE VARSITY their appearance in the last issue is certainly to be condemned.

Knox

THE PRESENT CONDITION OF THE KNOXONIANS.

The Christmas spirit is rampant everywhere in all Knox and thoughts of home are stirring a most emotional reaction, such as packing trunks and "dodging your creditors." Our genial friend, Socrates Graham, the East House "cop" has at last cracked a smile, since say it is a forced grin, which broke out on his features at the thought of his home-town sweetheart, who is ready to welcome him with open arms. F. B. (not tuberulosis) Osborne is working night and day to complete his "tattoo" and a pair of mittens for "Granny" McQueen. As usual, Lieut. "Walter" Duncan, M.C., is busily saying "Merry Xmas" to Mary and Jeanette; "Stubbs" Douglas, also follows his tad example and phones "Betty" six times each day. Stewart is donating all his "Cosmo-plutans" and "Snappy Stories" to the Theological Library Society, while the Knox baby, "Jeff" Form, has received a new nursing bottle. We were pleased to see that many Knoxites attended the Melting Pot, and we are especially charmed to learn that "California" Shugart has summited up enough courage or perhaps cash, to take a young lady to the entertainment. The Knox Reformation fund is going well, the "living skeleton," Pete Parker, managing the campaign. Jas. B. Craniche Skine is still upholding the glory of the Laurier platform, and has secured Miss Cap. Cook to campaign among several of the women at Knox. This is given as the reason for Miss Cap. staying around with the cooks and maids. "Jesabel" Stokes is still writing love letters to himself, and has received several Xmas cards. Rae T. Birks, our son of law, wonders who will be appointed as head judge of the tennis court "Woody", "Willy" Wilkinson, our champion marble pusher, is busy at Queen's Hall to square things up with "Mary", the custodian of the gate. J. Weylie, commonly known as "Gum-shoe Gus", has "got religion" so loud that he has been saying his prayers in his sleep. "Nick" McAllan, while walking in his sleep last night, managed to do some homework, and incidentally stumbled his toe. "Doting" McLaughlin wonder if they will supply him with helicopter union suits when he makes his debut with the Flying Corps.

And so on down the list we might go but space forbids so we must close now wishing you all a merry Christmas, our own is coming from Montreal, and a verse would be appropriate just at this point.

Gin! Gin! Gin!

How I love you Gordon's Gin
I've consumed gallons of it,
And you bet, I sure do love it
You're a better spirit than I am Gordon's Gin.

At Loew's Next Week.

Pictorially there is much of interest in "The Gold Deck," the latest photodrama, starring the inimitable William S. Hart, which will be the feature photodrama, the coming week at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Gardens, and which will be given in conjunction with seven high-class vaudeville acts. The story, which is one of the pioneer days in California, is centred in the Yosemite country, the wonderland of the western state. Hart plays the role of Ancoke, a gambler of the old school. The most dramatic episodes take place in and among the towering redwoods of the primeval forests. The vaudeville attractions will be headed by Col. John A. Pattee, and his new company of "Old Soldier Fiddlers" in a sketch representing the American soldiers past and present. In addition to an old-time fiddling contest and song revue the piece offers a stirring lesson in patriotism.

A WAR DEGREE.

For the members of the Class of 1917 who last spring had nearly completed their course and earned their degrees when they volunteered for their country's service, Princeton very properly felt that she could afford, on condition of the completion of the intensive work they were required to do here in preparation for such service, to grant them their degrees. That, however, is quite a different thing from giving degrees ad libitum to all who go into the service. Princeton, nevertheless, recognizes that the students who respond to the call of their country at the sacrifice of their college course should receive some high official mark of distinction from their Alma Mater, and the University authorities have accordingly met this unusual situation by providing, not a meaningless degree, but a specially engraved war certificate, setting forth that the holder was a student in good and regular standing, and that he left his University to enter the service of his country. Dean West is preparing this war certificate. It does not require the gift of prophecy to foresee that this official recognition of their patriotism by their Alma Mater will in the future be even more highly prized than a diploma of graduation. Daily Princetonian.

What Varsity Demands

The student body of Toronto University has shown such splendid patriotism, has sent from its members so many brave boys to the trenches of France and Flanders, that those at home are determined that the reinforcements so urgently needed overseas shall be sent, and that at once.

IN JUSTICE TO THE BOYS

Union Government is pledged to raise 100,000 reinforcements under the provisions of the Military Service Act, 1917, a democratic measure calling the rich as well as the poor, indeed bearing more heavily upon the rich, in that it is more difficult to get exemption on the grounds of dependent relatives. Laurier, Bourassa and their adherents would tinker with a referendum and delay for an indefinite time in sending the men so sorely needed.

SUPPORT UNION GOVERNMENT

Union Government has brought together the representative men in both political parties, who are concentrating every energy to prosecute the war to a lasting and victorious peace. There can be no evading the issue in this election. You are either in favor of sending reinforcements to our men at the front, or you are not.

WOMEN MAKE THEIR DEBUT IN POLITICS

University Women Act as Scrutineers

Despite the low level of the mercury and the absence of sunlight, we were among the co-eds who were abroad seeking our post of duty long ere six a.m. on the morning of the seventeenth of December. Armed with our credentials and swelling with importance as an "agent of a candidate," bravely we entered for the first time a polling booth. Picture our horror when out of the distance there arose a voice from the ranks of the opposition, which said, "Are you prepared to swear that you are twenty-one?" Feeling the insult keenly, though it was none the less deserved, it occurred to us that we had best produce our precious paper, which gave us authority to act as scrutineer for the Unionist candidate. Having been properly inspected and installed, we took our orders from the superior scrutineer—a man, of course—and meekly (?) prepared to obey them.

Scarcely had the bells tolled six when eager voters began to throng to the poll. Then our duties began. With imposing dignity we enquired the name and hurriedly glanced through our voters' list to see whether it appeared, and was properly approved. Here we discovered the first discrepancy of man—the enumerators had omitted many names from the lists. In fact it was so serious, that as one by one we discovered names on our books, which were missing in those of the opposition that opposing voice made inquiries as to whether we had the civic directory or the telephone book. Later we discovered that this mistake was due to the delay in the arrival of the enumerators' revised lists.

We soon discovered that our long day was not to prove as dull as we had anticipated it might. In fact there was nothing dull about it from beginning to end! Humorous circumstances constantly arose as might have been expected when women were making their debut in politics. However, in all justice, we must say that it was not the women alone who made mistakes. Imagine our intense amusement when a gentleman who looked as if he had voted a considerable number of times managed to spoil three ballots before he succeeded in fulfilling the legal requirements. It cannot be denied that the women asked many and irrelevant questions and that some even flourished their secret ballots so, that the honest scrutineers found it necessary to look hurriedly in the other direction and call wildly to the D.R.O. for help. We found it quite interesting to notice how many women the opposition appeared to find it necessary to challenge. We were very sorry to find that they doubted the veracity of our sex, but we were delighted to see how readily the challenged voters took the required oaths.

Time wore on and gradually a spirit of friendliness permeated the atmosphere of the polling booth. We had heard that women would take the bitterness out of politics and experience proved this to be true, for did we not lay aside our animosity at lunch time and all being students together, enjoy a delightful tea-luncheon provided on consideration by the lady of the house? During the afternoon friendliness increased and by the time the polls closed those co-eds, who were not fortunate enough to share their duties with eligible Unionists, were cordially escorted to their committee-rooms with favorable returns by their opponents. We were glad to see the student spirit triumph here and to realize that we had all played a game hard and well and had proved to be merely friendly enemies.

In conclusion we may remark that we believe that women fully illustrated their ability to share equal responsibilities with men—more experienced in the field of politics. We believe this to have been shown by the energetic way in which they undertook their organization, political education and their enthusiasm in appearing at the polls in large numbers. We are confident that the praise since accorded to them was well deserved and we hope that the trust of the franchise will be theirs in the future.

Don't forget the Short Story Contest—U.C. Women's Lit.

NOTICE.

Secretaries of societies and associations are reminded that THE VARSITY will appear to-morrow Friday, January 4th. Any notices for meetings will, if left at THE VARSITY office before six o'clock this afternoon, be inserted in to-morrow's issue. There is space available also for news from the out-lying colleges.

"RUGGLES" HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY AT THE UNION

University Women Celebrate

In spite of the blizzard which raged on the last night of the Michaelmas term, and disturbed the student's dream of home with visions of snow-bound trains, the "Ruggles" in the rear" were not deprived of their Christmas party at the University College Women's Union, and the presents brought for the Christmas tree at the University Settlement, insured an equally happy party for some little "Ruggles" of to-day.

This last entertainment of the year was held under the auspices of the Women's Union and the programme was carefully carried out in keeping with the Christmas season. Christmas carols, which had been practised for many a Sunday evening under the direction of Helen Fotheringham, were sung very effectively the choristers proceeding from a distance and singing as they approached. "The Birds' Christmas Carol" was cleverly staged, and the little "Ruggles" won loud applause. Mrs. Ruggles was alternately proud and anxious, but her pride in her "stylish mess of children" and "McGrill ancestry," prevailed over her fear. The children rivalled "Solomon in all his glory." Sarah Sarah Maud with her pig-tail and extreme methods of procuring facial cleanliness, Peter with his purple necktie and natural aversion to manners, Kitty with her thirty-four red ringlets. The Bird family presented a marked contrast, but "dear, funny, jolly, loving, wise" Uncle Jack, soon made the little "Ruggles" feel quite "at home."

But all the "cats" were not consumed by the "Ruggles" at the Birds' dinner-party, for after the play there were genuine "cats" for all and the real party broke up after a most enjoyable evening.

NO COAL FAMINE

From information received at the Superintendent's office yesterday it is far from likely that the University will have to close this year due to lack of coal. When a shipment is received later on in the month, and if the weather does not become too cold, it is expected that no scarcity will be encountered.

In order to conserve the supply, however, special permission of the University authorities will have to be secured before any evening meetings in the buildings can be held.

DON'T RUSH

Is the Advice of Dr. McPhail to Medical Faculty

That medical students should not be hurried through their course in order to serve at the front, is the opinion of Dr. McPhail, of Montreal, who has recently returned from overseas. In a reply to a question from a member of the University Medical Faculty, Dr. McPhail made this statement at the close of his address before the Academy of Medicine, Toronto, and added that the shortage of army surgeons was not sufficiently great to necessitate the turning out of graduates with such haste as to imperil either the quality or the quantity of their professional skill.

UNIVERSITY SERMONS

MR. CLARKE LEAVES

Dept. of English Loses Popular Member

The Department of English at the University, which was already undermined, will be still further depleted by the loss of Mr. Bruce Clarke, who leaves this week to accept an appointment in the University of Washington at Seattle. Mr. Clark took his B.A. at University College in 1906, and afterward became a post-graduate student at Harvard where he successfully completed the Ph.D. course before returning to the staff of his Alma Mater.

MENORAH SOCIETY

An Executive Meeting will be held Friday, January 4 at 4:30 p.m. sharp at Room 4 U.C. Important business to be transacted.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND MEN

No. 6—

"The Need for Concentration and Reflection"

Prof. G. S. Brett.

The year is an invention of the human mind. We may use what adjectives we please to describe it. For some purpose we take a solar year, for others an academic year. On the first of January custom bids us to take stock of our past and make new resolutions, within the larger current of the world's progress each individual has an existence which is measured by its own landmarks and moves continually through the crisis of its development. The spirit of youth is not inclined to regard these things as of much importance; for the young as for primitive man the festivals are annual, but centuries of experience have gone to make that change which is marked in our dictionaries when they say with touching simplicity "solemn, originally yearly." What is true for some may be true for all, but it is natural to feel that the significance of this season will be most felt, and therefore, most understood, by those who now begin the end of their academic careers.

A system of more or less detached years helps to minimise the importance of the last session. There are advantages in an outlook which sets no exact limit to education and dictates no period when learning is finished: there is something to be said for a system which encourages a man to pause at intervals and take a year in college. But with most individuals time deals hardly. Youth is only given once, and power to learn is an endowment of youth. Many things are only to be learned by experience, and for that time is needed; but time alone does nothing for us unless we have acquired the power to use it. That is why everyone requires at some period of life to exercise the faculty of concentration, to sacrifice the pleasures of popularity and the charms of publicity,

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB WILL HOLD ENGLISH EVENING

During the past term the Modern Language Club has afforded a great deal of pleasure for its members. The meetings have all been interesting and instructive and the play "Les Romanesques" which was presented at the Canadian Academy of Music was a huge success.

The first meeting this term will probably be held about the eleventh of January and will be the "English Evening". Eight pupils of Cecil Sharp, who taught folk dancing last year at the Margaret Eaton School of Expression, will give several English country dances and Miss Audrey Sampson, who danced so beautifully at the play will give a representation of early Victorian dancing. Special English music completes a very fine programme. Notice of the meeting will appear in a later issue of THE VARSITY.

DR. GEORGE SARTON OF HARVARD WILL GIVE LECTURES.

Dr. George Sarton, of the University of Ghent, Belgium, editor of "Isis", and Lowell Lecturer at Harvard University, will deliver a series of three lectures in the Physics Building: Wednesday, Jan. 16, 5 p.m.—"The New Humanism".

Thursday, Jan. 17, 5 p.m.—"Science and Civilization at the Time of Leonardo da Vinci".

The public are invited.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Has Been Appointed to List Overseas Men

With a view to keeping more closely in touch than heretofore with their graduates and undergraduates overseas, a special committee to take charge of the matter has been appointed by the Faculty of Medicine of the University at their last meeting. The keeping of an accurate and up-to-date list of those on active service, with their appointments and addresses, will form part of the work of this committee, which consists of Col. E. Stanley Ryerson, Prof. B. P. Watson, Prof. D. J. Gibb Wishart and the convener, Prof. J. J. MacKenzie.

DENTS EXEMPT.

As the result of a special course being given by the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, so as to enable a number of their students to serve as dental sergeants, Arthur P. Daley was granted exemption by Mr. Justice Riddell. This decision will probably have the effect of reversing several previous decisions in which dental students were refused exemption.

News of Our Student Soldiers

Capt. Thomas is expected home in a few days. A graduate of Trinity Medical School in 1912, Capt. Thomas practised his profession in Toronto, where he was surgeon for the G.T.R., and also on the staff of Grace Hospital. He went to England with the Ontario Military Hospital, but for the past six months has been serving in France as regimental surgeon with an artillery unit.

Flight-Commander Hopkins.

Flight-Commander Lester Hopkins, who arrived on leave at his home in Lindsay will receive a warm welcome in college hall, where he was a popular student in pre-war days. He was a member of the Beta Theta Phi fraternity, and interested in many other student activities, but when war broke out, the spirit which led him to enter the militia at Lindsay, soon made him an officer in the C.O.T.C., composed of university men. Later he enlisted with the 39th Battalion as lieutenant and was stationed for a time at Belleville before going overseas with the rank of captain. He transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in the summer of 1916. His promotion to Acting Flight-Commander came last August.

Lieut. L. B. Calnan.

Flight Sub-Lieut. L. B. Calnan, a Victoria College student with year 1919, has been gazetted an officer of the Royal Naval Air Service. At the end of his second year Lieut. Calnan enlisted with the University O.T.C., leaving Canada with the 9th overseas draft on Sept. 30 last. On reaching England he transferred to the R.N.A.S., and was accepted for a commission. Since then he has successfully completed his training at Rotherham, and it attached to the fleet for service in home waters. Lieut. Calnan was a local editor on THE VARSITY last year.

SCHOOL ALUMNI MEETS.

At the annual meeting of the Toronto Engineering Alumni Association, Mr. J. Bannigan, '16, was elected to replace Mr. D. E. Beynon, '00, on the committee for the ensuing year, the other members being Messrs. G. R. Mickle, '88, E. W. Oliver, '03; H. G. Acres, '03, W. R. Worthington, '04; W. P. Dobson, '10, and E. D. Gray, '16. The new president will be elected at the January meeting, and Mr. W. P. Dobson has been continued in office as secretary-treasurer.

MORE BIRDS

Members of O.T.C. Will Explore Airy Spaces

An interesting departure from the usual career of a private in the University O.T.C. took place recently, when Major Needler applied to the authorities at Ottawa for permission to transfer thirteen men to the Royal Naval Air Service. This was granted, and in the party which has already left Toronto, were: Ptes. Hugh Black, Upper Mont Clair, N.J.; J. M. Catto, York Mills; H. G. Clappison, U.C. '20; Hamilton; H. C. Curtis, Somerset, Bermuda; C. A. Hodgkiss, Ottawa; A. A. Houson, Toronto; F. L. Hutchison, U.C. '20; Staffa, Ont.; F. W. Ings, Nanton, Alta.; K. P. Kirkwood, E. G. Rolph and H. M. Keith, Toronto; H. A. Sutherland, Hamilton; and J. W. Taylor, Guelph.

VARSLITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Pte. Sutterby.

Just a month before his death, W. A. D. Sutterby, a popular member of year '19, Victoria College, who was recently killed in action while serving with a machine gun unit in France, wrote of a visit to some of his classmates stationed nearby. He said: "The weather here is not very congenial. Old Mother Earth went on a course and hasn't been dry for a week. But we manage to keep warm by means of our darling little stove. Are we lonesome? Oh no, we have thousands of visitors. They simply won't leave us. Keating's is no use. They grow fat on it. The other day I rode ten miles to see Vaughan (Pearson). I found him sound asleep and tired out. But he woke up and together we went to visit 'Short' (Mason) and Perley (Banbury). It was certainly fine to be with the '19 men again."

Lieut. J. W. M. Dowell.

Christmas Day brought sad news for the parents of Lieut. John William McDowell, of Drayton, Ont., whose death on the battlefield was officially confirmed yesterday. A medical student with the year 1919, he enlisted and went overseas as a gunner in the 67th (University) Battery. He subsequently was granted his commission, and has been serving in France until reported missing and believed killed on December 22nd.

WOUNDED.

Gunner James W. Bell, who came down to the University College from Windsor with class '17, University College, has been severely wounded and is at present in hospital at Liverpool. He was also entered as a student at Wycliffe, but abandoned his course to go overseas as signaller with the 26th Battery, C.F.A. When wounded he was attached to the Canadian Field Artillery in France and had previously been reported as "wounded, but remaining on duty."

Private A. P. Mackenzie, of 187 Cottingham street, who gave up his course with class '20, Applied Science, to enlist with the University O.T.C., is in the Base Hospital suffering from inflammatory rheumatism.

Lieut. I. E. Soule, who is reported wounded for the second time, came to University College with Class '18, but enlisted and went to the front as a private with a University company. He first became a casualty in September, 1916, and on recovery qualified for a commission before returning to the front. His home is at Milltown, N.B.

Sergeant C. A. Hughes, a Science student with class '17, who sustained gunshot wounds in the left shoulder last fall at the same time that his chum, Roy H. Hockey, of Whitby, was killed, was moved on Nov. 17 to the Canadian Convalescent Camp at Epsom. From there he wrote that he was making a rapid recovery and expected to be on duty again shortly, but on December 7 the family, who live at Mimico Beach, received an official cable stating that he would be under treatment for some time yet.

MISSING.

According to word received privately at the University, Lieut. Murray Gunn, U.C. '17, has been reported missing after serving for some months in France with the Royal Flying Corps. Lieut. Gunn, who is a son of Mrs. Gunn, 50 Walmer road, took a military course at Kingston, and went to England with the Canadian Engineers, later transferring to the R.F.C. An uncle, Lieut.-Col. Gunn, is O.C. of a Montreal battalion now overseas.

Reported missing on November 30, Capt. F. M. Walker, M.C., has now been located as a prisoner in Germany and suffering from wounds, according to word received by the family at Stoney Creek, his native town. Before coming to the University, where he received his medical degree in 1913, Capt. Walker graduated with honours from the Hamilton Collegiate and the Normal School. He enlisted in the early days of the war, serving with both the C.A.M.C. and the R.A.M.C., and was awarded the Military Cross for attending wounded soldiers in the open field under heavy fire on the western front, where he went from the Dardanelles.

THE NEW YEAR

One of the most interesting things connected with the coming of a New Year is the way in which we sadly say good-bye to the Old, and welcome the New with feelings of gladness. Resolutions are made—evidently with the idea that when, a year hence, farewell is being said to the present New, it can be looked back upon with happiness. To be sure these resolutions, in the vast majority of cases, quickly come to mean nothing. But if they have been carried out even for a short time some satisfaction has been obtained, and no doubt some good done.

We have just lived through a year that will long be remembered. It has been one long succession of tragedy and trial; and yet, for the most part, never has humanity shown such sympathy and interest in its fellow-men as it has in the year just completed. We are at the beginning of another year and doubtless it also will be long remembered. Further demands will be asked and further sacrifices made before the end, which can be gained speedily only by the aid of one and all, will come. The University of Toronto has nobly met her obligations in the past, and there is no reason to believe that she will not meet those which may come in the future. May we all resolve, at this time, to share the general burden to a greater degree whenever the call may come.

To speak more directly in regard to University life as we are at the beginning of the Spring term. This term has been considerably shortened, but, judging by past experience, the amount of academic work will not be appreciably diminished. In addition all men undergraduates will have to spend some time in drilling or taking exercises. This means that an amount of work, which is too heavy at any time, has to be "done" in a comparatively brief period. That is the order of the day, however, and accordingly there is only one thing to do—turn in and work hard in order that the month of April may not be met with too great feelings of fear. That is our second resolution—work and succeed—and in carrying it out it is to be remembered that in fitting ourselves for the coming time of reconstruction we, who are left, are doing something of real national importance.

May we be enabled to live up to these resolutions and finding happiness and satisfaction in doing our duty.

A CHANGE THAT WOULD BE WELCOME

"An Englishman from England spoke on Tuesday last to the students in the University of Kansas. A considerable part of his address was a guarded attempt to preserve good feeling among his listeners. He found it necessary, from experience perhaps, to use unexamined tact in telling young Americans that England, far from being a tyrannical nation, is in fact a democracy, greater even perhaps than the United States. He found it necessary to so guard his language that the traditional resentment in this country for England and things English dating back to 1776, might not be aroused.

This condition so clearly pictured the other afternoon is more than lamentable; it is pitiable. And Mr. Parkin is right in his assertion that American education is to blame. Perhaps no defect of American common school education is more to be criticized at this time than the use of certain pernicious grade school histories. If after a hundred and forty years, an Englishman cannot come to America and tell the truth about England without half-apologies to a misguided public, it is high time for American educators to begin seeing the writing on the wall.

"It is sincerely to be hoped that it will be seen before the sixth graders of to-day enter the universities. Speakers from England should not always have to spend time undoing the work of cheap historians who do not know the difference between patriotism and bigotry."—The Daily Kansan.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filling fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

PLEA FOR RESURRECTION OF INTERNATIONAL POLITY CLUB

Sir, —
The war weariness now manifest among the European belligerents is the dawn of the return to sanity. The people are beginning to recover from the orgy of emotionalism in which they have been living for the past three and a quarter years. It is now incumbent upon university sentiment to reanimate the ideals for which the International Polity Club strove. Our intellectual sympathies must permeate the barriers that have been erected between people and people and an attempt must be made to forget the immediate past so as to build for the future.

Our first task is to realize a speedy peace, but it must not be one dictated by a military victory. The destructiveness of defensive artillery as shown by the costliness of the allied advances on the western front would make that peace a national suicide. Only women, old men, and children would celebrate it. Furthermore, if the Germans retreated involuntarily they would make their pathway uninhabitable for the next half-century, and if they were humiliated the fires of revenge would continually burn and ultimately inevitably break out. For the re-creation of contented industry in Europe, for the future peace of the world a truce by military decision must be avoided.

A peace by negotiation is the only course left. The German Reichstag has subscribed to the principle of no annexations and no indemnities. If only the Allies did the same, the insecurity that is felt in Germany with regard to the aims of the Allies would disappear. The peace party there could say that their opponents do not menace Germany's territorial integrity, that France is willing to submit the question of Alsace and Lorraine to a plebiscite of the people concerned, that England will relinquish the African colonies and that Italy does not want Dalmatia, so that in return Germany must abandon her conquests.

It may be urged that Germany must be defeated to show her the error of her ways. Would we admit we were wrong if the Allies were defeated? It may be said that we must defeat Germany to prevent future wars. Did the defeat of France in 1871 prevent her from entering the present war? It may be asserted that the sacrifices already many demand the victory of their survivors. But would not such a course invalidate the sagacious British policy of compromise? It may be added that our expenditures demand an indemnity. But is it not true that the indemnity we could exact would by reason of Germany's impoverishment only be an iota of our expense.

As for the permanent cessation of war, that can only be realized by the peoples of the countries concerned. This is proved by contemporary events. If Germany wished she could over-run military demoralized Russia. Germany does not wish because the German Social Democratic Party objects. Similarly in the Allied countries, if the people objected to being used for imperialistic purposes, Junkers like Cecil, Clemenceau and Roosevelt would be more moderate in their demands.

It is in order to organize the consciousness among students of this change in world-sentiment regarding the war and its aims that the International Polity Club ought to be resurrected. Nothing could be more timely.

Yours for revolt and in revolt,
"KARL MARX."

To-Day's Poem

New Year Resolutions.

We shape the future that shall be our past
And press to-day the wine we drink at last,
And sweet or sour, at last the cup we fill,
Or dark our way, or starry, as we will.

For nothing we can ever do or think
But we shall taste it in that cup we drink;
And all we do to-day or leave undone
Darkens or clears to-morrow's cloud or sun.

Each word of love withheld from hearts
That pine
Shall be a sweetness absent from the wine;
Scorn blights whatever feels the blight of it.
And love unspoken leaves a star unlit.

But every kindly act and word shall rise
And write its silent record on the skies,
And so, before us, and behind us far,
Make the night brighter by another star.

—A. St. John Adcock

A maiden entered the Broadview car,
And loosely grasped a strap,
Now every time they hit a curve,
She sat in a different lap,
The speed increased, the turns grew worse,
At last she gasped with a smile,
"Will someone kindly tell me, please,
Are there many laps in a mile?"

BASKETBALL

Great interest and enthusiasm were shown in the formation of the Sifton Cup Series and as a result twelve teams entered. The basketball executive had great difficulty in arranging a schedule, owing to the different drill hours of the faculties. The executive after reviewing last year's series found it necessary to adopt the following resolutions:

1. All games must be played at Central YMCA.

2. Every team captain must send his name and phone number to C. H. Urquhart, N. 1961.

3. The captains of the opposing teams must arrange for referees before each game.

4. On any day that two games are to be played the first game must begin precisely at 4 p.m. the second at 4:40 p.m.

The following is the grouping and the schedule:

Group I—Jr. Meds (1), Jr. Dents, St. Mikes

Group II—Sr. Meds, S.P.S., Sr. Dents.

Group III—U.C., Jr. Meds (2), Vic.

Group IV—Trinity, F.O.E., O.T.C.

News from Other Colleges

Drake—A service flag containing 303 stars will fly from a flagpole on the campus at Drake within the next few days.

Indiana—The women have mailed over three hundred Christmas packages to former students who have entered the service.

Michigan—$25,059 was the total sum raised by students and faculties for the Y.M.C.A. War Fund. This exceeded the amount allotted to the University.

Idaho—The first dance of the season at Idaho State was held in the University's new barn. The revelers were dressed in gingham and "hickory" shorts, and danced to jazz music. Doughnuts and cider were served as refreshments.

Yale—A "Y" was voted each member of the relay swimming team which recently broke the world's record for the 200 yard relay in the meet with Columbia. As a major letter cannot be awarded, members of the swimming team, special action by the athletic board of control was necessary.

McGill—The colours of the 148th Battalion were presented last Sunday to the University as a war relic. The 148th, the mother battalion of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, was formed at McGill. The colours were brought back from overseas in October and will be kept hereafter in the Redpath Library.

CHEMISTS NEEDED.

The scarcity of chemists, of which one hears reports from time to time around the University, was emphasized this week, when hard on the heels of the news that Mr. J. F. Demaray, B.A. (McMaster), 1917, had enlisted with a Montreal Battery, came a letter from the firm with which he acted as research chemist, asking whether the college authorities could send a girl to replace him. Although McMaster University graduated some five girl students last spring, these are all now engaged in war work, and it will therefore be difficult to comply with the request.

MILITARY CROSS HONORS

CAPT. T. M. STEWART.

Both University College and Wycliffe are interested in the honour accorded Captain (Rev.) T. M. Stewart, who has been awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service in France. Captain Stewart took his M.A. in 1913, and his B.A. the year previous. He went overseas with the 81st Battalion, but has been serving in France with a unit of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

LIEUT. JOHN S. GALBRAITH.

Another Varsity man to win honours at the front is Lieut. John S. Galbraith, who has been awarded the Military Cross. Taking his B.A. degree in 1913, he was subsequently on the staff in Applied Science until he enlisted and was attached as adjutant to the 123rd Battalion. Lieut. Galbraith is freshly connected with the University as a graduate, member of the staff and a son of the late Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science.

LIEUT. THOS. W. CLARKE.

Lieut. Thomas W. Clarke, who went over as a private with the first contingent, has been awarded the Military Cross. He is a son of Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, 36 Roschill ave., Toronto, and was a student in applied science with the year '11. Wounded in May, 1915, he subsequently obtained a commission, and returned to France as lieutenant in a railway construction battalion commanded by his brother, Lieut. Col. F. F. Clarke, who is also a University man, taking his Dip. Sc. in 1903.

SPORTING NOTES

Queen's have entered three teams in the O.H.A. this winter, namely, Senior, Intermediate and Junior. There are great prospects for a fast junior team here this winter and Queen's expects to put a winning team on the ice.

At this juncture I would like to enlighten a few students at least and try to point out their ignorance of the rules regarding sport as laid down by the Athletic Committee. It is a general idea amongst the student body that the proposed trip to New York is financed by the Athletic Committee. I might say here (1) that New York have guaranteed $300 to defray expenses of the College team; (2) the Athletic Committee sanction no trip by any College team that does not pay for itself.

Previous years the trips to New York and Boston were paying propositions.—Sporting Editor.

Nebraska—An all-University men's banquet was held to honour the members of the football eleven. It is hoped to make this an annual affair to be held each year at the close of the football season.

Indiana—The first shipment of sophomore hats has arrived and are now seen on the campus. The hats are in the shape of helmets, similar to rooters' hats, and the colours are navy blue and orange.

'VARSITY' RINK DRAWING LARGE NUMBERS

Varsity Rink seems to be holding its own this year and drawing large crowds of skaters. Eighteen hundred people enjoyed skating the old year out, of which over 1,000 remained until after 12.00 o'clock. The student clubs should send their representatives to arrange hockey hours and skating rates.

The new system of lighting is a great improvement and the sight is not blocked by the always conspicuous posts. The ice sheet is perfect itself and has never been excelled before.

Notwithstanding the large crowds the majority of the skaters are not University students. This no doubt is due to the fact that the term is not yet started, but it must be remembered that last year on certain nights the Varsity was almost destitute of student skaters. Let every student rally to the support of the college rink and make it the social centre on winter evenings.

UNIVERSITY ORGANIZED FOR SOLDIERS AT FRONT

Alberta Man in Charge

Canadian Y.M.C.A. Headquarters, London, England.—The Educational Board appointed by General Turner for outlining and setting up a progressive educational program in the Canadian camps in the British Isles has left for France to investigate the promotion of a similar program among the Canadian troops there. The board consists of Captain McKinnon, formerly Principal of Pine Hill Theological College, Halifax, representing the Chaplains, Captain Geo. McDonald, representing Military Headquarters, and Lieut.-Col. Gerald W. Birks, General Supervisor of the Canadian Y.M.C.A. President H. M. Tory of the University of Alberta has at the suggestion of the Y.M.C.A. been selected to take charge of the whole work, and will shortly join this board as President of the new Khaki University.

The educational work in France will be carried on mostly in the reserve areas, though reading matter of an educational character will systematically reach the men right at the front. At the present time the Y.M.C.A. is supplying 10,000 men in the trenches with literature, besides libraries, totalling over 8,000 volumes, for their use on a loan basis. A strong demand has arisen in France for educational facilities, which augurs well for the success of the project under way.

At Bramshott, Witley, Seaford, and Shorecliffe camps the Soldiers' Colleges organized are meeting with a wonderful reception at the hands of the soldiers, several thousand being enrolled in classes of all description, taught by university professors and teachers from the ranks.

A SPLENDID WORK.

The objective has to do with the profitable occupation of the men in the Canadian army during the period of demobilization and during the period of the war, as well as a useful pastime for their off hours.

The College idea grew out of some preliminary educational work conducted by the Y.M.C.A. in the Canadian camps. Dr. H. M. Tory of the University of Alberta, Canada, was asked by the Y.M.C.A. to investigate the possibilities. With the co-operation of the chaplains and the military authorities, the Khaki College at Witley, controlled by a Chancellor, Senate and Faculty, and arranged throughout as a university of the established permanent type, was set up. Its marvellous success shortly resulted in the establishing of similar colleges for Canadian troops in Bramshott, Seaford, and Shorecliffe areas, and in steps being taken as mentioned at the outset, is provided similar educational facilities for the Canadian Army Corps at the front.

BOON TO STUDENTS

In these Khaki Colleges, Canadian soldiers, whose university careers have been interrupted by the war may continue their studies in their spare hours in England and France. Canadian soldier youths whose opportunity for a university education was apparently abruptly cut off by their response to the call to arms, may now realize their ambitions under conditions in which the opportunity for self-betterment had unfortunately been anything but bright.

The universities of Canada are co-operating in the project in a way that gives rise to high hopes for its developing and correspondingly increased service rendered the men after the war. In many cases thousands of Canadian boys are receiving academic instructions of a high order that will be of great value to them in re-establishing their lives after the war.

SOLDIER SCHOLAR.

Word has been received at the University that a former member of the staff in the Department of Spanish and Italian, Mr. Angelo Lipari, who left Toronto a few weeks ago to join the U.S. army, is temporarily assigned to the 12th Company, 152nd Depot Brigade, stationed at Camp Upton, Long Island, N.Y.

Lieut.-Col. J. Edgar Davey, who will command the Brant House Military Hospital, had the following pleasant things said about him in the College Year Book when he took his M.B. at Toronto University in 1902: "From his freshman days he has been one of the outstanding men of his year, being a good student, a good athlete, and last but not least a good Christian." He was also a popular choice as representative to the functions at other colleges, and throughout his course figured on the University's baseball and football teams. Lieut.-Col. Davey, who has just returned on leave to his home in Hamilton, went overseas as major with No. 2 Casualty Clearing Station, which later became the Moore Barracks Hospital.

Early to bed and early to rise,
And you'll meet none of the regular guys.

"What's Bill doing now?"
"He's a post impressionist."
"You don't tell me. What's that?"
"He has a job branding numbers on telephone poles"

No matter how ignorant you feel there are many who are much more ignorant.

SUPPLEMENT

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

UNDERGRADS SHOULD KNOW MORE ABOUT BANKING, INSURANCE & TRANSPORTATION

Professor Jackman Suggests a Needed Change in Curriculum

Welfare of State Depends on Intelligent Understanding of These Problems

Judged by the amount of capital involved and the influence exerted, the three greatest branches of enterprise, apart from agriculture, are banking, insurance and transportation. These bear such a vital relation to the well-being of any community or country that those who would be capable public servants or aspire to mould the national life should be conversant with the fundamental principles, and as far as possible with the details, of these vast interests. To those who will stop to consider their potent influences, even socially, to say nothing of their great importance in many other directions, it will be apparent that much more attention should be given to the study of these subjects by those who would be leaders of thought and action. The Bankers' associations of England, United States and Canada have recognized the benefit of a course of study for those who are to fill the various positions in banks and in each country funds have been provided to furnish university instruction for men who wish to rise. The study of insurance is just coming into its own in very recent years. The tremendous significance of transportation in the expansion of the country and in the creation of wealth, has never been so fully realized as at the present day. Increasing attention is being paid to these great subjects of study by the universities, and those institutions which lead in relation to academic study to practical affairs are devoting more ample time to the consideration of these subjects. The lengthening of the courses of instruction and the more detailed study of the chief problems connected with each subject are being recognized as highly desirable, while specialized courses are constantly being added to make provision for particular classes. It seems inevitable that upon the University of Toronto also will devolve the responsibility of devoting a larger share of time to these subjects in the departments of Political Economy and Commerce and Finance; and indications point to the expediency of formulating plans for the more intensive as well as extensive study of these bases of commercial life in the expansion of the university curriculum.

UNIVERSITY LODGE, A.F.A.M. INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

Presentation to P.M., W. Bro.
McCollum

University Lodge, A.F. and A.M. was well attended on December 13th at its meeting held in the Freemason's Hall, College Street, when the officers for the ensuing year were installed and invested. The membership of the lodge is largely composed of University professors and students, over fifty of whom are overseas serving King and Country.

M. W. Bro. E. T. Malone, K.C., P. G.M., was the installing Master, he being ably assisted by R. W. Bros. F. W. Harcourt, K.C., D.C.M., A. B. Rice, D.D.G.M.; Geo. H. Smith, J. A. Rowland, R. W. Brennan, P.D.D.G.M.; Henry T. Smith, R. J. Gibson, Jos. Hickson, P.G.R.; V. W. Bros. K. J. Dunstan, A. Curran, and others.

Following are the officers for 1918: W. Bros. Prof. C. H. C. Wright, W.M.; Dr. W. J. McCollum, I.P.M.; Bros. P. F. Munro, S.W.; Dr. R. W. Mann, J.W.; Wm. Douglas, K.C., Chaplain; V. W. Bros. A. G. Horwood, treasurer; P. W. Rogers, secretary; Bros. Dean C. F. Hechner, S.D.; W. J. Dunlop, J.S.; W. Bro. A. A. Kinghorn, C. of C.; Bros. R. Wherry, S.S.; C. Fairman, J.S.; Wm. Shields, organist; C. R. Redfern, I.G.; K. A. Mackenzie, asst. secretary; E. W. Wood, Tyler; Prof. H. W. McNairn and A. E. K. Bunnell, Auditors.

W. Bro. Dr. W. J. McCollum, the Immediate Past Master, was presented with a handsome jewel of office, and V. W. Bro. A. G. Horwood and W. Bro. John B. Brennan received beautiful gifts from W. Bro. McCollum for their wives, for the able assistance rendered by them to him during his year of office.

CHRISTMAS PARTIES AT UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT

Victoria College Girls Play Santa Claus in "Play School" Party

The Christmas season was a busy, happy time at the University Settlement. The house was gay with tinsel and Christmas bells and, in one room, the tree, standing in a bank of shiny-white snow, glittered in all its glory. Here it was that the long succession of Christmas parties took place. There were parties for children of all ages. Perhaps one of the most interesting was the "Play School" party, last Monday evening, when the Victoria College girls played Santa Claus to some thirty-four little tots. The party opened with kindergarten games and drills by the children, for the benefit of their proud mothers who formed the audience. After the parents had chatted together over a cup of cocoa, Santa Claus came jingling in on the scene and caused general excitement among the children as he distributed his toys to the little boys, and presented the little girls with dolls which Mrs. Santa Claus had dressed for them. The mothers were not forgotten either, for they each were given a gay scarlet package of candies. When every child had received a striking full of candies, nuts and apples from the magic tree, the party broke up and thirty-four happy children went home to tell the others "all about it."

BIG "T" MIXER ON THE WARPATH AGAIN SOON

The First is on January 16th

Ho Boys! You were just waiting for particulars, eh? You really did enjoy the Mixers' last term? You thought they filled an unique place in College life? Well, that's what they all say. But, say fellows, what about that 200 mark? We are going to reach it? Why of course we are. You said so!

And for those who found it impossible to "mix" at the Mixers last term, just try the first one this term and you will open your eyes, you will make you presence felt at every succeeding one, and you will also urge that chum of yours to come.

Did you know that men of every Faculty are there. It is the only opportunity you have of mixing with fellows of other faculties, and you may not have it again. While going through college, be sure to meet other students, be sure to exchange sentiments with them, be sure to get their viewpoint and thus broaden yourself.

Have you heard Stewart Lyon, the war correspondent of the Globe speak? Well, you may wonder just how we have secured him for one of our Big "T" Mixers? More anon. Have you heard David R. Porter of New York, who is Executive Secretary of the International Committee of the Student Federation, and associated with Dr. Mott? He is also on the list, as well as Dr. Sandiford and Mr. Bradshaw. Keep every Wednesday from six p.m. until eight p.m. free and have the best two hours of your college career.

AS OTHERS SEE US

American Soldier Favourably Impressed by U. of T.

"The University of Toronto is a beautiful place. It has that quiet, dignified air so welcome to the student. The very air seems to be intellectual, and when we saw it for the first time we congratulated ourselves on being so fortunate. Alas! How quickly our opinions changed! Soon we learned to speak of the hateful Long Branch as 'dear old Long Branch.'"

"We had breakfast in Burwash hall, which is also the name of a penitentiary and of a famous Canadian. Burwash hall looked like an old cathedral at first, but after a while we began to wonder what kind of a man the famous Canadian could have been, and these thoughts degenerated into a desire to know more about the penitentiary."

"The No. 4 School of Military Aeronautics at Toronto University is the most complete of its kind in America. The student is instructed in every detail of the construction of the airplane and

1917 EDITION OF 'VARSITY' MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT TO BE ON SALE SHORTLY

Roll of 340 Sons of Varsity who Paid the Supreme

SUPPLEMENTS 1916 EDITION

Among the Many Prominent Contributors are the Duke of Devonshire and Sir Robert Falconer.

The Editor of the Supplement hopes that it will be on sale by the end of January. The Magazine promises to be fully up to the standard of last year and is planned on ambitious lines. An attempt has been made to give an account of the contribution made by the University in many fields of war activities. When these various activities are brought together, the result pays an eloquent tribute to the way in which Varsity has risen to the demands made upon her strength and resources in these critical times.

The Supplement contains a photographic honour roll of 340 sons of old Varsity, who have fallen in the Great Cause. A supplementary photographic record to the 1916 edition was some 1,400 photographs of members of the University on active service. A printed list is published of those members whose photograph should not be obtained. Thus the 1916 and 1917 issues of the Supplement will between them contain a complete record of over 4,000 men and women on active service.

An account is given of the work of the University Hospital, Battery, Training Company, O.T.C., Antitoxin Laboratories and many other phases of University war work. Among prominent contributors are the Duke of Devonshire, Sir Robert Borden, Sir William Hearst, Sir Robert Falconer, Sir Edmund Walker and many of the heads of the affiliated colleges and faculties.

'VARSITY STAFF MEMBER RETURNS FROM ITALY

Capt. Cacciapuoti Narrates
His Experiences

"We Italians will not quit until the Germans and Austrians are out of Italy," said Capt. Nestore Cacciapuoti, who before enlisting was on the staff at Varsity. Capt. Cacciapuoti was overseas for two years, in which he rose from the rank of second-lieutenant to captain. He served with the 18th Regiment of Italian artillery, and also acted in the capacity of secretary to a general in one of Italy's military hospitals.

"Were you in Turin at the time of the bread riots in July last?" he was asked. "At the time they burned the British flag in the public square."

"It was all German propaganda," he said lightly. "We were expecting three ships laden with wheat and they did not come. Italy had a reserve amount of wheat put away for the last extremity and the Prefect should have distributed it. But Ciolette was the idol of the Germans and the neutral party—he didn't want Italy to fight at all. He and Von Buol worked together and the Prefect did not distribute the wheat. The Italian people were told that Britain had seized the ships and confiscated the wheat—as a matter of fact two of the ships were sunk by German submarines. But the people were hungry. They rioted. They destroyed two churches, many people were killed. They cried 'Down with England,' and they burned the British flag in the public square."

He is coached continually in the strategy of the air, map reading and making, etc. He becomes familiar with all the instruments used in the aeroplane to aid in flying, and all the instruments used to destroy the enemy. In a word, he must know the theory of his business thoroughly before he takes up any of the practical work of flying. The course is six weeks long."

PROF. W. T. JACKMAN OF POLITICAL SCIENCE DEPT. IS HONOURED

Has Been Asked by U.S. Govt. to Assist in Solution of Transportation Problems

That the trained man is coming more and more into his own is made evident by the fact that Prof. W. T. Jackman of Political Economy Department, has been requested by the United States Government to assist in the solution of the transportation problem. Dr. Jackman has complied and advised the American Government chiefly in regard to transport by motor-truck. It is expected that this will relieve the congestion on the railroads to a considerable extent. The details of the plan have not yet been made public. Dr. Jackman spoke very highly of the energy of the Committee in charge of transport across the border.

SIR R. FALCONER TO ADDRESS MENORAH CLUB

The Menorah Society will hold their first open meeting of this term on Monday evening, January 14 at the University Y.M.C.A. Sir Robert Falconer will address the Club on some topic relative to Judaism. A splendid musical programme will supplement the lecture. All interested are cordially invited.

MAJOR MEL HART

Extract of letter received from an officer of the 4th C.M.R. by an officer in Toronto. Dated France, October 30, 1917, received Toronto, Nov. 20, 1917.

"By the way, have the proudest congratulations to Mel Hart's father. Major Mel having been in every big show, including the Somme, was to have been left out of the line this time, but at the last minute, the night before the battle, he was sent for, and he took command of the whole front line, engineered a most brilliant re-organization, took the lead with the most splendid courage and came through. His work is the talk of the division." Major Hart has just won a Bar to his Military Cross. He is returning home shortly on leave.

Lieut. W. W. Rogers.

Another member of Class '18 to go overseas was Lieut. W. W. Rogers, who has just been gazetted a captain in the Royal Flying Corps. Capt. Rogers came from Alton, P.E.I., to take his Arts course at University College, but abandoned it to enlist with the rank of lieutenant in the C.F.A. On arriving in England he transferred to the R.F.C. in December, 1916, completing his course in April, and going the following month to France, where he has been serving ever since.

'VARSITY MAKES MOVE IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Will Co-operate in Plan for Providing Educational Facilities in France for Canadian Troops

Information was given out yesterday from the office of President Falconer regarding the establishment of a University in France to provide educational facilities for the Canadian troops at the front. It was announced that the University of Toronto will co-operate with the plan in every way and that the Senate Committee is working on details now. President Tory of the University of Alberta, was in Toronto this week, on his way to England to join the board as President of the new University.

The main object of this university will be the training of the men, so that during the period of demobilization, troops will be able to start back in civil life without any delay or drawback. Under this system students at the front may continue their educational training under university professors, with the same standard and work as here, and after the war they will be able to enter the university again, without having lost any of their standing.

So strong a demand has arisen in France for such facilities, that already many undergraduates are giving lectures, which have been received enthusiastically. The part that the University of Toronto will take in this grand scheme is now being determined by the main committee, and will be given later for publication.

SOME INFORMATION FOR UNDERGRAD. DRAFTEES

A meeting of the Senate will take place on Friday, January 11, to determine if academic credit will be given to undergraduates called out under the Military Service Act. This will clear up the situation for Varsity students, who are anxious to know whether they will be given their year.

He obtained a commission in an infantry battalion in 1915. After going overseas he transferred to the R.F.C. His father lives in California. Mr. J. A. Ayearst of 112 Kendal Avenue is an uncle.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES.

The following members of the University have been mentioned in despatches by the O.C. the Salonica force:

Lieut.-Col. G. Gow.

Lieut.-Col. George Gow, C.A.D.C., who is a D.D.S. of 1899. Col. Gow was in charge of the dental section of the University Base Hospital. He was previously mentioned in despatches in December, 1916, and was also awarded the Serbian Order of the White Eagle. His home is in Windsor.

Capt. D. A. L. Graham.

Capt. D. A. L. Graham, C.A.M.C. of the University Hospital Staff. He is an M.B. of 1905, and a member of the Medical Staff in the University. His home is in Ivan, Ontario.

Capt. W. A. Clarke.

Capt. W. A. Clarke, C.A.M.C. of a Canadian Hospital on the Balkan front. He is a B.A. of Trinity College of the year 1906, and an M.B. of 1910. He has been twice before mentioned in despatches. His home is in Vancouver.

Sec. Lieut. G. A. Cruise.

Sec. Lieut. G. A. Cruise, Essex Regt. (Victoria College) who was severely wounded last spring, has recovered from his injuries, and is now again in the front line.

Capt. D. E. S. Wishart.

Among those mentioned in despatches for "gallant conduct and distinguished services" by the Commander-in-Chief of the British of the Salonica Force in the special supplement of the London Gazette of November 28, is the name of Capt. D. E. Wishart, R.A.M.C. Capt. E. Wishart went overseas in February 1915 and has been on the eastern front over two years. He is now with the forces in Palestine. He is a son of Dr. D. J. Gibb Wishart of the Medical Staff.

AWARDED MILITARY CROSS.

Lieut. T. W. Clarke, M.C.

Lieut. Thomas Wallace Clarke has been awarded the Military Cross. He is the son of Mr. Wm. H. Clarke of 36 Rose Hill Ave., Toronto, and was an Applied Science student of the year 1911. He went overseas as a private in the first contingent and was wounded in May 1915. Subsequently he obtained a commission and returned to France as lieutenant in a railway construction battalion commanded by his brother, Lieut.-Col. F. F. Clarke, who is a Dip. Sc. graduate of 1903.

Lieut. J. J. Campbell, M.C.

The Military Cross has been awarded to the late Lieut. John James Campbell. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1914. Early in 1916, he enlisted in the ranks of the University of Toronto Depot Battery. Being promoted to a commission in the same, he left in June 1916 with the first overseas draft from that unit. On October the 20th of this year, he was wounded slightly, but remained on duty. A few days later he was killed in action. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell of Galt, Ontario.

Lieut. A. G. Leslie, M.C.

The Military Cross has also been awarded to Lieut. Allan George Leslie. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1913. He was a lieutenant in the C.F.A., and went to France early this year. In October he was severely wounded. He is a son of Mr. J. P. Leslie of Owen Sound.

Lieut. A. M. West, M.C.

The Military Cross has also been awarded to Lieut. Alexander M. West, of the Canadian Engineers. He was a B.A.Sc. of 1910. He went overseas in August 1915, and was reported wounded in May 1917.

Sapper F. H. Wilkinson, M.M.

The Military Medal was awarded some months ago to Sapper Frederick Hugh Wilkinson. He was a University and Wylliffe College student of 1919. He enlisted in the Divisional Signallers. He is a son of the Rev. F. Wilkinson of St. Peters Church, Toronto.

CHEERFULNESS

At the beginning of the final college term it used to be deemed necessary to plead, cajole, warn and threaten the student body of dire penalties should they not foreswear the gay levity of youth and settle down quickly and quietly to the deed and abstruse problems of their respective courses. We no longer think any student needs to be aroused to the seriousness of his work. Life has increased ten-fold in significance during the last four years, and whether we would or no, we have felt the moulding power of this seriousness in our College work and character forming.

But seriousness carried to the extreme can prove harmful. Social activities which used to break the tension of academic calm have been for the most part forewarned, and many students fill their relaxation periods with added responsibilities in the office of the Universities' many societies. Physical exercise and outdoor sport is often a negligible quantity and as a result every spring just at a time when the pulse should beat high with enthusiasm, we meet nervous breakdowns, self-pitying, long drawn martyred faces, and any number of "first-class bores". What student does not dread the Spring!

For these reasons we ask you to foster the habit of cheerfulness. Sacrifice and service are still the watchwords. Let us illuminate them with hopeful vitality and happy dispositions. If the morale of the people is to be the great counting factor in the coming days, it is our bounden duty to spread a healthful spirit of cheer. No thoughtless happiness, but the pleasure which comes from looking cheerfully on the dark side of life! There never was a time in history when the pessimist had a better opportunity to work havoc. Let us remember we are called upon to be altruists. To breathe deeply and fill our souls with the hopeful sunlight of the universe is to have gone more than halfway towards a first class honour in the Spring.

THE ROLL OF SERVICE

During the holidays, the Roll of Service, a book containing the names and record of the graduates and undergraduates of the University who have been on active service in the present war, was completed. The purpose of this book was to preserve, in permanent form, the achievements of Varsity men in the army; and thus, even in a small way, to remember the services which they have so gloriously given in the past three years. It is pleasing to note in the Preface, written by the President, that it is the intention of the Editor to complete this work when the war is over; and when all the information which he now possesses and which he will obtain in the future can be used. In this way an enduring record will be secured and a record which will be incorporated in the traditions of the University, and which will be of the greatest interest to all connected with the University.

To the Editor, Professor G. O. Smith of University College, and those associated with him, too many thanks cannot be given for the time which they have so gladly given to produce the Roll of Service; and for the careful manner in which work of this painstaking character has been done. There is every reason to believe that when the final Roll is published, it will be as well edited as the present Roll.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

We hope we are not too optimistic, but we are of the opinion that the Students' Directory will make nice reading during the long summer vacation.

T. R. Deacon, Exchange Editor of THE VARSITY, has left Varsity to take a military course after which he will proceed overseas. He carries with him the best wishes of all his fellow-members on THE VARSITY.

THE VARSITY disagrees absolutely with the sentiments expressed in the letter which appeared yesterday. The correspondence column is thrown open freely to the students, and it is expected that the students will not abuse the privilege.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

THE SNOWBIRD

Where is the music of yesterday? The music that awakened in its hearers high and noble aspirations, the music that carried many an army along!—in a cheerful mood even though the last notch in their belt was their nearest approach to breakfast. All gone! And in its place we have a shrieking syncopation whose highest desire is "to put them to sleep with an old-fashioned melody," and the equally laudable ambition "wake them up with a rag". The iron has entered our soul, and we are bitter, but let us state the sad details of our harrowing tale.

Taking advantage of New Year's day we called upon the most beautiful girl in the world. We found her gracefully seated at the piano and having recognized us with an adorable smile, she continued the rather catchy tune she was playing. We propped ourself against the Baby Grand à la G. Algernon Knowlledge, in the "Destitute Dotage of a Dutiful Duchess", and decided to enjoy the panorama. This by the way is a new method we've adopted. We used to breeze into the room, hang our hat on the bric-a-brac and start—"say, I saw a sweet thing at the — last week,"—and when the interest we had aroused threatened to entrap us into company when next we visited that famous playhouse, now, we just casually say—"Won't you play something?" But a first year Med showed us how uncouth this was. Now with the aforementioned G. Algernon Knowlledge, we drape ourselves against furniture and gaze dreamily through half-closed lids. It's about 99.9 effective.

But to return to New Year's day. Whilst we were enjoying the classic outlines of the fair Dryad's physiognomy and mentally nusing on the lofty ideas which must be coursing through her beautiful brain, she threw back her regal head and opening her rose-bud mouth, burst into song, and kind, indulgent reader the song was, "It's too warm for —". One winter night, while in a forgetful mood, we stepped off the end of Yonge Street into the semi-frozen bosom of Lake Ont. But the shock was nothing to that which we suffered New Year's day. Our idol was of the earth earthy.

O. S. T. C.

"Good-bye, I will see you over there." Since College closed last year farewells and handshakes have been decidedly in order around the O.T.C. quarters at Burwash Hall.

On December 13th, fifteen men left to join the R.N.A.S. in England. Though they had discarded their uniforms you could tell who were going for they were grinning from ear to ear. Among them was Corporal Hutcheson, U.C. 270, who was surprised by the writer frolicking with a fatigue man who was shovelling snow. A strong handgrip and a cheerful farewell betokened no misgivings as to his coming adventure.

On the 14th of December thirty members making the tenth draft, left for England to get commissions in the Imperial Army.

These men stay on the Company's role and received their usual pay until two weeks after they land in England. This is a commendable feature in the O.T.C. system.

By this time these drafts will be on English soil and no doubt mighty glad to see land again.

Already Gen. Gwatkin has arrived and has chosen thirty six men composing the eleventh draft. There names are as follows: W. Adams, A. E. Barry, J. I. Bouleau, L. D. Bickford, H. E. Bowes, W. W. Bowes, W. L. J. Brown, J. Burnside, S. C. Dalton, L. W. Davidson, A. DeLaporte, H. G. Dyer, H. D. Helstrop, K. W. Hill, K. W. Hunter, J. S. Johnson, W. V. Lone, S. M. Lewis, D. J. Little, R. B. Leptrain, B. R. Marr, H. P. Morrison, E. Munsey.

Twenty-five men have qualified as musketry instructors and are now scattered over the Toronto and Hamilton districts acting in that capacity to the various units. Twenty-five men have gone for two or three months to the Bayonet and Physical Training School to act as instructors there.

Nine men have been accepted as equipment officers by the R.F.C., while more are on probation and will likely be accepted in the near future.

Four men are over at Niagara-on-the-Lake helping Col. LePan in his wonderful work of training the Polish battalions and officers, amounting in all to from five to six thousand.

All these men are only temporarily on command. They are still on the Company's role, paid through its orderly room, and will report back there on the completion of their work.

The strength of the Military Service Act when asked how the Company's status in this connection, Capt. Wallace shook his head dubiously. "Until a draft is ordered to report," he said, "he is free to join any unit he likes. However, when he receives his letter ordering him to report, it will also tell him what unit to which to report, likely a Central Ontario Battalion. After this he has no alternative. What will happen to the O.T.C. after they all get their letters is beyond me."

A Shade of Yesteryear

He entered without knocking I motioned him to a chair.

The fire burned and crackled briskly in the grate, the flapping flames sending out a soothing warmth that discounted the intense cold outside, while on the opposite wall the fantastic shadows danced and wavered. With pipe aglow and slippers on fender, I stared pensively into the blazing hearth. The book which I had been reading, — a copy of Sauvastre's "Un Philosophie Sous les Toits" (quite appropriate to the season you will notice), had fallen to the floor unheeded. My strange and unbidden quest meanwhile sat silent, his mood apparently in sympathy with mine. An uneasy curiosity impelled me to break the suspense.

"Who are you?" I asked, more pointedly than politely.

He smiled somewhat reproachfully. "Don't you know me. I was with you on last New Year's eve," he answered. "I am the ghost of Yesteryear."

"Ah, yes, I remember you now; you come to —"

"To hear what you have to say concerning your doings for the past twelve months."

"Strange. I have been thinking about that very thing."

"I am glad of that; it saves me the bother of introducing my subject. Perhaps you wouldn't mind telling me then what conclusion you have reached concerning yourself?"

"My modesty, I am afraid, would hardly permit that."

"Then suppose I give you one or two opinions of my own."

I volleysaid no reply to this, merely bending over to stir up the fire which had begun to die down.

"First," he continued, taking my silence for consent. "You have been guilty of selfishness, of complacent self-centredness."

"Tush, anybody might be charged with that, have you nothing new to offer?"

"Wait a moment: Your selfishness has not been of an ordinary kind; it has rather expressed itself in terms of base ingratitude for favors received, thoughtlessness concerning the welfare of others, and a downright disregard for the common rights and privileges of your fellows."

By this time he had found in an awakened conscience a busy ally. However, I attempted an evasive manner which I was far from feeling.

"Pray go on," said I in an effort to be ironical; "Don't spare me."

"I won't," he replied with rather disconcerting promptness. You have also kept consistently late hours."

"Well, what of it. Is a fellow to be in the kindergarten class all his life; besides late hours are fashionable."

"An erroneous idea that dies hard. People of sense go to bed at a reasonable hour so that they may be fit for the next day's work, and I include college students as well. Remember four years is only a very small fraction of a lifetime. Besides don't you think that bridge, whist, the burlesque show and the midnight frolic a poor excuse for a neglected lesson or non-attendance at lectures?"

"O, I don't know, a fellow must have his fun some time."

"Yes, but not all of the time. You ought to arrange your hours so that you will have time for both work and play."

"Again," the spirit pursued with relentless calmness that left his voice cold and even, "You have shirked your share of College activities."

"Hold on —"

"I know what you are about to say," he cut in. "You are going to tell me that you contribute to the upkeep of the different athletic teams, and the literary society, and that you attend their meetings once in a while and that you are usually present at the functions of your year. I grant you all this; but do you consider it quite all you should do at this time?"

"It is true there are fewer fellows round than usual, still I can't see how that fact alone constitutes a valid reason why all the work of the college should be loaded on two or three men."

THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

CORNELL HONOURS TORONTO GRADUATE

Dr. Gordon Appointed Women's Medical Adviser

Dr. Edith Gordon, a graduate of the University of Toronto, B.A. '06, and M.B. '15, has been appointed to the honourable and arduous position of Assistant Medical Adviser of Women at Cornell University. She will have under her direct supervision over 700 college women and will keep a record of their physical condition. This position is an innovation at Cornell, and was instituted primarily to ascertain the physical unfit among the women and to aid them in attaining a more perfect development along physical and the consequent mental lines.

Dr. Gordon has undoubted qualification which will eminently qualify her for her onerous duties. She has travelled extensively on the continent; has been an interne at the famous "Woman's Hospital", Philadelphia, and for the past year was resident physician at the Cottage State Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa. In the latter position she took a prominent part in the organization of the laboratory and was in charge of the Pathological Department.

Dr. Gordon is a distinguished member of a talented family. Her father is a well-known Toronto architect. Her mother is an M.B. of Toronto of the Class of '96 and is an M.D.C.M. (honoris causa) of Trinity University. Lieut. Hal. Gordon, who was engaged in journalistic work in Toronto and who was killed in action, is another brother.

LIEUT. H. ERIC MACHELL HOLDS RESPONSIBLE POSITION

Was Appointed in Charge at Brant House—Miss M. King is Dietitian

Lieut. H. Eric Macchell has been appointed commanding officer for Brant House Convalescent Home, with the rank of captain, by the Military Hospitals command at Ottawa. As adjutant of the Great War Veterans' Association and an officer with the M.H.C. here, Mr. Macchell has had a busy time since his homecoming from the front. He is only 24 years of age and is probably one of the youngest officers to hold so responsible a position. Lt. Macchell went to France as a corporal and was granted a commission there.

He left with the 19th Battalion and was in the trenches from September, 1915, to June, 1916, when he was sent to England for an appendicitis operation.

His two brothers, Maurice and Geoffrey, both enlisted in the service.

Brant House has facilities for about 300 patients, some of whom will go there from Hamilton next week.

With the exception of the medical officers, who will be appointed by the Assistant Director of Military Service, the entire staff is being appointed by the M.H.C.C. Miss Marjorie King as dietitian is the only other appointment as yet. She is a graduate of the University in Household Science, and trained as pupil dietitian at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and the Queen's Military Hospital, Kingston. Brant House will be Miss King's first responsible post, but after excellent training.

DANCING IS BANNED AT CLASS MEETINGS

Contrary to Policy of University in Past

Dancing at University College class meetings has aroused a great deal of discussion and a rumour has it, that they are to be banned in the future. On enquiry the following information was elicited by THE VARSITY.

For years past the policy of Unive city College has been to recognise official y no evening dances, except the Rugby, Students' Union and Literary Society dances, and since the war these dances have been discontinued.

As the class meetings must have the official recognition of the University College authorities, notice has been given that dancing must not be a part of the proceedings of an evening meeting. There is apparently no objection to dancing in the afternoon.

There is no objection to an informal dance for a while after the meeting is over, because as such it would be merely a dance among friends and would not have to be recognised by the authorities. Only Miss Wong's permission is necessary.

GOOD SHOWING

Many Members of School of Science Have Been Honoured

Statistics compiled at the School of Practical Science regarding the graduates and undergraduates at the front show honours awarded for deeds of heroism in the cause of the allies. The list of these already totals 112, of which eight were given by other countries.

France has conferred the Croix de Guerre on Lieut. C. B. Ferris, '13; Flight Lieut. E. R. Grange, '15; Flight Lieut. G. G. MacLennan, '13, who has since given his life to the cause, and Capt. S. M. Thorne, of Century Class. The Italian Military Medal has been won by Lieut. W. G. Mitchell, '11, and the Cross of St. George (Russia) by Capt. C. P. Cotter, '13, who fell in June, 1916. Lieut. C. H. Mitchell, '92, is a much decorated hero, his honours including K.C.M.G., conferred by his Majesty King George, La Legion d'Honneur Croix d'Officier, and Officer of the Order of Leopold (Belgium).

Lieut. J. M. Reid, '15, was awarded the Victoria Cross, while eight Distinguished Service Orders and 30 Military Crosses have been won by the 582 officers who have represented their Alma Mater at the front.

MEMORIAL FOR DEAD

Queen's will Erect One for Her Students who Have Made Sacrifice

After the war Queen's University will have, if the present plans are carried out, a "union building," which will be a memorial to the students of the college who have been killed in action. The building will be a kind of clubhouse for the students. The idea, which has not yet been definitely planned, carries with it an endowment of a million dollars, which would be sufficient to erect and equip the building.

SUPPS. THROW GLOOM AROUND MAIN BUILDING

The January Supplemental Examinations commenced on January 3rd. They have been held in the Senate Chamber and Class Rooms of Main Building. In the former the climate at present is far from being anything like the balmy sunshine of the tropics.

The number of students writing these examinations has ranged from four to nineteen. A good number for the January Examinations, which are on the whole a costly luxury.

SCIENCE MEN ENLISTS.

Another addition to the ranks of the Hertzberg, Ltd., which is already well represented overseas. Mr. Ewing, who is a Toronto boy, took his B.A.Sc. at the University in 1913.

SUCCESSFUL RE-UNION OF VIC. COLLEGE '15

Happy Party Gathers in Women's Students' Union

On Friday evening, January 4, the members of the Class of 1915, Victoria, who were in or near Toronto, assembled at the Victoria Women's Students' Union for a class reunion and dinner.

Fifteen members of the class, Prof. Auger (the permanent Honorary President of the class), Mrs. Auger, and Miss Wilson, who had frequently officiated as chaperon at parties given by the class in their undergraduate days, sat down to dinner together. The tables were prettily decorated with the College scarlet and gold, and the warm hearth fire dispelled any atmospheric chill that might have crept in, so the classmates chatted together and enjoyed the banquet quite like "old times."

After dinner toasts were drunk to "The King," "Canada and the Empire," "The College and Class," "The Grandchildren of 1915," and "Our Guests." Then the tables were cleared and the class members wrote letters to their class mates overseas. Before the party broke up, all gathered around the piano and lustily sang and gave the class yell.

The members of the class who were present were: Miss Ruth Walker, Misses Holmes, Junkin, Pickering, Chantler, Dunlop and Young. Major Moffit (chaplain of the 2nd Can. Division who is home on leave), Sgt. Major Kaiser, Sergts. Couric and Brown, Ptes. Belfry and Sinclair and Messrs. Hall and Watson.

U.C. GRADS. PROVIDE INTERESTING PROGRAM.

"Alumnae Night" of Women's Lit. a Decided Success

"Alumnae Night" at the Literary Society which was postponed from Dec. 8 was given on Saturday evening. A large audience enjoyed a most entertaining programme provided by the graduates.

An introductory speech by the Alumni President, Miss Wilson, opened the meeting. Miss Wilson told of many interesting and creditable things the Alumnae had superintended. Among these was the $40 sent to Halifax, the amount received from the sale of University china in the Union and assistance given to the University Settlement at Christmas.

In February the Alumni are giving a play the proceeds of which are to be given to the University Hospital Supply Association. The play will be one of Moliere's, the English version. The undergraduates know now what good actresses the Alumnae Society has and many will attend the play.

After the introductory remarks, "The Far-away Princess," a play consisting of two scenes, was presented. The play was highly entertaining and cleverly given by Misses Taylor, Dingle, Begg, Keyes, Robinson, Boyle, Cooper and Mortimer.

After the final scene the president announced that the audience would now be asked to use their powers to discover a word of seven letters presented in eight scenes by the Alumnae. The charades, which presented athletics, Literary Society meetings, scenes at the Union and other common affairs about college were extremely amusing.

The eighth scene which was in the form of an Alumnae Society meeting, proved to the audience that they had guessed the correct word—"Alumnae".

Refreshments terminated one of the most enjoyable Literary Society meetings.

MISS CULLIS WILL LECTURE

For some years England has produced brilliant scientific women, whose work is being loyally recognized and encouraged by men. Canadian women will appreciate and acknowledge the breadth of view of the University of Toronto toward women in the fact that Miss Cullis, of London, England, has been invited to give lectures in physiology this winter. Miss Cullis is not only well known as a physiologist, but as a good public speaker, having been much employed since the outbreak of the war in lecturing on some of the questions which have arisen since then. Miss Cullis is staying with Professor and Mrs. J. J. Mackenzie for the present.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut. Henry Drummond Lang died of wounds on December 31st, 1917, at No. 1 South African General Hospital, Abbeville, France. He enlisted with the 5th Universities Company, P.P.C.L.I. as a private, and was promoted in December 1916. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge on April 9th. Lieut. Lang belonged to the class of 1919 University College. His parents live at 20 Leopold Street, Toronto.

Lieut. Robert Vernon Macaulay, B.A. Sc. of 1912, has been awarded the Military Cross. He enlisted with the first contingent in the Canadian Field Artillery as a bombardier, and was promoted to lieutenant on the field in June 1916. During the winter months of 1916-17, he served on headquarters staff. Last November he was reported wounded. His home is in Toronto.

Lieut. O. D. Vaughan, Sc. 1917, has been gazetted for duty in the Ministry of Munitions. He has been serving with the C.A.S.C.

Col. Perry Goldsmith, M.D.C.M. of Trinity College, 1896, has been appointed O.C. of the Officers' Convalescent Hosp., at Matlock, Derbyshire, England. Col. Goldsmith went overseas with No. 2 Canadian General Hospital as a major, and since then has held several different posts in hospitals in England.

Major Harold C. Parsons of No. 4 Canadian General Hospital (University) has been promoted lieutenant-colonel. Major Parsons took the degree of M.D.C.M. in 1922, his B.A. in 1904, and also M.A. He was mentioned in despatches last July.

VARSITY'S "ROLL OF SERVICE" NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED

The distribution of the Roll of Service is progressing favourably and the one thousand copies which have been received are being sent out all the time. As far as is known at present, anyone desiring a copy will receive one, but probably some time in the future some restrictions will have to be placed. Of course, the relatives of the "Varsity soldiers" will be given preference in the distribution and reservation will be made for those who have not yet sent in their applications.

VACANCY IN ENG. DEPT. TO REMAIN UNTENANTED

Ever since Mr. A. F. B. Clarke of the Department of English left Varsity last week to accept an appointment in the University of Washington at Seattle, the students have been very anxious to know who will succeed him. Prof. W. J. Alexander, head of the English Department, when seen by a representative of THE VARSITY, stated that there is nobody to succeed him. The students in Mr. Clarke's sections will be distributed amongst the various sections in the Department.

DEATH OF UNIVERSITY M.D.

Dr. Robert Smith, who graduated from the University in 1911 has died of anaemia and acute septic tonsillitis at the Daughters of the Empire Hospital, London, England, according to word received by his relatives in Guelph township. Since completing his medical course Dr. Smith had practised in Innesfree and Hardisty, Alta., but in March, 1913, enlisted with the C.A.M.C. at London, Ont., for service overseas. On arriving in England he was attached to the Canadian Convalescent Hospital, Usbridge, where he remained until taken ill last August. Before coming to the University he attended Guelph Collegiate Institute.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB.

Dr. Huntsman will give an address "Biological Work in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence" to-morrow evening, at 8 p.m. The Club will not meet in the Biological Building as previously announced. Watch the posters for place of meeting.

'VARSITY ENLARGES HER SPHERE OF INFLUENCE

Activities of Extension Office Little Known to Students

An interesting branch of University activity which is little known among undergraduates here, but which is nevertheless an important and busy phase of the work of this and every university, is the work which is carried on by the Extension Office, misnamed extra-mural work, and differing from extra-mural activity in that the studies of those who are taking the courses provided by the extension office are directed and supervised by the staff provided for that purpose and not left entirely to the discretion and initiative of the students concerned.

For those who are not familiar with this department a brief outline of its duties will not be amiss. These duties are fourfold, and consist in the carrying on of Correspondence Courses for teachers and others whose labour hours prohibit their attendance here, in the management of the Summer Session, which is intended to cap the Correspondence Course of the previous year, in the arrangement of Local Lectures in various parts of the country, wherever and whenever requested, and also in conducting the Teachers' Classes held four nights a week as well as on Saturdays.

The Correspondence Courses, Teachers' Classes and Seminar Sessions may be joined by anyone with second year standing, though this qualification may itself be obtained by taking a Correspondence Course in Faculty Entrance. Three or four subjects are dealt with each year and a degree is obtainable at the end of five years. Although most of the students take longer. The course continues from October to March and the Summer Session commences early in July, continuing for five weeks.

The system on which the Correspondence Courses are carried on is very simple. The work is outlined in monthly bulletins and there are sent to the students who send in their exercises in regular weekly or fortnightly instalments, these are corrected and returned to their owners. The magnitude of this undertaking may be guessed from the fact that in the month of December, over 100 exercises passed through the Extension Office from 17 students.

The attendance at the Teachers' Classes is 29, of whom 26 are doing second year work and three doing third. The attendance at both these classes is well up to the standard of previous years, and when the advantages to be derived from them are more widely known, much larger classes are expected. If any wish further information on any of these subjects, they are advised to write to the Extension Office or to call on person at their office in Room H, University College building.

C. O. T. C.

Classes will parade commencing to-day on the back campus, opposite Hart House at 4.10 p.m., as follows:

Class I—University College and Victoria on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Class II—Medicals on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Class III—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Gymnasium Classes on Mondays and Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 4.20 p.m.

The Band will parade at the orderly room, Mining Building, on Tuesdays and Fridays at 4.10 p.m.

SHORT STORY CONTEST

The Women's Literary Society of U.C. is offering a prize for the best short story entitled "Puppets All". The prize to take the form of a book as being most appropriate to the occasion. Stories submitted are to be of not more than 3,500 words, not less than 2,500. Each manuscript should be accompanied by a slip bearing the name and address of the author, and should be left in the Literary Society post office box addressed to the Secretary, Miss Alfreda Elliott. Contest closes February 1, 1918.

News of Our Student Soldiers

The following extracts are from a letter received from the family of the late Lieut. J. J. Campbell, M.C. He first enlisted in the ranks of the 67th (Varsity) Battery. Being promoted in June 1916 to the rank of lieutenant, he left that month in command of the first overseas draft of that unit.

"We have received many letter from the front telling us of his bravery. He had his transportation on him for England when he was killed. The letter and his purse with a hole through both, and blood-stained, we have received. After being wounded on October 20, he refused to leave the battery owing to scarcity of officers; when he was wounded he could have gone down the line but would not. The letter state that he was killed instantly, a shell burst near him to splinters. . . . A letter came last week from the lieutenant-colonel, saying that he had been given the M.C. the day before he fell. The writer apologised for not getting word to us sooner owing to their passing through a strenuous period. . . . He is buried at Dickelbusch Cemetery, Ypres. The commanding officer states that he was a prime favorite with officers and men alike and his work as an officer was beyond praise. In one of the letters received it stated that a stone is erected and suitably inscribed, as one of the men is a stone cutter. . . . He fell with those who loved him around him."

The following extracts are from a letter from the sister of Sergt. C. A. Hughes, C.F.A., (App. Sc. 1917)—concerning Bdr. E. R. Hawley, a letter has been received from the chaplain and one from a gunner of the battery, who is now in England convalescing from a gas attack. Hawley was called into action at Passchendaele to take charge of gun No. 3. I believe he took my brother's place when the latter was wounded, for they were in the same sub-section. Shortly afterwards he and several others of his companions were killed by a shell. Their bodies lay there beside the gun for three days before the other members had the opportunity to bury them. My brother in a letter of November 27 writes: "Roy was buried at a forward dressing station. Everything was done that could be done and his grave is well marked and the map location taken. A direct hit on my gun the night I left killed the whole gun crew." The official cable stated that Hawley died of wounds on October 29th, but that is doubtless a mistake. There must have been some confusion in sending the cable. The battery had seventy casualties within three weeks. . . . My brother was moved to a Canadian Convalescent Camp at Epsom on Nov. 17. He writes that he is recovering so rapidly that he expects to be on duty again soon, but on December 7 we received a second official cable to the effect that his wounds were still discharging and that he would be under treatment for some time yet."

Norman Laughlin of the Dental Sergeants' Course has transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service. He will leave for England at once. He was a member of Class '20 of the Dental College.

COL. AMYOT HONORED

Lieut.-Col. John A. Amyot, who also receives the C.M.G., became an M.B. of the University in 1891, and later was a member of the Staff, as well as of the Board of Health. He crossed to England as major with the University Base Hospital. After serving in France he was returned there again for duty, and has been acting as sanitary adviser of the Canadian forces in England with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Prior to this latest honour Lieut. Colonel Amyot's name had figured in despatches, and in August last he was especially mentioned for valuable services.

PATRIOTIC FUND CAMPAIGN

In all probability the University will take its usual part in the Patriotic Fund, Campaign which is shortly to be launched in Toronto. No official request for the participation of the University has yet been received by the President's office, but it is believed that it will shortly be made. The endeavour will be organized along the same lines as the campaign last year when a very substantial sum was realized.

CONCENTRATION

People say "One can't help one's thoughts." But one can. We can look after our bodies inside and out, we can control our feet at class parties, and in the same way we can dictate to the brain its task and ensure obedience. Indeed without the power to concentrate true life is impossible.

People complain of the lack of power to concentrate, not willing that they may acquire the power if they choose. A student who in the lecture room merely takes notes with the view of impressing the lecturer that he is not loafing in the class will some day be wondering why the other fellow gets first-class honours and he cannot. In the privacy of our own rooms it is sometimes easier to concentrate, but even the best student would hate to admit how often the knock at the door, telephone, mail-man is a sufficient excuse to set the mind on a random journey for precious hours. Nor can the power of concentration be acquired in a night.

All that is required is practice. Try concentrating on a certain object when you leave the house in the morning. You will not have gone forty paces until some new object will have set your thought on a tangent. Try again.

Practice on the street-car, in the lecture room, down-town, everywhere. Then when the night comes for a test of your power, the drilling you have given your mind will fit you for the particular Waterloo at hand. Do learn the art of practice and perseverance, and concentrate only on the things worth while. Get your mind in hand, and you will find half the evils of student life cured—especially worry—that miserable, avoidable, disease-worry.

THE "BIG MAN"

"If I only had my college life to live over again—"
"First, I wouldn't try to make myself believe that my university couldn't do without me. I have no special talents, and yet I have dabbled in a dozen activities. I discharged them the best I could, yet I am positive that there were a score far more capable than I was. The result was that my work took a slump and that I just 'got by'."

"When I was a freshman, I literally worshipped the upperclassmen who, as I thought of it then, amounted to something on the campus. And now that I am one of these, I look upon the freshman who tries to keep in my good graces with a feeling of pity. Pity, not for the individual, but because the individual is, too, on the road to become a Big Man."

"If I had my college life to live over again, I would put my studies first, the very first. If I saw that any activity in which I entered might interfere with my studies, I would drop it as though it were red-hot. I would not try to become a Big Man, for the Big Man is usually the Big Fool."—Michigan Daily.

To-day there are few "Big Men" at Varsity—the times have changed. But the times will change again and opportunities for the "Big Man" to arise will re-occur. Perhaps some of those who are now in the lower years will experience this later change, and it is on their account that the above warning is given. The keynote is not mere sentiment but it is a genuine regret that the possibilities which a University course gives were not better appreciated; and that, on graduation, full satisfaction cannot be felt.

This is a matter which rests entirely with the students themselves. They cannot be driven to study, but they would do well to consider the above, and to hearken sometimes at least, to what seniors in our University say.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The first of the Spring series of "T" Mixers will be held on Wednesday next. Watch for further announcement in THE VARSITY.

A few biographies have not yet been handed in to the Editor of Torontonensis. The obligation of seeing that these are inserted rests on the people concerned.

The attention of readers of THE VARSITY is called to the notice appearing at the top of the correspondence column to-day. Fuller regulations for the better control of the publication of letters are given there, and all are asked to comply.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

No. 8—

"THE CONTAGION OF CHARACTER"

Prof. W. T. Hallam.

Character is the precipitant in the solution of circumstances. The excellency of the precipitant is indicated by the precipitate.

Character is the criterion of all success. Knowledge, money, skill, and energy are incomplete tests. A man may have all these and still not be worth knowing.

The essential of good character is Self-Control and Self-Control is the ideal of Christianity. The hysterical is fundamentally wrong. That is why so many of the non-Christian faiths are unfruitful in the building of good character. They advocate the abandonment of man's faculties instead of their possession and exercise. This has brought about the fatal separation between religion and morality. Some odd sects in the Christian world run close to the same form of error.

The norm of life according to Christianity is the highest and most positive Self-Control. That is what we gather from the New Testament and the example of Jesus. Self-surrender is only another way of saying the same thing, which emphasizes the inadequacy of the unenlightened self. Some students have the idea that goodness is negative instead of positive—a pardonable mistake in view of the anemic Christianity of some clergy and lay folk. The normal life is controlled, not by restraints, but by positive motives as Jesus taught. Love is the common light of life and, passing through the spectrum, love breaks up into patience, kindness, generosity, humility, courtesy, unselfishness, good temper, guilelessness and sincerity, as St. Paul taught us.

Such a character is the real desire of everyone. We all acknowledge it in our best moments. The question for us is how we are to gain such development. The contagion of character is one way. We are aware of the downward pull of some whom we meet, unconscious and subtle perhaps, but still definite. On the other hand if we could associate with only the highest and best personalities, the inspiration would lift us to developments impossible without them.

In the Gospels we have the possibility of association with the Perfect Personality. To read His words, to get in the track of His thoughts even a great way off, to get His judgment of life, its opportunities and sacrifices is within the power of everyone. Phillips Brooks used to read some of the words of Jesus every night. He closed his day in association with the mind of the Perfect Man. There is not one student who cannot do the same. The benefit is incalculable.

It will be perilous for any student to associate with the Master who is not willing to have clean hands and a pure heart. Just as a master-piece demands a wall free from pictures ignoble in subject and faulty in technique, so the thoughts of Jesus will war against every suggestion of evil and uncleanness. They cannot be together in the same mind. The companion of Jesus must be prepared to set things right with God. To help him with his task he will be conscious of a strength in his life hitherto unpossessed. That strength comes from His grace.

Besides association with the Perfect Personality, we have in the Bible God's verdicts on faulty personalities. Holy Scripture never glosses over the sins of even a hero. But that verdict is not continual condemnation. The man who turns his back on his folly can come home to the welcome of the Father, even if he has a long way to go. There is pardon and restoration through the Saviour. Restoration is the man being helped back to Self-Control.

You cannot afford to be without this association. It is of permanent, not temporary, interest. Spend a dollar for Weymouth's or Moffatt's translation of the New Testament for the very familiarity of the Authorized Version many conceal many thoughts from you. Make the resolution that every day, come what will, you will read with all your powers of attention a portion from God's Word about the things that matter most.

Columbia—University swimmers almost made a clean sweep in the dual meet with the College of the City of New York, held in the latter's pool. With the exception of the 800-foot relay races, in which the home team led the way, the visitors took away first and second place. Columbia also won the water polo game, 26 to 10. The point score stood 40 to 13 in favour of Columbia.

Correspondence

Letters to The Varsity should be posted to The Varsity office or left at the office in a sealed envelope. They should be addressed only to the Editor-in-Chief.

Letters should be written on one side of paper only, should not exceed 300 words, and should always have signature attached as a sign of good faith. Writers assume full responsibility for their letters.

SEVERELY SCORES "KARL MARX"

To the Editor of The Varsity:

Sir,—In Thursday's VARSITY, there appeared a "plea" from "Karl Marx" for the resurrection of the International Policy Club. This "plea" is, in fact, nothing less than an effusion of "peace without victory" arguments. Germany is not blamed, but allied leaders are described as immature. Juniors. Germany is not directly excused, but a disturbing undercurrent runs throughout the entire letter.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Karl Marx" is not in sympathy with the spirit of Canada nor with the traditions of the University of Toronto. He has little felt the burden under which his country, apparently by adoption, is labouring. He can plead for an abortive peace, without feeling the injustice which would be done to so many who have made sacrifices beyond his puny comprehension.

I have no desire to enter into a discussion with "Karl Marx." His arguments require no refutation. His tender regard for the ideals of the International Policy Club is unreal, and a cloak for the expression of more sinister sentiments. But, Mr. Editor, I do desire to protest against the use made of your columns. The students of the University are entirely misrepresented and placed in a false position by an anonymous correspondent. I doubt if "Karl Marx" could find one conscientious supporter in the whole student body.

Yours very truly,

F. J. HORNING,
U.C. 18

GENERAL CONTEMPT FOR PRO-GERMAN LETTER.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Sir,—The letter signed "Karl Marx" that appeared in THE Varsity of January 3rd has provoked great surprise and indignation: surprise that such a letter should appear in a University publication, indignation that its author should conceal his identity with a pseudonym.

No blame can attach to THE Varsity in printing the letter in question; in doing so the paper was but following universally accepted journalistic practice. Yet the publication of the letter may well occasion profound regret. For there may be some who, from lack of acquaintance with the University, may associate the sentiments expressed in the letter with student opinion in general, who may ascribe widespread acceptance to the outcry of an anonymous individual.

The author of the letter displayed considerable ingenuity in the choice he made of a vehicle for his opinions. He took for his text the revival of the International Policy Club, but the views he aired are a calumny on the record of that society.

With the arguments advanced it were idle to deal. Indeed it may seem idle to do aught but ignore the author—one who seeks the shelter of a cloak of anonymity, and ignored he should be, were it not that silence might seem lightly to countenance the false position that he takes and the disguisedly malicious sentiments to which he gives expression.

W. R. SALTER.

[Due to disregard of the instructions laid down for the publication of letters in THE Varsity, the letter signed "Karl Marx" appeared last Thursday. The member of the Staff responsible was dismissed from and beginning with the issue of Friday morning last. The stand of THE Varsity, in regard to the subject matter of the letter concerned, was briefly indicated last Friday.—Ed.]

JUNIOR MEDS. WORK-OUT

Jr. Meds (2) had a very fine work-out at the University gym last Friday and Saturday, preparing themselves for the game with U.C. on Tuesday.

All men of first and second years who desire to make the team, will turn out for the last practice before the game at the "Y" gym to-day from 11 to 1 o'clock. The team will be chosen from those who turn out.

Northwestern University—Northwestern University's prospects for a successful basketball season are regarded as the best in years. A complete team of five "N" winners from last winter is eligible to play, as well as three fast men who starred on the freshman team of a year ago.

News from Other Colleges

Michigan—The football agreement between the University of Pennsylvania and the University expired this fall, and it is generally expected that it will not be renewed as Michigan is now a member of the Western Conference again and will probably take on a member of the "Big Ten" next fall in place of the Red and Blue.

New York City College—The College of the City of New York basketball five has bright prospects for the coming season in the estimation of Coach J. H. Dearing, who states that he considers the team, which is made up of veterans, to be fully as good as last year, when the five was rated among the best in the country.

California—It costs a great deal of money to run a university the size of California. The auditor's report for 1916-17 shows a daily expenditure of $1,399.37 for upkeep alone. Besides that, $6,661 a day are spent for actual education and research work.

Illinois—The girls at the Illinois have a plan by which they are getting cigarettes galore for the boys in France. Each young lady carries a cigarette case around with her, and when the boys pass the smoke they fill their cases. Simple though this plan may be, it is nevertheless very efficient.

Yale—Despite the fact that the Yale University has lost its entire basketball five of 1916-17 as well as its coach, the Elis are going to make a strenuous effort to retain the championship title of the Inter-collegiate Basketball League which they last winter.

The first practice of the squad this week revealed that the material is by no means entirely green, but that it is not distinguished. Twenty-six men reported for the first practice.

GRANTS FOR UNIVERSITY

Have Been Requested from Provincial Government

W. F. Nickle, M.P., Principal Gordon, Principal Bruce Taylor, Sir John Willison, Hamilton Cassie and George Y. Chown waited upon Premier Hearst and Hon. Dr. Pyne yesterday and asked for the continuation of the grants for the facilities of education for Queen's and Toronto Universities, and discussed the advisability of continuing the training of secondary school teachers.

The Railbird

This afternoon the Sifton Cup series opens with a double-header Jr. Meds (1) v. Jr. Dents and Sr. Meds v. S.P.S. It is to be hoped that a good crowd of rooters turn up at Central "Y" to put life into the games.

The tooth-pullers were out exercising their Jennings' Cup players on Saturday afternoon. At one time there were over twenty players on the ice. Surely Dents can put two teams in the series with all the material at hand.

The U.C. Ladies' hockey team spent an hour in strenuous practice at the rink Saturday morning. They showed fine form and plenty of speed for so early in the season and should put up a good fight for the title.

We certainly must yield the palm to Queens who are still able to place three teams in O.H.A. in spite of war conditions. This is a commendable spirit as it keeps college spirit alive and helps to preserve the O.H.A.

Tuesday afternoon University College basketball tossers meet Jr. Meds (2). Both teams have been practising regularly and the games promise to be fast.

It is not to be wondered at that baseball is making a place for itself among English sports when it was introduced over there by such men as the impetuous aviators, who are already "slamming the pill" outside the University residences. This may also be taken as the sign of an early spring.

Every faculty should see that it has a representative present at the hockey meeting in the gymnasium on Tuesday at 5 o'clock.

"Certainly not, and your contention would be perfectly sound, if every man here or nearly every man, were doing all he could to keep the college spirit alive. That's the very least we can do for the chaps who have gone away."

Then, as I lit my pipe, which I had allowed to go out, he continued:

"Moreover, there isn't a man here, I venture to say, that couldn't contribute his mite in personal effort, if he were to make an honest attempt to do so. For example, how often have you taken an active part in the programme of the literary institute during the past term? What have you done to promote the success of athletics in the college? Isn't it true that you have ignored time and again the calls to practice? and more than that didn't you tell the captain of the rugby team you were too busy to practice when he personally canvassed you for your support? And then you wondered why the team failed to reach the finals, and when the other clubs managed to pull a few prizes in the scramble, you basked in their reflected glory at the athletic dinner and wore a smile that seemed to say, 'We're the boys that did it'. Here my interlocutor paused for breath. "Bah," he glared at me, "you're one that would spend two hours making yourself hoarse shouting the college yell, and would then refuse to put in an hour and a half a week in order to make that yell mean something. College spirit, forsooth! Yes, about 2 1/2 per cent," he concluded triumphantly, his judicial air now completely dissolved in a distillation of righteous indignation.

My surprise at the levity of my self-appointed inquisitor didn't keep me from feeling keenly alive to the vastness of his remarks. In fact, his strokes were beginning to penetrate my rather thick pedermis in a manner that made me feel decidedly uncomfortable. However, I determined to brazen the thing out, and refilling my pipe, invited him jocularly to proceed.

"What's the next draught of hemlock, Socrates, old man. I suppose you mean to have my hide and hang it up in the market place of Athens."

"Now, as to 'our studies,'" he continued quietly, ignoring my attempt at familiarity, there are times when I think you are not half earnest enough . . ."

"O, bosh, cut the lecture!"

"By that I don't mean to imply that the progress of education should be a continual grim-death-or-life-struggle, with a decided tendency to cramming, so-called. Nor still less should it be undertaken with a feeling of carelessness or boredom. What do you come to college for anyway? Not in order to win enough marks to slip past the examiners to a degree; but rather, I take it, to acquire chiefly a knowledge of mankind and a habit of thinking for yourself. How far then do you think that slighting your work is going to help you in that direction? Remember when you do that sort of thing you yourself are the principal creditor. You owe it to yourself then, and those around you therefore, to turn over a new leaf for 1918."

"Who are you anyway," I asked, sitting up, a new suspicion dawning on me, "the Recording Angel?"

A wish of a smile lurked around the corners of the shade's sad mouth.

"No," he said slowly, "not that; I am only the man you might have been."

My retort, which might have been, was checked on my lips by a sudden outburst, shrill and delicious, of church bells ringing, factory whistles blowing, and cries and shouts and sounds of explosives.

all intermingled in one grand medley. Footsteps crunched in the crisp snow outside. Across the clear frosty night air came the hearty greeting: "A Happy New Year!"

I turned in my chair yawning, but my ghostly visitor had vanished; gone no doubt to join his fellow shades of the year past. So in a somewhat sober and thoughtful mood I turned the key in the lock and went to bed.

To-Day's Poem

AFRAID?

Afraid of Age? Ah, no, there is no truth in that for me—I am afraid of Youth!

Afraid that it will pass and leave no trace Of loved things worth remembrance on my face.

Afraid that in its golden mead of hour
I may neglect, too oft, to use it's power.

Afraid that in its laughter I'll forget How many hearts bear grief and eyes are wet.

Afraid, ah! most afraid I may not know Love's countenance, and, blind, may let him go!

Youth conquered, all its strife and strength and stress
Accounted for—then, only, shall I press.

Forward to Joy, with Age as guide and friend—
Fearless and sure, whatever Time portend.

1917

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

THREE MORE CASUALTIES.

Capt. Boswell Morris Burgess, C.A.D.C., died at the Base Hospital, Toronto, on January 5, after a short illness. Captain Burgess was a graduate of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of 1911, and was attached to the C.A.D.C. in this Military District.

Lieut. Frank Abbott Wood has met his death in an aeroplane accident at East Harling, Norfolk, England on January 5th, 1918. Lieut. Wood enlisted in the 17th Battalion as a lieutenant, later receiving his captaincy, but reverted to get over to England. Shortly after reaching England in April 1917, he transferred to the R.F.C., and had just finished his course, and was awaiting orders to proceed to France, when he was killed. He was a Science student of the Class of 1918. His home was at 439 Walnut road, Toronto.

Lieut. Ian McLean Macdonell, of 35 Prince Arthur Ave., Toronto, has been slightly wounded, but remains on duty. Lieut. Macdonell originally enlisted as a private in the Cyclist Corps, but went overseas in February 1916, as a lieutenant in the Canadian Field Artillery. Latterly he has been acting as A.D.C. to Major-General A. G. Macdonell, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. Lieut. Macdonell was a B.A.Sc. of 1915.

WINS MILITARY MEDAL.

Gunner James Kingsborough, B.A. of University College, 1916, has been awarded the Military Medal. He enlisted with a Coughlin Howitzer Battery, and has been slightly wounded once.

C.O.T.C. RESUMES DRILL IN HART HOUSE FAIR ATTENDANCE

New Ruling for Dents, Meds and Vets.

Drilling recommenced on Monday in spite of vicissitudes of the past three weeks. The majority have gone through the round of Christmas festivities, and "plugging"—without weakening. Here and there a keen observer, however, can see signs which bode no good for certain individuals anatomy for some weeks. Swedish drill does not take into consideration weeks of freedom from such muscular activities, accompanied by a diet of mince-pies, candy, etc.

Due to the heavy fall of snow, drills are being held in the Hart House. The men "fall in" in the large gymnasium where the role is called and the sections handed over to their respective sergeant instructor. Each section is then marched off to a different part of the building to "carry on" the course of instruction prescribed.

The stress of term examinations is no doubt responsible for the rather numerous absentees. It is well, however, for such to remember that it takes pretty constant attention to make up the required percentage.

According to a statement issued from the office of the director of military study, all Medical, Dental and Veterinary students who come under the provisions of the Military Service Act and who have been exempted, will have to drill one hour every day. Further particulars in this connection will be announced later.

STAFF NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of all the editors of The Varsity on Saturday morning at Room 1 of The Varsity office at 11 o'clock. A full meeting is requested. Reporters are not expected to attend.

"T" MIXER POSTPONED.

In spite of the Editorial comment of Monday's issue the big "T" Mixers will NOT commence until Wednesday the 16th. The committee felt that a meeting to-night might conflict with term examinations. Watch "The Varsity" for further particulars.

SHALL BENEFITS OF PHYSICAL TRAINING BE SHARED BY WOMEN?

Dr. Helen MacMurchy Urges Adoption of System

War Has Taught the Value of Bodily Exercise

The first Khaki Convocation, in the Spring of 1915, marked in the minds of many, whether present or absent on that great occasion, a turning-point.

Convocations have come and gone, rendered memorable by the eloquence of President McGill or Chancellor Blake, the achievements of Sir Thomas Moss or Sir Daniel Wilson, by overwhelming numbers, by benedictions, or by the presence of Royalty, or simply for each individual, by the distinction earned by some one near or dear to him or her. But the first Khaki Convocation was, in some ways, the most memorable of all.

Convocations had been, before then, somewhat overshadowed by minor wars. But on that day there came to graduation a band of young heroes, many of whom now sleep in glory, having given their lives in the Great Cause.

On that day they appeared before the University, not with pale cheek and sunken eyes, pauperized muscles, and an attitude lacking in power or even in erectness. They had a fine bearing. They bore themselves like the brave soldiers that they were. It was a joy to see them go and come, so perfectly trained, with firm step, and erect figure.

No one present on that day is ever likely to mistake or to forget what physical training of a definite and adequate type had done for the graduating Class at the Khaki Convocation of 1915. And this conviction of the value of physical training was almost enough to make that Convocation memorable.

It is a truism to say that the war has taught us many things. Perhaps we should rather say that the war has made us really believe what we thought we believed before.

No one would contradict you when you talked about Mens sana in corpore sano, but the reputation of that time-honoured phrase, as a sort of incantation at educational gatherings, passed over without giving us either the one or the other. The drill-master has driven into our minds the value of Corporis sano, and it remains to be seen whether Canada has enough of the Mens sana to realize that genuine physical training is needed not only by every boy and man in Canada, but also by every girl and woman.

What percentage of Canadian women sit or stand erect, or walk well? How many take real physical exercise every morning before dressing or in a suitable costume at some other time of day?

Physical training is to be obligatory for men in the University of Toronto. The general opinion is in favour of a suitable system of physical training for women in the University. Such a system needs, of course, adequate organization, including competent instructors, and varied courses, not wanting in flexibility. As a preliminary, a careful, individual, medical examination—not superficial, not hurried, not devoid of interest—and really practical and useful, must be provided.

Besides, physical training for the women students means adequate facilities for such training, and a place for it on the timetable, which, since the dawn of University history, has always been referred to as "over-crowded." Nevertheless, the place must be found, for physical training is coming, and coming to stay, and it is one of the necessary things in a democracy.

DR. HELEN MACMURCHY.

CAPT. WALLACE TO REPLACE MR. BRUCE CLARKE.

Students in English at the University will be glad to know that the staff in this department which recently lost the services of Mr. Bruce Clark, will be greatly strengthened by the return of Capt. Wallace, of the University O.T.C., who will combine some academic service with his military duties by taking over a few of the classes to whom he formerly lectured as Professor of English.

Coming Event.

Monday, Jan. 14—Sir Robert Falconer will address Menorah Society—University Y.M.C.A., 8 p.m. sharp.

MEMORIAL PRIZE ESTABLISHED FOR THIRD YEAR WORK

In Department of Household Science

Value of Prize is $25.00 to be Awarded This Year

Dr. R. A. Reeve has established a memorial prize in the Department of Household Science. It will be known as the "Anna Howe Reeve Prize" and will be awarded on the basis of general proficiency and special capacity in the work of the third year. "It is intended to perpetuate the memory of a true helpmate whose unselfishness enabled the donor the better to discharge his duty to his Alma Mater." The method of award differs considerably from that generally adopted in the University, in that it will be made by the President, together with Professor Laird and Professor Benson, or those who may be in charge from time to time in the Departments now directed by these ladies. It will not merely be a question of standing at the examination, but will involve special consideration—quite aside from the record there attained. The prize is one of $25 and will be awarded for the first time on the results of the work during the present session.

WOMEN MEDS HAVE DONE WELL IN UPPER CANADA LAW SOCIETY EXAMS.

Miss Silk, U.C. '16, Passed Fourth in Her Class

We note with much gratification that several of the women graduates of last year and previous years now engaged in the study of law in the Upper Canada Law Society have passed their Christmas examinations very creditably. Among those whose names appear in the lists issued in the daily papers are Miss Silk '16 U.C., who passed fourth highest in her class. In the first year Miss V. Robinson, Miss M. Bridgen, Miss V. Taylor and Miss M. Rowland from Victoria, all passed, with very creditable standing.

PHYSICAL DRILL CLASSES HAD HOLIDAY MONDAY

There was no drill in the University gym on Monday as the instructors failed to put in an appearance and Mr. Reed was obliged to dismiss the men. The instructors are returned men at present stationed at Exhibition Camp and perhaps it is due to increased duties there that they were unable to turn up. However, the lost drill fitted in with the holiday spirit, at least so say the fortunate dismissed.

NOTICE.

President Falconer will address all the students in Convocation Hall on Friday, January 11 at 12.10 o'clock. There will be in consequence no lectures between the hours of twelve and one on Friday. All students are requested to be present.

STUDENTS' DIRECTORY BEING DISTRIBUTED

The Students' Directory is out and students may secure a copy at their respective post office or secretaries' office. The new directory is a decided improvement and is a neat and concise little volume. The advertisements are by no means numerous and are all of interest to students.

ORATORICAL CONTEST TO BE HELD JAN. 12th

The oratorical contest held annually under the auspices of the University College Women's Literary Society will take place on Saturday, January 12, at eight o'clock, in the Women's Union. The various years are represented as follows:

Fourth Year—Miss M. Lyons.
Third Year—Miss W. Crawford.
Second Year—Miss M. Edge.
First Year—Miss J. Inwood.

JENNINGS CUP HONOURS FOR PREVIOUS YEARS

Held by Dents. and S.P.S.—Have Each Won Cup Championship Seven Times

Cup Donated in 1899

Now that the hockey cushions of the Varsity Rink are in good condition and considerably improved, it is up to the various faculties to organize and get out teams for the forthcoming Jennings' Cup Series. Although there will be a serious lack of material, yet each faculty should do their best in support of hockey this year, and make the Jennings' Cup Series a real success.

The Jennings' Cup was first donated for annual competition by W. T. Jennings in 1899, and is the emblem of hockey supremacy in the University.

Since this cup was put up for competition it has been won seven times by S.P.S. teams, seven times by Dents, twice by Victoria, and once by McMaster. From the above statistics it is seen that the palm of supremacy lies between S.P.S. and Dents, who between them have copied off the honours nearly every year. Last year it took an extra game to decide the winners, as neither team could gain any advantage. The score on the round stood even, as S.P.S. won the first game 1-0 and lost the next 3-2. The final game was won by S.P.S. 2-1, showing how evenly these combatants were matched. Since the cup was first donated, it has never been won yet by Meds or U.C. This factifies should get busy this year, and should see that they are in the running by turning out strong teams.

MR. C. CONWAY WILL BE GREAT ATTRACTION AT NEXT "T" MIXER

Opinions of English Press

Mr. Charles Conway, England's premier versatile entertainer, will appear at the opening supper of the Big "T" Mixers on January 10th. Many excerpts from the London, English, press could be quoted in his praise. Clement Scott, the world famous critic of the Daily Telegraph says: "Undoubtedly the piece-de-resistance of the evening was the splendid performance of Mr. Charles Conway, . . . he was enthusiastically and deservedly applauded. Lloyd's Weekly News—"Met with well deserved recognition from the audience." Star—"One of the best entertainers in London." Times—"A splendid piece of acting."

DON'T FORGET!

The "Lit." Short Story Contest

All Stories Should be Turned In by February 1st

As before announced in the Varsity, the Women's Literary Society of University College is offering a prize for the best short story, to be entitled "Puppets All." It has been decided that the prize shall take the form of a book as being most appropriate for the occasion, and the right is reserved of withholding the award, should the stories submitted fail to attain a certain (not excessive) standard of excellence. Each manuscript is to be accompanied by a separate slip bearing the name and address of the author, and all are to be in by February 1st, 1918. Manuscripts should be addressed to the Secretary, Miss Alfreda Elliott, and be placed in the "Literary Society" pigeon-hole of the post-office.

DRAFT WORKS NO APPRECIABLE CHANGE

As few of those who have been called up by the draft have notified the registrar, no estimate can yet be given as to what difference the call to arms will make in the attendance this term. It is not expected however that there will be any appreciable decrease at once, but there will probably be a considerable drop next year. Approximate figures will be available soon, but till the Registrar is notified by those who are leaving, he has no means of gauging the effect of the draft.

C.O.T.C. BAND WANTS MORE NEW MEMBERS

Turn-out to Practice Not Satisfactory—Next Practice to be Held at "Y"

The "Y" yesterday afternoon was the scene of the initial practice this year of the C.O.T.C. band. Although there was a fair turn-out, many members of the band were absent. As a full attendance is necessary to the success of any band, it is essential that every player should turn out to practice and take a keen interest in this band, and make the C.O.T.C. band an important factor of military organization in the University.

The C.O.T.C. band has the nucleus of a good band, and as especially fortunate in having so able a band master as Lieut. Slater to conduct it. Good progress is being made, but unless more zeal is shown on the part of some of the players to turn out for practice, interest in the band will gradually diminish.

At present there is an attendance of almost twenty-five members, and if there are any other players of band instruments in the University, they are cordially asked to join the band, and make it the success it should be. Prior to the practice a short military drill is held, and the squad put through rudimentary manoeuvres necessary for marching on parade. There is material in the University for a good band and all should strive to make it so. The next practice will be held Friday afternoon in the "Y" and all members are asked to be on hand.

There are still some instruments left and anyone desiring to become a member of the band and who had not an instrument may obtain same by applying to Mr. King in the Mining Building. Remember to be on hand Friday for the next practice.

CONCERT IN CONVOCATION HALL.

An unusual opportunity to enjoy a musical treat will be afforded University students on January 23rd, when a concert will be given in Convocation Hall by the Hamburg Trio: Mr. Harold Jarvis, tenor soloist, and Miss Margaret Fleury, soprano, soloist—all musicians of the highest order. Tickets 75, 50 and 25 cents, are on sale in the Main Buildings. The proceeds will go to the Y.W.C.A.

DRAMATIC CLUB WILL PRESENT SHERIDAN'S "RIVALS"

On January 25th and 26th at Conservatory of Music Hall

The Women's Dramatic Club of the University has been faithfully rehearsing during the past term under the able supervision of Dr. Kirkpatrick and will present "The Rivals" by Sheridan, in the Conservatory of Music Hall on January 25th and 26th. Great preparation has been made to ensure a successful presentation. The cast of characters is as follows:

Sir Anthony Absolute	Agnes Muldrew.
Captain Absolute	Mabel Child.
Faulkland	Dorothy Macmillan.
Bob Acres	Marion Squire.
Sir Lucius O'Grigger	Nina Milten.
Fag	Freda Waldon.
David	Wilfred Mitchell.
Thomas	Jean Edgington.
Mrs. Malaprop	Dorothy McFaul.
Lydia Languish	Nora Dignum.
Julia	Marjorie Talbot.
Lucy	Edna Mitchell.
Servants	Rae Wilson.
	Grace Watt.
	Vera Sargeant.
	Mary Willen.

NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of the Jennings' Cup hockey executive and the managers of the contesting teams at the University gymnasium on Friday, January 11 at 5 p.m. The meeting is called for the purpose of drawing up playing rules, schedule and groups. It is essential that all attend this meeting.

News of Our Student Soldiers

A number of Varsity students have recently returned to Canada. Among them are:

Lieut. Wilbur E. Annis, of 21 Fairview Blvd., Toronto, who returns to be attached to the Instructional Staff of the local Royal Flying Corps. Lieut. Annis was one of the officers of the 201st Battalion, but on its being broken up, he proceeded overseas with a draft of officers, which left Camp Borden in September 1916. He was attached to the 58th Battalion but joined the R.F.C. in August, 1917. He was wounded in December 1916. He was a Victoria College student of the class of 1919.

Lieut. R. G. Atkinson, who has just reached Canada, goes to Texas as instructor. He went to France with the infantry, but was there only a few months, when he was taken ill, and sent to hospital. After being in hospital for three months, he returned to England, and trained in the R.F.C. Lieut. Atkinson was a University and Victoria College student.

Major Mel. M. Hart, M.C., has returned from three months leave. He was with the 76th Battalion, but was transferred to the 4th C.M.R. on reaching England. In addition to being awarded the Military Cross with bar, he won his majority on the field in April 1917. Major Hart is a graduate of University College 1911, and his home is at 25 Wilcox Street, Toronto.

Capt. Henry Brown Moyle of Burlington has also returned to Canada. He is a Royal Army Medical officer, having seen service on the Tigris river, and in Salonica. He graduated in medicine in 1910. His home is at Burlington, Ont.

Capt. Schuyler Crosby Snively, a B.A. of University College, 1906, He was originally assistant adjutant of the 23th Battalion. While serving with the 20th in France he took trench fever, and was transferred to the A.A.G.'s Branch in London. Last August he was mentioned for valued services.

Flight-Lieut. George D. Kirkpatrick, U.C. 1918, has been serving with the R.N.A.S. in France. He left Canada for England in February 1916, and went to France the following October, where he was in action at Belfort, Dunkirk, and the Somme. His home is at 204 Rusholme road. His leave is only for a month.

MAJOR MCCONNELL IS HOME ON LEAVE

Fought at Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele

Major A. W. McConnell, the adjutant of the 116th Battalion, returned home two weeks ago on a two months' furlough. He had spent several months in France and had been through the battles of Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele. Major McConnell is a graduate of the Class of '06 at S.P.S. where he received the degree of B.A.Sc. Before the war he was an assistant Professor of Architecture and will resume his duties when peace is declared.

MISS JESSIE BARBER, B.A., IS DIETITIAN AT MILITARY HOSP.

Was Graduate of U.C. of Class of 1908

Among the recent additions to the ranks of the university women engaged in military service is Miss Jessie Barber, B.A., University College, '08, who left several months ago for Montreal where she was appointed dietitian at the Military Hospital on Drummond street. She is keenly enthusiastic over her new duties, and those who knew her in her undergraduate days are assured that the soldiers in her care will be well fed. Miss Barber was born in Toronto, where she attended the Model school and Glen Muir before entering the university. Since graduating she took a special course in dietetics at the Technical school. She is a daughter of Mr. Henry Barber, 88 St. Allans street, and a brother, Lieut. H. C. Barber, a B.A.Sc. '11, is serving with the motor boat patrol of the Royal Naval Reserve.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Have you noticed with what emphasis a junior says, "Well, I don't know what I am going to do when I graduate, but I am not going to Faculty."

A year later the same student now a senior, says, "I don't know what to do, so I am going to Faculty."

Still another year passes and our friend, now an applicant for a High School position, says, "Why is it so hard to get a position, and why are the salaries so low?"

Why is it? Just because there are too many girls in exactly this same position. The market is flooded with teachers. According to the dear old law of supply and demand, the price of a too plentiful article goes down.

What is the cure? Why of course to lessen the supply of teachers. If fifty or sixty per cent of the graduating classes would go to business college and thence into business, the supply of teachers would lessen and hence the salaries would go up.

But what about the heroines who have made this great departure from the beaten track? Would there be rewards for them? Assuredly there would, if they are fit for rewards.

First of all they would escape the terrible humdrum of teaching only to earn a living. There is no profession higher in service and interest than teaching—if teaching is your vocation. But there is nothing more deadly, more nerve-tormenting, more heartbreaking—if it is not your vocation.

Experts in the business world tell us that there is an immense field for University women in business. Mark you, not because they are University women, but because their training should have made them more intelligent, more sympathetic, more wide awake than their less favored sisters. Secretaries, actuaries, statisticians, efficiency experts, welfare workers, factory inspectors, are just a few of the workers University women may become. In these places they will have a chance to meet other girls and help them in work and play.

But the college woman must be willing to forget that she is a college woman, and be ready to begin wherever she gets her chance. Then if her training has been any use she will find her place and it won't be overcrowded.

UNIVERSITY AND WAR

"Because of the war, the colleges have pretty well come into their own in this country. The value of a college education is, but particularly the fact of the general high quality of college men have been recognized by the military authorities, and graduates and undergraduates have been accorded special privileges. Even so, however, the colleges do not fill the same place in the life of the nation that they fill in other countries. Take the case of England. The graduates of Oxford and Cambridge practically run the nation, and a man who has won distinction in either of these great universities, particularly in the field of debating, is almost certain to be taken up by one of the political parties, a splendid opportunity being given him of becoming a great leader. There is a link between the college and the government, and while this particular situation is perhaps peculiar to England, colleges and universities are held usually in greater esteem in the countries of Europe than in this country.

What are the reasons for this condition? It may be that the college men are older in the European countries and get more from their university training. But a large part of the fault lies in the American colleges and universities themselves, and in the students—perhaps the trouble is fundamental in the American people.

What is the remedy? Some believe that technical and industrial education offers the greatest hope of the future; others think that a return to the study of the Classics is the best remedy. These proposals, however, refer only to the matter of what is taught; and we believe the trouble lies deeper. What is necessary is an awakening of the student consciousness to the value of that which is to be gained in college, and a universal determination on the part of the student body to take advantage of the opportunities offered, and to tolerate no one who refuses so to take advantage of the college life. The atmosphere in college and university must change if the American colleges and universities are to take a commanding place in the national life, because they will not be entitled to such a place unless the results of the college education warrant it.

"The war means opportunity. A great deal of prejudice against the college man has disappeared, and the colleges now enjoy a period of favour in the public mind. It remains for them to consolidate their position; to bind university and nation inseparably together for all future time."—Daily Princetonian.

RUMOUR THAT R.F.C. WOULD VACATE WYCLIFFE UNFOUNDEDDrafts Go to Texas But Their Places Are Filled

There is no truth in the vague rumour that has been circulating relating to the supposed vacation of Wycliffe College by the R.F.C., who, it was reported, were about to migrate en masse to Texas. The probable foundation of this rumour is the fact that detachments are being sent regularly to Texas to a more advanced stage in their flighty education, but their places are as regularly filled by relays from Camp Mohawk, the R.F.C. preliminary training school at Deseronto, Ont.

Victoria

The U.L.S. will meet on Friday, January 11, at 4.30 p.m. As most of the men wish to skate on Friday nights, this will give all the Lit. members a chance to attend the meeting. Let every member be present.

Knox

ELECTION SCANDAL

Sunday afternoon began to fade away and lights began to go on as curtains went down. The corridors at Knox were drenched in inky blackness except where a feeble 5-horse-power lamp shone upon high. Under one of these stood Mr. Stone, or to give him his full title, Mr. Louis Stone. The distinguished gentleman was alone, in a Napoleonic pose except for the fact that his rock-tailed coat was a little short and he wore spats. The reverend gentleman had struck this pose and was still striking when a delegation headed by Mr. Jas. B. Skeene stopped before Mr. Stone, and on bended knees implored him to act as poll-constable on the morrow—of course this happened on December 16th, 1917. Well, old Louis hummed and hawed around but owing to the degrading nature of the occupation, "He shouldn't care to act in that capacity, but if there were any constituencies vacant—" Having dispersed the children, Mr. Stone patted himself on the "tummy," since he was too fat to reach to his back and wended his way room-ward. But the "cash-register" mind of the delegation rose to the occasion and one went to another house in the College and telephoned the same Mr. Stone. He conveyed himself with befitting dignity to the phone and was surprised to find the bleachers filled with the sad eyed delegates which he had previously dismissed. The person on the other end of the line was no other than Mr. Sweeney, returning officer, for the centre ward, impersonated by one of the delegation. The supposed [to Mr. Stone] Mr. Sweeney remarked that the highest type of man was needed as poll-constable and that Mr. Sweeney's cook, with whom he said Stone had been "walking out", had suggested Mr. Stone's name. Great confusion! As before, Mr. Stone hummed and hawed but flatly refused Mr. Sweeney on the ground that if there were any vacant constituencies he might think of mixing himself up with politics. We hate to see a joke like this played on Mr. Stone, who we hope will summon the delegation before the House Committee.

COLLEGE WINDOWS.

For four years I have watched the Spring
come through this window,
Glinting silver over the bowing tops of the worshipful trees.

Like daylight's entrance into deep wells,
I have seen the light of Her eyes, and adores Everything else I could give, I think, and forget, except this.
But in the footstep of Spring as she laughingly trips through this window,
I see immemorial things that sordidness covers up elsewhere
I am going to leave in the morning

I think I shall go out and acquire a crust of the world.
But even the world cannot rob me of glimpsed, living Beauty.
For four years I have watched the Spring
come through this window Daily

FAST BASKETBALL SHOWN WHEN U.C. DEFEATED JR. MEDS.

Score Was 21-16

Teams Were Very Even

Last night at 5 in the "Y" gym Jr. Meds (2) met University College in a scheduled league basketball game. The teams were well matched and the score 21-16 in favour of U.C. represents the merits of the two teams. U.C. started out with two regulars and the other three men substitutes. In the first half U.C. established an early lead by scoring three baskets to Meds, who had been playing raggedly, braved up and made things interesting the half close with U.C. in the lead by an 11-7 tally.

In the next half U.C. played the regular team and both teams put up a good brand of basketball. The result was in doubt until the last few minutes. Full time found the score 21-16 in favour of University College.

For U.C. Stokes was a tower of strength and a large part of the victory is due him. Lorrman and Parker of U.C. were perhaps the fastest men on the floor, although Buckley and Trackman for Jr. Meds played star games.

U.C.—Forwards, Stokes, McLennan; centre, Robinson; Defence, Godelph and Taylor

Jr. Meds—Forwards, Van Wart and Buckley, centre, O'Connor; Defence, Trackman, Brady

Referee—Unghart.

Grinnell College—That the new rag-time Jazz music has come to stay is the opinion of Prof. H. W. Matlack of the School of Music at Grinnell College.

"As people started to dance," explained Professor Matlack, "they found the steps much easier when accompanied by music which had a steady rhythm. From that time the music began to assume a lighter nature."

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR HOCKEY SEASON

Enthusiastic Meeting Held at the University Gym.

A very enthusiastic hockey meeting was held in the University gym on Tuesday afternoon. Representatives were present from S.P.S., Knox, Victoria, C.O.T.C., Meds, U.C., St. Michaels and Dents. Trinity phoned that they would enter a team, but no word was received from Pharmacy, I.O.E. or McMaster.

Proceeding in the usual manner the meeting discussed the hockey situation for the coming season and elected the following executive:

President—M. Brown, Medicine.
Vice-President—W. R. Luke, Victoria.
Sec. Treasurer—G. E. Pearson, S.P.S.
Executive—D. J. Smelait, U.C. and M. Flanagan, St. Michaels.

It was decided that each faculty should send to the secretary, G. P. Pearson, 75 Yorkville Ave., a written statement as to which days they have practice hours at the rink, which days they drill and the names of any two men who could satisfactorily act as referees. Work, such as the drawing up of the schedule was left over for the executive meeting on Friday next at 5 p.m.

The Railbird

The Sifton Cup game Monday afternoon between Jr. Meds (1) and Jr. Dents, was close and exciting, till the final bell rang.

The game was marred by rough play, a great deal of which was got by the referee.

Owing to the suspension of inter-collegiate sport the treasury of the Queen's Athletic Association has been greatly depleted and the athletic committee will not sanction any exhibition game which does not pay for itself.

As prophesied the games of the Sifton Cup Series are quite late in starting. On Monday the first game lasted so long that the floor space was not free when the second teams turned out. Provisionally as it were for the sake of officials the Sr. Med sextette failed to turn up and School took the game by default.

U.C. surprised the University fans by beating Jr. Meds (2) 21-16 in their Sifton Cup fixture. Well done U.C. Courage Meds, the season is but starting.

It seems that Dentals are not enthusiastic about entering two teams in the Jennings Cup series. No doubt they prefer to pinch the cup with one star team in place of entering two to make the series more interesting and put every faculty in the running.

On Friday, January 11, C.O.T.C. and Trinity play off the first basketball game in their group. Keep the day in mind.

Managers of hockey teams had better reserve practice hours at the rink and hustle their men out.

MENORAH MEMBERSHIP DRIVE AT COLUMBIA

A great membership drive is now being actively pushed by the Columbia Menorah to help the society make a good showing during the convention, which was held during Christmas week in New York City. A circular describing full the advantages offered by the society is being distributed. Its main points follow:

The Menorah Journal and the monthly bulletin, the subscription price for which is two dollars a year, but which are sent free to members.

A programme of extensive lectures and concerts and of intensive study circles and forums on Jewish culture and Jewish problems.

A yearly prize of $100 for the best essay on some topic of Jewish interest.

MAKING CERTAIN

Little Esther was saying her bedtime prayers, and in conclusion asked, "please dear God, make San Francisco the capital of California."

"Why did you ask that, Esther," interrogated her mother.

"Because I wrote it on my examination paper that way."

DAFFYDIL NIGHT.

Daffydil Night, Meds' annual stunt, will come off on or about February 7th in Convocation Hall. For the benefit of those who have not had the supreme delight of witnessing this remarkable performance, it may be stated that it is a show on the same lines as "The Melting Pot," but only the molts of the organizers prevents us from comparing it with that admirable production. However, it is promised that Daffydil Night will be bigger and better than ever before. Mr. Fred Bell, who is in charge of the programme has already secured some first class items, but, if any Med student has an idea that will bring an added touch to the already brilliant performance, it will be greatly welcomed.

The Faculty have presented a silver cup to be awarded to the year which produces the best act, and as a result the competition is keen.

That renowned publication "Epistaxis" will be issued for the occasion and the editors assure us that it is well worthy of them, and the editors are very worthy men. If anyone knows a good story or possesses any ideas of his own to make the magazine a success they should turn them in at once.

MEDS' AT HOME.

On the night of January 25th Meds will have their annual "At Home" in the Knights of Columbus Hall. All medical students are of course invited, and may bring their friends, so it behooves the men of other faculties to see that they have a friend at Meds by the twenty-fifth of this month.

The Med students of the fifth year are settling down to a spell of unwanted hard work, in preparation for their approaching

News from Other Colleges

Missouri—In spite of Mr. Hoover and the rising price of sugar, the Missouri girls still eat candy. The dealers in sweets report that no appreciable decrease in sales has occurred since the food conservation campaign began. The kiddies are affected most by the rise in price of peanut brittle. This increase is particularly due to the use of peanuts in making oil, which is substituted for olive oil.

Washington—Military training is so popular with University women that the numbers that are attending drill are becoming embarrassing to the instructors. More than 100 girls are drilling every week.

The sergeants who are in charge of the fair recruits, said, "I don't know where it will all end. Maybe they will form a 'Legion of Death'."

"The girls are learning to handle the pistol effectively, and they are being instructed in methods of personal defence."

The corps is as yet without a name and the work has not yet been definitely decided on, but the girls are so enthusiastic that their work threatens to vie with the boys' training corps.

Columbia Uniforms may be worn all the time, if so desired, by Columbia men taking military training, according to announcement by Capt. Williams.

Princeton—The University is at present in the midst of financial troubles. Never before has its finances been in such a condition. The alumni have been called upon by the Graduate Council to help make up the deficit.

New York—In order to celebrate their 9-7 victory over Columbia, New York university men rushed upon the field after the game, and tried to carry off their opponents' goal posts. In the struggle that ensued the Columbians succeeded in retaining but part of one of the uprights.

South Dakota—Hobo Day was held recently at South Dakota State University, in connection with the North Dakota Aggie game. It included a parade through the principal streets, a forty-five minute interval for legging dinners, followed by a feed in the woods, and a pep meeting on the athletic field in the afternoon.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students'
Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB HEARS INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE BY DR. HUNTSMAN

Subject: "Biological Work on the Gulf of the St. Lawrence"

Shows How Science of Biology is Aiding in the Solution of the Food Problem

Taking as his subject "Biological Work in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence", Dr. Huntsman instructively and humorously entertained the Biological Club on Tuesday evening at the Royal Canadian Institute.

By means of a succession of excellent lantern slides the speaker conducted his hearers over the route of last summer's cruise, and the scenes of the field chosen for research. The party of which Dr. Huntsman was a member set out from the Biological Station at St. Andrews' and passed down the St. Croix River in May of last year. After incursions at sea, and touching at points along the Nova Scotian coast, notably at lighthouses, leaving directions for the taking of desired biological observations, the party finally reached their objective, Eastern Harbour, on the west coast of Cape Breton. The party now included other than Dr. Huntsman, Dr. Cox of the University of New Brunswick, and a Danish scientist who had just returned from the Arctic regions where he had been with the Southern party of the Stefansson expedition.

En route from St. Andrews the members of the party were impressed with the great variety and the contrasts which prevail at different points along the east coast. The tides vary from forty feet to ninety feet. At one point animals were found thriving, which had been carried there from the tropics, while a hundred miles distant only the forms adapted to Arctic conditions were encountered. Great variety was also noted in the type of buoys used at different points along the coast in the lobster fishing industry. In fact they were enabled to estimate the artistic propensities of the fishermen of a given area by the workmanship displayed in these buoys.

Many of the slides were devoted to the illustration of the types, customs, and the antiquated methods and modes of the crude but quaint fish folk of Arcadian French extraction, who comprise the main portion of the population of the coast towns and villages maintained by the fishing industry. In Cape Breton there is also another interesting type of French who came during the past century, through the agency of enterprising fishing firms from the Jersey Islands, who had become interested in the new fishing grounds, and who built up an important industry there.

The chief mission of this party of scientists was to seek out those marine animals of our east coast which would help to relieve the universal food shortage. On securing a specimen of food value, the next task was to determine its habits, habitat, and life history. Then came the foundation of a fishery to exploit the newly-discovered supply. One type with which the speaker especially dealt is the fish known as plaice. In English waters the plaice attains a weight of one quarter of a pound, while the native of our eastern waters weighs seven pounds when mature. The development of this fish was carefully traced by means of the Plankton net and trawls adjusted for different depths. On attaining the adult stage, the plaice are not found above the 32 F. line, while in the pelagic or free-swimming stage they occur at or some fathoms below the surface, depending on the time of day. But as they approach maturity the habitat of the plaice gradually recedes within the limit of the strata of salt water at the temperature of freezing for fresh water. The course of development for other edible fish was similarly worked out in the laboratories ashore and afloat during the stay of the biologists in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence.

Dr. Huntsman showed how the science of biology is aiding materially in the solution of the food problem by supplying the Government with the necessary information concerning different marine

Come and Hear Messrs. Arnold, Best and McEown tell of their experience at the recent conference at Northfield.

ARCHDEACON PATERSON SMYTH WILL PREACH OPENING SERMON

Pastor of St. George's Church, Montreal, at Convocation Hall Sunday

Archdeacon Paterson Smyth of St. George's Church, Montreal, was born in Ireland. He was Professor of Pastoral Theology in the University of Dublin and Rector of St. Anne's Church in Dublin.

In 1907, he came to Canada and was appointed Rector of the church where he now officiates, a few years later, he was made Archdeacon of St. Andrew's.

Archdeacon Paterson Smyth is the author of very many famous books, perhaps the most notable being: "How we got our Bible," His book, "The Gospel of the Hereafter," has evoked considerable comment.

Practically every year Archdeacon Smyth has preached in the University, being considered one of the most effective student preachers, and his message next Sunday will be listened to by every student who can possibly be there.

U.C. MEN, ATTENTION!

Men of University College are invited to attend an informal meeting at which the two men who represented the College Y.M.C.A. at the recent Northfield Conference will give an account of the experiences. It is also hoped that Mr. Arnold who was at the Conference and who visited Yale will also speak.

This is the first of a series of meetings, which will be held on Sunday afternoons. An organization to promote these meetings will be perfected. Every man who can be present should be.

The members of the Students' Administrative Council will sit for a photograph, at Farmer Brothers, 492 Spadina Avenue, at 1 o'clock on Tuesday next, January 15th.

MISSION STUDY CLASSES

Rev. J. B. McLaurin, B.Th., of the Canadian Baptist Mission, India, will hold his first mission study class this afternoon, at 4 o'clock at the U.C. Women's Union, 85 St. George Street. Rev. Prof. Holland, of Wycliffe College, will also tell of his experiences at the Northfield Conference on Sunday afternoon at the U.C. "Y".

The Tuesday class led by Mr. J. M. Waters, M.D., C.M., of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission, India, started this week, but will miss next week. Starting with January 22 it will continue its meetings in the U.C. Women's Union each Tuesday at 5 p.m.

These classes are held under the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. of University College, and are open to all U.C. students. Dr. Sherwood Eddy's book, "India Awakening," is being used as a text book. Tuesday at 5 and Friday at 4.

2TO ANNOUNCEMENT.

There will be a second year U.C. skating party on Thursday night, January 17 at the Varsity Rink. The members of the class are planning to meet at a definite place on the ice. In a later issue of THE VARSITY this place will be stated, when final arrangements have been made. The party will end up at the Women's Union.

animals of important food value, so that large hatcheries to reduce the mortality during the immature stages, and also important new fisheries are being established which will doubtless become very important in the near future when the consumer has received the necessary gustatory education.

VARSAITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

To the list of members of the University who have recently received public honours the following should be added:

C.M.G.

Col. G. S. Rennie, C.A.M.C., Rennie is M.D.C.M. (Trinity) and do at Hamilton.

Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

Col. Robert Dawson Rudolf, C.A.M.C., consulting physician to the Canadian Forces in England. Col. Rudolf is Professor of Therapeutics on the University Staff.

Officer of the Order of the British Empire.

Major Cyril D. H. McAlpine, of Winnipeg. Major McAlpine first acted as remount officer, and more recently has been Deputy Director of Supplies and Transport in England. He is B.A. of University College of the year 1907.

Member of the Order of the British Empire.

Lieut.-Col. Wm. Bentley, C.A.D.C. Col. Bentley is D.D.S. of the year 1900 and resides in Sarnia.

News of Our Student Soldiers

The varied University career which led Major John A. Trebilcock through a few months as an Arts student at University College with Class '14, to an equally short stay at the School of Applied Science, and finally made him a graduate of Forestry in 1915, is being reproduced in his military experiences. Enlisting as a gunner with the C.F.A., he took out a commission in the Royal Field Artillery on reaching England. Since then he has been promoted first lieutenant, captain in April last, given the Military Cross in September, and now is serving in Italy with the rank of major in the Imperial forces. Major Trebilcock's home is in Lyall Avenue, Toronto.

PREMIER MARTIN ENDORSES SPORT

Firm Believer in Power of Athletics

Premier Martin (B.A., University College, '98) in an address before the Y.M.C.A. in Regina yesterday on Athletics, severely scored the entrance of professionalism into realm of modern sport. He stated that it often discouraged true sport and cited as a case in point the overthrow of amateur lacrosse in the West as result of importation of paid athletes. Premier Martin believes that the true athlete would symmetrically develop the intellectual, religious and physical sides of his body, and thus approach as nearly as possible the perfect standard.

"Bill" Martin, as he was widely known in his undergraduate days, was an accomplished athlete during and after his college career. He was third baseman on the Varsity line and prominent in all branches of athletics. His opinion merits a careful consideration.

2T1 SKATING PARTY.

There will be a Skating Party on Wednesday evening, January 16th at the Varsity Stadium. Class members will meet in the inner cushion at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served in Women's Union at 10.30. Good time promised. Save your late leave.

All students leaving College to go on active service are asked to leave their names and home addresses at the Roll of Service office, Room 15, Main Building.

ROYAL FLYING CORPS MEN DRILLING AT THE GYM.

Many Royal Flying Corps men are taking advantage of the gym and drill several nights a week in boxing, under a professional boxing instructor. Other exercises for muscular development are also included in. A boxing tournament will soon be held at Exhibition Camp and several of the contestants are training here for it.

LT.-COL. W. R. LANG HAS BEEN PROMOTED TO THE FULL RANK OF COLONEL

A Similar Honour Also Falls to Lt.-Col. H. C. Parsons

Lieut.-Col. W. R. Lang, G.S.O., M.D. 2, has been promoted to the full rank of colonel. Shortly after beginning of war, Colonel Lang was appointed to the command of the University of Toronto contingent of the C.O.T.C. and also made C.O. of Military Instruction for this District. In January 1916, he was appointed General Staff Officer, Grade III and in the following July became Grade II, Staff Officer.

Lieut.-Col. H. C. Parsons, C.A.M.C., has now the full rank of colonel. He went to Salonica on the Staff of University Base Hospital where he performed very arduous service. Col. Parsons is now in England with the same unit of which he is head of Department of Medicine. In July last he was mentioned in despatches.

C. O. T. C.

Classes will parade commencing to-day on the back campus, opposite Hart House at 4.10 p.m., as follows:

Class I—University College and Victoria on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Class II—Medicals on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Class III—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Gymnasium Classes on Mondays and Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 4.20 p.m.

The Band will parade at the orderly room, Mining Building, on Tuesdays and Fridays at 4.10 p.m.

VARSAITY STADIUM RINK HAS EXCELLENT SEASON

Exceptionally Large Crowds Have Been Handled This Year

Varsity Stadium Rink is having an excellent season. The students are patronizing the establishment to a greater extent than they have in past years, and the results are mutually satisfactory. Some big crowds have been handled this year as 1,800 on New Year's day and 1,500 last Saturday. Last night was also an exceptionally large one, though the figures have not yet been received. The buffet counter gives an excellent service and is well patronized. Hockey cushions and privileges have been arranged and practices are in full swing.

MR. CONWAY TO APPEAR AT "T" MIXER, JAN. 16

Receives High Tributes from the Press

News of the World—"So true to the picture, both in make-up and gesture, were his impersonations, that Mr. Conway might have slipped from one of Cruikshank's celebrated engravings."

New York Tribune—"Masterpieces of character acting."

Newport News—"... has command of an extensive and varied repertory and played the gamut from the extremely sad to the madly ludicrous. He was rewarded with round after round of applause."

Newport Herald—"Mr. Conway is a star."

Mr. Charles Conway is giving one of the finest of his selections at the Big "T" Mixer supper on Wednesday next, Jan. 16th. No one ought to miss this extraordinary opportunity of seeing his performance.

"CLUB POLITIQUE."

A meeting of the "Club Politique" will be held on Monday afternoon, January 14th at 2 o'clock in Room 6 in the University Library Building. The subject for discussion will be "The Referendum."

CONCERT IN CONVOCATION HALL.

An unusual opportunity to enjoy a musical treat will be afforded University students on January 23rd, when a concert will be given in Convocation Hall by the Hamburg Trio: Mr. Harold Jarvis, tenor soloist; and Miss Margaret Fleury, soprano, soloist—all musicians of the highest order. Tickets 75, 50 and 25 cents, are on sale in the Main Buildings. The proceeds will go to the Y.W.C.A.

F.O.E. WOMEN ASSIST IN WORK OF RED CROSS

Made Up Large Supply of Articles for Base Hospital

The women of the Faculty of Education are taking a practical interest in the work of the Red Cross. During the Christmas term they have returned to the University Base Hospital Supply Association a total of 1,111 articles. Included in the list are socks, stretchers caps, wash cloths, hot water bag covers, handkerchiefs, Turkish and huck towels and bandages. Knitters still continue to utilize even lecture hours for their patriotic work, with the result that they have completed 103 pairs of the machine legs and knitted up 3-lbs of wool.

DON'T FORGET!

The "Lit." Short Story Contest

All Stories Should be Turned In by February 1st

As before announced in THE VARSITY, the Women's Literary Society of University College is offering a prize for the best short story, to be entitled "Puppets All." It has been decided that the prize shall take the form of a book as being most appropriate for the occasion, and the right is reserved of withholding the award should the stories submitted fail to attain a certain (not excessive) standard of excellence. Each manuscript is to be accompanied by a separate slip bearing the name and address of the author, and all are to be in by February 1st, 1918. Manuscripts should be addressed to the Secretary, Miss Alfreda Elliott, and be placed in the "Literary Society" pigeon-hole of the post-office.

The President will address the student body to-day at 12.10 in Convocation Hall. Consequently there will be no lectures between the hours of 12 and 1.

ORATORICAL CONTEST OF U.C. WOMEN'S LIT. SOCIETY

The various years are invited to come out to the Literary Society on Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the Women's Union, to support those who are representing them in the inter-year oratorical contest. Miss M. Lyon of the fourth year will speak on "Munition Inspecting"; Miss W. Crawford of the third year on "The World's Demands upon University Women"; Miss M. Edge of the second year on "Canada's Returned Soldiers"; Miss J. Inwood of the first year on "Canada—Our Home." Music will lend variety to the program.

DR. SARTON WILL GIVE A SERIES OF LECTURES

Dr. George Sarton, of the University of Ghent, Belgium, editor of "Isis" and Lowell Lecturer at Harvard University, will deliver in the Physics Building a series of three lectures. On Wednesday the subject of his address will be "The New Humanism"; and on Thursday and Friday he will speak on "Science and Civilization in the time of Leonardo da Vinci." The lectures will take place at five o'clock on each of these days. The public are invited.

Coming Event.

Monday, January 14—Sir Robert Falconer will address the Menorah Society—University Y.M.C.A.—8 p.m. sharp.

EMINENT BIOCHEMIST GIVES AN ADDRESS IN MEDICAL BUILDING

Prof. T. Brailsford Robertson, Discoverer of "Tetelin," Lectured on "The Chemical Foundation of Living Organisms"

Last evening at five o'clock the University was honored by an address given by Professor T. Brailsford Robertson of the University of California, in the north lecture room of the Medical Building.

Professor Robertson is a native of Scotland, where he received his elementary education. Later he went to Australia and studied in the University at Adelaide. While studying there he became famous in connection with the study of biochemistry. After graduating, he became assistant professor of biochemistry under the direction of Dr. Loeb in the University of California, which position he has held for the past twelve years. Professor Robertson's chief claim to fame is in his discovery of "Tetelin," a substance extracted from the pituitary body. Its discovery has been handed over to the trustees of the University of California and is to be expended in research work along this line. In Professor Robertson's laboratory and under his own personal direction many experiments and much research work has been carried on concerning the process of growth.

The subject of the address was, "The chemical foundation of the process of growth in living organisms." Professor Robertson gave a very scientific treatment of the subject and he ably showed the effects of Tetelin on mammals. During the address he illustrated these effects with slides, showing many specimens used in the course of his experimenting. Sir Robert Falconer and many members of the Medical staff and prominent physicians of the city were present.

FURTHER RULING ON DAILY DRILLS

All Dents., Vets. and Meds. May Have to Drill One Hour Daily

The complications caused by the Military Service Act and involving the Meds, Dents and Vets, have been somewhat straightened out although the authorities are still unable to give definite rulings.

All medical students irrespective of years, if exempted, must perform such amount of military training as may be required by the General Officer commanding this district. It is expected that this will consist of one hour per day and negotiations are at present in progress between the officials of the Faculty of Medicine and the military authorities, at the General Staff Headquarters on College Street, regarding this. These requirements also apply to the Dental and Veterinary students coming under the Act.

The training of these students (Dents, Vets and Meds) who have been exempted is now going on under the supervision of an officer detailed for that purpose by the District Headquarters.

The maximum of drill that any student is liable to is one hour per day; the minimum three hours a week. The authorities of the Veterinary College have decided that all students must take the maximum; it is expected that the Dental College will do the same. While it is only hoped, for it is a very serious matter for them, that the Medical College will do likewise.

The conclusions so far are: first, all Veterinary students, Medical and Dental students liable to, but exempted from service under the M.S.A., must drill one hour per day; second, that all others must conform to the requirements of the University authorities and drill or take physical training for three hours per week.

STAFF NOTICE.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND THE FOURTH YEAR OF WAR

It is easy to say this is the fourth year of war, but it is very difficult to realize the fact in all its bearings.

The fourth year of war means the fourth year of Red Cross work, it means an ever increasing need of supplies, but all the novelty has worn off. Is less Red Cross work being done in and out of the work rooms by students? Fancy work is still to the fore in some quarters, though the demand for socks is greater than ever. In short, are we becoming deadened and bored in spite of and in face of the need?

The fourth year of war means increased physical demands on women for manual labour, agricultural work, etc. Does the fourth year of war mean a higher physical standard to meet that need? We have not facilities for compulsory gymnasium work, but we have every facility for individual training through gymnasium classes, athletics, skating, snowshoeing and other forms of wholesome exercise. If College women are undermining their energies through "movies", late hours, lack of exercise and unwholesome diet, the need of the future cannot be met. Every woman must be physically fit.

The fourth year of war means increased demands on College women for service of all sorts and for leadership. Disciplined academic work and the development of the power of thought alone can meet the need. Let no one think responsibility ends with knitting and physical training. Mental health and efficiency is the most vital point of all. Academic work is national service. We are faced by vague talk of the need of reconstruction after the war. These are fateful words, for we are faced by the need of reconstruction now. Only those who will learn to think can do the constructive work necessary. This responsibility is being taken or ignored by every College woman—there is no middle way. Are the women of the University going to fail in this crisis of the fourth year of war?

"FORTY WORDS"

It has recently fallen to the lot of many students to attempt to write biographies for certain of their graduating friends. The phrase "to attempt" is here used advisedly, for there is yet to be found the prospective graduate who professes to be satisfied with the sketch that is to appear under his name in "Torontonensis, 1918". Now this general lack of approbation of these biographies on the parts of the subjects is not due to supercilious criticism, nor yet to a complete lack of literary ability on the part of the biographers. The reason, it seems, is the word limit imposed by the Torontonensis Board on the length of the sketches. The Board requests that each "biography"—the term is probably used in irony—begin with a quotation, poetical or otherwise; and the Board insists that each, including the quotation, shall not exceed forty words. Few, who have not attempted it, can realise how little can be said in forty words. One biographer wrote a single line from Shakespeare, and had printed underneath three exclamation marks. In this case, as all who know the subject will agree, brevity was the soul of wit; but in the majority of sketches in "Torontonensis" one will find general brevity, but little wit.

Now this University Year Book is published by and primarily for the graduates of the current year. Its purpose is to provide the departing student with a memorial of his class-mates. For this reason, the most important feature of the book is the inclusion of these little sketches. It is to be regretted that in the most recent issues of "Torontonensis", these biographies, the raison d'être of the publication, have been whittled down to the narrow limits of forty words. The saving of space effected has been in no way commensurate with the diminution in pleasure that the book will bring to its owners.

It is, of course, too late to hope for any change in the nature of the issue of this year. But THE VARSITY would seriously commend to the consideration of present third year students, who in the course of a few weeks will elect the Torontonensis Board for next year, the advisability of permitting an increase in the length of the biographies. If the limit was doubled, the change would not necessitate anything like a proportionate increase in the size of the volume; but there would result a vast improvement in its character and usefulness.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

An opportunity will be given to the men of University College on Sunday afternoon to hear the reports of their representatives who attended the recent Conference at Northfield.

Students will do well to patronize the high class concert which is to be given on Wednesday, January 23rd, in aid of the Y.W.C.A. The committee are to be complimented on the talent they have secured. A further notice of this concert appears elsewhere.

Correspondence

Letters to The Varsity should be posted to The Varsity office or left at the office in a sealed envelope. They should be addressed only to the Editor-in-Chief.

Letters should be written on one side of paper only, should not exceed 300 words, and should always have signature attached as a sign of good faith. Writers assume full responsibility for their letters.

PLEA FOR TOWELS IN GYM.

To the editor of THE VARSITY.

Sir.—We do not know to whom we should address our plaint, for it concerns the nondescript red building just south of the Stadium, but we hope to reach the party concerned through the medium of your columns. It is a subject of great and pressing moment, and if our plea is heard, it will save much wringing of hands and shaking of heads. Briefly, our prayer is this, will someone please install a roll of paper towels in the dressing room of the gym?

Yours in damp distress,
A DOZEN INVALIDS.

To-Day's Poem

THE FAILURE.

He wasted days a-dreaming
In fields and pleasant ways,
He wasted time unseeing
In voicing honest praise;
He stole away to wander
Beneath the woodland's shade
To dream awhile and ponder
On all that God has made.

He loitered in his roving
Where suffering was near,
To speak a word of loving
And plant a seed of cheer;
He wasted his tomorrows
In seeking after men
Who bowed beneath their sorrows,
And brought their smiles again.

He turned from path of duty
And all the gain it yields,
And took the path of beauty
To childhood's rosy fields;
He shared the pleasure of them,
And heard their childish lore,
Like Him who bade us love them
Two thousand years before.

His precious time was wasted
And now he's growing old,
And never yet has tasted
The fruits of fame and gold;
A love of life and wildwood,
A heart of hate bereft,
And love of men and childhood,
Are all that he has left.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

It goes without saying that all the students' text books are here. We wish to say to "first years" that we have other books as well. Every volume in the store is within easy reach and may be examined at leisure. Make the store a rendezvous. You'll feel at home.

A new safety, self-filler fountain pen and a new leather loose-leaf note book at low prices are alone worth a visit.

THE SNOWBIRD

It happened on Wednesday night at exactly twelve minutes past four. Whether it was premeditated or whether it was accidental, we leave to the readers' own imagination. Nevertheless it came to pass. It was a most preposterous and unheard of thing. A mere company sergeant-major of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps actually insulted—shall I say grossly insulted—a noble son of the race of St. Bernard, whose genealogy may be traced back to the misty shadows of the bygone ages.

And this is how it happened. The stern command "Markers, Fall In" had been duly given by the aforesaid C.S.M. of the aforementioned C.O.T.C. and after much pushing and exhortation by the aforementioned C.S.M. the command was duly executed. Next came the stentorian command from the same source, "Fall In", and everyone, large and small, crippled, half and blind, and otherwise—hastened at a snail's pace to their respective positions.

And then it happened. But no, not yet. First at the command of the chief of the chief officers, "all those who were absent from last drill" were asked to draw nigh and walk the carpet. The majority of the men immediately ran to take advantage of this splendid opportunity of speaking to their superiors, but after a considerable display of hand-swinging were dismissed with a snuff and a nod. When all had rejoined the ranks, the aforementioned C.S.M. called the aforesaid C.O.T.C. to attention and then—it happened.

The scion of the noble clan of St. Bernard was quietly lounging in his accustomed attitude. The sergeant-major began to walk backwards and at the same time to yell "Stand-at—"; but it was never finished. As I said before he was walking backwards and as he did so his hoof caught the protruding portion of his majesty and overward, backward, downward he went. The huge black piece of timber clattered across the floor. Immediately his majesty sprang up and gave vent to a loud roar—and immediately the whole class sprang to attention. His indignation was partially appeased by the sergeant's apology and he stalked off forgetting rather than forgiving.

Pittsburg—Pittsburg will not claim the Eastern championship this year, inasmuch as Harvard and Yale have not had teams and the other large Eastern Colleges have been materially weakened by the loss of many veterans.

Jr. Meds. (1) Wins Fast Game From Jr. Dents.

Junior Meds. (1) met and defeated Junior Dents at the Central Y.M.C.A. on Monday in one of the closest and most exciting games of the season, as is indicated by the score of 20 to 26.

At half time the score was 20 to 9. Dents came back very strong on the second half, but could not overcome the big lead gained at the first. Urquhart, as usual, was the star man on the floor. Brown and Skinner were great factors in winning the game for Junior Meds.

Winthorn and Countryman of Dents played as good a game as the best of the Meds. With a good defence Dents will be a very strong team to defeat.

Bill—"That's our right—that's only the Americans further up a 'chewin' their gum rations"—London Opinion.

PITTSBURGH AND WISCONSIN
REVOKE BERNSTORFF'S LL.D.

While authorities at the University have been searching for a precedent to revoke the honorary degree held by the German Emperor, two mid western universities have taken decisive steps in similar matters. Both Wisconsin and Pittsburgh have revoked the degrees of Doctor of Laws granted to Count von Bernstorff, as well as his sovereign, is the holder of an LL.D. from Pennsylvania, and the sudden action of these western universities is likely to influence the trustees at their next meeting in January.

The Pittsburgh authorities revoked the degrees of Bernstorff and six other Germans whose names were not announced "because of the action of the German government in violating the principles of justice and morality in its conduct of the present war."

In a very strong statement the Wisconsin Board of Regents unanimously voted "to rescind all degrees and honors heretofore conferred upon von Bernstorff, who has proved to be not only an enemy to America, but also to society. This name must be henceforth a disgrace to any institution attempting to serve humanity as this university is striving to do."

—The Pennsylvanian.

Other Colleges

Wisconsin.—Wisconsin students are not going to hold a Junior "prom" this year. Instead of that luxurious social function a Liberty Dance is to be given and the proceeds will be used to purchase government bonds.

Dartmouth.—Despite the war, Dartmouth is showing great spirit in all forms of college activities. In addition to following her usual athletic program the Dartmouth Musical Clubs and Dramatic Association are to give their customary performances this year.

Princeton.—Seventy six members of Princeton's faculty are engaged in government war service. The proportion of the faculty in the service is as great as that of the undergraduates.

Chicago.—The women of the University of Chicago have formed a rifle club and are practising regularly. The coaches express great satisfaction with the marksmanship of the women.

The Query Box

[With to-day's issue we are opening the Query Box for the Easter Term. All questions, which are to be addressed to the Exchange Editor, The Varsity office, must be relative to the University.]

Q. I am taking physical exercise at the University gym twice a week. As I am working in the afternoons, I find it a great inconvenience. Would I be allowed to attend only once a week?—I. K.

A. We don't know. See either Dr. Barton or Mr. T. A. Reed and explain your case to them. Your request may likely be granted if you can prove that it is absolutely impossible for you to attend twice a week.

Q. Can one enter the Second Year Political Science on passing the First Year General.—M. G.

A.—Yes. If you are awarded Second Class Standing, i.e., an average of sixty per cent. in the General Course, you may, in the Second Year proceed in the Special Course in Political Science.

Q.—I heard that the five year's course in Medicine will be changed to six years' next year. Is this right?—J. T.

A.—Yes, but this regulation, however, does not become effective until after the close of the war.

Q.—When was the Medical building opened? M.C.D.

A.—1903.

Q.—Am a freshman at U.C. and intend to take up theology when I finish my Arts' course. What course, do you think, would best suit my case?—THEOLOGIAN.

A.—We cannot definitely answer this question for we don't know your "case". You have not told us your qualifications, whether you are of a studious disposition, etc. If you are philosophically inclined, fond of reflection, then no doubt the special course in Philosophy would agree with you. We know a good many theological students who, prior to their studies in theology, have taken one of the following courses: Philosophy, Orientals and Classics. We should advise you to see the heads of the respective departments and speak it over with them. They are respectively: Prof. J. G. Hume, Prof. W. R. Taylor and Prof. Hutton. We cannot decide for you. It's up to you.

New Hampshire.—A New Hampshire back, Irvine, is credited with making the longest run for a touchdown made this season. In the game with Dartmouth, he carried the ball over the line from his own five-yard line.

Yesterday Varsity Rink saw two strenuous work-outs. The teams spent over an hour on the ice.

Dents have begun to weed out the weaker brethren and are getting out a strong squad.

U.C. held the first hockey practice of the season and a good squad turned out. U.C. ought to have a strong team in the series.

It would be a fine thing if all the University musicians would turn out for practice to-day in the O.T.C. band.

University College basketball team had a good work-out at the Central "Y" yesterday. The regulars are showing better form than they did in the last game.

At five o'clock this afternoon O.T.C. meets Trinity in the first game of their group.

The basketball series is just nicely under way and it is quite time that the fans began to take an interest in the games. So far the attendance has been very slim and the co-eds are conspicuous by their absence.

SOCCER EXECUTIVE MEETING
TO BE HELD IN GYM. JAN. 14

There will be a meeting of the Soccer Executive of the University at the gymnasium on Monday, January 14. As the question of recommendation for colours is to be discussed, it is important that each Faculty send a representative. The meeting will be at 5 p.m. on Monday, January 14th.

Wycliffe

Another term has begun in the College and everyone is back to do his very best (we hope). The holidays always seem to be very refreshing, and all get a certain amount of benefit from them. Of course some get more than others, and come back from the place of their Christmas holiday abode, wearing a big, broad smile. Yes, it is a smile that is not to wear off in a few days or weeks, but one that will surely be of great use throughout their lives.

Then again at this Special Season many New Year's Resolutions are made—not to be broken?—during the present year. Among some of the outstanding ones are the following:

E. O. Twiss—To do more studying and less personal visiting.

V. G. Lewis—Not to visit Whitby more than once a week.

P. V. Smith—To referee all hockey matches when requested to do so, by the ladies.

R. F. Widdows—To be at his "new residence" as often as possible. (See Students' Directory).

D. G. Atkinson—To obtain an evening paper at any cost.

H. A. MacLennan—To skate EVERY band, EVERY night, EVERY week during the skating season.

H. H. Marsh—To smile more sweetly at the skating rink.

A. S. P. Woodhouse—To stop talking about publishing the 1917 issue of the Wycliffe "mag."

E. O. Gallagher—To get more sleep at any cost.

J. H. Geoghehan To avoid all possibility of a mental breakdown.

L. Smith—To meet as many ladies as possible during his last year in College.

C. H. Lucas—To eat "his own eggs" and be economical.

Education

A most enjoyable skating party was held January 9, by Section "A" F.O.E. at the Stadium. After skating all adjourned to the U.C. Women's Union, where refreshments were served and dancing and games indulged in till midnight when the party broke up with college songs and yells.

A meeting of the Dramatic Society was held on Monday, January 7, to discuss with Mrs. Halbus a play to be given by the students. It was agreed to leave the selection in the hands of Mrs. Halbus and a committee of four.

NOTICE.

ITS Executive meeting, Monday, Jan. 14, Room 26, Medical Building. 3 p.m. sharp.

Coming Event.

Jan 23—The Hambourg Jarvis Concert in Convocation Hall. Proceeds for the Y.W.C.A.

J. J. Robins—Not to be disturbed at any hazard by the "hoo-hoos" for the "fair" sex who parade Hoskin Ave at 1 a.m.

C. W. Lea—To have world-wide prohibition by July 1, 1918.

H. Meen—"To require a nurse as often as possible."

T. W. Jones—To learn how to "cut corners" on skates.

Other men of the College have also made many "resolutions", but have joined the Secret Service.

Dentistry

There will be a meeting of the Students' Parliament on Tuesday evening, Jan. 15, in the Assembly Hall. Important business is to be transacted at this meeting and a full attendance of the student body is requested. At the close of the meeting the Royal Dental Society will have charge of affairs for the balance of the evening. Dr. W. B. T. Amy will address the students on the subject "How a dentist, on graduation, may do justice to both his patient and himself." Several musical numbers will be given.

The first informal dance of this year will be held in the Assembly Hall on Friday evening, January 11th.

Victoria

A very interesting meeting of the U.L.S. is expected this afternoon at 4.30. Prof. J. H. Michael, M.A., will speak on "Lloyd George". There will be special music provided. Important government business is to be introduced.

EDITION

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

In order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

CHRISTIANITY HAS STRUCK FRESH ROOT

Archdeacon Smyth Preaches Impressive Sermon at Convocation Hall

In spite of the cutting wind and bitter cold a fairly large congregation assembled in Convocation Hall on Sunday at 11 a.m. to hear Archdeacon Paterson Smyth preach the first University Sermon of the year.

Archdeacon Smyth during his discourse showed that Christianity is not, as some people now think, losing its efficiency and power. "Even though after nineteen centuries Christianity, so-called Christian nations have risen against one another to kill and maim and destroy, the earnest Christian who has been living close to his God never dreams of asking if Christianity has failed and even the impetuous one who asks this does not really mean all he says. True Christianity never fails. It is the half-hearted formal Christianity, the Christianity that is not lived up to that has failed, and this has failed in all time. The failure of Christianity is just this: We who call ourselves Christians are not very good Christians. But the little Christianity that we have has not quite failed when last Sunday it sent fifteen millions to their knees in prayer.

"We blame Germany for all this strife and bloodshed, but Germany is a Christian nation, and the Kaiser is a member of the Christian church. But Germany has attempted to change Christianity to suit her needs. Germany has reverted to type: Germany's ideal is win at any price. Christ's ideal is right at any price. The awful thing in Germany's actions was in her proclaiming paganism as her course of action, proclaiming wrong to be right and departing from Christ's ideals. We have not always been right or just or chivalrous but we at least knew what we ought to have been. Germany criticized Christ more freely than she would venture to criticize the Kaiser.

Christianity grows like the oak tree—very slowly, but very surely. Every step onward depends on the willing surrender of a human heart. Jesus told men it would be slow, but it would be sure. The world to-day is much nearer God than when Christ was born, but it is still far away. We look back on the slave trade and the inquisition and the punishment of theft by hanging just as our successors will look back on war. Some day we trust Germany will look back with shame on these three years of blackness."

The closing message was one of great persuasiveness. "Get back to your Christ and your Church and pray. Do your best when your missionaries call for help to Christianize foreign lands and do your best to further God's work in our own lands."

SUPERINTENDENT ON HOLIDAY.

A report has been circulating about the University that Superintendent Campbell had thrown up his position. This, however, is not the case. At the office it was stated that he was taking a holiday for a few days in Trinidad.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

The following is the substance of a letter received by the father of Second-Lieut. Robert Edward Taylor, 1917, who has been reported missing and unofficially believed killed. "On September 17 he was reported missing. While on patrol about 7.20 on the morning of the 17th he sighted three German machines, which from the description and colours were evidently pilots from the famous —. He immediately attacked them, and in the fight which followed the German leader of the German planes singled out his machine and eventually succeeded in shooting him down out of control, and he fell within the German lines East of Arras. Before the fight was finished, the German leader was shot down by one of the British patrols."

Since then a cable has been received from the war office stating that he had been unofficially reported dead, but further details have not yet arrived. See Lieut. Taylor went overseas in Nov. 1916, and after training and passing all the examinations as pilot and machine-gun operator and aerial photographer, he was kept for home defence at London till July, 1917, when he was transferred to France and spent two months there on service in the R.F.C.

Lieut. A. M. Latchford, B.A., U.C. 1915, has recovered from the effects of the gas attack at Passchendaele and is again with his battery at Lens, where his brother, Lieut. J. K. Latchford, another 'Varsity man, is also stationed. The former had just entered upon his law course, and when he enlisted went overseas with the 34th (Major Massie's) Battery. He crossed to France in February, 1916, with a trench mortar battery, but later served for a time with an ammunition column. Subsequently he returned to the guns, and was attached to a battery during the battles of St. Eloi, Somme and Ypres salient. He was wounded slightly at Vimy Ridge, but remained on duty. Lieut. J. K. Latchford had graduated in arts and commenced his medical course when he went overseas, also with the artillery. They are sons of Mr. Justice Latchford, of St. George Street.

SIR ROBERT FALCONER

Will Address Menorah Society To-Night at University "Y"

The Menorah Society has been fortunate in securing Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University, to address them this evening. The meeting will take place at the University Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock sharp. The topic will be relative to some Jewish conditions. An excellent musical programme has been arranged. All interested are cordially invited.

The members of the Students' Administrative Council will sit for a photograph, at Farmer Brothers, 492 Spadina Avenue, at 1 o'clock on Tuesday next, January 16th.

NO INFORMATION re GRANTING OF YEAR TO DRAFTEES

The question as to whether drafted students would be granted their year was not discussed at the meeting of the Senate on Friday. This matter will not be brought up before the Senate until some student who is affected by the M.S.A. brings up his case. Then it will be decided for the benefit of all.

Announcements

The Classical Association will meet and be addressed by Professor Alexander at the home of Sir Joseph Flavell, Queen's Park, as the guests of Professor Milner, on Tuesday evening, January 15th.

A meeting of the Anglican Club will be held on Tuesday afternoon at four-thirty at the home of Mrs. Griffith-Thomas. Dr. Griffith-Thomas will speak.

SIR ROBERT FALCONER GIVES STIRRING ADDRESS AT CONVOCAION HALL MEETING

Has Great Hope in the Speeches of Lloyd George and President Wilson

Urges Economy—Do Not Spend Money on Extravagances

The Easter term was formally ushered into Varsity on Friday last when Sir Robert Falconer addressed a large gathering of students of all the faculties at Convocation Hall. So striking, patriotic, emotional and logical was his address from beginning to end that, despite its brevity, it proved to be sufficiently effective in making the hearers realize the seriousness of the present situation. This was quite manifest from the hearty applause.

Necessity of Sacrifice

Sir Robert spoke about the "peace proposals," the speeches of Lloyd George and President Wilson, the condition of Russia, and finally struck the highest note, when he came to discuss our duties at home—the note of "sacrifice." This was his message, it is of vital importance that each and every one of us at home, who cannot go, ought to make the greatest sacrifice possible, sacrifice so much until it really hurts, curtail our expenditures to the utmost, in order that we shall thereby be able to do our level best in reinforcing, with clothing, food, and the like, our gallant heroes at the front, who are shedding their blood, who are bravely laying down their lives for us in order to maintain Democracy and Freedom. And only then can we be sure of success when we have crushed and utterly annihilated this menace to civilization—German militarism and autocracy.

Importance of Report in Papers.

"This turn of the year," began Sir Robert, "has brought us all to an extremely difficult and critical position in the world of affairs. No doubt you have and are all reading about this in the papers. I hope that you have been reading and studying with great care the utterances about the present 'peace proposals,' especially the speeches of Lloyd George and President Wilson. They are of such striking character and momentous importance that you cannot afford to neglect them."

Praises Lloyd George and Wilson

"Lloyd George is from his past thoroughly democratic in his instincts, belonging to the Radical wing in the Liberal party. I presume his instincts still remain with him. He is in thorough sympathy with the democratic principles. President Wilson has not been a party politician. His sentiments are distinctly democratic. Here we have two leaders with such a splendid past behind them giving utterance to a trust in peace. This consonance of agreement between the leaders of the two nations is of great significance.

Victory is only Solution.

"These men tell us that the only solution or issue that can be accepted is a victory which will decide and prevent the world from going through such a state of affairs as it already has. And these are no simple utterances.

"I am glad Mr. Wilson has spoken about

MISS HELEN FOTHERINGHAM TO GIVE NEXT ORGAN RECITAL

The sixth organ recital of the term will be held on Tuesday, January 15th, 1918 at 5 p.m., and will be given by Miss Helen Fotheringham in Convocation Hall. The following is the programme:

1. JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH (1685-1750). Toccata and Fugue, D minor.
2. E. C. BAIRSTOW (1874 —). Evening Song.
3. FELIX MENDELSSOHN - BARTHOLDY (1809-1847). Sonata No. 1, F minor.
4. ORESTE RAVANELLO (1871 —). Musette.
5. BASIL HARWOOD (1859 —). Poem.

The next recital will be held on Tuesday, January 22nd, and will be given by Mr. R. Tattersall, Organist of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto.

Monday, January 14—Sir Robert Falconer will address the Menorah Society—University Y.M.C.A.—8 p.m. sharp.

Russia, because we must keep her on our side. We must encourage Russia by our support and affection. We seem to see now that the real enemy of Russia is Germany and this utterance of President Wilson will be very encouraging to Russia. They are beginning to realize that their dreams are dissipated. These idealists in Russia are now justifying by their actions what this proposition means.

A Moral Issue is at Stake.

"That power is an enemy with whom no terms can be made. We are in a new stage in our career and must understand what we are facing. Just realize, it is a moral issue that is at stake. You cannot compromise it until it is decided morally, in the right way, for the sake of the moral government of the world.

"What is necessary in order to accomplish this? We must restore confidence among the peoples of the world. How can this be done? By removing out of the way and breaking apart out of our midst those who have brought into civilization that tyrannical element. Confidence is the 'child of virtue.' Between men and men, unless we live virtuous lives, there can't be confidence amongst us. Moral law, righteousness, order, have to be established in the world as the basis of the moral order. It is by your character that you display that you will create an atmosphere around you. Law and order are based on virtues such as patriotism, virtues of loyalty, self-sacrifice, justice and duty to all. It will lay the foundation for the future confidence.

Sacrifice our Extravagance.

"I know there are many difficulties facing us, but these must be met by us without complaint. We may have to curtail our expenditures, our food, our clothing simply to facilitate, to make possible the victory. We must make up our minds that we must sacrifice all our extravagance of any sort without any complaint. The strength of our own armies may depend upon what we throw in. How many of us, I wonder, are really economizing, bearing the burden of the war by means of a real economy and sacrifice?

"When the term closes you will serve your country in the channels in which your service will be best spent. The spirit in this University is healthy and sound, a spirit of self-sacrifice. We shall preserve it to the very utmost limit of our energy and shall hold ourselves absolutely rigid."

Faculty "Spirit" Still O.K.

One cheerful "reminder" of the "good old" pre-bellum days were the faculty yells, given before the address. The S.P.S., Meds, and U.C. men in particular showed very ably that their faculty "spirit" has by no means become obsolete, despite the departure from 'Varsity of its best athletes, rosters, and all-round students.

SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT TO HOLD MEETING TO-MORROW

The sixth annual meeting of the Social Service Department is to be held in Convocation Hall, on Tuesday, January 15th at 8 p.m. President Falconer will preside and many eminent workers along Social Service lines will be present and address the meeting. Mr. John Collier, of New York, will speak on "Social Reconstruction after the War", with special references to health problems. Mr. N. E. Britton, Dr. C. R. Clarke and Dr. C. M. Hincks will also address the meeting.

NO TRUTH IN REPORT

The report in THE VARSITY that Capt. Wallace would take over Prof. Clark's work in the English Department is incorrect. Capt. Wallace has consented to devote one evening a week to an honour class of the fourth year.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Second-Lieut. Harry Moore Blake, University College, 1908, has died of wounds. He enlisted with the O.T.C. as a private, and left Toronto with a draft from that unit on August 19, 1916. After a short time in London, he was sent to the Officers' Cadet Battalion at St. John's College, Oxford, where he trained and passed his final examination with first class honours, being gazetted a second lieutenant in the Royal Dublin Fusiliers. He was sent to the depot of the regiment in Dublin, finally going to France on March 19th, 1917. Last July he was seriously wounded by gunshot in the left side. His father is F. L. Blake, of the Meteorological Office, Bloor Street.

Lieut. Murray G. Gunn, previously reported missing is now known to have been killed in action on December 7th. Lieut. Gunn enlisted with an infantry battalion, but left that to take a signalling course at Kingston. For a time he was attached to the Divisional Signallers at Ottawa. He was serving with the 23rd Squadron of the Royal Flying Corps at the time he met his death. He is a son of the late Andrew Gunn, and of Mrs. Gunn, 50 Walmer-road, Toronto. He was a U.C. student of the year 1917.

Flight Sub-Lieut. Albert Edward Cuzner, missing since April 29, is now presumed to have been killed. He was a graduate of University College 1915, and was attending Forestry at the time of his enlistment in the R.N.A.S. He was a very well known rugby player, having played on the second team in 1911, and on the first rugby team in 1912. He was a valued member of the Athletic Directorate in 1913-14 and 1914-15. An injury to his knee, prevented him from playing during the last two years of his Arts course, but he was President of the University of Toronto Rugby Club in 1914-15, the year the University of Toronto won the inter-collegiate rugby championship.

Major S. P. McMordie.

Major S. P. McMordie, formerly of St. Catharines, and a graduate of University College in 1899, has been gazetted temporary lieutenant-colonel. He has been serving with the Canadian Railway troops in France, and appeared in the casualty lists as wounded in August, 1916. Lieut.-Col. McMordie also holds the D.S.O.

Lieut.-Col. Geo. S. Rennie

The University shares by proxy in the honour recently conferred on Lieut.-Col. G. S. Rennie, of Hamilton, who has been made a C.M.G. He was a student at Trinity College in the days before its medical school became a part of the University of Toronto, and received his M.D., C.M. in 1889. Lieut.-Col. Rennie went overseas with the C.A.M.C., and has served for some time as A.D.M.S. of the Dover district and the Shoreham area.

Military Cross.

The Military Cross has been awarded to Captain Frederick S. Dent, a Victoria College student of 1911-13. His family have, as yet, received no particulars concerning the winning of the honour. Capt. Dent is serving in the Imperial Army with the Cyclists. His home is at 285 Augusta Avenue.

Lieut. Robert V. Macaulay, B.A.Sc. '12, has also received the Military Cross. He is attached to the C.F.A., and after long service in France, has just returned home to recuperate from wounds received early in November. Lieut. Macaulay received his commission on the field in June 1916.

CONCERT IN CONVOCAION HALL.

An unusual opportunity to enjoy a musical treat will be afforded University students on January 23rd, when a concert will be given in Convocation Hall by the Hamburg Trio: Mr. Harold Jarvis, tenor soloist; and Miss Margaret Fleury, soprano, soloist—all musicians of the highest order. Tickets 75, 50 and 25 cents, are on sale in the Main Buildings. The proceeds will go to the Y.W.C.A.

WEDNESDAY'S "T" MIXER WILL BE BEST EVER

Mr. Charles Conway will Entertain Varsity Men in Central "Y"

Although the attendance during last term was very good the 200 mark was never quite reached.

The slogan this year will be "200 or Bust". Everybody get behind and turn out. The "T" Mixers are worth while—they are all you can imagine. You know newspaper critics and when those prominent papers make the following eulogistic remarks about Mr. Charles Conway, who will appear at the "T" Mixer on Wednesday, January 16, you can be sure of his worth.

Londoner. — "An accomplished, an artistic, and at the same time sympathetic elocutionist."

Success — "The most artistic turn of the evening."

The Showman. — "His quick changes were wonderful and the make-up excellent."

New York Press. — "One of the most versatile entertainers who has arrived in this centre for some time."

U.C. COSTUME PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS

Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. Combine to Hold Enjoyable Social Hour

Friday evening fifty members of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. held a most enjoyable costume party at the Women's Union, 85 St. George Street. Grand ladies of the 18th century chatted gaily with slaves of the 19th, while puritans conversed in grave tones.

A charade presented by the women caused much amusement. Each scene was to represent a word the first letter of which was contained in the word which the scenes as a whole were to form. Much amusement was caused by the death of one of Queen Anne's children, especially when the dead child started to laugh.

Refreshments were then served, and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing. It is to be hoped that after the success of Friday's party the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. will decide to hold more of these parties.

270 MEDICAL DANCE A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Usual Success Marks Untiring Efforts of Organizers

The 270 dance on Friday evening last was pulled off with the same success that has marked all dances given by that year. To say the least it was a pace-setter for all other years and everyone was very enthusiastic in their expressions. One of the features which marked it as outstanding was the presence of "cats," which generally appeals to the medical man for some unknown reason. Also one might say a "touch of colour" was added during the last few dances by the coloured streamers in which everyone managed to get wound up.

The dance was patronized by Miss Clark, Mrs. McMurrick, and Mrs. F. McPhedran, Messrs. Bastow, McCard, McQueen and Robbins must be congratulated on their successful efforts.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Bentley

Lieut.-Col. William Joseph Bentley, a D.D.S. of 1900, has been made a member of the order for distinguished service rendered while attached to the dental section of the army. He has been overseas since the beginning of the war, and formerly held the rank of major and was attached to No. 2 Stationary Hospital of the Canadian Army Dental Section.

Major C. D. Hughes McAlpine

Major Cyril Douglas Hughes McAlpine, nephew of Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, was a B.A. of University College of '07 and was a Winnipeg lawyer before going overseas. He has been made an officer of the Order. Major McAlpine married Miss Lena Thompson, a graduate in Arts of '08. He has been decorated on account of his work as assistant director of supplies and transports while serving with the C.A.S.C. He was mentioned for valiant services in February, 1917.

STUDENTS AND UNIVERSITY TEACHING

"The Government is erecting too many buildings for the University."

"Yes, indeed, they are."
"It would be better if most of the students remained at home, and did some good, instead of coming here, and receiving foolish ideas."

"It certainly would!"
The above is the substance of a conversation overheard between two men who were walking to Hoskin Avenue past the rear campus one day last Fall.

The opinions expressed in this conversation are typical of the feeling of a large part of the public to all universities. The criticism, in regard to the ideas which students have, is merited if it relates to the way in which students have sometimes received University teaching; but not if it is levelled against the character of this teaching. Students, fresh from preparatory schools, come to the University where they hear men, who have had long experience with the world, expound theories, which while correct in themselves, are frequently beyond the grasp of the student. While students do not always understand these ideas they accept them in their entirety, and developing them by their own reasoning they reach a conclusion which is often false. In their enthusiasm, students frequently spread abroad their false ideas; and the public, judging University teaching by the fruit which it produces, in turn form a wrong opinion of universities. The foregoing remarks do not apply to all students, but they do fit a minority; and generally, though unfairly, it is by the actions of this minority, which seeks to attract attention, that the whole student body is judged. If the members of this minority would, in the first place, be careful of what they think and, what is more important, be careful of what they say; and if they conducted themselves in a proper manner—then the attitude of a certain portion of the public might be changed.

All this, however, may seem to be taking the conversation of these men too seriously. Perhaps they were only giving expression to the old prejudices against universities—the prejudices which may be summed up in the saying, "that universities travel in a rut". If this was the case, these men were forgetting that everybody travels in a rut. And if the universities' rut is as deep as the other peoples' rut, is it not possible that it may be a trifle wider? If it is not wider, then another duty falls upon members of universities—the duty of making their rut wide, and by their actions so convince the public. The right appreciation of university teaching will gain this end.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN AND WASTE

The homes of Canada must feed a starving world. Britain is in want. France is in want. Italy is in want. Britain and even heroic France are sending some of the food they need themselves to the perishing thousands of Italy.

The desperate need of Britain, France and Italy is far greater than we have realized until now. Within the last few weeks, word has come of grave danger that we may be defeated by starvation. What does this mean to the University student? Before the war University women utilised their spare time when they had finished their daily studies in attending little social functions. Although these little affairs have been curtailed to a certain extent, they are still far too elaborate considering the great need for self-sacrifice and self-denial. Great self sacrifice has been made so far by women students in devoting their time to work for the Red Cross, but they do not seem to realize yet the need for economy in eating.

In the second year of the war society abandoned all large functions of a very expensive nature; but now that the novelty of appearing martyrs to the cause has worn off, we read again of women giving teas in honour of their daughters, and at every conference of the Red Cross itself arrangements are not complete unless they include a banquet or reception.

University women must lead in the effort to conserve food for the forces fighting for the freedom of the world; and exert the influence which their education should give them.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The word "camouflage" was used in these columns some time ago. Kindly accept our sincere apologies.

The exams of last week were only a taste of what is coming next April. The term is very short, and now is the time to make ready for the greater contest.

The Students' Directory has finally appeared. We understand that instructions were given early in last term for the production of the Directory; but we also understand that no active steps in the matter of executing advertising contracts were taken until the latter part of November.

The Directory ordinarily would be a useful volume, but its usefulness is greatly curtailed when it is not issued before the month of January. The Students' Council next year, might take a greater interest in the Directory than this year's Council has.

SOCIAL SERVICE STUDENTS

When people ask us to define social service we usually reply that it is "any form of persistent and deliberate attempt to improve living and working conditions." How does a department of social service attempt to prepare people for such work? To begin with the student entering is expected to have certain educational qualifications, the broader the better. Varsity graduates of course bring popular. Instruction is provided in Social Economics, Ethics, Psychology, Sociology and Hygiene and in Child Welfare, Dependents, Community Work, Settlements, Recreation and Medical Social Service. The lectures are given in the Social Service Building, 8 Queen's Park, where is also situated the departmental library.

The school does not make the fatal mistake of turning its graduates into the world with no better equipment than a neatly labelled collection of theories and rules. It makes sure that each student gets a certain amount of practical work. The student listens to learned lectures, some inspiring, some soothing, on various social problems. He supplements this with copious reading of authorities ranging from Dr. Devine to Bernard Shaw, and then perhaps takes his first plunge into the seething whirlpool of practical work. There, if he has ordinary intelligence and manages to keep afloat, he usually learns very soon that people cannot be pigeon-holed, that human response to stimuli is infinitely variable. This is a valuable lesson and the student who learns it thoroughly is likely to continue his education indefinitely. He may do practical work in connection with the Juvenile Court, one of the city settlements, through the Neighbourhood Workers' Association, of the Social Service Department of the General Hospital, this being determined by the subject in which he specializes. As students, we reserve the time-honoured right to criticize our own department and all pertaining thereto, including the practical work and its administration, but in fairness we admit that much depends upon the student himself. He may possibly see in a given piece of practical work just a task to be performed which may count a certain number of hours "field work." This is bad. But we believe that the majority see in such work an illustration of what they have been studying, an opportunity to do something towards preventing, diminishing or relieving distress, and best of all a chance to do a little towards the development of freer and fuller personality in the individual concerned. An honest attempt to study social service means making the most of what is provided by lectures, books, sociological exhibits, etc., but at the same time it is absolutely essential to come to know people. As John Collier said in a recent address to social workers, "Immerse yourself in the states of mind of the layman, of the average individual, the man in a blind alley trade, the restive industrial worker, the truant child, the feeble-minded girl, the incomplete economic family." Provision for practical work may be more or less satisfactorily made in any training school, but at best it merely provides the open door through which the student enters into this realm of understanding.

The course now offers second year instruction. There are optimists who hope that this may be extended. This is because we feel that even in spite of present limitations people who go out from the school take with them an awakened social conscience, a saving sense of the infinite amount they have still to learn and a real determination not merely to do things for and with people, but also to help and inspire people to do things for themselves. They realize that the planning of elaborate social programmes for people's betterment is not sufficient. The love and loyalty of the people is necessary and will be gained only "when they come to realise that these programmes need them, the people."

To continue, we believe that any attempt at social work which does not include real understanding of people is futile. To again quote John Collier, "the human soul will truly live and the human enterprise will truly nourish the soul, just in so far as social science can 'hitch its wagon to a star'. That star is not any other-world doctrine, nor any Utopian formula, but just the emotions and sentiments of the people."

ANNA HOWE REEVE PRIZE

The Department of Household Science is the beneficiary of a memorial prize established by Dr. W. A. Reeve, formerly dean of the Medical Faculty of the University, in honour of his wife. It will be known as the "Anna Howe Reeve Prize," and may be awarded to a student of the third year for general proficiency and special capacity in the work. "It is intended to perpetuate the memory of a true helpmate whose unselfishness enabled the donor the better to discharge his duty to his Alma Mater." The prize is one of $25, and will be awarded for the first time this session.

Dartmouth has instituted a daylight saving system. Under this plan the classes are moved up one hour earlier than during the past.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE FOR TWO GROUPS

Jennings' Cup Managers Adopt Partial Programme for Coming Series

Friday afternoon the University gym was the scene of an exciting hockey meeting. The managers of the Jennings' Cup teams were to meet the executive to arrange the schedule, but owing to the absence of a couple of the managers and some of the executive, the meeting had to work partly in the dark. The conflicting hours of drill and practice hours at the rink made the task most difficult. As with most meetings of a like nature it began late and as usual half an hour had to be wasted in conversation before an understanding was reached. The following groups were then drawn up:

GROUP I—S.P.S., Trinity, McMaster, St. Michael's.
GROUP II—U.C., Victoria, O.T.C.
GROUP III—Dents, Meds, Pharmacy.

Group I.

Jan. 16—S.P.S. v. McMaster.
Jan. 21—St. Michael's v. Trinity.
Jan. 23—S.P.S. v. Trinity.
Jan. 26—McMaster v. St. Michael's.
Jan. 28—Trinity v. McMaster.
Feb. 1—S.P.S. v. St. Michael's.
Feb. 2—Trinity v. McMaster.
Feb. 4—S.P.S. v. McMaster.
Feb. 6—St. Michael's v. Trinity.
Feb. 6—McMaster v. St. Michael's.
Feb. 9—S.P.S. v. Trinity.
Feb. 11—S.P.S. v. St. Michael's.

Group II.

Jan. 17—U.C. v. Victoria.
Jan. 23—O.T.C. v. Victoria.
Jan. 25—U.C. v. O.T.C.
Jan. 30—Victoria v. O.T.C.
Feb. 1—O.T.C. v. University College.
Feb. 7—U.C. v. Victoria.

Unfortunately a new order has been issued in the C.A.D.C. under which Dents will have to drill every day. The same order is expected for the medicals and no schedule can be arranged for Group III until the particulars are found out concerning the new order. It is hoped the Group III will start before the end of the week.

The Association adopted the following clauses:

1. That six-man hockey be played.
2. That last year's rules regarding off-side, playing periods, etc., be adopted with the exception that no substitution of players be allowed after the beginning of the third period.
3. That a double series of home and home games be played.
4. That the referee for any particular game be chosen from the list supplied by the executive, by the managers of the opposing teams and if no agreement can be reached that the appointment be made by the hockey executive.

It is again brought to the notice of the managers that the names and addresses of prospective referees and also the names and phone numbers of the managers themselves must be handed in before Tuesday to the Secretary, G. P. Pearson, 63 Yorkville Ave. The executive will meet again Tuesday at 5 o'clock to complete the schedule and arrange for referees.

And spirit legions of Immortal Ones

Bidding thee keep, unstained, that noble soul
Which they have ransomed at so great a

The Railbird

To-day there will be another double-header in the Sifton Cup Series, when Jr. Meds (1) meet St. Mike's and Sr. Meds play Sr. Dents.

The speed shown in these games will justify your attendance.

Saturday night Crescents sprang a surprise in Senior O.H.A. circles when they won handily from St. Patrick's 3-0. The game was featured by rough play and good goal tending. The Crescents checked back well and worked better as a team than the Irishmen.

Last Friday O.T.C. failed to turn up for their scheduled basketball game and Trinity won by default.

Central Y.M.C.A. is a very busy institution and practically all their spare hours on the gym floor have been handed over for the Sifton Cup series. Therefore, if a team fails to appear for a game the manager should not be surprised when the opposing team wins by default. All this is said to emphasize the fact that the games must be played according to schedule.

This afternoon the College group in the Junior O.H.A. opens at the Arena, when University of Toronto Schools meets St. Michael's College.

A new form of sport has been introduced into the University military school, known as dog-baiting. It is strictly an N.C.O.'s game, but is greatly enjoyed by both officers and men.

The public is waiting with great expectancy the results of the next chess tournament in which the faculty is engaged.

NOTICE OF EXECUTIVE MEETING

The executive of the Jennings' Cup Series will meet at the University gym on Tuesday at 5 o'clock. The schedule of Group III will be drawn up and all unfinished business concluded.

U.C. PLAYS ON TUESDAY.

The U.C. basketball quintette has been showing plenty of speed in their practices during the past week. They are a much more formidable team than when they won from Jr. Meds (2) last Tuesday night. A fast game is expected when they meet Victoria to-morrow night at 5 in the Central "Y" gym. Turn out all U.C. fans and support your team.

PHYSICAL TRAINING CLASS SECURES NEW INSTRUCTORS

Sergeants Lesueur and Clarke
Were Both Stars in the Line of Sports

Sergeants Brown and Lewis, the instructors in physical training at the University gymnasium, have been sent to other jobs and so have had to give up their work here. Sergeant Brown went to Hamilton to an instructional position with the 2nd C.O.R. and Sergeant Lewis has a position at the Exhibition Camp with the first C.O.R. Their places have been filled by Sergeants Lesueur and Clarke, who will hold the post till the end of the session. They have lately been at Headquarters at the Exhibition grounds where they have been training instructors.

Sergeant Lesueur played on the Ottawa hockey team, before the war, and was well-known in that connection. He was also for some time in charge of the N.C.O.'s training school at the North Residences.

Sergeant Clarke has played on most of the city football teams, and both he and Lesueur are men of first class physique. He has charge of the machine-gun school at the Exhibition Camp.

Lieut. Harrison, who has charge of the physical training in this district, and who provided the instructors, was present at the gym on Thursday and witnessed the drill.

2T1 SKATING PARTY

There will be a 2T1 Skating Party on Wednesday, January 16th at the Varsity Rink from 8 to 10. Refreshments will be served at the Women's Union at 10.30. All are advised to come and see what's what and who's who.

Medicine

Daffydil Night preparations are coming along fine in some years, but a few more "signs of life" could be shown by other years. The third year is defenders this year and although many have gone overseas there are still enough left to organise a good stunt.

Big things are expected from the first year and since it is a large year they should show something new. Contributions to "Epistatus" should be sent in immediately. Mr. Pequannat of the fourth year has charge of that.

Daffydil was decided upon this year after much discussion and every man in Medicine should line up behind the men who have taken charge and help to make it an "old time" night.

Many are waiting for the Jennings' Cup series to start and we hope that practices will be started this week. Meds made a good stand last year and should be cup contenders this year.

The "At-Home" Committee are well under way and the way things are shaping the annual affair should be as big a success as ever. Tickets will be available at an early date.

Members of the committee will note that the picture has been postponed from Monday to Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Education

Great enthusiasm is being shown by the students of F.O.E., who have been selected to play the "F.O.E." of the Mer chant of Venice. Mrs. T. Hallus, who is in charge, anticipates a very successful production. It is expected that this scene will be given early next week. Keep an eye open for further notice.

Dentistry

One of the most enjoyable dances of the season was held on Friday evening, Jan 11th. The floor was in excellent condition and the Assembly Hall was very prettily decorated with pennants and bunting. Although the weather was very unfavorable, a goodly number was present, showing that the favorite pastime is still quite popular among the Dents. All the years were well represented, and the music supplied by Stratheide's Orchestra was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Victoria

A very interesting meeting of the U.L.S. was held on Friday afternoon at 1:30. In the absence of the President, Mr. H. C. Binkley, the chair was occupied by the vice-president, Mr. Harvey, who acquitted himself creditably. Mr. Blackburn assisted in the programme by rendering in his usual good style two splendid solos. The most important item of the program was an address by Prof. J. Hugh Michael, M.A., on "Britain's Prime Minister, Mr. David Lloyd George."

Prof. Michael gave a splendid interpretation of the life and career of his fellow countryman. His unique popularity he considered was due to the courage, oratory, astute use of the press, and the supreme smartness of the prime minister. "England," he said, "selected Lloyd George because of her need of a man of keen insight, and because he had never failed to measure up to the tasks imposed upon him in all former positions." The address was interspersed with many personal touches and little incidents which revealed the charm of the Prime Minister's character. He concluded his address by reference to his religious life, and showed that above all things, Mr. Lloyd George was a humble Christian.

The very large number present felt that they had been doubly repaid for any effort on their part in coming to the meeting. On Wednesday of this week the mem-

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

HEAD OF UNIVERSITY ADDRESSED MENORAH SOCIETY ON MONDAY

"Study Your Past" is Advice of Sir Robert to Students

LARGE ATTENDANCE

"English and Hebrew Literature
the World's Greatest," He Said

That the Menorah "spirit" has aroused a great deal of enthusiasm amongst the undergraduates, graduates, and members of the staff of the University, was quite evident on Monday evening when Sir Robert Falconer delivered a very interesting and instructive address at the open meeting of the Menorah Society, which was held at the University Y.M.C.A. The hall was filled to capacity with undergraduates of the faculties of Arts, Medicine, Dentistry, Law, and S.P.S. Among the members of the staff present were Prof. W. R. Taylor, Ph.D., head of the Department of Oriental, Prof. J. Gibson Hume, M.A., Ph.D., head of Department of Philosophy, and Prof. D. R. Key, M.A., of the English Department. Mr. J. A. Sweet, president, occupied the chair.

In speaking about the aims and purposes of the Menorah Society, Sir Robert said: "The purpose of your society is to keep alive the interest in the great moving principles and ideas of the past. I am very much persuaded that we become strong only so far as we take the best out of the past. You have very wide, varied and rich material to draw from. If we should all understand, grasp, feed upon and appropriate the principles of your literature, we would have a wonderful world. All the scholarships of the past century have opened up for you the meaning of your literature. You can see its variety, you can't go astray."

"Take the great hopes set forth in the prophet Isaiah. They are hopes for the present world. These can be found in the whole period of your great prophets. There has been nothing surpassed in that teaching. It was not a teaching of dreamers. These prophets were all like statesmen. Therefore, do not lose faith in your own literature, for cruelty and social disorder have come into this world because we have not studied well your literature."

President Falconer then spoke about the Toronto University. "This University is rapidly becoming one of the leading centres of intellectual life in Canada." He stated that the two best literatures to be mastered are the Hebrew and English literatures. "Study the English literature, not from the linguistic point of view. I believe that from now on it is necessary for us to take literature and see what is embodied therein. What do we find there? You find among the British people a developing sense of the necessity of natural righteousness and liberty." He sketched the history of the English period, showing the underlying scope and movement of the English literature and the gradual development of a broader conception of constitutional government. He then sketched the history of Canada.

After the hearty vote of thanks, which was moved by Mr. J. J. Glass, B.A., and seconded by Mr. H. Godelph, 19, President Falconer replied: "After the war you will have an opportunity, the like of which you never have had before. You will have Palestine, which is promised you. Further, the condition in Russia is now favorable to you. The bitter anti-Semitism throughout the world will change."

A splendid musical program, in which the well-known artists, Misses Ferguson and Post, participated, supplemented the lecture, and was greatly appreciated by the audience. Mr. Schott, '18, and Miss M. Levi, '21, moved a vote of thanks to the talent, which was well applauded. The meeting adjourned with "God Save the King."

271 SKATING PARTY

On Wednesday night, January 16th, from 8 to 10, there will be a Skating Party for the first year. This will be quite one of the events of the year, as it is going to be patronized by the whole body of 271. Refreshments, etc., will be served at the Women's Union at 10.30, through the generosity of the Executive, which has contributed a considerable part of the Class' funds for this purpose. If anybody knows of a better "show" than this, let them go to it but no one will, because no one does.

MR. CHARLES CONWAY FAMOUS ENTERTAINER AT MIXER TO-NIGHT

Professor and Students Have Opportunity of Seeing Mr. Conway

In dealing with the subject of education Plato stresses the necessity of using our leisure to the best advantage—recreation should be fruitful. If you think for a moment of the various activities in which you might participate during your leisure moments, you will realize that there are few which come up to the Big "T" Mixers. Greatly Due to the Ladies.

They have in a large measure been made possible by the kindness of the wives of the professors, headed by Lady Falconer, coming down and aiding in the kitchen. The result is that when the famished students arrive, the "cats" are ready and awaiting the onslaught.

The Discussion Groups.

The men interested in discussion meet from 7.30 to 8 o'clock. They have themselves selected their own leader. The Central Y.M.C.A. has generously given over class rooms sufficient to hold the various groups. Not only is every man invited to the supper but also to enter one of these classes.

This year the programmes will be even

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Gunner Donald S. Macpherson, of Faculty of Education, 1914-15, was returned from France to England a few days before Christmas to train for his commission, in the Officers' Training Corps. The commission is a further recognition of the brave acts which won him a military medal on December 9th last. "Don," as he was familiarly called around Varsity and the F.O.E., enlisted in the 67th University Battery in July, 1916. The following October he went overseas in a draft. He has been in France since January last, attached to a howitzer battery with which he served at Vimy Ridge, Passchendaele, and other recent engagements.

Lieut. M. C. Healy, of the Royal Flying Corps, who belonged to the 179 class of '17, is now stationed in England as an instructor. Lieut. Healy left Canada in 1916, and spent many months in France. He is reported to be one of the best flying men "over there."

MISS EDGE, OF 270, CARRIES OFF DEBATING HONOURS

The annual oratorical contest held under the auspices of the Women's Literary Society of University College, on Saturday evening, tempted a large number of students to brave the storm, and seek the cheerful atmosphere of the Union, where an evening of intellectual enjoyment was assured. The honours were keenly contested by representatives from each year, and much talent was displayed. Mrs. MacIvor and Miss E. Middleton, as judges, gave due credit to each speech and were unstinted in their praise of the treatment of "Problems of the Returned Soldier" by Mary Edge, who by the sincerity and earnestness of her address and the charm of her personality succeeded in carrying off the honours of the evening and reflecting glory on the sophomore year.

After the contest, a short musical programme, and the inevitable "cats," were enjoyed by all.

W.U.A. HELD MASS MEETING ON TUESDAY ---DR. CULLIS AND MISS WRONG SPOKE

Dr. Cullis Spoke on "University Women and Their War Work in England."

Many of the Women Will Help Base Hospital Workers

The first meeting of the W.U.A. of University College, for the new term, was held in East Hall, on Tuesday afternoon at 4.15, with the president, Miss Mabel Child, in the chair. A further meeting for the propagation of National Service Work, was announced for February, when an appeal will be made for supporters in the Fruit-Picking Campaign.

The regular business of the meeting was then introduced and the proposed change in the constitution discussed. As a result, it was decided that the first year representative to the W.U.A. should hold her office for the whole year. Previously a second election was held at Christmas and a different representative chosen. The resignation of Elizabeth Chant as first year representative to the Women's Administrative Council was then accepted, and nominations for candidates for the vacated office, received—Barbara Findlayson, Grace Tremere, and Edith Glazier.

The president then mildly reproved the students for the infringement of one of the rules of the association concerning loitering in the halls, and conversing here with members of the "firmer" sex.

The first speaker of the afternoon was Miss Henderson, secretary of the Red Cross Work for the Base Hospital. In the course of her informal talk, Miss Henderson made an earnest plea for service from the University girl. Ten or fifteen minutes devoted to the making of head-bandages or to the sewing-up of buttons, would indeed be appreciated. Any of the work may be taken home by students or organizations to be finished more rapidly. Pyjamas, shirts, bedsheet amputation bandages, wash-cloths and personal property bags, are among the articles made. If the girls would only realize how every little service counts the diffcult colleges would be better represented at the "sewing conferences" in the Library Building. At the close of the meeting Red Cross canvassers were at the doors to receive the names of all those who, in the future, would endeavour to set aside a specified number of hours per week for service with the Base Hospital workers.

After the business had been attended to, Dr. Cullis of the London School of Medicine, was introduced. In her opening remarks, Dr. Cullis announced that her subject would be "University Women and their War Work in England." They have been taking part in many war-time activities, but at the present moment there is one problem that they must face, which dwarfs all others—the question of food. In the past few years, women have been in fruit-picking, harvesting, hay-making and flax-pulling. In fact last year one thousand women workers for the last employment were guaranteed by the universities of England. The flax industry now is to a great extent dependent upon women workers. But with conditions as they now stand, women must do more than help in production—they must aid in conservation. In fact not only must they aid in this work—they must lead in it for in this field women are in their recognized sphere.

Dr. Cullis here gave a comprehensive sketch of the beginning of the war work in her college. The first development along this line was in the form of the National War Savings Movement which promulgated war loans. The limit of subscription was "Fifteen and six," equivalent to three dollars. This might be paid in instalments of sixpence or even pennies in the board schools. So successful was this campaign that one million pounds per week were received. As a result, of this amount of enthusiasm displayed in this movement, the members of the association began a new line of service, preaching the gospel of food conservation. For we must realize that food and shipping are the two great national problems. In the seriousness of the latter matter, the loss of tonnage contrary to all preconceived ideas, is but a small part. Over half of the mercantile marine is now used in transporting troops; hence the shortage. It is on this account that the shipping of all non-essentials must be eliminated.

This point also naturally involves the unequal division of productive areas of foodstuffs on the world's surface. This year for the first time in the history of the world there are no full granaries to fall back upon in case of necessity. The food shortage of last year was one fifth of the total amount of former production. Continued on page 3, col. 3

AN OPPORTUNITY GIVEN TO WOMEN UNDERGRADS.

At Present There Are Two Openings on File at Registrar's Office

The university women of to-day need not feel that all doors to active service are closed to her until she has obtained her "Open Sesame"—the B.A. degree. The present shortage of labour has created a crisis which demands something more than a passive acceptance of the fruit of other people's labour, and there is a growing desire for independence among the girls who used to say "Just send the bill to daddy."

Several requests have come to the University, for students who are willing to devote part of their time to some form of remunerative work, and at present there are two openings which would in no way interfere with college life or academic studies. Those interested may apply at once to Miss O'Neill, Registrar's Office, for further information.

DALHOUSIE UNIVERSITY SENDS CONGRATULATIONS TO U. OF T.

Prof. G. O. Smith has received the following message from Dr. H. Stanley Mackenzie, President of Dalhousie University, Halifax, N.S.: "I wish to send my thanks to you for a copy of the Toronto Roll of Service which I have just received. It is certainly a wonderful showing that Toronto makes, and I wish to congratulate the University again through you on the notable way in which its students and graduates have answered the challenge of Central Europe against everything which we in the Universities have stood

PAULIST CHOIR WILL SING UNDER AUSPICES OF THE NEWMAN CLUB

Proceeds Will Go to Benefit of Sailors' Relief Fund

The world famous Paulist Chorists, of Chicago, under the direction of the Rev. William J. Finn, will appear in Massey Hall next Friday and Saturday evenings, under the auspices of the Toronto Newman Club, and will sing in aid of the British and Canadian sailors and seamen's relief fund. The Choir, which is of international fame, having won the Grand Prix in Paris, is at present on a six months' tour for patriotic purposes. Everywhere they have sung they have been greeted by crowded auditoriums and doubtless their visit will be the premier attraction of the year in this line. The Choir, which consists of one hundred, including fifty boy sopranos and many soloists, will appear at full strength, and the occasion will probably be the only opportunity the music lovers of the University will have of hearing this splendid musical organization. The concerts are under the patronage of their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, who will be present for the Saturday night concert.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut. Gordon Allan Cockburn of 322 Spadina Road, Toronto, who has been missing since November 8, is now reported dead through German sources. Lieut. Cockburn went overseas with a howitzer battery from Guelph as a lieutenant. He was badly wounded in October, 1916, but returned to the front, and after the battle of Vimy Ridge transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, with which unit he was serving at the time he met his death. He was a student at the School of Science from 1911-13.

Captain George Wood Brown, of 41 Elgin Avenue, has been awarded the Military Cross, according to word received by his family in a cable. Captain Brown went overseas as assistant adjutant to a Regina Battalion, and was transferred in August 1916 to a famous Montreal highland unit. In March of last year he was appointed to a Headquarters Staff, and has lately been gazetted a staff captain. He was mentioned in despatches in October 1916. Captain Brown attended University College from 1905-07.

Captain Clarence Alfred Brisco, of Chatham, Military Cross—"After 24 hours tending the wounded without sleep or rest, he conducted stretcher parties over the shell-swept ground with total disregard of his own safety." Capt. Brisco graduated in Medicine in 1913, and is serving with the R.A.M.C.

Captain Robert I. Harris, M.C., Bar to Military Cross—"for directing the evacuation of a heavily shelled dressing station of a crowd of patients." Capt. Harris graduated in 1915, and is with the Royal Army Medical Corps in France.

The Military Cross was presented to Major H. B. Jeffs on Sunday, January 13, at the home of his father, 2491 Yonge St., by Lt.-Col. Fraser, A.D.C. on behalf of the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. Major Jeffs was only in Toronto for a few hours, being on transport duty. His Military Cross was awarded for "gallantry and devotion to duty," although wounded himself, he tended the wounded under very heavy fire, with great courage and determination. Later being again wounded, he remained on duty until relieved.

DR. SARTON, OF GHEENT, WILL LECTURE

The subject for Wednesday is "The New Humanism," and for Thursday and Friday "The Science and Civilization of the Time of Leonardo da Vinci."

MR. J. COLLIER SPOKE AT MEETING OF SOCIAL SERVICE DEPARTMENT

Subject of Address was "Social Reconstruction After War"

SIR ROBERT FALCONER PRESIDED

Speakers Proclaim Social Service to be Science of the Future

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the Social Service Department of the Toronto General Hospital was held last night in Convocation Hall. The meeting was well attended and great interest was taken in the thoughtful addresses delivered. President Falconer presided, and in a brief address introduced the speakers of the evening.

Dr. N. C. Britton, the new superintendent of Toronto General Hospital, described one phase of the work of the Social Service Department and the immense results accruing therefrom. He stated that the department was undermanned at present and facing financial disaster.

Dr. Clarke, who is the champion of the crusade against social diseases in Toronto gave some astounding statistics. Much of the success of the Hospital in all lines was attributed to him by Dr. Hincks who followed.

The chief speaker of the meeting was John Collier of New York, then addressed the meeting. His speech was one of generalities rather than specific examples, and dealt with social inequities without suggesting a really definite means of combating them. However, the address was highly appreciated and was evidently drawn from a wealth of experience. He deplored the fatal aloofness of modern society work and attributed much of the failure to lack of systematic follow-up of cases. He said we are living and moving as in a dream and move only with the crowd.

To the question, "Why are we fighting?" Mr. Collier answers that present world war is being fought to keep alive sentiments of Liberalism as against absolutism. Germany regarded the individual as property of the State. This view is an archaic one and the pre-Greek states. If we defeat Germany without contamination we shall be in a position to write a social scheme with a liberalistic outlook.

Much of present state of affairs he attributes to our educational schemes in schools and universities—it being literary rather than scientific. Important fundamental facts are ignored. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ANGLICAN CLUB MET AT HOME OF MRS. THOMAS

Dr. Griffith Thomas Was Unable to Lecture

The first meeting of the Anglican Club after the Christmas holidays took place on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas. A splendid gathering was present.

Owing to adverse circumstances Dr. Griffith Thomas was unable to address the members as had been expected. But a very pleasant hour was spent in knitting and discussions over the tea-cups. Mrs. Thomas entertained the Club by reading a few most interesting chapters from "The Kitten at the Crater," or, as it is better known in this country, "The Cross at the Front," by Thomas Tiplady, a book in which the author relates his experiences as a chaplain while on service overseas during the early part of the war, and which throws a great deal of light on the religion of the soldier at the front.

Red Cross work will be carried on at the next meeting of the Club at the Deaconess Training School and consequently a full attendance is requested.

The members are also urged not to forget the Bible Study Groups with Mrs. Griffith Thomas on Sunday afternoons.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER UNION.

The Student Volunteer Union of Toronto will meet in the University Y.M.C.A. on Friday, January 18th, at 8 p.m. Reports of the Northfield Conference will be given by several of the delegates. All student volunteers are asked to come and get acquainted with those in the other colleges. Refreshments will be served.

PATIENCE

In our experiences, on the street, in the shop, at college, in fact everywhere, we come across people of various natures and dispositions. We meet the broad-minded, imperious, liberal, courageous and self-reliant person, who has a patient nature. We also meet the ambitious, more than ordinarily intelligent person, who, while forgiving, kind-hearted, and affectionate, has nevertheless a hasty temper which is difficult to direct or control. He is impatient. Both of these types of person are to a certain extent, to be admired. But we should always prefer the former, whose motto is PATIENCE.

What is patience? Why do we admire the one possessing it? Patience is a virtue. It is commended by all men, but we are sorry to state that we find only a few who are willing to practice it. As has been truly said: "Patience is bitter but its fruits are sweet." We must have patience, forbearance, in everything we undertake. Let us not, when expecting speedy and successful results in our undertaking, be sadly disappointed when this does not turn out to be the case.

Let us never give up hope. If we have unfortunately failed in our term examinations at school or college, we still have an opportunity to "make-up" in the finals providing we are only patient and buckle down to work harder than we did before. For, what a pity for those who have no patience! They forget that it is only by degrees that a wound heals up. The impatient person whose characteristics are quick temper, tenacity, sarcasm, combativeness and penetration, while being at his very best in any sphere involving planning or scheming, has nevertheless a lack of perseverance and consequently very seldom carries things through to a successful conclusion. It's the patient person who succeeds. He has confidence in his undertakings and hopes by slow degrees to succeed, no matter whether he fails once or twice.

But while we recommend patience, and admire the person who employs it, we also urge that it, like all other virtues and the like, must not be carried to excess. For, we must not forget, there is a limit at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue and becomes detrimental to the possessor.

PLEA FOR UNIVERSITY CHOIR

Is it not lamentable that in a University as large as Toronto there are not some students who have enough enthusiasm to form a permanent choir to assist at the Sunday services in Convocation Hall?

We do not think the burden of leading the singing should be left entirely with the women of the University but when, owing to abnormal conditions caused by the war, the number of men has been reduced, the women must realize that the work of maintaining a good choir falls more heavily upon them. It is a well-known fact that congregational singing is much improved when led by a large and efficient choir.

Last Sunday at the opening service of the Spring term there was no choir; and as a result the singing was not as good as it ordinarily would have been. The lack of a choir last Sunday was the subject of considerable notice and in the Correspondence column to-day we publish a letter which shows how people in the congregation look to the choir for support.

The men who come to conduct the University sermons are either actively engaged in Church work, or from large colleges, and if they do not receive aid in conducting the service from a good choir they will naturally carry away with them a bad impression. When the congregation in Convocation Hall is not led by a choir, it is much more noticeable to the minister than to the congregation, but the latter also feel a lack of something to depend upon.

For the remaining services of the spring term the students should endeavour to lend their utmost assistance to the promotion of interest in Convocation choir. This support can best be shown by becoming a member and turning out to practice Saturday morning at 12 o'clock in Convocation Hall.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE

The Scope of the Conference.

From Nova Scotia and California, from British Columbia and Florida, from Ontario and Texas, they came—eight hundred of the students, professors, association secretaries, and leaders of the missionary forces of North America—to a Conference of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions on the historic conference grounds at Northfield, Massachusetts.

Thirty-six countries besides Canada and the United States were represented by fraternal delegates, many of whom were students in American universities. Keen and earnest men and women they were those "foreign students." It was more than a pleasure, it was part of one's education, to meet them, talk with them, walk with them, eat with them. Nothing at the Conference made a deeper impression than their three-minute appeals at the closing session.

The purpose of the gathering was "to consider together the altered world-situation which now confronts the Christian Church; to face the responsibilities which these conditions have thrust upon the Christian forces in colleges and universities; to accept with humility and determination the obligations which rest upon the colleges and universities of North America for extending the kingdom of Christ among all nations, and to pray unitedly for guidance and for strength equal to the task."

Dr. John R. Mott in the Chair.

Doctor Mott, the Chairman of the Conference, carried the delegates with him, the first evening, in a masterly survey of the world-situation. He reminded them that since the last great Convention at Kansas City in January, 1914, they had found themselves in a shaken, a suffering, an embittered, but a teachable and an unselfish world.

With no false optimism refusing to face the facts, and with no weak pessimism paralyzing effort with doubt, Doctor Mott began by deliberately admitting, "The pillars of civilization have broken and crumbled in these years"; he ended with a challenge to vision and faith that will not soon be forgotten by those who heard it: "There He stands—the strong among the weak, the clean among the defiled, the living among the dead—Jesus Christ, our Lord! . . . You say you 'believe in God the Father Almighty.' Then do!" Social Justice, and "The Heathen at Home."

Social justice, particularly in the industrial field, was vividly presented by Dr. A. H. Ward, of Boston, in an impassioned appeal. His words, "We must carry the Cross not only to the ends of the earth, but also into the heart of our civilization," expressed as perhaps did nothing else the determined purpose of the Conference.

Speaking of the forces of labour and their lack of opportunity, Doctor Ward spoke out plainly: "They are not here because they have not had the chance to get here. They have just as much heroism as you have. Look at what they are doing over there in the trenches. . . . The Jesus whom they love was a working-man. . . . We must share our life with them. We must carry the gospel into social relationships, into industry and politics. . . . Can we not bring together the forces of goodwill? Christ would organize life around Service and Sacrifice. Civilization has organized it around Profit and Power? We must join issue to the death with Mammon and with Mars."

Mission Fields of the World.

After a general survey of the missionary problem in North and South America, Africa, India, Malaysia, China, and Japan by different speakers, Dr. Earl Taylor pressed home with maps and lantern views the great unsatisfied need of the world for the Christian message. "Half the world," he showed, "is illiterate; less than half has heard of Christ." The Student Volunteer Movement, since its organization in 1886, has sent 6,900 men and women to the foreign field to meet that need. More than ever will be required at the close of the present war.

"Christian Principles of World Democracy."

Significant above all else was the unanimous resolution of the Conference to concentrate on a continental programme of study and service—"Christian Principles of World Democracy". The programme is four-fold: (1) The 200,000 students enrolled in the study and discussion of Christian principles; (2) A call for decision to live these principles at whatever cost—on the campus, in the

LIEUT. BLAKE NOT DEAD

The Editor, VARSITY.

Sir,—The report that Sec. Lieut. Harry M. Blake had died of wounds should be cancelled. My information was derived from an English journal, in which, as it appears from further investigation, Sec. Lieut. Harry M. Blake was mistakenly identified with a Lieut. Harold M. J. Blake of the Munster Fusiliers, recently died of wounds, who had no connections in Canada.

Yours truly,

CONVOCAION HALL CHOIR

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Why is the University choir empty? The service at Convocation Hall is unique, since it is a blend of all creeds, yet has beauty of form and spirit, dignity and reverence. If you will pardon the criticism of an unacademic worshipper. There is only one outstanding defect—the singing. No organist, I presume, can achieve this end without the support of a choir, and certainly there is little visible support.

Now that there are few men available, this burden (?) of leading the singing, falls on the girls. Surely of more than 1,100 women undergraduates, there must be 30 or 40 who are able and willing to assist in this matter. Granted the lack of voice, their presence would prove sufficient inspiration.

As an outsider one does not presume to dictate, but merely conjecture, and I remain,

Your appreciative, if sometimes depreciative admirer,

JOHN A. MAINWARING.

SR. MEDS. VICTORIOUS
OVER SR. DENTS. AT "Y"Game Was Won in Last Few Minutes Play

Senior Meds met and defeated Senior Dents on Monday by a score of 25-22. It was a nerve-racking contest from the beginning to end, and Meds with only three of their regular team, barely came through as victors.

The first half ended with a score of 16-12 in favour of the Red and Black, but Dents tried hard, and with time almost up, were leading 22-21, but Nelson and Kemp each dropped one in and won the contest.

Fraser of Dents showed great skill at shooting and all-round playing, and was the mainstay of the team. McGowan is big and fast, but not an accurate shot. McLaurin plays a wonderfully strong defence game.

Nelson, Kemp and Ramsey share honours among themselves for the victors, as they were the cause of victory for Sr. Meds.

Sr. Meds—Ramsey, Nelson, Kemp, Armstrong.
Sr. Dents—Fraser, Stone, McGowan, McLaurin, Paog.

U.C. DEFEATED BY VIC.
IN SIFTON CUP SERIESVic. Quintette Piled Up Lead in Second Half

U.C. went down to defeat before the Victoria quintette in the fastest game of the Sifton Cup Series at the Central "Y". Score at full time 24-15.

In the first half the teams were well matched and this period was much the faster. Vic got away to a good start at the beginning of the second half and for a few minutes played U.C. off their feet but the latter however tightened up and showed a flash of speed and team play in the last moments of the game. The victory was due to superior combination work and weight.

For U.C. Parker and Lorrman were the best. Stokes checked hard in defence and cut off what looked like sure baskets. Mutart, Frid and Gordon were the pick of the Vic team.

About a score of fair co-eds from Victoria lined the balcony and encouraged their team, but U.C. supporters were conspicuous by their absence.

nation, and in the world; (3) Enough qualified men and women to evangelize the world to be raised by students for war work and the evangelization of the world.

In support of that programme, the Canadian delegation passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That we, the Canadian delegation at the Student Volunteer Conference at Northfield, January 3 to 6, 1918, having committed ourselves to the carrying out of the following international programme—North American students mobilising for Christian World Democracy—do hereby further commit ourselves to it and adopt it as a national programme, and set as our aim this term the enrolment of at least sixty per cent of the students in our Canadian colleges in Bible, mission, and other courses of study centred about the person and power of Jesus Christ as the world's Saviour and Redeemer; and that we lay special emphasis upon the urgent need for prayer and intercession as the fundamental basis of all our work."

World's Student Christian Federation Unbroken.

David R. Porter, one of Dr. Mott's right-hand men, said in introducing the new programme that the World's Student Christian Federation was the only world-wide organisation which had not been broken up by the war. Mr. Porter recognized that it had been put to a terrible test and that in future "we must strive to remove the causes from which war grows."

The reality and the boundless possibilities of the Federation were made plain in the brief, but stirring messages from Christian students of other lands. A French chaplain who had been wounded at Verdun struck a responsive chord in the audience when he said with feeling and emphasis, "A world without justice is worse than a world without peace". He told of a French soldier who, after three years' fighting in the trenches, said to him "I am fighting for peace, for disarmament and for the little children's sake."

"Come and help us," was the repeated

JR. MEDS. IN FAST GAME
DEFEAT ST. MIKE'S FIVEJunior Meds. Win in Second Half
After Hard Battle

In the presence of a fairly large crowd, the Jr. Meds (1), after a gruelling battle defeated St. Mike's at the Central "Y", by a score of 30-20.

At the close of the first period, the light and dark blue were leading 11-10. The game was very fast and close, as the score indicates.

The second half showed lack of condition on the part of St. Mike's, and Meds took advantage of the opportunity by piling up the score and winning out by a decisive margin.

Carroll in centre for St. Mike's was very fast and scored a good number of his team's points, especially in the first half.

The Jr. Meds (1) had all their men working in fine style, the defence men were not content with keeping their checks from shooting, but went up and put in three baskets each.

Urquhart played his usual strong game, fast, heady, and shooting accurately.

Jr. Meds (1)—Urquhart, Ireland, Dickson, Kilgour, Markowitz, Skinner.

The Railbird

Monday afternoon St. Mike's celebrated their re-ent y into Junior O.H.A. by a 11-5 victory over U.T.S.

Thursday afternoon the Jennings' Cup Series opens at Varsity rink. U.C. will meet Victoria in the first of their home and home games.

Junior Meds (1) seem to be sweeping through their series with no trouble.

A really hard-fought contest was the game Sr. Meds won from Sr. Dents 23-21.

Yesterday afternoon Victoria beat U.C. 22-16. The game was fair up to halftime when U.C. altered the line up. Victoria then ran wild and but for erratic shooting the score would have been much larger.

Group III of the Sifton Cup Series seems to be developing into a race between U.C. and Victoria.

HOCKEY EXECUTIVE WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The meeting of the Hockey Executive which was to have taken place yesterday afternoon has been postponed till this afternoon, and will be held in the gym at 5 o'clock. All team managers are advised to be on hand. At present no names of referees have been handed in to G. Pearson, secretary, at the gym, and this must be done at once.

appeal of the last night, when the Conference listened as never before to English spoken by men and women born in Syria, Africa, the Philippines, Japan, Argentina, China, Salvador, Brazil, Armenia, Bolivia, Uruguay, Porto Rico, Ceylon and India.

Chang Po Ling of China showed, with straight-forward and impressive words, where the world's weakness and the world's hope lies. "Without Christianity," he said with emphasis, "I would not have accepted western civilization—never. But the Christian spirit of love and service won me—won me."

Is it beyond the realm of either faith or "practical politics" to suggest that of the World's Student Christian Federation may prove a stepping-stone to a Christian Federation of the world? "LACHINE".

MASS MEETING

sequently it behoves us to see to the crops, for a bad yield in grain would mean starvation for the whole world.

To avoid this calamity there are two essentials to be conserved with the greatest care. A plan for such conservation was carried out in London as a result of which five thousand pounds of meat less per week were used. Interesting figures concerning the rations in that city were also given. For two years there have been no seed cakes or white bread in England. Can we, are we capable of realizing what this means?

As a result of our keen sympathies with England and of our sense of fellowship with her at the present time, it is imperative that we use our every influence towards the elimination of all that is unnecessary in foodstuffs. This is the woman's chance to save our Empire from destruction for must surely will the palm of victory go to that nation which can longest and most successfully keep the wolf of starvation from the door. Most particularly is it in the hands of those women who dwell in the food producing parts of the Empire.

Many problems of especial interest to the women of University College were then brought forward and earnestly recommended for discussion by Miss Wong. Our presumably failing interest in Red Cross Work was first touch upon. The men of the College drill at least three hours every week. Why should not the women sew for a corresponding length of time? Economy in candies, sweets and unnecessary clothing were also urged.

In consideration of the manual labour which we will be called upon to perform next summer, are we endeavouring to make our physical condition such that we will be equal to the strain put upon us? We must not neglect the various games and sports which will develop our physical fitness. Thus in the Spring we will call forth no false sympathies by our unfitness. Many other points of general interest were touched upon. Is self-government satisfactory? How about athletics? What about women in politics? What terms of peace do you believe should be specified? What should be our relation to foreigners after the war? Lively discussion along these lines.

Victoria

Six hundred dollars is the sum necessary to continue the support of the Victoria College missionary in West China.

A canvass will be made on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week (Jan. 16th, 17th, 18th) to raise this amount from the loyal members of Victoria. The aim is high, over two dollars per person being demanded, but is not the object worthy of sincere endeavour and real sacrifice.

In ante-bellum days this amount was raised by the men students alone. This is obviously impossible now, and as women are sharing to a much greater extent in all university activities it is only just that they also share equally in college responsibilities. Last year gave the women students their first opportunity of contributing to this cause, and we feel sure they will respond to the call this year even more liberally than on that occasion.

The request is especially appealing as both Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Brown, our representatives in this field, are Victoria graduates. Since the war Mr. Brown has felt a deeper call to service in the battle fronts of Europe, and is now serving in an unique capacity as superior over a company of Chinese coolies. For such a post we must feel he is exceptionally well suited. On his departure Mrs. Brown, with her small daughter, remained in China, nobly undertaking the vast task of carrying on their work there. Such courage ought most certainly to be supported by the students behind the lines.

Are you interested in hockey? Would you like to help preserve the old-time college spirit? Of course you would. Well, come to the Varsity stadium at five o'clock on Thursday and shout for your team. It is the first game of the Jennings cup series, and the Vic boys are out to win.

Trinity

THEOLOGICAL SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Trinity College Theological Society was held at half-past seven, on Monday evening, January 14th and was opened with the usual prayer of the Society.

The subject of the essay was "The Catholic Revival," and it was very ably treated, indeed, by the Reverend C. E. Emerson. The essayist showed that the Catholic Revival, in England, in the nineteenth century, was not, primarily a revival of ritual, in the worship of God, and the substitution of an orderly and decent mode of worship, for a slipshod, careless one, but more particularly a reaffirmation of those doctrines of the Church Catholic, which have always been held by her, such as Apostolic Succession, and the Real Presence, and the Sacrament of Penance.

For such fundamentals as these, the leaders of the "Oxford Movement" suffered persecution, and their work has lived, and we of the Church of England enjoy the fruits of their labours.

The set speakers on the essay were as follows. Mr. Bruce, who dealt with the subject of modern enemies of the Catholic Revival, such as "Modernism"; Mr. Slack, who spoke of the Catholic Revival in Canada; and Mr. Robbins, who dealt with ways of promoting the Catholic spirit.

Many additional points of information and of interest were mentioned by the dons present, and the discussion concluded with the President's summing up, and the essayist's reply.

Everyone enjoyed the evening, and felt benefited by so fair-minded and able a treatment of the subject.

NOTICE.

The Modern Language Club will hold an English Evening at the Women's Union on Friday, January 18th at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "England in its Relationship to the Continent and Early Folk Music." Special dances will be an added attraction.

S.P.S.

NEW COURSE FOR S.P.S. SOPHS

A new course of study, known as "Machine Tools" has been inaugurated in the second year Applied Science, for students in mechanical and electrical engineering. It comprises a study of the construction, operation and capacity of several typical machine tools and an example of a standard process machine. This year, consideration will be given to the lathe, grinder and milling machines, and either a boot and shoe machine or a cotton machine. No question of design is taken up in these machines, the study being entirely one of construction and operation. The course will be given by Mr. J. H. Billings, B.A.Sc., S.M., and has been considered and approved of by the Faculty as one which should give great assistance to students in their vacation work.

The third and fourth years S.P.S. expect to hold an excursion to Hamilton some time in the near future, for the purpose of visiting metallurgical plants in that city. It is expected that the Canada Steel Co., the Dominion Steel Foundry, and the Frost Wire Co. will be visited. Further announcement will be made in a later issue of VARSITY.

Medicine

At a meeting held in the "Smoker" Tuesday noon, Mr. W. C. Atwell of the third year was appointed manager of the hockey team, and with "Tony" at the head, things should hum this year. At the first practice on Monday evening twelve men turned out, and more material is expected for the next work out. The next practice is on Thursday afternoon from 5-6. Men are requested to bring their own sticks for this work-out until the manager is able to obtain some.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE
STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL AND
THE PROCEEDS DEVOTED TO RED CROSS

IN order to complete, if possible, the work commenced and carried on in the previous Magazine Supplements to THE VARSITY, The Students' Administrative Council have decided to continue the record of Varsity men on active service, in a third publication.

A serious attempt was made, in the Varsity Magazine Supplement, to secure photographs of every graduate and undergraduate of the University of Toronto who had enlisted, up to the date of going to press. The Editorial Board, unfortunately, did not receive replies to all the circular letters sent out, and the new Board will aim at securing the balance of these photographs together with the photographs of those who have enlisted in the interim between publications.

Information as to omissions or new enlistments should be addressed to the General Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council.

PATRIOTISM WAS THE KEY-NOTE OF STUDENTS' COUNCIL MEETING WEDNESDAY

Large Contributions Have Been Made for Patriotic Purposes Through Student Organizations

Patriotic Fund Campaign Soon To Be Undertaken

A largely attended meeting of the Students' Administrative Council was held on Wednesday afternoon last. In reply to a question as to the sum raised in the Trafalgar Day campaign, it was stated that the students had raised and remitted to the recent British Red Cross the sum of $2,414.89. In the Victory Loan campaign, the student canvassers succeeded in securing subscriptions to the amount of nearly half-a-million dollars. These results, achieved in a residential district that had been combed and re-combed by professional canvassers, is regarded as nothing short of remarkable. Warm appreciation of the work of the students was expressed in letters from Messrs. Ivey and Mitchell, of the Victory Loan Committee, and in a letter and telegram from Sir Thomas White.

The Belated Directory

Interim reports were made on the work on Torontoniensis and on the Directory. The Editor of Torontoniensis expects to have the volume in the hands of the students by March 15th next. The general secretary of the Council, who is entrusted with the publication of the Directory, explained that its greatly belated appearance was due largely to the fact that lists of registered students could not be secured from the Registrar's Office until November 1st. Two weeks longer were required for the correction of these lists by the Council's representatives before the work could be turned over to the printers. The Council discussed plans to prevent a recurrence of a January issue of the Students' Directory.

A Record of Service

A notable report was presented on the contributions made by the students and their organizations to patriotic work. The total revenue from the first Varsity Magazine Supplement, issued in July, 1915, was turned over to the University of Toronto Hospital Supply Association—an amount of $2,125.96. Out of the proceeds of the Second Supplement the following amounts have been granted: To the British Red Cross Society for the purchase of two motor ambulances, $6,000; to the University Hospital Supply Association, $1,000; to Dr. Bott, for his work in re-education, $500. A further grant of $1,000 was voted by the Council to the University Base Hospital Association, and there remains from the income of the 1916 Supplement a balance of $679.12. Other contributions to patriotic work have been: To the Patriotic Fund, $2,257.00; to the British Red Cross, $7,831.00; to the 67th Battery, $1,750.00; to the Overseas Training Company, $1,550.00; to Belgian and Serbian Relief Funds, $240.00; to the Sailors' Relief Fund, $474.50.

In fine, the undergraduates of the University of Toronto, either directly or through their organizations, have contributed $26,263.06 to aid in war work. This is a remarkable record, and should stand out before the students as an inspiration for them to do their utmost in the campaign about to be undertaken.

The Coming Campaign

The Students' Council has been asked by the President to assume responsibility for the coming Patriotic Fund and Red Cross campaign. The Council unanimously agreed to accept the charge. The senior Council representative will undertake the organization of his own college or faculty.

In University College, the presidents of the years, with their executives, have consented to provide for the canvassing of the men. It is hoped that, in this way, U.C. will show results that will compare favorably with the returns from any other faculty. The executive of each year is keen to make a record in per capita contributions, and there is much speculation as to which of the four years will stand highest.

But the spirit of U.C. in no way differs from that throughout the University. Every college, every faculty, every year, aims to set a mark in the campaign of next week that will eclipse even the splendid record reviewed above. And with such a spirit, who can question the prospects of success?

The following is a summarized statement of the amounts contributed as set out above:

WORLD-FAMOUS BOY CHOIR TO APPEAR IN MASSEY HALL

The Paulist Choristers to Sing Under Direction of Newman Club

The weekly Friday night entertainment at Newman Hall will not be held this week, owing to the presence of the Paulist Choristers at Massey Hall.

This choir, of one hundred male voices, under the direction of Rev. Father Finn is beyond doubt the finest in the world, having won many prizes during its tour of Europe previous to the war. Since that time, many changes have been made and to read the comments of the American press, they have been for the better. They are known from coast to coast as "something worth while hearing".

An opportunity is given to-night and Saturday night to all music-lovers in Toronto, and especially to students to hear the choice selections of the Paulist Choristers. The performances are given under the auspices of the Navy League and under the patronage of their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire.

SUMMER COURSE FOR MEDS.?

There are many events transpiring in the University and in connection with the students overseas which seem to point to the fact that there will be summer courses in Medicine this year. Two Meds of the Class of '19 who went overseas last April have written to friends in the University stating that they would return to the University shortly expecting to take a Summer Course. They expected the course to start in May. This seems to show that there will be a Summer Course for fourth year work.

The opinion among the students as to the probability of a summer course varies. There is a rumour to the effect that there will be a course to carry on third and fourth year work, but the fifth year work can not be conveniently undertaken. Lack of facilities at the hospital is given as the reason.

It might be stated that the general consensus of opinion among the Medical students is in favour of the summer course. The fourth year has recently passed a resolution that they be allowed to continue their work during the summer.

It seems that surgeons are needed at the front because Medical students are being sent home to continue their course. Evidently if this is the case a Summer Course would be a very valuable resource. Up to going to press no definite information could be obtained from the authorities. Whether or not the Senate has dealt with the matter is unknown.

"H.C.L. RESPONSIBLE FOR A CHANGE IN TORONTONENSIS"

Much Mystery, But "Varsity" Obtains Some Facts re Publication

The deep and impenetrable shades of mystery which hitherto have surrounded the "Torontoniensis" have at last been dissipated and the announcement has been made that the year book will make its blushing debut by March 15th at the latest. The publication of the book has been greatly hampered and held up owing to the slowness with which contracts have been coming in.

In past years the "Torontoniensis" Board members have preserved a discreet silence in matter of suggestions. This year they have taken a kindly interest in the welfare of the publication and many helpful hints have emanated from that source. Mr. Gregory, U.C. '18, of the Princess Pats, suggested the idea for the frontispiece. It is a representation of the ebullient spirit of "Varsity" which used to find expression in time honoured "rushes," but which is now ably manifesting itself in France. The background is a remarkable picture of the Main Building.

There is a double dedication of the "Torontoniensis" this year. In first place is a memorial dedication to fallen members of "Varsity," and in second the dedication is to those men and women of U. of T. staff, graduates and undergraduates, who have done their duty either at home or abroad on active service.

Approximately 400 biographies are included in this issue. The style of the book has been changed and is oblong, instead of rectangular. The engravings are less artistic than in former years. The idea being that photographs will show up more vividly in a simple setting than in a wealth of intricate patterns. This austere simplicity is said also to be in keeping with the resolution made in the early fall, re the cost of "Torontoniensis."

The Varsity is to be written by a popular member of U.C. '18, who is closely connected with THE Varsity. For some unknown reason the Board withheld his name. A copy is to be given to all men who pay Students' Council fee during their undergraduate years. A special fee is to be charged to women students. The approximate cost of Torontoniensis for this year could not be ascertained as the business manager is engaged on THE Varsity Magazine Supplement. It is rumored that amount of space available for advertising has been increased.

The following are the figures for the graduating class of 1918: Dents 12; Science 23; U.C. 109; St. Mikes 10; Victoria 48; Forestry 3; Vets 49; Meds 93; Pharmacy 62; Trinity; Arts 12; Divinity 6; Victoria Theology 5; Wycliffe Theology 5.

FIRST "T" MIXER OF EASTER TERM WAS A DECIDED SUCCESS

Mr. Conway Entertained Enthusiastic Audience with His Clever Impersonations

On Wednesday the first "T" Mixer of the Easter term was held at the Central "Y" and was quite successful. The members of all faculties and colleges turned out in force and although nearly two hundred were present, there was sufficient pie, as well as other good things, to satisfy even the most lusty gormand. During the meal the University orchestra rendered several splendid selections and in the interludes the faculty yell were raised in loud competition.

At the end of the supper, H. G. Stapells gave a short address, welcoming the men to the "Mixers," and briefly outlining the plan for the term. His announcement that the ladies would be present at the following "Mixers" caused mild excitement among some of the men. He then introduced Mr. Charles Conway, who is famed as one of the greatest entertainers in England and America.

Mr. Conway first gave several character sketches from Dickens in which he introduced impersonations of the most popular creations of the great novelist, the changes of costume and make-up being effected in full view of the audience. Uriah Heaith in "David Copperfield," Sidney Carton in "The Tale of Two Cities," and several others were represented, and so true to the picture were they, in make-up, gesture and speech, that one would almost think he were viewing the originals.

This was followed by a series of chapeau-a-graphical skits in which Mr. Conway, by a slight twist of his broad-brimmed felt hat, aided by gesture, assumed various characters, among which were the cowboy, old English church warden, London dustman of forty years ago, and several others.

The entertainment was brought to a close by several humorous monologues which kept the audience in convulsions of laughter. The enthusiastic applause at the end of the performance showed the appreciation of all present and one may be sure that everyone had enjoyed it.

The men then broke up into several groups and gathered in classrooms for the discussion which follow the mixers. These discussions are of life problems and should be interesting as well as instructive to all students. The discussion groups are just beginning and it is not yet too late for you to join. Let the "T" Mixers become one of your regular activities.

NEAR-GRADS. WILL SKATE

Fourth Year to Have a Party at 'Varsity Rink

On Tuesday night, January 22nd, the fourth year skating party will hold their annual skating party at Varsity Rink meeting at Rendezvous "D". If you do not skate, or grow tired, you will be welcomed at the Women's Union, from nine on, with "grate" fires and card tables. After skating a social hour with refreshments can be found at the Union. Secure tickets from members of the executive.

"A PURELY LITERARY TRAINING DOESN'T MAKE FOR EDUCATION," SAYS SARTON

Strongly Advises Teaching of History of Science in the Universities

Deals With Times of De Vinci in Second Lecture

That a man whose education is purely literary is not an educated man in the twentieth century was the somewhat startling statement made by Dr. George Sarton in his lecture on "New Humanism" delivered at the Physics Building on Wednesday afternoon before a large and appreciative audience. Sir Robert Falconer was chairman. Throughout his lecture Dr. Sarton endeavoured to prove by concrete examples that Science is the call of the age. It is the most fundamental thing. It should hold a loftier place in our universities than it has heretofore held. That science is by far better, of more vital importance to mankind than all the humanities, philosophy, literature, history and classics, in general. The whole teaching of history must be changed. It is taught in a most absurd way. What we need, stated he, is a course in the universities where the history of science will be taught. In the history of science should be the history of civilization and not only of one country. The only activity which is truly and deeply international is science.

"Since the war broke out," began Dr. Sarton, the British Government has been in favour of teaching science. If that had been the case twenty-five years ago, Germany would not have had that supremacy. We cannot escape our conclusion. It will be necessary that more and more science be introduced in our education and taught well.

"The classicists argue in favour of their humanity because of the historical classics and because they are disinterested. We are obliged, it is true, to know as much as possible of the past. But it is not enough to know the past only. We must understand the future, and for that, science is necessary. Anybody who is really educated should know much more science. You cannot change the past but you can change the future.

"Classical studies are disinterested, but science is not. It is such a wonderful prodigious instrument. Science if studied in the proper way would be just as much How can we humanize science? We have got to introduce that historical spirit and disinterested point of view into science. In the field of science the more we are specialized the more we must keep an encyclopaedic view of the whole.

"I have no objection against literary studies. They are all right as a means but not as an end. A man whose education is purely literary is not an educated man in the twentieth century. In France some of the greatest writers are scientists. Take Pasteur for example.

Dr. Sarton stated that in the American colleges there is not a course in the history of science. "Why should we give so much importance to the history of philosophy and none to the history of the real constructive world?" asked he. "That is almost paradoxical. The whole history of teaching must be changed. It is taught in a most absurd way" (laughter). "In science one thing is certain, we know more, have more experience than the people before us. The history of science should be the history of civilization. Up till now they have been putting it in the footnotes of text-books (laughter).

"Scientific development is a result of international collaboration. We are all working together. The truths of mathematics and astronomy are the same throughout the world. In 1633, for example, there were many local facts, but the works of Galileo and Descartes are universal. When the history of science will be taught in a more proper way, we shall see a new class of men, new humanists. Then education will become real education. A man with a scientific education will be considered an educated man.

SECOND LECTURE

Thursday evening quite a large crowd appeared to welcome Professor Sarton of Ghent. In his second lecture he spoke of "Leonardo de Vinci", and the importance of his discoveries during the fifteenth century.

Leonardo de Vinci lived at Florence about the middle of the fifteenth century at a time when there were many superstitious beliefs about mathematics which is of very great importance in the world of science. Leonardo not a great mathematician, was a man of the greatest common sense and by his correct reasoning cleared away many of the superstitions.

The greatest mathematical progress of the time was in trigonometry which is very widely used in astronomy. The scholars of the time had to go back to the Greeks for a foundation in this subject. In his treatises, Leonardo pointed out the follies of astrology which at the time was considered by all to be the same as astronomy. In every manuscript, he was the common sense of the artist struggling against the superstition of the middle ages.

By means of plates thrown on a screen Professor Sarton showed pages of Leonardo's manuscripts covered with neat drawings of machines, which show that the artist was an expert mechanical engineer.

One of the most interesting facts about Leonardo's work is that he invented a submarine, but fearing the terrible power it would give mankind he destroyed his invention.

To-morrow evening Professor Sarton will devote his lecture to another phase of Leonardo's work namely "Analysis and its relation to Science."

FAMED MUSICIANS

The greatest opportunity to hear good music ever given to the students of this University—that is what the concert in Convocation Hall next Wednesday night means. The very best talent available has been secured—the Hamburgers are musicians of international repute.—Mr. Harold Jarvis is known throughout the United States and Canada as the most popular touring soloist of to-day, while Miss Marguerite Fleury, who has recently returned from studying in Paris has already made an enviable reputation. No music lover should miss this opportunity. Tickets (75, 50 and 25 cents) are on sale at Nordheimers, Yonge St., and in the Main Building. Proceeds are for the Y.W.C.A.

CO-EDUCATION

"During the past few weeks there has arisen at Pennsylvania the question of co-education in all undergraduate departments."

The above is the opening sentence of an editorial which recently appeared in "The Pennsylvanian", and which clearly disapproves of co-education even going so far as to say: "To date there has been a very considerable feeling among both Alumni and undergraduates against co-education in all departments."

Why shouldn't women be allowed the same privileges as men in education? Hitherto woman's activity in the academic world has been confined to an Arts course. A few, very few, have ventured into law and a similar few in medicine, but beyond that women have been rather timid in entering the sacred precincts of the "firmer sex." The Pennsylvanian refers to the admission of women into every faculty as "a drastic change in the policy and conduct of our institution."

Why women should be admitted to the different faculties, is the question the undergraduates are asking. They do not seem to think that women have a right in this enlightened world to share the same privileges of education as men, although they have an equal amount of brains and will power to carry out what they start.

In our own University there are at present two women enrolled in Architecture at the Faculty of Applied Science. We have not heard of any discontent among the men on account of their admission. They do not seem to experience an extraordinary amount of difficulty in doing the same work as is required of the men. In the Medical Faculty women have been very successful and many of the graduates are filling important medical positions.

Naturally the men do not "raise their feet to the level of their head" as was stated in a letter to "The Pennsylvanian". They act respectfully as becomes gentlemen in attendance at a University.

We hope that the University of Pennsylvania will profit by the experience of other universities and admit women to every faculty.

THE MEETING OF THE STUDENTS' COUNCIL

The report of Wednesday's meeting of the Students' Administrative Council is interesting reading. In it the students of the University have set before them in summarized fashion all the contributions which have been made for war purposes. The total amount—a sum exceeding twenty-six thousand dollars—raised is sum of which the University may well be proud; and it is some indication of the attitude of the students to the present world-wide conflict.

The decision of the Council to continue this work, by taking part in the coming campaign for the Red Cross and Patriotic Fund, is one to be commended. The Patriotic Fund carries on a most worthy work and, since this fund is still to rely for support on a voluntary basis, if the sum desired is to be collected the contribution and assistance of all is required. Last year the University as a whole collected the sum of $13,000. This sum may not be realized this year, but it is an objective for at which the University may well aim.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Remember the Convocation Choir practice to-morrow in Convocation Hall at twelve o'clock.

We are glad to see that the Students' Council has taken some notice of the delay of publishing the Directory. This delay has been a matter of some comment among the students, and THE VARSITY hopes that in future no such delay will occur.

Y.W.C.A. HEARS INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. HASTINGS

Given Insight Into Work and Problems of Dept. of Public Health

Those who attended the general meeting of the Y.W.C.A. of University College Thursday afternoon, enjoyed a most interesting and instructive address. The speaker Dr. Hastings, Head of the Department of Public Health of this city gave them an insight into his work and problems. Beginning with a survey of the history of the department, he stated that the Romans had district health officers as early as 456 B.C. But the superstitious people of the middle ages abandoned all preventive measures and trusted to Providence. Only in 1847, was the work re-established by the appointment of a health officer in Great Britain and the efforts of pioneers in other countries.

The study of bacteriology has brought great enlightenment; the chlorination of water in cities is one important result. But the modern public cannot smile at their brethren of the middle ages. The instances given by Dr. Hastings of their incredulity and opposition to precautionary measures were very amusing. They bring home to us our responsibility to enlighten them.

Dr. Hastings enlisted the hearty sympathy of his hearers in the noble work he is conducting.

Following the address, Miss Willena Crawford reported the resolution of the Northfield Missionary Conference with their earnest appeal to students.

Veterinary

Come out on Sunday afternoon and hear Dr. Paul L. Scott give an address which will be timely, worth-while, inspiring and instructive. You know what a fine song service, address, and general good time we had last Sunday. Well this time we will have an orchestra, better song service, and—well come out and hear it yourself and you will not miss another meeting. Bring that other fellow.

A meeting of the T.C.A.A.A. will be held on Monday, January 21st, at 7 p.m., in lecture room No. 9. All members are urgently requested to be present, as business of special importance will be transacted.

The extent of Trinity's contribution to the war in men is best exemplified perhaps by the fact that she has lost only two men by conscription.

cally rendered, from the opening movement, introducing a chorale, treated antiphonally, the "Adagio," quiet and reposeful to the third movement, broad and declamatory leading into the brilliant "Finale."

"Musette," a Pastoral, represented Italy's contribution to organ music, and its composer, Ravanello, is coming rapidly into notice. The closing number was characterized by true British strength and vigour, being a composition by Basil Harwood, sometime organist of Ely Cathedral and of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

The recital was a rare treat for all who were fortunate enough to be present, and Miss Fotheringham was presented with a bouquet of roses, as a mark of appreciation from the members of Convocation choir.

U.C. WINS FROM VIC. IN OPENING GAME

Score 5-0 Indicates Superiority of Play—Game Won in First Period

U.C. easily won from Victoria last night in the first of the Jennings' Cup Series, played at the Stadium.

In the first half U.C. played Vic off their feet and scored almost at will. The Vic goalie had a busy time. Only once or twice was the puck near the U.C. goal. The half ended with the score 5-0 for Vic.

The second half was very even. Both teams played strenuously. Toward the latter end of the half the game developed into a slugging bee and two penalties, one on U.C. and the other on Vic were served. The half closed with neither side scoring.

For U.C., Walsley and Wilson were the fastest. Fotheringham, the centre man, played a good game. Archibald made all kinds of difficult stops. The defense checked well and took a hand in scoring.

For Victoria Luke and McKinney were the outstanding players.

U.C. — Archibald, Thoburn, Wilson, Fotheringham, Little, Walsley, West.

Vic.—Little, McKinney, Luke, Bentley, Denton, Mutart.

HOCKEY EXECUTIVE ARRANGE SCHEDULE FOR GROUP III.

The postponed meeting of the Hockey Executive took place on Wednesday afternoon in the Gym., when all business on hand was disposed of. A full representation of faculties concerned was on hand, and approved of the entry of a team from the Faculty of Education. The drawing up of a schedule for Group III proved to be a lively matter for discussion. Dents have to drill on the first four afternoons of each week and Meds are not yet certain as to what drill they will have to take, so it took some time to finally agree on a schedule suitable to all. The schedule drawn up for Group III is as follows:—

Group III

Jan. 21—Meds vs. Dents.
Jan. 22—F.O.E. vs. Pharmacy.
Jan. 25—Pharmacy vs. Dents.
Jan. 26—F.O.E. vs. Meds.
Jan. 29—F.O.E. vs. Dents.
Jan. 31—Pharmacy vs. Meds.
Feb. 1—Pharmacy vs. F.O.E.
Feb. 2—Dents vs. Meds.
Feb. 7—Meds vs. F.O.E.
Feb. 8—Dents vs. Pharmacy.
Feb. 11—Meds. vs. Pharmacy.
Feb. 12—Dents vs. F.O.E.

Dentistry

Tuesday evening, January 15, the Royal Dental Society and Students' Parliament held a combined meeting. Considering the ability of Dr. Amy, the speaker of the evening, a very small crowd was present. There was a hockey game that night, which accounted for the hockey fans; Mischa Elman at Massey Hall led away our musical brethren, while the fusers, instead of bringing their friends, according to the invitation extended to them, preferred to see them home, and take a chance on father.

For the benefit of those not present a brief synopsis of the evening will be given. After the usual parliamentary business was over, the military trio, Sergeants Hesson, Annis and Wood, rendered some vocal selections—the boys did some team work, for the gratification of those present.

Dr. Willmott opened parliament and gave a brief history of the students' organization, then introduced Dr. Amy.

Those who didn't hear Dr. Amy missed something which they many never have the opportunity of hearing again. For more than an hour he held the interest and attention of everyone, and the applause at the conclusion testified heartfelt approval and enjoyment.

The subject of his address was "The Duty of the Dentist to the Patient, the Profession, and to Himself."

This was the first appearance of our orchestra. The orchestra furnished several number of popular music, and when they played "Where do we go from here?" some of the audience just simply had to get up and dance. The music was full of pep, and the time was perfect. Hooray for our orchestra. We have every reason to be proud of it!

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

O.T.C. DEFEATS TRINITY IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

Trinity Pressed Hard in First Half, But Could Not Hold Up—Score 30-16

Wednesday night at eight o'clock the basket tossers from Trinity met O.T.C. on the Central "Y" gym floor to play the Sifton Cup game scheduled for Monday, January 11. As the game had not been well advertised, the attendance was limited to the close followers of the opposing teams and some who followed the game out of curiosity.

O.T.C. had an edge on Trinity in weight and condition. The Trinity boys pressed the play at the first of the game, but condition told and at half-time O.T.C. lead 14-11.

In the second period O.T.C. had no trouble with the winded westerners and the game ended 30-17 with the Soldiers on the long end of the score.

Dunn was the star of the game, scoring eight baskets for O.T.C. He was closely followed by McFarland with five. Lowe was very good for Trinity.

O.T.C. — Chew, McFarland, Dunn, Brown, Hardy, Smith.
Trinity—A. Martin, Patterson, D. Martin, Gossage, Lowe, Warner, Axon.

The Railbird

By common consent O.T.C. and Trinity played their postponed Sifton Cup fixture Wednesday night. It was rather generous of Trinity to play a game already won by default. O.T.C. won 30-17.

U.C.C. defeated St. Andrews 5-1 in their Junior O.H.A. game on Wednesday afternoon.

The Jennings' Cup Series opened yesterday afternoon at Varsity Rink U.C. defeated Vic 5-0. The game was nothing but glorified shining with Vic the greatest offender. Luke starred for Victoria, while Fotheringham was most effective for U.C.

Although Wednesday's exhibition of professional hockey was slightly tamer than usual, it was not without its exciting moments. Lovers of sport who are fond of thrilling plays would certainly enjoy a trip to the Arena.

There was plenty of evidence at the rink yesterday to show that the hockey season had opened. Meds and Dents spent an hour of useful practice in preparation for their game on Monday.

This will be the first game in Group III. Don't miss it.

Saturday morning S.P.S. and McMaster will open Group I when they meet at Varsity Rink. S.P.S. are defending the cup and McMaster is a dark horse.

To-night at Central "Y", O.T.C. and Faculty of Education will play the second game in their group of the Sifton Cup Series.

Medicine

The Daffydil Committee report that the outlines of all stunts this year promise to be very good. Everything will be decided by new this year and the whole stunt will have something of the "derniere crie" effect.

Many have been watching with a little pessimistic curiosity for the stunt put on by the ladies in Medicine, but we regret to say that the girls have decided to withdraw. The writer does not know the reasons put forth for such action, but to say the least we are disappointed. Mr. Hawley who has charge of the second year stunt, is out to set the pace and has his stunt under way already. It promises to be very good and will give the other years a very hard run.

The "At-Home" posters are out to-day and the committee promises tickets and programme outline by the first of next week. So keep January 25th open and come down with the crowd.

The next meeting of the Medical Society will be January 24th. The executive have secured Dr. McCullough, Chief Provincial Health Officer as speaker and a big turnout is expected.

CLASS OF 2T1 CONTINUE TO SHOW RIGHT SPIRIT

Held a Very Successful Skating Party at Varsity Rink

The Class of 2T1 held a most enjoyable skating party Wednesday evening at Varsity rink. The north hockey cushion had been secured and a great many first year students were on hand long before the opening of the party to take advantage of the splendid evening. Great enthusiasm was displayed and the 150 who were present had a most enjoyable skate till the president announced that it was time to leave, but of course not to go home.

And so a long line of laughing couples wended their way to the Women's Union where cups of steaming hot coffee, sandwiches and cakes awaited the hungry party.

The music started, and the room was soon filled with dancers who spent another pleasant hour, "tripping the light fantastic" often on other people's feet. Several games of cards were mysteriously played to the great amusement of some onlookers.

She—How have you been economizing?
He—Used last year's resolutions over again.

Take a walk up Yonge street. See the cars "parked" hub to hub -wheel to wheel on the side streets. See the warm, comfortable, complacent citizens riding to and from their work. See them on Sundays motoring to church, enjoying God's glorious air and sunshine on their way to receive His spiritual consolation.

Take another walk on Yonge street. See the men with crutches, or with one arm, or blind, or shell-shocked. Some kind, thoughtful soul conceived the happy idea of letting these brave fellows get in at the front door of the street car, instead of having to fight their way in with the mob at the back.

Take another walk up Yonge street, particularly North Yonge street, and you will see a goodly number of men, many with crutches, plodding their way down to Farnham Avenue. As one of them remarked to the writer: "If I need to go downtown from the hospital at Davisville, it costs me four car tickets; four car tickets use up 15 per cent. of a day's pay -so I walk."

Oh, it's a grand scheme of things is war!

Talk about being war-weary! What are the thoughts of those soldiers who come wounded and maimed along the streets, and see the prosperous ride by in their cars; who see the happy, care-free multitudes at the theatres, at the skating rinks, at the moving picture shows and at the hockey matches, enjoying many things that men with one leg can never enjoy, and that men who are blind will never see again?

What do you think are the thoughts of these men when they remember good comrades lying buried 'neath Flanders fields?

Oh, war's a grand and glorious thing!

How we sang Tipperary; how we shouted "fall in"; how we chanted Keep the Home Fires Burning; how proud we were when Toronto's Immortal 3rd Battalion held the line on that ghastly night of April 22nd, 1915!

Oh, Toronto the Good was the Great and Glorious then—and we gave of our money cheerfully.

Somehow, to-day, war doesn't seem quite as glorious. It's down to the grim, grinding stage.

But what of we who stay home? What do we know of its grimness? What do we know of its grind? Financially, most of us are better off than ever before.

And now, there is some talk of Toronto's inability to raise $3,000,000 in 3 days for Canadian Red Cross and Patriotic Fund purposes.

Why, if every man who took out a motor license would do with but $100.00 worth less of gasoline, oil, tires and the "feeds" that go with automobiling for pleasure, and give that $100.00 to this fund, nearly $2,000,000 of the $3,000,000 wanted would be subscribed.

Oh, war is a grand and glorious thing!

Take another walk up Yonge Street—on any street—and observe—some people buy immortality with their lives; some people buy motor cars

DR. GEORGE SARTON GAVE LAST LECTURE ON LEONARDO DE VINCI

Demonstrated That He Was Not Only a Great Painter, But Also the Greatest Scientist of the Fifteenth Century

Advocates a Course in the History of Science

That Leonardo de Vinci was not only a great painter, but one of the greatest scientists that ever lived was quite clearly demonstrated by Dr. George Sarton, of Ghent, on Friday afternoon, at the Physics Building, where he delivered his third and last lecture of the series on Leonardo de Vinci. In his first lecture Dr. Sarton endeavored to prove the superiority of science to the literary subjects and showed the necessity of a course in the history of science at our universities. In his second lecture he spoke of "Leonard de Vinci, and the importance of his discoveries during the fifteenth century," dealing with the mathematics of the time. By means of plates thrown on a screen he showed some pages of Leonardo's manuscripts covered with neat drawings of machines. This was quite sufficient to show that Leonardo was an expert mechanical engineer. In his third lecture on Friday afternoon, Dr. Sarton dealt with another phase of Leonardo's work, namely "Analyses and its Relation to Science." With very simple language, avoiding technicalities, Dr. Sarton dwelt on the organic sciences, showing quite clearly with illustrations, the development of botany, anatomy and medicine, and the importance of Leonardo's contribution to same. This was sufficient to prove the genius of Leonardo.

Botany.

"A great deal of the work on Botany," began Professor Sarton, "was done by the Greeks. There was nothing of importance done until the sixteenth century. We have a book which dates back as far as 1491 which contains a collection of about 500 very quaint crude engravings and interesting drawings. Those pictures, although crude, were nevertheless important, for they gave the idea to others to produce better ones. This text-book, containing these splendid illustrations of plants, is literary, and taken from the Greeks. At the same time, Leonardo was making splendid drawings of plants. He has also some kind of scientific interest, making very great scientific discoveries. He also made some experiments on plant physiology."

Speaking about the anatomy of the time, Dr. Sarton said "The first anatomical drawings are found in the fifteenth century. They are extremely good. There is now a tendency to say that such dissections were made earlier than we believe. The people were chiefly dominated by the text-book." He vindicated this latter statement by showing how in their drawings, they inserted some parts of the body which could not be found at all, also the queer drawing of the liver. "In the beginning," continued Dr. Sarton, "the influence of Leonardo was chiefly purely artistic, not merely anatomical. But gradually we see the transition between the artistic and anatomical interest. We see some suggestions of comparative anatomy of his time, he was the father of anatomy. For we see that his drawings are much better than those of his time. His sketches were made without any unity."

Had Little Chemistry.

"Leonardo was especially interested in physiology. But he laid stress on the mechanics. The weakest part of his scientific work in that he had little chemistry. This great genius, this big man was unable to overcome the prejudices of his time. He could not explain the circulation of the blood. This simply goes to show that even the greatest geniuses have their own limitations."

Medicine in those days.

Dr. Sarton then turned to the last but most important topic of his lecture and this was, Medicine, the greatest work was made up of small astrological books. "Leonardo is considered the advocate of common sense against quackery," he stated. "For instance, in his time the best medicine for sea-sickness was worm-wood." Dr. Sarton then spoke about three kinds of diseases that were then

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Second Lieut. G. F. Bryant is reported wounded in a British casualty list. He was in the applied science class of 1918 at the University. He went overseas with a draft from the C.O.T.C., and after finishing his course, was attached to a Suffolk regiment.

Gunner Earl Ross Dafeo, Science 1917, has returned to Canada. He enlisted with a battery raised from the University in March, 1915. While on observation duty for his battery, during the Somme battle, he developed enteric fever, and was only let out of hospital the following May.

Lieut. Allan Graydon, U.C. 1919, of the Royal Field Artillery, is expected to arrive in Toronto very shortly on leave having landed at St. John's on Jan. 17th. Lieut. Graydon was badly gassed, and has been in the Lady Evelyn Hospital in London. He went overseas last spring.

Lieut. Kenneth Lister, U.C. 1917 has gone to France, having transferred to the 12th Pioneer Battalion.

Signaller Harry M. Ford, B.A. Vic. 1913, returned to Canada the beginning of December, and is now in attendance at Osgoode Hall. He was serving with the Canadian Field Artillery, when he was wounded at St. Eloi on April 9th.

NEWMAN CLUB ISSUES ITS 1918 YEAR BOOK

Increase of Sales Over Last Year

The "Ontario Catholic Year Book and Directory," which is published by the Newman Club, appeared on sale this week. The books were sold on Sunday last in Toronto, at the church doors, by the male members of the Club.

Two divisions of the men had been organized, so that every church in Toronto had a sufficient number of men to sell the books. Sunday morning was a very, very cold morning, with the thermometer below the zero mark, and the strong wind that had swept the city on Saturday still unabated. Yet, an observer could see several young men standing waiting for a car or hurrying along to their churches, where they were appointed to sell the books after the various masses.

The "Year Book" for 1918, besides containing a useful compendium of information—A Who's Who amongst the Catholic clergy of Ontario—contains many charming stories and several interesting articles and illustrations.

The book will be sold all over Ontario and the Knights of Columbus have consented to look after the sale outside of Toronto. The circulation in Toronto is increasing annually, and so far two thousand copies have been sold.

MR. RICHARD TATTERSALL TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL TUESDAY

The seventh organ recital of the Easter term will be given to-morrow (Tuesday, Jan. 22) at 5 p.m., by Mr. Richard Tattersall, organist of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto. The following is the programme:

1. BASIL HARWOOD (1859) —) Dirly-ranib.
2. HORATIO WILLIAM PARKER (1863) —) Scherzo in B flat minor.
3. JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH (1685-1750). Fantasia and Fugue in G minor.
4. P. L. HILLEMACHER. Meditation in A.
5. LOUIS VIERNE (1870 —) Inter-mezzo (Symphonie III).
6. CHARLES MARIE VIDOR (1845 —). Allegro Vivace (Symphonie V).

The next recital will be held on Tuesday, January 29th, and will be given by Mr. Healey Willan, Organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto.

LE CLUB POLITIQUE

The subject for discussion at the next meeting of Le Club Politique on Jan. 23rd was incorrectly stated in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY. It should have read, "Is secret diplomacy a menace to our national welfare?"

ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPAIGN PROMISES WELL FOR U.C.

Year Executives Are Keenly Active to Achieve Success

Everyone Will Have An Opportunity to Give and Give Until It Hurts

Considerable interest has been aroused by the Patriotic Fund Campaign in University College. Heretofore it has been found that, owing to the lack of a common centre, and to the great diversity of courses, it is exceedingly difficult to reach the men. On this occasion, however, the executive of the four years have been appealed to to conduct the canvass. Under the direction of the class presidents, they have assumed the responsibility and plans are under way that promise to place U.C. in the front rank of contributors.

Mr. Buchanan, president of the third year, has an enthusiastic organization at work. The seven men of the executive at their initial meeting, subscribed $25.00. Later, personal letters were addressed to all men in the year, and during the present week the executive will see that every man is canvassed. Work as energetic and spirited as this cannot fail to yield results that the third year may point to with pride.

Mr. Noble, the president of the first year, has the most difficult task. Not only is his year the largest, but the men are less likely to be as well acquainted as the men of the other years. Nevertheless the executive is quietly at work, and it is expected that the freshmen will far excel even their good record made in Red Cross contributions last autumn.

Mr. Tait and Mr. Gregory, presidents of the second and fourth years respectively, have their plans well under way for a thorough campaign. The executives, aided by the Students' Council representatives, will see that every man is given an opportunity to contribute.

If the spirit of the workers is any criterion of the spirit of the men of University College, if every one will contribute to his College canvassers, and contribute all he can, U.C. will present a record that is worthy of it. But every man must do his utmost if such a record is to be won.

STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL MET.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Patriotic Fund Campaign was held on Saturday at 12 o'clock in THE VARSITY office. The women were well represented, only their medical representative being absent, but there was a poor attendance of the men.

The Rev. Mr. Childs took the chair. In opening the meeting he explained that it had been called for the purpose of organizing the Campaign system, and to hear the suggestions of the representatives; he stated too that the need was greatly increased this year, and that owing to lack of adequate funds the work of the Red Cross had never been able to keep pace with the continual demand.

The meeting then considered the question of publication, a good campaign slogan and an objective, the details of collecting in each particular faculty being left to the discretion of the respective officers in charge.

As an objective it was finally decided after much discussion, that, as Varsity is represented by 4,000 men and women overseas, the objective should be $1,000. This means a greater strain upon the finances of the students than in any previous campaign but the need is so great that the extra effort is necessary in order that Varsity may bear her usual part of the burden of sacrifice. The need too, of many soldiers' wives, who, in the coldest winter Toronto has felt for years, are being forced to suffer extremely from frost on account of the coal situation, must be relieved at once. The fact that the Patriotic Fund and Red Cross Campaigns are being combined should not mean that each gives once only his usual amount for other cause, but he should combine the two contributions into the one double amount in order that neither cause may lose.

Mr. Grant expressed the opinion that even if a student had to give up the theatre for a month in order that his subscription might be above his previous

THE HAMBURG TRIO WILL GIVE CONCERT

Mr. Harold Jarvis and Miss Fleury Will Also Sing

On Wednesday evening, January 23rd, in Convocation Hall an opportunity will be given to all music lovers in the University of Toronto to enjoy a programme which promises to be of exceptional brilliancy and interest. The Hamburg trio already has a very large and enthusiastic following in Toronto, and needs but little introduction here. Criticisms from the press of other cities show that the highest praise has been given to these musicians, in every musical centre of the world in which they have been heard.

"Mr. Hamburg is one of the greatest living masters of his instrument." New York Evening Post.

"Yesterday he revealed to us an instrument of unlimited possibilities, an assuming marvellous technique, and a temperament of the widest possible scope. These qualities added to an expressive sympathetic tone, absolute purity of intonation, and marked breadth of interpretation, a catalogue him with the greatest of the world's cellists." —Boston Advertiser.

"Hamburg is in the very first rank of the soloists before the public." —New York Press.

Monsieur Vignetti of the Paris Figaro says—"Monsieur Vignetti's technique is simple and brilliant. His playing is full of repose and dignity. Gave the greatest satisfaction and pleasure to his hearers. His interpretation was absolutely charming."

Mr. Conradi has played both in America and abroad with great success, and has appeared as soloist with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Russian Orchestra, etc.

The name of Mr. Harold Jarvis speaks for itself, and those who have heard Miss Fleury sing can not fail to grasp another opportunity to enjoy her work. Those who have not heard this people begin now. Those who have are sure to come again. Tickets, 75, 50 and 25 cents, on sale at Nordheimer's, 220 Yonge Street and at the Main Building.

WHO GOES THERE?

David R. Porter, of New York Pass, Porter!—

Big "T" Mixer Welcomes You

A varied program! You asked for it and that is precisely what the committee has arranged for the Mixer on Wednesday, January 23rd at 6 p.m. sharp. Central Y.M.C.A.

To the uninitiated, these Mixers are inter-faculty, pan-university, are patronized by students of every faculty in the University of Toronto, and are one of the functions that every student should plan to attend.

This week, David R. Porter, of New York, has been secured and if you have ever heard this all round developed man, you will never miss an opportunity of hearing him again.

At present Mr. Porter in Executive Secretary of the International Committee of the Christian Student Federation and is Dr. Mott's right-hand man. Having been a Rhodes Scholar, he is especially fitted to speak to University men. Having made one of the longest runs ever made in a rugby game, and also one of the foremost college athletes in the United States in his day, which was just a few years back, he will be particularly interesting for all University athletes.

Mr. Porter was one of the organizers of the big $35,000,000 campaign put on by the Y.M.C.A. in the States which resulted in about $75,000,000 being raised for war Y.M.C.A. purposes.

If you wish to have a mighty congenial and instructive time from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m., then reserve this date.

There is competition in cats, in yells, in College spirit, and in discussion groups for the largest and most effective group, and they all promote a University spirit. Watch Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lt.-Col. C. H. Mitchell has been given the Belgian Croix de Guerre. This honour, which like the French "Military Medal," usually conferred only on those of lower rank, is occasionally awarded to higher officers for specially distinguished services. In writing to General Plumer, Commander of the Second British Army the King of the Belgians expresses his wish to confer this honor on Col. Mitchell and other officers of his "incomparable staff as an appreciation of their valuable services to Belgium."

Col. Mitchell, who is now General Staff Officer (Intelligence) with the Second British Army, has been several times mentioned in despatches, and granted the following honours: D.S.O. in June, 1916; C.M.G. in June, 1917; Legion of Honor, Croix d'Officier, in March, 1918; the Belgian Order of Leopold, Officer, in July, 1917.

Captain J. Spence Reid, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Reid, of Tilsonburg, was wounded in the knee on December 17th and since been moved to England. Capt. Reid enlisted as a private with a R.A.M.C. unit in Toronto, while attending the University, but in England transferred to the Imperial forces, taking out his commission. He was at first attached to the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, but was transferred to a battalion of the South Staffordshire Regt. in France. He has not only been twice promoted, but was mentioned in despatches in the Irish Rebellion, and was recently awarded the Military Cross for bravery under fire. Since going to France this is the second time he has been wounded. He was a member of the Western Ontario champion Tennis Club and a top sportsman. Capt. Reid graduated from Victoria College in 1914, thereupon entering Medicine.

Captain The Rev. Harold McCausland has been awarded the Military Cross. He is a graduate of Trinity College, 1900, and also holds the degree of M.A. Capt. McCausland went overseas with the 95th Battalion, but was in France with a 4th Division Battalion. After sixteen months spent in France, he is now in England to recuperate.

Lieut. E. Victor McKague, B.A.Sc. of 1915, has also won the Military Cross, according to word received by his father. Lieut. McKague went overseas with the Cyclists in December, 1915. No details have yet been received as to how he won it.

Lieut. M. Langdon Ellis, B.A., University College, 1911, has been awarded the Military Cross. Lieut. Ellis went overseas with the 83rd Battalion from Toronto as a captain, but reverted to get to the front. Last October, during the Passchendaele action, he was wounded in the shoulder, and has been for some months in the Royal Free Hospital, in London. It is expected that he will shortly be invalided to Canada.

Details concerning the winning of the M.C. by Lieut. John Gauld, and Lieut. Win L. McGarry, have now been made known. Lieut. Gauld "carried on though wounded with the utmost courage and determination." Lieut. McGarry (U.C. 1917) "remained on duty though wounded and was responsible for the capture of a machine gun."

Lieut. Ernest I. Gill, B.A.Sc. 1911, has won the Military Cross. He took the Artillery Course at Kingston, going overseas with the R.C.H.A. He was wounded towards the end of last November. His home is at Victoria Harbour, Ontario.

PROF. W. G. SMITH IS SICK

Professor W. G. Smith, of the department of psychology, is suffering severely from septic poisoning, due to irritations of the teeth, nose, and tonsils.

A reporter was informed that he has been in bed for over a week and has had no sleep the greater part of that time. Three eminent doctors held a consultation and regarded his case a serious one.

It is not expected that he will be able to resume his duties for a month or longer. Professor Smith has been a life-long sufferer from rheumatism.

COL. G. H. WILLIAMS DELIVERED IMPRESSIVE AND ELOQUENT SERMON

Chose to Speak on the Subject of Moral and Spiritual Integrity

Men of Honour, Integrity, Sta- bility and Character, Needed To-day

Col. G. H. Williams preached the second sermon of this term at Convocation Hall on Sunday. A large number turned out to hear him and were certainly not disappointed. It would be very hard in mere black and white to do justice to the beautiful, eloquent, forceful sermon, illustrated with graphic power, and delivered with the greatest skill and impressiveness.

Col. Williams chose to speak on the subject of "Moral and Spiritual Integrity." The example of David was held up to the congregation. "The eternal value of the Psalms does not lie in the metrical qualities as these have been mostly lost in translation, nor do they retain their superiority because of their high level of spiritual thought, but their peculiar value lies in their human naturalism. Looking into the Psalms we find David's life full of tumult and trouble. He has been called the shepherd king, but he might just as well be called the war king. When he was beset within and without, what could be more earnest than this cry, that in the midst of all these vicissitudes he might keep his moral integrity."

"Never has there been such a critical time as this when the menace of temptation to enrich one-self with the honorable and sacred spoils of war. Due to economic conditions, this has been made possible and many have taken advantage of it. We are standing in deep, which is full of peril, to mar our integrity of soul. What more vital cry than this is this awful crisis than that I be not moved, that I may stand faithful and loyal and true. But David does not pray that he be not touched. It is a mark of degeneracy for a man to ask that heaven find some quiet haven for him where there is no struggle and no temptation."

"Some people have no consideration for the idealist. The dreamer and the idealist are sometimes confused, but they are as far apart as the poles. The idealist sees things as God would have them seen. There can be no creation without an imagination. Nothing has been achieved that has not been felt and desired beforehand. Is this a war of races? No, it is no conflict of clans but of ideals. On one side are the ideals of law, subordination and order; and on the other those of justice, truth and liberty."

"There never was a time when the world needed men of honour, integrity, stability and character as to-day. Shall we give our perfect manhood?"

SOPHOMORES' SKATING PARTY

On Thursday evening of last week a large number from the second year of University College met at the Varsity Rink to skate. It was feared at first that the gentler spirit of 20 might be so buffeted in the dizzy whirl that they would be unable to make their way to the appointed place of meeting. But finally, like iron filings around a magnet, they were drawn to the spot, and thereafter they dominated the rink. Many were the flattering comments heard on all sides respecting the charm and grace (attributes peculiar, it may be remarked, to the second year) with which the gallant gentlemen and winsome ladies of 20 flitted here and there among the lesser lights on the ice. Having skated to the limit of their time and energy all related to the Women's Union. A sumptuous repast was there served, in the strength of which they danced till nearly midnight. Then, it is presumed (though of this we are not quite certain) they went home.

INVITATION TO RETURNED MEN

The next gathering of University of Toronto men who have returned from active service overseas will be held in the Faculty Union on Friday, Jan. 25th, at 4:30 p.m. All returned men now in attendance at the University are asked to accept this notification. Those who can be present are asked as far as possible to inform Prof. G. O. Smith, Rolf of Service office, Main Building (telephone on University switch).

THE PATRIOTIC FUND APPEAL

The men of Canada at the front are the men who are making Canadian history to-day. The people at home recognize the glorious achievements of the Canadian forces and paid tribute to them—tribute in which other countries join, notably the United States. Witness the statement of Mr. Lansing recently:

"When the roll of honour is made up on this great conflict, I can hope for no higher honour for America than that her name may be written not above, but side by side with, that of Canada. That is the highest honour that any country can ask."

The men at the front, however, need support of a more substantial character than mere words. In this war it is not a case of armies fighting armies, but rather nations fighting nations. Under such conditions it is necessary that the dependents of the men should be amply provided for and enabled to secure the comforts of life to which they are ordinarily accustomed. This war, which has been truly called "a great co-operative movement on the part of the Canadian people", is still at its height, and we must still look far into the future in order to see its end. Consequently there must be no thought of coming short of the amount aimed at in the present campaign—a campaign which in many respects is the most important of all.

The University has a direct interest in this campaign; but in view of the contributions which students have already made for war purposes, no spur is needed to urge further giving—a reminder will suffice. The Students' Administrative Council and the Women's Students' Administrative Council have undertaken a joint campaign, and they ask for the greatest response possible from the students. This campaign will be conducted during the coming three days, January 22nd, 23rd, and 24th; and THE VARSITY urges that the call be answered in a generous spirit—an appeal which we feel sure will not be in vain.

OVERTIME LECTURES

There is one matter which deserves some attention. This is in regard to the encroachment on the seven-minute period between lectures. Some lecturers regard this as the appointed time in which to race at break-neck speed through whatever portion of the hour's work has as yet been uncovered, while numerous others reserve it as the proper period for consideration of difficulties which may have been encountered in the lecture or collateral reading. As a matter of fact this portion of time belongs as definitely and completely to the students as Friday evenings or Sunday afternoons and should not be encroached on by lecturers regardless of the merits of the excuse. And we feel justified in stating that no one relishes less having students trooping into a lecture at irregular intervals for five minutes after the hour than some of the worst offenders in this regard.

"The moral is obvious and the application not difficult. We would suggest too, if we may, that a synchronization of the clocks, in the various buildings and of all professorial chronometers is not undesirable and might go far towards alleviating present conditions."—The Alberta Gateway.

This grievance of professors exceeding the time allowed for lectures is of such long standing, and in some cases, shows such signs of being removed that THE VARSITY has preferred to regard the matter as one of those things which having become inevitable are best borne in a humorous manner.

But "The Gateway" takes it in a serious manner which perhaps is just as well for a change.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE VARSITY has received a copy of the Honour Roll, corrected to the 30th of November, 1917, of the University of Alberta. Forty-nine graduates and undergraduates of the University have fallen on active service; two are prisoners of war; and about 280 other men are still on active service. For a University, which has been so recently established, this record is indeed creditable.

To-Day's Poem

THE OLD HOME PAPER.

It's printed old-fashioned and homely,
Bearing name of a small country town;
With an unforgotten sneer at its wrapper queer,
The postman, in scorn, throws it down.

But I con every line that it offers;
Each item brings something to view,
Through the vista of years, through youth's pleasures and fears,
And serves their keen touch to renew.

The death of the girl I once courted,
The growth of a firm I once perced,
The rise of a friend I love to commend,
The fall of a man I revered.

As I dream I drift dreamily backward
To the days when to live was a joy,
I think and I pore, till the city's dull roar
Grows faint, and again I'm a boy.

Rare perfume of green country byways,
Fair music of mowers and loes,
And the quaint little towns with the streets leading down
To the creek and the low-hanging trees.

Around me the forms of my comrades,
About us earth's glories unfurled,
Each heart undivided, with the faith of a child,
Looking forth to a place in the world

And the papers tell how all have prospered,
I follow their lives as they flow,
Applauding each gain and regretting each pain
For the sake of the days long ago

Above all the huge city dailes
With ponderous utterance wise,
This stant page hath power to spread far an hour
A fairland sweet to my eyes.

The Query Box

[All questions must be relative to the University and addressed to the Exchange Editor, Varsity office. Do not be shy to ask questions. Come right out with them.]

Q.—If I should fail outright in the Spring exams of the first year Arts, would I need to repeat my year or may I try again in the Supplemental Exams?—L.R.

A.—It all depends on the course you are taking. If you are in the first year General you may present yourself at the September Supplemental exams even if you fail outright in the Spring. But alas! 'tis does not work in the special courses. If you succeed in getting plucked in your Honour subjects, we should wish you a happy New Year, for you would have the pleasure of repeating your year. But don't worry. Why talk of failing outright when you still have several months time to plug? Cheer up, old scout, you are not the sole possessor of this pessimistic thought.

Q.—Would you kindly let me know through your columns whether the following professors are graduates of this university, and their graduation year?—Prof. Burton, J. P. McMurrich, J. H. Faull, W. H. Piersol, J. Satterly, J. G. Hume, and D. R. Keys?—Medico.

A.—They are all graduated from Varsity except Dr. Satterly, who is an M.A. Cantab, and D.Sc. Lond. Their graduation years follow: Prof. Burton, 1901 U.C.; Prof. McMurrich, 1879 U.C.; Prof. Faull, 1898 Vic.; Prof. Piersol, 1895 U.C.; Prof. Hume, 1887 U.C.; and Prof. Keys, 1878, U.C. Perhaps you also want their biographies, eh, Medico?

Q.—Can you tell me what that dark spot is on the Exchange Editor's upper lip?—J.A.S.

A.—Yes, we have noticed it. A wash is not indispensable, as we think he is making a fierce attempt to grow a moustache. However, as it is only in its embryonic stage, it need not worry us. We wish him all the success.

Q.—Is THE VARSITY in need of reporters? I should like to join the staff. Whom do I have to see?—Dents.

A.—There is always room for a good man. If you desire to get on the staff, come over and see us and talk it over. See either Mr. R. A. Sampson, Editor-in-Chief, or Mr. Jas. A. Sweet, Managing Editor. They can usually be seen at noon is THE VARSITY office.

gift, his sacrifice in doing so would be well worth the effort to him and that we must see this campaign through, and not prove quitters when the call begins to touch our pocketbooks.

The motion that the objective be $4,000 was proposed by Mr. Grant and seconded by Mr. Rowson of Veterinary College and carried unanimously.

Owing to some difficulty in reaching a decision as to the form of the publicity branch of the Campaign, C. C. Grant moved that the men's and women's presidents should each appoint a representative to assist him in this work, and that the publicity be left entirely to them. Miss Burrows seconded the motion which was carried without opposition and Miss Burrows and Mr. Salter, with Mr. Watson of Trinity, in case Mr. Salter could not act, were appointed.

Mr. Grant then gave detailed instructions to the collectors and asked them when they thought the latest date for making their returns should be. After a short discussion it was agreed that all contributions must be in by Friday noon without fail. Collectors should make a note of this date.

In closing, President S. Childs thanked the women for their splendid co-operation in previous campaigns.

PROF. SARTON

known. The infectious disease, the Black Death, and the Psycho-Pathological disease. In regard to the last-mentioned disease," he said: "The people believed that almost anything might happen and as a result everything did happen" (laughter). Nowadays we speak about the atrocities in Belgium. "In those days they would have caused very little if no comment. When the witches were executed, the princes found it very interesting to bring their lunch with them and sit at the scene witnessing it with delight. This shows the development of civilization. The great problem of civilization was the struggle against superstition. What was necessary was to show the truth, the only remedy was knowledge. (Cheers). We say astronomy is important. Astronomical research was a new way of destroying astrological knowledge. What we need is idealism and knowledge.

Prof. Sarton left for Harvard on Saturday. His lectures here will never be forgotten by the large audiences. THE VARSITY was pleased to notice amongst the audiences in all the lectures, a fair proportion of students present. Prior to the war this was not the case. This only goes to show that the students at Varsity realise quite well the present situation; they know that it is imperative upon every student to get all he can out of college so that when the war is brought to a successfully conclusion he shall be able to best render his services to the country.

BASKETBALL

O.T.C. Easily Defeats Faculty of Education by Score of 74 to 6

Friday evening O.T.C. defeated Faculty of Education 74-6 in the Sifton Cup Series basketball game. The contest, as the score shows, was very one-way and in the first period the soldiers ran wild scoring almost at will. Dunn, who showed the greatest scoring ability on the floor put in nineteen baskets in this period. After half-time the educated ones put up a game fight and for a few moments the scene on the floor looked like a basketball game. However, O.T.C. had no trouble controlling the play and the game languished until time was called.

O.T.C. — Long, McFarland, Dunn, Brown, Hardy, Chew, Smith.
F.O.E. — Garbutt, Barwick, Van Allen, McIntyre, Daegle.
Referee—Sinclair.

HOW TO DO AWAY WITH ROUGHNESS IN RUGBY

Rule 1. The field shall be covered with two feet of cotton batting, over which is placed a three-fourths inch carpet.

Rule 2. The price of tickets shall be left to the spectator, he paying at the gate whatever he thinks is right.

Rule 3. The ball must be covered with pale blue or pink satin, tied with pale green abby ribbon.

Rule 4. All spectators must be dressed in sombre clothing and must remain absolutely quiet during the progress of the game.

Rule 5. The only cheering permitted will be three Rahs given by a student chosen by the faculty. These cheers shall be given at the close of each half, and then but once.—The Collegian.

2T1 HISTORY DEBATE

Lest you forget! Monday's subject for debate is, "Resolved that Canada should have a greater share in the moulding of foreign affairs of the Empire?" Messrs. Barclay and Goldstein support the affirmative and are opposed by Messrs. Stewart and Shaw. Come and hear an interesting discussion in the Library Building for an hour before drill on Monday.

The subject of the regular weekly debate of the Literary Institute on next Friday night is, "Resolved, That man has contributed more to civilization than woman." The affirmative will be upheld by Messrs. Boggs and Lawrie, while the champions of the fair sex are yet to be announced. A lively discussion is anticipated.

INTER-COLLEGE DEBATING UNION

A meeting of the Inter-college Debating Union will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 7.30 p.m. in St. Michael's College. Arrangements will be made at this meeting for the final debate. A full attendance is requested.

The Railbird

If Faculty of Education basketball tossers have any Sifton Cup aspirations they might as well begin to practice shooting, passing and a few other little basketball stunts before their next game.

This afternoon Jr. Dents meet St. Mike's and S.P.S. play St. Dents in continuance of the Sifton Cup Series. In both games the teams are well-matched and the contests should be close.

The hockey schedule strikes its stride to-day, two games being staged: Meds v. Dents and St. Michael's v. Trinity. Tomorrow F.O.E. will meet Pharmacy in renewal of last year's feud.

If the fans turn out for these games as well as they did for the U.C. Vic. game last week, Varsity Rink will be crowded.

On Saturday in the O.H.A. Crescents won the senior game from St. Patrick's 9-6 and the De La Salle took the Junior game from Aura Lee 4-3 in overtime.

On Tuesday afternoon Central "Y" will be the scene of a battle royal between Jr. Meds (2) and Victoria. If Vic win this game it gives a strong hold on the group title for the Sifton Cup, but Meds are expecting to upset their calculations.

The McMaster v. School game in the Jennings' Cup Series, which was scheduled for Saturday morning will be played this afternoon at 4 p.m. on Varsity Rink.

S.P.S. PLAY MCMASTER TO-NIGHT

The first game in Group I of the Jennings' Cup which was to have been played on Saturday at the Stadium between S.P.S. and McMaster will be played there to-night. S.P.S. is the present holders of the cup and a fast game is looked for.

Wycliffe

Capt. (Rev.) T. Hudson Stewart, a graduate of Wycliffe College, and late pastor of St. Aidan's Church, Toronto, has been awarded the Military Cross.

The honour was won at Vimy Ridge where Capt. Stewart was in the midst of the fighting. He insisted upon remaining in the first lines, and acted as comfort to those whose life was fast ebbing away. The exact details of his conspicuous bravery are lacking, but enough has been elicited to show that his work was of the highest.

During last week the chapel was the scene of three inspiring addresses—echoes of the Conference of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, of which mention had already been made in the issue of THE VARSITY of January 16th, under the heading Northfield Conference. Tuesday morning, E. P. Wright, a Wycliffe delegate, gave an outline of the personal message received at the Conference. His address was concise, and to the point.

Wednesday morning, Rev. Dr. W. T. Hallam gave a survey of the personality of the speakers. He then emphasized the approach of Islam. It has not yet reached its crest, he said, and it is for us to put our shoulders to the wheel and prevent its influence from spreading beyond restraint. On Thursday Mr. Wright again spoke, this time on the message of the Conference. The message, he said, was a call to missionary service, not necessarily in the foreign field. He admitted all could not go to India, to China, or to Africa. However, there is missionary service to be done here in Canada.

The Wycliffe delegates' report will be concluded to-morrow by Professor Hallam.

THIRD YEAR U.C. HELD EXECUTIVE MEETING

An executive meeting of the third year U.C. was held Tuesday. The meeting was called to consider way and means of cooperating with other executives of the College in the coming Patriotic Fund Campaign. A letter was read from the Students' Council suggesting that the most effective way in which contributions could be solicited would be through the executives of the different years. It was pointed out that University College had not taken the position it should have in the Red Cross Campaign and hope was expressed that it would not be found wanting in the present. The men of the executive are to conduct the Campaign in the year. Twenty-five dollars was subscribed by them at the meeting.

VICTORIA WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY HELD MEETING

Prof. Hooke Gave an Address

One of the most delightful meetings of the Victoria Women's Literary Society was held Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Victoria Alumnae.

The most prominent feature of the afternoon was an address by Prof. Hooke, in which he talked ideally of the future in the light of the past. "A bird's-eye view of the last century reveals the main lines of thought to have been destructively critical. Everything has been thrown into the melting pot, and has been expected to come out new. The corroding assail of criticism has worn down old traditions, old beliefs and ideals. The constructive period which must follow has not yet begun—but are upon the threshold of it. The social structure of the eighteenth century is gone—and in the fabric which displaced it a war of classes was imminent before the outbreak of this war of nations. But the war has averted the impending catastrophe—it has proved the solvent of the former difficulties. And when we have come to the end we shall be glad that the 'Hand which is guiding' brought in such a cleansing flood—glad that the 'purging of fire' has been so drastic.

"In religion, respected orthodoxy has been subjected to severe analysis. Religious documents have been subjected to the same severe tests as historical documents, and many former theories have been torn down. The aftermath of this critical period is lack of belief—loss of certain faith. But now the demand is for something certain. The ultimate ground must be faith—the only sure foundation of religion. The same forces at work in the field of science have resulted in forced confession of our ignorance. Ask a man of science, 'What is matter?' and he cannot answer. We are standing amid the ruins of the past. Now we are ready for a new construction of a new society, in which the end will be the Best Life—not exploitation of one's neighbors—not negation of thought. This is the ideal conception of what is before us. And for the first time in history women are to have an active part in making the new structure. And they have something of value to bring to the building of it. Woman has always supplied the positive element—the intuition—and the mystic ideals. Man is more destructive. So the new structure, by the union of two things which are different, in its building, will be stronger and better than ever before.

Mrs. Manning favored the Society with a piano solo, and Mrs. Parker and Miss Lowrie rendered most pleasing vocal solos.

The Literary Society will look forward with eager anticipation to the next time the Alumnae has charge of the meeting.

A One-Fault Watch

There's only one fault to be found with our $7.00 man's watch, it is this—it runs so well and is so good-looking that it sometimes interferes with the sale of a more expensive watch.

Just fancy, $7.00—think of it—and yet it is a patent lever, 15 jewelled Breguet hair-spring, in a very neat gun-metal or nickel case—guaranteed, of course.

We've seen watches not half so good, costing double the money—you'd never suspect it of being a $7.00 candidate—it's so "classy."

When the story is written and told

What will it say of you? It will certainly say something, for you have a part in it, and your acts will be as surely engraved on your conscience as will Deeds of Valor be written on the Empire's Roll of Honor.

The record will be inescapable. It will be something more than "Daddy, what did you do in the Great War?"

It will be the MAN in you, then, probing in calm perspective, the actions of the MAN in you, now.

And conscience—sternest of judges—will write the verdict.

It is admitted that not all are capable of going to the trenches, but it is not conceded that any should be unwilling to give.

And if ever there was a Cause to draw out every spark of patriotic generosity in one's nature, surely it is the need of the Canadian Red Cross and the Patriotic Fund.

It isn't as though we cannot afford to give.

The grim struggle which has brought sacrifice to so many has still made most of us, financially, more prosperous than ever.

Consequently we as a community can better afford to give now than we could in 1914—and the promise and obligation, made then, is still binding.

Over in Flanders the spirit of sacrifice does not cavil at its lot, but it looks longingly—oh! so longingly, towards "Home," and thinks kindly of us, and is grateful for what we are doing for its dependents. Surely we cannot, in honor, fail in the set purpose of raising this money.

* * * * *

Think this thing over. Pause awhile now, or at your work. It will do you good. Contrast what you are doing with what some soldier, in the trenches, is doing. Or think of it to-night, and ask yourself how you would like to change places with that man who, has just crawled over the parapet to repair some wire, and whose presence has been revealed to the enemy by a "starlight."

Think it over and then picture what it would be like to be wounded and lack attention because of a shortage of Red Cross supplies.

Or think of some woman and her children, who, maybe, live on the same street as you. Picture the children praying that God in His mercy may spare their Daddy. Vision the loneliness of the woman and the long-drawn agony of separation. Vision the spectre of want creeping in to that home if we fail in our duty to them.

Think of all these things as you never thought of them before.

If you do this—your conscience will tell you how much you should give, and we shall be proud of your subscription.

WE WANT YOU TO BE PROUD OF YOUR PART IN IT!

We have 4,000 representatives of U. of T. at the front. Let us put $4,000 behind our Patriotic and Red Cross Fund

UNIV. COLL. MET VIC. IN DEBATE OF I.D.U.

"Resolved That the Bolsheviks Were Justified in Peace Proposals to Germany"

AFFIRMATIVE WIN

"Bolsheviks Were Sincere; They Knew Their Own Minds," Stated Affirmative

A keen contest of brain and eloquence was waged on Monday afternoon in the Household Science Building when University College met Victoria in their first struggle for the honours offered by the Intercollegiate Debating Union. The subject of the debate was both deep and comprehensive. "Resolved that the Bolsheviks were justified in proposing peace terms to Germany." The affirmative was upheld by Victoria, ably represented by Lida Pearson, and Florence Smith. Pauline Simpson and Grace Trimmer, of U.C., heavily defended the negative.

The rules of the debating union allowed fifteen minutes for each speaker, and five minutes for the leader of the affirmative to reply. Miss Elsie Graham, president of the University College Literary Society, presided.

Miss Pearson opened the debate, stating the subject and the necessity for much composure in regard to it, owing to the strict censorship of the Russian press. She traced the conditions of Russia since 1901, showing how even the Duma was curtailed by the Czar, so that there was no freedom of expression or administration, for the people. She explained the situation of the Russian peasant—his war weariness, and strong bond of family affection, arguing that the Bolsheviks were justified in proposing peace terms, because the peasants, who constituted a majority, desired it, and the elements which contributed to this desire were war weariness, internal disorganization in government; lack of leadership and inefficiency of the army.

Miss Simpson, as leader of the negative, protested that the Bolsheviks were not justified in proposing peace terms to Germany. She dealt with her subject from three standpoints—that of the Russian people, of the Bolsheviks, and of the allies in Russia, which is striving for ideals, such as are needed in the world to-day. Lenin understands the Russian and German situation, and knows that it will take years to reconstruct the Russian property system, and yet he seeks to make peace with Germany. He is not justified in shrinking from the hard proposition which he ought to face squarely. Miss Simpson dwelt on the strong patriotism of the Russians, who resisted the German war-machine, with religious weapons, sticks and stones, and who have been living for three years on war-bread, tea, and cabbage soup. The Bolsheviks are not representative of the Russian people, is taking advantage of the men on the firing line, corresponds to anti-Unionists in Canada, therefore is not justified for proposing terms and claiming leadership. Miss Simpson closed with a stirring appeal that apart from the issue of the debate in hand.

DINNER OF F. AND P. CLUB

Mr. A. B. Farmer Has Been Secured as Speaker of the Evening

The long-awaited dinner of the Commerce and Finance Club and Political Economy Club will be held next Friday at 7.30 p.m., January 25th, at the Westminster Hotel on Jarvis Street. Mr. Arthur Black Farmer has been secured as the speaker for the evening. Those who desire to attend should communicate at once with some member of either executive. Further particulars will appear in the next issue of THE VARSITY. In the meantime, reserve Friday evening for a good dinner, a good address, and a general good time.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

PHARMACY FIRST

The campaign for the Red Cross and Patriotic Fund is busily progressing in the University. Pharmacy is first to hand in returns and from sixty-four students the handsome sum of $95 has been realised. Pharmacy has always in every campaign for patriotic purposes been first to hand in complete returns and have never failed to share their full burden as the above returns signify. Full returns from other faculties have not been made. The canvassers are, however, busy and no doubt all will make a creditable showing. In U.C. the list of members of the class is divided so as to give each member of the executive a certain number to canvass. They report favourable progress.

MEN OF THE FIRST YEAR.

If the $4,000 objective set for the University in the present patriotic fund and Red Cross Campaign is to be attained, each year of every faculty must give to its utmost ability. A large portion of this amount must be raised in University College, and the first year must be ready to contribute its share with the others. Ensure for 2T1 with your subscriptions, the highest average per man, in U.C.

NOTICE

U. C. Women's Literary Society has postponed its next meeting till Saturday, February 2nd. Please keep that date open.

LOST—Gold watch, on Monday, Jan. 21st, at 11 a.m., in room 26 of the Medical Building. Finder please communicate with W. G. Graydon, Victoria College, and get reward. Phone Coll. 441.

SHALL WE GIVE OR SHALL WE PAY?

The spirit of voluntary effort has been all but banished from our state of political life. The great concerns of government, of public action, are no longer left to the individual will for decision. The majority decide once for all, and impose upon all the course of action so chosen. And that man would be rash who would condemn this present social spirit, this resort to and reliance upon compulsion. For generations the tendency toward it has been unmistakable, and the trend has developed with startling rapidity during the present war. National defence is for the welfare of all, and to that defence all must contribute. Each must render such service as it is possible for him to render.

Now the last great undertakings of a public nature that rest upon voluntary effort are the Red Cross and Patriotic Fund. Among the large and rapidly increasing number of functions that the Government to day finds it expedient to exercise, these alone are supported by gifts, not by taxes. And these anomalies that should disappear, or are they the last stronghold of a mighty principle that we should struggle to defend? If our gifts fail to provide the amount necessary to maintain the all important work now carried on by the Canadian Red Cross and Patriotic Fund, there can be no doubt that the money will be raised by taxation. The issue is clear—shall we give, or shall we pay?

Regard it from whatever point of view we will, we can see but one answer. A bitter tragedy, nothing short of it, would it be for us to fail in this last voluntary task. Those who have much may give much; may give and do give more than they can be compelled to pay. All of us can give and will give. But if we fail, if we give but half what we might, then the privilege of giving may no longer be ours. And a privilege it is, a greater privilege than we perhaps realize. Were it to be replaced by taxation, by taxation whose burdens would rest most heavily on the least able to bear them; by taxation with the spirit of grudging, discontented acquiescence that it fosters—perhaps then we should appreciate the cheering, heartening inspiration of giving.

The issue is clear, shall we give, or shall we pay? Is the last spark of the old enthusiasm, the last vestige of the old willingness, yes, and eagerness, to do all that we might be able to do—are these things gone from us? If such be the case—well, compulsion cannot be introduced too soon. The mighty work of the Red Cross and of the Patriotic Fund cannot be allowed to suffer. But shall we say that compulsion is needed to maintain it? Heretofore we have needed no compulsion, and we shall not need it now. Shall we give, or shall we pay? Varsity has answered that question before, answered it when its significance was greatest, answered it freely and nobly. And in the same spirit Varsity will answer it again to-day!

2T1 DEBATING CLUB

Monday afternoon the 2T1 Debating Club held another interesting meeting. Instead of the usual debate, subjects were written on a piece of paper, which were drawn from a hat by the different members. Mr. Laughlin, who drew a blank, enabled him to choose his own subject, told of a motorcycle trip which proved very interesting. Mr. Stewart, who drew his favorite subject, "Votes for Women," contrasted the part played by women in elections to-day and the probable conditions of affairs in 1908. Mr. Tait, who also drew a blank, spoke on "Current Topics," and raised several interesting points regarding an imperial council of overseas dominions. Mr. Goldstein, who was unlucky enough to draw "A Message from Mars," explained his theory of how Mars might be communicated with. The young man showed himself to be a genius at wild inventions. Mr. Smilie, also brought forward some interesting points concerning the imperial policy. Mr. Shaw drew "Is it better to be a bachelor or an old maid?" and since Mr. Shaw had not had much experience as either, he was unable to enlighten the gathering. Mr. Findlay, who had drawn "Elections," gave us an interesting account of the old-time, bitter elections. The meeting then adjourned till it meets Monday next, at 3 o'clock, in Room 5, Library Building. Come and bring your ideas for the debate: "Resolved, that Canada ought to play a greater part in shaping the foreign policy of our Empire."

NOTICE RE CAMPAIGN.

Will the representatives of all the faculties in regard to the present campaign bear in mind that all returns must be handed in to Mr. Collier C. Grant, B.A., before Friday 5 p.m. at THE VARSITY office, otherwise they shall bring returns to Head office.

LE CLUB POLITIQUE

"Le Club Politique" will hold a meeting this (Wednesday) afternoon at 2.15 o'clock, in Room 6, University Library Building. The topic for discussion will be: "Is secret diplomacy a menace to the national welfare?"

SENIORS ENTERTAINED

Just to prove that the spirit of ITS is very much alive and lusty, the Seniors (for Professor Wong's enlightenment, the members of the fourth year) at Annesley entertained the girls of their class who are out in residence, at dinner, last Saturday. After dining sedately at tables adorned with "scarlet and gold" tulips, the worthies repaired—adorned—or just plain went—to the common-room for coffee, music, and congenial intercourse. Then the real object of the gathering became evident, which was to read letters from the 1T8 men overseas, acknowledging Christmas parcels sent them by the class. Many of the letters were amusing and all were extremely interesting. While they were being read the band was playing on the risk just outside, and how many, we wonder, remembered freshmen in the past—the blizzardy Freshman skating party, for instance? His rebuses, acceptance, conversation, music, and jests made the time fly. The only regret of the Seniors is that there is a little time left for "more of the same." Sic transit gloria mundi!

MISS GARVIN TO ADDRESS LIT.

The F.O.E. Literary Society is to meet Thursday, January 24, at 4.15 in the Assembly Hall. The students and any others interested will have the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Garvin, better known as Katherine Hale, the well-known critic, and short story writer and one of the most prominent and best loved of all the band of Canadian women journalists. Her subject, which should prove interesting and inspiring to all will be, "Canadian Poets and the War." Silver collection for the Red Cross. Everybody welcome.

M. & P. SOCIETY.

The regular meeting of the Mathematical and Physical Society, will be held on Thursday, January 24, in Room 43 at 4.15. Programme of meeting will be the debates. "Resolved that in these days of the high cost of living it is better to have loved and lost than to have loved and won." Everybody welcome.

DAVID R. PORTER TO BE AT THE NEXT BIG "T" MIXER

Is One of the Biggest World Student Federation Workers—Rhodes Scholar

How about it fellows? Can you afford to miss the opportunity of hearing a man like Porter. Who is David R. Porter? Why David R. Porter is one of the biggest men in World Student Federation work—a man keenly alive to all the problems of student life, a man qualified to discuss the problems that confront you. This is your one and only chance to hear a live message from a live man. What about it? Get your ticket now before they all go. Only 200 can be accommodated, so be sure to get in on the ground floor.

Moreover, another word about Porter, which will interest you. He is a Rhodes Scholar—but you aren't interested in brilliant students. No? Well then are you interested in an athlete who has a national reputation. Why? Because Porter made one of the longest runs for a touchdown ever made on an American gridiron and because he has demonstrated his physical prowess in other lines. Don't miss hearing him then.

Central "Y" 6 p.m. To-night. Boost your faculty by boosting the "Mixers." Put your College on the map and to the front by making your college spirit felt at the "Mixers." Help your college pals to boost your college. Promote a University spirit by "mixing" with those of other faculties. Get into a congenial atmosphere at the Mixers, such a congenial college atmosphere as is not afforded by any other function.

Professors of Toronto University—Come and mix with your students and get better acquainted with them. Meet each other out of class rooms. Come on! Come all!

REVISED JEWISH STATE

Will be Subject of Prof. Wong's Address to Menorah Club on Monday

Prof. G. M. Wong will speak on the "Revised Jewish State," to the Menorah Society next Monday evening at eight o'clock. The meeting will take place at the University Y.M.C.A. This subject should attract considerable attention, inasmuch as the restoration of the Jewish State is one of the subjects with which the British Government is interesting itself.

FORMER VARSITY WOMEN ELECTED TO OFFICE AT LAW SCHOOL SOCIETY

We note with much gratification that several of the women graduates of last year and previous years, now engaged in the study of law in the Upper Canada Law Society, have been elected to office in the Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society, many with large majorities. The following ladies were elected:

Vice-President—Miss Palen, Vic., '17.
Secretary—Miss Silk, U.C., '16.
Treasurer—Miss Lee, U.C., '16.
Secretary of Committees—Miss Kinneer, U.C., '17.

1st Year Representative—Miss Mary Bridges, Vic., '17.
2nd Year Representative—Miss Campeau, U.C., '16.

Miss Dorcas Kelly, a Queen's University graduate, successfully contested the office of 2nd Vice President.

In the numerical majority only two men were elected.

2T1 RED CROSS

The Freshettes held their initial Red Cross meeting at the Union on Monday, there being a large attendance in spite of the rival attractions of the intercollegiate debate. The huge piles of handkerchiefs and washcloths on the tables speedily diminished beneath the girls' nimble fingers. The large family party gathered around the grate fire, where lively conversation, popular songs and parodies proved an effective aid to the flashing needle. In record time, 144 pieces of work were completed and ready to be transported over to the Base Hospital Supplies. These meetings will be held every Monday at 4 o'clock, in the future. Here's hoping the freshettes maintain their splendid reputation.

SHERIDAN'S RIVALS TO BE PRODUCED SOON

Promises to be a Great Success—The Costuming is Very Particularly Attractive

FOR GOOD CAUSE

The Stage Setting Greatly Enhanced by the Artistic Use of Period Furniture

Only three opportunities to witness this splendid production of Sheridan's "Rivals" You'll have to hurry if you have not already secured your tickets, for the sales are fast exceeding all expectations. Last year the success of the Dramatic Club, was pronounced "unrivaled," in their presentation of the "School for Scandal" and this year the "Rivals" promises fair to out rival that unrivaled production. Surely this is too good to miss! Moreover the proceeds are to be devoted to patriotic purposes, so you will have no qualms of conscience over the expenditure of twenty-five or fifty cents for an evening of pure enjoyment.

Already rumour, of a most tempting variety is leaking out, and the enthusiasm of the cast is a recommendation that can't be overlooked. Sir Anthony is "simply delightful"; Mrs. Malaprop's facial expression is "inimitable"; Acres is "magnificent"; and Lydia will "take the cake". The costuming is particularly attractive, admirably suited to the temperament of the characters, and the age in which the play was written. Mrs. Malaprop's gown is a creation—flaming check with brilliant red roses. The rest I will leave to your imagination.

There are nine scenes, and the stage setting is greatly enhanced by the artistic use of period furniture. Then of course, there is the orchestra—Majorie Buck, pianist, Edith Atkin, Mildred Fortier, Kathleen Asman, violinists. But there is too much to tell of; one thing be assured—the joys of anticipation fall far short of those of realization, so come and judge for yourself.

Tickets may be procured at the post office, for Friday evening, January 25th, or for Saturday afternoon and evening, January 26th, at the Conservatory of Music Hall.

INVITATION TO RETURNED MEN

The next gathering of University of Toronto men who have returned from active service overseas will be held in the Faculty Union on Friday, Jan. 25th, at 4.30 p.m. All returned men now in attendance at the University are asked to accept this notification. Those who can be present are asked as far as possible to inform Prof. G. O. Smith, Roll of Service office, Main Building (telephone on University switch).

AN OPPORTUNITY.

THE VARSITY has openings for a few energetic undergraduates on its reporter staff. Students who are interested in journalism or who wish to learn how a newspaper is conducted could have no better opportunity. The experience will be invaluable. Advancement will be rapid for the right men. The managing editor will meet candidates for positions on Saturday morning between 11 and 12 o'clock.

TORONTO, JANUARY 23, 1918.

"THERE ARE SIXTY THOUSAND REASONS."

At the great Massey Hall meeting on Monday evening to open the fourth campaign in aid of the Patriotic Fund and the Canadian Red Cross Society, perhaps the strongest appeal was made by a banner, which hung from the ceiling of the hall, and by the shortest speech of the evening.

The words of the banner consisted of one of the clauses of the Great War Veterans' Association and read as follows: "To insure that proper provision is made for dependent families of enlisted men." It was followed by the terse, if hackneyed, phrase—Do It Now.

The speech, referred to, was delivered by the President of the Great War Veterans' Association in Toronto. He spoke as one who has returned from the front, and his reason for asking continued support of this joint campaign was simply to point out that there are "sixty thousand reasons in France."

If such is the opinion of man who have undergone experience in the present war; and if they are satisfied, as they are, with the administration of the Funds—what good cause has anyone to refrain from lending his heartiest moral assistance supported by a money contribution? Many desired that the Fund should be raised by the Government; but His Excellency the Governor-General gave his assurance that those in control of the administration of the Fund had considered this aspect of the case from every possible point of view, and had again determined to rely on voluntary support. In the face of such a decision nothing remains but to fall in behind this fourth campaign; and push it through to a final success.

THE VARSITY has every confidence that the students of the University will respond in the proper manner to this present call. Up to the time of writing the only College which has sent in its complete returns is the College of Pharmacy. This College has the peculiar faculty of sending in its returns first, and also of generally contributing more per capita than other faculties and colleges. If its contribution—ninety-five dollars for sixty-four students—in the present campaign is to be accepted as a criterion of what the University as a whole is to give, that final result would be worthy in every way of the traditions of the University.

CO-OPERATION

Some time ago the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. of University College held a party at the Union which created no little interest; not merely from the fact that it was the first of its kind, but because it embodied the co-operation of the two committees in an endeavour to bring before the students, in a tangible manner the existence of both organizations. Although it was impossible to have the entire student body at this party on account of the inability to find a place large enough for that purpose, a sufficient representation from the third and fourth years proved that interest was not lacking in the cause. In previous years the cabinets of the two organizations have not developed the social element so much and consequently interest in their welfare was not very evident. At the beginning of the fall term, the Y.W.C.A. held a membership campaign which proved very successful, and have held meetings almost weekly when the ablest speakers have addressed the women. The Y.M.C.A. has held big "T" Mixers and altogether have shown much more life than in former years.

Since the two organizations have started out so well in the years and created more interest than formerly, it is to be hoped that now with the pressure of examinations, they will not forget that a grand climax to the year's activities will make the work of organization next year much easier and establish a record which will spur the cabinets of future Y.W.'s and Y.M.'s to greater efforts.

FRESHIES HOLD SKATING PARTY

The class of '21 spent a very enjoyable evening at Little Vic rink on Thursday, the occasion of their skating party. The skaters assembled in Alumnae Hall at 7:30, and bands were arranged before proceeding to the ice. The weather was all that could be hoped for, and the number of first year students present greatly exceeded the expectations of many of the class. Several men from S.P.S., U.C., and from the Aleds., were invited to swell the depleted ranks of the male students, and thus lift that oppressive veil of anxiety from the minds of the fairer sex. Most of the skaters "found themselves on the ice" in time for the second band, and all went merrily.

Professor and Mrs. Langford expressed their interest in the class by very graciously offering to provide refreshments in South Hall at the conclusion of the skating. The students did not feel in any way bound to put on their best behavior on account of the presence of a "Prof", but acted just very natural, and were glad to boast so amiable an honorary president. After partaking of a course of soup and sandwiches, coffee and cake, the party was entertained by two very excellent instrumental selections. The very pleasant evening was brought to an end by the singing of "Victoria," and by the many years and faculties represented giving their yells—even to the "lone" yell of '19, so vigorously given by A. McGowan.

JUNIORS ALSO ACTIVE

On Friday evening, Jan. 18, a war-time skating party was tendered to the women of the senior class at Victoria by the girls of IT9. Programmes were filled out at the Victoria Women's Union, each Senior, upon her arrival, being fairly bombarded with requests for bands and intermissions.

The weather king smiled upon the fun, and provided his most crisp and anipny weather, so that the outdoors part of the evening was much enjoyed by all. Incidentally sharp appetites were acquired for the oyster supper which was served afterward at the Union.

Later, around the Common Room fire, the party rocked with laughter at an original oration by Miss Nellie Evans, '19, on the pathos of modern phonograph love songs. Instrumental music and college songs followed before the company dispersed.

FIRST PERFORMANCE IS SUCCESS.

The first performance of the F.O.E. Dramatic Society was given on Tuesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Halbus, when Section C staged the "Trial Scene" from "The Merchant of Venice." In spite of the short time for practising the work of all was admirable. Mrs. Ballantyne and Mr. Halbus kindly provided music while a large audience was gathering. After the performance, tea was served, the proceeds from this and the play going to the Red Cross.

Wisconsin—A loyalty pledge is being circulated among the students of the University of Wisconsin to furnish an answer to criticism of student sentiment. About 3,000 students, three-fourths of the student body, have signed the pledge.

Special Article written by Miss Burrows, Social Service Department, a member of the Publicity Committee of the Patriotic and Red Cross Campaign.

"The next time I cross the ocean I don't want to go third class." "We have only our bunks to write in."

Are we living third class at home? Our routine of duties and commonplace cares occupy a very important place, and if the milk doesn't arrive and the coal does not warm us, the day's work is disorganized because we prefer to go first class.

We prefer to send "men who are grit to the core." Many of us prefer not to see the toil worn hands of the old woman. The bare cottage in which she lives. Nor to hear her say, "I have to send my son some things," "When he comes home I could not have him say, "Mother was too stingy to send me some money," "Yes, I get along. I don't need much," "With butter and sugar so high, I don't have any." "I have to pay $1.75 a pound for wool, and my son needs socks." "This is a terrible war. I don't understand what it is all about. I did buy some newspapers, but you know they cost two cents, and I didn't get much out of them, so I don't buy them any more."

"No, I haven't heard from my husband for three months. I don't know what to think. He has always written so regularly."

We need more dollars to help to stimulate the courage which has lasted these weary months and years, courage wears out, and must constantly be reinforced and renewed, so, "just for to-day," let us "be jolly good fellows" and scatter our coins to the populace of our soldiers who are winning the struggle for "Purity," "Truth," and "Love."

St. Hilda's

On the evening of Friday, January 19, the freshies entertained the College at a "Hard Times" party. The costumes were all very suitable and many of them quite unlike while the one worn by Miss Z. Harron after great deliberation on the part of the judges, was thought worthy of the prize. The 2T1 orchestra with its made-in-Canada instruments provided several amusing numbers and the remainder of the evening was spent in contests and dancing.

A sock shower for the French soldiers is to be held by the Y.W.C.A. on the afternoon of Wednesday, January 22nd. Tea will be served and it is expected that a pleasant social time will be spent as well as a substantial aid given to the needy soldiers.

TRINITY MEN GOOD SPORTS

What few men there are in College, who are any good at athletics, are doing the best to make the hockey and basketball teams a success, showing that Trinity men are true sports, for, notwithstanding the odds, they always "play the game."

Capt. Secord, '17, Vets., expects to return overs as soon after spending some time in the Officers' Convalescent Home.

DENTS. BEAT MEDS. IN OPENING OF GROUP III

Game is Thrilling and Closely Contested—4-1

Monday afternoon the Varsity rink was the scene of the opening of Group III series. Dents and Meds met in a thrilling and closely contested game, with Dents carrying off the honors. A large crowd of hockey enthusiasts were on hand to cheer their teams along, and they witnessed a brand of hockey that would be a credit in the finals. Although it was expected that there would be a serious handicap in players this year, the games so far have shown that there is just as good material in the faculties as there ever was. Dents put out a team that are determined to cap off the honors this year, and, judging by the brand of hockey they put up, they will certainly take some beating. Dales, at centre, worked hard all the time, and was one of the best men on the ice. Forbes, at right wing, was dangerous all the time, and played fine hockey, while Staples, on goal, proved just as steady as ever.

Meds have a good team, and with a little more team work would have made a far better showing. Atwell and Dafoe played fine hockey, and rushed in grand style. Meds defence were also good. McGillivray showing fine form but fell down badly on his shooting.

Dents opened the game with a rush, and after forcing the play for several minutes Dales notched the first goal. Dents continued to press, and on a nice pass Forbes scored. Meds then started to rush, and kept the Dents defence busy. Atwell secured, and after a spectacular rush through the whole forward line, he eluded the defence and scored Meds' first and only goal. Shortly before the period ended Forbes scored again for Dents, giving them a safe margin.

Meds opened the second period, forcing the play, but couldn't get past Staples. The play remained even for the rest of the period, and ended without a score.

The third period opened in grand style, and both teams certainly put up a fine exhibition of hockey. Dents seemed to have the edge on their opponents in speed and team work, and this counted strongly for them. Dents rushed and Walden made a beautiful stop, but on the rebound Dales batted the rubber in for the last goal, giving them the victory 4-1.

Dents—Staples, Bartholomew, Leisman, Dales, Smith, Forbes.
Meds—Walden, Smiley, Tice, Atwell, Watson, Dafoe.

JUNIOR MEDS. (2) LOSE TO VIC.—SCORE 23-11

Trackman and Buckley Make Good Showing for Meds.

Victoria and Jr. Meds (2) basketball tossers met for the first time in the Sifton Cup Series at the Central "Y" last night. A strenuous game ensued, but Vic with a spurt in the second half, carried off the honors. Final score 23-11.

The game was characterized by undue roughness. A large number of fouls were made but the referee "picked out" only the glaring ones, chiefly, holding by Meds and running by Vic.

The first half was very even. Vic scored the first basket. At the end of the half the score stood 9-8 for Vic.

Vic easily outplayed Meds in the second half. Meds were unable to break up the combination play.

For Meds, Trackman and Buckley were the best, the former scored 6 of the 11 points. Mutart and Frid did most of the scoring for Vic. Gordon and Bull played good combination.

Meds—Middleton, Buckley, Trackman, Weir, Tumes.

Vic—Mutart, Frid, Gordon, Bull, Long.

S.P.S. WENT HARD AT McMASTER IN SERIES II

McMaster Win—Pierce Easily the Star of the Game

S.P.S. and McMaster opened the series of Group II Monday afternoon at the "Varsity" by one of the most closely contested struggles one would wish to see at so early a stage in the hockey season. S.P.S. had a complete new team from last year's champions, with the exception of McDonald, while McMaster surprised everyone by turning out a team that will take some watching in the future. In Pierce at centre they have one of the hardest working players on the ice, and who was easily the star of the game. Time after time he pulled off spectacular rushes, only to lose the puck before the goal. Lack of combination and team work was the greatest failing of both teams, as they relied too much on individual work. However, with a little more practice, they will show just as fine a brand of hockey as anyone would desire in a Jennings cup series. A large crowd was on hand to watch the struggle.

The first period opened with McMaster rushing their opponents, but the defence proved too strong for them, and they couldn't get in. Both teams worked hard, but couldn't gain any advantage, and the period ended without a score.

McMaster opened the second period with another rush, but S.P.S. secured the puck, and after carrying it down the ice, failed badly in front of the goal. S.P.S. continued to press on, and McMaster seemed to be weakening under the strain. But poor shooting resulted in this period ending also without a score.

The third period commenced with S.P.S. pressing hard, but McMaster proved capable of holding their own, and it looked like an overtime struggle, when McMaster secured the rubber and, after a spectacular rush, scored the only goal of the game, just before time was up.

For S.P.S., Chambers and Johnson and McIntyre were best, while Pierce and Hodges starred for McMaster.

S.P.S.—Pratt, Jo'nsen, McIntyre, McDonald, Chambers, Dover.

McMaster—Mathews, Jameson, Malory, Pierre, Hodges and Dingler.

DENTS. AND VETS. STUDENTS

Must Report Every Day in Week Except Saturdays at Armouries

All Dental and Veterinary students have to report every day in the week, except Saturdays and Sundays, at the Armouries at 4 15 o'clock. A week ago the students of the above faculties were conspicuous by the khaki bundles they carried under their arms. One of these, a vet, was waylaid and held forth in accents meek and mild on "drill as she is drilled by the students."

Uniforms were issued from the C.O.T.C. quartermaster's stores and they were told to report down at the Armouries. They were given a lecture on what they must do, for instance according to our friend: "If absent once, the recreation is shipped to the Exhibition." According to Col. W. R. Lang, however, this is a misconception. If a man is unavoidably absent one day he may be excused. On the whole the only disappointing feature to the Vet, was that you had to miss the matinees and attend drill. It is certain this would not be a good enough excuse.

At the present moment, instructors enough cannot be spared to include the Meds in the above category. According to the authorities, it has been decided not to interfere.

THE SUPREMACY IN GROUP III LOOKS BRIGHT FOR VIC.

The supremacy in Group III has practically narrowed down to Vic and U.C. with Vic favorites. Vic have won both games and U.C. won and lost. Although defeated by Victoria a week ago U.C. has aspirations yet for group leaders. The defence has been strengthened and team work improved, U.C. has a game with Meds next Tuesday so turn out fans.

THE DIFFERENCE.

A Freshman doesn't know, and he doesn't know he doesn't know.

A Sophomore doesn't know, but he knows he doesn't know.

A Junior knows, but he doesn't know he knows.

A Senior knows, and he knows he knows.

ANNUAL AT HOME

The annual At Home given by the Omega Tau Sigma fraternity at the Ontario Veterinary College Assembly Hall by far surpassed any affair held there this season. The hall was a mass of artistic decorating, fraternity colors predominating. The Pavlova orchestra, under the direction of Chas. J. Boyle, caused even the cadavers in the dissecting room to sway rhythmically.

There was a slight touch of militarism by the presence of several alumni officers and C.O.T.C. men.

Dainty refreshments were served during intermission.

U.C.-VIC. DEBATE

we should preserve our faith in the honour of the Russian people.

Miss Smith justified the Bolsheviks on the grounds that they were consistent in their pursuit of an ideal, and insisted that the autocratic government of Russia, rendered comparison with Canada, out of the question. She stated that the Bolshevik leaders were not German spies, and justified her statement by the fact that Trotsky spent several months in a German prison for writing certain books, and that he was allowed free passage to Russia, because Germany hoped that there, he would serve her purposes, unconsciously. She maintained that the Bolsheviks were justified in seeking peace, because England, France, America and the German socialists, had failed them in their democratic ideals, and they sought to spread their peace propaganda with their nearest neighbour—Germany.

Miss Tremere emphasized that the Bolsheviks elected themselves and were not justified in proposing terms of peace which were in direct opposition to the principles which they had asserted, before coming into power. Such a breach of public confidence could never be justified. The Bolsheviks having no desire for territorial gain, would not object to annexation, but it would be most unfair for a single political party to subject Russia to such butchery. The Allies claims on Russia are most lenient, practically granting her neutrality, with the privilege of sharing in the fruits of victory. Russia would be cut off from communication with food producing countries, and in her present state of unrest, starvation is imminent.

Miss Smith's reply for the affirmative, was clearly stated, and conclusive. She protested that the Bolsheviks were sincere; they knew their own minds, and now that the revolution is an accomplished fact, they are recognized by Entente powers. If this war is waged for democracy and ideals, and international peace, material gain does not count.

Miss Laird of the Household Science department, Mr. Jones of the Faculty of Education, and Mr. Mackinnon of McMaster, acted as judges, and their decision was presented by Mr. Mackinnon. He stated that the idea of justice had been somewhat uncertain, as to whether it was a legal or an ethical consideration, and also that one question, old as Aristotle, was not made clear by either side—whether a state having changed government, and being ruled over by the protestants of the former government, is justified in disregarding the existing laws.

The honours fell to the affirmative, who were duly congratulated by the negative, who declared their sincere confidence in the ruling of the judges. Miss Simpson received a marked compliment from the judges, for her persuasive, oratorical gift.

An unexpected turn was experienced when the affirmative, after receiving their honours most gracefully, emphatically announced that although they had come out victorious they did not believe a single word they had said and had almost as hard a task to convince themselves as to convince the judges of their point.

Make the Home-Coming a Splendid Surprise

WAR rouses curious emotions. We didn't cheer very much when the first of our boys went away, and on that Saturday when ten thousand of Toronto's Men of the Second Contingent marched through the city, everybody remarked how quiet and subdued we were.

Who knows—perhaps even then we sensed the gravity of the task ahead!

But sometime—grant that it may be soon—all who are left of them: Toronto's Own Sons, Toronto's Own Brothers, Toronto's Own Husbands, and Toronto's Own Fathers, will come HOME.

And on that Glorious Day, we want every man of them to feel that he really has come HOME.

We want him to find wife and children—mothers and sisters—all who have been dependent upon him—as proud, as happy, as contented and as prosperous, yes, even MORE PROSPEROUS than they were on the day he went away.

We, the citizens of Toronto, promised him that it should be so—and we may be proud, immeasurably proud, of the fact that so far we have kept our promise.

The three million dollars that our citizens will subscribe within the next three days is for the redemption of Toronto's promise to the Canadian Red Cross and the Patriotic Fund during the coming year. (One-third of the money donated goes to the Canadian Red Cross).

It may be—we hope it will be—the last time you will have the pleasure of giving to this joint cause. On your gifts as citizens will depend to a large measure the nature of our Soldiers' Homecoming.

Let your response, therefore, be Magnificent.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN PROCEEDS SPLENDIDLY

All Returns Payable by Faculty
Organizers to C. C. Grant,
"Varsity" Office

U.C. SPIRIT OF THE BEST

Faculty Contributions Swelled in Some Instances by Outside Help

Canvassers for the Patriotic Fund and Red Cross are requested to note that all returns should be made to Collier C. Grant at The Varsity office by this afternoon at the latest. Where possible, it is desired that the returns from each faculty should be made complete, through the faculty representative. A list of these representatives will be found on the back page of the previous issue of The Varsity.

University College Men.

The campaign among the men of University College is under the direction of W. R. Salter, who has delegated the responsibility to the executives of the various years. The men of the executives are requested to make their returns to their respective presidents. Complete returns from each year should then be made by the president. The money, together with a statement of the total number of men enrolled in U.C. for the particular year, may be left at The Varsity office addressed to the faculty representative. The purpose of the statement of enrollment is to make possible the publication of comparing per capita returns from each of the four years.

A spirit of keen competition has characterized the Campaign in U.C., and the result is awaited with great interest. It seems certain that the College as a whole has been splendidly successful in improving its past records of contributions.

Our Friends Remember Us.

A practice that is finding ever-increasing favour, is for the friends of the University to make their contributions through the channels of the University organizations. One of those who have so remembered us in the present campaign is Mr. J. A. Paterson, of Kerr, Davidson, Paterson and McFarland, who handed a student canvasser a contribution of $150. It is to be hoped that in any future campaign of this kind, a greater number will see fit, and be requested by the students, to contribute through our own organizations.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Flight Lieut. George L. R. Parrish, while making a flight in England, was fatally injured. No particulars of the nature of the accident have been received. Lieut. Parrish comes from Caledonia, Ont. and was a Varsity student when he enlisted in the Flying Corps.

Howard Grant Thompson, Class 178 of Applied Science, who went overseas as private of the 135th Battalion, has transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service and is P.F.O. at Royal Naval College, Greenwich, England.

W. A. Dancy, Applied Science, '19, of Goderich, Ont. has exchanged the electrical engineering laboratory for a place in H.M.C. Dockyard at Halifax with the Fleet Wireless Officer there.

INVITATION TO RETURNED MEN

The next gathering of University of Toronto men who have returned from active service overseas will be held in the Faculty Union on Friday, Jan. 25th, at 4.30 p.m. All returned men now in attendance at the University are asked to accept this notification. Those who can be present are asked as far as possible to inform Prof. G. O. Smith, Roll of Service office, Main Building (telephone on University switch).

HEAR NOTED SPEAKER AT DINNER TO-NIGHT

Mr. A. B. Farmer will Address
Joint Meeting of Students

Every student who is interested in economic subjects should attend the dinner to be held this evening under the joint auspices of the Political Economy and the Commerce and Finance Club. The executives of these Clubs have for some time past been endeavouring to arrange a good dinner meeting, similar to those so successfully conducted by the Political Economy Club last year, one of which was addressed by Mr. Justice Riddell. In spite of the stress of the present Patriotic Fund Campaign, Mr. Arthur Black Farmer has been secured to speak to-night. Mr. Farmer has a wide reputation for his views on economic topics and for his active propaganda while he was connected with the Single Tax Association. Those who are able to attend to night are assured of a most interesting address.

While the two Clubs that are co-operating in this evening's dinner meeting are composed chiefly of the students in Political Science, Commerce and Finance and Modern History, any one who is interested in present-day problems of a social, economic or political nature, will be welcome to night.

Men of the first and second years especially should not overlook this opportunity of becoming better acquainted with each other, with the men of the other year and with some aspects of their courses that are of immediate importance.

Come this evening to the Westminster Hotel, on Jarvis Street, just below Carlton, at 7.30 p.m. for a good dinner, a good address, and a general good time.

HART HOUSE A BENEFICIAL INSTITUTION

A Great Work Being Performed for Wounded Heroes

Few people are aware of the fact that there are two gymnasiums at Hart House. The gymnasium proper, on the main floor, is being used for drilling purposes by the O.T.C. and the C.O.T.C. What was intended to be the billiard room, has been improvised into a gymnasium for the Hospital Commission men. The latter is by far the more important of the two, although it cannot be compared with the other in architectural beauty and structure, in that it has been the means whereby many a returned man has been able to recover in whole or part his lost faculty.

This improvised gymnasium has been installed with various apparatus, each one of which having its own special function to perform. Besides the ordinary apparatus that can be found in a modern gymnasium, such as horizontal bars, punching bags, horses, and parallel bars, there is the plinth, a narrow table with foot rests and a belt to hold the patient in position. This apparatus is for the treatment of scoliosis (curvature of the spine) and abdominal weaknesses. A set of springs is used for the treatment of spastic or stiff condition of the muscles in the legs. The Badminton apparatus is an invention by means of which a cue or tennis racket can be attached for the playing of billiards and tennis. Then there are Whiteley exercisers, duplex and triplex machines, for arm, shoulder, and abdominal work.

Seven returned men are in charge of this splendid work. They are fully qualified to undertake gymnasium work, seeing that they have had a special training along those lines before coming to Canada; and that they have taken a course of re-education at Hart House. The returned men are: Capt. Smith (officer in charge), R. S. M. Blake; C. S. M. Andrews and Sergts. Hamilton, Holmes, Silvester, Giles, Ansell.

Examples of the good work done there are those of Cpl. Broom and Spr. Simpson. Cpl. Broom has been treated for spinal meningitis, having no movement in arms and legs. After eight months' treatment, he was able to walk home, instead of being taken in an auto. Spr. Simpson suffered from locomotor ataxia, being unable to stand on his feet with his eyes closed. After proper treatment, he was able to balance himself on a bar fully twenty minutes with his eyes blindfolded.

NOTED TORONTO ARTISTS SCORE BIG SUCCESS AT CONVOCATION HALL

Hambourg Trio, Harold Jarvis and Marguerite Fleury are Heard to Good Advantage

The Y.W.C.A. of University College established a very happy precedent in the concert which was held under their auspices in Convocation Hall last Wednesday evening. One feels that perhaps good music plays a most insignificant part in the life of the University. It would surely be worth while to bring more of it into the College atmosphere. At any rate we are convinced that a concert such as was given Wednesday evening might well be made an annual affair.

It is always a pleasure to hear the three artists that make up the Hambourg trio, Boris Hambourg, Georges Vigneti and Austin Conradi. Their rendering of the Beethoven Trio in B flat and St. Saens Trio in F major showed great beauty of tone, and the finish which denotes the real musician and distinguishes him to coin an expression from the musicianly mob.

Vigneti, the violinist of the trio, gave a series of four short pieces, of which the most appealing was a Lullaby of Aulins. In a Gypsy Dance by Lachez, his technique showed to great advantage, also his temperament, which was able to put a decidedly gypsy atmosphere into the music.

Conradi, the very youthful pianist played four Chopin numbers with fine effect. His rendering of the D flat Prelude gave expression to a beauty which is quite beyond words and convinces one that harmony lies at the heart of things and that it will be the final result of present seeming discords.

In two numbers Boris Hambourg excelled himself, particularly in Arensky's "Humoresque," with its quick movements rather difficult to make effective on the 'cello.

The most effective number of Miss Fleury's was "The Prelude" by Landor Ronald. In appreciation, the College girls presented her with a bouquet of deep pink roses. Miss Helen Bryans making the presentation.

Harold Jarvis brought a decidedly martial note into the programme by singing with fine feeling, "Up from Somerset."

A word of acknowledgement must be given too, to the exceptionally good work of Mrs. Blight and Mr. Colin McPhee in their accompanying of some very difficult numbers.

In conclusion, one cannot but feel grateful for a thoroughly enjoyable evening and, to reiterate, one would be very glad if a musical evening of the highest merit could be arranged annually.

O. S. I. C.

Twelve members of the Company have been withdrawn from that unit to act as conducting officers to men going overseas. After they get to England they will be attached, if possible, to the C.E.F., but join the Imperial forces, which would be the usual procedure of men in this training corps.

A number of veterans from overseas have been attached for training in order that they may take out commissions here to train recruits under the M.S.A.

A draft of the O.T.C. has been warned for overseas and will probably leave some time next month.

The following acting sergeants of the O.T.C. have been attached to the 2nd Battalion, 1st C.O.R.: A. M. Anderson, R. Y. Elliott, E. Harvey, T. Hewat, H. W. Jamieson, M. O. Brown, M. A. Nisbet, W. B. Parker, J. A. Richardson, I. T. Strachan, J. E. Belfrey, C. B. Draper, D. A. Gosling, R. Harvey, A. H. Jacobs, W. H. Noble, A. H. Ormsby, K. A. Rich, J. H. Smyth and C. B. Wood.

178 EXECUTIVE—U.C.

U.C. Fourth Year Executive will meet in Room 26, Medical Building, Friday, January 25th, at 3 p.m. sharp. Arrangements for the final class meeting and graduation dinner will be made.

PAULIST CHOIR HELD SUCCESSFUL ENGAGEMENT IN OTTAWA

Presented in Capital City in Interests of Newman Club of U. of T.

Rev. F. Burke of Newman Club, returned to Toronto from Ottawa yesterday. He had been visiting the capital city in the interests of Newman Club, which was presenting the Paulist Chorists there.

Although the original intention was to hold only one concert, it was decided that owing to the great demand for seats, a matinee should be held on Monday.

Monday night's performance was very successful, and the attendance was the largest in the history of the Russell Theater. Amongst those present were the Duchess of Devonshire and suite, Archbishop Gauthier, Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier; the United States Ambassador, Sir Cecil and Lady Spring-Rice, and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick.

The little chorists, who made so successful a hit in Toronto at Massey Hall, literally won the hearts of the people of Ottawa. Never in the history of the city have people left the theater feeling in better spirits than after the performance of the Paulist Choir.

Owing to the fact that all theatres in the United States were closed on Tuesday, the choir's engagement at Ogdensburg was cancelled. As many people were unable to procure seats on Monday, Father Finn decided to hold a third performance on Tuesday night. This finished the Canadian tour of the choir, which will travel all over the United States for six months in aid of the ruined cities of Belgium and France.

The concerts in Toronto were in aid of the Navy League, and over one thousand dollars will be handed to that body. Newman Club has done well and much credit is due Rev. Father Burke for the success of the performance.

VARSAITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Among the University men mentioned in the last despatches was 2nd Lieut. Hugh A. Porteous, a graduate of Forestry with class '16. Lieut. Porteous, whose home is in Edmonton, went overseas in the first draft of candidates for Imperial Commissions from the O.T.C., and on completing his course was attached to a Devonshire regiment.

Word has been received at the University that Capt. William E. Sinclair, M.B. '14, has been awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in action during the fighting at Passchendaele. Capt. Sinclair, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sinclair, of Meaford, Ont., enlisted with the C.A.M.C., and is in charge of No. 5 Field Ambulance, France. Two of his brothers, also serving, are Major Charles E. Sinclair, M.C., who graduated in Applied Science, 1914, and Lieut. K. Y. Sinclair, who was a medical student with Class '19, and went overseas with an infantry unit.

Capt. Cauford Martin, who was mentioned recently by Sir Douglas Haig, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order. Enlisting with the C.F.A., he went overseas with the rank of lieutenant in the 15th Battalion, but was promoted staff captain at G.H.Q. in June, 1916. Capt. Martin, whose home is at 254 Aberdeen ave., Hamilton, entered Trinity as an Arts student with class '17. He is still attached to the H.Q. Staff.

NO SCARCITY OF COAL

The University has a large quantity of coal on hand, contrary to the state of affairs last winter. Their present supply will last until the fore part of April, and by that time the demand will be less, due to warmer weather. Consequently there will be no possibility of the University being closed for a week or two. Without doubt most students prefer the continuous session to the interrupted one we experienced last year.

DR. W. T. GRENFELL AT CONVOCATION ON SUNDAY

Dr. Grenfell, of Labrador Fame,
Has Had a Wide and Brilliant Career Among Northern Peoples

Dr. W. T. Grenfell, Master Mariner, C.M.G., M.D., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., the founder and superintendent of the Labrador Medical Mission of Royal National Missions to Deep Sea Fishermen, Medical Adviser of the Hudson Bay Company, Educated at Oxford University and London Hospital; formerly House Surgeon to Sir Frederick Treves, fitted out the first hospital ship for the North Sea fisheries; has built three hospitals in Labrador; built an orphanage and school at St. Anthony's, brought reindeer into Labrador, 1908, author of numerous books: "Labrador and its People," "Vikings of To-day," "Down North on the Labrador," "Adrift on a Pan of Ice," "A Man's Faith," "What Life Means to Me." Appointed by Harvard to the Noble Lectureship in succession to Col. Roosevelt; gave a course of five lectures in Princeton on Missions.

This in brief, gives a few details concerning Dr. Grenfell, who will preach in Convocation Hall, Sunday morning, January 27 at 11 a.m. This is an exceptional opportunity of hearing Dr. Grenfell as he has not been here for many years and may not be here again for some time.

HURRY! BE ONE TO SEE THE "RIVALS"

Sheridan's Production is Being Played by a Capable Caste

"I suppose the poor creatures never acted with such shouts of applause in their life. I never saw or heard anything like it: before the acts spoke they began their clapping."

Such was a remark made in 1773 when "The Rivals" was first performed at Bath, after its initial success in London. Think of it!—one hundred and forty-three years ago this play scored its first triumph, and it is still a prime favorite with English audiences to-day. A pathetic incident is connected with its early production. Sheridan's father and sisters, who were estranged from him by a family quarrel, could not resist the temptation to witness his splendor, and from behind the stage the author gazed on their faces and bemoaned his lot in not being able to share his glory with them.

In the present dramatization the epithet "poor creatures" can scarcely be applied to the actors, although the "shouts of applause" are assured them. By the way, did you know that they are breaking a time-honored precedent of the Dramatic Club—to "never use a big, big 'D'!" Don't be shocked, for the breach of decorum is very slight, and is only a matter of "hardly ever," just enough to embellish the play and preserve it in all its spiciness. So, be prepared! otherwise this daring innovation might escape your notice and you would miss all the thrills of being shocked.

Have you secured your tickets yet, or are you one of the unfortunates who discovered too late that there were no reserved seats left for Friday night? Try your luck for Saturday evening or the special matinee.

AT CONVOCATION HALL MONDAY EVENING.

Dr. Grenfell speaks in Convocation Hall on Monday night, January 28, at eight p.m. Every student should be there. "Personal Experiences in Labrador," and an address, supplemented by stereopticon views.

FIRST MEETING OF YEAR FOR MEDICAL SOCIETY

The President Speaks of Daffodil
Night Doings and of the Medical At-Home

DR. McCULLOUGH SPEAKS

Provincial Health Chief Addresses the Gathering Upon "How Diseases Are Spread"

The first meeting of the Medical Society for the new year was held Thursday afternoon with the President, Mr. H. Agnew, in the chair.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Agnew urged the fellows to get behind Daffodil Night, "with both feet" and help maintain the old-time institution of Medicine. The men who are handling the "stunt night" are working very hard and he hoped the night would not fall down.

The chairman also drew the attention to the Medical At-Home which promises to be better than ever. He urged that everyone get a girl and come on over to Columbus Hall this Friday evening.

Mrs. Duff accompanied by Miss McCamus then favoured the meeting with a very delightful solo. The audience, to say the least was very appreciative. Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Health Chief, then addressed the meeting. His subject was "How Diseases are Spread."

There are a great group of diseases spread from person to person some from known causes and others from unknown causes. Diphtheria, pneumonia and tuberculosis are from known causes; while scarlet fever, measles and small-pox are from unknown causes, and so there is a great field for research.

The known causes are from contact: foul, water and insects, or briefer still, from "food, fingers and flies."

Scarlet fever in mild cases may spread to more susceptible persons and produce a severe type. Close association with small pox will spread to individuals not vaccinated.

But against all this the germs of disease do not live long outside the human body, and old theories of books, the carrying diseases have been fairly well discarded.

Typhoid outbreaks by water are characterized by many outbreaks. Ice cream is a good carrier of typhoid germs, which is generally traced back to a human carrier of the disease.

With the swarms of flies that came in Salonica, there also came dysentery and on the disappearance of the flies, also the disappearance of dysentery.

Tetanus and Anthrax are both ground germs and capable of long life there. Wounded soldiers, unless previously inoculated against tetanus, are very subject to tetanus owing to its prevalence in France.

The action of the house fly in carrying disease is purely mechanical, as they do not bit, but carry the disease on their feet, wings and proboscis. But the horse-fly is a biter and may carry anthrax.

The doctor then spoke on the prevention. Isolation is the method used for prevention until all danger is passed. Prophylactic measures are also used such as diphtheria antitoxin. Great work has been done in the last twenty years reducing the death rate from 40 to 6.2 per cent.

The subject of carriers was then dealt upon. In the recent Walkerville diphtheria outbreak, the inspector found only about fourteen cases of diphtheria. But in examination of the school children, 150 to 200 carriers of the disease. These carriers have the disease only in a mild form, but may communicate it to others. And so they are just as dangerous as though really infected. The doctor then closed his address with a few remarks on fumigation and disinfecting.

A hearty vote of thanks to Dr. McCullough for his splendid address moved by Mr. Dollar and was very heartily seconded. The meeting then closed with the National Anthem.

THE LARGE UNIVERSITY

One of the University's "institutions" which is the object of much good-natured criticism is the Arts Calendar. Our acquaintance with this worthy publication has been only of four or five years duration, and in that time, the form of the book has not materially changed. And we hazard the prophecy that changes will not occur to any great extent in the future, unless the criticism itself becomes different, and begins to advance some constructive ideas. All this, however, is aside.

We are ready to admit that one does not look to the Calendar for light reading. But one of the natural reactions of criticism is that it leads people to make a closer investigation of the nature of the object in question and here comes the point.

No one can turn over the pages of the Arts Calendar, see the outline of studies given by the various departments, and observe how these different kinds of studies have been grouped into courses, without seeing at once the comprehensiveness of the Arts Course as provided in this University; and without being forcibly made aware of the fact that there are other people studying things other than those which occupy his attention. This is not a new thought. It comes whenever you engage a student of another course in conversation or when you glance around the lecture-room when a lecture for the whole Year is being given. This realisation of the presence of others doing things other than those which interest you is a great educative force in itself and is one of the advantages which enrolment in a large University gives.

This idea is of course broadened when other Faculties are considered. For any student to stand at the door of the Main Building and look at the front campus, and see on one side the buildings in which part of the work in Medicine is conducted; to the south the buildings which holds the Faculty of Applied Science; and on the other side one of the Theological colleges, has the effect only on a larger scale, of creating in him the same feeling which arises in an Arts student when he reads the Arts Calendar.

As has been said before this is a strong educative force in itself—a force which is not felt by those who attend small institutions, but which is self-evident in a University of the size of Toronto University.

CRITICISM A LOST ART

The art of criticism is degenerating. No longer does the critic express his honest opinions of art and literature and have them accepted by the masses without question. At best, he can only condemn a work by scant praise, and criticism has indeed fallen low, when it must resort to such measure to put over an idea that a work, in terms of one syllable, is rotten.

"The reason for this is more apparent in late years since criticism has come to the steep of the toboggan. People are capable of judging for themselves. They read and see that which was uncommon a few years ago. They are not wholly capable of judging for themselves, but they consider the attempts of others to judge for them an infringement on their rights, and an insult to their intellect. A pretty broad statement, you say, but it is not apparent that books of criticism, except when foisted on helpless school children, have been gradually relegated to the high shelves in the dark corner? And just how popular are the sections of our great periodicals, devoted to criticism? Do you know that such sections have long since fallen into disrepute, and are now, in the majority of cases, nothing more than press agent corners, donated to stimulate advertising, or sold outright as such.

"Criticism is a lost art. The critic who delves into the depths of an author's being and stumbles on some hitherto unexplored nook, from which he drags, exhumes and airs another evidence of the man's literary genius, is not altogether a thing of the past, but he may safely be classed among the antiquaries. The critic has had his day. The people will not stand for him. If he praises a book, he is trying to stimulate its sale; if he condemns it, he is in league with the publishers, and trying to talk it into a third and final edition. And if by any chance he is not a liar and a thief, his life will be too short to convince anyone of his sincerity."—University of Washington Daily.

COLLEGE WOMEN AND MEN

No. 9—

"A CHALLENGE TO WOMEN"

Miss Sarah E. Snell, New York.

The spring of 1918 will see the fourth class to graduate from the University of Toronto into problems such as classes prior to 1915 never had to face. If we turn to the brighter aspects we note men who have found themselves by losing themselves in service for a great cause; those who have found God, who never thought of Him before; those who have found the essential brotherhood of mankind by mingling with other races and social classes on equal terms. Our men who have gone have shown an unconscious heroism and self-sacrifice, of which we hardly dreamed human beings capable before the war.

And what are we women doing? We are giving our men gladly, and some of us are going into new forms of service, but have we begun to touch the labors and sacrifices of the women of Europe of have we gained the vital thing of fundamentally changed lives? Without the experience of these women or our enlisted men, we can make ourselves what they have become if only we have enough will-power, vision, and faith in God. We can be absolutely democratic, treating all races and classes of people alike. Are we doing this day in our countless social contacts? We can strive by habits of thought, action, and prayer to find God for ourselves in a vital, personal religion big enough for the sorrows and difficulties of the present situation.

But it is principally of the finding of ourselves, I might say of our individual place in life, of which I wish to speak. There is a terrible danger that we key ourselves to special effort now and after the war just—slump. How easy to go back to the old standards with which so many men and women have left college in the past, asking, "How can I most pleasantly and profitably spend my life?"

That is the spirit in which many men and women seek positions. It is the same spirit which induces girls to live at home in an over-abundance of social life and no definite work; or married women, who do have leisure, to extend no influence outside their families.

Now turn from ourselves. There is constant need and poverty in many places. Are enough girls considering the opportunities for definite service here? It is all a part of winning the war. The destitution and suffering of the women and children of Europe, together with almost unlimited reconstruction work, forms one real challenge to college-bred women to-day.

It is more difficult, perhaps, to see the challenge in work for women so desperately needed in continents other than Europe and North America; but if the war is teaching us any lesson it is that of the necessity of real world brotherhood. If we allow the already organized constructive work of all kinds, educational, medical, social, and religious, to decline through lack of workers, we are failing utterly to learn the biggest lesson of the war, and to promote the greatest force working for world peace in the future. Women are needed for countless positions in all countries—women of the highest qualifications and preparation.

In the face of this overwhelming need and suffering and our new ideals of service, can we not determine these things—that, cost what it may, we will spend our lives in service for the world to the utmost and that we will be unafraid to venture big things and have a real world vision in deciding where and how we shall work. To state it briefly, let us make our compelling motive the bringing about of the kingdom of God on the earth.

MR. R. TATTERSALL
GIVES ORGAN RECITAL

Seventh Recital Elicits Hearty Applause from Music Lovers

The seventh of the series of organ recitals was held on Tuesday afternoon at Convocation Hall, by Mr. Richard Tattersall, organist of Old St. Andrew's Church.

The first number on the programme was a "Dithyramb," a wild, unrestrained composition by Basil Harwood, organist of Ely Cathedral and Christ Church, Oxford.

This was followed by a charming little movement, a "Scherzo in B flat minor," by Horatio William Parker, which displayed in its playful staccato melody the lighter notes of the organ.

The third number on the programme was "Fantasia and Fugue in G minor," by John Sebastian Bach, a brilliant and majestic movement, which with its rich harmonies and reverberating chords at once fixed the attention of the listener.

A graceful and weird example of the modern French school of music was given in "Meditation in A," by P. S. Hillemaier, a composition containing a charming melody and harmonies of singular freshness and beauty.

This was followed by one of the four noted Symphonies, "Intermezzo (Symphonie III)," of Louis Vierne, the distinguished organist of Notre Dame, Paris. A caprice of uncanny character, bizarre and difficult, and introducing many weird harmonies, this selection was extraordinarily delightful and met with a most appreciative audience.

The last number on the programme was an organ symphony of wonderful variety in tone color and themes entitled "Allegro Vivace (Symphonie VI)," by Cha les Marie Widor. This movement, skilfully handled by the artist, brought out wonderfully the full power of the organ, particularly in the last movement, and elicited a most hearty applause.

"It's an extended corridor that has no ultimate termination," mused the absent-minded professor, as he patiently plodded around the revolving doorway.

A reporter who kept dynamite Touched a match to a fuse one sad night. As he sailed through the air Angels heard him declare: "What a story I'll write when I live."

To-Day's Poem

THE TOLL.

A world of stars and a heaving sea;
Moonlight flung o'er Nature sinking to her rest.

On the lonely shore a maiden stood
Bathed in the moon's pale shimmering light.

"Father," she breathed in anxious prayer,
"Be near to him, close to him, through the night."

Night of stars and a war scarred plain
As earth herself were suffering with her battered slain.

Nature alone sought rest from turmoil's strife.
The moon's clear beaming lit a still white cross;

Placed there,—whence but an hour before
The last love token from that teeming life
Had gone to her—ere fading of that dream forevermore.—Queen's.

CRESCENTS BEATEN BY CHAMPION DENTS 8-6Half-Moons Battle in Vain Against Khaki-Clad Students

Last night when Dental College beat Crescents 8-6, the immense crowd which filled the Arena received their money's worth of hockey. The game was fast from the beginning to the final gong and brilliant sensational rushes featured the play.

First Period.

Crescents started with a zip and carried the game into Dental territory (Dent Smith on a lone rush scored for Crescents three minutes after play started. A moment later on a pass from Smith, McCaffery 'sipped' the puck by Stewart for the second Crescent score. Sheldon scored on a pass from Box.

Crescents showed some fine combination while Dents show individually. Sheldon scored after a five man rush by Dents. Shortly after in a scrimmage around the net, Box showed the puck in for Dents' second. The period ended 3-2 for Dents.

Second Period.

H. Smith replaced Hodgins for Crescents. After a minute of play, Milan scored with a fine shot from the side. Crescents came back with combination play and Smith tallied on a pass from McCaffery. Five minutes later Box showed across another goal after a spectacular rush. The period closed Dents ahead 5-3.

Third Period.

Crescents press the play while Stewart gives a great exhibition of goal tending. After five minutes play, Farlow secured the puck before Dents' goal and scored. Play was furious for a few moments and Merrick repeated with another for Crescents. A rush by Smith and McCaffery resulted in another tally for the red shirts. Dents came right back and Sheldon, after a pretty rush beat Collett and tied the score. Box duplicated Sheldon's rush and placed Dents in the lead. Box rushed for another goal five minutes before play ended, leaving Dents ahead 8-6.

178 SKATING PARTY

On Tuesday evening the Fourth Year held a very successful skating party at Varsity Rink. The large attendance testified to the popularity of this form of amusement. The ice was good, and the weather ideal. Everything joined to make this a night to be remembered.

After skating, the scene shifted to the Women's Union, whose hospitable doors seem ever open. A warm grate fire, hot coffee, and other cats were heartily appreciated. Music coaxed a first dancing couple to the floor and soon "on with the dance" was the general feeling.

The activities of 178 will soon pass into history. A graduation dinner is being talked of, but no final arrangements have been made as yet. President Gregory has his car "to the ground," however, and if support of the proposal is general, another will be added to the many social successes of the Fourth Year.

$1,000,000 FOR QUEEN'S

It is officially stated that Dr. James Douglas, the Chancellor of the University, has renewed his offer of a $500,000 contribution, conditional on the supporters of the University raising another $500,000. The most encouraging feature of the proposition is, that the $500,000 is not to be given as one lump sum, but as separate donations of $100,000 to "match" each $100,000 which the Committee raise, up to $500,000.

The sum will be used as an endowment fund for general improvements, erection of new buildings, etc.

The Railbird

Jr. Dents have been forced to withdraw from the Sifton Cup Series owing to the drafting of some of their players by Senior Dents. This will necessitate a new schedule for Group I.

The scarcity of hockey material at Trinity has caused the College to withdraw from the Jennings' Cup Series. Forestry, however, wished to enter a team and has taken Trinity's place in the schedule.

St. Michael's Junior O.H.A. team feels the loss of MacIntosh their steady centre player very much. He was forced to leave the junior ranks on account of the age limit.

Forestry made their initial appearance in this year's hockey series on Wednesday afternoon. They lacked condition and practice, but put up a plucky, though losing fight. School, with better condition and more experience won by 12-0.

Here's hoping that the men turn out to witness the ladies' hockey matches better than the fair sex have so far attended the men's.

Now that St. Mike's O.H.A. victory over U.T.S. has been thrown out, these two strong teams are tied in the College group.

FRIENDLY GAME WON

BY WYCLIFFE BATTLERS

Normal School Fell Down on Their Own Rink

Wednesday afternoon Wycliffe College played the Normal School at the latter ice. Although only a friendly game, it was closely and keenly contested all the way. Both teams started off fast. Several times both goals were threatened and at last from a face-off, Cotton broke away and rushed three quarters of the length of the rink, drew out Campbell and scored. This seemed to put new life into the Normalites and they soon had the ministers on the defensive. Finally their efforts were rewarded and Sehl on a long shot fooled Pogson. Before the half ended, MacNamara put Wycliffe ahead again on a pass from Marsh.

The second half was very even, with both teams playing hard. Ten minutes after the start, Irwin again evened up the score. For some time it looked as if the game would end a tie, but with one minute to play, Swan, secured from a face-off in front of the Normal net and making his way around the mix-up won the game for Wycliffe. Score 3-2.

Normal—Campbell, King, Stokes, Irwin, Nodwell, Sehl, Hunter.
Wycliffe—Pogson, Swan, MacLennan, Marsh, MacNamara, Cotton, Kennedy.

SCIENCE 271 HOLD

ANNUAL SKATING PARTY

The first year of the School of Practical Science held their first annual skating party last evening at Little Vic. The affair was a great success despite the little snow which fell. Skating was indulged in until about 9.30 p.m. and any of the gentlemen present can vouch that this part of the evening's programme was enjoyed.

Afterwards, the party adjourned to Clover Hill Hall on St. Joseph Street, and there refreshments, of the pink variety, were served. Dancing and card games finished up a very enjoyable evening, and all went home at a good early hour, feeling very happy.

EMBRYO REPORTER

RHAPSODIZE ON THE FIRST ASSIGNMENTSyncopated Ramblings in Hart House of Latest Addition to
"Varsity" Staff

"Get a line on the gymnasium at Hart House," was the sentence the news editor pronounced. This was to be my first assignment. Accordingly, highly elated with the prestige (pronounced prestéje, reminding one of a certain suspender advertisement) of being on THE VARSITY staff, with a dignity of bearing befitting my new responsibility, I set off in quest of news for the uplift of humanity in general, and the student body in particular.

What first struck my critical eye on nearing the potentially venerable building was that the ice on the steps leading to the main entrance (for I would not have thought of entering by the side entrance as I did the other day in the capacity of private in the C.O.T.C.) seemed to have been there from time immemorial, an observation which led me to 'stop and consider' before venturing to place my hoofs onto the next step.

Once in the building, I wended my way with sure and steady step through a maze of tile, sand, and bits of Gothic (?) architecture. And so it came to pass that in my sojourn through the labyrinth, my nose leading, my eyes reporter-like, ever on the alert for new and strange things, a husky Ionian column suddenly took root directly in front of me, and with arms outstretched kissed me full in the solar plexus. And I stood there as though dazed, gazing in silent wonder at my discovery of several new planets in the firmament. However, I soon came back to this material world of ours, and started once again upon my earthly mission, none the worse for the incident, but for a steadily rising lump on my noble brow. A three minute walk through the halls resulted in the embryo of a brilliant thought taking root in my fertile brain, which was nothing other than asking to be directed to the office of Capt. —, a gentleman whom I was expected to interview on the gymnasium at Hart House.

With that in view, I condescended to ask a layman the lay of the land, which action I hope will not reflect on my inability to find what I was seeking, but which I took purely out of a feeling of self-contentedness, a feeling of goodwill to mankind in general, and while in such a mood I could afford to be on equal terms even with the undertaker's daughter. (It may be noted in passing, that a lunch which would undoubtedly not have met with Mr. Hanna's approval, played no small part in producing this mood.)

To be brief, I managed to interview the gentleman I desired, after waiting the short period of two hours. This gentleman courteously referred me to another, who in turn, referred me to still another who in his turn . . . To time of writing, I have not the desired information, but am still being referred . . .

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE

MISSION SOCIETY

At the monthly meeting of the Wycliffe College Mission Society, Tuesday, 22nd January, Archdeacon Whittaker addressed the students on "How to make the best of things in the mission field." He based his remarks on what he and his fellow workers had actually experienced among the Esquimaux in the far north, backed up with copious illustrations. The acceptance of Jesus Christ had a wonderful effect on the lives of the people in transforming their characters. The natives have peculiar ideas as to the future life, but when they become converted they think and prize very highly the two Christian doctrines of the Fatherhood of God and the Second Coming of Christ. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speaker himself, a Wycliffe graduate, for his interesting instructive and inspiring address.

CHEMICAL CLUB HOLD BANQUET

INTERESTING ADDRESSES Will Visit the Sunlight Soap Works

Ye House of Plenty was the scene of a very successful meeting of the Industrial Chemical Club on Wednesday evening last.

After the dinner, the meeting opened with a very instructive and practical talk on "The Manufacture of Soap and Glycerine," by Mr. H. K. Clarke, works chemist of the Comfort Soap Company. Mr. Clarke outlined the process of manufacture from the receipt of the finished materials to the shipping of the finished products, illustrating his remarks by samples taken during the actual operations.

Mr. A. Hamblton, second year Science, then described the rubber industry, pointing out the opportunities for chemists to place it on a more scientific basis, and briefly touching on the history of rubber. Some remarkable samples made clear Mr. Hamblton's address.

Professor Bain of Applied Science was the last to speak, taking for his subject, "The Commercial Manufacture of Potassium Nitrate." Close association with the process for a number of years, enabled him to point out many engineering and chemical problems which have been overcome by careful study and research.

In the latter part of his address, Prof. Bain laid great stress on the advantages of liberal education for chemical engineers and chemists. He pointed out that it was the policy of the faculty to arrange as profitable a course as possible. "Originality," he said, "was a very great asset, and it was being fostered by individual research in the senior year."

One thing more to which Professor Bain drew attention was the value of good character, the most desirable and important asset of a chemical man. False reports of analysis are appreciated by no business man or employer.

"I would rather have a stupid honest man than a clever knave," said the speaker concluding.

The President, Mr. Clarry, then extended the thanks of the assembly to the speakers. Through the kindly interest of Mr. John M. Miller of Lever Brothers, Ltd., permission has been obtained to visit the Sunlight Soap Works on Monday next.

The third meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 15th at 6.15 p.m. The programme will be announced later.

Medicine

The committee in charge of Daffydil Night met last Wednesday evening and the heads of various departments report that all arrangements are going forward in a most favourable manner. According to the editor, "Epistaxis" will be "something entirely new"; more information is not forthcoming.

The managers of the various year stunts are rapidly developing the latent talent, and "originality" will be the keynote of the entire evening's entertainment. With the co-operation of the men of all years Daffydil Night will be bigger and better than ever before.

The At-Home Committee is "all set" for to-night. Tickets are still on sale, so "come on with the gang" and show "Varsity that Medicine is still 'going strong'."

Get your tickets from your year representative to-day and you are promised a night you will never forget.

GO TO INDIA

Two More Toronto Grads. Get Appointments in Women's College There

Two more graduates of the University of Toronto have just been added to what is one of the most famous women's colleges in India. A college founded by women for women students who are taught by a staff composed entirely of women is an adequate description of the Women's Christian Medical College, Ludhiana, India. The University of Toronto has already been well represented on the staff, but this week the staff was augmented by two more graduates. The additions are Dr. Susan Fotheringham, M.B., '11, and Dr. Annabel McKeown, M.B., '13. Dr. Fotheringham is to have charge of the obstetrics, and Dr. McKeown of the work in paediatrics and ophthalmology.

TRIP TO HAMILTON

The excursion of third and fourth year S.P.S. men to Hamilton, for the purpose of visiting metallurgical plants in that city, will be held on Saturday, January 20th. Mr. Marshall, who is conducting the party, announced that the train would leave Union Station at 7.50 a.m. Net result—one unanimous groan! He also enlarged upon the divers ills liable to result from not "keeping your eyes open." According to his accounts of cranes and trams which run or fly at absolute freedom, while the operators calmly smoke and admire the scenery in an "opposite direction," we conclude that a visit to the front line trenches would be a "safety first" trip in comparison. However, we plead with you not to be alarmed, for School men have a habit of always coming out on top, and it is expected that Saturday's excursion will be a huge success. Be on hand early, for C.P.R. trains are like professors—they never wait for lagards.

Victoria

The skating party of the class of 270 was held last Tuesday evening and proved a great success. The skaters assembled in Alumnac Hall at 7.30 and bands were arranged before they proceeded to the rink. However, those who engaged the first two bands were doomed to disappointment, as the band, evidently excited at the thought of playing for fifteen bands, finished the first two before the skaters appeared. After the skating was over the party went to the Union, the house of comfort, where everyone is made to feel at home. Refreshments were served and those present were entertained with music by Messrs. Horwood and Roseborough and delightful solos by Miss Edgington and Pte Gray of the O.T.C. Many songs were sung, in which the "Boys from Burwash" were especially prominent. The meeting broke up after the singing of "Victoria," accompanied by the college yells.

LOEW'S THEATRE

"The Manx-Man," a big, gripping, scenic picture, filled with the stern, grim characters with which Hall Caine peopled his greatest novel, will be the feature film photo-drama the coming week at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden. From the point of photography and setting, it is as near perfect as the most enthusiastic movie fan could wish. It offers a strong human story of love, told by three principal characters and a host of extra players, a plot that holds tense interest throughout. It is utterly free of any suggestive or sensational scenes. Featured in the production is Elizabeth Risdon, a distinguished actress of the silent drama, and Captain Fred Groves, the latter at present being attached to a British regiment in Flanders.

Surrounding this elaborate picture, one scene which contains eleven thousand people and a British regiment, the survivors of the battle of the Marne, will be "The New Producer," an operatic act with twelve people and six other big vaudeville attractions including a new series of Loew's comedy films and the Pathe News service showing interesting events in different parts of the world.

GOES QUICKLY.

She—"Twenty dollars a month won't go very far."
He—"But, my dear young lady, you've no idea how quickly time passes when you're in love. A month's gone in no time."

"Jim, you know them boys down in the fire house are awfully scared of their own work."
"How's that, Mike?"
"Well, I ask 'em the other day what the brass pole between the floors was for, and they says, 'So that they can get out quick in case of a fire.'"

Mort Morency—Bah Jove, here's a place in the Bible where it says there are no women in heaven.
Clarissa (indignantly)—I don't believe it. What does it say?
Mort Morency (reading Revelation 8)—"And when he opened the seventh seal there followed a silence in heaven about the space of half an hour."

Dr. Margaret Wallace, the vice-principal, graduated from Trinity in 1898; and Dr. Hilda Smith, who is an M.B. of '15, is pathologist and bacteriologist of the college and hospital. There are also two women doctors from the United States and four from England on the staff.

Wycliffe

The Regular meeting of the Wycliffe College Literary Society was held on Friday evening last. The early part was devoted to the usual business. One of the pleasing features, was the noticeable interest which had been aroused in the Freshman, several of whom, for the first time, eloquently addressed the assembly. It is hoped that this interest, once created, will not be allowed to diminish.

The main feature of the order of procedure was the program which took the form of a Mock Trial. The court opened at 8 o'clock with Judge Runhauser presiding. A short delay was caused by the court clerk having sunk into a somnambulist condition. Crown Attorney Sir E. Wrighton Wrong, then addressed the court and presented the first case—petty larceny. The charge was as follows—"Percival Vernon Smith, vagabond, was accused of surreptitiously snatching from the counters of the department store of John Eaton, three candles, one edition of Phelps' 'Theory of Preaching,' and one B.A. Hood. The first two articles were exhibited in court, the other could not be found. Mr. P. Boots, floor-walker, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Oleogallagher was witness for the prisoner. After the cross-examination had been concluded, Mr. Atkinson, counsel for the accused, appealed to the court. He assured the assembly that the prisoner could have no use for any of the articles, in his trade, as a lack-smith. In conclusion, he stated that one only had to look at the childlike expression of innocence depicted on the face of Percival, to realize that the charge was absurd. The plea for mercy, however failed, and the defendant was found guilty and sentenced.

Pogson vs. Robins was the second case. The prisoner was charged with shooting a valuable Australian bee-hound, the last of its kind, and the property of Mr. Pogson. The charge, however, fell through as it was successfully proved that the aforementioned animal had died a natural death, being then in its twenty-eighth year.

A striking picture novel

"THE MANX-MAN"

with

FRED GROVES and ELIZABETH RISDON

A gripping human tale without a villain with love and sacrifice. The production was produced on the Isle of Man, among the exact scenes in which the author, Hall Caine, made his characters live. Shows the old cruel difference and inequality of man and woman as nature made them—the old trick, the old tragedy. The picture is so far ahead of the usual run of films that they are lost in the dust. Shows scenes taken near the battle front of Flanders in which a British regiment and 11,000 people take part. The most notable film production of the season. Don't miss it.

Trinity

HOLD DELIGHTFUL SKATING PARTY.

A very delightful skating party was held on the evening of Thursday, January 17, by the members of Trinity and St. Hilda's. Those who attended, were favoured with a splendid evening for the event—the air being clear and frosty, and the ice in splendid condition. At ten o'clock, the skaters assembled in the common-room at Trinity, and partook of refreshments, and the enjoyment of this necessary proceeding was added to, by those, who are clever enough to play the piano, giving the company assembled, plenty of music.

After singing Metagone, the party broke up, after having spent a very enjoyable evening.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

VARSITY RESPONDS NOBLY

Nearly $14,000 Donated by U. of T. for the Funds

LARGE SUM AGAIN NETTED FOR PATRIOTIC PURPOSES

In Spite of Frequent Demands and H.C.L. 'Varsity Does Not Fail

Staff Gives Generously

The Excellent Organization Was Also an Important Factor

Varsity has once more responded nobly to the appeal made to it on behalf of the Red Cross and Patriotic Funds. The student-body alone has given over $1,700. Every little while some request is made of the student. However, the undergraduate knows that the causes are most worthy and he cheerfully makes the necessary sacrifice. He realizes that the honour of his alma mater must be sustained, and regrets that he cannot be with his student-brother at the front. However, he does all in his power to aid them, and so when frequently he is requested to "come across" he smiles, digs down into his trouser pocket—and stay in one extra night a week.

The University staff has donated about $12,000, which considerably swells the total of the University of Toronto donations. While not quite as much as was realized last year, speaking comparatively the response was better. The greater cost of living and the diminished attendance must be taken into consideration.

In the campaign which has just closed special mention should be made of the contributions made by Trinity College, the College of Pharmacy and University College. The campaign in these Colleges was in the hands of Messrs. W. S. Watson, J. V. Bradshaw and W. R. Salter respectively, and these men are to be congratulated on the results which they secured. The organization was highly efficient and this also helped in the total obtained.

The donations of the various faculties were as follows:

St. Michael's	$43 45
Trinity	108 00

MENORAH SOCIETY

Has secured Prof. Wrong to speak on Revised Jewish State at University Y.M.C.A. to-night.

A lecture, which should attract considerable attention on the part of those students who are following the developments which are being brought about by the great war, will be delivered by Prof. Wrong to-night. The subject of Prof. Wrong's address will be the Revised Jewish State. Inasmuch as the British Government has recently put itself on record as being in favour of the re-establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine should make the event of even more importance than it otherwise would have been. A musical program has been arranged. Artists of high standing have been secured.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Menorah Society in the University Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock sharp. All interested are cordially invited.

DR. EMMELINE SMILLIE IS MATRON ON H.S. "LOYALTY"

Dr. Emmeline Smillie, graduate of 1912, has been appointed matron on H.S. "Loyalty," plying from Bombay. Dr. Smillie, who is a sister of Dr. Jennie Smillie, Dovercourt Road, was formerly a resident of Hensall, Ontario, and before coming to University graduated as a nurse from the Toronto General Hospital. After receiving her medical degree, she went to Indore, India, and at the outbreak of war, joined the Army Medical Corps. Cards received from Dr. Smillie at Christmas state that she is well and, enjoying her military duties.

DR. GRENFELL SPEAKS TO-NIGHT IN CONVOCATION

Personal Experiences in Labrador

To-night at 8 p.m. in Convocation Hall, you will have an opportunity of hearing Dr. Grenfell, the great Labrador medical missionary. Dr. Grenfell will relate some "Personal Experiences in Labrador" emphasizing the medical work, and his address will be supplemented by stereopticon views.

Convocation Hall was unable to accommodate all those who wished to hear Dr. Grenfell yesterday, so be on hand early if you expect to hear an inspiring address. Doors open 7.30 p.m.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Varsity Man's Record

An unusually brilliant military career has been that of Brigade Major James E. Hahn, who has just been appointed general staff officer of the third grade with the 4th Can. Div. Major Hahn, whose home is at 60 Shrewsbury Street, Stratford, entered University College with class '14, but enlisted without completing his course, and went overseas in 1915 as intelligence officer of the 1st Can. Div. headquarters staff. It is in this capacity he has done what the military authorities consider really remarkable work, which was recognized in his various appointments, and also in the awarding of the Military Cross given him in January, 1916. Prior to that he was mentioned in despatches at Ypres, May, 1915, and also just before receiving the M.C. He was wounded at Zillbake on January 2nd, 1916, and again at Courcellette the following September. After acting as staff captain to Gen. Elmsley with brigade headquarters of the 3rd Division, he returned to England in February, 1917, as brigade major attached to the Can. H.Q. staff at Hastings. Since June last he has been acting on the headquarters staff at London.

Bomb. H. B. Norwich Returns

Bomb. H. B. Norwich, an Applied Science student with class '16, has arrived at his home, 74 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, on leave after nearly three years' service overseas. He had just completed his third year at the University when he enlisted in the 2nd Div. Cycle Corps, and went to England with the 2nd Contingent. He crossed to France in May, 1915, with the 7th Battery, and was wounded in the same month two years later. A sad feature of his home coming is that he arrived too late to see his mother, who died on Dec. 24th. Lieut. Arthur Norwich, M.B. '16, who served with the R.A.M.C. in Mesopotamia for twelve months, and Sergt. J. Norwich, of the Army Service Corps, are brothers.

To Fly with the Navy

The first acknowledgment of the Christmas greeting cards sent by the dean and faculty of the School of Applied Science to their men overseas came from H. P. Thompson, '18, who went across in the ranks with the 135th Batt. He has since transferred to the Royal Naval Air Service, and is P.J.O. at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, London.

POL. ECON. AND C. & F. HELD UNION MEETING

Mr. Farmer was Chief Speaker—Supports Single Tax

The Political Economy Club, in conjunction with the Commerce and Finance Club, held a most successful dinner-meeting on Friday evening last, when about twenty members gathered at the Westminster Hotel to partake of an excellent dinner and to hear Mr. Arthur B. Farmer speak on a pressing economic question.

Mr. Farmer spoke of the subject of political economy in general terms, telling of his interest in political economy since childhood, he traced this interest through school, college and through private life. Underlying the principle of economics there lies the consideration that it can be viewed from many different standpoints. The viewpoints of the socialist, the aristocrat differ in many respects. But the right views of political economy is that it has to do with the production and distribution and conservation of good things within a political sphere. Between wealth and natural objects a distinction must be drawn, wealth being things produced by human agencies.

In looking at political economy to get a fair view of it, one must be careful to not approach the subject so closely that the mass of details will block one from grasping the real principles, and basic factors or laws. The public policy should be based upon a recognized law which should be so simple that anyone could understand. The primary factors concerned are the factors of production. Capital, which includes tools, machinery, plant, etc., is an example of productive goods.

At the conclusion of the address, the meeting was thrown open for discussion upon questions raised by the talk. As Mr. Farmer is an ardent supporter of the single tax doctrine many difficult and interesting questions were put, all of which Mr. Farmer answered with decisiveness and little difficulty.

DR. GRENFELL SPEAKS TO-NIGHT

Dr. Grenfell of Labrador will give a lecture in Convocation Hall on Jan. 28, at 8 p.m. on his Personal Experiences in Labrador supplemented by stereopticon views.

DON'T FORGET! The "Lit." Short Story Contest

All Stories Should be Turned In by February 1st

As before announced in THE VARSITY, the Women's Literary Society of University College is offering a prize for the best short story, to be entitled "Puppets All." It has been decided that the prize shall take the form of a book as being most appropriate for the occasion, and the right is reserved of withholding the award should the stories submitted fail to attain a certain (not excessive) standard of excellence. Each manuscript is to be accompanied by a separate slip bearing the name and address of the author, and all are to be in by February 1st, 1918. Manuscripts should be addressed to the Secretary, Miss Alfreda Elliott, and be placed in the "Literary Society" pigeon-hole of the post-office.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Sec. Lieut. Peter Lyddell McGavin, previously reported missing, believed killed in September, 1917, is now officially reported killed in action. Lieut. McGavin was an Applied Science student of the year 1918. He was attached to the 25th Squadron, at the time he met his death while returning from a bombing raid.

Sec. Lieut. George L. R. Parrish was accidentally killed in England on January 11th. He was a Victoria College student of 1920, and enlisted with the R.F.C., being promoted to Corporal, to Cadet Instructor, to Acting Sergeant Instructor, and finally to Second Lieutenant. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Parrish, of Caledonia.

Gunner John A. A. Harcourt, Med. 1920, who enlisted with the University Battery in April, 1916, has been wounded three times: first on July 11th, 1917, again on August 8th, and the third time, dangerously, on Nov. 6th. His name has recently been removed from the list of "dangerously ill" to that of "seriously ill." He is still in an American hospital at Le Treport. He is the only son of Mrs. J. Harcourt, of Cayuga.

Awarded D.S.O.

Capt. C. K. Crauford Martin has been mentioned in despatches and awarded the D.S.O. He is a son of Kirwan Martin, M.A., of Hamilton, and was a student at Trinity College of 1917, when he took out his commission with the C.F.A., and was appointed to the 15th Battery. He was seconded to General Headquarters in September, 1915, and promoted Temporary Captain January 14, 1916, then Staff Captain, June, 1916. Once before in January, 1917, he was mentioned in despatches by General Haig.

Military Cross

Capt. W. E. Sinclair, of Meaford, an M.B. 1914, has been awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery at Passchendaele. He is serving with No. 5 Field Ambulance of the C.A.M.C. He is the second of the family to receive this decoration, his brother, Major C. E. Sinclair, a B.A.Sc., 1914, having already been awarded it.

Cpl. C. A. Procnier has also been transferred to the Chaplain Service, with the rank of Hon. Captain.

DR. W. T. GRENFELL, OF THE LABRADOR

Huge Crowd Listened to Instructive Sermon of Great Missionary

Noted Medical Missionary

Has Recently Returned from Medical Work in France with U.S. Unit

Convocation Hall was filled to capacity, even the second balcony and extra choir seats were filled and a large number were turned away last Sunday morning, when Dr. W. T. Grenfell delivered a sermon which struck deeply into the hearts of all present. Dr. Grenfell has had a notable career among the people of Labrador, and has recently returned from France, where he spent some time in the capacity of surgeon with a United States unit.

Dr. Grenfell chose for the theme of his sermon the story of the beggar at the gate of the temple, from 1st chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. The speaker in enlarging on his topic advocated "faith" as the greatest good possible for men. "It is through faith that men are saved," he stated.

To the Soldiers

Continuing he spoke sympathetically to the men in khaki present, who numbered about two hundred. "The man in khaki," he said, "is out on a venture, not only to exterminate the spirit of night making right but to make the world a kingdom of righteousness, in which peace would ultimately follow. It is the doctrine of the Germans that the strength of the human life prevails." The speaker also stated that he does not believe in a religion which does not uphold the opposition and resistance of the spirit of might. "Canada has endeared herself to the world through her great sacrifices," he continued, "and life is a matter of choice, whether we follow the Christian spirit or not. We are free to do either right or wrong." Perhaps the sentences which will cling longest to the minds of the hearers was Dr. Grenfell's emphatic and powerful climax: "We are learning to-day that the price of life is to give it."

WILL SPEAK TO-NIGHT

It was announced that Dr. Grenfell would lecture Monday evening January 28 in Convocation Hall. The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides.

Dr. Grenfell's Work

Dr. Grenfell's chief work has been in Labrador where he has fulfilled a great mission to the inhabitants both by his skill in surgery and his power to save souls. Before he undertook this work he spent several years among the deep sea fishers of England, accompanying them on their voyages and living with them. It was not until this work was accomplished and this work which is similar to the Y.M.C.A. work to-day was completed that he left it for his new mission in Labrador.

Military Cross

Lieut. Warren R. Skey, Arts University College, 1918, and Wycliffe College, has been awarded the Military Cross. He enlisted with the 34th Battery of Kingston, but took the N.C.O. course and took the officers' course. He is now with the 48th Howitzer Battery in France. He is a son of the Rev. Lawrence Skey, of St. Anne's Church, Toronto, who has just gone overseas in connection with work for the Y.M.C.A.

TALE-BEARING

There is one class of their fellows for whom very young people have little or no respect. This is the tale-bearing class—persons who on the impulse rush to some third party, blurt out their "grievance"; and, more often than not, thereby cause more harm than good. Fortunately before coming to years of better understanding the vast majority of these people reform their ways in this connection. A few, however, are left; and sometimes some of this small minority find their way into the Universities. What a glorious field for labour in their chosen occupation is thereby opened to them!

For there are things said and written in any University that will not receive the approval of every student—that is to be expected. But it is not to be expected that the "outraged" party will rush off to some person outside of the University, "unburden his woes" to him; and without giving him a chance to hear the other side of the matter in question, force him to say, "Something must be done." Still less is it to be expected that resort will be had to a means which has the opportunity of making thousands say, "Something must be done." When a student takes such steps he often appears in a very unwise light. Unwise because generally no good is done and the only result of his tale-bearing is to centre attention and often abuse upon the "culprit" who, if all the facts could be made known, would perhaps appear innocent. Sometimes such action is not merely unwise but amounts to foolishness—to say the least.

After all, the members of a University—be they Professors or students—are but members of a large family. In such a large family problems will naturally arise; but there is provision for these problems to be settled in the University and by the University. How much better it would be if all matters complained of were settled in this way! Then the public would not be moved to say "Something must be done" and the tale bearer would not be able to pursue his hobby in the dark.

THE COLLEGE MAN AND THE WAR

The particular effect of the war on the college man is brought home to us each day as the procession of men from the classes to the camps continues unabated. When a man leaves a university to go to war, it is not the thought of personal danger so much as it is the picture of blasted ambitions and hopes that stabs deeply, and burns its impression into his soul. He has been fortunate in having advantages of education and refining influences; he has looked forward to the conclusion of his scholastic career as the first mark of success in life; he has patiently borne the interminable routine of studies with all possible good grace, striving to interpret the barriers and pitfalls to a college course as synonymous with the advantages of a business or professional life. And so the man who has been able to successfully complete a university career lacks nothing of confidence, and is brimful of aspirations, hopes and ambitions.

But now he is called into a great war. From out of a clear sky a world calamity breaks in upon the serenity of his fondest dreams. He is conscious of a duty, not to bring his training or his mental balance to the succor of a war torn world, but to associate himself with new weapons. He leaves the University in a cloud. He feels that he will never want to return to college after the war. He sees positions to which he aspires slipping further and further away. His ambitions become a mere haze. The highest to which he has aspired, the goal to which he has striven for years, is now an empty dream. This is the nature of the college man's sacrifice.—"The Pennysonian".

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Attention is called to the illustrated lecture which Dr. Grenfell is to give to-night in Convocation Hall at eight o'clock.

In reading the subjects of debates which have recently been held in the University we cannot help but feel that a censor for debating-subjects might well be appointed.

The campaign, which has just closed for the Patriotic Fund and the Red Cross, was not as successful as that conducted last year; but for sufficient reasons the campaign came at an inopportune time for some Colleges. In some, collections for other funds had recently been made; in others the students were separated due to some going on excursions and in others the canvassers were hindered by forces beyond their control.

Trinity with a contribution of $108 for sixteen men stands out prominently, and it is closely followed by Pharmacy. The contribution of the men of University College—admittedly the most difficult of all the Colleges to organize—speaks well for those in charge of the canvass in that College.

To-Day's Poem

AN ENGLISHMAN'S CUP

Tea and the fire, low laughter,
And faces, lightly kind;
Their cheer of old, hereafter,
Shall I, returning find?

Forget. Through white thorn alleys
Or lanes, thin-veiled with snow,
These red, befouled, French valleys
Shall I go back to know?

Light laughter, toast and fireside,
And eyes half-kind, half-cold?
Homeward across the shire ride
At tea time as of old?

—Inez Temple.

A MED'S TROUBLES

The Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly permit me space in your columns for the purpose of directing a few questions at certain of the Executives in Medicine?

The following are a few of the things we Meds would like to know of them:

(1) Why is it that the Executive of the Medical Society pay so little attention to the supply of newspapers in the Smoking Room and Medical Journals in the Reading Room?

Do they imagine that ONE Newspaper can be of much value to Four hundred Students?

(2) Why is it that Section (E) which reads as follows, "Each student will be required to pay the annual fee of two dollars to the Treasurer of the Society"—is the only branch of activities that the Executive properly looks after?

(3) What does the Medical Society do with all the fees it receives? For the information and satisfaction of the Student Body could not a financial statement be published toward the end of each College Year?

(4) Why is it that the supply of VARSITY is exhausted before noon of each issue day so that those unable to get to the Medical Building before that time are unable to get their copy? Are there not enough supplied to go around?

(5) Who appoint the Executive of the Medical Y.M.C.A. and what are their duties? How are these duties preformed to the students? Why isn't the Executive elected at the same time as those of the Medical Society and the different Years?

Thanking you for the above space,
"OFF-SIDE".

HONOUR ROLL

Lieut. George H. Ferguson, of 371 Spadina Road, Toronto, has been awarded the Military Cross, according to word received by his brother, the Adjutant of the Davisville Orthopaedic Hospital. Lieut. Ferguson is serving with the Canadian Engineers. He is a graduate of the School of Science, 1906.

Sergt. W. Glyn Smith, of Marksville, was awarded the Military Medal at Vimy Ridge in May, 1917, has won the bar to his medal for work during the Battle of Ypres. He went overseas in August, 1915 having enlisted the preceding March with a battery raised from the University. He was a student in Forestry at the time of his enlistment: Sergt. Smith was recently on leave in London.

Major C. A. Boone, University College, 1901, has been mentioned in despatches. He is second in command of the 123rd Battalion. Major Boone is a graduate of the Military College at Hove, Brighton England, and formerly held a commission as captain in the 2nd Manchester Regt. of the Imperial Army, with which he served in the South African war. He was also mentioned in Despatches during the South African war.

Major T. R. Loudon, B.A.Sc. 1906, has been mentioned in Despatches. Major Loudon was on the staff of the School of Science when he joined the Canadian Engineers, later transferring to the Construction Battalion. He was recently invalided to England.

Sec. Lieut. Hugh Aubrey Porteous, Devonshire Regiment, has been mentioned in despatches. He is a graduate in Forestry of 1916. He went overseas in the first draft of Candidates for Imperial commissions from the C.O.T.C. His home is in Edmonton.

Major S. H. McCoy, who has been appointed commandant of Yarrow Hospital, Broadstairs, England, took his Arts course at University College with class '89 and his M.B. in 1892. He went overseas as a lieutenant in the R.A.M.C. some time ago, and later transferred to the Canadian Army Medical Corps, with which he was given his majority. Major McCoy had been mentioned previously for valued services in August last. Before going into the army he practised in Toronto and prior to that was physician at the sanitarium, St. Catharines.

U.C. WINS OUT IN HARD BATTLE WITH O.T.C.

Winning Score Made in Third Period
--Score 3-2

University College and O.T.C. met for the first time on Saturday afternoon, U.C. winning 3-2.

The game started out quite slow because snow covered the ice, which prevented the players from playing good hockey. U.C. started the scoring when Wilson netted the puck on a nice individual rush. O.T.C. came back strong, and Browne scored. They soon added another, when Curtis poked the puck in, after a scramble around the net. This ended the scoring for the period.

The second period proved much faster as the snow was cleared off. U.C. forced the play, but poor work about the nets and Brown's fine work in goal proved too great an obstacle. O.T.C. worked hard but could not get past the defense. U.C. scored the goal when Little netted a pretty goal on a pass from Walsley.

Both teams entered the third period strong, and some nice hockey resulted. U.C. missed many fine chances to score, by trying to get too close to goal, and by not following up their shots. O.T.C. were playing good combination, but U.C.'s defense proved too strong for them. It looked as though an extra period would be necessary, but Walsley secured the puck, and scored the winning goal on a beautiful shot to the corner of the net.

For the winners Wilson and Walsley played the best hockey, while Thornburn and Little also worked hard.

Macdonald showed up well, and Archibald played a heady game in goal.

For O.T.C. the outstanding player was Browne in goal, as time and again he made sensational stops. Browne at centre worked hard, as well as Strachan on the wing. The defense also played well, and broke up many rushes.

U.C.—Goal, Archibald, defense, Wilson, Thornburn, centre, Little, right wing, Walsley, left, Macdonald.

DENTS TRIUMPH OVER PHARMACY

Contest Rather One-sided—Score 8-3

A rather one-sided game of hockey between Dents and Pharmacy was staged at the Stadium last Friday night. Dents easily triumphed. Final score 8-3.

A large crowd of rooters lined the boards and cheered for Dents. If there were any Pharmacy supporters present they were silent. The game was three quarters an hour late in starting and the lights had to be switched on before the end of the first period.

At the outset Dents could not get going. Pharmacy scored with very little effort by a long shot about three minutes after play had begun. Dents came to life and their forward line swept down the ice, three abreast and bombarded the drug-gists' goalie. They had the whole Pharmacy team bottled up in their own territory. The Dent defense had little to do. The Dent's shots were wild and went for the most part wide of the mark. The score at the end of the period was 3-1 for Dents.

In the second period Dents trotted out three substitutes, Countryman on defense and Dobbs and Winn on the forward line. They forced the play and notched two goals in quick succession. Pharmacy then scored and Dents got two more. Period ended 7-2.

The third period was more even although Dents had the edge all the way. Pharmacy scored on a long shot and shortly afterwards Dale got one for Dents. There was some heavy body checking and slashing during this period. Final score, Dents 8, Pharmacy 3.

PHARMACY—Crosswaite, Roy, Dennis, Wood, Coughlin, O'Connor.

Subs, Shields, Ross.

DENTS—Staples, Bartholmew, Lismar, Dales, Forbes, Smith.

Subs, Countryman, Winn, Dobb.

NOTICE

Are you interested in the women's hockey? Come to the Stadium at 5:15 to-morrow and see the first game between University College and Victoria. It promises to be exciting.

ST. HILDA'S BEAT VIC IN THE FIRST GAME

Close Score of 1-0—Series will be Interesting

St. Hilda's captured the first women's hockey game by a score of 1-0.

The game was characterised by a good deal of "shummy" and very little shooting. St. Hilda's did try some very good shots and, during the first half, Miss Tom managed to slip one past the Victoria goal post which was the only score in the game. In the second half Victoria "went to it" rather harder and kept the game down but failed to score.

This week two more games of the series will be played. The first at 5:15 at the Stadium on Tuesday between University College and Victoria and the second on Friday between University College and St. Hilda's on Trinity ice.

St. Hilda's—Misses D. Whittier, M. Tom, W. Watts, J. Pantan, C. Talbot, D. Trap, H. Grant.

VICTORIA—Misses D. Smith, J. Edgington, L. Pearson, G. Magwood, J. Smith, B. Flanders, N. Evans, F. Tufford.

O.T.C. WINS OVER VIC. IN JENNINGS CUP SERIES

Final Score 5-2—O.T.C. Having Superior Stamina

Owing to an error the hockey game between Vic. and O.T.C. on Wednesday night was not reported. The game started fast and the O.T.C. men netted a goal with a long shot. Luke immediately went through for the first goal for Vic, and followed it by another. Later in the period the O.T.C. secured another goal and the period ended 2-2. During the second period O.T.C. secured two more goals because of the slowing down of the Vic team. In the last period the O.T.C. men scored again and the game ended 5-2 in favor of O.T.C. A considerable number of rooters for O.T.C. were present at the beginning, and before the end of the game many appeared for Vic.

F.O.E. OVERWHELMED BY SPEEDY MEDICALS

Score of 14-2 Tells the Story

Meds met and defeated F.O.E. Saturday afternoon in their scheduled game of Group III, by the overwhelming score of 14-2. The score clearly indicates the play, as the speed and combination of Meds. proved far too much for F.O.E. Although Faculty turned out practically the same team that beat Pharmacy, they showed a vast reversal of form. Meds went through their defense at will, scoring on almost every rush.

MEDS—Walden, MacGillivray, O'Connor, Atwell, Dafeo, Watson.

F.O.E.—Green, Pakingham, McIntyre, Barnaby, Garbutt, Slater.

VICTORIA BEAT KNOX IN EXHIBITION GAME

Vic Got All the Breaks—Score 6-5

Saturday morning a Knox College Hockey Sextette journeyed over to little Vic to play a friendly game with the Vic puck chasers. The game was keenly contested. Vic in the end won. Score 6-5.

Knox had the edge on Vic excepting the first half of the second period. McLean broke his stick and while off the ice looking for another Vic scored twice. Near the end of the period another Knoxite froze his ears and Knox played five men for the rest of the period.

Knox was very much in evidence the last period but was unable to overcome the Vic lead.

Luke and McKinney were the pick of Vic.

Cook on defense for Knox and Harstone in goal did fine work. Krug scored two of Knox goals.

Referee, Mutart.

Trinity Defeats F.O.E.

Trinity basketball tossers easily overcome F.O.E. Friday afternoon at the Central "Y". The game was clean but was too much one sided to furnish keen interest to the spectators. Final score 29-5.

Referee, Parker.

The Jr. Med (2) v. U.C. game in the Sifton Cup Series which was scheduled for to-morrow has been postponed until Thursday, Jan. 31.

University College minus several regulars defeated O.T.C. in their Jennings' Cup game on Saturday. The cold weather kept fans away from the game.

Owing to a typographical error McMaster was represented as having won the hockey match of Jan. 16 from School. The correct score was S.P.S. 1, McMaster 0.

The Irish in St. Pats was much in evidence Saturday night when they outplayed Dents in every department of hockey. Nevertheless Dents won 7-6. The game was placed in the hands of the tooth-pullers by the kindness of the referee in the last period.

270 SKATING PARTY

Second Year Victoria held their annual skating party at Little Vic, Tuesday, January 22nd. It was a good old-time soph party, and nearly everyone in the year was out to enjoy the good time. By extending the invitations to members or other years those who very skillfully managed the function succeeded in obtaining an adequate number of men. And well they did, too. For it required the services of them all to serve the sumptuous repast awaiting the skaters at the Union. Here a very pleasant social time was spent. The party broke up about midnight, after all had voted it a huge success—thanks to our capable executive.

Trinity

The extra work involved in canvassing for the Patriotic and the Red Cross funds was responsible for the postponement of the regular "Lit" meeting on Friday night.

A general meeting of the T.C.A.A.A. will be held in the Common Room at 1:30 p.m., on Tuesday, January 29. The following men have been elected to fill the vacancies on the executive—Messrs R. Axon, W. S. Watson and N. R. Stout.

In the first game of the hockey series for the prize cake on Wednesday afternoon, the freshmen won from the College by a score of 6-4. A feature of the playing was the excellent team-work of the "freshies", their defence line was almost impenetrable. Unless the College team shows signs of improvement, it looks indeed as if the "worms" would carry away the gingerbread.

"The poor, crawling worm . . ." No, dear reader, that is not a rude allusion to one of the genus freshmen. It is but a fine declamatory line from a scene in the Mock Trial which the men of Trinity are busily engaged in rehearsing for production in St. George's Church on January 31st. In reality the process is one of brushing-up, as the Trial was first put on in Trinity Convocation Hall last December. Its success on that occasion was followed by an invitation to favor St. George's to presenting the play in the schoolhouse for the benefit of Red Cross.

"ACQUIRED CHARACTERS ARE INHERITED"—AFFIR. WINSDebate Close, But Much Conflicting Evidence

"The jury appreciates the high quality of the debate and the clearness of the points put forth. With this reservation, that the negative put up a splendid argument, we award the decision to the affirmative." Such was the pronouncement of the judges, Dr. Bensley, Dr. Howie, and Miss MacFarlane, M.A., after some minutes' deliberation over the arguments and counter-arguments raised during the debate. "Resolved, that acquired characteristics are inherited," given at the Royal Canadian Institute.

The negative side of the question was upheld by Mr. Morris and Miss Moore, while the affirmative viewpoint was maintained by Mr. Quinn and Miss Ford.

The shortness of the time allotted to the speakers and the scope of the subject itself gave little time for full discussion or the upturning of arguments set forth, so that the vice-president's "Time!" frequently fell just as the speaker was approaching the climax of some weighty argument.

Cases were cited in which certain special conditions during maturation produced variations in the offspring which had not been evident in the parents, and which were therefore not transmitted.

Both sides presented specific cases to prove the points in question, which resulted in much conflicting evidence, so that, as one speaker pointed out, if we wish to approach the ultimate solution of this question we must remain sufficiently neutral and tolerant to consider the evidence for and against.

SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Airman's Fine Record

Flight Lieut. E. R. Grange, son of Principal Grange, of the Ontario Veterinary College, has been promoted Flight Commander. He joined the R.N.A.S. in September, 1915, as a Flight Sub Lieutenant. In January he was made a Flight Lieutenant, and on the seventh of the same month he was wounded. He has been several times mentioned in despatches by General Haig, was awarded the Croix de Guerre in October, 1916, and the Distinguished Service Cross in Jan., 1917. Flight Commander Grange is a graduate of the School of Science, 1915.

Director of the Guns

Lieut. George E. Smith, M.C., has been promoted to be Temporary Captain. He is a member of the History Staff, and former Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, went overseas with the Second University Company in June, 1915. While serving in his regiment at the Somme he won the Military Cross in September, 1916. Recently he has been attached to Artillery Headquarters on Intelligence work.

Now Capt. J. G. Gauld

Lieut. J. Gordon Gauld, M.C., has been appointed Temporary Captain. He went overseas in the Fifth Universities Company early in 1916, and subsequently obtained a commission. He won his Military Cross in September, 1917. He is a B.A. of University College, 1916, and also a member of Knox College. His home is in Mimico.

ROLL OF HONOUR

Wins Croix de Guerre

Lieut.-Col. C. H. Mitchell, D.S.O., C.M.G., one of the University's most distinguished sons, has had still another honor conferred upon him by King Albert of Belgium. This time it is the Belgian Croix de Guerre which, like the French Military Medal, although usually only conferred on those of lower rank, is occasionally awarded to higher officers for especially distinguished services. In writing to Gen. Phumer, Commander of the Second British Army, the Belgian King expressed his wish to confer this honor on Col. Mitchell and other officers of his incomparable staff, as an appreciation of their valuable services to Belgium. Col. Mitchell is at present acting as General Staff Officer (Intelligence) with the Second British Army on the Italian front.

Captain in Army Militant

Pte. G. H. Broughall has been transferred to the Chaplain Service with the rank of Hon. Captain. He is a graduate of Trinity College of 1913, and was for several years on the staff of Trinity College School, Port Hope. More recently he was rector of a church in Winnipeg, which charge he gave up to go overseas in the ranks of the C.A.M.C. He is a son of the late Canon Broughall, of Toronto, and brother of the Rev. J. S. Broughall, pastor of Grace Church.

A striking picture novel

"THE MANX-MAN"

with
FRED GROVES and ELIZABETH
RISDON

A gripping human tale without a villain with love and sacrifice. The production was produced on the Isle of Man, among the exact scenes in which the author, Hall Caine, made his characters live. Shows the old cruel difference and inequality of man and woman as nature made them—the old trick, the old tragedy. The picture is so far ahead of the usual run of films that they are lost in the dust. Shows scenes taken near the battle front of Flanders in which a British regiment and 11,000 people take part. The most notable film production of the season. Don't miss it. Seven High-class Vaudeville Acts. Loew's First-Run Comedy Pictures. The performance in the Winter Garden, in which all seats are reserved is the same as in Loew's Theatre.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

DRASTIC ACTION OF QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY

Medical Faculty Discriminates Against Negro Students of British Birth

Dean Clarke's Statement

Cosmopolitan Attitude of University of Toronto is Emphasized

By a recent decision of the authorities of Queen's University Medical Faculty it has been decided to exclude Negro students from the enjoyment of privileges offered to the general public by that Dept. For some reason or other, ostensibly the objection of patients in the hospital clinics, the Medical Faculty finds it is unable to give its negro students adequate instruction. The penalty of this ban will fall upon fourteen men who have come from distant British possessions to take this course. Judging from the statement issued some arrangements are to be made for their transference to other institutions, just what institutions or colleges these are the authorities have made no announcement. Evidently they are being run on a broader and more cosmopolitan basis than Queen's University.

TORONTO'S ATTITUDE

Dr. Clarke, Dean of the Medical Faculty at University of Toronto, when interviewed by THE VARSITY was unwilling to express an opinion on the drastic action of Queen's. He stated that Toronto made no discrimination as to race or colour as long as students possess the necessary qualifications. The Faculty of Medicine in this University has had representatives from all colours, creeds, and nationalities and have always been received on same basis as native born Canadians.

A DEBATABLE POINT

As to the legality of excluding British tax-paying subjects from Institutions receiving government support is a debatable point upon which up to press time THE VARSITY has been unable to get a decision.

FINAL RETURNS OF PATRIOTIC CAMPAIGN AMONG THE STUDENTS

Much of Success Due to Energy of Mr. C. C. Grant

All returns for the Red Cross and Patriotic Funds Campaign are now in and THE VARSITY is in a position to state definitely the sum donated by each faculty.

Although the objective of $4,000 which was proposed by the Student's Administrative Council was not attained, yet the students as a body are to be commended in the noble manner in which they liberally contributed. Trinity has undoubtedly given more per capita than any other faculty. University College which is considered most difficult to organize came next, alone with Pharmacy. What has been said above concerning U.C. may well be applied to the other faculties of the University of Toronto.

The organization of the campaign was principally in the hands of Collier C. Grant, business manager of THE VARSITY and secretary-treasurer of the Student's Administrative Council. He is to be congratulated in his untiring effort to make the campaign a note-worthy one in the history of the University of Toronto.

Contributions from the various faculties are as follows:

Pharmacy	$95.00
University College Men	366.00

"POLITICALLY I WELCOME A JEWISH STATE" SAID PROF. WRONG

Brilliant Address on Zionism Delivered to Menorah Society by Historian

The second meeting of the term of the Menorah Society was held on Monday evening at the University Y.M.C.A. where Prof. G. M. Wrong, head of the Department of History, delivered a very instructive and interesting address on "The Revised Jewish State". Joseph A. Sweet occupied the chair.

Prof. Wrong, although stating at the outset of his speech that he knew little about the subject, nevertheless, in the course of his lecture, revealed a remarkable insight on the topic in question. He began by complimenting the society and expressing his interest in its aims. Prof. Wrong then dealt with the subject of Zionism as a general student and historian would. He traced the history of the Jews showing their position in the Middle Ages. He pointed out that Anti-Semitism, as is well illustrated in the Dreyfus affair, was the chief instigator for Zionism—the desire for the Jews to recover their homeland. He then dwelt on the Jewish State, expressed his sympathy with the Zionist movement and discussed the nature of the "Revised Jewish State".

"The Zionist Movement is based upon two aspects of Jewish life, stated the Professor. 'The one is religious, and the other is racial. Which is the stronger? There is a great deal of mystery in racial affinities. The Jewish people are the oldest people who have come from Asia and have so profoundly moulded the thought and life of Western society. They have a right to traditions. The homogeneity of those traditions is Palestine. It is perfectly natural then that the Jewish people should value it; they ought to treasure their traditions deeply. The eye of the Jewish people towards Palestine is a force of tremendous vitality. If the Greeks, considering those circumstances they were in, could create a Greek State, so, to be sure, can the Hebrews.' Prof. Wrong then dealt with the origin of Zionism.

"What is the basis of the modern revival of this ambition of the Jew? This is the first opportunity. The real origin of the modern Zionist movement is the decline of the power of the Turk and the liberation of the Jews. Owing to the Jew's intellectual pre-eminence anti-Semitism arose. They were on this account disliked and looked upon with a great deal of suspicion. Take for instance the Dreyfus case when a Jewish officer was falsely accused of treason. Now it is here

Lieut. James Gordon Beatty, son of Mr. W. J. Beatty of Brampton, has been awarded the Military Cross. He joined the Divisional Cycle Corps, as private, but later took out his commission with the C.F.A. He graduated from University College in 1914.

Lieut. Ralph M. Law, a graduate of the same year, and a student at Knox College when he enlisted, has won the Military Cross for gallantry in the battle of Cambrai. Lieut. Law enlisted in the summer of 1915 with the 19th Battalion in the Machine Gun Section as a private. On taking out his commission he was attached to the Tank Corps, which at that time was just being formed, and given command of a tank. During the attack on Cambrai "his tank was put out of commission and necessarily abandoned. Lieut. Law, however, succeeded in removing his machine gun and taking possession of a near trench, where the gun was mounted, its effective fire checking and threatening enemy counter-attack, and preventing the capture of the abandoned tank". Lieut. Law is a son of Rev. Professor Law of Knox College.

TALENTED ARTIST PLAYS IN CONVOCATION HALL

Delivers Delightful Renditions of Masters

On Tuesday Mr. Healey Willans, F.R.C.O., organist of St. Paul's Church, gave a splendid recital in Convocation Hall.

The first number, Handel's Overture to "Semele" consists in a dignified opening movement, a spirited Fugato and an especially graceful Gavotte. It is decidedly of the French overture form.

The Adagio in E (Gustav Merkel) is an attractive composition displaying many of the salient features upon which Merkel's fame chiefly rests. The movement mounts to a splendid crescendo which serves to intensify the lyric of subtle charm with which the work concludes.

The third number was awaited with especial interest since it is the composition of the organist himself. The introduction is in the style of a Fantasia and includes a passage of a splendid spirited character. The final notes forshadew the theme of the Passacaglia which follows. The Fugue which is written in the form of a continuous stretto, is constructed upon a theme of 4 bars derived from the theme of the Passacaglia. Finally there is a short Coda on the first two notes of the theme, bringing the work to an end.

The next number (a) Overture Miniature, (b) Danse de la Fee Drogee, (c) Danse des Mirrites (Peter Ilyich Tchaikowski), was in truth well calculated to soothe the harrowed mind of the student. Here were no martial thunderings, rather was there a succession of soft haunting melodies that were irresistible. They afforded an excellent opportunity for delicacy of touch by the organist. This number was enthusiastically received.

The Symphonic Poem by Charles W. Pearce, is based upon a XIIIth century melody which has become inseparably associated with the Christmas Hymn "Of the Father's to be begotten". Dr. Pearce says in his preface "Around such a theme florid contrapuntal devices entwine themselves as naturally and as gracefully as do wreaths of holly and ivy around a Gothic pillar at Christmastide".

PEST'S PIFFLE

Inveterate Fussers Make University Library the Scene of Activities.

A new pastime has come to be the vogue in that erstwhile haunt of the studious—the University Library. Ever and anon a dapper slim-waisted youth appears a maiden of his acquaintance. He then fox-trots over to where she sits. The conventional smirk marks his countenance as he (disgracefully) leans over the table which supports some breezy thing by Rossetti which she looks at occasionally. His long-fingered hand then gently caresses his flaxen hair and sometimes slips down to make sure the fluff on his upper lip has the proper poise. What he talks about is doubtful. However, it is certain that it isn't Rossetti who is the subject of conversation.

DR. GRENFELL LECTURES ON STORMY EVENING

On Monday evening Dr. W. Grenfell lectured in Convocation Hall to a large gathering whom the inclement weather failed to keep away. A considerable number of the student body showed their deep interest in Dr. Grenfell's work by attending.

After a short address on his object and work Dr. Grenfell proceeded to give, with the aid of lantern slides, a glowing and enthusiastic picture of conditions in his present field of activity, the Labrador coast. The occupations of the people were showed and enlarged on. Although the principal occupation is fishing the climate permits of splendid gardens being worked. There is also much valuable timber, but on the whole it is rocky and wild. He played splendid tribute to the hardy people of Labrador. After the lecture Principal Huton made an appeal for funds which are to be used in the Labrador Medical Mission work.

MEDICAL "AT HOME" A DECIDED SUCCESS

Most Popular Social Event in Three Years

The Undergraduates in Medicine held their Annual At Home at Columbus Hall on Friday evening last. All years were represented and in spite of the time about seventy-five couple were present.

About nine o'clock Jack Strathdel who is becoming very popular at Medical Dances, started to tune up and the dance was off to a good start. The patronesses were Mesdames Clark, McMurich, Starr, Watson, Wishlart and Bingham.

On coming into the ball-room there was a general look of approval at the excellent decorations. The orchestra played behind a front of palms and the chairman of the committee must be congratulated on this although he did insist on pronouncing palms with a short "a".

About ten o'clock one of the committee wandered in, in none too good humour; but much the wiser as to the reliability of taxi drivers.

About midnight the first section went up to supper and the most critical minded individual had no criticism to offer of the "cats". "Scrumptious" might be a good word to use when referring to them.

Mr. Hocking of McGill and Mr. Stonehouse of Queens represented their respective colleges and both men stated they never had a better time.

About two-fifteen the orchestra started the "Farewell" waltz and when the last strains of the National Anthem were finished everyone pronounced it to be a dance without a flaw.

The chairman Mr. J. Eede, treasurer, C. O. Young, secretary, L. C. Kymal and rest of committee must be congratulated for their untiring efforts and for the general success of the dance. They upheld the old tradition that Medicine always puts on the biggest dance of the year.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Vic. Woman's Dramatic Club Will Present Three Short Plays at Margaret Eaton School of Expression

The Victoria Women's Dramatic Club wishes to inform its friends that on the fifteenth and sixteenth of February it will present three short plays at the Margaret Eaton School of Expression.

Being interested in the "Little Theatre" movement, which is becoming so justifiably popular, the Club decided that instead of giving the usual one long play, it would give three of the charming short plays which are being produced by so many modern playwrights and give these in three performances at an intimate "Little Theatre" rather than in one great effort at some larger hall.

Accordingly, after considerable careful consideration, the three plays were chosen and enthusiastic castes have been working on them ever since the middle of November. All three are clever and amusing, and each is so complete in itself and so refreshing "different" from the ordinary play that you won't be able to decide which you like best. Watch THE VARSITY and you will learn more about them, but in the meantime don't forget that you are "keeping open" either the fifteenth or sixteenth.

PROCRASTINATION SAVES "VARSITY SUPPLEMENT"

The U. of T. press which is in charge of publishing the "Varsity Supplement", was on the verge of suffering a great loss when the building of Ansey and Brouley down town went up in smoke last Thursday night. This firm had been given the contract to bind the "Supplement", but fortunately, the paper to be used for its publication had been stored away on the premises adjoining it, thus escaping all damage. A spirit of restlessness seemed apparent amongst the student body due to the delay in getting this magazine out. To those it might well be pointed out that if the proof had been ready ten days sooner, the magazine would have been that many months later in coming out.

One of the recent appointments of women has been that of Miss Ada Maus, Vic '17, to the position of dietitian to the R.F.C. at Wycliffe College.

SPLENDID ORGANIZATION AMONGST U.C. MEN ACCOUNTABLE FOR RECORD

Keen Competition Amongst Various Years Marks Strenuous Campaign for Patriotic Fund

Final returns of the Red Cross and Patriotic Fund campaign among the men of University College have now been compiled, and the result is a noteworthy achievement. The total amount subscribed is $350.50—a great improvement over the result of the Trafalgar Day campaign last autumn, when $155 was collected. The record achieved in the present campaign has been due above all else to the generosity and enthusiasm of the men of the class executives. Their work was spirited, thorough and effective, and in not a few instances their own contributions might well have served as examples worthy of emulation.

Throughout the campaign in U.C. there was evident a spirit of keen competition between the four years. Unfortunately, owing to the fact that there are in U.C. a large number of men who are also enrolled as students in other colleges, and who contributed through those colleges, it has been found impossible to calculate with accuracy the per capita contributions, the only basis of comparison of the work of the various executives. One fact, however, is very clear. Mr. Buchanan the president of the third year, and his executive, secured an average contribution nearly twice as great as that of the other three years. It is credibly reported that the men of the third year are now in that state of financial stringency commonly described as being "broke." If this be true, they have the satisfaction of realizing that they have the very best of reasons for their present, and we hope, very temporary, embarrassment.

The results filed by Mr. Noble, Mr. Tait, and Mr. Gregory, presidents of the first, second, and fourth years respectively, show that the contributions of these years are on a parity. The fact that the per capita average of the first year is as high as that of the second and fourth should be a matter of congratulation to the freshmen and their executive. The enrollment of men in the first year is almost as great as that in all the other years in U.C., and Mr. Noble's work was correspondingly heavy.

The recent campaign has shown that, with adequate organization, the men of University College will show a record that will suffer nothing by comparison with the results of any other college or faculty. The thanks of all the organizers of the recent campaign are due to the year executives for the fine work they have done.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Sergt. George Theodore Urquhart, Med. 1918, has returned to Canada to complete course. He has been serving as a medical sergeant on an Artillery Brigade.

Flight Sub-Lieut. Thomas B. Holmes, U.C. 1918, of the Royal Naval Air Service has returned to Canada on sick leave. He was injured in an air fight.

E. F. Hinch, Applied Science 1909, has been appointed with the rank of lieutenant to the Railway Construction Depot at Hamilton.

Col. Sam Sharpe, D.S.O., B.A., University College 1895, is at present in England convalescing after an attack of pleurisy.

Gunner Lancelot A. Spencer, Trinity College 1920, is in France, in a Re-inforcement Camp, for the Heavy Artillery.

THIRD YEAR U.C. SLEIGHING PARTY

The class of 1919 is looking forward to a jolly time at its sleighing party to-night. The class will meet at the Women's Union at 7.30 and after a good old-fashioned drive will come back there for refreshments. Everyone should come and enjoy the fun. Tickets may be bought from the members of the executive or procured at the Union before the drive.

SCIENCE EXCURSION TO HAMILTON PLANTS

Junior and Senior Years Have Instructive Trip

View Interesting Processes

Dominion Steel Foundry Extends Many Courtesies

An excursion to visit metallurgical plants in Hamilton was taken by the third and fourth years, Faculty of Applied Science, on Saturday, January 26th. It was conducted by Mr. Marshall, who lectures to the above years in "Ferro-Metallurgy", and it was due to his energy and planning that the trip was arranged. The latest reports show that only one man was missing when the train left the Union Station at 7.50 a.m., though (needless to say) the majority arrived at the extreme close of the last half minute. However, all's well that starts well, and the crowd duly arrived in Hamilton without getting lost or arrested. Here the party showed a tendency to disintegrate, but with great perseverance Mr. Marshall got everybody one car and started for the first destination.

DOMINION STEEL FOUNDRY

This was the Dominion Steel Foundry Co., Ltd. Here through the courtesy of Mr. W. C. Sherman, the party was broken up into three squads and each supplied with a complete guide who took the men around and explained everything. The munition department, where large shells were forged, was first visited. From there the parties went through the rolling mills, where a 500 h.p. three phase induction motor, drove the heavy machinery rolling out steel plate. The principal part of the time was devoted to the "open hearth" furnaces where scrap and pig iron was being converted into steel. The iron is entirely handled by cranes, which pick up the scrap by means of large electro magnets, convey it to the furnaces in buckets, and after it has been melted, carry away the molten steel in huge ladles, to the moulds. These cranes are handled with great skill by the operators, and the ladles shifted about in a truly marvellous manner, missing obstacles in their way by but a few inches. The pattern making room, moulding shop and shaft forging shop were also inspected. In the furnace room the emptying of one of the molten charge into a ladle formed an interesting spectacle.

POL. ECONOMY CLUB MEET A WEEK EARLIER

To Take Form of an Open Debate on Railway Question in Canada

The next meeting of the Political Economy Club will be held on Friday, February 1, at 3.30 in the afternoon. This meeting has been brought forward a week, in view of the fact that the Club Politique holds its next meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 6. Each club contemplates holding meetings alternately each week so that any who desire attending both meetings may not be compelled to spend two afternoons in any one week. The proceedings of the Friday meeting will take the form of an open debate such as have been so successfully conducted by the Club Politique. The following subject "The Nationalization of Canadian Railways" has been chosen by the executive as being a subject which bears on a vital problem of every-day business life. The members of the executive feel that to do justice to the subject, prospective debaters would do well to read up on the topic if possible. Those who have been following the trend of railway affairs both in the U.S. and Canada will no doubt be well prepared to talk on the proposed subject. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the Canadian railway situation. Every member of the Political Economy Club, all economic students, and members of the Club Politique turn out Friday afternoon at 3.30, in Seminar I Library Building.

THE MIDDLE WAY

There are two opposite and opposing tendencies that confront the University student, the tendency to over-specialization and the tendency to excessive generalization. These are the Scylla and Charybdis of a college course. Between them the student must choose the middle way.

Many are the stories, the so-called popular anecdotes, that play upon the profound ignorance of the University graduate; and such stories have in them a germ of truth. For the graduate too frequently is an ignorant person—ignorant of all subjects except those which composed his course. And in these cases the deplorable fact is that such ignorance usually persists through life. It is easy and it is plausible to say that the student has no time for a wider range of reading than his curriculum prescribes; that he must concentrate his energies upon the work that is mapped out for him. Such a view is particularly rampant about this time of year. It is, however, a position to which grave objection may be taken. If ever there are opportunities for broad development and for a wide range of interests, it is during a University course. And if the student believes himself unable to create such a range of interests during his undergraduate life, it is almost certain that he will believe himself unable to do so later. It will generally be found, however, that the more we determine to do, the more we do, and the better we are for it.

We are confronted, of course, by the other possibility—that of knowing a little about many things and much about nothing. Perhaps this is the less dangerous tendency. Upon a broad foundation the superstructure may easily be erected—more easily than broadening the foundation of a structure already built. But in all we should remember that the courses mapped out for us are in the main but suggestions for our guidance—outlines upon which we may elaborate, not ideals at which we should aim. Let our curricula be a minimum standard for our efforts here.

NEED FOR REFLECTION

We have often heard the old adage that "A soft word turneth away wrath" but very often we are unable for various reasons to speak the soft word. In many cases the wrathful person speaks so loud and so fast that a soft, polite word would pass unheard and unnoticed. Then too people often think they are going to make a soothing remark and the minute they speak make more trouble, not exactly because of their inability to find a polite phrase but because its meaning is misconstrued. Almost any remark can be turned to mean anything but what was intended.

More especially in very clever people do we find this tendency towards impetuous speech followed in most cases by remorse. For a specific example of this impetuosity as manifested in a clever person consider Alexander the Great. Undoubtedly he was extremely clever with an insight into the future which was almost supernatural. Yet when angered, he would commit without thinking the cruellest acts which were followed by a long period of remorse.

Among nervous, erratic people this characteristic of impetuosity is inherent; but undoubtedly education will cause them to become more re-ective. By education we do not mean merely endless reading or translating of foreign texts or countless experiments in chemical, physical and biological laboratories; but along with academic pursuits travel and social intercourse. One of the best ways to smooth out the little defects and strengthen the strong points in your character is to meet people who do not hold the same opinion as you do. Meet them and argue with them. Try to convince them you are right and when they raise objections to certain points in your theory ponder over what they say, do not become angry and say things which you will blush for afterwards. Then too when you feel you have been wronged find out the other side of the affair and reason with yourself, and in your reasoning do not be so blinded by self-interest that your mind is biased and you are unable to see the good points in the opposite opinion.

THE STUDENTS' RENDEZVOUS

NOTE PAPER WITH CREST

University students add a touch of distinction to their correspondence by using note paper bearing the University Crest. We have it; also with crest for Medical, Dental, Royal Flying Corps, etc. Good qualities of paper with envelopes to match. Boxed 36c. to 66c.

Open Saturdays

Correspondence

Letters to The Varsity should be posted to The Varsity office or left at the office in a sealed envelope. They should be addressed only to the Editor-in-Chief.

Letters should be written on one side of paper only, should not exceed 300 words, and should always have signature attached as a sign of good faith. Writers assume full responsibility for their letters.

January 28, 1918.

The Editor of THE VARSITY.

Dear Sir, In reply to the letter of Monday's issue from an anonymous medical student, I would like to make the following statements:

The Medical Society has subscribed for three morning papers and since there are only three printed in this city we are unable to obtain more. As to magazines we subscribe for five popular magazines and three medical journals besides those that are sent free. The reason why magazines are missing from the reading room is obvious.

The annual fee of two dollars covers Medical Society, Athletic and Year fees. The one dollar which goes to the Medical Society pays for Phone, Piano, Magazines, REPAIRS, Representatives to other colleges, cost of open meetings and many other things which arise.

At the end of each year there is a financial statement published on the student's bulletins for those who care to look at it.

As to VARSITIES, if Mr. "Off-side" could arrange to have the students stop kicking them around the smoking-room, there would probably be enough left by evening to supply his wants.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for the space, I am,

Very truly yours,
J. W. TICE, Curator.

NOTICE

Thursday, Jan. 31. —The second debate of the inter-year series in the Victoria Women's Literary Society. Subject—Resolved that the Group System is more satisfactory than the Lecture System. Fourth Year vs. Third Year. A good musical programme is promised as well. Don't miss it.

MENORAH SOCIETY

where anti-semitism brought its nemesis. This Dreyfus case did much to foster Zionism. That atmosphere made the Jew feel a little uncomfortable and consequently the Zionist movement grew in strength.

The lecturer then discussed the size and nature of the Jewish state. "How large will the Jewish State be? I doubt whether it will contain more than 10,000 square miles, or be about one-tenth of the British Isles. It is a country that can be restored to a great deal of fertility. There will be there between four and five millions of Jews. Under the most unfavourable conditions there will be about 3,000,000, and that sum is not to be despised.

"Politically, I welcome the Jewish State. All that the British Empire want now is security and a Jewish State would be of great importance to Britain. All my instincts are in favour of the Jewish State. And this is the best solution. What is going to be the dominant motive to the Jew who lives there? Will it be tradition or religion? If it is going to represent the religious politics of ancient Jewry, there will be difficulties. I, as one, will watch particularly the proposals."

A considerable amount of discussion followed in which the following participated: B. Goldfield, H. Lipsett, D. Goodman, B.A., L. Rosenbloom, and others. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker by Mr. Goldfield and seconded by Chas. Rotenberg, in appreciation of the very illuminating lecture. The General Secretary read several communications he had received from the Inter-collegiate Menorah Association, in which they stated that the Administrative Council of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association assembled at New York for its Quinquennial Convention, had admitted the Menorah Society into membership in the Association. They further stated that they are prepared to send to their University, for the use of the Menorah members particularly, but also for the benefit of the entire University, a Menorah Library of books of Judaica consisting of some 75 volumes on Jewish history, literature, religion, sociology, etc.

A splendid musical program supplemented the lecture. Miss Bettie Greisman favoured the audience with a delightful piano solo. Master Louis Greensway, a young genius, retained the hearers with an excellent violin concerto in A minor by Accoly.

SCIENCE EXCURSION

Though time passed quickly no one was heard to grumble when noon came and the party adjourned for dinner to the Connaught Hotel.

INTERESTING PROCESSES

The Steel Company of Canada plant was now visited. Here, the boys were given a hearty welcome by the chief chemist, Mr. Girvin, who also escorted the party around. The blast furnace, where iron is reduced from the ore, received the greatest notice. This furnace, besides producing the heat required to reduce the ore and keep the slag and metal in a molten state develop 4,000 horsepower, from the gas which is not required for heating the gigantic "stoves". After the "stoves" are heated, air is blown through them by giant air compressors at 1,300 F. A

SCIENTIFIC HEARTH FURNACES

The open hearth furnaces and rolling mill shop were also visited. In the furnace room the men were given an opportunity to see the boiling steel through a sheet of blue glass, as the direct light is so intense that nothing can be seen inside the furnace. The sight must indeed have inspired considerable awe, for several were heard to express an intention of more strict attendance at church. Tests of the iron while being reduced to steel are taken every few minutes. Mr. Girvin stated that a complete analysis and report could be made in 25 minutes thus giving the furnace men ample time to know when the charge is ready to be drawn.

The third and fourth days were indebted to Mr. Girvin and to Mr. Sherman of the Dominion Steel Co. for the interest they showed, and appreciate the fact that they gave up several hours of valuable time to escorting the parties through their respective plants.

Late in the afternoon the blast furnace of the Canada Steel Co. was discharged and the men witnessed the inspiring and never-to-be-forgotten sight of some 45 tons of molten iron running like water in a channel of sand. During the run a considerable amount of sulphur fumes are given off and the atmosphere becomes "thick"—to put it mildly. To the on-lookers the process seemed rather bewildering, but it was to be noticed that the men doing the work were very methodical.

We believe that one and all returned safely to Toronto, though perhaps at different hours. We think however that those who "waited" for the late train, enjoyed the music and the eats as much as those who returned early—shall we say to study? The excursion was fully appreciated by everyone and all are looking forward to a high "efficiency" at the Spring exam. in ferro-metalurgy!

MEDS SUMMER COURSE

The medical Summer Course is still a matter of mystery. Absolutely no word can be obtained in respect to this subject except that it is yet a mere rumor. Evidently those who have charge of the matter are either putting a ban on the Summer Course or are withholding the news in order to spring a pleasant surprise on those affected.

JR. MEDS WALK-OVER IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

St. Mike's Defeated by Immense Score 44-17

The fixture between St. Mike's and Jr. Meds (1) held in Central "Y" Gymn. was an exhibition of fast basketball. Jr. Meds had it all over their opponents from the start, though, and piled up a marvelous score. G. Carroll for the losers certainly played a stellar game and fought a valiant fight. Had his backing been of a like calibre there is no doubt there would be a different tale to tell. Urquhart played his usual game of high class basketball and was the life of his team. On the defense, Markowitz deserves credit for his untiring energy and successful shooting. Ireland also played a good game. The line up is as follows:

St. Mike's	Jr. Meds (1)
Carroll	centre
McPeake	forwards
T. Carroll	Dixon
Bender	guards
O'Shaughnessy	Markowitz
Montague	Kilgour

Score 44-17.

Education

Members of the Faculty of Education and their friends considered themselves fortunate, Thursday, January 24th, in having Mrs. Garvin (Katherine Hale) speak about "Canadian Poetry and the War." Though Mrs. Garvin did not touch on her own poetry, all are acquainted with her work, especially her poem "Grey Knitting." Only brief mention was made of such poets as Wilfred Campbell, whose work is really more imperialistic than distinctly Canadian; Robert Service, whose "Rhymes of a Red Cross Man" are world widely known; Charles G. D. Roberts, and Bliss Carman, a Canadian with the essence of the Canadian spirit, although the Yankees claim him as their own. The speaker then went on to deal more minutely with less known poets whose war poems have recently brought them into the limelight. One such is J. C. Stread, of Calgary, whose poem "On Kitchener" had the rare honor of being telegraphed around the world. "Over the Hills to Home," a simple little poem, of a Belleville girl, copied and recopied into newspapers the world over, touched the hearts of all present. All were interested in "The Poplars," of a McMaster boy of '15, Bernard Trotter; "In Flanders Field" by McCrae of Guelph; and in the work of Major Scott. Mrs. Garvin read the two contrasting poems "The Shell," one the song of the shell itself, and the other from the viewpoint of the munition worker. The address was closed by Mrs. Garvin referring to the great opportunity and privilege of the future teachers to bring poetry into the lives of their pupils.

WOMEN'S 271 DEBATING CLUB HOLD MEETING

On Friday last the second regular meeting of the Women's 271 Debating Society was held in Room 6 of the Library Building. Mr. Brown presided during the discussion of the subject: "Women and the Present Food Question." In the opening speech Miss Wetherall presented the general aspect of the conservation movement, not only from the consumer's but from the farmer's and the manufacturer's standpoint. The club then joined in a heated discussion, arguing pro and con each point that had been made in the speech.

Miss Spers then presented the women's part in conservation. A wheatless meal—not a wheatless day, but a wheatless meal—was strongly advocated. The question of a fewer course dinner was also brought forward.

It has been stated that more people die from over-eating than from under-eating. Why not let patriotism be an excuse for us to lengthen our out days?

Next Friday the subject will be: "Women and Party Politics." Come along, 271, and air your views. Remember then—3 o'clock, Room 6, the Library Building Friday next.

Y.W.C.A.

The Y.W.C.A. have been extremely fortunate in securing Mr. J. J. Kelso to address their next meeting, on Thursday afternoon, at a quarter past four, at the Union. All women students are especially urged not to miss this opportunity of hearing Mr. Kelso, who is so well known in connection with all social movements in Toronto. Come and help make a record attendance.

F.O.E. SNOWED UNDER BY VICTORIOUS DENTS

Toothpullers Run Up Surplus of 14 Goals

Faculty was completely outclassed by Dents in Jennings Cup fixture at the Stadium last night. Team work marked the Dent play while individual work was what Faculty depended on. Dents for the greater part of the time were raining shots on Fritz the F.O.E. goalie who was the hardest worked player on the ice. The overwhelming superiority of Dents was evident from the time the bell rang for the first period. Dents scored the puck and swept down the ice three abreast but their "com." was broken up by the Faculty defense. In a melee in front of embryo teachers, Dents notched one. After that they notched one on the average of every two minutes. Slater on a lone rush netted one for Faculty. Score 14 goals 6-1.

Countryman, Dobbs and Forbes replaced Dales, Lisemer and Winn on the Dent line up. This period was much the same as the first. Dents rushed Faculty and kept their goalie from freezing. Period ended with score 15-1.

Dents took things easy in the last period but notched 8 more to their long string making the score 23-1.

Dents—Staples, Winn, Smith, Dales, Bartholomew, Lisemer.
Subs—Countryman, Dobbs, Forbes.
F.O.E.—Fritz, McIntyre, Barnaby, Slater, Pakenham, Garbutt.

FURTHER FUN FOR THE U.C. FRESHMEN

The freshmen of U.C. are holding their second skating party of the season at Varsity to-morrow night from 8-10 o'clock. Be sure to get there in time for the first band. The north rink is reserved for a rendezvous from 9-10 and if possible from 8-9. If however it is impossible to obtain for the latter hour, the north-western corner of the ice will be used until 9 o'clock. Everyone is requested to provide themselves with a name card and pin, to prevent outsiders from mixing with the party and from using the rendezvous. Don't forget the Women's Union afterwards.

RED CROSS MEETING

On Monday at four o'clock a conscientious and enthusiastic number of Freshettes met in the Common room of the Union to perform their weekly "stunt" for the Red Cross. Since the initial meeting the work has been put on a smoothly running basis. As a result the 271 Red Cross organizer, Miss Leonard, reports that progress was splendid. Seven dozen handkerchiefs and a goodly number of head and "T" bandages were completed. Several of the girls also took articles home to finish. If each meeting progresses as this did the Red Cross movement this year promises to be a decided success.

INTERESTING PAPERS ON "X-RAYS"

The Seminar in Physics the Department will be held in Room 43, at 4:15 p.m. Thursday. Three papers will be presented on "X-RAYS."

(1) A new X-ray tube and portable outfit, Prof. E. F. Barton.
(2) A new method of X-ray crystal analysis, D. A. Keys, M.A.
(3) X-ray crystal structure, Miss F. M. Quinlan.

All those desirous of learning something new regarding these peculiar Roentgen radiations should attend.

VARSITY GIVES ANOTHER GRAD.

Mr. H. D. Bradley, B.A., graduated from U.C. in 175. He was a prominent political and literary member at U.C. and a faithful supporter of U. of T. athletics. During the past three years he attended Osgoode Hall and was in his final year when he enlisted with an artillery unit at his home in Ottawa in the Xmas vacation. During his sojourn at U.C. and Osgoode Hall he made many fast friends. We all wish "Dell" a safe return.

L. F. Stokes, U.C. '19, has been transferred from the Divisional Signalers to the Wireless Dept. in the Navy.

271 SLEIGH-RIDE!

The class 271, Victoria, will hold a sleigh-ride party next Friday evening, February 1st. Meet at the Union at 7 o'clock sharp! We guarantee the fun. Don't miss it. Get a late leave.

DR. FRASER, ARTS '12, MED '15 IS IN CITY AT THE PRESENT

A few of the old-timers will remember "Bob" Fraser, Arts '12, Med. '15, who is in the city at present and is looking up his old acquaintances. Bob was one of the most popular undergraduates ever in attendance at this university. Piling up official positions and fulfilling them with extraordinary ability was his favorite diversion. Dr. Fraser is at present connected with the medical department on the Canadian Government.

Knox

"Monday morning came in like a lamb and went out like a camouflage."

The time: 1.14 a.m.

The place: East House, Knox College.

In the above house, all was silent save for the rhythmic snores from room 203 which re-echoed throughout the capacious hall and above the doors of all the inmates of the third floor who were dreaming that someone had served pie for dinner. Suddenly like a pistol shot in the telephone booth, someone said a bad word and a huge uproar arose, like unto the noise when Mr. Graham promenade the halls. Yet there was something sinister about these footfalls; then a door banged and another bad word, and a bed crashed. We knew an inmate was braining himself with his bed. Since the incident was occurring in one of the end rooms we didn't trouble ourselves to see how successful the experiment was. In fact we had no need; several chairs rolling about confirmed our opinion that he had missed, and was now trying to asphyxiate himself by throwing chairs. By this time the whole gathering, clothed in white—and pink feet in some cases, when the feet were large—concentrated at room 206 for a general parley. Mr. Birks, on his knees at the door of the doomed man, implored him in the name of D. G. Graham to cease his vain attempts to end his existence, but without avail. At last the crashings ceased, and visions of his mighty corpse bathed in gore flitted by through the minds of all. Mournfully we went back to dreamland, fully expecting that the day would bring forth the claxon of a terrible tragedy. We were doomed to disappointment, however. The corpse appeared at breakfast this morning and we publicly demand a special court martial by the Committee of Public Safety.

A gripping human tale without a villain with love and sacrifice. The production was produced on the Isle of Man, among the exact scenes in which the author, Hall Caine, made his characters live. Shows the old cruel difference and inequality of man and woman as nature made them—the old trick, the old tragedy. The picture is so far ahead of the usual run of films that they are lost in the dust. Shows scenes taken near the battle front of Flanders in which a British regiment and 11,000 people take part. The most notable film production of the season. Don't miss it.

Dear Sirs

Just a few lines to you for which I hope you will pardon me, with regard to one of your nutrients. I am going to speak of Chocolatta.

I received a tin of this from home and beg to say in all my experiences of food beverages, this is the best I have had the pleasure of tasting.

My claim and myself are Snipers, and as you might well imagine, every nerve must be on the alert all the time while on the dangerous spot.

Just before going on post my elum and I each took a drink of Chocolatta and we noticed we came off duty less fatigued and felt keener and more able than on any previous two hours of duty. Since then we always make it a point to have a drink of Chocolatta before we go on post and then another when we come off. Another I can not speak too highly of the beneficial qualities of this beverage. Another point in its favor is that nothing needs to be added to it to make it palatable, there is no waste.

Many of my chums have spoken of it to me and I have told them the name and your address. Most of them have already written home for some and I have myself.

In closing I might add that you may use this letter as you see fit, as I am not all my soldier elums to know what a boom it is to all. Thanking you for your trouble in reading this letter.

Yours very sincerely,
(Sgd.) R. E. GRANT

MISS W. CULLIS, D.Sc. ADDRESSED WOMEN ON WAR CONDITIONS IN ENG.

Dr. Cullis Has Come to Our University to Lecture on Physiology

COMPARED RATIONS

People Are Economical and Thus Help Their Soldiers

The women students of St. Hilda's, Medical and Victoria Colleges had a treat Wednesday evening in hearing Miss Winifred Cullis, D.Sc., head of the Department of Physiology of the London Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine for Women. Dr. Cullis has been loaned to our University to lecture in Physiology.

A large number of women students gathered at the Victoria Women's Student Union to hear Dr. Cullis. Coming from London Dr. Cullis brought to her audience a realization of war conditions that few had had before. Gradually from interest the audience passed to a feeling of humiliation at our lack of sacrifice.

Dr. Cullis spoke of the signs of war in England. All crowds outside of London are crowds of women. In London khaki and hospital blue is the dress of the male population. Then the speaker described the first Zeppelin raids, and the present aeroplane raids with their constant strain. The pluck and coolness of the people struck one with admiration. Telephone girls turning out while bombs were still falling in case they might be needed at the Exchanges; women ambulance drivers and first aiders rushing to the places where bombs have hit; special constables patrolling the streets during the raids.

All this heroism is being shown by people who are living on rations that leave one hungry. For the voluntary rations leave one hungry Dr. Cullis assures us. She gave us some idea of what these rations consist. 3 1/2 lb. of sugar per week. (In Canada the average person uses 2 lbs. or 4 times as much.) 3 1/2 lbs. of bread per week or 4 slices per day. 3 1/2 lb. of other flour products per week. 2 lbs. of meat per week including bone, fat and gristle. That is 5 oz. per day. No milk as a beverage except for children under ten.

It sounds rather appalling when we think of our ample meals. Yet even if these rations were to be kept up Canada must send more food. She has planned to send 110,000,000 bushels of wheat but England needs 500,000,000 to even keep up the rations and the United States has practically none to send. England has sent the little wheat she had on hand to Italy and so is utterly dependent on next year's crop. Then what Canada uses in just cream and ice-cream would provide 10,000,000 lbs. of butter. People who can't have enough meat need butter. Do we need the cream?

DR. SANDIFORD SPOKE AT "T" MIXER WED.

Compared European with Canadian
Education

Wednesday's "T" Mixer was well-attended. Representatives were there from F.O.E. and also from Queen's University. The great attraction of the evening was the speech by Dr. Sandiford, of the Faculty of Education on Canadian Educational problems.

The ideals of the speaker were forcibly illustrated regarding the probable reconstruction of our educational system after the war. He compared our system with the European systems, giving them the praise of being better; especially in the study of languages. Too much time is wasted in our public schools in reading writing and arithmetic. We try to make children write alike but it is just as foolish to try to make them look alike. He gave statistics of teachers' salaries and stated that on the whole the janitor was better paid than the teacher.

A good musical programme was provided and the usual much appreciated eats. Messrs. Hastings and Taylor were kept very busy guarding a few slices of bread on the table reserved for the orchestra, and in searching under the table for extra pieces of pie.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut.-Col. John McCrea of the McGill General Hospital, died of pneumonia very suddenly on January 28th. He was a graduate of University College, 1894, and took his medical degree of M.B. in 1898, also M.D. 1910. Col. McCrea went overseas with the first contingent, and served in the double capacity of Staff and Medical Officer with the 1st Brigade, C.F.A. through the Second Battle of Ypres. He has been with No. 3 General Hospital for some time. Col. McCrea was widely known as the author of "In Flanders Fields."

Sergt. John Vincent Guilfoyle, B.A., University College, 1911, died at the Newmarket Military Hospital on January 29. He enlisted with the 3rd Battalion on August 14, 1914, but was taken ill at Valenciennes and was unable to proceed overseas. Latterly he has been with the York and Simcoe Foresters.

Major H. F. H. Hertzberg, Dip.Sc. '13, was awarded the D.S.O. on January 1st, and has been promoted lieutenant-colonel. He went overseas with the first contingent as a lieutenant with No. 2 Field Company, Canadian Engineers. He was seriously wounded in April, 1915, at the battle of St. Julian, and was given the Military Cross and mentioned in despatches for his work at that time. His home is at 151 Evelyn Avenue. His brother, Capt. C. S. L. Hertzberg, App.Sc. 1906, has been twice wounded, and has also won the Military Cross. He is at present adjutant at the Spadina Military Hospital.

Lieut.-Col. Reginald S. Pentecost B.A., University College 1907, and M.B. 1909, has been decorated with the 1914 star. Col. Pentecost is now in command of a field ambulance.

Lieut.-Col. Vincent Massey has been appointed to the important post of Secretary to the War Committee of the Federal Cabinet, at Ottawa. His academic career and his position in the University are well known. He joined the Musketry Staff in the Summer of 1915 shortly after the appointment of Lt.-Col. McFarland to command the Grey County Battalion. Col. Massey was made Senior Musketry Officer of this Military District and appointed O.C.

Sapper L. A. Stokes, University College, '19, and Knox, has been transferred from Divisional Signalling Company to the Naval Wireless Department. His home is at Mount Albert, Ont.

The news of the death of Lieut. Col. John McCrea, author of that fine and much-quoted poem "In Flanders Field," has been received with especially keen regret at Toronto University, which is proud to count him as an alumnus. The late Col. McCrea graduated as B.A. from University College in 1894, as M.B. in 1898, and as M.D. in 1910.

Capt. Gerald Allin-on, an M.B. of 1915, is home on leave. He was wounded last August. His family live at Picton, Ont. He was one of the last four men to leave the peninsula when Gallipoli was evacuated.

Lieut.-Col. Hertzberg, D.S.O., M.C., who has recently been promoted from the rank of major is a B.A.Sc. The same degree was taken by his brother. Capt. C. S. L. Hertzberg, M.C., who is now adjutant of Spadina Military Hospital.

Capt. C. S. Wright, son of Mr. Alfred Wright of 60 Crescent Rd., Toronto, has been awarded the Military Cross. He was a B.A. of University College 1908, taking the degree of M.A. in 1913. He is a present serving with the Wireless Section of the Royal Engineers. His brother Lieut. Benson Wright, U.C. 1918, was killed in action at the Somme in November 1916. Capt. Wright was a member of the famous Scott Expedition.

Word has been received that Neil Morrison, U.C. '19, is on his way back to Canada with a crushed hand. He formerly belonged to the Battalion signallers.

ANGLICANS HELD WELL ATTENDED MEETING ON TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Considerable Amount of Red Cross
Work was Done, Then Dr. Cody
Addressed the Club

One of the most enthusiastic and well-attended meetings of the Anglican Club took place at the Deaconess' Training School on Tuesday afternoon.

A considerable amount of Red Cross work was done in the way of handkerchiefs, hospital supplies and knitting.

After a dainty tea served by the deaconesses the members of the club were honoured by a most interesting address from Dr. Cody. Among many other things the speaker urged the girls not to ignore the religious side of University life, the great tendency among students. He pointed out that there was no greater opportunity than the present time to learn the great lesson of unselfishness and to develop personality. After the war there would be a new and a better Canada and this would depend largely upon the women of Canada and upon how well they had learned the lessons of the war. Educated women with strong personalities and powers of organization would be required to take the lead and thus all eyes would turn to the University student. Efficiency must be their goal, not misdirected efficiency, not the material efficiency of which the German "kultur" boasts but moral efficiency, that of the character and personality—culture.

Miss Lorena Richardson moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Cody for his inspiring address and on behalf of the Club congratulated the speaker upon his recent appointment as one of the staff of governors of the University of Toronto.

The next meeting of the Anglican Club will be held on Tuesday, February 12th, at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas. A full attendance is requested as in all probability Dr. Thomas will address the club.

ARCHDEACON CODY APPOINTED MEMBER OF BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Graduate of University of Toronto and Wycliffe College

The Venerable Archdeacon H. J. Cody, M.A., D.D., LL.D., has been appointed by the Provincial Government a member of the University Board of Governors, succeeding the late Dr. J. O. Orr, who died last Summer.

Venerable Archdeacon Cody received his collegiate education at Galt. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Wycliffe College and was ordained in 1893. He was professor of Old Testament Exegesis and Church History, Wycliffe College, 1894-99. He was a member of the University Commission in Ontario in 1906-7.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The Political Economy Club has chosen a live subject for their debate this afternoon—the nationalization of the Canadian railways. The chairman who has been secured to act pro tempore is intimately acquainted with the transportation situation in Canada. The debate is an open one, and all who are interested should attend. Come this afternoon to the Economics Seminar, Room 1, in the Library Building, at 3.30 o'clock.

210 HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE MIXER

The progressive year of Household Science 210 held a congenial gathering in the cloister of the U.H.S. Building on Thursday night, Jan. 31.

The successful business meeting, that was held first, was presided over by the president.

The unique feature of the affair was the conspicuous part played by Ouija—and many a weird tale was spelt out by this mysterious guest.

A taffy pull further enlivened the evening and delightful refreshments were served. Miss Laird and Dr. Benson were the guests of honor.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY LUCID PAPER GIVEN BY MISS McFARLANE

Darwin Decided that Species Arose by Gradual Evolution Through the Survival of the Fittest

A very lucid and interesting paper, "Mendelism and Problems in Plant Breeding," by Miss McFarlane, was the "raison d'être" of the Seminar in Botany held in the Forestry and Botany Building, the other day. The subject was introduced by an historical sketch of the science of heredity. As early as 1740, Linnaeus, by his classification of plants into species, had stimulated interest in the relation of different varieties to each other. Experimentation, the only practical means of discovering the causes of resemblance and variation, was begun. This was done chiefly with plants as zoologists were still hot upon the trail of anatomy. The result of these first attempts, a confused jumble of facts, afforded, however, no solution of the problem.

About 1859 Darwin decided that species arose by gradual evolution through the survival of variations by a process of natural selection. Although this theory, while explaining the survival of variations, ignored their origin, "The Origin of Species" seemed to have solved the problem. Hybridization experiments were dropped; the question of what natural processes bring about variations and what kinds of variations are inherited and how, remained unanswered and interest became redirected toward the study of morphology and anatomy.

Even 1865, the date of the publication by the Austrian monk, Mendel, of his "Researches on Plant Hybrids," marked no revival of interest in the subject. The work was published in an obscure journal reaching only a local public and, although sent to Mendel's former teacher at Vienna, was put aside to be discovered thirty-five years later.

THIRD YEAR U.C. HELD SUCCESSFUL SLEIGHING PARTY WEDNESDAY

Fifty Juniors Indulged in a Hearty
Sleigh Ride to Parkdale

Despite the gloomy foreboding indulged in by some pessimistic Juniors, Wednesday's sleighing party was a great success. Over fifty members of the year turned out to the Union at 7.30 and piling into two sleighs, headed for the region of rail fences, roosters etc. Unfortunately, the cold night combined with the recent snow storm, put a stop to the proceedings long before those ethereal places were reached and those who came to scoff at rustic scenes, remained to admire Parkdale and the beautiful house fronts along Dovercourt. As the residences thinned out, and the lights became more scattered, some home-loving Hamiltonians were heard to sigh ecstatically. At one point in the journey a "yaller-dawg" was added to the cortege. He later evinced every determination to take up his abode with No. 4, and partake of its abundant board rather than eke out his own precarious existence.

On returning to the Union after the drive, refreshments were served before an open fire and an hour's enjoyable time spent. The executive of the third year have no doubt that sleighing parties will immediately be staged by the executives of the other years who trust to the initiative of the junior year, and not in vain, for inspiration in these matters.

SUNDAY PREACHER

Rev. D. C. MacGregor, D.D., of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, London, Ontario, who will preach at Convocation Hall Sunday morning, Feb. 3rd, at 11 a.m., is a very distinguished graduate of Toronto University.

He is secretary of Socialism and Evangelism of the Presbyterian Church, of Canada and is well versed in present social movements. He is a strong and thoughtful preacher and he will be listened to with especial interest by the students.

MR. J. J. KELSO SPOKE TO Y.W.C.A. OF U.C.

Spoke on Openings for Women in Social Service Work

NO MENIAL LABOUR

Emphasized Importance of Our Vocation and Specialization

Mr. J. J. Kelso, whose work in connection with the Children's Aid Society is well known throughout Canada, addressed a meeting of the Y.W.C.A. of University College on Tuesday afternoon, his subject being "Openings for Women in Social Service." Mr. Kelso dealt with Social Service in its broadest significance, showing that there is no such thing as menial labour but that any work done for humanity is Social Service. He emphasized the importance of woman's position in every phase of industrial and community life to-day, and the responsibility which this entails. Formerly there were but three vocations for women—marriage, teaching and domestic service.

Mr. Kelso emphasized the importance of the first calling, rather urging it as a duty in that there are many men who don't know their own minds and need to be looked after. As for teaching, the changing standard in education is creating a field for the highest degree of specialized training. This is the day of specialists and it is necessary to know some one thing well. The recreational life of the community demands trained supervision. People are losing the art of playing. In Chicago it was found impossible to hold a play festival among American-born citizens, and it was only among the foreign population who were more familiar with their national folk-songs and games, that this could be achieved. The Juvenile Court is necessitated because children are turned loose on the street and exposed to all forms of vice. Organized play is essential for a community, and should be possible in all parks and playgrounds.

Charity organizations, societies and institutions for the care of dependent people, were generally conducted by untrained people, but universities are establishing Social Service departments, to prepare for definite work along this line and to study means of preventing people from becoming dependent on society. Community houses have been established in certain districts where Social Service workers live and seek to encourage the people of the neighbourhood in a sympathetic helpful way.

Mr. Kelso mentioned many other openings which the war has created for women investigators for Soldiers Aid Commission, motor-driving in France, farm labour, etc. There are four hundred women in the New York School for Chauffeurs. Education must become so diffused that the shoe-black will be as highly honoured as the university professor.

At the close of his address, Mr. Kelso introduced Mr. Quarterman, rector of Renfrew, who provided considerable entertainment by his humorous rendering of "The House that Jack Built." The meeting adjourned after a motion of thanks was tendered to the speakers of the afternoon.

UNIVERSITY CONTINGENT AT OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

A Hundred Men, Under Capt.
Wallace, from C.O.T.C.

Military arrangements are now complete for the opening of the Legislative Assembly at Queen's Park on February 5th. The University of Toronto C.O.T.C. will furnish the guard of honor of 100 men under Capt. M. W. Wallace. The 67th Battery under command of Captain H. E. Cawley, will fire a salute of fifteen guns, and the Royal Canadian Dragoons will furnish the mounted escort for the Lieutenant-Governor. The artillery and guard of honor will be in position at the Parliament Buildings at 2.45, and the mounted escort will call for the Lieutenant-Governor at the Government House at 2.30. Invitations to the opening of the Legislative Assembly are to be issued to the general officer commanding the Toronto military district, the headquarters staff, officers of the permanent force, the militia and the C.E.F.

THE BLIND FAITH

When a man becomes of college age, he is expected to have a breadth of outlook, a certain perspective that comes only through independent observation and thought. He is expected to have opinions and judgments, no matter how unreasonable or radical, that are his own. The college man is a superior being, in a way, for he has advantages for mental development which a very small percentage of his fellow creatures may claim.

Yet the college man is curiously inconsistent in certain ways. The average university man is aggressive and positive; he has opinions and beliefs that he calls his own, and in which he devoutly believes; yet ask him for his reasons and he falters and cannot answer.

One of the great fundamentals of life is religion. A college man's choice of a certain sect and belief, however, is not usually his own; it is usually the choice of his parents. He follows blindly in their footsteps, taking their religion at its face value, because it is their religion. That is always reason enough. He makes no voluntary choice; his creed is thrust down his throat; he does not think for himself; he allows others to think for him.

Ask any student you meet of what political party he is a member. Then ask him to what his father belongs. And see if the same party is not repeated in this second answer in nearly 100 per cent. of the cases.

Voltaire refused to accept the teachings of his fathers until he had satisfied himself of their truth. Some he discarded; others he kept. Robert Ingersoll could not reconcile himself with the principles of Christianity in its narrow meanings. And men called this class atheists. But to the thinker, his brain unclouded by an accumulation of hypocrisy, superstition and fable, these men are great men. For they thought for themselves.—MICHIGAN DAILY.

NOW AND AFTER

There used to be a time when we heard much of university graduates "going out in the world". It was a favourite attitude of graduates and undergraduates themselves. They regarded their university as a little world off by itself, sheltered and secluded from the real problems of life.

The events of recent years have done much to dispel this view. Few there can be who now regard the student as having no role to play in the drama of current affairs. He may have lingered until there was a great part for him to play, before he resigned his seclusion, left his little world to seek the larger stage. But he has played his part well, and convinced himself and others too that he cannot be oblivious to the life about him. Barriers of isolation around the student body can never again be raised.

There remains, however, a doubt, whether, when the present struggle is over, the student and the graduate will continue to take the active part in national affairs that they do now. When the supreme obligations of a time of war have been discharged, we may forget that peace has its obligations too, that the call to service is as insistent then as now. There will be a field of unexplored opportunities for college men and women in the social and economic readjustment that must follow the war. It is a field of opportunity; but it is also a field of duty. And we who have enjoyed the special privileges of a university education, must not fail to respond to the call for special service.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Up to date our worthy contemporary "The Evening Telegram" has devoted one column of its space to THE VARSITY, and two columns to "The Rebel". Just which of these two University publications ought to feel the more highly flattered is, however, an open question.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY

By 1885, scientists, having celebrated sufficiently Darwin's victory over the special creationists, were ready to put to the test Weismann's new germ plasma theory, and hybridization experiments again flourished. Dr. Bateson and the Cambridge school with their experiments, first on animals and then on plants, became his supporters. A trio of scientists, de Vries in Holland, von Tschermak in Austria, and Correns in Germany, were all arriving independently at conclusions very similar to those of Mendel and, in searching out the literature on the subject, brought to light, in 1900, Mendel's original treatise. The work of a large number of biologists since 1900, among them Bateson in England, Davenport and Castle in America, has corroborated and expanded Mendel's principles so that heretofore has ceased to be "a maze in which the scientist loses himself," for "Mendelism proved to be the string of Ariadne enabling the scientist to safely penetrate the labyrinth." Castle's criticism is—"Mendel had an analytical mind of the first order, which enabled him to plan and carry through successfully the most original and instructive series of studies in heredity ever executed." Although Mendel died in 1884, unhonored and unknown, his work compared favorably with that of Pasteur and Darwin.

Mendel's experiments were performed with plants showing sharply contrasting characters. These plants were cross-pollinated, through several generations, and an accurate record kept of all the progeny. His conclusions were (1) that an organism may be regarded as consisting of a large number of independent heritable unit characters; (2) there are certain determiners of unit characters which dominate others and cause that character to become visible. When dominant character is absent, its recessive alternative becomes manifest; (3) unit characters, although closely associated in an individual, before the formation of a new individual, separate out or segregate as if independent of each other, and can thus form new combinations. Mendel experimented first with one pair of alternative characters, then two and three pairs, and could calculate results beyond that indefinitely.

Mendel's principles have been confirmed by hundreds of scientists and the steady progress of the science of heredity has established more and more firmly the fundamental nature of his discoveries. Yet their universal application is by no means assured. Mendel himself found baffling exceptions. These and a lack of recognition were, we learn, the cause of serious discouragement in later life. These unlooked for results in hybridization have proved the field for recent research and many of them have been explained by ingenious theories. Among these are Bateson's commonly accepted "presence and absence" theory, in which we have a clue to the course by which various domesticated plants and animals have arisen from wild prototypes; the factor hypothesis by which certain characters require more than a single determinant to bring them to expression; the idea of sex-linked characters. This may be illustrated by the study of eye colour in the wild fruit fly. The occurrence of eye colour did not follow the Mendelian ratio but was found to be closely bound up with the mechanism which produces sex. This brings us to the problem of sex itself as a heritable character.

Two interesting theories of the mechanism of heredity were sketched, viz., (1) the most generally accepted idea, based on experimental and microscopic evidence, that the chromosomes of the nucleus carry the determiners which are the causal factors for the equivalents of adult characters in heredity, and (2) the more daring chemical theory according to which heredity will be reduced to a series of chemical reactions dependent upon the manner in which various enzymes initiate, retard, or accelerate successive chemical combinations occurring in the protoplasm.

In conclusion it was pointed out that the two main lines of study in the present are those of cytology and experimental breeding. In the latter work results of economic importance have already been achieved. In the States, Webber, combining the good qualities of the orange with the hardness of the wild citrus, produced a fruit capable of maturing three hundred miles farther north than formerly, and this relieved the Southern orange growers of the bugbear of sudden frosts. In our country, such men as W. P. Thompson of Saskatoon and Dr. Saunders of Ottawa have bent their energies to the problem of Canada's greatest product—wheat. Some six years ago, the latter, working at the Experimental Farm, succeeded in producing from the progeny of Red Fife and an Indian variety, a rust-proof, hardy strain called Marquis, which has captured the gold medal at every

[All questions must be relative to the University and addressed to the Exchange Editor, The Varsity office.]

Q.—Why can't those long useless rows of coal hangers down in the men's cloak rooms be moved out and a few comfortable chairs and a couple of tables be installed? Meds have a smoker and reading room and U.C. men must loiter in the Rotunda. If it were possible, how could a few enthusiasts go about obtaining their end?—UNDERGRAD.

A.—Almost anything is within the range of possibility nowadays. We appreciate your initiative and pep, old man, but we think it could be applied to a better purpose. Why envy the Meds? Let them rest in peace! The poor fellows are "tied up" to the building the whole day with lectures and labs, and consequently the smoker and reading room are quite a treat to them in the few spare moments they have. But, on the other hand, isn't the case different in the Arts course? As a rule one attends several lectures a day and "beats" it home. One is not obliged to "loiter in the Rotunda." We know of a good many Arts' men who spend their spare hours between the lectures in the Library. A word to the wise is sufficient, especially before the exams.

Q.—Can a graduate of the General Course take Post-Graduate work; and if so what course or courses are available?—X. Y. X.

A.—They say Caesar was ambitious, but we should advise you to write to the Secretary of the Board of Graduate Studies. We think there are several courses open to graduates of the General Course. But it all depends on the standing he takes in his examinations, the nature of his subjects, etc.

Q.—Are class fees of One Dollar compulsory in University College?—President of Class '22.

A.—We don't think so. But we know it for a fact that those who have the college "spirit" in them, who are interested in the "welfare" of their class, and have some cash on hand, they as a rule, pay their class fees.

Q.—What steps would be necessary to have towels placed in the gym?—P. G. W.

A.—We haven't counted them. See either Dr. Barton or Mr. T. A. Reed.

Q.—When will physical and military drill terminate for this academic year?—"ARTS".

A.—March 29, 1918. At least, so we are informed.

Feb. 2—Do not forget the U.C. Women's Lit. at 8 o'clock in the Union.

world's fair, and it is estimated, has cleared a profit for the Canadian farmers, of, at the very least, six or eight million dollars above the revenue possible from the best wheat known before that time.

Discussion of the subject was postponed till the next seminar, as the meeting adjourned early in favour of Mr. Sartor's lecture. Professor Thomson, however, in the few minutes at his disposal emphasized the fact that once a desired character was obtained as a recessive, one's difficulties were overcome, as a recessive character always breeds true.

MEDS. EASILY DEFEAT PHARMACY AT HOCKEY

Score 10-0

In a rather slow game of hockey, Meds defeated Pharmacy yesterday afternoon by the score of 10-0. The score does not indicate the play, as outside of the last period Pharmacy held Meds back fairly well. Pharmacy put up a good defense game, but fell down on their forward line, and so were not able to show off to better advantage. Meds did not need to exert themselves after assuming a safe lead, and played somewhat indifferent hockey. Both teams showed a tendency to mix it up somewhat, with the result that the boards were frequently thronged with penalized players.

Pharmacy started off well in the first period and held their opponents to two goals. In the second period the play was fairly even at first, but Meds ran in three goals in quick succession giving them a safe lead. This they doubled in the final period, while holding their opponents scoreless.

For Meds Atwell and Dafoe were best, while Dennis and Wood showed up best for Pharmacy.

Pharmacy—Crosswathe, Wood, Dennis, Ray, O'Connor, Coughlin, Subs: Meeker, Kindrie.
Meds—Walden, MacGillivray, O'Connor, Atwell, Dafoe, Watson. Subs: Bicknell, Phillips.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR JR. MEDS

Jr. Meds (1) have defeated every team that has come before them this season in basketball.

In their last game with St. Mike's, the score was 17-4, which shows that their forwards, Ireland and Dickson, are two of the best shots in the series, the former having score almost half the points for Jr. Meds (1), while the latter, also scoring a number of points, proved himself to be one of the fastest forwards in the series.

Urquhart, the captain, in centre is well known throughout the University as an athlete, who is a possessor of a "T".

The defence, formed of Markowitz and Skinner, can always be depended upon to their men, and when necessary are there in a "pinch" to place the "sphere" into the circle.

There is no doubt, with a fine squad of this sort, Jr. Meds (1) will have on difficulty in bringing the "bac on" home.

HOOVER URGES COLLEGE WOMEN TO STUDY PROBLEMS OF FOOD.

Herbert Hoover, food administrator for the United States, sends a message to the women in the graduating classes of the universities urging them to pursue studies dealing especially with food. These studies should be accompanied by courses in chemistry, physiology and economics. It will be well, according to Mr. Hoover, also to acquire the arts of public presentation of this knowledge to the people who need it.

"There is a diversity of tasks and therefore, a diversity of talent and training can be used. All our questions now centre about food, its production, its distribution, its use, its conservation. University women having this knowledge will be invaluable to the country and of service to humanity."

ENGINEERING SOCIETY'S NAME

After being mooted for some time, the name "Canadian Society of Civil Engineers" has been changed to "Engineering Institute of Canada." Under the old title it took in only one branch of the service, which probably has more departments than any other. Now it will cover all, with the possibility of a greatly increased membership and usefulness. At present the society numbers 3,090 members throughout Canada. Professor Gillespie, of the School of Applied Science, is chairman of the Toronto branch.

UNIV. COLL. WOMEN DEFEAT VICTORIA

Score 1-0

At Varsity Rink, Tuesday afternoon, U.C. girls defeated Victoria by the score of 1-0, in a close struggle.

The game started out with a determined effort on the part of the Vic. girls to show that they were still to be reckoned with, although defeated last week by St. Hilda's. Play had been in progress about ten minutes, when Miss Fraser, after a fall was carried off the ice in a rather serious condition. Just after the play was continued, Miss Simpson on a long shot from the side, beat the goal-tender for the lone tally.

The second half found the Vic team determined to overcome the lead. Time after time Vic penetrated the U.C. defence with lone rushes and combination play only to meet with disaster at the hands of the goal tender, or by weak shooting. The issue was in doubt up to the last minute.

Misses Flanders and Pearson did good work for Victoria and Miss Magwood starred at right wing.

Miss Simpson was the star for the U.C. team.

U.C.—Misses M. Tennant, M. Squar, M. Harvey, F. Fraser, P. McTaggart, W. Smy, son, B. Chant, J. Graham.

Vic.—Misses J. Smith, N. Evans, B. Flanders, G. Magwood, L. Pearson, J. Edgington, D. Smith.

JENNINGS CUP SERIES OF VERY FINE CALIBRE

Race for Group Leadership is Quite Close

The hockey season is half gone and if the weather man can keep on smiling for another three weeks the series will be nicely over. Although the conditions which have existed in University athletic circles since the war began have been more severely felt this year than ever the brand of hockey displayed in the Jennings' Cup Series has been of finer calibre than usual.

The race for group leadership is quite close and as few games have been postponed the standing of the teams for the first half of the schedule can be listed as follows:

GROUP I

ROLL OF HONOUR

Major A. W. McConnell is to succeed Col. Massey in the Musketry School. He has recently returned from the front after service with the 116th Canadians as second in command. Major McConnell graduated from School of Science in 1907, and was Asst. Professor in Architecture at the time of his enlistment.

Sergt. Wm. M. MacKay, son of Rev. Mr. MacKay of Mimico Beach has returned to Canada. He enlisted as a gunner with the 97th Varsity Battery, afterwards transferring to the C.A.D.C. He has been shell-shocked. Sergt. MacKay was a student in Dentistry of the Class of 1918.

Word has been received that Capt. Gerald Allison is shortly to return to Canada on sick leave. Capt. Allison is a graduate in Medicine of 1915, and enlisted as a private with No. 2 Casualty Clearing Station. On reaching England he was given his commission in the R.A.M.C. He was with a hospital at Bombay, and later at Cherat, India. He also saw service at the Dardanelles, and was one of the last four to leave Gallipoli at the time of the evacuation. He was wounded and gassed after having tended the wounded for 36 hours under fire.

Pte. Wilfred Adams, Trinity College 1920, of Peterborough, has been granted a provisional' lieutenantcy. He is attached to the O.T.C.

Promoted to Colonelship

Lt.-Col. George D. Farmer, of Dundas, has been promoted Colonel and made O.C. of No. 5 General Hospital at Liverpool. He was O.C. of No. 5 F.A., which unit he raised, and with which he went overseas. He also served for a time with No. 2 Stationary Hospital in France. He is an M.D., C.M. (T) of 1891.

Officer of Historic Regiment

Lieut. K. C. Burness has been appointed Acting Captain. He went overseas in the ranks of the Second Universities Company in 1915, and after several months service at the front was promoted on the field to a lieutenantcy in his own regiment. He was an Applied Science student of the year 1915.

Two University men who are among the party of officers who have landed at St. John are Surgeon Probationer Wm. G. Powell, of Stratford, a graduate of University College, 1916, and an undergraduate in Medicine. He was Intelligence Officer in Military District No. 1 (London) before he joined the R.N.V.R. The other is Surgeon Probationer W. P. Warner, R.N.V.R., Med 1919, a son of Rev. R. L. Warner, of Alma College, St. Thomas.

ARROW COLLAR

Medicine

Is Daffydil Night going to be a success? Well I should say so.

It's a wonder some of the boys aren't on the "Orpheum Circuit."

Today that things are coming into shape is putting it mildly.

The "big stunt" under the direction of Mr. Carlton is a hum dinger. And to see the boys of every year quietly going off every night to practice with a mysterious air makes one very curious.

The tickets are in the hands of the year representatives so get your tickets early and don't be one of the crowd turned away. Remember they are limited.

"Episodic" like last year is in book form and this year is in the hands of a new man with new ideas. It's going to be good.

Frank Cain is getting the orchestra into shape and don't go away with the idea it's a little one-horsed orchestra. It's going to be just as good as ever and that's saying something.

The lantern man has a good bunch of slides and the "spots" will be working strong.

So come on, sign up for tickets before they are gone and we'll make Daffydil Night an old time success.

DAFFYDIL NIGHT

Don't forget to keep the evening of Wednesday, February 6th, open for Daffydil Night. Mr. McKay, who is in charge of finance and seating, has provided each year with a subscription list which must be turned in by Friday of this week.

Each student will be allowed a maximum of two tickets which will be situated in the section allotted to his year. He may however subscribe for as many extra tickets as he wishes, but will receive these only in the event of any seats being left over after the first allotment.

Make it a point to see your year representative about seats. Tickets out on Monday.

PRINCETON DECIDES TO RESUME VARSITY ATHLETICS

The decision of the Board of Athletic Control to resume Varsity athletics in an economical way has received favorable comment in several quarters. The action is, of course, dictated by the value of athletics in building the body for military service. Intra-mural football was not a success last fall and the award of in-signa and letters will certainly be an inducement for undergraduates to take an interest. In this connection, however, it must be remembered that intra-mural baseball and basketball have always been successful here, while the necessity of hard training makes football a less attractive sport to the person only casually interested.

Much depends on the spirit in which the athletics are conducted. If there is none of the show usually connected with the big football games, but if there is a general sameness in the attitude toward intercollegiate sports, then the resumption will be justifiably. The failure to have Varsity football last fall had a most salutary effect. Most of the glamour of intercollegiate athletics is linked with such big football contests as those between Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, and their absence this year has, in Princeton at least, tended toward athletics that is certainly most desirable. If this spirit be maintained with regard to every sport, and if some of the large overhead expense of coaching be done away with, the resumption of intercollegiate athletics is a wise course; but if athletics are allowed to interfere in any way with military training, either because of the demands on the time of those who are trying to make the teams or because the teams occupy too large a place in the life and thought of the undergraduates, it is better to seek some other method of physical training, such as calisthenics.—Daily Princetonian.

YALE BIOLOGY FELLOWSHIPS.

Two Seessel Fellowships, of the value of two thousand dollars, are offered for original research in biological studies at Yale University. These fellowships are open to either men or women. In making the award, preference is given to graduates of universities who have already obtained their doctorate, and who have demonstrated by previous work their fitness to carry on successfully original research of a high order in one of the three departments of biological studies: Physiology (including Physiological Chemistry), Zoology, and Botany.—Michigan Daily.

Feb. 2.—U. C. Women's Literary Society meets at the Union. Professor Gordon is going to speak on George Meredith.

INTERESTING DEBATE ON GROUP SYSTEM

Decision Awarded the Affirmative

A most interesting debate on the subject, "Resolved that the Group System is more satisfactory than the Lecture System," formed the main part of the programme in the Victoria Women's Literary Society yesterday afternoon. The decision was given to the affirmative which was upheld by Misses Francis Telford, and Jean Okell, both of '19, while the negative side was maintained by Miss D. Smith and Miss B. Flanders of the senior year. The subject is one which is uppermost in the minds of all who are interested in improved methods of education to-day, and the treatment of it by the debaters was by no means dull. The judges complimented Miss Flanders especially on her delightfully easy manner of speaking and on her ingenious arguments, but felt that the sound logical arguments put forward by the affirmative speakers had not been demolished by their opponents. Owing to the fact that two members of the Literary Society executive had unfortunately been forced to resign, the election of successors to these offices was held during the first part of the session. With unusual celerity the elections were closed with Miss Eulalie Watson '18 having been elected president, and Miss Victoria Scarrow '20 corresponding secretary—both by acclamation.

After the debate while the judges Miss G. Morgan '14, Professor Hooke, and Mr. Hann were making their decision Miss Marjorie Talbot '18 delighted those present with two very charming solos.

U.C. WOMEN'S LITERARY SOCIETY MEETS ON SATURDAY EVENING

A most interesting meeting of the Women's Literary Society is to be held at the Union, February the second. Professor Gordon, one of the new members of the Faculty is going to speak on the charm of George Meredith. It will be the first that Professor Gordon has spoken to the Literary Society and it is hoped that the members will give him a cordial welcome by their presence on this occasion. We assure them they will be amply rewarded. Meredith offers a very interesting field of enquiry as much lies beneath the surface in his works, hence much may be gained in appreciating them by coming to the Lit on Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

The Club meets in Room 20 of the Biological Building on Tuesday, February 5, at 8 p.m. As the revised constitution is to be presented at this meeting a large attendance is expected.

IMPORTANT.

Will all those who have planned to compete in the U.C. Women's "Lit." Short Story Contest please note that the contest will close on February the sixteenth, instead of on February the first as formerly announced.

SECOND YEAR U.C.

A novel entertainment for every one in the year is planned on Friday evening, Feb. 8, at the Women's Union. Keep this night free as special efforts are being made to insure that this will be the most enjoyable function yet held. Further particulars later.

LOEW'S THEATRE.

In "Ghosts of Yesterday," the feature film drama, the coming week at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre and Winter Garden, Norma Talmadge, rises to really great heights of emotional acting in the portrayal of two parts which fall to her in the production. First as Ruth Grahame, the poor little seamstress and later as Jean La Fleur, the wanton Bal Tabarin cabaret singer, she delineates both characters with remarkable facility.

Howard Marston, an able young artist is relieved from a life of dissipation by Ruth, whom he marries, and work on whose portrait is suddenly stopped by her untimely death. Broken-hearted, Howard goes to Paris, and there he finds in La Fleur an exact physical prototype of his late wife, but woefully different in her mode of living and her outlook on life. How the love which grows upon her changes her into a real lovable woman, and how he too finally comes to love the changed girl, provides a thrilling master-play of tense emotions.

The surrounding vaudeville bill will include seven high-class acts, including a new instalment of Loew's first-run comedy pictures and the Universal Current Weekly Series showing interesting events in different parts of the world.

SALE OF MEN'S OVERCOATS

Good-looking, Well-made Models at $18.50, $30.00 and $35.00

No time like the present for buying yourself a new overcoat.

And this is why:

With the coming of February we've set the blue pencil vigorously to work among our Men's Overcoats with the result that all tickets now bear prices that are remarkably attractive.

Just to give you some idea of the exceptional values that await you in our Men's Clothing Section, we quote:

Men's Overcoats at $18.50—A splendid selection including the smartest Chesterfield, Slip-on and Ulster models in cheviot and tweed overcoatings. These coats are well made in every particular some of them lined throughout, others half lined. The sizes are 36 to 44. They are particularly good values at $18.50

New York-made Ulsters and Trench Coats in sizes 36 to 44, $40.00, $42.00 and $45.00 coats, for $35.00

London-made, Slip-on Overcoats, sizes 30 to 34, $33.00 coats for $30.00

London Made Mobile Ulsters in very handsome colours and best quality of English woolsens, sizes 40 to 46. Regularly $42.00 and $45.00 for $35.00

TENTH IMPERIAL DRAFT SAFELY IN ENGLAND

Lieut. A. C. Breuls, O.C., Gives Interesting Report of Movements

DRAFT LIFE OF SHIP

Accorded Fine Treatment from War Office in Every Way

I have the honour to report concerning the movements and disposition of the Tenth Imperial Draft, as follows:

The draft left Toronto on December — by troop train for —. Our treatment on the train was good, especially the accommodation in the dining car.
On board ship our treatment was splendid.
Of course we were in the first cabin along with the officers of the troops below, and about one hundred nursing sisters and V.A.D.'s. The health of the boys was good, except on the day before Christmas when a violent storm blew. The draft was the life of the ship, organizing four concerts, two dances, a card drive and deck day. One of the draft, A. H. Walker, was ship's chaplain on the voyage.

After our arrival we immediately reported at the War Office according to instructions, and appointments for the different sections of the draft were made with the various officers concerned.

Appointments.

Owing to many changes in the disposition of the draft, it took a long time before everyone was settled. Now that that has been accomplished, I can give you the details.

R.N.A.S.—Burton, Cullen, Walker, A.
H. Williams.

F.F.A.—Bowman, Boyd, Gordon, Mc-Culloch, McKee, McLaren, Smith—on leave till January 23, when their cadet course begins.

R.G.A.—Baldwin, Bean, Breuls, Brough-hall, Donley, Dyer, Geddes, Kiefer, Lang-man, Lennard, McComber, Percival, Sheridan. Tucker and Vokes on leave till January 23rd, when their cadet course begins.

R.E.—MacKendrick, Mis, Nott, Petry,
Richardson, Ward now with Artists'.
Kilkes till their turn comes, in about two months' time, at the cadet school.

Infantry—Boles, Burd, McIlwraith,
Morden, Walker, now with Artists' Rifles till their turn comes for a five month's cadet course.

Tank Corps Kelly and MacFarlane, now with a Machine Gun Depot till their cadet course begins.

Fitch and Heaney joined the draft at St. John, became semi-attached to the draft, and got Infantry and R.F.A. respectively at the War Office.

Because of a shortage of artillery officers in the Canadian Field Artillery here, he is trying to get transferred some, if not all, of the qualified men who came over in the draft.

Offered Service Branches.

Our treatment at the War Office was splendid. They tried to satisfy everyone's wish and if anyone is dissatisfied, it is his own fault in not asking for the Arm he desired. They were courteous, kind and anxious to suit everyone. Cavalry was closed because a new course had already commenced and another will not commence for months.

KNOX OFFERED TO CIV. FOR MILITARY HOSP. PURPOSES

According to a report published in the Star, the executive of the board of management of Knox College have intimated to the Government that the dining-room and residential portions of the college are available if needed for military hospital purposes. There are 129 students now resident at Knox, and this is all that can be accommodated. The number of applicants for admission is always greater than the capacity of the college, and therefore the board is by no means anxious that the college should be taken by the military, but they feel that they should inform the Government of the availability of the college if it is needed.

If the military do take over the residential parts of the building, the lectures and other academic work of the college will go on as usual, and the students will find homes in private houses.

Send THE VARSITY home.

NINTH ORGAN RECITAL TO BE GIVEN FEB. 5th

By Mr. A. E. Whitehead, Organist
St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke

The ninth organ recital will be given on Tuesday, February 5th at 5 p.m. in Convocation Hall, by Mr. A. E. Whitehead, organist of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, Que. The following programme will be presented.

1. JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH (1685-1750)
Prelude and Fugue in E minor
2. HARVEY GRACE
Legend
3. JOSEF REINBERGER (1830-1910).

4. (a) HARRY FARJEON (1878 —).
Spring Song.
(b) HEALEY WILLAN (1890 —)
Epilogue
5. JOSEPH BONNET (1894 —)
Variations de Concert

The next recital will be held on Tuesday,
February 12th. Mr. W. H. Hewlett, Mus.
Bac., Organist of Centenary Church, Hamilton.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Two other University men now on their way overseas as candidates for Imperial commissions are Pte A. E.
Berry, B.A.Sc., '17, whose home is in St.
Mary's, and Pte. C. A. Macdonald,
B.A.Sc. '15 of Ridgeway. Both expect to be attached to the Royal Engineers on completing their course.

Cpl. John D. Peart, B.A.Sc. '14, who came to the University from Nelson, Ont., has won his commission on the field. He went overseas with No. 1 Construction Battalion, which afterwards became the 1st Battalion, Can. R. T., and is now a lieutenant with the 11th C.R.E., serving on the west front.

ALUMNAE OF U.C. WILL STAGE PLAY FEB. 15 & 16

To be Held in the Conservatory
Music Hall—Proceeds in Aid of University Base Hospital

A production of the Bluestockings which is nothing more nor less than Moliere's "Les Femmes Savantes" in English, will be given by the Alumnae Association of University College at the Conservatory Music Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings, the fifteenth and sixteenth of February. The play is under the direction of Dr. Kirkpatrick and promises to be a great success. The caste is made up of graduates who in most cases have shown their love of the histrionic art while at College, no less than four of the members having been president of the Undergraduates Dramatic Club.

The caste is as follows:

Armande	Miss Mona E. Clark
Henriette	Miss Eena Bach
Claudine	Miss Margaret Boyle
Belise	Miss Isabel Jones
Philaminte	Mrs. Lotton
Chrysale	Miss Isabel Cassidy
Arvide	Miss Marjorie Fraser
Trissolun	Miss Erskine Keys
Vadius	Miss Jessie Reade
Martine	Miss Helen Stewart
Notary	Miss Norma Mortimer

Tickets for these two performances are twenty-five and fifty cents, and may be obtained at the Registrar's office, or from any member of the caste. The proceeds will be devoted to the University Base Hospital.

Pennsylvania.—Tie-up scraps have been inaugurated by the student council at Penn State University. The object of the scraps is for the opposing sides to tie up a many of their opponents as possible in as many five minute periods as are required to get all the contestants tied. Fifty men from each class will take part in the scrap.

MEDS DAFDYDIL NIGHT.

Remember the Meds Dafdydil Night on Wednesday night, February 6th at 8 p.m. sharp. It will be better and funnier than ever.

REV. D. C. MacGREGOR DELIVERS FORCEFUL SERMON ON SUNDAY

Took for Text "The Love of Christ Constraineth Us"—Love, Keynote of Sermon

"The men who have gone over to France and given themselves on Flanders' field, have not done so to exempt us but to show us the way, and to be an example for us here at home in our sacrifices." Such was the challenge which the Rev. D. C.
MacGregor, D.D., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, London, Ont., flung out to us at home, in Convocation Hall, on Sunday.

The text was "The love of Christ constraineth us," 2 Cor. 5:14; and the keynote of the sermon was love. "Paul was a victim of much malicious misrepresentation by his enemies. He was represented as being one who was preaching for selfish gain and that his preaching was merely a commercial business. Very few could believe that a man with such ability would give himself to such a cause, unless he was to gain some power for himself as a result. It was, however, the love of Christ which constrained him, and he was able to put away all selfish ideals. It was his love in response to Christ's love which sent him forth."

"We can have peace only when the spirit in the heart of man is changed. It will be only when the highest learn to come down and elevate the lowest and all will not strive for the highest place at the feast. When Jesus came to earth, religion was devoid of soul. Political liberty was unknown. Jesus came to cure those evils.
But he did not offer a new legislation to distribute wealth or a new theology, but he traced matters to the very source and found it to be in the heart of man—the selfishness, greed, hate, envy, or in short, the evil spirit. The evil spirit must be made the good spirit and love alone can do that."

"Everyone offers a different solution for the problem. Changes of educational systems, better economic conditions, political reorganizations, to make the world safe for democracy are advocated. Some say the world is waiting for a new scientific theology. These are all very good so far as they go. But unless we go deeper we will never reach the true source, back in the spirit of selfishness in the human heart.
We will never have a reconstructed world except on basis of reconstructed individual, and men are only reconstructed when they come under the laws of Christ."

"The sacrifices of love know no limits.
If the men who have paid the highest sacrifice have not in their renunciation and sacrifice, have not given us an example which we will strive to follow their sacrifice has been in vain. So with Christ, he did not die to exempt us but to give us an example."

2TO WILL HOLD STELLAR ATTRACTION OF YEAR

Next Friday evening the second year will meet at the Union for what promises to be the most enjoyable event of the year. Instead of adopting the kind suggestion of the third year, a masquerade will be held. Prizes of fabulous value will be given for the best costumes. There will be program, cards, charades and what is now designated as "etc." Notices are being sent to all members of the year, and further information will appear in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY.

PROF. W. G. SMITH, OF THE PSYCHOLOGY DEPT. STILL ILL

Prof. W. G. Smith, of the department of psychology, is still sick at his home, 177
Westmorland Ave. When a VARSITY representative came to see him he found him in a better condition than he was several weeks ago. Prof. Smith has been suffering for the past few weeks very severely from septic poisoning, due to irritations of the teeth, nose and tonsils.
It is expected that he will be able to resume his duties by about the beginning of March and not before. During his absence, the students of the Fourth Year Philosophy are expected to work on two essays, namely, "Doctrines of Sensation, and "Theories of Association."

POL. ECONOMY CLUB HELD OPEN DEBATE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Advisability of "The Nationalization of the Canadian Railways" is Discussed

The second regular meeting of the Political Economy Club was held on Friday afternoon last in the Library Building. The proceedings took the form of an open debate upon the following subject "The Nationalization of the Canadian Railways." The President of the Club called upon Mr. F. J. Horning, fourth year C. & F. to take the chair.
Mr. Horning is well versed in railway matters, having followed up the course of railway affairs with keen interest.
He delivered the opening address to the Club on the "Present Railway Situation in Canada." Statistics relative to the capitalization, dividend, rates, etc., of Canadian railways and also the amount of public assistance which each had received: the proportion of assistance to total capital investment in the case of the Grand Trunk, being 5-8, in that of C.N.R.
8-11, and C.P.R. 14-16. In view of this last fact, the speaker thought that in exception should be made in the case of the C.P.R. if Canadian railways were taken over by the Government. Railway rates in Canada were so low that the C.P.R. itself might be in trouble before many years. U.S. had taken over all her railways, why should not Canada follow her example and so eliminate competition and waste? An animated discussion followed upon the address; questions touched on being the compensation of shareholders for Government confiscation, the exceptional position of the C.P.R., difficulties of international control and the possibilities of suburban traffic.

PRIN. GRANGE, OF VET. COLL. APPROVES OF C.O.T.C. DRILL

Men Drill Almost Every Day at Armouries—Band Progressing Favourably

Nearly all the men of Dents, and Vets are drilling at the Armouries. At Dental College, all except the married, and returned men drill every afternoon up to Thursday. The Vets' drill the first five nights of the week from 4.45 to 5.45.
Lieut. Bell is in command and is ably supported by returned N.C.O.'s.

In an interview with Principal Grange of the Veterinary College, he stated that military training was a good thing. So much so he went on, "that I have placed it in my curriculum." On a perusal of this pamphlet, it was discovered that 200 hours a year were given over to military tactics. Principal Grange has come to this conclusion from the experience at other colleges where it was installed.
The change in demeanour of these students after taking military drill for a while, was most marked. Their entrance to classrooms and whole attitude became changed decidedly for the better.

It is not only for this reason but because at these times it is a duty, that Principal Grange takes such great interest in this training. He makes a special point of going down to watch the men at work to see that they are taking the drill seriously, as they ought to do and to make sure there are no abusive N.C.O.'s. For he claims abusive training is not serious training.
He is very pleased with the work.

The C.O.T.C. band is progressing favourably. They drill for some twenty minutes in the corridor of the Mining Building under Sergeant-Major Hunt.
Some eighteen men out last day. They are learning military marches, overtures, and what Lieut. Slater calls "stock pieces". The band is still in need of a few more alto, flute, and a baritone.
Those who know what these terms mean and afflicted with these accomplishments, are requested to report at the "Y" building, Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 4.10 p.m.

178 Skating Party.

COL. LANG RECEIVES FURTHER HONOUR

Appointed Gen. Staff Officer to
Gen. Lessard for Special Duty

Additional honour has just been bestowed on Col. W. R. Lang, O.C., M.D.
No. 2, in being appointed General Staff Officer to General Lessard on special duty at Halifax. Just whether the appointment is permanent, Col. Lang was unable to say, but in any case expects to be away for several months. He still retains his post as O.C. M.D. No. 2.

While Col. Lang is away, the work of directing the military studies will be in the hands of Major A. W. McConnell, of the C.O.T.C. and late of the 116th Batt.,
C.E.F. He has served in this battalion as second in command since its organization in 1916, and also including nine months' at the front. Major McConnell has also been recommended as Senior Musketry Officer for the District, in succession to Lt.-Col. C. V. Massey,
C.O.T.C., who has gone to Ottawa.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Captain John Ferguson Palling,
M.D., C.M., Trinity College, 1888, has died in England. He was serving with the Canadian Army Medical Corps, and was reported ill the beginning of December. His home was in Barrie.

Capt. C. R. Widdifield, B.A. (T.) 1911, has been appointed business manager of the 6th Can. Reserve Battalion. He was badly wounded last August.

Lieut. Alan A. McQueen, M.C., of 585
Dovercourt Road, has been appointed to the British Mission in Washington, and is on his way to assume his new duties. He went overseas with the 29th Battery but latterly has been acting as Divisional Gas Officer to the 1st Canadian Division. He was awarded the Military Cross on January 1st.

The Military Cross which was won by the late Lieut. H. S. Edmonds, For. 1918, is to be presented to his father by the Duke of Devonshire at the opening of the Provincial Legislature on Wednesday, February 6th. Second Lieut. Edmonds went overseas with a draft from the C.O.T.C., and after training at Oxford, was gazetted to the Wiltshire Regiment, going to France in December 1916. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge on April 9th, and died of his wounds on April 20. The Military Cross was awarded him for brilliant work done on that occasion, but he did not live to receive his honour.

Major Douglas H. Storms, M.C., App.
Sci. 1915, has been made adjutant to the four depot batteries stationed at the Exhibition Camp. Major Storms went overseas as a subaltern in the 8th Battery, and was promoted captain, and later major and O.C. of a battery. He was awarded the M.C. in January 1917. He was wounded last July and returned home on sick leave the following September.

Capt. D. A. Warren, M.C., M.A. (U) 1910, M.B. 1912, has relinquished his commission in the R.A.M.C. He has seen much service, going to France in November 1915 to a Clearing Station, and then acting as M.O. to the Royal Warwickshire Regiment. His M.C. was awarded for "conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He continued to attend wounded for over an hour under heavy artillery and machine gun fire and in full view of the enemy. Later he established an aid post and carried on for forty-eight hours without rest under continuous fire."

Another Varsity man recently mentioned in despatches by General Haig, is the late Capt. John R. Woods, B.A. (U) 1914; Capt. Woods was serving with the C.M.R. in France, when he was killed on the night of October 24th. He and two other officers were in a support dug-out on that night, when a shell struck their shelter, killing two and wounding the third. Capt. Woods' father is attached to the British Mission in New York.

Don't forget the Women's "Lit" Short Story Contest. Note the date for returns,
February 16th.

TWO INTERESTING PAPERS PRESENTED ON X-RAYS

Improved Outfits and a New Method of Crystal Analysis

NEW USE OF X-RAYS

Difficulty with Tubes is to Have a Uni-directional Current

Two interesting papers were presented at the Physics Building Friday afternoon by Dr. E. F. Burton and Mr. D. A. Keys,
M.A. Prof. Burton explained in a clear manner the development of the present improved X-ray outfits. He made particular reference to the type offered by the General Electric Company to the United States Government for war purposes. This type was self-contained in every way including a gasoline engine to generate the current. Soldiers can be examined thoroughly on the field of battle and their cases diagnosed immediately, expediting any operations required.

Difficulty with X-ray Tubes.

The difficulty with X-ray tubes is to have a powerful unidirectional current.
This is not secured by means of storage cells as in the past, but by means of a synchronous motor driven by the source of alternating current. The motor rotates a mica disc with a commutator device so that only the one kind of current is led away to the X-ray bulb.

Modern X-ray Bulb.

The modern X-ray bulb itself has seen a tremendous evolution from the earlier types. The most recent Coolidge tube can be kept in use for hours at a time and rectifies the current itself. A Wienelt cathode, consisting of a tungsten filament heated by an auxiliary circuit, supplies the electrons which bombard a tungsten target. This is kept cool by a thick copper rod with radiator vanes outside. The bulb now is only about 3 inches in diameter and is covered with a lead glass sleeve perforated at one side for the X-ray radiation. Persons can be examined visually by means of a fluorescent screen and all the body processes watched in detail, especially if a dose of Barium sulphate is given with the food. Tuberculosis is detected by the fibrous structure of the lungs.

Two Views of X-ray Until 1912.

Mrs. D. A. Keys, M.A., first discussed the two points of view with regard to
X-rays which were in vogue until 1912.
First there was the corpuscular theory supported by Bragg alone. Then there was the wave theory, namely, that X-rays were but radiation of very short wave length compared with light.

The famous experiment by Lane, showing the spots from refraction of X-rays by the atoms in crystals finally convinced even Bragg, who then showed how the structure of crystals could be studied from the reflection of X-rays. Mr. Keys then passed on to the recent research work of
A. W. Hull, who has demonstrated the crystal structure of many metals by means of monochromatic X-rays projected into a revolving tube containing the metallic powders.

The surprising fact is that from the chaotic condition of the tiny crystals it is possible to get reinforced reflection in some cases as many as fourteen planes of atoms.
Another interesting fact was that mono-chromatic X-ray radiation of a wave length about .712 angstrom units can be secured by means of suitable screens of Zirconium or other metals. Mr. Keys, in his usual lucid style, showed how Mr. Hull had checked up his results by showing the number of atoms making up a unit of the crystalline substances.

Owing to the lateness of the hour Miss F. M. Quinlan will present her paper at the next seminar, two weeks hence.

211 WOMEN'S DEBATING SOCIETY HOLD MEETING

The third meeting of the 211 Debating Society was held Friday afternoon. The topic under discussion was "Women in Party Politics". A very interesting speech was given by Miss Grant, who advocated very strongly that party politics be abolished. A spirited discussion then took place between the members, which lasted long past the hour set.

But still there is room! Our next topic is "Immigration". Come and help solve the problem for Canada.

One of the first things a student should learn is concentration. Reading is of no avail unless there is thought behind it, and yet at times no matter how hard we try to understand and retain what we see on the page, our minds will wander to contemplation of some anticipated joy or past revelry. Then with a bump we descend to earth again and realize that a quarter or half an hour has been wasted in useless reverie. But if we could "settle down", as we say after one such lapse, no harm would follow, but usually the one is followed by many more and finally becoming disgusted we close our books.

Forced concentration is usually harmful because our attention is divided between disciplining ourselves and understanding what we are reading. This double effort is the method used in so-called cramming and results in brain fog. If we do not possess a strong nervous system, this condition occurs before the completion of our examinations and in many cases failure results. But even if our nerves could withstand the strain long enough, what good follows? We pass the examination but the knowledge acquired is fleeting and we commence our next year handicapped for lack of a firm foundation of facts.

Concentration in order to be beneficial, must be acquired without strain or effort and this is the result of long practice.

BETTER ENGLISH

"A no better movement could sweep this campus than one whose purpose of organization is the better use of English, and the doing away with some of the inane forms of college slang that greet the ear at every turn. It seems bewildering, shocking in fact, to find within institutions of so-called higher learning, a demoralization among the student body, as far as the speaking of English goes.

"Men and women, as a rule, are judged, from a cultural and intellectual standpoint, by the language that they use in their conversation. Frequently one meets men or women of great mental capacity, and oftentimes splendid education, who are poor conversationalists; they say little; they make up for their conversational shortcomings by being good listeners. There is no complaint to find with these individuals. When they do speak they say something worth while, and they say it well; their few words are spoken in the purest and most virile of English. It is not, therefore, the man of few words who is bewailing.

"The majority of college students, if would seem, talk a great deal, say little, and what they do say, say poorly. It isn't because of the fact that they do not know the fine usage of their mother tongue; they have been taught through grammar, high school and college the rules and conventions of speech, but their teaching has evidently gone in through one ear and out the other. If some of this learning has stuck in their heads, they fail to use it; they do not think before they speak. Their vocabulary is singularly limited; the result is a consequence loss in forcefulness of speech, which comes from the possession and correct usage of varied words and expressions.

"Taking these facts into consideration, statements which are not merely unjust criticisms, for they can be put to proof by anyone who will but give a few moments' attention, listening to the words that fall from the lips of his fellow students or his own, perchance, it will be evident that he or she turn about face and strive to make the English heard within and about the halls of our alma mater, the purest and most virile, the best."—University of Washington Daily.

LITERARY SOCIETY
HOLDS MEETING

Mr. Gordon Delivered Interesting
Address on Novels of
George Meredith

The regular meeting of the Literary Society was held at the Union on Saturday night. When the audience finally assembled at 8.30 the president took the chair and called the meeting to order.

It was announced that the closing of the short story contest had been postponed until February 16.

Mr. Gordon, the speaker of the evening, was then called upon to deliver an address on "George Meredith." In his opening remarks, Mr. Gordon stated that he had decided to confine his remarks to the novels, thus leaving out a considerable part of the author's works. However, it is of more advantage to make a comprehensive study of one side of a subject rather than a desultory resume of the whole.

George Meredith never enjoyed the wide-spread popularity of such of his contemporaries, as Dickens. This fact had a most unfortunate effect upon his work. He began to declare that he did not write to cater to the masses—but rather for his own enjoyment. Accordingly he indulged in wilful mannerisms. His style became intricate and involved when it easily might have been made a great deal simpler. As result, his genius was recognized only by those minds which were comparable with his own: Carlyle, George Eliot, Kingsley, Swinburne, Stevenson and Barry—all these understood his genius.

It is a curious fact that we think of George Meredith as belonging to the age of levels rather than as a contemporary of Dickens and Thackeray. Yet the problem he dealt with was the problem of the present age. We can read his novels now without the "past and gone" feeling which Dickens inspires. Yet nearly all these works were written before 1865.

One feels instinctively that whether in praise or in criticism Meredith regards English life from an outsiders point of view. In blood he is Celtic rather than Saxon. His Irish and Welsh parentage have given him the ability for such obviously intrusive sympathetic studies as Horace Deuray and his Welsh characters. Meredith was educated in England and Germany and began his career as a lawyer, which calling he soon deserted for literature. Here, on account of his lack of popularity, he barely kept from starving, eking out a bare livelihood in drudging journalism.

Mr. Gordon here announced that he would confine himself to the English novels. Generally, these novels deal with the same section of English life—the feudal Tory life which Fielding chose. The centre of the story is an English country house, such as we are in "The Egottist" and Harry Richmond. His personages, too, are generally the same. There is the master of the house!—a typical English lord—and grouped about him his friends, the country doctor, the parson. Then there were the honest, bluff and hearty farmers and their charming daughters, such as Lucy Desborough. Then there is always a troupe of gypsies or tinkers beneath the hedges of the country lanes. Still with all his sympathetic delineation of these latter we cannot but feel that Meredith studied them as types, for their literary value, rather than for their own sake, as did Hardy.

In discussing these novels we are struck with the comparative absence of plot. Their element of human interest lies almost entirely in his portrayal of character. Meredith seems to have been unable to tell a story for the story's sake as did Scott and Stevenson. Much of his greatness lies in this character drawing. He had the same intensity of feeling for women's rights as the suffrage workers. His heroines are not sombre, but beautiful, as well as thinking. Not only did Meredith decorate his books with backgrounds, he was a loving and accurate portrayer. His creed embraced the study of nature as subject to the same laws as human life. His happiest characters are those which live closest to nature. Optimism in novelists has not been common since 1058, most like Hardy, are pessimists.

Meredith preaches a gospel of hope but does not shut his eyes to darkness and hardship. He is a rugged optimist who has seen suffering, but his optimism does not rest on definite religion. He was an agnostic, but very religious in the broad sense of serving humanity. He died a disappointed man—rather a disappointed preacher for only a few people had received his teaching.

Dr. Wallace will address the next meeting of the Literary Society on the subject of "War Poetry."

2T1 HISTORY CLUB
HOLD REGULAR DEBATE

Canada's Relation in Foreign Affairs to the Empire Discussed

In spite of Prof. Brown's absence last Monday, the Club held a very interesting debate on the subject postponed from the previous week—"Resolved that Canada should have a greater share in moulding the foreign affairs of the Empire." Messes Barclay and Goldstein supported the affirmative and Messes Stewart and Shaw the negative.

Mr. L. F. Barclay, the affirmative leader, opened the discussion in an clear and abrupt way. "Canada, when wrested from the French, was troublesome, and had to have military government, but since then her manufacture has developed into extensive commerce, and she is bound for a leading nation, but," he said, "Britain controls our foreign trade—is this just?"

Mr. H. J. Stewart spoke fluently and strongly in favour of the negative. Britain has the greatest commerce of the world, and therefore ought to know how our foreign policy should best be controlled. Besides, we have enough trouble governing ourselves, without wanting more share in the Empire's foreign affairs."

Mr. M. F. Goldstein, for the affirmative, failed to refute, but claimed that Canada as a part of the Empire, should have a say in the nation's foreign affairs, just as Ontario as a part of Canada has a share in the Dominion's legislature.

Mr. H. S. Shaw, also picked more holes in Mr. Barclay's assertion, and added more points in favour of the negative.

Mr. Barclay was given two minutes to reply in which he tried hard to drive his statements home.

After a few minutes brief, a vote was taken which, with but one exception, was unanimously in favour of the negative.

This subject has aroused such consideration among the club members that to-day's meeting was decided upon for a general discussion. Come along and here this interesting subject taken in detail this afternoon; three till four, in the Library building.

MEMBERS OF CHOIR SHOW
LACK OF INTEREST

As may have been noticed for some time back the choir seats in Convocation Hall often come in very handy for those who arrive too late to get a seat in a less conspicuous place. Of course, those who are fortunate enough to be ushered to the choir seats must be made aware of the fact that they are rendering a great service to the Sunday morning meeting as those who should be there are not so conspicuous by their absence. One who knows has described the choir as absolutely feelingless: she says that if even a few members would attend regularly the choir could show some signs of life, but as now appears to outsiders, it's condition is deplorable or in other words almost represents a negative quantity.

LE CLUB POLITIQUE.

The next meeting of Le Club Politique will be held on Wednesday, February 6th at 2.15 p.m., in Room 6, Library Building. The subject for discussion will be, "The French-Canadian Problem." No special invitation is required. Any men who are interested are welcome.

DENTS DEFEAT MEDS IN HARD FOUGHT GAMEPlayers Showed Inclination to Mix
It—Score 2-0

In their Jennings' Cup fixture of Saturday morning, Dents succeeded in defeating Meds by the score of 2-0. The game was hard fought from beginning to end and only the good work of Staples in goal prevented the Meds from tallying on several occasions. There was a considerable amount of rough work noticeable, but both teams were well matched and the game was well worth seeing.

It took Meds a few minutes to wake up properly after the first period started, but they soon got into their stride and pushed the Dents well back into their own territory. The "toothpullers", however, were not to be rushed in this manner, and about the middle of the period, Dales scored the first goal for Dents. Meds now came back with a rush and worked hard till the end of the period, but with no result.

Second Period.

The second period opened well and in the first few minutes of play, Dents rushed the puck down to the Med goal and Dales on a pass from Dobbs, again tallied. The rest of the period was taken up by rushes from one end of the rink to the other. The players showed a decided inclination to rough it up a little, until the referee put a stop to this by imposing several penalties of a minor nature.

Third Period.

The third period neither team scored. Walden, in goal for Meds, did some good work and saved them on several occasions. Dales worked hard, as well as the rest of the Dents team, but without avail, the Med defence having tightened up considerably making Dents take long shots. The game ended with the score 2-0 in favor of Dents.

For the winners, Dales is a mighty handy man to have around, while their defence is also something that it takes more than a novice to penetrate. For Meds, Dafeo, Watson and O'Connor showed up well, while Atwell at centre, played a good game.

S.P.S. BLANK ST. MIKE'S
IN FAST HOCKEY GAMES.P.S. More Effective in Combination
—Score 4-0

On Saturday morning School of Science shot their way to victory over St. Mike's hockey team by a score 4-0. Superior marksmanship and more effective combination turned the trick for School. The Irish furnished a great come-back and the game was by no means tame. The light and dark blue were not effective around the nets, seldom shooting the puck off the ice. This accounted for their lack of goals.

School started with a rush and pressed hard, scoring three goals before the period ended.

In the second frame, St. Mike's kept battering away, but their inability to lift the puck kept them scoreless. The play in this period was fairly even with St. Mike's aggressors.

Trying to protect their lead and partly owing to the loss of wind, School played a defensive game, the last fifteen minutes. The Irish tried hard, but lacked the punch to put across a tally, and the only score of the period was the result of a lone rush by Macdonald of School. The game ended 4-0 with S.P.S. in the lead.

McDonald and McIntyre starred for School with Chambers featuring with his back-checking. For St. Mike's, Grace and Mulvihill were best, with Ryan showing traces of fine form in goal.

In each game an improvement in shooting and defense work is noticeable. The men are gaining condition.

U.C. DEFEAT JR. MEDS II
IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

Score 24-17

Thursday afternoon Jr. Meds (2) played off with University College in a scheduled basketball league fixture. University College brought out their regular team which by practice had great advantage. Jr. Meds, however, had changed their team and their lack of playing together enabled U.C. to forge ahead and force the play at all stages. The first half opened with a burst of speed on the part of Junior Meds (2) who scored in one minute. Robinson soon evened up and when Meds slackened, U.C. had the play, and Robinson notched three baskets in succession. The half ended with U.C. showering shots at Meds' basket, the score being 11-7 in favour of U.C. During this half, Stokes was a tower of strength, stopping up practically every rush on the part of the Meds forwards. Robinson played a wonderful game at centre and was undoubtedly the best of all the forwards. Trackman and Buckby worked hard, the former putting up a wonderful defence, while the latter used his speed to great advantage.

The second half opened with a basket for Meds, who again scored in two minutes U.C. woke up, and from then on forced the play, although their shooting was erratic. Lorrman used his "poke-shot" and this effective novelty secured several points for U.C. Borsook used his weight to good advantage and with Stokes, worked like a Trojan. Gordon and Morgan played well for Meds and Temes proved quite effective on the defence. The game ended with the score 24-17 for U.C.

In this half, Robinson showed up well for U.C. and Lorrman also greatly improved. For Meds, Trackman and Gordon starred. U.C. men were noticeably weak in their shooting, while Meds did not play together. Mutart as referee gave splendid satisfaction.

U.C. —(24)—Parker, Lorrman, Robinson, Stokes, Borsook, Godelph, Taylor.
Jr. Meds II (17)—Buckley, Morgan-Trackman, Temes, Gordon, Brady.

The wild northern spirit of McMaster has been imbued in their fair co-eds who celebrated McMaster hockey victory over Forestry on Saturday by making the air thrill with the college yell.

The medical officer said it was on orders and as a result the O.T.C. were inoculated last Friday. The men immediately became typhoid artists and were unable to meet Trinity in their basketball fixture on Friday or U.C. in the Jennings' Cup on Saturday. If the M.O. lets up enough O.T.C. will be able to complete their schedule in the University athletics.

Forestry with the large enrolment of ten of whom seven can perform on skates, had the spirit to enter a team in the Jennings' Cup Series. The sextette have showed a wonderful improvement since the first game and may yet upset the "dope" as to who will win Group I.

The spectators of the Med v. Dents hockey match on Saturday were favored at times when the play waxed slow to several pugilistic encounters. The frays were more numerous than serious and up to date no fatalities have been reported.

It is to be hoped that Jennings' Cup teams will "cut the rough stuff".

Pennsylvania.—Only three teams will compete for the Intercollegiate fencing championship this season. Annapolis will be unable to send a team, and Harvard has substituted bayonet work for fencing, leaving only Yale, Pennsylvania and Columbia to contest the title.

The next meet will be held in the Columbia University gymnasium instead of the Hotel Astor, the scene of past championships. It was suggested at a recent meeting of the Intercollegiate Association to make bayonet combats a regular feature of the meet, but the decision was reserved until later.

McMASTER WINS OVER
FORESTRY IN HOCKEY

Score 5-3

Saturday morning McMaster and Forestry met in their second game of their Jennings' Cup Series. Although Forestry were defeated 5-3 they are showing signs of improvement since their last game. In the first period, Forestry led with the score 2-1. The second period, McMaster did all the scoring and netted two goals. This gave them the lead, which they were hard pushed to retain, until in the last period they managed to elude the Forestry defence on two occasions and scored twice. Near the end of the third period, Courtnage on a lone rush, scored the final goal. The game ended with the score 5-3 with McMaster on the long end. Wylie Wilkinson refereed the game.

McMaster—Sinclair, Jamieson, Malloy, Pearce, Smart, Dingle.
Forestry—Horton, Courtnage, Grupp, Commins, Van Camp, Eisler, Irwin.

Wycliffe

The main feature of the Wycliffe College Literary Society on Friday evening was a Cambridge debate. Resolved "That woman should rule the home." The cause of the women was bravely upheld, and not in vain, by Messrs. Robins and Geoghegan, while Messrs. Widdows and J. H. Gibson argued for the negative. It was not definitely stated in the resolution, as to who was to do the ruling in the event of woman being refused the right, but it was gathered from the negative supporters' arguments that they took it for granted that man should take the premier position. Mr. Robins very cleverly opened the case for the women, then Mr. Widdows arose and scathingly denounced the weaker sex; contending that only man should dominate over the trembling household. This was to be expected, however, as Mr. Widdows hopes soon to have that opportunity. Messrs. Geoghegan and Gibson then stated their reasons for and against and Mr. Robins concluded the debate by accusing the upholders of neg. of not even approaching the matter under discussion.

After this the house took part in the argument, and appeared to be equally divided until it came to a conclusion. Mr. Wright, in the closing address, charged the judges, in reaching a decision to be very careful, and only decide after due consideration of the merits and demerits of the subject. He said that if they dared to agree with the affirmative then he was doomed to be a bachelor. We have the greatest sympathy with Mr. Wright since it was almost unanimously decided that women should rule the home.

During the past week the Rev. Dyson Hague, M.A., addressed the students in the College Chapel at the morning service. The addresses were greatly appreciated by his hearers, especially his concluding remarks, on Friday morning, when he placed the matter of their calling, fairly and squarely before the students. Canon Hague took as his subject, "St. Paul's First Epistle to Timothy."

SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

A number of University men left on January 31st, with the eleventh draft from the C.O.T.C. Wilfred Adams, Trinity College, 1920, of Peterborough, is to be assigned to the infantry.

Albert Edward Berry, B.A.Sc. 1917, of St. Mary's, and A. V. Delaporte, B.A.Sc. 1913, of Toronto, to the Royal Engineers.

To the Tank Corps, Harold E. Bowes, U.C. 1917, of Ingersoll, and R. Bruce Marr, Faculty of Education 1916-17 of Dorchester.

Of those who left with the tenth draft, Lieut. H. A. C. Breuls, U.C. 1918, II, Gordon Donley, U.C. 1917 and Wm S. Dyer, B.A. (V.) 1917, have been posted to the Royal Garrison Artillery; A. E. Miv, App. Sc. 1919, to the Royal Engineers.

Walter Burd, who has seen service before, also goes to the Royal Engineers. Pte. Burd went overseas with the 28th Battalion, and was wounded in January 1916, also winning the D.C.M. in the same month. He was a University College and Wycliffe College student.

Lieut. Conn Smythe, App. Sci. 1916, has been moved from Magdeburg to the Prison Camp at Halle.

Lieut. Lawrence Kert, R.F.C., U.C. previously at Karlsruhe, is now at Heidelberg.

Lieut. M. S. Elliott, B.A. (U.) 1915, and Lieut. A. H. Goodman, U.C. 1914-16, have been appointed to the 1st Depot Battalion, 1st Central Ontario Regiment.

Lieut.-Col. Oliver M. Biggar, B.A., U.C. 1898, has been made Judge Advocate General.

2T1 MEN WISH MIXED DEBATE.

How about a freshman vs. co-ed debate? What do you say? Come and tell the "bunch" at the History Debating Club meeting on Monday, February 4th at 3 p.m. You know where—the Library Building, Room 5. Come, you will benefit both the Club and yourself. Keep up with current events.

News has been received in Toronto that Flight-Lieut. Ross McPherson, son of Allan McPherson, of the T. Eaton Co., and 39 Delaware avenue, was killed in an airplane accident in England. The deceased officer, who was in his twentieth year, was born in Toronto and educated at the University of Toronto. He enlisted in the infantry in April, 1916, and took out a commission, but later transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in Toronto.

He trained at Camp Borden and went to England last July. After completing his course he was engaged since November in instruction work at Spittlegate Camp, Grantham.

He was the eldest son and according to advices received by his father, met with the fatal accident on Saturday last.

According to a letter received by Principal Grange of Veterinary College, his son Flight-Lieut. Rockford Grange, has been promoted to position of O.C. of an Aerodrome at Seaford, East Lynde.

There are a number of S.P.S. men serving with No 1 Battalion, Canadian Railway Troops:—Major T. R. London, 1905; Major J. B. Hern, 1904; Major Wm. Monds, 1900, Capt. Eric P. Muntz, 1914; Lieut. E. H. Jupp, 1915; E. R. Lindsay, 1914; C. A. Scott, 1909; C. P. Van Norman 1908; A. S. Miller, 1914; Corporal W. J. Nichol, 1917, who is getting a commission.

2T1 HOLD SUCCESSFUL SKATING PARTY

On Thursday evening the Class of 2T1, U.C. held a very enjoyable skating party at the "Varsity Rink." The executive secured one of the hockey cushions as a rendezvous. It was bitterly cold, with the result that there were many frozen cars. In spite of this the party was a great success. After the skating, refreshments were served in plentiful quantities to the hungry class and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

HAVE YOU SUBSCRIBED?

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

IS DEBATING A LOST ART AT 'VARSITY'

Professors and Business Men Consider It Useful

Most Students Prefer "Good Time"

S.P.S. will Meet Osgoode Hall in Final Debate I.C.D.U.

It is necessary to hesitate. It is with half an apology that one approaches the topic of debating. This should not be the case. There is not a prominent public man in this country—or in any other—who did not, when he had the chance, take an active part in debates.

Ask professors of the University, or ask the business men outside the University if debating is useful. Their answers will be decidedly in the affirmative.

With that knowledge therefore that debating is useful and with the knowledge that to be able to debate well is an accomplishment, why is there not a more active interest in this failing art? The answer is evident, students are satiated to stay in the rut, and have a "good time."

If one analyses the conditions as they exist here to-day he finds there is a literary and debating society in most of the colleges; and there is an Inter-College Debating Union of Toronto.

During the fall term this latter organization ran off two series of debates and S.P.S. and Osgoode Hall must debate off for the championship, and the ownership of the Kerr Shield. Men in the scientific branches of education are not usually literary, but, yet, it is seen that it may be so. With practice and perseverance, much may be done in acquisition of the art or science of debating. Facility in public speaking will be one of the direct results.

All students should be interested in debating, and one way of showing that interest is by attending the debates. The students will have an opportunity of hearing the final debate of I.C.D.U. at Newman Hall on Friday, February 22nd.

The subject is, "Resolved that the goods of enemy countries be excluded from the British Empire after the war." Messrs. W. J. Browne and R. Hamer, M.A. of S.P.S. are supporting the affirmative; whilst Messrs. W. Auger and J. A. Grace of Osgoode Hall are for the negative.

BIG "T" MIXER AT CENTRAL "Y" TO-NIGHT

Mr. W. E. Braden will Speak on Big Brother Movement

There will be three more Big "T" Mixers. The first of these three is to-night at Central "Y" at 6 p.m. sharp. If you come late you run your own chance of getting a piece of pie. Last week we had a real orchestra which made us chew faster. It gave us PER. The fellows heard about our educational system. How about to-night.

To-night Mr. W. E. Braden will give a short talk on the Big Brother Movement in Toronto. He is secretary of this organization which aims to direct the kids' energies towards better types of boyhood. The boy of to-day interests all of us, and the type of boy that Mr. Braden will speak about is the one that we want to know more about.

Come down and hear about those kids who shoot crap and spend their evenings on the street or in the shows. Those "gill tappers" and "shop lifters". Do you know what they do with those kids to make them better boys? Come and hear Mr. Braden.

A Good Meal
A Good Orchestra
A Good Talk
A Good Group and A Peach of a Time.

PROF. W. R. TAYLOR

Will Lecture on "The Literature of Zionism, Ancient and Modern" at Menorah Society.

Prof. W. R. Taylor, head of the Department of Oriental Languages will address the Menorah Society on Monday, February 11 at 8 p.m. at the University Y.M.C.A. on the subject: "The Literature of Zionism, Ancient and Modern". This lecture promises to be very interesting. All interested are cordially invited.

UNIVERSITY BAND IS GETTING INTO SHAPE AFTER A LATE START

Lieut. Slatter Confident of Success in His Work

The C.O.T.C. Band is showing very marked improvement lately, and is rapidly being moulded into a fine military band. It is under the leadership of Lieut. Slatter, bandmaster of the 48th Highlanders. Lieut. Slatter is a very capable leader, having graduated from the Life Guard's Band in England where he played as soloist, and was regarded as one of the best players at that time. Lieut. Slatter expressed himself as highly pleased with the good progress of band, and remarked that if he had about a dozen more men to give it the proper balance, he could mould it into one of the finest military bands.

Lieut. Slatter believes that a band is an essential part to the military organization of a university, and should receive particular attention, especially from the various faculties, who should do all in their power to support it.

The opportunity should not be given up as the band is on a good sound foundation. At yesterday's practice there was a turnout of twenty-four, amongst whom were several new members. In order to retain players from the Dental College who would have to resign if practice continued on Friday, on account of their work, the second practice of the week will be held now on Thursdays.

The band got away to a late start this year, and that has proved quite detrimental as they are unable to get sufficient training. However, a solid basis has been laid, and by getting away to an early start next year, and with the advent of new men, the C.O.T.C. band will become an organization that will be a credit to the University.

MCGILL HONOURS TORONTO DEAD

Lieut.-Col. John McCrae Carried Flag of U. of T. to Glory

McGill University honored one of her own and Toronto University's illustrious dead yesterday by holding a memorial service in memory of the late Lieut.-Col. John McCrae, B.A., M.D., of No. 3 Canadian General Hospital (McGill). Dr. John McNaughton delivered an address on the life and work of the fallen soldier. The man who wrote, "In Flanders Field" was, he said, well known and beloved. Speaking of the college life of the dead colonel, Prof. McNaughton said: "He carried the flag of Toronto University to immortal glory."

Most appreciative obituaries of Col. John McCrae are appearing in the London press. The Times speaks of Col. McCrae's high military, professional and academic distinction also of his beloved personal qualities.

ARTS STUDENTS MAY FILL EXAMINATION FORM NOW

Have any freshmen been in the Registrar's Office recently? If so, they may have noticed with some concern, a pale blue object lying on the desk. As this always appears about this time, it will be easily recognized by the other years, but for the enlightenment of the freshmen, and of any one else who doesn't know, it is the application form for the coming final examinations, and must be filled in on or before February 15th.

By a perusal of the same it states that the programme of the examinations will be out about April 1st, also that students who have enlisted for overseas service must send an official certificate with the application in order to receive standing.

According to this form the Annual Examinations will take place in May instead of in April, as last year, and so instead if the expected shortened course, it will be more prolonged.

NO MORE RECITALS UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE

Fuel Shortage Hits Convocation Hall

On Tuesday, February 5, Mr. A. E. Whitehead, Organist of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, gave the ninth recital in Convocation Hall.

Of the Prelude and Fugue in E minor (Johann Sebastian Bach) it is said that it was held in high favour by Mendelssohn. Widor says of the Fugue "The trumpet of the Judgment Day resounds in this Fugue. It would seem to be Bach's intent to portray the Inevitable in its full majesty."

The Legend, from the pen of Harvey Grace, a London organist and writer on topics pertaining to the organ, was the first number by this composer to appear in this series of recitals. The closing section is especially worthy of note because of its deep harmonic touches.

The third number, Josef Rheinberger's Sonata in B minor, is generally conceded to be one of the composer's finest inspirations. Although it is of sustained interest throughout, the second movement, the Cantabile, contains decidedly one or the loveliest thoughts ever expressed by Rheinberger. The last movement the Fugue is a worthy ending to this splendid work.

The Spring Song by Harry Farjeon has delicate, lilting melody which twines about the heavier body of the composition, delicately as a climbing rose about a massive pillar. The "b" part of this number—Epilogue was of especial interest since the composer, Healy Willan, was the organist at the last recital. This fresh and vigorous work was the result of impressions derived from the St. Albans Pageant a few years ago and is handled in a scholarly and interesting manner.

Mons. Bonnet, the composer of the last number, Variations de Concert, needs little introduction to those who follow the leading figures in the organ world of to-day. The work consists of an Introduction in free style, the theme itself, and four interesting variations of it. In the first of these variations the theme is heard in chords over a pizzicato bass; in the second the theme is in the pedal; and in the third in the tenor register, somewhat after the manner of the chorale prelude. The final variation for full organ contains a splendid opportunity for brilliant pedal octave work and a pedal cadenza to which Mr. Whitehead did full justice.

At the close of the recital it was announced that owing to the scarcity of fuel, further recitals had been indefinitely postponed.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

O.T.C. Furnish Guard of Honour

Yesterday saw the official opening of the Ontario Provincial Legislature for its 1918 session. A parade headed by the Royal Canadian Dragoons escorted the Governor General, the Duke of Devonshire, and Lieut.-Governor Sir John Hendrie to the Parliament Buildings. The party left Government House in Rosedale at 2.30 in the afternoon and proceeded by way of Queen's Park to its destination.

In front of the Parliament Buildings, the Governor-General and suite were met by a guard of honour, furnished by the Universities Training Company, whilst the 6th Battery, C.F.A., C.E.F., fired the salute of 15 guns. Capt. Timothy Cowley was the commanding officer.

ORDER OF FUEL CONSUMPTION Re UNIVERSITY IS NOT KNOWN

Whether the recent order in regard to fuel consumption will apply to the University is not known at the Superintendents' Office. Word will no doubt be received in this matter from Ottawa in a very short time as the University is a Public Utility with a comparatively large consumption of coal. Recent statistics as to amount used are not available; the following figures are approximate: Maximum daily consumption is 71 tons. Maximum weekly consumption is 447 tons. Total for one year is 7,751 tons. The total square feet of radiation in all buildings heated amounts to 205,126 sq. ft. and the cost per square foot of radiation amounts to 20 cents per year.

TO-NIGHT'S DAFFYDIL WILL BE BEST EVER

Hurry Up and Get Your Ticket

Daffydil Night to be put on by the Medicals this evening at Convocation Hall promises to be undoubtedly the best ever. The interval of two years since the last event has furnished unlimited material, energy and originality.

The Epistaxis will have the same "pop" and originality that has always marked this volume. It's a whole show in itself.

There are a few tickets left, so get busy and come with the crowd.

LAW STUDENTS HOLD "AT HOME"

Convocation at Osgoode Hall will be the Scene of Prominent Judges and Barristers

It has been announced that the embryo lawyers of the first year Law School will hold an "At Home" in Convocation Hall at Osgoode Hall, Queen Street, on the evening of Friday 15th of February at eight-thirty o'clock. This promises to be a very splendid function and the committee are sparing no efforts to make it a grand success.

They are to be congratulated on having the patronage of a number of the Benchers of the Upper Canada Law Society and their wives for this occasion; and several prominent judges and barristers will be in attendance. The proceeds realized will be given to the Patriotic Fund. The music will be supplied by Schnell's Orchestra and the catering by Coles' Confectionery.

It is known that University students from all faculties may secure tickets at THE VARSITY office, Main Building, or from any student at-law in the first year.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Captain William Gordon MacNevin died at the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium, Gravenhurst, on Sunday, February 3rd. He was a graduate of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of the year 1915. While on active service in France in August, 1916, he contracted bronchitis, but carried on till November, when he was invalided home.

The sad news has come to his parents in Harrison, that Gunner Elmer Howes is in an English hospital, blind. He was wounded about six weeks ago. He was a student at the School of Practical Science 1918, when he enlisted with the 41st Battery.

Among those grieved for the Military Cross appears the name of Lieut. Herbert Christie, B.Sc.F. 1913. He has been serving with a Field Company of the Canadian Engineers since going to France in October, 1916. He was slightly wounded on March 31st, 1917.

FROSH MEDS PEEVED AT COATS DISTURBED

Reporter Refused Admittance to Investigate Conditions

Peeved because their beautiful Parisian creations were slightly disturbed whilst visiting Main Building Saturday morning, some Meds uncharitably refused a Varsity reporter entrance to the sacred precincts of the "Smoker". The aforementioned reporter was paying a friendly call with the laudable intention of investigating the conditions which were so pitifully complained of in a recent letter. As a result, papers will continue to mysteriously disappear and two hundred Meds read one morning paper. The fault lies with them—THE VARSITY has done its utmost.

Don't forget the Women's "Lit" Short Story Contest. Note the date for return, February 16th.

KHAKI COLLEGE IS ORGANIZED

"Times" Educational Supplement Contains an Account of "University of Vimy Ridge"

The "Times" Educational Supplement of January 3rd, contains an account of the "University of Vimy Ridge," the first calendar of which has recently been issued. This "Khaki College" is organized on the same lines as those already instituted in Britain in accordance with the scheme outlined by President H. M. Tory of the University of Alberta. The Chancellor of the University is the General Officer Commanding the Division. The Senate is to consist of the President, who is to be a University man of prominent standing, representatives of the brigades and other units, the senior chaplain and the Y.M.C.A. Supervisor. The scheme of work is divided into three main sections: (a) Lectures to large groups on civic and Imperial topics; (b) more detailed instruction to smaller groups; (c) courses of reading and study for advanced students, the results of which are to be carefully recorded for the student's credit after his return to Canada. On the teaching staff that has already been appointed with others, are three members of the University of Toronto: Captain E. H. Oliver, B.A., University College and Knox College, formerly Gold Medalist in Classics, and at the time of going overseas Principal of the Presbyterian College, University of Saskatchewan; Captain G. S. Easton, N.A., University College and Knox College, formerly assistant in the Department of Physics, and Lieut. W. D. Thomas, B.A., University of Wales and Oxford, who, before going overseas with the 216th Battalion, was on the teaching staff in English at Trinity College.

COUNCIL OF RED CROSS SOCIETY WILL MEET

Representatives from All Parts of Canada to Meet in Convocation Hall

The annual meeting of the Canadian Council of the Red Cross Society will take place at Convocation Hall on Wednesday afternoon. Many eminent representatives are coming from all parts of the Dominion to attend these meetings. Included among them are their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, respectively patron and president of the Society, Sir John Hendrie as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is Vice-patron; the Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan, and others.

FALSE RUMOUR CIRCULATED

Capt. Blake-Forster Confined to Home With Blood Poisoning

A rumour that started some time last week spread amongst the student body, the substance of which was that Capt. Blake-Forster, had severed connections with that corps. No doubt this had its foundation in the fact that Capt. Blake-Forster had been absent from parades for the past two weeks, an observation which gave some kind soul material for the work of his inventive mind.

For the benefit of those who had been bombarding THE VARSITY office for the verification of the rumour, we are in a position to say Capt. Blake-Forster has been laid up with blood-poisoning, and that it is to be hoped he will resume his splendid work shortly.

M. & P. OPEN MEETING AT CANADIAN INSTITUTE BUILD G.

The M. & P. Society will hold an open meeting on Thursday evening next, Feb. 7 at the Canadian Institute Building, 198 College Street at 8 p.m. An interesting program has been prepared. The Hon. President, Dr. J. Satterly, will occupy the chair. The main feature of the evening will be Dr. Chan's address on "Eclipses, with special reference to the Eclipse of the Sun in June". Refreshments will be served. Everybody welcome. Come and bring your friend.

COMMERCIAL LODGE, S.O.E. HEARS W. R. HAMER, M.A.

Gives Interesting Address, Urging the Need of Higher Education

Mr. R. Hamer, M.A., of the Physics Department gave an address to the members of Commercial Lodge, Sons of England, at the L.O.E. Temple, city, on Saturday evening last. The subject was: "What must Englishmen do to maintain British eminence in Science against the German challenge?"

Mr. Hamer first disposed of the claim of the Germans to pre-eminence in science and invention by mentioning a long list of common inventions and improvements not made by them, but instead by men of England, France and America. The book of civilization is filled with the records of the inventive and scientific genius of the men of many nations.

The work of Englishmen occupies a most prominent part both for quantity and more particularly quality. Englishmen have good reason to be proud of the genius their fellow-countrymen have shown in, for example, the development of the steam engine, of ocean navigation, of weaving and spinning, of medicine, of electricity and of scientific thought.

Mr. Hamer discoursed on German methods in trade, banking and education, long experienced, but only realized since the outbreak of the war and he spoke of the methods adopted by the various governments in the British Empire to remedy the state of affairs. Proof of the success attending our efforts was presented, but he emphasized the fact that Great Britain must do more.

His opinion is that the solution is only to be found in encouraging the pursuit of higher education by the English race. It is necessary for us to adopt wholeheartedly the belief that only by Science can we hope to ameliorate the conditions consequent to this great war. The success that would ensue would compel the Germans to respect us and an attitude of respect is more conducive to the stability of a future league of nations than is one of contempt. In any case, unless the people of the British race raise themselves they will be outstripped by other nations. Canada, with the example of the United States to urge her, ought to witness in the near future great scientific and industrial development.

C.O.T.C. TENDER RECEPTION TO COL. W. R. LANG

Major McConnell Will Assume Command

Prior to the departure of Lieut.-Col. W. R. Lang to take up his new duties at Halifax under Major-General Lessard, a farewell reception was tendered him by the members of the C.O.T.C. in their quarters. In his short address, Col. Lang expressed regret at temporarily severing his connection with the organization. He asked them to "carry on" in the regular way. The command of the C.O.T.C. will be taken over by Major A. W. McConnell, late of the 116th Battalion. Major McConnell was formerly Adjutant and Second-in-Command of that unit. Before enlisting he was Assistant Professor of Architecture in the University. The same subordinate staff of the C.O.T.C. will be under the new commandant, Major Alex. C. Sniely, late of the 92nd Battalion, will look after the training of the Dents, Meds and Vets. Major G. H. Nevelly will still remain in charge of the Overseas Training Company of the University. It is not anticipated that any drafts from this Company will go overseas in the immediate future.

WILL CLOSE MUSEUM TO CONSERVE COAL

In order to assist in relieving the acute situation that has arisen owing to the shortage of coal in the city, the trustees of the Royal Ontario Museum have decided to close that institution as far as may be done without injury to the valuable contents. The big building on Bloor street will, therefore, be closed to the public except on Friday and Saturday of each week. This week, however, the building will be open on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

POLITICS AND THE UNIVERSITY MAN

"The best men are not in politics."

The sentence concisely expresses a sentiment that is not uncommon, and, unfortunately, is not without truth. No one acquainted with politics in Canada and the United States will deny that our public affairs are relegated to men of small or very average capacity. Government is not regarded as an attractive field for trained men of real ability.

In the past it has been England's good fortune to have in her aristocracy and upper wealthy class a source from which might be drawn men especially fitted for service in the democratic institutions of government. Young men of assured position, sons of wealthy merchants, bankers, manufacturers, as well as of the nobility, commonly looked forward to entering the sphere of politics. In the universities they read as their inclinations directed, delving in economics, history, sociology, devoting their energies to the study of great public questions. The ambitions of these men centred in a political life. The result inevitably has been that there prevails in English politics a far higher standard of ability, and, to put it frankly, a truer sense of common honesty, than we know on this side of the Atlantic. In England, this section of the people provides that element of knowledge without which democratic institutions prove ineffectual and unsound.

On the other hand, young Canadians who have enjoyed special privileges do not feel it incumbent upon them to enter active political life. Take the university graduate, for example. Admittedly he has enjoyed special privileges, the privileges of a good education. He is generally not well to do, not a person of independent means, so he had to earn his living. This he proceeds to do, and is usually fairly successful. But when he has established himself—then does he concern himself with the affairs of state? If he does not, then he fails in his duty?

The student of to-day has a duty to perform, a duty not less urgent, though entailing no corresponding sacrifice, than those which arise from war. Are we fighting to make the world safe for democracy? Then we must fight ignorance as well as Prussianism. Let it not be said a generation hence, "The best men are not in politics."

A WORD TO THE UNWISE

One of the greatest steps in a person's life is the change from collegiate or high school to university, and yet how many feel this difference as deeply as they should. Certainly there are those who take the advantage offered by a University education seriously and earnestly endeavour to adapt themselves quickly to their new surroundings. But there are many who regard their University career lightly and rather think of the time spent there as a glorious holiday in which the social element reigns. This is true more especially of residence life. There is always someone who doesn't feel like working, and who persist in making himself troublesome; and if one is accustomed to pursuing the line of least resistance, another night is wasted. The result is that more work is left to be crammed at the last.

The curriculum of the First Year is not so difficult because allowance is made for the deficiency a student feels—one to spoon feed or see that the homework is done. During the First Year many on account of comparatively easy work form habits of life which are decidedly harmful for good work the following year; and unless the student realizes quickly that the Second Year is a very difficult one, on account of his let-it-go-till-to-morrow attitude, he invariably fails. The professors know which students are working and which are letting things go until the last, and he who thinks he can fool the professors in this respect is only blind to his own ignorance.

The one who thinks he can get through the term by bluffing is usually found among the class of individuals who come to the University either because they think it is fashionable or their parents force them. By the time a young man or young woman reaches the usual university age they are old enough to have formed an idea of what they wish to do in life. Consequently attempts on the part of parents to send their children to the University against their will are generally of no avail. If, however, such students do come to the University, more often than not they begin to take some interest in their work. Accordingly this class is not so dangerous to the welfare of the students as the class which comes to the University because it is fashionable.

Students belonging to this latter class are pests. These are the ones who lower the standing of their Year, who grasp at one phase of a question and without reasoning or considering spread their one idea broadcast; and bring condemnation and ridicule upon their University. If it were possible to establish a system by which these people could be collected and put into a college by themselves, great benefit to the remaining students, would follow; and the B.A. degree have a greater significance.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

At present The Toronto Sunday World fills its column of 'Varsity news by industriously dipping THE VARSITY. What is The World going to do when THE VARSITY stops publication for this year on March 1st?

St. Hilda's

The women students of Trinity College have in their way made as noteworthy contributions to the war as the men. There is at present a fairly large group of former St. Hildians doing patriotic work of various kinds in England and France, among those in the latter country being Miss Jean Harston, who is driving a motor ambulance.

Probably one of the most prominent is Nursing Sister E. B. Ridley, who has received the Royal Red Cross in recognition of her services. After taking her Arts degree at Trinity, she graduated as a nurse from a New York hospital, and served in that capacity during the Cuban war. On this occasion she went in the first instance to France, but was later given her present appointment as matron of the Grandville (Canadian) Specialists' Hospital, formerly at Folkestone, and now in Derbyshire.

Another graduate doing valuable work is Miss Ianthe Constantinides, who took her M.A. at the University in 1902, and was on the staff of Bishop Strachan School when war broke out. She went overseas as a V.A.D., and after working for some time in France at an isolation hospital, returned to England, where she has been nursing in a London hospital for the past six months. In addition to this work, Miss Constantinides has also put her knowledge of languages to practical use as an interpreter of French and German.

Miss Felicia (Nan) Cook, who took her B.A. at Trinity in 1914 and the M.A. degree one year later, is a fourth member of the St. Hilda's colony in England. She went overseas a year ago last July and has been serving with the R.A.M.C. as a voluntary nurse in Bermuda Hospital, England. Miss Cook is a Toronto girl and graduated from Harbord C.I. into the University, where she took a prominent part in athletics, as captain of the basketball team and is a fine tennis player. According to a cable just received by her family she will be leaving England shortly to serve with the R.A.M.C. unit in either Egypt or Palestine.

Miss Marjory Evans, B.A. '14, a member of Miss Cook's year at St. Hilda's is also in England. She holds an appointment in the Records Office, London, where she puts her course in moderns to good use, translating German papers.

U.C. SOPHOMORES.

The members of the second year are again reminded of the masquerade to be held Friday evening at the Union. No pains are being spared to insure that everyone, whatever their tastes may be, shall have a good time. The masquerade idea, if adopted heartily by all will, in itself, afford unbounded fun. And, as has been pointed out, there will be many other attractions. It has been whispered that a noted clairvoyante will be in attendance; and, when it is remembered that everyone has an equal chance of acquiring untold wealth in the event of winning a prize for his and her costume, surely no one will stay away.

211 HISTORY DEBATING CLUB

Monday afternoon the 211 History Debating Club set another example for the other years to take up and introduced a novelty into the meeting. Mr. Goldstein brought forward the issue, namely, a first year freshman vs. first year co-ed debate. An unanimous vote decided the matter and its up to the fairest co-eds in the University because we have them in the first year to accept the challenge. Lovers, keep out of this. A little business was transacted and an interesting debate arranged for next Monday. "Resolved that the 'middle-man' is responsible for the H. C. of L." The debaters for the affirmative are Mr. Green and Mr. Findlay and for the negative Mr. Stewart and Mr. Laughlin. This promises to be an extremely interesting debate and a general discussion of the question at hand will follow. The president, Mr. Laughlin, took the chair and Prof. Brown described the background of the Empire and conditions after the war. Mr. Heaton lucidly commented on the pros and cons of the 'empire-policy', and following him, hot discussion arose between Messrs. Green, Goldstein, Stewart, Tait and Findlay. The class adjourned for drill at the end of an exceedingly pleasant hour. Don't forget next Monday at 3 p.m. in Room 5 Library building. We're going to arrange the details for the co-ed debate.

JUST THINK OF IT!

Just think of it,—in these days of conservation!—Think of all the fuel that is being burned, all the electricity that is being consumed, the food that is being eaten, the clothes that are being worn, while you are striving to acquire an "education." Don't let this extravagance depress you, nor fear of censure destroy your zeal for study. The fuel controller, the power controller, the food controller, the dress controller, all realize that the "educated woman" is of inestimable value to a community. Be assured, therefore that there is work for you to do, and that your services will receive recognition. Read this:

"Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 4th.—Fifteen cents an hour is all the Queenston and district fruit growers consider the fair co-eds who are volunteering to work on the farms picking peaches are worth. At a meeting of the growers in the Laura Secord Hall it was decided that $6 a week be the minimum wages to August 15th and $8 minimum for the balance of the season. Fifteen cents an hour was the rate set for the young women."

DENTS DEFEATED CRESCENTS LAST NIGHT

Fair Attendance See Crescents
Beaten 4-3

Last night's hockey game between Dents and Crescents in the Junior O.H.A. was one of the most exciting games ever seen at the Arena. The game was full of thrills from start to finish and although the rink was only half filled those who came went away satisfied.

There was very little difference between the teams but it was the Dent defence and trickiness that won against the aggressive Crescents. The score was 4-3 in favour of last year's champions.

As usual, Milne and Box starred for the winners.

S.P.S. SEXTETTE STILL HAVE WHITE SHEET

Defeat McMaster 1-0

Last night at the Varsity rink S.P.S. not only defeated McMaster 1-0, but also won the second time by the score of 1-0. The game was very close from the start, both teams being evenly matched. S.P.S. took the lead in the first period when MacDonald scored on a check-off in front of McMaster's goal. This proved to be the only scoring of the game, although McMaster tried hard, but in vain, to even up.

MacDonald and McIntyre starred for S.P.S. while Piers and Dingle were best for McMaster.

This practically clinches Group I series for S.P.S. and it looks as if they are going to put up a good fight to retain the Jennings' Cup honours, won so strenuously last year.

S.P.S. Goal, Pratt; defence, Johnson, McIntyre, centre, McDonald, wings, Chambers, Dover.

McMaster—Goal, Mathews; defence, Jameson, Mallory, centre, Pierce; wings, Hodges, Sinclair.

PRINCETON RESUMES VARSITY SPORTS.

Princeton University has decided to abandon all informal teams and to enter regular Varsity teams in all branches of intercollegiate sport. This action follows the remarkably poor results which have been obtained by the informal teams, not only at Princeton, but also at other colleges where the informal system was tried out.

The Board of Athletic Control expressed itself in favour of resuming all sports on the ground that they are a great help to military training. In granting its favour for the resumption of all sports the board made only one stipulation, that this be carried out on a much less extensive scale than in the past. This stipulation is made as a matter of economy.

Notices

A meeting of the Engineering Society has been called for Wednesday, February 6, at four p.m. in C 26. School men have been waiting for a meeting and this is a chance to have a real live one. Dr. Coleman has consented to tell us something about his South American trip, so be on hand sharp at 4.

Think and Smile

Two TOMMIES.

Two British soldiers went into a restaurant at Salonica and asked for Turkey with Greece.

The waiter said "I'm sorry, gentlemen, but I can't serve it." Whereupon the Tommies cried: "Fetch the Bosphorus."

When that gentleman arrived and heard the complaint, the manager said: "Well, gentlemen, I don't want to Russia, but you cannot Rumania."

And so the poor Tommies had to go away hungry.—Scottish American in the Independent.

An Irishman and a Scot were arguing as to the merits of their respective countries.

"Ah well," said Sandy, "they tore down an old castle in Scotland and found many wires under it, which shows that the telegraph was known there hundreds of years ago."

"Well," said Pat, "they tore down an old castle in Ireland and there was no wire under it, which shows that they knew all about wireless telegraphy in Ireland hundreds of years ago"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

ST. MIKE'S DEFEAT JR. MEDS (1) AT BASKETBALL

Score 20-14—St. Mike's May Come Back Yet

After having been beaten badly last week by Jr. Meds (1), St. Mike's came back with the very same team but in a much better condition, and played Meds to a standstill, at the Central "Y" on Monday afternoon. The score being 20-14.

The game started in the presence of one of the largest crowds that has ever turned out this season. Meds were checked hard but still managed to procure a great lead. The score at the end of the first half being in favour of Meds 11-4.

St. Mike's were just gaining speed, and from the opening of the second stanza to the close of the game, Meds never saw the ball.

St. Mike's played wonderful combination and McPeake and G. Carroll notched many baskets from most difficult angles and some from centre. Meds didn't get many shots in this half and so no score was made on their part. The game ended with a few players mixing things and when referee Windham tried to separate them, he received, by mistake, a buff which was heard all over the gym. Nevertheless, apologies were given and supporters admitted never before having witnessed a more exciting and interesting game. The final score was 20-14 in favour of St. Mike's.

For St. Mike's, McPeake and G. Carroll were always in the limelight, playing a stellar game throughout, and notching the ball from all angles of the floor. The speed and combination of the whole team was a treat to watch.

St. Mike's—McPeake, G. Carroll, B. Carroll, Montague, O'Shaughnessy, and Bender.

Jr. Meds (1)—Ireland, Dickson, Urquhart, Markovitz, Skinner, Kilgour.

St. Dents and St. Meds fixture was postponed on account of the late hour. It is supposed that the game will have to be played out of scheduled time. Dents had about 15 men out from which they would pick their five speed artists.

U.C. WILL MEET VIC. TO-MORROW NIGHT

To-morrow night at 4:30 U.C. and Victoria basketball teams meet at the Central "Y" gym. This promises to be the most keenly contested of the Sifton Cup games. The group honours are in the balance. If U.C. wins the game, the best V.C. can do is to tie. If Vic wins they win the group. Both teams are in fine shape, both having come through some hard games. All supporters of these teams should turn out—U.C. in particular should come out as Vic always supports her team.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOLS DEFEAT ST. ANDREWS

Score 7-2

University Schools' junior O.H.A. team waded one more step toward a triple tie in the "prep" school junior group yesterday afternoon at the Arena Gardens, when they defeated St. Andrew's 7 to 2. U.T.S. were always on top. St. Andrew's tried hard, but were no match for their heavier and more experienced opponents. However, on the game U.T.S. put up yesterday they will not beat U.C.C. Friday and tie it up.

In the opening frame U.T.S. got two, and with decent combination would have had four or five.

In the second period their work in front of the nets was even worse, and when their forwards failed to check back the St. Andrew's boys got by the U.T.S. defence and managed to tally once, meanwhile holding U.T.S. without a score.

The fighter St. Andrew's boys weakened in the closing period, and U.T.S. playing together, managed to score five goals. They displayed a fair combination in the final chapter. They also checked back better, and held their opponents to one lone tally.

UNIVERSITY REPRESENTATION IN GREAT BRITAIN

In the passage of the new Franchise bill through the British Parliament, in regard to certain universities, other than Oxford and Cambridge, it had been proposed that London University and eight others should have three members between them. It seems however, that London University objected to be grouped with others, and in the end it was decided that London should have a member of its own and the other eight should have two members between them, the original number of three being thus preserved, though the eight universities get a smaller share of a member each and London gets a whole one. When is Canada to give direct representation in Parliament and Legislatures to her universities?

Applied Science

The graduates of class '08 Applied Science this Christmas sent boxes to the men of the year serving overseas, who now number twenty-five, and the letters of thanks, received by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. R. J. Marshall, usually contain some interesting news of the soldier members.

Lieut. H. C. McMordie, 4th Field Co., Canadian Engineers, says: "It is three and a half years since I took the shilling, and sometimes Canada and 'Varsity days seem far away, and as a matter of fact, they are." He then mentioned having seen recently, Lieut. H. R. Carscallen, C.S., Capt. A. R. Robertson, 5th Res. Tr. Batt., and Lorne B. Stewart; adding: "Do you remember Bill Tait? (Harry W. Tait, '09). He is now major and second-in-command of the 2nd Pioneer. Shaw (Capt. W. E., 212 Howitzer Battery). I saw a couple of months ago. I was in a motor tory and he on a horse, and going in opposite directions, so he passed before I could more than say hello."

Lieut. R. Blaine Redfern, 35, 35rd Siege Battery, Royal Garrison Artillery, writes: "When I opened the parcel there was a big demand for that corn-cob. As I seldom smoke, I handed it over to an American officer in the battery, Jack, by name, who used to take lectures from President Wilson at Princeton. We are having a quiet time now. In our old position last fall, Fritz got us pretty well taped and threw in a lot of stuff that did us no good. I saw an old tank to-day that was badly used by shells, and is out by its lone some on the side of a hill where it was when it got a big one all to itself. It's a bad-looking piece of steel construction now. I'm the only Canadian in an English battery, but feel quite at home. There isn't much difference after all."

Newman Club

A meeting of Newman Club was held after mass last Sunday. When the customary business had been concluded a spirited discussion of how to arouse the interest of its members in the welfare of the Club took place. Fr. Burke, in his usual eloquent manner, described the existence of any club. Newman Hall is an institution for Catholic students of the University. It is provided with a library of excellent books, lounging rooms, piano and a Victrola, as well as a billiard and card room. Friday evening and Saturday afternoon are set aside for entertainments such as lectures, dancing, At-Homes and the like.

It was the duty of the students to take a more active interest in its aims, and they were urged to be as regular as possible in their attendance at its functions.

On Friday evening, February 8th, the last dance of the season will be held, and a very large attendance is expected. A Bridge and Five Hundred Party will be held on Saturday afternoon.

Don't forget the Skating Party and Dance given by the third year Science at Aura Lee rink on Thursday evening, February 7th. Everybody come and bring your lady friend, or two if you can, because some of the frosh say they can't get a girl! Come early and avoid the rush. You'll surely have a good time, so get after Capt. Johnson, third year, and get your tickets.

A meeting of the Engineering Society will be held in the C & M Building, room 22 on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Prof. Coleman will give an illustrated address on his South American tour. Don't miss this chance of hearing a splendid talk, an engineer's talk, on the great continent to the south of us. Besides, business questions of interest to you may be dealt with, the Society is yours—see that nothing prevents you from turning up at this meeting of your own Society.

Trinity

A number of men from Trinity went down to St. George's Church on Thursday evening, January 31, where they gave a representation of a Mock Trial in the school room to a capacity house. If anything, the performance of the cast has improved by repetition and the laughter and generous applause which greeted the various "hits" testified to the keen enjoyment of the audience. After the show the players were served refreshments by the ladies of the church, who were delighted to find that the net proceeds of the evening's entertainment were sufficient to provide them with Red Cross material for the next couple of months. Brief speeches were made by the Reverend S. J. Moore, rector of St. George's and by Mr. Wm. Hazell, B.A., on behalf of the students. A flashlight photograph was taken of the crowd as a souvenir of the event. The singing of college songs followed by McTegona brought the night's fun to a close. The men walked back to the College well pleased to find that their work had not been without its reward.

The final inter-year debate of the "Lit" will take place on Friday evening next, when the subject of the discussion will be, "Resolved that at this time the Provincial Legislatures should adopt a system of Union Government, Cabinet representation to be based upon political representation in the Provincial Parliament." Messrs J. T. Robbins and Percy Lowe, 2T0, will uphold the affirmative, whilst Messrs. F. G. Cook and E. F. Willis will support the negative for 1T9. As a battle royal is expected, there will likely be a good turn-out of the members who will no doubt add interest to the proceedings by impromptu speeches. Despite the deficiency in men caused by the war the "Lit" still retains much of its old fighting spirit.

Send THE VARSITY home.

Victoria

LADIES' CHORAL CLUB

"A splendid concert"; "A credit to both the conductor and the members of the choir"; "An evening's entertainment which bodes well for the future success of the Victoria College Choral Club": These are a few of the many favourable criticisms rendered by those who were in attendance at the initial concert given by the ladies of the Victoria Choral Club last winter.

An even finer entertainment is promised for Thursday, February 28, when the ladies will give a second proof of their ability in choral work. The membership of the choir has been greatly augmented until now there are twice as many voices as last year. Under the capable leadership of Mr. E. R. Powles, the choir has been engaged, since last autumn, in preparing a high-class programme which cannot fail to delight lovers of choral work.

The choir will be assisted by first-class artists whose names will be announced later—also by a splendid orchestra of fifty pieces. Don't fail to keep this date open—Thursday, February 28, Convocation Hall. The plan of seats will be open very soon. Be sure to engage your seats early. Proceeds for Patriotic purposes.

Washington.—Students in the University of Washington who have entered national service and are stationed near Seattle will be given an opportunity to continue in part, at least, the subjects which they dropped on enlisting. Several of the faculty have consented to go to nearby cantonments and training camps to give lectures in their respective courses.

Dentistry

Another Dental dance was held on Friday evening, February 1st, and it proved to be a great success. There were over a hundred present, including representatives from all the years, and also a number of graduates. "Buttons" presided at the punch bowl, with his usual ability. The moon waltz was the most popular number of the evening. Excellent music was supplied by Strathdee's Orchestra and it was enjoyed by all present. About 12.30 the party broke up, after a very enjoyable evening. The patrons and patronesses were, Dr. and Mrs. Amy, and Dr. and Mrs. Grieves.

Another Dental dance will be held on March 17th (St. Patrick's).

Each fellow thinks his college the best because he did it the honour to go to it.

SUBSCRIBED?

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS CLOSED SAT. & MON.

All Lectures and Laboratories Suspended During Interval

NO "VARSITY" ON MONDAY

Great Saving in Fuel and Light Effected by Action of Authorities

In compliance with the Fuel Commissioner's order, all buildings of the University will be closed on Saturday and Monday, February 9 and 11. The heating of the buildings is to be reduced to the minimum and every effort is to be made to carry out in letter and spirit the new regulation. The University of Toronto is among the largest consumers of coal in the city and no doubt a great saving is to be effected by this drastic move. As given before in THE VARSITY the average daily consumption of coal is 71 tons. An enquiry at the office of the Superintendent elicited the information that by closing the buildings for the two days (Saturday and Monday) a saving of fuel to the neighbourhood of fifty tons would be effected. Besides this a great amount of electricity will be conserved. The University has already a goodly supply of coal on hand and by remaining closed for two days their supply will be augmented.

All Lectures Suspended.

All lectures are to be suspended and all academic work in laboratories, etc., will cease for the interval. As THE VARSITY is printed in a building of the University which is to be closed, there will be no Monday edition. Even were the press to remain open on Monday THE VARSITY would hardly be necessary as no student will be at the University on that day.

By a special endeavour of the staff, THE VARSITY will be published on Tuesday. This will not interfere with the Wednesday issue.

No Drill on Monday.

Mr. Reed, of the Athletic Association, informed THE VARSITY that no classes would be held on Monday at the gymnasium, which in accordance with the rest of the buildings will be closed. Saturday is not a drill day, so the only drills disturbed will be those on Monday. The C.O.T.C. will not hold its daily revel in Hart House.

Library Also Shut.

No books will be either received or loaned from the library on Saturday and Monday. The reading-room will remain closed and students who make it a point to while away the tedious hours in contemplation of past great men of Varsity will be deprived of this right. Victoria College and all outlying colleges of the University have also decided to close. In a word all academic life within the historic walls of Toronto University will cease on Friday midnight (?) and revive the following Tuesday morning.

FOURTH YEAR U.C. HOLD AN ENJOYABLE PARTY

Graduating Dinner of the Class will be Held

The skating party held Wednesday evening by the fourth year was another success. The weather man proved very obliging and the fortunate change in the temperature prevented casualties from frozen ears and so on. The Women's Union still maintains its reputation for hospitality, and after skating an enjoyable time was spent in refreshments, dancing and cards.

Arrangements are proceeding for the graduation dinner of the class. Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, recently appointed Principal of Queen's University, has been secured as speaker and the time set for Saturday evening, March 2nd. The menu and list will leave nothing to be desired and all members of the class are joining in to support the function with their attendance. Park Brothers announce that the large group photographs will be ready for distribution in about two weeks.

MR. BRADEN ADDRESSED "T" MIXER ON MENTALLY DEFICIENT CHILDREN

Traced Shop-Breaking and Car Stealing to Cheap Movies Running Detective Serials

Last night at Central "Y" nearly one hundred University men enjoyed the Big "T" Mixer. The University orchestra put the usual swing into the gathering. Mr. F. G. Stapells, who acted as chairman, introduced Mr. Braden, secretary of the Big Brother Movement in Toronto. Mr. Braden spoke about the mentally deficient, and cited several instances of their "mischievousness," such as shopbreaking and auto stealing. He stated that cheap movies running detective serials, were often the cause of this law-breaking. Other fellows who have poor home surroundings are often seen in the city juvenile court. Mr. Braden attends the juvenile court every morning and interviews such fellows. He then secures an older boy, who acts as Big Brother to this kid and encourages him to take an interest in his school or work and to spend his spare time to better advantage.

Mr. Braden pointed out the assistance the Y.M.C.A. was rendering to these boys. Several hundred of the fellows who have been helped by the Big Brother Movement are France and in making good as soldiers. The fellows then adjourned to their groups and spent a good half hour. Only two more Big "T" Mixers. Plan to be out next week.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

The Military Cross has been awarded to another graduate, Lieut. Herbert R. Christie of Amherst, N.S. He was a graduate of the School of Forestry in the 1913 class. He went overseas with a field company of the Canadian Engineers. He was slightly wounded in March, 1917.

With military honours the remains of Flight Lieut. Kay Anderson, who died overseas, was interred at Lindsay on Saturday afternoon. A number of McMaster graduates attended the service, which was held in the Baptist Church here. The service was conducted by Rev. H. Bryant of Lindsay and Rev. A. Ward of Walmer Road Church, both members of McMaster Alumni. The University was represented by Prof. G. H. Campbell, who referred to the young officer's fine record which an undergraduate at Osgoode Hall.

Lieut. Thomas C. Routley had transferred from the R.A.M.C., with which he served overseas, and has been attached to the standing medical board of the Toronto district. He is an M.B. of the University in 1915.

A graduate of University College in 1914 class is Major A. C. Suively, who is to have charge of the military training of the men from the Medicine, Dentistry and Veterinary University faculties.

Lieut. Arthur B. Fennell, Assistant Registrar of Toronto University, has been ill in France and word has just been received that he has gone to England for a period of convalescence.

Lieut. Fennell is a P.A., and M.A. of Victoria, taking the latter degree in 1910. After going overseas with the 5th Universities Company he took a special signalling course and was then sent to France. He rapidly rose to the position of brigade signalling officer and in September last won the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery.

Lieut. V. S. McClenaghan, a student of 1918, has won the M.C. His home was in Ottawa.

February 6, 1918

Owing to the order of the Fuel Controller there will be no service on Sunday, February 10th in Convocation Hall.

LE CLUB POLITIQUE ON CANADIAN QUESTION

Quebec is a Necessary Factor in the Continued Success of Confederation

A regular meeting of Le Club Politique was held on Wednesday afternoon last. On account of the inclement weather there was not a very large attendance. The subject of discussion was "The French-Canadian Problem." This problem was one of a very complex nature and involved in it are several issues. Language and religion have combined to make the situation a very acute one indeed. The issues at stake when viewed from the many different viewpoints, seem impossible of complete and satisfactory settlement. The average French-Canadian is content to wait, while the English-speaking citizen seems bound to enforce his will upon his neighbours in the province to the east of him. The suggestion that Quebec be loosed from the bonds of Confederation is one which should not be given much consideration. Quebec is a necessary factor in the continued success of the Canadian Confederation. No conclusion was reached in regard to the settlement of this pressing problem. The next meeting of Le Club Politique will be held on February 20, when a subject of interest to all history students will be up for debate. This will probably be the last meeting of the academic term since it is getting on towards exam time.

LIEUT.-COL. MONSERRAT WILL SPEAK ON "THE QUEBEC BRIDGE"

Appointed to the Commission Entrusted with the Building of the Bridge

An address on the subject "The Quebec Bridge" will be given in the Chemistry and Mining Building on Tuesday evening, February 12th at 8 p.m. The speaker is Lieut.-Col. C. N. Monserrat, Chairman and Chief Engineer of the Board of Engineers, Quebec Bridge. He is giving the above address to the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers and a cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Lieut.-Col. Monserrat graduated from McGill University in 1888. For twenty years he was a member of the C.P.R. bridge engineering staff; being head of that department for the last eight years. He is the commanding officer of the Fifth Royal Highlanders of Montreal.

Colonel Monserrat who is to lecture in the Mining Building next week on "The Quebec Bridge," was at one time Chief Bridge Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

When the Quebec Bridge project was proposed, he was appointed to the Commission entrusted with the design of the bridge. Subsequently he became chairman and chief engineer of the bridge which position he at present holds.

Colonel Monserrat's lecture next Tuesday evening, February 12th, in the Mining Building will be illustrated; and is under the auspices of the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Society of Engineers.

MENORAH SOCIETY

Prof. Taylor will Address Society Monday, 18th, at Varsity "Y"

Owing to the fact that the University buildings will be closed on Monday, the Menorah Society will meet on Monday, February 18, at the University Y.M.C.A. at 8 p.m. sharp. Prof. W. R. Taylor, M.A., Ph.D., will address the Society on the subject "The Literature of Zionism, Ancient and Modern." All interested in this subject are cordially invited.

Kansas.—University of Kansas students who enlist or are drafted will get full semester credit. Seniors will be granted their degrees.

Hamilton.—Prom has been abandoned on account of the war and the three days which are usually granted as a recess for the Prom have been added to the Christmas vacation.

LAW STUDENTS HOLD "AT HOME"

Convocation at Osgoode Hall will be Scene of Prominent Judges, &c.

It has been announced that the embryo lawyers of the first year Law School will hold an "At Home" in Convocation Hall at Osgoode Hall, Queen Street, on the evening of Friday 15th of February at eight-thirty o'clock. This promises to be a very splendid function and the committee are sparing no efforts to make it a grand success.

They are to be congratulated on having the patronage of a number of the Benchers of the Upper Canada Law Society and their wives for this occasion, and several prominent judges and barristers will be in attendance. The proceeds realized will be given to the Patriotic Fund. The music will be supplied by Schnell's Orchestra and the catering by Coles' Confectionery.

It is known that University students from all faculties may secure tickets at THE VARSITY office, Main Building, or from any student-at-law in the first year.

FROSH MEDS PERMIT REPORTER TO ENTER

Occupants were Discussing the Third Year Stunt Winning Daffydil Cup

At last, a VARSITY reporter has obtained entrance into the hallowed precincts of the Med rest-room. It was with fear and trembling that we traversed the peppermint-smelling hall and iron stairs that lead to this place of mystery and contention. We were disappointed to say the least. We expected to see a howling mob of rabid saw-bones eagerly devouring the columns of THE VARSITY or "three other papers". 'Twas not so, there were only five occupants in the room, four Meds and an Arts man. Three were discussing the deplorable event of the third year stunt winning the Daffydil Cup, while the other Med was reading the only paper in the room, a copy of The Globe, with his feet propped up on a more or less battered piano, which stood at one end of the room. This room is a long narrow affair with rows of uncomfortable benches along the walls, which are adorned with pictures of wise-looking Meds who glared from the walls at the reporter. We were not very much impressed by the room, nor its contents, nor did we see an abundance of literature. We soon left the forbidden chamber, while the leaving was good, and rushed over to THE VARSITY office to let the world know of our triumph. Meds should have more papers on hand than there were at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and to live up affairs we would suggest a Med orchestra-carrot effect with pink tea served between lecture hours.

EXAMS. WILL BE HELD NOT LATER THAN APR. 8

The Registrar's Annual Joke Catches Cub Reporter

Examinations will not be held later this despite a report published recently. Though the old order has changed the name of the Annual Examination at end of Easter Term is still known at the "May" Examination on the applications, and a youthful reporter, not knowing this, perpetrated the blunder. It is officially announced that the exams will be held not later than 8th of April.

Examinations in I, II, III Greek and Latin prose and in III Greek and Latin Sight for students in "Classics" and "English and History" (Classical option). will be held on 1st and 2nd of April. Timetable for latter will be posted next week.

SERMONS DISCONTINUED IN CONVOCATION HALL

The serious condition of the coal situation has necessitated the closing of Convocation Hall. After Wednesday evening, February 6th, the Hall will be closed to future events. Consequently, Sunday sermons will be discontinued for the remainder of the academic year. This order was given out by the President, and the preacher for February 10th has been wired not to come.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY AMENDED CONSTITUTION READ AND ADOPTED

Six Papers Read, Each Dealing with One of the Biological Aspects of Food and Clothing

After undergoing metamorphosis during a period lasting some months, the rejuvenated constitution was read at the last meeting of the Biological Club on Tuesday evening. The revised form of the Constitution differs from the old, not in changes, but in a few additions which will provide for the growing needs of the society. One of the minor alterations calls for a slightly different procedure in the selections and elections for certain offices; however, owing to the advanced stage of the academic year it was thought advisable to retain in office, the officers as elected for this year.

The new constitution was taken up as a whole by the Club, and a motion to adopt it as a whole was unanimously carried. All that remains is that the new draft be submitted to the Council of the Faculty as prescribed by Art. 50 (which altereth not) of the 1917-18 calendar. To expedite this process of ensuring the newly-enacted constitution a prolonged lease of life, Mr. Quinn, president of the Club wishes to meet the executive at 5 p.m. sharp on Monday, February 11, in the Biological Building. Hereby notice is given so that those who run may read.

The remainder of the time was now given over to the six speakers of the evening, who presented splendid papers, Continued on page 2, col. 5

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut. Vivian Stewart McClenaghan, son of Mr. J. E. McClenaghan of Ottawa, has been awarded the Military Cross. He was an Applied Science student of 1918, and has been serving with a field company of the Canadian Engineers in France.

Colonel H. C. S. Elliott, of Cobourg, has been given the 1914 Star. He went overseas with No. 2 Stationary Hospital and last April was gazetted a temporary colonel. He is an M.D., C.M. of Trinity, 1888.

Captain Wm. Wendell Rogers, U.C. 1918, has been awarded the Military Cross, as being the first aviator to bring down a Gotha machine in France. Captain Rogers went overseas with the Canadian Field Artillery, but transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in December, 1916. After training at various schools in England he crossed to France last May. His home is in Prince Edward Island.

Among the chaplains returning to Canada are Capt. the Rev. Frank Vipond, Trinity College, 1905, who has seen much service both in England and in France. He was injured in September, 1917; and Capt. the Rev. C. R. Spencer, B.A. Trinity College, 1905, M.A. 1908, who has latterly been in France with No. 7 Canadian Stationary Hospital.

Captain the Rev. W. R. R. Armitage has been sent to the 3rd Battalion in France. He was originally chaplain of the 234th Infantry Battalion, but was posted to the 12th Reserve in England and then to No. 7 Stationary Hospital. He took his M.A. degree in 1913. His home is in Halifax.

Lieut. H. R. MacDonald, a University College student of 1910, who has twice been wounded, has now lost one of his eyes. He was serving with the British force in Palestine.

Don't forget the Women's "Lit" Short Story Contest. Note the date for returns, February 16th.

C.O.T.C. BAND.

Band practices will be held on Tuesday and Thursdays (instead of Fridays) from this date. Members will parade as usual on these days at 4.10 p.m. in the Orderly Room, Mining Building.

MEDS DAFFYDIL NIGHT SCORES BIG SUCCESS

All Scenes Well Arranged and Decidedly Humorous

THIRD YEAR WINS PRIZE

Epistaxis, a Syncope of Medical Fun, Appears

The Medical undergraduates put on their annual Daffydil Night on Wednesday night last with a marked success. Some enthusiastic patrons said it was the best since the first night it was put on.

About 8 o'clock the doors were opened and Convocation Hall was soon filled. The orchestra which was, by the way, a medical orchestra, tuned up and furnished some very lively music. Mr. Cain of the fifth year deserves much credit for his untiring efforts to make the orchestra the success it was.

Snappy Slides. The lantern man then started up, while the music was going on, and many slides were shown, consisting of good-natured jokes on the doings and sayings of many celebrities in Medicine.

Owing to illness at home, Mr. Milligan of the fourth year, was unable to be present, and the fourth year withdrew their stunt. This necessitated a change in the order of the program.

The first year put on their stunt, consisting of a short skit on the raw recruits of the C.O.T.C. Their jokes were good and they wound up their stunt with an exhibition of real honest dirt. They carried off their stunt with a lot of "pep" and few litches, and deserve much credit.

Impromptu Stunt.

In place of the fourth year stunt, Messrs. Brown and Graham as clowns put on a little impromptu stunt, consisting of "limericks" and dances. Both men are well known to the undergraduates of Medicine and whenever they do anything, it is done right. They must both be thanked very greatly because the audience appreciated their stunt very much.

The second year came next with a stunt bearing the title of "Willie Arthur's Band". "Willie" was right there as the leader of the band, and soon the band came marching down the aisle from either side. The two end men Messrs. Hanley and Hewgill, respectively "Guy" and "George" carried off their jokes in a remarkable style. Mr. Pennock sang a solo and he certainly has a fine voice. Mr. Hanley then led a song with a Ukulele and the harmony of the boys was great. Following this was a song, one of Mr. Hanley's specials, "Any old way to cook a chicken". This was received with great enthusiasm and endured several times.

Big Stunt a Success.

The big stunt of the combined years was then put on. It being a meeting of the faculty to discuss the changing of the Medical course from six to sixteen years. The impersonations in dress and speech of the various men was remarkable. Mr. Carlton as Dean Clark occupied the

KNOX COLLEGE MAY BE OCCUPIED BY SOLDIERS

No Definite Decision Can be Given Until Board Meets

It is not definitely known yet whether the military authorities will occupy Knox College or not. In case of absolute necessity on the part of the militia it will be; but it is highly improbable before the students vacate it for their summer vacation since it would cause much confusion and interruption.

There is not a room in the three residence houses, but what is filled. On account of the depletion in the number of theological students, the rooms have been filled by Arts, Meds and other students. It is thought by some that the individual rooms are too small for housing soldiers.

The committee met, but until the board meets nothing definitely will be done or any official news given.

FOOD CONSERVATION—THE APPEAL

Canadians have already played a noble part in this war. We have sent five hundred thousand of our best manhood to fight in the cause of all civilisation; we have equipped a great and increasing number of factories with war machinery and are daily filling large orders in all the munitions of war; we are devoting our shipyard to the needs of the Motherland, and we have not been slow to respond to all the myriad appeals for financial aid which have come to us.

So far our name is vindicated. In these great acts of loyalty to King and Cause we have shown that Canada is worthy of being called a nation, and that she will take her place as an equal among other nations in the future days of peace and prosperity.

Now comes a further call to service, and to a service that all, rich or poor, young or old may join in giving. All civilised nations are facing the most serious food shortage that has ever threatened this earth; and Canada is requested as other nations have been commanded, to save her food lest the hungry, less happy, less productive lands, may perish. We, in Canada, have proved our loyalty by great acts of service; now we are asked to help in this small way, by eliminating waste, by encouraging economy, by using substitutes for food that can be sent to feed the starving in other lands, and by denying ourselves just those little luxuries in the matter of food that are unnecessary to our daily sustenance.

We who have not hesitated in great sacrifices, surely will not scorn to help in this simple but vitally necessary service. Let us watch the papers for the instructions of our Food Controller and let us conscientiously try to carry out his advice. Remember that in England lies the Allies' assurance of victory and that her forty millions must be fed. Germany is to be defeated, the united action of all Canada in this great national duty may make the difference between defeat and victory.

Help to make victory sure.

POLITICAL EDUCATION

The great danger that threatens democracy is ignorance. People recognise the necessity of knowledge and special training for the physician, the lawyer, the engineer; yet they imagine that common-sense and good intentions are all the qualifications necessary for him who would direct the affairs of state.

But government demands the exercise of the highest faculties and the most thorough knowledge. There is no other concern where the factors are so uncertain, where the task is so vast, and the possibility of good or ill so tremendous.

It is the duty of University men and women to concern themselves with public affairs. They may do much for the state in return for the special advantages they have enjoyed at the expense of the state. But if they would be of real service, something more than mere casual interest and knowledge is essential. As one writer of the present-day has expressed it, "One might reasonably prefer to be guided by intelligent villains each seeking his own interest, rather than by well-intentioned fools who continually cared for the interest of others; for no man can seek his own real interest without in some way attaining that of others, and no man can make up by good wishes for his ignorance of facts. Political education is what is most needed; political purity may be left to take care of itself."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Owing to the order of the Fuel Controller no issue of THE VARSITY will appear on Monday. At the time of writing, however, it is expected that THE VARSITY will issue around noon on Tuesday morning.

The letter, appearing in the Correspondence column, has some complaints re THE VARSITY. The writers of this letter—men in the lower years, it is to be noticed—evidently do not appreciate the fact that the needs of the soldiers come first these days. At any rate the statement in THE VARSITY only said that the buildings were available and not to be taken over at once. Knox is only following the example of Trinity, Victoria, Wycliffe Colleges and the University residences.

As far as an Arts Club Room is concerned, the Men's cloak-room in the Main Buildings too small for such a purpose, and is needed for its present purpose. Adequate provision for such a Room, it is understood, is being made in Hart House.

We might suggest that our friends spend a little more time at 'Varsity before they begin to talk of that ominous intangible—University spirit.

Correspondence

Letters to The Varsity should be posted to The Varsity office or left at the office in a sealed envelope. They should be addressed only to the Editor-in-Chief.

Letters should be written on one side of paper only, should not exceed 300 words, and should always have signature attached as a sign of good faith. Writers assume full responsibility for their letters.

KNOXITES KNOCK

To the Editor of THE VARSITY.

With mingled regret and admiration we notice the noble stand taken by THE VARSITY on the question of giving Knox College to the soldiers. Our regret lies in the fact that you, we think, were wrong; but we sincerely admire the notable consistency of the anti-student attitude shown by this year's VARSITY. When the men's residences are taken, involving an immediate cessation of the true University life, THE VARSITY maintains, at best, a chilly neutrality. When indeed someone, who, to THE VARSITY humbly suggests an Arts Club room, what does THE VARSITY do? Perhaps this innovation might help to restore some small part of the last University life and spirit, so with energy, and leaving its precise neutral state, it pounces on the man and tells him to go to the library. Most excellent!

But, without further considering the sins of THE VARSITY, we will once again try to talk about the residences. Places, we believe, and the mass of students believe, could be secured for the soldiers as convenient as the residences and where they would not seriously inconvenience anyone. The students are willing to do their share in the war, but are unwilling to suffer, when their suffering hurts themselves and benefits no one. The students want and need the residences.

We do not think we need to emphasize how the loss of our residences—more fiery people than us would say "the theft of our residences"—has impaired University life. The social part of University life is a minus quantity through the action of the authorities and we used to be told that this was one important thing.

And though off our subject, can even THE VARSITY see any reason for keeping the lid on inter-university athletics, since we have conscription, and all students have a reason for being here? Sport might fit the students for the time they are needed in the army or elsewhere. But no, that would give a true Varsity patriotism and some time we might get a University spirit.

Yours sincerely, but rebelliously,

FRANK M. JUDSON, U.C.
JAN. R. DAWSON, U.C. 2TD.
D. J. MURDOCK, Med. '22.

Harvard.—Harvard will continue its plan of informal athletics in baseball this spring. The freshman nine will have a regular schedule, and work for the University team will begin on February 11, under Hugh Duffy, former big league player.

The official number of Cambridge matriculations for this term was 162, the total number of students in residence 398. At the memorial service the Provost, for the Vice-Chancellor, read 650 names of sons of the University who had fallen since that day a year ago. Those figures tell their own tale.

At Oxford University the door has just been opened for women students to commence their medical course, and for the first time there is a small group of women students who have definitely embarked on that course. The University has, moreover, just offered its grateful thanks to the Worshipful Company of Clothworkers for the gift of £1,300 for the erection of an additional Human Anatomy Laboratory at the University Museum for the perpetual use of women medical students.

To-Day's Poem

LINES ON A HUMAN SKELETON

Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull,
Once of ethereal spirit full,
This narrow cell was Life's retreat
This space was thought's mysterious seat.
What beauteous visions filled this spot,
What dreams of pleasure, long forgot,
Nor hope, nor joy, nor love, nor fear,
Have I left one trace of record here?

Beneath this mould'ring canopy
Once shone the bright and busy eye,
But, start not at the dismal void:
If social love that eye employed,
If with no lawless fire it gleamed,
But through the dews of kindness beamed
That eye shall be forever bright,
When stars and sun are sunk in night.

Within this hollow cavern hung
The ready, swift and tuneful tongue,
If falsehood's honey it disdained,
And when it could not praise was chained
If bold in virtue's cause it spoke,
Yet gentle concord never broke,
This silent tongue will plead for thee
When Time unfolds ETERNITY.

Say, did these fingers delve the mine
Or with the envy ruby shine
To hew the rock or wear a gem,
Can little now avail to them,
But if the page of Truth they sought,
Or comfort to the mourner brought
These hands a richer need shall claim
Than all that waits on wealth or fame

Avails it whether bare or shod
These feet the paths of duty trod
If from the bowers of ease they fled
To seek afflictions humble shed;
If grandeur's guilty bribe they spurned
And home to Virtue's cot returned,
These feet with Angel wings shall vie
And tread the palace of the sky.

The preceding lines were found under the head of a skeleton which the students of a medical college in London were about to dissect. They had been placed there during the night, and although every effort was made to discover the author, he was never located.

Wisconsin.—Wisconsin deserves third place in the conference football standing. Ohio State University is plainly entitled to first place, having finished the season with a clean slate. University of Minnesota lost but one game, falling before the Badgers in a clean-cut defeat, and gets second place on the basis of games won and lost.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY

each of which dealt with one of the biological aspects of food and clothing. Miss Mossop, B.A., introduced the subject to the Club with a general survey of the principles involved. It was shown how that from the first of the present struggle the chemist had played a prominent part in counteracting the submarine menace, and finally the biologist is just coming into his own as the world is now looking to him for the wherewith to eat and to wear from sources as yet unexploited.

Food was dealt with under four heads by four speakers, Misses Cook and McCullough, Messrs. Leim and Johnson; while the latter part of the subject—clothing—was handled by Miss Baiden. The gist of each discourse went to show that biologists have been quietly working and persistently experimenting without ostentation and far out of range of the limelight, and the fruits of their labours will mean much to the world in the next few years. So that as the navy is the Silent Service so is biology the Silent Science.

U.C. DEFEAT VICTORIA
AT BASKETBALL GAMEScore 13-9—This Puts U.C. at Head of Their Group

University College met Victoria in a league basketball game, the result of which puts University College at the head of their group. The score 13-9 for U.C. practically represents the merits of the two teams.

First Half.

The first half opened with dazzling speed, Parker notching one in. Mutart for Vic on a clever shot from the side, tallied the first basket for Vic. A foul gave Vic one point. Play was fast, although rugged in spots and U.C. secured a point later Robinson obtaining the point. Two minutes later Robinson scored from in front of the basket and the score at the end of 10 minutes was 5-3. Towards the end of the half, Parker on the free throw, tallied the last point. Both teams weary by the fast pace, left the floor leaving the score 6-3 in favor of University College.

Last Half.

In the next half much heralded Moot was substituted by Vic as centre. Although he was good at times, he fell far short of his usual stellar form. Robinson, on a foul throw, secured another point for U.C. Borsook advanced with the ball through Vic defence and tallied for U.C. Lorrman who had been closely watched by Vic was able to secure another basket for U.C. U.C., thinking they had the game tucked away relaxed their efforts and in the meantime, Victoria scored five points, Bull, Moot and Mutart contributing. However, Robinson came back with two free throws, which put U.C. in the lead and the only addition to the score was a point for Vic by Moot. The fastest game of the group ended with the score 13-9 in favor of U.C.

The Stars.

For U.C. Parker on the forward line was very fast, as was Lorrman, who although closely marked was very efficient. Robinson came through with the punch at critical times. Borsook worked hard while Stokes played a wonderful game, assuredly the most effective man on the floor. For Victoria, Mutart was the star, while at times the other members of the team showed great form; Frid had hard luck, but showed up well. The referee, Mr. McLennan, deserves credit for the efficient way he handled a difficult game. Many supporters of both teams, rooted to good advantage.

U.C. — Lorrman, Parker, Robinson, Stokes and Borsook.
Vic.—Mutart, Frid, Gordon, Lang and Bull.

Fast Playing Throughout

The third game of the Ladies' Hockey Series, which was played between University College and St. Hilda's on Wednesday evening on the Trinity rink, resulted in a score for neither side. The teams were well matched and there was good, fast playing throughout the game, but the weather proved a serious drawback. Particularly in the latter half and the five-minute overtime which was played. The snow, which covered the ice, prevented any scoring, although several good shots were tried.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE
DEFEAT NORMALScore 3-2, in Two Successive Games

Tuesday afternoon at the Stadium, the boys from Normal School played their return match with Wycliffe College. As in the previous game the score was 3 to 2 and Wycliffe was again victorious. The weather was bitterly cold and several players suffered from frost-bitten feet.

The first period was decidedly in favour of T.N.S. and the funny part was that they did not get many goals. Several times with only the goalie to beat, they shot wide, and seldom used any combination. After play had been in progress for five minutes, Stokes shot one in from the side. Play was kept in centre ice for a short time, then finally swan broke away, passed to Marsh who scored. Hunter rushed up the ice, worked his way through but was skated into the corner, MacLennan stopped one with his shoulder and carried the puck back. Sehl relieved, and passing the Wycliffe defence, shoved another past Pogson. Normal continued to press, and when the bell rang were in a scoring position.

Kennedy took Hunter's place in the second period, he having suffered from the frost. The change did not offset Normal. Play consisted chiefly of end to end rushes with stiff body checks being handed out. Smith who had been putting up a fine game on the defence, broke away and circling the Normal defence, passed to Macnamara who scored. With the score a tie, both teams worked hard. Marsh and Swan combined, but Nodwell was equal to the occasion. Marsh again shot but Nodwell again cleared. Smith scored the puck, and on a fine individual effort, won the game for Wycliffe with about a minute to play.

T.N.S.—Irwin, Schl, Campbell, Stokes, Hunter, Nodwell.
Wycliffe—Swan, Marsh, Macnamara, Referee—Gallagher.

O.T.C. DEFEATED TRINITY IN SIFTON CUP FIXTURE

Score 34-6

On Wednesday night O.T.C. defeated Trinity in their Sifton Cup fixture by the score 34-6. The game was fast as the soldiers were better by a great margin and at no time did Trinity threaten to overcome their lead. The soldiers showed better combination and more accurate shooting in spite of the fact that they were playing a couple of subs.

In the first period O.T.C. started off with their customary rush and literally swamped the Anglicans under a long row of baskets. Toward the close of the half the play slackened up considerably and became uninteresting to the row of spectators who lined the rail of the balcony. The period closed 24-4 with O.T.C. on the long end of the score.

Trinity came to life in the second half and the game became quite peppery. The west-enders tried hard, but owing to their inability to coax the ball through the ring they remained practically scoreless. Trinity's checking was a trifle loose and they failed to cover the fast forwards of the soldiers giving the latter plenty of opportunity to get under the basket before shooting. The game ended with O.T.C. 34 and Trinity 6.

For the winners Dunn starred with MacFarland a close second. These two forwards will take some watching in the semi-finals. Brown played a very nice game as guard frequently running up the floor to relieve the forwards and scored with well-timed shots. D. Martin the Trinity centre, showed that he was a real basketball player and loomed head and shoulders over his teammates. Paterson also played a very useful game as forward but lost many opportunities to score owing to poor marksmanship. The game was very ably handled by Stan Mootie, who starred last year with Vic.

O.T.C.—Brown, Robbins, Henderson, Dunn, MacFarland, Chew, Riddell.

Trinity—C. Martin, Lowe, D. Martin, Gossage, Paterson, Warner.
Referee—Stanley Mootie.

C.O.T.C. BAND.

Band practices will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays (instead of Fridays) from this date. Members will parade as usual on these days at 4.10 p.m. at the Orderly Room, Mining Building.

OSGOODE DEFEAT McMASTER 3-0

Osgoode yesterday defeated McMaster by a score 3-0. Osgoode team would like to compete for the Jennings' Cup and to put a team in the field.

McMaster—Mathews, Jameson, Malloy, Pierce, Hodges, Binclair.
Osgoode—Ballantyne, Murphy, Bellock, Suave, Twain, Robertson.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND "INFORMAL" ATHLETICS

There is the probability that come next spring Harvard will be the sole important exponent of "informal" athletics for every student who has the misfortune to be an upper classman. Princeton tried the system last fall and found it footless. And as to Yale The Yale Daily News says that "the university in her complete abolition of major sport teams has been in the wrong it is useless to deny." The very term, as well as the idea, "informal" has excited variously the risibilities, the scorn and the anger of critics of the policy adopted by the Big Three. The lexicon gives us as definition of "informal" something done not in the customary manner, irregular. As a secondary meaning Shakespeare and other classic writers give us sanction for accepting the word as signifying a state of mental distraction and derangement.

"It is to be hoped," says this able college daily, "that those in control will be broad-minded enough to realize the mistake before spring and that we shall have a baseball nine, a track team, and a crew representing the university, and taking part in outside contests under the West Point system."

"And," adds The News, "if through lack of practice or material these university teams lose every game, meet, and race on their schedules the more glory to Yale in the service!"—Lawrence Perry, in New York Evening Post.

HELPS IN WOMEN'S WORK

Among the Varsity women graduates to achieve distinction as a result of the war is Miss Emily June Guest, M.A., Miss Guest, who is a B.A. of University College of 1899, and an M.A. of 1901, was until last May serving as a V.A.D. nurse in a British military hospital in Northamptonshire, England. At that time she was taken by the Board of Agriculture of Great Britain to give food conservation lectures. From this work she was transferred by the British Government to the work of organizing the women's institutes in the north of England. Miss Guest was formerly on the staff of Belleville High School.—From "The Belleville Ontario."

Minnesota.—The students of the University of Minnesota will soon hold a "Flag Dance." The proceeds are to be used in purchasing a large service flag which will contain 500 stars.

PLAN FOR INSTRUCTION IN HYGIENE UNDER WAY

English and American Universities
Have Led the Way

Scheme of Sickness Insurance

Preliminary Medical Exam. Should be Necessary for Entrance

At the present time, a number of the United States universities and colleges give systematic instruction in hygiene and public health to all students, and demand also a preliminary medical examination as a necessary requirement for admission to the university. Free medical attention is also provided during the period when the students are in actual attendance at the university. By means of lectures in hygiene, every student is taught to safeguard his health, and made at the same time an emissary of the New Hygiene in every community in the country. The fundamental idea underlying these activities is briefly this. The time has come when hygiene, public health and preventive medicine, are matters of vital, general interest and of primary importance. However, it is only by the adoption of a comprehensive scheme of education that this can be brought home to each member of the community. In such an educational campaign the universities must play their part. All students, should therefore be made familiar with the way in which preventable diseases are spread, and the means taken to control them. It is a well-recognized fact that only when the public is fully and accurately informed in regard to communicable diseases and the weapons of defence available, is it possible to combat them successfully. Tuberculosis in particular affords a striking illustration of what can be done to check the spread of infection where a broad and comprehensive educational campaign has aroused public opinion and enlisted public support. Effective weapons are at the command of the trained hygienist, but financial aid to carry on the campaign and public sympathy and support are forthcoming only when people generally have been thoroughly educated.

Public Health

This education should find a place in one of the university departments, and obviously the department of hygiene should undertake the task. To provide the necessary instruction, courses should be planned in general hygiene for all students; optional courses offered in first aid, the epidemiology of infectious diseases, with field work, school hygiene, social service in relation to public health, etc. In addition, the usual instruction should be offered in hygiene and preventive medicine to students of medicine and sanitary engineering and to those qualifying for positions in public health service.

The support of such leaders and moulders of public opinion as trained University graduates is absolutely necessary to combat the general ignorance and superstition with regard to matters of public health and the spread of disease, because professional hygienists and medical men are frequently believed to be influenced by personal motives. Under such circumstances a laudable endeavour may be seriously handicapped at the outset.

With the hearty support of an educated public led by university graduates, trained in the essentials of personal and public hygiene, any campaign for the improvement of public health service or any measure to suppress any infectious disease should be eminently successful.

Physical Training

No university should admit any student whose physical condition is such that the strain of university work could only do detrimentally affect the health of that student or hasten a breakdown. A clean bill of health of the entering student in the university is as essential as any academic entrance requirement. This can be accomplished only by a preliminary medical examination of all students entering the university. (Such a preliminary examination is at present demanded of students entering the University of California.) Not only should the student receive a thorough physical examination, including tests of vision, etc., but a history should also be taken to determine whether any incoming student is

MAJOR A. W. MCCONNELL PROMISES INFORMATION

New Director of Military Study Uncertain as to His Length of Stay Satisfied with Progress

The new lion was bearded in his "den" the other day. Major A. W. McConnell, late of the 116th Battalion, C.E.F., was found in his office, as the Senior Musketry Officer of this division, in the Hart House. But it was in his capacity as Director of Military Studies that he was interviewed by THE VARSITY representative.

Major McConnell had only occupied this position a couple of days and therefore had not yet details at his finger tips. However, the most immediate pressing questions which are agitating the members of the C.O.T.C. were enumerated and an answer promised for them next week.

He is satisfied with the progress the Vets and Dents are making at the Armouries. This progress is no doubt due to the first class instructors, which have been lent by the N.C.O.'s Training Depot. Lieut. Bell who was in charge of this section of the C.O.T.C. is in the hospital. In his absence the work is in charge of Capt. A. E. Snively, also a returned officer.

Major McConnell's furlough is up in ten days. Up to the time of writing he did not know whether he would be ordered to return or stay here. Although he is Senior M.O. here, orders from overseas take precedent. However this too will be known definitely next week.

Class I is not the only class suffering from lack of attendance. Capt. Cochrane in charge of Meds, although he did not say much was certainly not very flattering in his remarks about their attendance. The officials have given up warning the students who ought to know their responsibilities by now and penalties for delinquency. "It's up to them." It might be mentioned as an "inside tip" that the "Absentee Report" of Class I for February 6, 1918, has been forwarded to the President for his consideration.

AUTHORITIES CONSERVE VARSITY SHOVELLERS

Would it not have been a beautiful and truly touching display of interest in the undergraduate body, had the Superintendent had the walks of the University cleaned on Monday. This morning, poor blighted students are floundering and fairly swimming in oceans of water and slush which could easily have been removed yesterday. The consensus of opinion seems to be, that the University authorities are conserving in snow-shovellers as well as in coal. Many are the muttered maledictions against the powers that be for this apparent lack of foresight. A corporation is a poor citizen.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

With her husband overseas, Mrs. Charles R. Widdifield has taken a post in the office of the Military Hospital's Commission. She was formerly Miss Marion Deme, and is a B.A. of Trinity in 1911. Capt. Widdifield is a Trinity College graduate of 1911 and was practising law in Owen Sound when he enlisted. He reverted to a lieutenancy to get to the front and was wounded. He is now attached to the 6th Canadian Reserve Battalion.

Nursing Sister E. B. Ridley has received the Royal Red Cross in recognition of her services. After taking her Arts degree at Trinity College, she graduated as a nurse from a New York hospital and served in that capacity during the Cuban war. On this occasion she went on the first instance to France and was later given her present appointment as matron of the Granville Canadian Specialists' Hospital, formerly at Folkestone, and now in Derbyshire.

Dr. William Charles White, M.D. 1901, who has been engaged in the Volunteer Relief Work of Health for the French War Department, has now been made chief of the Bureau of tuberculosis of the American Red Cross in France.

BROME LAKE CONFERENCE FOR EASTERN CANADIAN STUDENTS

Will be Held on June 20-27 at Knowlton, Quebec

The Conference for Eastern Canadian students was held last year at Knowlton, Quebec, and Toronto University was nobly represented, having the largest delegation present.

Any student who was fortunate enough to be there can describe Knowlton, especially the conference grounds. The scenery is all that could be desired, and when the buildings, etc., take on a more permanent nature, a fitting rival of the famous Northfield, will be well established.

The Conference this year will be held June 20-27, and every man who can possibly attend, should arrange his summer plans now, reserving this time.

Definite particulars will be announced later.

SECOND LAST MIXER ON WEDNESDAY

Central Fencing Club will be Special Attraction

Ask anyone who has been at the Mixers and they will invariably tell you that you can always "bank on them". You see, they are worked on the principle that they should pay a man for coming out. The general opinion of both professors and students seems to be that the Mixers have lived up to this standard.

It is therefore with every feeling of confidence that you will enjoy yourself, that you are invited to participate in the last two of the season, on the next two Wednesdays.

In particular are you invited this week, when a special evening will be staged by the Central Fencing Club. For particulars watch to-morrow's VARSITY. Get your tickets now.

U. OF T. SAVES COAL BUT NOT OF NECESSITY

University Closed in Mid-Term as Last Year

Drills Resume To-day

Almost to a day history repeated itself this year in the matter of closing of the University. For the second time in its history Toronto has been forced to close her doors during a session and each time the reason was centred in "black diamonds". Last year the University closed owing to a lack of coal in sufficient quantities to heat the buildings; this year, in order to obey the spirit of the Fuel Controllers instructions. Sufficient coal is on hand, THE VARSITY is informed, to last well into the spring season, and were it not for the "fuel saving idea," the University could have remained open without cessation.

During the three days, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, which most unfortunately were the warmest days of this unparalleled winter, the pressure in the steam mains was kept at just a sufficient height to prevent freezing. The radiators were barely warm. The Varsity was in formed by the Superintendent's Office last week that, in the neighbourhood of fifty tons would be saved by the buildings remaining closed for three days. Owing to the clement weather, however, a much larger amount was likely conserved, probably in neighbourhood of 75 tons. Some people have been uncharitably enough to suggest that the 75 tons be used in the heating of the North Lecture Room of the Medical Building, where coal conservation this term seems to have been most thoroughly and systematically applied.

Drills Resumed To-day.

The Department of Military Training of the University will re-open in conjunction with the other faculties to-day. Drill will be resumed in the Hart House and the P.T. class will parade at the gym "according to custom". For the benefit of those whose memory is generally faulty in this matter, we print the following schedule of drills.

Drills

Class I—University College and Victoria on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Class II—Medicals on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Class III—Applied Science, Forestry, Trinity and St. Michael's on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Gymnasium Classes on Mondays, and Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 4:20 p.m.

Closing of Dept. of Training.

Much conjecture as to when the Department of Military Training intends closing for the Long Vacation, is current in the University. THE VARSITY has been informed though not officially, that the week preceding Easter will witness the last parade. A much earlier date would indeed be welcome, owing to the early closing of Varsity and the absolute need of time for the "yeancient and (dis)honorable habit of plugging."

VARSIITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut.-Col. A. J. Mackenzie, B.A. University College 1896, M.B. 1900 LL.B., and a member of the Staff of the University, has been placed in charge of the Medical Department of the Granville Canadian Special Hospital, at Buxton, England. Colonel Mackenzie went overseas as medical officer to the 15th Battalion of the first contingent. After the battle of St. Julien in April, 1915, he was sent back to England, to Moore Barracks Hospital at Shorncliffe. He was promoted Lieutenant-colonel in May 1917, and has latterly been acting O.C. of the Princess Patricia's Red Cross Hospital at Ramsgate, which hospital has now been broken up.

Several University men were recently invested by the King at Buckingham Palace. Lieut.-Col. J. A. Anyot—a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George (M.B. 1891, Staff); Lieut. John S. Galbraith, son of the late Dean Galbraith of the Faculty of Applied Science, and himself a member of the Staff of the School, received his Military Cross.

QUEEN'S INDIGNANTLY DEFENDS ACTION

Say Impossible to Supply Coloured
Students with Clinics

No Antipathy to Negroes

McGill University Established Precedent a Year Ago

"An enterprising reporter for THE VARSITY, with a nose for news and a taste for the sensational, has discovered, in the action of Queen's in closing its classes in Medicine to the coloured students, a narrow-mindedness which serves to emphasize the "cosmopolitan attitude of the University of Toronto." This result is an article in the issue of January 30th, criticising Queen's for transferring these students to other colleges which "are being run on a more cosmopolitan basis than Queen's University." Dean Clarke, of the Toronto Medical Faculty, is reported to have said in an interview, "that Toronto made no discrimination as to race or colour as long as students possess the necessary qualifications." Further THE VARSITY declares, "The Faculty of Medicine in this University has had representatives from all colours, creeds and nationalities."

We would suggest to THE VARSITY that it look about the halls of its Medical School for negro students, and consult the registrar to see how many are attending at the present session. After taking this census, it might consult the records to see how long it is since THE Faculty of Medicine has had representatives from all colours."

The action of Queen's, in ceasing to train the coloured students in the Faculty of Medicine was not taken without a great deal of thought by the Medical Faculty and the Senate. It was not done from any antipathy to the negroes, among whom are gentlemen quite as cultured, and students quite as brilliant as any native Canadian undergraduates. Queen's has had many a coloured student whom she has been proud to graduate, but has found now that she has not the facilities for graduating any more. In the fourth and fifth years there is a certain amount of hospital instruction and clinics which is required before graduation—in a University where all the clinics are conducted on white patients, it is impossible to find sufficient work for students of other races. Thus Queen's is forced to tell the coloured students that she can not offer them enough instruction and practical work to complete their medical education, and asks them to withdraw in their own interest.

"This action was taken by McGill a year ago. Even in the absence of any regulation excluding negroes from Toronto University, it is nevertheless true, that for some unexplained reason, Toronto has no coloured medical students. There are centres in Canada such as Halifax, where the coloured population is large enough to provide clinics for coloured students; Queen's will see that her fifteen are placed in colleges where their medical education will be completed at no disadvantage to themselves."

NEWMAN CLUB HOLDS PARTY.

On Saturday afternoon, the Newman Club held a fairly well attended bridge and five-hundred party at the Hall on St. Joseph Street. Very tasty refreshments were served and after the cards, dancing was enjoyed for an hour or more. A general meeting of the club to consider a motion made at a recent meeting re the admitting to the executive of a representative from the Alumni will be held on Sunday after Mass.

FOOD CONSERVATION--THE NEED

In these times of universal shortage, Canada has felt the lack of food less than any other country in the world, and as a result we have failed to realize the desperate needs of the less fortunate nations of Europe, where the most dense populations of the civilized world largely depend for their food upon imported supplies.

In England the U-boats have caused many privations and sacrifices. In the last six months their ration scale has been reduced 25 per cent. and it is hourly expected that compulsory rationing in almost all commodities will be enforced. The extent to which these rations have been lowered already will be of interest to Canadians, and it is to be hoped that the people of the Motherland will not prove to be more self-sacrificing than we are when the safety of our Empire is at stake.

The weekly per capita allowance of meat of any sort in England is 2½ pounds; in plain terms this means one meat meal a day for five days of the week only and yet the people are not allowed to fill in the cracks with bread, for the daily allowance of flour, and war flour at that, is, in terms of bread, 3½ rounds cut from a small loaf. This includes everything, bread, pastry, thickening, cakes, cookies, biscuits, and even macaroni. The sugar ration is one teaspoon per head a week. This includes all sugar used in cooking and sweetening of all kinds. The confectionery shops sell no iced cakes and no sponge cakes. 'Butter is almost unobtainable and candy is a dim memory. Everybody takes a jealous interest in his weight and the number of pounds lost in the past month is the subject of much popular rivalry.

These few examples show clearly how the situation lies in England, and yet, last month, England had to send shiploads of precious foodstuffs to Italy because there they had only three days' food left in the country. What would have happened if England had not been able to send that relief? Imagine such a condition in Canada! After all, why should Italy or England feel the pinch of war more than ourselves? We are all fighting in the same cause, this war is as much our war as theirs, so let us divide the burden of sacrifice more equally and by reducing our food consumption in Canada, send what we save to relieve the situation in the countries of our Allies. They have of necessity made sacrifices more exacting than Canadians will ever have to endure; it is our plain duty to even up the balance if we can and through our abstinence to meet their urgent need.

SYSTEM

Last year THE VARSITY was very fortunate at this time of the year in being able to procure a number of special articles by one of the professors on "How to Study and How to Write Examinations". The keynote of the entire series was System, and while it is, possibly, a little late in the year to make suggestions a few words on the matter will doubtless be of some value.

There are no doubt many students who have been working upon a slipshod system which is of little or no value, but who have been flattering themselves that it is. As was pointed out last year, the best way of keeping up with one's work is to devote a certain period of time to each subject daily. Those who have not done this will now be trying to devise some means of getting up four months work in a month and a half.

The curriculum should be very carefully studied and the exact amount of what has to be done in each subject should be calculated. This having been determined a time-table should be figured out and rigidly adhered to. The manner of arranging the subjects should be given some consideration, as many of them overlap. For instance, in the Arts course, one would be foolish to spend some time at history and follow it immediately by a science. Rather the subject should be grouped so that those which bear some relation to one another may be studied in succession.

It is not wise to spend too much time on one subject without interruption as the mind becomes overburdened with it and consequently dulled. An entire evening should not be devoted to any one subject except in extreme cases for variety adds interest and creates enthusiasm in work.

System is most desirable in all things and if the habit of systematising work is commenced during our University course, where undoubtedly great opportunity is given for it, it will be of life-long value. It is safe to say that a student who does less work with system than one who does more without, receives more good from it.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

In another column in to-day's issue we print an article from the Queen's Journal about the matter of negro students. For the satisfaction of the Journal, we can state that there were negro students in the Faculty of Medicine in the years of 1909, 1910, and 1911. In 1911 the last of these men graduated.

Further a negro student registered in Medicine this year, attended lectures for some weeks; and only withdrew due to pressure of outside circumstances. This withdrawal, it is understood, is only temporary.

The point, however, is not so much when Toronto "has had" such students in her Faculty of Medicine; as it is that the regulations of this University permit these students to register and study medicine here. Queen's University, following McGill, has changed her regulations, and after this year negro students cannot study medicine there.

CONSERVATION OF FOOD

A LETTER BY HELEN GEORGE

Canadians do not yet realize what a food shortage means. This fact impresses everyone who returns from England. Canadians have not had to stand in line for hours for half a pound of margarine or 2-lbs. of potatoes or go from shop to shop trying unsuccessfully to buy even 1-lb. of bacon. They have not been without one scrap of sugar in the house for a week or gone without tea because there was none to buy. All these things people in England are accustomed to. They have been doing them more or less for a year.

Voluntary rationing has been the habit of most people in England for a year. That means, that for a year the great majority have been living, per head, at first on 2½-lbs. of meat a week (which includes bacon, ¾-lb. sugar, 4-lbs. of bread or 3-lbs. flour if you baked your own bread. The other cereals were not rationed. Early this autumn the sugar ration was cut to half a pound, 1 cup per head per week. That was all one had for cooking, using on fruit or in tea or coffee. The meat ration became 2-lbs. a week, including bone and waste. Just weight that out yourself. The bread 3½-lbs. a week for sedentary workers, i.e., a daily ration of 3½ slices from a sandwich loaf, cut ¼-in. thick. Men doing heavy work such as munitions, are allowed more. The other cereals now are also rationed, 12-oz. a head a week being the allowance. Now suppose you take porridge in the morning, 1-oz. is a very moderate helping. If you take it every morning, that is 7-oz. for the week and leaves you only 5-oz. of beans, rice or tapioca for puddings, etc. I think you will admit that is not a great deal, especially if you will weigh it out to see just what it amounts to. Macaroni and spaghetti are counted as flour, as, of course, they are made with flour. Fortunately the potato crop this year was a splendid one. Potatoes are not rationed and so we were able to "fill up" on them.

In spite of all this you have not heard any grumbling from England, have you? I think I can tell you why. In the first place, everyone realizes that to win the war a sacrifice is worth while and when they are told that to win the war they must eat just so much, they cheerfully do so. The people in Britain are splendid. It is a real inspiration and a real privilege to have lived and worked among them.

At first on the reduced diet one is a bit hungry, but it is surprising how quickly one grows accustomed to a limited and much less varied diet. Sweetness in food is largely habit. I found when I first reached home that I could not eat sweet puddings and cakes. I do not like them yet and certainly I am satisfied with much less than I formerly ate and am growing fat on it. We all want to know how we can help to win the war and the women in Canada and the United States have a great trust. We here, thousands of miles from the actual fighting, have it in our power to "save the situation", as our men did at Ypres in April 1915, not by fighting but by saving food, by using unexportable food instead of exportable food, and by eating less than we are doing now. Think what a privilege that is. To those of us who have men out there comes the opportunity to back them up in a concrete way and we must not fail them. Unless we send food, England and our allies will starve and we can only send it if we curtail our own consumption.

This is how it is being done in England. In the first place take bread. In England, bread is dark and heavy, "war bread" and there is a law, the breaking of which is punished by a heavy fine, by which no bread can be sold till at least 12 hours after it is baked. That means stale bread. We here can eat stale bread, it is a tremendous saving over fresh. Very few people in England eat toast. Bread goes twice as far not toasted. Try it. Here too, we have many other cereals, cornmeal, oat-meal, barley, buck-wheat, rye, flour, all these will help to save wheat, but do not waste them. Do not have "hot cakes". Then take meat, 2-lbs. a week, counting bone and waste, means one can not have meat or bacon for more than five meals a week, six if one's helpings are small. That is one meal a day and one or two meatless days. Here we can do that easily, as we have unrationed fish, beans, potatoes, cheese, eggs, milk. Use more milk, as even at its present price it is cheaper than meat. We can save sugar by having no iced cakes, by using less to sweeten our food and by giving it up in tea and coffee, as people in England have done. We can also give up candy for the duration of the war or at least use "substitute" candy. Fats can be saved as they are in England, by not frying foods.

We women in Canada have this wonderful opportunity. Think it over and ask yourself this question: "Are we going to play a worthy part in this great day?"

GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA
MUST WORK TOGETHER

"There are three things which have come out of the progress of the war," said Sir George R. Parkin, secretary of the Rhodes scholarship fund, at the mixer held recently at the Union.

"First, gradually it has dawned upon us that it is a fight for civilization. Secondly, it has made it perfectly certain that this war is going to be a war of exhaustion. And thirdly, the final strain of this war is coming upon the British and American nations."

Sir Parkin spoke of the need of co-operation between England and the United States. He said that they must believe in each other and work together. Great Britain, he stated, has thrown 7,000,000 men into the field, 6,000,000 of which came from the mother country.

The speaker mentioned the effect of the war on Oxford University. Only 300 men now remain in that institution, he declared.—Michigan Daily.

McGILL'S HEAVY LOSSES

The 88th Annual Report of the President of McGill University, Sir William Peterson, gives some very interesting figures as regards McGill's share in the war. Over 2,154 graduates and undergraduates have enlisted, of whom 236 have made the supreme sacrifice. In proportion, therefore, McGill has suffered more heavily, for of over 4,000 who have gone from Toronto University, only approximately 350 have laid down their lives. The other McGill figures include 331 wounded, 16 prisoners of war, and 297 honours awarded.

MEETING CANCELLED.

ST. MIKE'S AND U.T.S. WORK OVERTIME TO TIE

One of Most Interesting Games in Junior O.H.A.

Perhaps the most interesting game in Junior O.H.A. was pulled off yesterday at the Arena when St. Mike's and U.T.S. fought twenty minutes overtime to a 3 all tie. The play was fast and interesting and the large excited crowd gave the teams great support. As a team the Bluestreet boys are more evenly balanced than St. Mike's, but the difference is greatly made up by Brown of St. Mike's, who was the fastest man on the ice.

1st Period.

St. Mike's started with a rush and kept the puck around U.T.S. nets and in a scramble managed to push one through. The School forwards were not checking back well and after another rush and mix-up before the goal, St. Mike's scored again. Some pretty doubtful penalties were handed to U.T.S. and the school supporters saw the period end with St. Mike's leading 2-0.

2nd Period.

U.T.S. showed they were capable of a come-back and soon after play began, Gunn scored on a pass from Sullivan. School had the best of the play throughout the period, but could not slip one by O'Brien. Time showed St. Mike's still ahead 2-1.

3rd Period.

The first few minutes of play showed U.T.S. pressing hard and on a four-man rush Sullivan solved the defence and evened up for School. This necessitated an overtime period.

Overtime

The play became faster and furious and for ten long minutes twelve men worked their heads off for no result.

U.T.S. improved wonderfully and after a rush Gunn poked a rebound past O'Brien. The Irish came back full of grit in the second half of the period and a few seconds after time was up slipped the puck into U.T.S. goal during a mix-up.

As the time-keeper had forgotten to ring the gong the game was called a tie and will be replayed later.

U.T.S.—J. Sullivan, Munro, Rowell, Aggett, Gunn, F. Sullivan, Jeffrey.

St. Mike's—O'Brien, Brown, Kelley, Roigue, Baudoin, Cronin.

Referee—Steve Vair.

670 STUDENTS HIT BY DRAFT RULING.

Approximately 670 men in the University will be affected by the proposed ruling that all men who have become 21 years old since June 5, 1917, be conscripted for military service. This is the statement made by Secretary Shirley W. Smith last week when asked how the University would be affected by the Chamberlain resolution now awaiting passage in congress.

"Four or five weeks ago," said Secretary Smith, "we compiled a list of the ages of all students enrolled in the University. More students, we found, were 20 years old upon registering in October, 1917, than any other age."—Eastern.

HYGIENE INSTRUCTION

likely to be a disease carrier: for example, a typhoid or diphtheria carrier. This is most important in those universities where students lead a community life in dormitories, etc.

Physical exercise is recommended, playing fields and gymnasiums provided, and the health of those in special branches of sport is carefully guarded, but the health of the great mass of the student body usually receives but little attention. Unquestionably, the health of any university student should be of as much concern as that of a university athlete. It is possible to provide for medical care of all students by the adoption of a scheme of sickness insurance, such as is done by the state in England, and also, in the University of California, and in the University of Wisconsin. By the payment of a small annual fee (six dollars) the student is given the necessary preliminary medical examination and free medical service, including hospital care when required. (Only surgical care being paid for as an extra). Such a plan is in operation at the two state universities mentioned. This idea is actually the application, in the University of State Medicine, and is one of the first steps in the nationalization of the practice of medicine.

One grave question that has not been alluded to, and one which has received inadequate consideration heretofore, is that of venereal diseases amongst men students. Immediate attention should be paid to this subject, both from the educational standpoint and from the viewpoint of hygiene and preventive medicine.

ROYAL ONTARIO MUSEUM RECIPIENT OF LARGE COLLECTION

Fifteen Hundred Pieces Donated by Mrs. H. H. Warren—Collection
Dredged from Rivers

The Royal Ontario Museum on Bloor street is the recipient of a large collection of pre-Christian war utensils. This collection, consisting of fifteen hundred pieces, has been donated by Mrs. H. D. Warren, who is paying the money over to a private military hospital in England, for which a prominent gentleman there is turning over these antiques.

These instruments are made of bronze and copper and were dredged from the Thames, Tiber and Seine, and are in perfect condition owing to their continual contact with water. The collection is the best one on the North American Continent and one of the best which has been compiled in the whole world within the last few years.

Among the collection is three of the best swords to be found anywhere in the globe with engraved, gilt handles. The arm bands or bracelets are gorgeous and served to turn a blow off or prevented sword from wounding the arm. They were of equivalent utility to plate armour for the body. The Lorques about the neck gave a beautiful appearance to the soldier and also served as a protection.

The Museum is highly pleased to receive such a collection; which will serve a two-fold purpose, for the public to see and for scientists, biologists, chemists, and artists to work upon. These instruments were used by the Ancient Britons, 3,500 to 1,500 B.C., and the discoveries are destined to play an eminent part in pre-history. Historians are no longer going to divide the eras and epochs, but the scientists and especially the geologists.

Owing to the submarine menace the collection will not be brought to Canada until great safety assurance can be supplied. It is stored in England and Canada will derive the benefits from it when the war is over.

YALE DECIDES TO RESUME 'VARSITY SPORTS IN SPRING

Yale will have normal 'Varsity teams in baseball, crew and track this spring, according to a new decision of the advisory committee on athletics, of which Professor Robert N. Corwin is chairman. The committee decided some time ago that athletics would be conducted on an informal basis, as was football last fall, but as a result of many conferences within the past few weeks, the policy has been altered.

All 'Varsity baseball candidates will be called out immediately after the mid-year examinations. It is not known, however, what material there is in college, so that no predictions can be made as to the strength of the Yale team. The question of a Princeton and Harvard series will be settled in the near future.

To-Day's Poem

EVENING STAR.

O star of evening, holy lamp of heaven,
Calm and serene throughout the circling years,
Look on me where I stand amid the shadows,
Child of vain hopes and subjected to fears;

Nay, look upon me not as one intruding,
Breaking into the quiet of the night,
Let me abide with thee within the temple,
Whose dome enshrines the countless orbs of light.

Lift me from out the place among the shadows,
To be with thee where worlds their courses keep,
Let me be partner in thy nightly vigils,
Watching above the place where empires sleep.

Let me be partner in thy meditations,
Freed now from earthly prejudice and fears;
Viewing with thee the motions of the planets,
Hearing with thee the music of the spheres.

Let me be clothed in thy effulgent brightness
Let me be pure as thy unsullied rays,
Let me be calm with that sublime serene-
ness,
Thy maker gave thee in the ancient days.

That while within the world I keep my vigils,
Watching as thou dost in those larger spheres,
My light may be as pure as thine and changeless,
Calm and serene throughout the circling years.—Acta Victoriana.

Registrar Mathews says that since Christmas 121 new students have come to the University. Forty-five of these are old students who returned after being out for some time, 28 come in from high schools, or by individual approval, and 48 have come here from other schools. The registrar says that at present there are very few leaving school on account of the draft or for any other reason. There are some few leaving now and then, but only a normal number.—Daily Texan.

M. & P. SOCIETY AT ROYAL CANADIAN INSTITUTE

Dr. C. A. Chant's Address on "Eclipses"

The Mathematical and Physical Society held a open social gathering at the Royal Canadian Institute Building, 198 College Street on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. Dr. Wm. Satterly presided. Refreshments were provided as well as an address, and a short program. Mr. G. R. Moore gave a reading "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and Miss A. Grant, first year, on "The Welsh Course." Mr. Roxborough rendered a selection on the violin.

The Society had the truly great pleasure of being addressed by Dr. C. A. Chant on "Eclipses, with special reference to the coming Solar Eclipse on June 8th." Dr. Chant explained clearly, so that all could understand, the causes, and kinds of eclipses, and also the value of the observations possible as a result of these phenomena of Nature. Lantern slides, including a special one of Dr. Chant's own design, illustrated the various points of the address. Needless to say the address was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

These are the kind of lectures no student should miss, while attending the University. Interesting and educational, they are remembered when dry and complicated formulae are forgotten. They go to form a store of pleasant recollections for the years to come.

Dr. Agnes Walker (nee Young) a graduate in Medicine of 1916, has been placed in charge of 500 beds in the surgical ward of the 1st General Hospital at Birmingham, England. After several months of anxious waiting, Dr. Agnes Walker received word just after Christmas that her husband, Capt. Frank Walker, M.C., an M.B. 1913, was a prisoner of war in Germany.

Captain Lester Hopkins, P.R.C. sailed on the 31st of January for England, after two months' leave spent in Canada. He belonged to the class of 1916, University College.

SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Word has been received of the valuable war work being done by Miss Zanthé Constantinides, who took her M.A. at the University in 1902, and was on the staff of Bishop Strachan School when war broke out. She went overseas as a V.A.D. and after working for some time in France in an isolation hospital, returned to England, where she has been nursing in a London hospital for the past six months. In addition to this work, Miss Constantinides has also put her knowledge of languages to practical use as an interpreter of French and German.

Miss Felicia (Nan) Cook, B.A., of Trinity, 1914, went overseas a year ago last July and has been serving with the R.A.M.C. as a voluntary nurse in Bermondsey Hospital, England. Miss Cook is a Toronto girl and graduated from Harbord C.I. to the University, where she took a prominent part in athletics, as captain of the basketball team. According to a cable received by her family, she will be leaving for England shortly to serve with the R.A.M.C. unit in either Egypt or Palestine.

Miss Mary J. Clarke, a B.A. of Trinity College in 1914, has enrolled for the A.A. course in economics at Columbia University. Miss Winifred A. Anderson, who was at St. Hilda's in the 1915 class, is now in the Auditor General's office, Ottawa. Miss Katherine Dixon, also of Ottawa, has resigned from the staff of Bishop Strachan schools to take a position in the Pension Office.

Captain James Dickson, B.A., U.C. 1913 and M.B. 1916, and Capt. Willoughby M.B. 1916, have sailed from New York by an American troopship, on their way back to service.

Capt. Eln K. Clarke, M.B. 1916, left for the east on February 7th to sail for England where he will be attached to the University Base Hospital at Basingstoke. He is a son of Dean Clarke of the Faculty of Medicine.

McClary's Wireless.

Two young Irishmen in a Canadian regiment were going into the trenches for the first time and their captain promised them five shillings each for every German they killed.

Pat lay down to rest, while Mick performed the duty of watching. Pat had not lain long when he was awakened by Mick shouting:

"They're comin'! They're comin'!"

"Who's comin'?" shouts Pat.

"The Germans," replies Mick.

"How many are there?"

"About fifty thousand."

"Begorra," shouts Pat, jumping up and grabbing his rifle, "our fortune's made!"

This was considered funny:

"My wife left to-day for the West Indies."

"Yes? Jamaica?"

"No, indeed, but I didn't stand in the way."

Lieut.-Col. A. J. Mackenzie, M.B., L.L.B., who was formerly officer commanding the Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Ramsgate, has now been placed in charge of the medical department of the Granville Canadian Specialist Hospital at Buxton, Eng.

The Tango Tease

By GEORGE S. SHAPPEL in Vanity Fair.

If you're dancing with a maid
And you give her hand a squeeze
And she whispers, unafraid,
"Sir, you are a tango-tease,"
You should murmur in her ear,
Taking frankness for your motto,
"Many thanks, and you, my dear,
Are a very foxy-trotter."

HAVE YOU SUBSCRIBED?

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY WILL MAKE CHANGES

They May Affect the Whole Scheme of Modern Training in English-Speaking Universities

Classics Give Way

Latin-Greek Combination will Not Be Necessary for All Degrees--
Lessons Requirements

Responding to the stimulus imparted by the war, Cambridge University is contemplating changes which may affect the whole scheme of modern training in English-speaking universities and provide a broader basis for liberal education.

The first of these is designed to bring the examination which candidates must pass either before or after entering Cambridge more into line with the requirements of the modern world. To accomplish this it has been proposed to abolish the compulsory examination to study two classical languages. This applies only to the "ordinary" courses, as distinguished from the "honour" courses which latter are for the ablest students.

Now Demand Both Classics

While there is no entrance examination at Cambridge, all candidates are required to pass the so-called "previous examinations" in which, at present, Greek and Latin are both compulsory.

It now has been proposed that, instead of compelling the candidates to take two classical languages, two foreign languages should be required in the "previous examinations" of which Latin shall be one, and that the candidate shall have the option of offering as his second foreign language either Greek, or French, or German. It is felt that the existence of classical entrance scholarships will effectually promote the study of Greek at the university by many of the ablest men.

Lessons Requirements For Degrees
It is not proposed to make the "previous examinations" easier but to open the avenue to a degree to those who have been educated at universities where two classical languages are not compulsory.

When once the "previous examination" is passed the "ordinary" student usually proceeds to take one or more special examinations. It is suggested to increase the number of these and generally to widen the curriculum. New subjects may be introduced and re-grouping will probably follow.

Closer Associations

A committee has recently been appointed "to consider the means of promoting collaboration with the universities of the Empire and the foreign universities." This committee with its wide influence will doubtless deal with such questions as the interchange of professors, and what facilities can be afforded to young graduates from non-British universities for proceeding to post graduate courses and degrees.

Welcome to Soldier Students

Cambridge has no Rhodes Scholars, but she has numerous students from the United States, and a welcome is now being extended to the soldier-students already in Europe who cannot spend their short leaves in America. There are already over 3,000 American university men, students and graduates, engaged in active war work in France, and it is expected that in a short time there may be more than 10,000. University authorities hope that next year groups of these students will visit Cambridge and spend a few days in its ancient colleges. It is already known that all the colleges are willing most cordially to co-operate in this movement and as far as is possible every hospitality will be extended to the guests from across the seas.

Re WORK ON FARM

There is a rumour prevalent around the University that students will be granted their year on condition that they work on the farm during the coming summer. This has been under discussion but as yet no decision has been reached.

Don't forget the Women's "Lit" Short Story Contest. Note the date for returns, February 16th.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

A number of Varsity men were among those who recently arrived from England. Capt. C. S. McKee, of Vancouver, who graduated in Medicine in 1896, and was practising in Vancouver before he joined No. 5 General Hospital.

Major the Rev. C. C. Owen, B.A., U.C. 1886, and Wycliffe College, who went overseas with the 2nd contingent and has been service first with the infantry, and later with No. 3 Canadian General Hospital in France.

Capt. E. J. Leary, B.A., U.C. 1911, M.B. 1912, of Cookville, who went to England with the Ontario Military Hospital.

Lieut. R. D. Millyard, B.A., Victoria College, 1886, enlisted as a private with the 5th Universities Company, and was granted his commission last August. Lieut. Millyard was wounded in October, and has come home on sick leave.

Lieut. J. H. Creighton, Victoria College, 1911, is also home on sick leave, having been wounded on the head last November. He was wounded earlier in the summer.

Lieut. W. E. Shier of Uxbridge, a student at the Faculty of Education 1911-12, is going to the States as an instructor. He has been serving with the 116th Battalion, Col. Sam Sharpe's unit.

Another party of officers have sailed for home, among them being:
Capt. Harold C. Walker, younger son of Sir Edmund Walker, who was a student in University College of the class of 1917, when he enlisted. He served for a time with the Royal Field Artillery, Lahore Division as a second lieutenant, and then a first lieutenant, transferring over a year ago to the C.F.A., and being posted to the Canadian School of Gunnery at Shorncliffe.

Capt. David C. Dick, B.A. (U.C.) 1909, of Colborne, is an officer in the Canadian Field Artillery. He was mentioned in General Haig's despatches of January 1st.

Major George N. Moleworth, Dip. Sc. 1907, an officer of the 124th Battalion, returns also. He went to France with his unit, when it was changed into a pioneer battalion.

FENCING EXHIBITION AT BIG "T" MIXER TO-NIGHT

Second Last This Year—Act Accordingly

Just one more Mixer this year after to-night fellows, so get in line for the last two. You can't afford to miss these. Ask those who attend for further particulars and for any vindication of their introduction into University life. The Mixers are solving a real problem, that of presenting students of different faculties with an opportunity for mixing and for exchanging sentiments.

You want to meet other live students don't you? Then, take your last two chances this year of doing so. To-night, Mr. Chas. Walters, the Canadian champion of foil, sabre and bayonet fencing is staging a special evening with the assistance of others, notable in the fencing sphere. It would be a shame to minimize the exhibition you will see, so in order to do everybody justice, we are to keep mum as far as specific details are concerned—only, Central "Y" auditorium accommodates 200 no more, so if you want to spend one of the best evenings of your Varsity course, one of those which you will look back upon in after years, be wise and get your ticket early. There are only 200 and each faculty is limited to 25 so if you wish to represent your College in spirit, by yells, by living up to its reputation for pie-punchers, and by its interest in inter-faculty activities, then jog along towards Central "Y" to-night.

Send THE VARSITY home.

WONDERFUL WORK IS DONE AT HART HOUSE WITH RETURNED MEN

Numerous Instruments are Devised to Suit Each Particular Case-- Returned Heroes Have Great Time There

When one considers the various apparatuses and the fair measures at the convenience of the wounded soldier, one cannot understand the need for the enforcing of the Military Service Act. In fact, it cannot be denied why any chap could have refrained from rushing to the colours in the hope of some day being taken the instruction and, to say the least, entraining care of the aforementioned fair ones.

Let us take an example. When a patient who has, let us assume, lost the use of his right leg from the hip down enters the training course, he is given over to an instructor who puts him through a series of movements on various apparatus. For recovery of the use of the hip the patient is placed in a machine which upon turning a wheel lifts the leg up and down working the hip. Other apparatus for the hip work sideways. Two stationary bicycles, adjustable for

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB

The Spanish Evening of the Modern Language Club is to be held at the home of Professor Keys, 87 Avenue Road, on Wednesday, February the thirteenth, at eight o'clock. Dr. Buchanan is going to speak to the Club of his personal knowledge of the Spanish people and Miss Edna Mitchell, last year's President of the Club is giving a paper on the geographic peculiarities of Spain. Music and a Spanish dance in costume complete the programme.

The meetings are drawing to a close so every member should not miss the opportunity of coming on Wednesday evening.

FROSH TOOTH-PULLERS HOLD SKATING PARTY

Thursday evening a most enjoyable skating party, followed by refreshments and a dance, was held by the 2T1 class of Dentistry at "Varsity". Some forty couples met at rendezvous "D", and commenced to enjoy themselves, skating both bands and intermissions. The evening was quite mild and as the crowd was large, it was not long before the ice became badly cut up. The members of the party seemed most fortunate in escaping the holes in the ice, which caused the downfall of a few towards the end of the evening. Skating stopped after the fifteenth hour, and from thence the happy couples proceeded to the Tea Rooms, where the remainder of the programme was carried out to everyone's satisfaction. By ten-thirty all were served with cake, sandwiches and coffee. The president, Mr. P. R. Wilson, gave a short speech thanking all for making the party such a huge success, and expressing the hope that another equally enjoyable party might be held before the end of the season. College and class yells were given with considerable zest by the boys. Shortly after the refreshments, tables and chairs were removed and the piano moved to the front. Nearly everyone took part in the dancing, the music was supplied by Miss Wilson and others and was most satisfactory. The party broke up about one in the morning, everyone having enjoyed the evening.

TELEGRAPHY COURSE

An interesting new course in cable telegraphy is now being offered by the University. It consists of a definite program of studies and laboratory exercises covering a period of one year, and including such work as the elements of electrical engineering, direct current machinery, cable apparatus, etc. The time allotted for this work has been carefully planned so that the student of average ability should be able to become a satisfactory operator by the end of the year.

"THE BLUESTOCKINGS" STAGED BY ALUMNAE OF UNIVERSITY COLL.

Promises to be a Great Success--
Full of Human Nature--Lady
Falconer and Lady Walker
Among the Patronesses

As your eye scanned the caste of "The Bluestockings" in last week's VARSITY, did it linger on the word "Trissotin" and wonder at the audacity of the ubiquitous German spy in creeping into a play of Molière's? There is no need for alarm, the gentleman in question being "Trissotin", a poet of France, though indeed of that age of affatation when a chair could not with propriety be called a chair, but must needs be termed a "commodity of conversation." It is well worth while to see Trissotin reading his poetic effusions to an admiring coterie of ecstatic females, or to watch the relations between him and Vadius, a fellow poet, as they develop from extravagant compliment to jealous quarrelling. It is not a play which is stilled and affected, the interesting thing is to see the human nature breaking through the crust.

Remember the Bluestockings is a translation of Molière's "Les Femmes Savantes."

2T1 FRESHMEN, ATTENTION!

Men and women of 2T1, don't forget to keep Thursday evening, February 21, a week from to-morrow. The first year are holding the most novel party of the year, a theatre party—then eats. We're all going together and sit together in couples. Then we're coming back to the Women's Union for eats and a programme. Don't forget that its going to be a real party, and all the first year are invited. Watch THE VARSITY for particulars and in the meantime talk to your executive about it, as yet a few details are lacking and you can help—it's your party. Don't forget Thursday evening the 21st. Make your date early.

THIRD YEAR S.P.S. IN- DULGE IN SKATING PARTY

A very successful skating party was held last Thursday evening in the Aura Lev rink by the third year Applied Science. The evening was ideal, the music excellent and the ice "just right," a combination which lured the skaters to push forth their best efforts. After skating, everyone adjourned to the ballroom where excellent refreshments were heartily appreciated. Then there was a scurry for partners and about twenty couples glided out upon a first-class floor. Mr. Orr of the fourth year officiated at the piano and everyone agreed that nothing better in the line of music was to be desired, especially as he was most generous with his encores. Those who did not dance enjoyed a quiet game of cards and midnight came all too soon. Much credit is due to the committee who planned and directed the party. It is to be hoped that their splendid success will tempt them to try again.

SECOND YEAR MASQUERADE

The masquerade held by Second Year U.C. last Friday night was a marked success. The costumes were all very striking but the valued prize went to the young lady in the noticeable abbreviated Scotch dress, representing "Sandy MacPherson" after a night out. The prize for the best men's costume was awarded to a dashing cavalier, much to the chagrin of the able impersonator of Principal Hutton. After a short program and a decidedly novel charades, an elaborate banquet of angel cake and war bread was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and cards.

Lieut. Alan N. Worthington, Sc. 1910-11, has seen much service. He was with the 18th Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Montreal, and was wounded in May 1915. He returned to Canada on sick leave and was made a major in the 169th Battalion.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

An interesting account of how Lieut. Leonard L. Youell won the Military Cross has just been received.

Lieut. Youell was acting as Field Observation Officer at Hill 70 on August 15th last, and when the advance was made he went "over the top" with the first line of infantry, narrowly missing being gassed by his own men. His signaller kept the lines of communication open till late in the afternoon, while no other lines lasted over ten minutes.

When the infantry reached their final objective, he immediately returned to a selected observation post in the front line trenches, where he remained for sixty hours continuously, without relief, and by his splendid work rendered nine enemy counter attacks futile.

His accurate work at this time was instrumental in breaking up an attack of the famous Prussian Guard whom he saw massing for the maximum attack, and a long paragraph in the despatches was devoted to his gallantry.

In commenting on this, one who knows the circumstances says "No M.C. has ever been more truly earned. He is a popular officer—as boyish, full of life and happy as ever."

Lieut. J. B. Allen, B.A., Victoria Coll. 1914, has just been appointed to an important post at Ottawa, that of Assistant Secretary to the Honourable N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council. Lieut. Allen was wounded in June 1916 while serving with the 58th Battalion, and was invalided to Canada. He has been mentioned in despatches.

Capt. C. S. I. Hertzberg, M.C., Science, 1906, has been made O.C. of the Spadina Military Hospital. He has been acting as adjutant since last September. Capt. Hertzberg has been twice wounded. His brother, Lt. Col. F. H. H. Hertzberg, was wounded at St. Julien, and has been awarded both the D.S.O. and the Military Cross.

Major S. S. Burnham, D.S.O., B.A., U.C. 1911, has been gazetted a General Staff Officer of the third grade. He has been in France since September 1915, going over with the 11th Battalion and was wounded.

Mr. Abraham Eisen, a well-known business man, father of S. Eisen of THE VARSITY, lies at his home 12 Belle Ave. in a very serious condition. The various local doctors that have been summoned have given up all hope for his recovery.

DR. WALLACE TO SPEAK AT U.C. WOMEN'S LIT.

An Interesting Lecture is Promised on "War Poetry"

The next meeting of the U.C. Women's Literary Society will be held at the Women's Union on Saturday, February 16. The subject for the evening is "War Poetry," the speaker, Dr. Wallace. This subject is one which is sure to appeal to all interested in the new tendencies of literature, both verse and prose, which have arisen over the war. Dr. Wallace needs no introductions; but those who have missed him in lectures room should not neglect this opportunity of hearing him again. The members are promised a very interesting evening and a large attendance is expected.

Coming Events.

Monday, February 18th, Prof. W. R. Taylor will address Menorah Society at the University Y.M.C.A. at 8 p.m. sharp.

DR. J. J. WALSH, OF N.Y. AT LORETTO ABBEY

Argues That Education by Itself is Not Sufficient to Bring About Real Civilization

"Higher Education"

"There is Nothing New in This World. Least of All is Feminine Higher Education New"

At a dinner on Monday night in Loretto Abbey, Dr. James J. Walsh of New York, a distinguished lecturer and author, was the speaker. His Grace, Archbishop McNeill, presided.

Dr. Walsh spoke on the question of higher education.

"At the beginning of the war," said Dr. Walsh, "the feeling of everybody was that a great war in our time was impossible. It was impossible that the nations could engage in strife that would put civilization on the razor's edge. Of course, we used to let ourselves be persuaded that war preparations made for peace, but we know better now. We were astonished at the outbreak because we thought the world knew too much to go to war. We were too educated! And yet it was the most educated, the most intellectual of the nations which precipitated the war."

A "High Brow" Defined.

Arguing that education by itself was not sufficient to bring about real civilization, Dr. Walsh gave what he said was the latest New York definition of a high brow. "A high brow," he said, "is a person who has more education than he has intelligence." Anyhow, we were fooling our selves before the war with the idea that intellectual education made people better. It doesn't do so, but it has a tendency to make them worse. Herbert Spencer had spoken of the havoc that follows when, as he said, "intellectualization precedes moralization." Plato had spoken of the same thing long before in shorter words when he said that to teach men without making them better was to put swords in the hands of madmen.

"Germany," said Dr. Walsh, "has been teaching men, but not making them better" and now we are fighting madmen in Europe.

Dr. Walsh didn't admit that Germany with all her learning, was the most intelligent of nations. Learning wasn't wisdom, and, according to the latest New York definition of a fool, said Dr. Walsh, "a fool is a man who has read everything and remembers it all."

Dr. Walsh went on to speak of higher education for women in the past. "There is nothing new in this world," he said, "and least of all is feminine higher education." In the 15th century every university in Spain had women professors. In the 12th century there were hundreds of licenses issued to women in Italy to practice medicine. At that time women taught Greek, Latin, medicine and anatomy. It was a woman who invented the use of wax figures to teach anatomy. Dr. Walsh referred to the earliest piece of English literature in existence, Caedmon's Story of Creation. Caedmon was a servant at the Abbey of Whitby in Yorkshire. At this place there was a convent of women and a monastery of men, and it was a woman, the Abbess Hilda, who was the head of both institutions, and it was she who ordered that Caedmon should be taught to read and write when he showed signs of his wonderful genius.

Dr. Walsh concluded by speaking of the need of further educational developments in view of the conditions created by the world war.

'21 CLASS PINS READY

The 2T1 class pins which are a wonderful work of art will be on sale in the rotunda of the Main Building this morning from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Price 75 cents. Have your change ready. If you want a second pin leave your name and get it later. One U.C. 2T1 class pin will be given to the person who sends in the best class yell (at least Thursday, February 21st). Cudgel your brain and leave a "peppy" one at the U.C. post office for the secretary.

THE ORIENTATION OF THE FACULTIES

When we look over the student life at Old McGill in a calm and philosophical mood, and begin pondering over what changes could be made in it in order to make the result of our days in our Alma Mater more efficacious in after life, we immediately think of the great benefit that could be accrued from a closer relation between the various Faculties. What we are primarily at McGill for is evidently in order to get an education, i.e., we must get that great ability to communicate and demonstrate to others the better things of life, whether it be in health, wealth or class attainments and understanding.

With the present system we can hardly expect an improvement in subjecting ourselves to the ordeal of absorbing abstruse and concentrated knowledge, but on the other hand there is an enormous realm in the social side that is as yet but superficially explored. At German Universities we have the rather indelicate and delicate informal beer festivals, where a very great intimacy is developed, in British institutions we have the more solid meeting, and in American colleges the highly specialized entertainments of athletics, dances and so forth which have produced the characteristic American college man—self-reliant and an expert in team work and organization, while at McGill we have a very difficult time in gathering a few souls around a band organ to skate in the Canadian winter night.

There is evidently a great need for a movement whereby all faculties will be interested and meet together in an entirely unconventional way at a place of common interest.

This problem in former years was partially solved by the feeling of competition against Varsity and the good old days of theatre parties. What matured, if a little furniture were broken or not if future leaders of this great Dominion might cement ties of friendship by being in common guilt or on a glory as the case might be?

There is admittedly a lack of enthusiasm in our University, would not a general debate in one comfortable quarters, such as the Union, and the buzz of many burning cigarettes and the click of merry glasses on an absorbing topic be sure to raise enthusiasm?

The writer prophesies that every man in Medicine and Science with any red blood in his veins would rise to the occasion and find his voice and oratorical abilities suddenly developed in the heat of argument, and gain the confidence to argue that should be held by every college graduate.

The "Lit." does not solve the problem, it is too tame and formal, only a few ever speak at it.

What we want is a free for all oratorical fight under comforting influences, instead of four men who do not need the training to speak to a dozen or more men who only criticize and do nothing.

Many will object for war reasons, that is illogical, for ever a time existed when the spirit of relaxation and combativeness were needed it is right now, when every nerve is strained to the utmost, and which must be relaxed in some way or other. The greater the strain the greater the intensity of reaction. Should the boys who return from the front find McGill a dead one, and only a place for "flaminate"? No, for if they should, it is certain that McGill would be no inducement to them, and our old Alma Mater would lose the flower of Canadian manhood forever.

Conclusion. A vest to be buttoned and unbuttoned also serves for the same purpose and small rings to be taken from pole complete the apparatus. All these machines have dials also to show the progress of the patient.

In connection with the arm and shoulder department there is a billiard room for amputation cases. The Railbird

Old Jupiter Plus, certainly handed open air hockey an upper-cut when he let loose this last shower. However, there is no truth to the rumour which is floating about, namely, that the management of Varsity Rink are thinking of holding a regatta.

The Jennings' Cup Series is tied in a series of double knots which will be cut this afternoon at the executive meeting.

If there is a lapse in this budding spring, the competition for the hockey cup will be completed.

St. Mike's may still find their way into O.H.A. finals. The game between the light and dark blue and U.T.S. on Monday was certainly a credit to Junior O.H.A.

The pink-hasters have some reason for breaking their schedule, but the ball-tossers of the Sifton Cup Series have no excuse for the outrageous manner in which they have defaulted and postponed games.

As matters draw to a conclusion, and the semi-finals loom large ahead the managers of the different faculty teams seem to delight in shrouding the movements, condition, and standing of their teams in as much mystery as possible.

This attitude always makes it simple for Varsity to secure information.

MR. SORSOLEIL SPEAKS AT UNION LIT. SOCIETY

Believes That Democratic Forms of Government will be Set Up After the War

The Union Literary Society meeting held on Friday afternoon was opened by a violin solo from Mr. Baine '21. Everyone expected something good from a member of a year which has been showing so much talent and they were not disappointed.

Mr. Sorsoleil, of the Model School, spoke on, "Reconstruction after the War." Mr. Sorsoleil was not registered at Victoria while attending the University but after he had told of some of his early pranks about the college at Cobourg where he was raised and of his knowledge of the college as it then existed those present saw that he was as much at home at Victoria as they.

In speaking Mr. Sorsoleil discussed questions which are uppermost in the minds of men and women to-day and which are of especial interest to students. His thoughts were clearly expressed and arranged in a definite order which made it possible to understand and carry away the whole. He spoke of four branches of reconstruction necessary, namely: political, social, commercial and religious.

He believed that after the war autocratic kingship, which is an impracticable, would be abolished and democratic forms of government, preferably republican, should be set up all over the world. There should be an international court set up to settle disputes between countries. The people should know more about the political affairs of the world and therefore less secrecy should be the rule.

In our own empire the council from the various colonies should be maintained but should remain an advisory body only. The senate should be abolished. Men ought to vote for principle and not merely for party, a man ought to be a man and not a machine. As all political questions concern women they have entered the political field to stay. Labour will exert a greater influence on politics.

Two commercial changes were recommended. First, the government ownership or at least government operation of public works and less middle men and cheaper supplies for the people. Second, there should be organization for the conservation and development of our natural resources.

Mr. Sorsoleil also recommended two social changes. Titles and particularly hereditary titles should be a thing of the past. As long as there are such there will be those who will look for them and others who will bow down to them. The interests of labour and capital should be mutual.

Religion will have to be modelled more after that being learned by the men at the front. There will have to be a greater brotherhood among men; a spirit of service and self-sacrifice.

Owing to the nearness of the supper hour the meeting was drawn to rather a hasty ending proving that the stomach plays a very important part in ruling man.

THE FALL-BEARER.

There was a young fellow named Paul,
Who killed himself smoking last fall,

And called the enclosure Pall Mall.

YIP, SIAM!

There once was a girl named Siam,

Said she, when he did it,
"I'd like to forbid it,
But, land knows, you're stronger than I am."

Green—"No. I hate those racy French plays."

"Yes; he's a contractor."

Cab Driver—"Oh, I coach the students."

A MUSICAL EXISTENCE.

"Is your married life one grand, sweet song?"
"Well, since the kid's been born it's been like an opera, full of grand marches with loud calls for the author every night."

Young lady (a voluntary waitress in a soldier's tea room, indignantly): "What am I to do? That man over there called me 'dear'!"
Worried Manager: "Er ah-tell him you are off duty at seven o'clock."

A Speedy Estimate.

One day, as Pat halted at the top of the river-bank, a man famous for his inquisitive mind stopped and asked:
"How long have you hauled water for the village, my good man?"
"Tin years, sor."
"Ah, how many loads do you take in a day?"

"From tin to fifteen, sor."
"Ah, yes! Now I have a problem for you. How much water at this rate have you hauled in all?"

The driver of the watering-cart jerked his thumb backward toward the river and replied:

"All the water yez don't see there now, sor."—Chicago Herald.

HOPELESS.

Ivan: Yes; shall I bring it in?

He that wisheth to rise with the sun,
Should not stay up late with the daughter.

PHYSICAL TRAINING AT THE UNIVERSITY GYM. OF INESTIMABLE VALUE

Much Credit is to be Attributed to the Qualified Sergeants in Charge

It gives a favorable impression to visit the University gymnasium, especially on a rainy evening and see the students file out for physical training. In all about 190 men indulge in this form of lucrative gymnastics. From four o'clock until 4.30 they come in almost as fast as possible through a single door. Drill days are Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Ninety drill on two days and one hundred on the other. The efficiency of the men can easily be perceived. This obviously is attributed to two sources; firstly, the interest each individual takes in this special privilege which is afforded him by the University of increasing his physical constitution, strengthening his lungs, his muscles and his general vitality. The drill also increases their mentality, quickens their intellect and powers of comprehension, physical training helps a student morally. He learns in a very short time discipline and obedience, and the faculty of resolution to maintain these.

Secondly the headway the students are making must necessarily depend on the physical instructors. A peep through the door while training is progressing shows the efficiency of the sergeants, the control they have over the men and above all the confidence the students place in their instructors.

THE ORIENTATION OF THE FACULTIES

When we look over the student life at Old McGill in a calm and philosophical mood, and begin pondering over what changes could be made in it in order to make the result of our days in our Alma Mater more efficacious in after life, we immediately think of the great benefit that could be accrued from a closer relation between the various Faculties. What we are primarily at McGill for is evidently in order to get an education, i.e., we must get that great ability to communicate and demonstrate to others the better things of life, whether it be in health, wealth or classical attainments and understanding.

With the present system we can hardly expect an improvement in subjecting our selves to the ordeal of absorbing abstruse and concentrated knowledge, but on the other hand there is an enormous realm in the social side that is as yet but superficially explored. At German Universities we have the rather delicate and delicately informal beer festivals, where a very great intimacy is developed, in British institutions we have the more solemn mass meeting, and in American colleges the highly specialized entertainments of athletics, dances and so forth which have produced the characteristic American college man—self-reliant and an expert in team work and organization, while at McGill we have a very difficult time in gathering a few souls around a hand organ to skate in the Canadian winter night.

There is evidently a great need for a movement whereby all faculties will be interested and meet together in an entirely unconventional way at a place of common interest. This problem in former years was partially solved by the feeling of competition against Varsity and the good old days of theatre parties. What mattered, if a little furniture were broken or not if future leaders of this great Dominion might cement ties of friendship by being in common guilt or common glory as the case might be?

There is admittedly a lack of enthusiasm in our University; would not a general debate in some comfortable quarters, such as the Union, and the haze of many burning cigarettes and the click of merry glasses on an absorbing topic be sure to raise enthusiasm?

The writer prophesies that every man in Medicine and Science with any red blood in his veins would rise to the occasion and find his voice and oratorical abilities suddenly developed in the heat of argument, and gain the confidence to argue that should be held by every college graduate.

The "Lit." does not solve the problem, it is too tame and formal, only a few ever speak at it.

What we want is a free for all oratorical fight under comforting influences, instead of four men who do not need the training to speak to a dozen or more men who only criticize and do nothing.

Many will object for war reasons, that is illogical, for if ever a time existed when the spirit of relaxation and combativeness were needed it is right now, when every nerve is strained to the utmost, and which must be relaxed in some way or other. The greater the strain the greater the intensity of reaction. Should the boys who return from the front find McGill a dead one, and only a place for effeminates? No, for if they should, it is certain that McGill would be no inducement to them, and our old Alma Mater would lose the flower of Canadian manhood forever.

Conclusion. We all realize that all we have said may be true, but will not, we know, be accepted by the cold and fixed Anglo-Saxon, but for goodness' sake do not put a stick in every wheel that tends to move in the direction which we have indicated. Let us foster and cherish every move that tends to make things more informal and more natural, so that we may know our fellow students and not be frightened into self-consciousness that will be a detriment to our lives and to Old McGill's reputation in days to come. Address was Illustrated by Many Fine Lantern Slides of Bridge Parts

Despite the inclement weather on Tuesday evening, a large audience assembled in the Chemistry and Mining Building to hear the lecture on the Quebec Bridge given by Lieut. Col. Monsarrat. A graduate of McGill University in 1888, and one-time chief bridge engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, he is now Chairman and Chief Engineer of the Board of Engineers, Quebec Bridge. His address was given before the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers. Professor Gillespie, who is president of the Toronto Branch, introduced the speaker.

Lieut. Col. Monsarrat's address was most profusely illustrated from start to finish and almost everything that he described or explained was made still clearer by slides. He opened his address by showing a few views of the first Quebec Bridge disaster, which happened in 1907. The collapse of that structure cost the lives of seventy men and eight million dollars. The late Dean Gallbraith of Toronto University was a member of the commission appointed to report on the causes of the accident. The report for the new bridge was given to the St. Lawrence Bridge Company of Montreal, incorporated for the sole purpose of constructing the Quebec Bridge.

The speaker described the construction and sinking of the immense caissons for the new piers.

Owing to high air pressure and the strenuous nature of the work, the men who labored at the bottom of the sinking caissons "saw hogs" as they are termed—only worked two shifts of one hour each per day. The air pressure was often as high as 40 pounds per square inch. Rest rooms and refreshments were provided in order that these men should have the very best of treatment when off duty. A staff of doctors and nurses was kept constantly on the scene of operations to look after any who might receive injury.

The piers were built, on top of the caissons, of large stone blocks; several slides were shown to illustrate the complex manner of fitting the masonry together. When completed, the tops were levelled off by special machines to within one hundredth of an inch of true level. This accuracy was required by the immensely heavy loads placed on the piers. These new piers were built of entirely new material, though some of the material from the old ones were used in building the anchor piers.

The first of these slides showed the construction of the gigantic chords, having a cross-section of 7 by 6 feet. It would seem almost impossible that structures of this size could be made with any great degree of accuracy, yet Colonel Monsarrat stated that the greatest error discovered was twenty-five one-thousandths of an inch.

The speaker now shifted his slides to the bridge proper, where, the great accuracy used in placing the "shoes" on the piers was pointed out. Later tests showed that

U.C. 178 GRADUATION DINNER MARCH 2nd

Dr. Taylor, of Queen's, will Address Fourth Year

In a previous issue of Varsity it was announced that Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, recently appointed Principal of Queen's University, had been secured to speak at the Fourth Year Dinner on March 2nd. About the same time it was announced that Sunday services in Convocation Hall would be discontinued. As Dr. Taylor was speaking on Sunday, March 3rd, and this was the raison d'être of his presence in Toronto, it was feared that the Fourth Year would not be able to secure his services. Dr. Taylor will be in Toronto, however, to keep other engagements and will speak to the Fourth Year at their dinner on March 2nd. All members of the class are asked to keep this date in mind. Sir Robert Falconer, Principal Hutton and Professor Will are also taking part, as well as some of the best speakers from the students of the year. The dinner is also most worthy of mention. There is every reason why every student of the year should be out to what may be their last social meeting as undergraduates.

Varsity's Roll OF HONOUR

Lieut. Douglas O. Ellis.

Word has come to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ellis, 15 Elm Ave., Toronto, of the death of their youngest son, Lieut. Douglas O. Ellis, in an airplane accident near St. Albans in England. Lieut. Ellis went overseas with the C.A.S.C. in July 1917, and on reaching England transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. He had almost completed his training when the unfortunate accident occurred. He belonged to University College, Class 1918. A brother, Lieut. Langdon Ellis is at present convalescing from wounds received at Passchendaele, and was awarded the M.C. in January—he graduated from University College in 1911.

A number of University graduates are among those recently brought to the this work had been done absolutely correct by—no error.

At last the main post was reached, and a couple of fine pictures showed the workmen on the top of this post, 370 feet above the water, rivetting the members together. This post has a cross-section of 10x10 feet. One very interesting slide showed the main shoe with all members ten in number—in place. The wind alone, it was estimated, produced stresses of 4,000 tons in this shoe.

From the main post the free cantilever arm was built out. As each section was constructed, the traveller and falsework was pushed forward, supported on the new section. These cantilevers were built simultaneously from opposite banks of the river. When these were completed the central span was floated down the river and hoisted in position.

On the 17th of last September, the central span was floated up the river on scows towed by tugs. When it was under the cantilever arms, the scows were anchored and the task of hoisting begun. The calculated deflection was 7.5 inches. Only one-tenth of an inch error in building this span.

The span was hoisted 2 feet at a time by special hydraulic jacks. Between lifts it was held in place by means of pins. Slides showing the progress of each day's lifting were given, till finally the driving of the last pin and the placing of the span in its final position. A hearty cheer broke from the audience at this point, for, many of them being engineers, they realized what those quietly spoken words—"and here, the span finally in position", really meant.

In conclusion the Colonel denied a recent newspaper story saying the contraction of the steel work was 9 feet, the real contraction being 24 feet, although 30 feet had been allowed for.

Prof. Haultain moved a vote of thanks which was heartily seconded.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS "BLUESTOCKINGS"

University College Alumnae will Present above Play This Evening for the First Time

To-night and to-morrow night at the hall of the Conservatory of Music the University College Alumnae will present, "The Bluestockings," Molière's "Les Femmes Savantes" in translation. Friday's tickets are disappearing like hot cakes, so no time ought to be lost to secure tickets if you want to see the play to-night.

The characters have been well cast and under Dr. Kirkpatrick's able management the play promises to be a great success. In Chryse, the honest bourgeois, Miss Cassidy has a part which gives scope for her powers, while Mrs. Laughton (Mary Buckley of College fame) makes an admirable Philaminte.

Rumour has it that it is worth far more than fifty cents to see Miss Stewart play Martine, the servant girl who is "fired" by her mistress because she can't talk Vangelus.

Tickets are twenty-five and fifty cents are on sale at the Registrar's Office. The proceeds are to be devoted to the University Hospital.

Chryse	Miss Isobel Cassidy.
Philaminte	Mrs. Laughton.
Armande	Miss Mona E. Clark.
Henriette	Miss Edna Bach.
Ariste	Miss Marjorie Fraser.
Bélise	Miss Isabel Jones.
Citandre	Miss M. Boyle.
Trissotin	Miss E. Keys.
Vadins	Miss Jessie Reade.
Julien	Miss Norma Mortimer.

Brigadier-General E. C. Ashton, C.M.G., at present acting Adjutant-General at Ottawa, who has twice before been mentioned for his services. He went overseas in command of the 36th Battalion, and was later made Divisional Commander at Shorncliffe. He was a graduate of Trinity College in Medicine 1898.

Brigadier-General Alexander MacDougall of Ottawa, B.A., University College 1899, who is in charge of the Forestry Battalions. He was awarded the C.B. in the New Year's honour list.

Lieut.-Col. John A. Amyot, M.B. 1891 and a member of the Staff in Medicine, went over with the University Base Hospital, but has been acting for some time as Sanitary Adviser to the Canadian forces in England. He has twice before been mentioned, and was made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in January.

Col. Wallace A. Scott, C.M.G., F.R.C.S., a graduate in Arts in 1895, and in Medicine 1898, also on the Staff. He has served with several units of the C.A.M.C., now being in charge of Moore Barracks Hospital.

Colonel George S. Rennie, C.M.G., of Hamilton, an M.D.C.M. (T.) 1899, who has been the A.D.M.S. for the Shorncliffe District.

Colonel J. A. Armstrong, D.D.S. 1890, of Ottawa, Director of Dental Services, Shorncliffe, and who was also created a C.M.G. at New Years.

Lieut.-Col. Walter Goo of Windsor, has been gazetted an hon. colonel. He is the Deputy Overseas Minister.

A brother of Lieut. Leonard L. Youell, M.C., Science, 1916, Sergt. Arthur W. Youell, B.A.Sc. 1911, has been awarded the Military Medal for his splendid work at Passchendaele. He is serving with the Canadian Field Artillery.

Capt. A. H. MacFarlane, M.C. has been made a major in the 1st Battalion, 2nd C.O.R. Major MacFarlane enlisted as a private and received his commission on the field. He has been twice wounded, once during the battle of the Somme and again at Vimy Ridge in April, 1917. He was invalided home in September.

SPANISH EVENING AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

Evening Meeting is One of Interesting Talks on Spanish Characteristics, Customs, etc.

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the Modern Language Club, "Spanish Evening," was held at the home of Professor Keyes on Wednesday evening. The attendance was not so large as usual, but the meeting was a decided success. After the opening and discussion of business, Miss Mary Dalley sang very charmingly, Tolstoi's "Matinata." The papers were given by Miss Edna Mitchell and Dr. Buchanan. Miss Mitchell told of her "Impressions of Spain" from a railway coach, and also her "Impressions of a Village Wedding." She dealt chiefly with the south of Spain, the cities of Cadiz, Cordova and Madras. Dr. Buchanan reminded us that no country has been more maligned than Spain. There has grown up since the time of the Inquisition what Spaniards call "The Black Legend," and England and France have been responsible for perpetrating this slander. He spoke also of the characteristics of the people of Spain, their delightful inconsistencies, their honesty, courtesy, hospitality and sense of humour, illustrating these traits by anecdotes. Both papers were very interesting, and much enjoyed by all. The special feature of the program was a Spanish Dance in costume by Miss Sampson. The dance was one characteristic of the South of Spain, and was so greatly appreciated that it was repeated after Dr. Buchanan's address. Refreshments were served and the meeting broke up informally.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Word has come concerning several School men serving with the Royal Engineers. Major F. J. Mulqueen, B.A.Sc. 1913, who was in Brazil when war broke out, enlisted with the Royal Naval Motor Boat Patrol Service as a sub-lieutenant in August 1914. He transferred in December of that year to the Royal Field Artillery, with the rank of second lieutenant. Then in May 1915, he changed again to the Royal Engineers, as a 1st lieutenant, being promoted to captain. He was wounded in May 1915, but after a period of convalescence, in February 1916, he rejoined the Engineers, being assigned to the 182nd Field Company, of which he is now Major and O.C. He was mentioned in despatches and awarded the M.C.

Lieut. H. C. Quail, B.A.Sc. 1913 of Toronto is now with the 124th Field Coy., Royal Engineers. In the same company with him is another School man, Lieut. A. P. Augustine, who belonged to the Class of 1907.

Lieut. J. Ronald McMurrich, U.C. 1915-16, left on Wednesday for overseas with a draft from the C.A.S.C. He has been serving with the Administrative Staff M.D. No. 12, as Barrack Officer at Regina.

Lieut. Henry R. Clewes, U.C. 1916, has returned to Canada on sick leave. He has been attached to the Lincolnshire Regt., and has been twice wounded—in June last and in October. His home is in Ottawa.

Ser-Lieut. Herbert M. Gardiner, of Regina, returned by the same boat as Lieut. Clewes. He went overseas from the O.T.C., in April, 1916, and joined the R.F.C. in August. He was severely wounded in April, 1917, and has now been invalided to Canada. He belonged to the Class of 1917, U.C.

Lieut. James H. G. Wallace, B.A., Trinity College, 1905, and M.A. 1907, has been appointed assistant adjutant of the "D" Unit, Military Hospital Commission. Lieut. Wallace enlisted with the 81st Battalion, but afterwards transferred to the 127th Battalion, when it went overseas.

Prof. Taylor will address the Menorah Society at University College Y.M.C.A. Monday evening. Musical program.

VICTORIA WOMEN'S DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE THREE PLAYS

"Overtones" This Evening at Eaton School, Two Others To-morrow Afternoon and Evening

This is the fifteenth of February, and to-night the Victoria Women's Dramatic Club gives the first performance of the three plays which it is presenting at the Margaret Eaton School of Expression. Three such clever little plays they are! You certainly don't want to miss them! If you can't go to-night you'll be glad to know that they are being given again to-morrow, both afternoon and evening.

In making use of the "Little Theatre" idea and of the short plays, the Club is venturing on a new field which promises to be a very successful one and especially one for amateurs.

Nothing could be more unusual than the plays which have been chosen. Did you ever wonder what was going on inside the mind of a modern, cultured woman? "Overtones" will tell you. Are you interested in idols? Maybe not, but you will be when you've seen Lord Dunsany's "Gods of the Mountains." Do you like the brilliant, satirical type of play? Then you will certainly enjoy "Helen's Husband." If there were only space to tell you more about them! But there isn't not with such a huge cast to put in.

The following have kindly consented to be patrons and patronesses—Sir and Lady Falconer, Chancellor and Mrs. Bowles, Colonel and Mrs. Massey, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar, Professor and Mrs. Greaves, Miss Skinner and Miss Curlette. Proceeds are for Army Medical Corps.

DRILLS WILL END ON MARCH 29, 1918

All Faculties Except Meds Complete Drill Work by Above Date

No Written Examination

Major A. C. McConnell Gives Out Official Information

"There are no further changes in the personal of the staff and I am fairly well satisfied with the students' development under the military training. I am well pleased with the instructors."

Cessation of Drills.

All the controversy and questioning concerning the termination of drills will now be at rest. Major A. C. McConnell definitely stated that the drills for Arts, Vets, and Dents will stop on March 29, 1918. After this date the instructors being used to drill these men will be free to take up the training of the Meds. The Medical students have not been taking the necessary amount of drill required by the authorities, due, as stated before, to the lack of qualified instructors. Therefore after the above date the Meds will drill five days a week till the end of their academic year, a month later. This is altogether different from previous years when several weeks were given before the close of the term for "delinquents" to catch up in their studies. Last year they stopped in the middle of March. However conditions are different this year. There are only two drills a week instead of three as in previous years; while the higher officials of the C.O.T.C. are more personally interested in the Corps than last year. However, whatever may be the reasons this is the ruling and it is not expected to hamper too much the final game. The gymnasium classes will also continue till the 29th of March.

No Written Examinations.

There is one consolation, however, for those who may think this burdensome, and that is the fact that there will be no written examinations. In previous years written examinations on work prescribed portions of "infantry training", musketry, manual, etc. This will not be the case this year. Success in the Department of Military Training will depend on consistent attendance at drills, and the recommendation of the O.C.'s commanding classes based on efficiency and neatness at drill.

Up to the time of writing Major A. C. McConnell had received no further information as to his return overseas.

FENCERS ENTERTAIN STUDENTS

Last Wednesday night at Central "Y" about a hundred University men enjoyed the Big "T" Mixer. The supper was hot and good, but just where all that pie went is still a mystery to the headwaiter. While the fencers were getting ready the fellows sang and gave their faculty yells. Each faculty decided that they would have a good crowd from their faculty at the next and last Big "T" Mixer if only to give a proper rendering of their yell.

The fencers entered the ring. Mr. Chas. Walters, the Canadian champion fencer and three associates were the entertainers for the evening. Mr. Walters explained several of the fine points of fencing and then he and Mr. Norris engaged in two two-minute fencing bouts. A sabre duel was also put on and the most important rules, thrusts and guards were explained. He then told about bayonet fighting and showed the advantages and disadvantages of fighting positions. By means of a C.O.T.C. "Frosh" he demonstrated several methods by which a soldier could defend himself (open handed) from the bayonet of his opponent by certain quick, precise movements. This exhibition aroused the fellows' interest in fencing. The exercise, training of the eye and preciseness which fencing affords was clearly seen from this demonstration. The fellows gave "Toronto" with all their pep and then disbanded.

Next week Mr. Justice Middleton will speak to University men at the last Big "T" Mixer this year. A special meal is being arranged and will certainly hit that 200 mark. So as to make sure of a place next week get your ticket on Monday or Tuesday, and then line up at the Central "Y" banquet hall before 6.

PATRIOTISM AGAIN!

During the coming vacation the women of the University intend to "go farming" again. Once more they are going to do their best in helping solve the problem of farm labour and thus relieve the Government to a considerable degree of the worry which has been theirs since the beginning of hostilities in 1914.

Last year the work undertaken and accomplished by the women was a great factor in keeping the price of fruit from ascending to untold heights; in gathering for consumption what might have been wasted; and lastly in utilizing time which might have been spent frivolously and creating an interest in farm life which will persuade many more women to undertake the work this year and thus alleviate condition to an even greater extent.

It was a new thing for the University girl to rise almost at dawn and work at a man's task all day. Formerly her time was occupied with all the gaieties of a summer resort; and if perchance she was inclined to be studious, time which threatened to hang heavily on her hands was occupied in reading for the coming University session. But all this she gave up for her country's benefit. Realizing her duty she sought to relieve distress regardless of the demand upon her energy.

This year she is willing to make the same sacrifice and will do even more to help in the great cause if only she receives aid.

This aid must come from the farmers. But apparently they are not willing to give it. Last year the women earned nothing more than their keep, not because they did not work hard enough; but because the amount of money they received for their work was so small. It is necessary for some of these women to buy clothes for all, to keep their purse supplied with pocket money. In order to do this they must receive a higher wage for their work. It is only fair when they are willing to do so much in a patriotic cause that the farmers should also do their share. As well as doing farm work in the summer, most of these women are actively engaged in patriotic enterprises during the winter. The farmer is untouched by almost every call for national service and when an opportunity such as this arises for them to show that they are enthusiastic about the welfare of their country, they should seize it immediately and obviate the necessity of being forced to do the fair thing.

THE CORRESPONDENCE COLUMN

Recently we looked through the files of THE VARSITY of six or seven years ago; and could not help but notice the prominence given to the "Correspondence" in those days. The prominence, moreover, was justified by the quality of the letters. Some of course "aired a grievance"; but the majority of the letters were not of that type. Praise for some regulation or for the work done by some student organization was not unknown; and when criticism was made, generally some constructive idea was included.

What a contrast such a "Correspondence Column" offers to the column of this year! For the most part the letters which have been printed in THE VARSITY this year and those which have found their way into the waste-paper basket have contained little else than carping criticism. Such letters, written doubtlessly because some University regulation or act of some undergraduate body affects the personal interests of the writer, and not written because of a desire to better the common welfare of all, accomplish no good. Generally, no rule is made without due consideration of all the circumstances of each particular case; and not infrequently when people, who know nothing of the particular case save how it affects them personally, write letters containing loud complaints, they appear almost ludicrous in the light of the satisfaction which a knowledge of all the facts of the question in point, gives. Certainly University training ought not to be judged by such fruits. It is felt that these are but the exceptions.

The "Correspondence Column" in any University paper, and especially in a paper conducted on a basis like THE VARSITY, ought to be used for an exchange of ideas and suggestions, which would help the student body as a whole. This is in itself a suggestion and, since there are only a few more issues this term, is left with those who will be privileged to be in attendance at the University next year.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE VARSITY is favoured with another letter from two of the men who, in a letter printed last Friday, resented the closing of Knox College. On this present occasion their grievances are directed against THE VARSITY; and these grievances take the form of three questions.

In the first place, why did THE VARSITY publish the names of these men? Writers of letters to THE VARSITY sometimes seem to forget that when these letters reach THE VARSITY office, they become the property of THE VARSITY, to be used as it thinks best. And recently it has been decided that when letters criticizing a University ruling, or an undergraduate society, or taking a strong opinion on any subject are to be printed; they will be accompanied by the signature.

Secondly would a rule forbidding freshmen to write letters, in the opinion of THE VARSITY have its good points? Certainly not. But a rule that would censor the subjects concerning which people write to letters,—unfortunately this is impossible—would meet with our hearty approval.

Thirdly, does THE VARSITY think these men traitors, or near-traitors, etc., etc.? No! All that THE VARSITY said was that these men "evidently do not appreciate the fact that the needs of the soldiers come first these days,"—and any assurances that this statement was accidental were misplaced.

CRITICISM OF VARSITY'S LETTER HEADING.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

May I ask for a corner in your valuable columns in order to endorse most heartily the letter which appeared in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY re the shortened term? A great deal of unfavourable criticism has been heaped on the letter, but the writer seems to be one of the few who is not thoughtlessly carried away by popular sentiment. We who are at the University this term are here because we can't be anywhere else. Now it seems to me that the few whose duty appears to be to remain at college should have every opportunity of equipping themselves in the best possible way for the work of reconstruction. Four college terms of normal length constitute a short enough time for such preparation. Why should that time be further reduced?

Moreover the work usually done in the six months term is not appreciably lightened for the term of five months. The result is that one is forced to do a considerable amount of "plugging", which, apart from being distasteful in the extreme, is useless.

May I also protest (and this in all good nature) against the liberties taken by those responsible for the publication of "Correspondence". I refer to headings. The following brilliant exhortation appeared over the above mentioned letter "Think and smile". I would say (with apologies to Shelley) to the conceivor of this happy(?) application "Out on thee blithe spirit!

Poor stuff hast thou writ,

That from the Press or near it,

Th' author clear dost split

With shrilly shrieks of unsophisticated wit."

Thanking you, I am,

MARCUS D. C. TAIT.

MORE KNOCKS FROM KNOX.

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—Regarding our letter to THE VARSITY about the taking over of Knox College and the University residences, which you kindly printed last Saturday, let us say a few words. Why did THE VARSITY leave its recognized custom of printing letters under a pseudonym, and without our consent, print our names? Why, out of all the letters received by THE VARSITY, should we be singled out for this? Why did THE VARSITY commit this breach of trust? We do not fear the results of the letter, but when practically no other letter is ever printed over the writer's signature, it places us in the position of seekers of notoriety.

We also note with regret you do not handle the question on its merits. Your attitude seems to indicate that, as the writers are in the lower years, no further answer is needed. (Did you publish our names merely to point out, we were in the lower years?) Evidently any suggestion by one in the lower years, is considered wrong by THE VARSITY. Perhaps, in THE VARSITY's opinion, a rule forbidding freshmen to write letters, would have its

U.C. FRESHIES AT LAST
GET THEIR CLASS PINS

Differs Somewhat from Pins of Upper Years—Less Traditional

Great excitement pervades the freshman year of University College. At last the longed for class pin has made its advent, and now the ubiquitous freshman may wear on his manly breast the exterior sign of his inward verdant self. '20 rashly left the beaten path of tradition in the matter of class pins, and '21 has made an even more radical change. The freshman pin consists of a T surmounted by a "lump of learning" and bearing a shield containing the coat-of-arms of U.C. without the motto of the College. In the centre of the shield the number of the year appears. In many ways the pin is well designed, but on the whole the freshman and sophomore pins compare rather unfavorably with the senior years, whose pin is the traditional one of University College.

good points. Perhaps so many embarrassing questions would not be asked.

Our third complaint is most serious. In times like these, it is not right for any one, much less a paper, to publicly call or cowardly suggest that anyone is a traitor or a near-traitor unless he is willing to prove it, and to take all responsibility for his statement. THE VARSITY says: "The writers of this letter apparently do not appreciate that the needs of the soldiers come first these days." Our letter says:

"The students (i.e., including the writers) are willing to do their share in the war, but are unwilling to suffer when their suffering hurts themselves and benefits no one."

Such an evident garbling of facts to discredit us and make us appear as traitors or near-traitors or anti-soldier or Canadian, which are the same thing, is either an accident, or is a malicious misstatement of facts, for the evident purpose of discrediting us. THE VARSITY, by its false charge, is making a most injurious falsehood. THE VARSITY should prove its charge or retract it. If you consider us as traitors it would be better to say it, in plainer language. However, we are assured that some mis-statement was accidental and THE VARSITY has not fallen into that foul habit of branding all who think contrary to it, traitors. Are we right in this assumption?

Yours very truly,

JAS. R. DAVIDSON,

U.T.S. WIN JUNIOR "PREP." SERIES

Replay of the Game Victory for Bloor St. Lads

Last night at the Arena the game of Saturday last which ended in a tie was replayed between the two contenders, U.T.S. and St. Michael's. School showed themselves to be the better team and won 3-2. The play up to the end of the second period was even, but on commencement of the last period, the Bloor-street lads went to the fore, and scored three goals while their opponents were unable to budge the twine. This gives the championship of the Junior "prep" school series to U.T.S. All School lads worked hard all evening, their new man Rowell, showing up exceptionally well. For St. Michael's, Brown and Kelly were the best. Brown in addition was the best man on the ice.

NEW HOCKEY SCHEDULE DRAWN UP WEDNESDAY

Dates of Semi-Final and Final Games Yet to be Decided Upon

The Jennings' Cup Executive held a successful meeting on Wednesday afternoon. Representatives were present from St. Michael's, School, U.C. and Dents. The main business of the meeting was the rearrangement of the hockey schedule which had been broken up by the soft weather. The executive decided that one game in each group could be played which would decide the groups.

Leaving all other games out of consideration it was resolved that the following games should be played as soon as possible:

Group I.

S.P.S. v St. Michael's.

Group II.

O.T.C. v U.C.

Group III.

Dents v Pharmacy.

If the result of these games show that a group tie is impossible the winners team will be declared group leaders.

A further meeting of the executive will be held in the near future to arrange for the finals and semi-finals.

Knox

As it stands now, it looks as if "the bunch" would have to vacate Knox in favor of the soldiers. Knowing this, a list of requirements has been compiled at great labor and cost. Boarding house keepers please take notice. Norman Douglas wants a room near High Park "Nick" McAllen wants a room at Shea's. Harry Ratcliffe desires residence at or near Queen's Hall. Willie Wilkinson would honor a house half-way between the Royal Alex. and Queen's Hall. Messrs. Gillrie and Henry desire rooms at the Pavlowa. Stewart wants one at Westminster College. Doug. Forin wants a place where he can play poker. Graham wants a room where he will not be bothered by "Pete" Forin. Pete Forin desires accommodation where Graham won't bother his mischievous machinations. Taylor wants one at the stadium. Harkness wants a trombone to sleep in. Stokes desires a room to argue in. Rose would like one where there are no alarm clocks or telephones. Parker wants a room where he can suck a black-pipe without having to sit on the windowledge to do so. Osborn would like meals served in bed. Louis Stone would like one near Bilton Bros. Cap. Cook desires accommodation at the Women's Union. "Noisy" MacDonald would like a cell at the jail-farm where he could wear his striped collars. Faichney would like to be matrimonially fixed. Alec Lufford desires a room at Columbus Hall and board at Queen's Hall. Gowans would like a place where he could do six things at once, preferably relieved of his ardent duties as president of the "Souze Committee."

And so we might travel on for several columns; the remainder, however, are hunting for wives, so take a copy of this paper along with you and any one whose name is not here, propose while the proposition's good. Boarding houses fulfilling any of these requirements would do well to communicate with the secretary of the Copper Matching Club, Mr. Allan Dickson, P.S. "Red" Duncan, M.C., would like a place where no breezes can blow the fuzz off his upper lip.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING MEET ON FEB. 28th

Prof. Corsan Devoting All His Time to Co-Ed Swimmers at Lillian Massey Gym.

"Swimming is coming into its own." These were the words of one of America's foremost exponents of the art when interviewed by THE VARSITY. The University co-eds are taking advantage of the exceptional opportunities presented to them this year. As the men's tank is out of commission, Professor Corsan has had more time to devote to the women and as a result the tank in the Lillian Massey gym is nearly always filled with splashing groups of pretty co-eds.

"Not only are there more swimmers but there are more good swimmers," said the professor smiling. He continued, "The women this year are providing plenty of excitement by their races and splendid exhibitions."

On Friday evening, February 28, they expect to hold an exhibition of gymnastic and swimming in the Household Science Building. Great interest will be shown in the swimming events as these ancient rivals, Victoria, U.C. and St. Hilda's will be represented by relay teams. The event will be merely an exhibition by the swimmers who will measure their strength against their opponents with a view toward winning the championship relay race which will be pulled off on March 11. The ladies are practising diligently and there are many dark horses among the speed artists who are expected to upset the "dope" on who will win the cup.

Professor Corsan being freed from his duties in the men's gym has been extremely busy this year teaching the art of swimming about the city. During the past year he has given complete course of instruction in five ladies colleges, the Girl Guilds and the Eaton Club. Professor Corsan has many friends and admirers, who will be glad to hear that his efforts have met with considerable success and like the students he is looking forward to the time when the plunge in Hart House will be open to the public.

HART HOUSE SWIMMING TANK

The tank at Hart House is finished and to-day is having its first clean-out. The enclosure, tiled and marked, looks especially inviting—but one's hopes must not rise above the level of optimistic anticipation for the new tank will not be filled until, well possibly next year, and probably on completion of the Hart House. This may account for the unfinished condition of the floor around the tank. When one is living practically next door to this new and imposing work of architecture and is unable to make use of it, one is almost led to meditate upon one of those short stories accredited to old Mr. Aesop. In the mean time, however, one must not become downhearted, for one may use the other tank at the gym which, although not quite as elaborate has always five or six inches of (the same) water in it. Perhaps it will be fixed up a bit later, around Easter.

W.U.A. TO HOLD LAST MEETING

The last meeting of the W.U.A. will be held in East Hall of University College at 4.15 on Tuesday next. Miss Winnifred Harvey of the Department of Trades and Labour will speak on "National Service". Miss Harvey is one of the best informed women on this subject in Canada at the present time and an interesting address may be anticipated. Nominations will be held for next year's executive and on this account alone a full turn-out is looked for.

211 DEBATING CLUB

Arrangements have been made for a joint meeting of the Women's and Men's Debating Clubs for this afternoon in the Library Building at 3 o'clock. The subject and day for the inter-club debate are to be decided, and following this decision the men may anticipate a very interesting discussion by the ladies on "Socialism." All men members, and especially the executive, are urged to be present.

Owing to last Monday being a heartless day the subject, "Resolved, that the middle man is responsible for the high cost of living," has been postponed till next Monday.

U.C. Y.M.C.A.

There will be a meeting on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in U. of T. "Y" Building, to receive nominations for the incoming executive of 1918-19.

INFLUENCE OF HEREDITY

By Professor R. B. Thomson

At the Botanical Seminar in the Botany and Forestry Building, Friday, Feb. 1st, Professor Thomson greatly interested his audience in a paper entitled "Heredity and Sex."

Our modern idea of the equality of the sexes, he showed, has its basis in the work of Kohlreuter, who in 1760 made the first artificial hybrid by fertilizing Nicotiana glauca with the pollen from N. paniculata. He also made the reciprocal cross, using as pollen parent N. glauca. The hybrid in both cases was the same, thus proving the equality of the sexes. Discovery of the so-called splitting of hybrids was made by the Englishmen, Knight and Gos, in 1799 and 1822 respectively, and the Frenchman Naudin in 1802. Grandchildren according to this are shown to inherit characteristics of their grandparents through their parents, in whom however, these characteristics were more or less blended or obscured. Such observations formed an excellent preparation for the work of Mendel, who brought hybridization to an experimental basis by establishing mathematical ratios from which experimental results could be predicted.

Professor Thomson rapidly reviewed some more or less familiar Mendelian ratios. He showed the result of crossing a hybrid with a recessive, that is, a heterozygous form, or one having the combined potentialities of both parents with a homozygous form, or one having the unimpaired potentiality of one parent. The progeny would be half homozygous, pure line forms and half heterozygous or hybrid forms. Now sex, whenever it is well established, acts like any other potentiality or unit character according to Mendelian ratios. Crossing gives a sex ratio like that obtained in the cross of hybrid and recessive, and thus naturally leads to the idea that sex is heterozygous.

When and how is sex determined? The Mendelian school of Geneticists consider sex fixed at a very early period, and support their view by such examples as the eggs of the pathogenic grape aphid (Phylloxera). Here there is a difference in size with a corresponding difference in product, the smaller eggs giving rise to males, the larger to females. The egg itself in this case settles the sex. In the case of the honey bee, the queen insect besides producing eggs, controls their fertilization. The unfertilized eggs develop into males, the fertilized into workers which are really latent females, for any fertilized egg given special "nurture" will develop into a queen. The phenomena of sex linked inheritance form an excellent basis for further investigation in this problem. Color-blindness in man is a very well known example of a sex linked character. Afflicted men married to normal women have, as a rule, normal children, of whom only the female proportion may transmit this defect to their children, where curiously enough it is only, except in comparatively very rare cases, evident in males. Other striking examples of sex linked characters, such as eye color, body color and wing development are seen in the pomace fly (Drosophila ampephila). Miss C. S. McCulloch, at Professor Thomson's suggestion had experimented with these insects and showed some very interesting results, in the main verifying Morgan's work.

Is there any definite mechanism for the determination of sex? Since Von Benedon's work in 1883 the deeply staining chromatin material in the nuclei of cells was thought to be transmitted equally in heredity. The peculiar behaviour of these chromosomes both preceding and following fertilization led to the well grounded idea that they had a specific connection with the transmission of hereditary characters. Wilson was the first to determine the definite mechanism in the cell for the control of sex. In his epoch-making work on the squash he found 22 chromosomes in the body cells of the females, and 21 in the males. The odd chromosome of the male refuses to split at the reduction division, and thus some sperms have 10 and others 11 chromosomes, while every egg has 11. Now in fertilization there is an equal possibility of a sperm with 10 and a sperm with 11 chromosomes combining with an egg to give, in the first instance, a somatic cell of 21 chromosomes, and in the second one of 22 chromosomes, a male and a female respectively. Other cases are known where this sex chromosome differs only in size, while in many instances no apparent difference has yet been detected.

EXTENSION WORK

The greatest extension work of the University is not all carried on by the alumni, nor by the field agents soliciting directly for the institution but by the hundreds of students who are taking up such work as book salesmanship during their summer vacation. They have the advantages of travelling and meeting hundreds of people as well as coming in contact with many homes, they talk with old people as well as with young, and incidentally mention what a great place the University of Toronto is for fitting a person for a place in the world. These people become inspired at the appearance of such well trained and developed people touring over the country, and will in time send their sons and daughters to this university that they may also develop into such efficient men and women.

Greater still is the extension work the student does for himself when pursuing such work, by studying people of all classes, learning the fundamental principles which influence others to think as he thinks, or in other words, becoming a real leader.

Experience in salesmanship has never been in such demand as it is at the present time. Large concerns everywhere are asking for men and women who have had booksalesmanship experience. We are of the opinion that ten years hence there will not be a college or university that will not heartily endorse and give credit for a summer spent at such work.

It would be advisable to get in touch at once with the Imperial Publishing Company, 141 Confederation Life Building, down town, or the college representative at 195 College Street. (Write down name and address now.) The Company is recommended by THE VARSITY management as being one that is well established and using first-class business methods. It has been making a specialty of this training for years. Act immediately, as it will mean much to you.—(Advertising.)

Send THE VARSITY home.

Trinity

Cheers and hearty applause marked the close of the final inter-year debate of the "Lit." last Friday evening when it was found that the representatives of 270, Messrs. J. T. Robbins and Percy Lowe had defeated the champions of year 179, Messrs. E. F. Willis and F. G. Cook, in a keen and spirited contest. The subject of the discussion was: "Resolved that at this time the Provincial Legislature should adopt a system of Union Government, Cabinet representation to be based upon political representation in the Provincial Parliament." So evenly matched were the debaters and so excellent was their material that it was only after very careful deliberation that the judges, the Reverend Professor F. H. Cosgrave and the Reverend Canon Rolfe, were able to decide in favor of the affirmative. This means that 270 will now have the honour of holding the College Debating Shield for a year, or until such time as it is wrested from them by victorious rivals.

Another "Lit." event awaited with much interest is the debate announced for Friday evening, February 15th. "Resolved that the Act passed by the Imperial Parliament, enforcing Conscription upon Great Britain, should be extended to include Ireland". The subject promises the unusual merit of being both timely and eminently debatable, and for that reason a lively discussion is anticipated. Messrs. H. G. Keen, B.A., and P. G. Watson will uphold the affirmative. The names of the negative speakers have not yet been disclosed.

HAVE YOU SUBSCRIBED?

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

Wycliffe

The second semi-annual high tea was held by the Literary Society of Wycliffe College on Friday, Feb. 8th. The speaker was Dr. Jackman, of the Department of Political Economy. His subject, which was very happily chosen both as regards his qualifications to speak and his audience's interest in hearing, was the social teachings of Jesus. He spoke of the primary appeal of Christianity to the individual, and said that there was a danger of ignoring its appeal to society. Some thought that the complexity of modern life was detracting from the importance of the individual. This was not so. Still, it was true that the kingdom of God was not entirely a matter of individual salvation. Though the social teachings of Christ did not represent a system, there was nevertheless no mistaking their meaning. True, they were mere suggestions, which had to be gathered together, but this was not unfortunate, for suggestion is the greatest psychological force.

"In the sermon on the mount," said the Doctor, "are outlined the principles of the kingdom of God. These principles relate to two things, man's relationship to God and his relationship to his fellow man. The latter indicates the social principles of the Master. He accepts the world as it is and sends his followers forth to do their work. Competition is an ethics of tooth and nail and claw." Are Christ's principles applicable under such conditions? He accepts the fact of competition as is shown by the parable of the talents. What He gives is strength to struggle towards the ideal and grace to turn and help a brother in the struggle. Wealth is another fact which Christ accepts. He does not side with the rich against the poor, nor yet with the poor against the rich. He was conscious of the danger of wealth, but also of its value. For wealth is a means of service, and its possession is a stewardship.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS BY VIC. DRAMATIC CLUB

Actresses Display Unusual Talent in Three Interesting Dramas

Proceeds for Army Medical Corps

On Friday, February 15th, the Victoria Women's Dramatic Club presented three short plays in the Margaret Eaton School of Expression. The cleverness of the sketches the much less doubtless was a strong element in the success of the evening, yet one could not but feel that the splendid acting was equally responsible for it.

Unusual Talent Displayed.

It is not easy to express an appreciation of an amateur performance without making use of hackneyed expressions and incurring the just odium that rises therefrom: yet with this "fell fear" one may venture to assert that the plays in themselves were clever, the actresses exhibited unusual talent and that the whole production by the Dramatic Club was an unparalleled success.

"Overtures"

"Overtures", the first sketch, presents two cultured women of the present age, each with her primitive self in attendance. In the first half of the scene Miss Talbot showed ability above the average in her emotional role. On the other hand, the success of Miss Howitt as "Margaret" lay in the expression of emotion and the fidelity of the character which she portrayed. Due credit must also be given the "primitive selves". When they lifted the curtain from the frailties of human nature there must have been more than one among the audience who writhed guiltily in their chair.

"The Gods of the Mountains"

The second play, "The Gods of the Mountains," was a diverting tale of seven beggars who solved the problem of the high cost of living by palming themselves off upon the people of the City of Kangars as Seven Jade Gods from the Mountains. So they lived in luxury upon the offerings of the citizens who previously had refused them alms at the city gate. And such beggars! What a glorious, rascally band they were! How merry and carefree in their rag, and how thrillingly gypsy-like in their grizzled grey beards, their shaggy black wigs and their rolling eyes. Especial mention must be made of Miss

DR. WALLACE ADDRESSED U.C. LITERARY SOCIETY

Delivers Highly Interesting Letter on "War Poetry"

It was an evening of sheer enjoyment. For in spite of proverbs, the joys of realization such passed those of expectation. When? At the U.C. Women's Literary Society at the Union on Saturday night. As usual business came first. After the reading of the minutes, the President announced that as no stories had been given, the Short Story Contest was now closed. Literary genius—or time—seems lacking in U.C. Owing to the seniors' dinner on March 2nd, the next regular meeting of the Lit. will not be held until March 9th. A special meeting for nominations will be called soon, and members are requested to be on the watch for notice of same.

Now from business to pleasure, A beautiful piano solo by Miss Helen Sinclair was much appreciated, after which the President asked Capt. Wallace to speak on "War Poetry". Of course Capt. Wallace needed no introduction to a University College audience.

Capt. Wallace prefaced his subject by remarking upon the vast amount of poetry published since the war. There have been from six to eight hundred volumes brought out in England alone. Perhaps little of it is really great poetry, but much of it is charming, and some very beautiful. But why should such an outburst have come at a time which to most prosaic mortals would seem to blend ill with the spirit of poetry? The answer to this lies in the fact that poetry has a marvellous power for giving expression to deep emotion, to spiritual ideas to the haunting sense of mystery which does not yield to analysis. All these things are felt in the half-comprehended forces which are sweeping us along at this time, and the best expres-

QUEEN'S HALL SENIORS' DINNER

Annual Banquet and Dance were Given in Honour of Graduating Year

On Thursday evening, Queen's Hall held her annual banquet and dance in honour of the graduating year of 1918.

As a result of the boundless energy and splendid talent of the Junior students, the spacious dining hall looked most attractive in its St. Valentine decorations and tables artistically adorned with flowers and original favours. Beneath the rosy glow of shaded chandeliers and the clinking of dainty glasses, toasts were proposed to the King, the Dean, Alma Mater, the Seniors, Queen's Hall, the Freshies and the Soldiers, while at intervals the strains of College songs, yells, and the "Seniors' Wail", added greatly to the general enjoyment.

After the banquet was over, and Sophomores and Freshies had been safely tucked out of sight after being thoroughly convinced that their presence would be more welcome at a future date, the tables were removed and Juniors and Seniors took part in an informal dance until the last stroke of midnight.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Word has come of another honour added to the long list which Major T. Janson has already won. Major Janson was Colonel Lang's assistant on the staff in Chemistry during the session 1913-14. When war broke out he returned to his home in London, England, and in September 1914 was appointed as second lieutenant in the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry. Promotion came quickly to him, for in October, 1914, he became a full lieutenant, and in December of the same year, a captain, receiving his majority in May 1916. Major Janson has been at the front since July 1915. He was three times mentioned in despatches during the year 1917, first in January, then in May, and lastly in December. Last June he was awarded the D.S.O., and he has now won the Bar to his decoration.

Capt. James Moore, M.D., C.M. (T.) 1900 of Brooklyn has been detailed for duty with the Convalescent Homes of this District. He was medical officer to the 33rd Battalion, and later went to France with the 110th Canadians. He was wounded on August 22nd, 1917, and invalided back to Canada.

2T1 U.C. THEATRE PARTY

All aboard, we're off for the races. The plans for the extra special big U.C. 2T1 theatre party are well under way, and by the look of things, all the other years will be wanting to get in on the show. But we're sorry, Thursday night, February 21 is the big freshman and freshet night of the year. Tickets will be on sale the first of the week by the executive and will only be sold in pairs, so that each lad will have to trot out a lassie, so better hustle around fellows. Everybody's going to be in the special 2T1 section. The executive has secured special rates and extra-special music. Mayor Church may be a patron. It is rumoured that a little dance will be held afterwards and refreshments served. The executive is making every effort to secure Kaiser Bill for the hot time on Thursday evening. There will likely be a big parade and in fact the event promises to be one of the greatest first year events on record. So make your dates early and watch for the ticket buyers. All aboard, we're off.

U.C. Y.M.C.A.

There will be a meeting to-day at 3 o'clock in U. of T. "Y" Building, to receive nominations for the incoming executive of 1918-19.

sion can be given to them in poetry.

After this introductory talk, Dr. Wallace gave his hearers rare delight by reading some choice war poems. Grave and gay humorous and pathetic, some well known, others unfamiliar, the poems followed in rapid succession. The claxon call was sounded by Kipling's "For all we have and are", and Neussell's "God Defend the Right". The bulk of the poems were by minor poets, nearly all soldiers who have since been killed in battle. A striking

TRANSPORTATION THE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS AT POL. ECON. CLUB

Prof. W. J. Jackman will Speak on the Canadian Railway Situation next Friday Afternoon

The most vital problem of internal policy that to-day faces the Dominion Government is the railway question. The problem is one that involves tremendous responsibility for the future economic and political development of Canada. Upon transportation depends the whole mechanism of our material life. When our systems of transportation break down, our industries are suspended, the supplies of necessities for our very existence are withheld, and we go cold and hungry. That calamity is one with which we are most of us not acquainted, although very recently we have experienced it in some slight degree. But even though our transport services do not collapse, if they but function imperfectly or inadequately, the damage that results is incalculable.

Now Canada, because of the vast extent of territory, is peculiarly dependent upon the railways. The railways are the arteries of our industrial life. Whatever affects the administration and the work of our railways intimately affects us, every one of us. At this time the railway situation is confronted by changes that are the most radical in our history. The policy, that the Government now adopts will mark a national epoch. If there is one question of domestic policy that should

VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT READY

Profits for the Canadian Military Hospital

THE VARSITY Magazine Supplement which has been on the press for the last six weeks, is now in the hands of the binders. Mr. Hamilton, of the University of Toronto Press, has promised delivery of the first five hundred copies on Wednesday of this week, but as the mailing list will be satisfied first it is unlikely that copies will be on the news-stand before Friday.

The forthcoming edition of the Supplement will contain the work of recording the University's war activities, and be a revenue producing agency for a Canadian Military Hospital.

The honour roll contains the photographs of three hundred University men who have fallen, and is practically complete to date of going to press. The Board did not think it necessary to publish the photographs which appeared in the general roll of the 1916 edition, but has endeavoured to secure and publish all photographs which for any reason did not appear in the former edition. A supplementary list of those whose photographs were unobtainable is added at the end of the general roll.

The 1916-1917 edition will together furnish approximately a complete record of the contribution from the University of Toronto to the Allied cause. They have purposely been made of the same dimensions and may be readily bound together, thus making a work of great historic value.

A further announcement will be made in Wednesday's issue of THE VARSITY, giving all information as to where copies of the Supplement may be secured.

SIR ROBERT FALCONER AT AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, is to be the chief speaker at the University Day Exercises, which will be held at the University of Pennsylvania on February 22. The subject upon which the President will speak is "A Distinctive Feature in the English-speaking Universities Suggested by George Washington."

The University of Pennsylvania is to confer a degree on Sir Robert during his visit. Degrees will also be conferred on two other famous men. Thomas A. Edison, inventor; and Joseph Pennell artist.

SEMINAR IN PHYSICS THREE LUCID AND INTER- ESTING PAPERS READ

Dr. Satterley, Miss F. M. Quinlan and Mr. J. C. Thompson Read Interesting Papers

A Seminar in Physics was held in room 43, Physics Building on Thursday, Feb. 14 at 4.15 p.m. Dr. John Satterley, Miss F. M. Quinlan and Mr. J. C. Thompson read papers.

The subject of Dr. Satterley's paper was "The Study of Soap Films as an aid to the Solution of Problems in Elasticity," being a synopsis of research work undertaken by A. A. Griffith and G. J. Taylor of England. When this report was first presented to the Institute of Mechanical Engineering in December, 1917, it was admitted by all to be of outstanding value for locating the various strains and stresses in connection with the materials of aeroplane propellers, shafts, and supports.

Miss F. Quinlan's Paper.

The paper presented by Miss F. M. was the one postponed two weeks ago. Miss Quinlan gave a most lucid explanation of work undertaken by Brudett and Ellis as explained in the journal of the American Chemical Society regarding X-ray structure.

Mr. J. C. Thompson explained very nicely the facts and theories presented in a paper on "Crystal and Amorphous Carbon Structure" which appeared in the December 7th issue of the "Engineering", 1917. Dr. Burton presided in his usual capable manner.

UNIVERSITY LODGE, A.F. & A.M. HOLDS EMERGENCY MEETING

An emergency meeting of the University Lodge A.F. & A.M., No. 496, was held at Freemasons' Hall, College St., the other evening. This lodge is for the special convenience of University students, who are members of the craft. The President, Sir Robert Falconer, D.Litt., K.C., M.G., was the speaker of the evening.

The Lodge opened at 4.15 p.m. and initiated and raised by special dispensation from Grand Lodge two soldier candidates, Dr. Willoughby and Dr. Dickson, who have been home on furlough and leave for France to-morrow.

In addition to the regular order of business, Life Membership was presented to W. M. Bro. W. D. McPherson and R. W. Bro. F. W. Harcourt. In addition to the members of the Ionic and Zealand lodges, a great number of visitors were present including University students and professors.

Professor C. H. C. Wright is the worshipful master of the lodge. The labour of the lodge was relieved by dinner at 6.15 p.m. Visitors were received at 8.15 and generous refreshments were served at 10 p.m., when the President made his address. This the most interesting session of University Lodge closed at the hour of midnight.

LAST BIG "T" MIXER

At the last meeting of the Big "T" Mixer you will be privileged to hear Hon. Justice Middleton, Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario (High Court Division). A man of wide experience and personal charm, his talk will be of interest to all types of men of all faculties. His subject will be "Success in Life—What it Means?" All are welcome on this last "Mixer", but it is requested that you get your tickets early as a large crowd is expected and increased accommodation must be arranged for.

The usual support, orchestra and yells will be there—Will you?
Prof.—"What is the office of the gastric juice?"
Stude—"The stomach."

ATHLETIC DIRECTORATE AND COLOURS FOR YEAR

Up to the present, the Athletic Directorate has given out no definite information about the granting of colours for the year. However, those who are so patiently waiting for news of it, may have the assurance that the Directorate are carefully considering the recommendations, and the results will be known the latter part of the week.

LAW STUDENTS' AT-HOME

Prominent Judges and Barristers Present at Successful Function

One of the most successful and interesting social events of the season and one quite familiar in University circles, was the "At-Home" last Friday evening at Osgoode Hall given by the students-at-law, in aid of patriotic purposes.

The dance was under the esteemed patronage of the following, the Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell, the Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton, the Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson, Mr. F. W. Harcourt, K.C., Mr. J. W. Bain, K.C., Mr. M. H. Ludwig, K.C., Mr. H. G. White, Mr. J. H. Spence, Mr. A. C. McMaster, Mr. Edwin Bell, K.C. and Mrs. W. R. Riddell, Mrs. W. E. Middleton, Mrs. Ferguson Burke, Mrs. H. G. White, Mrs. Edwin Bell, Mrs. J. W. Bain, Mrs. A. C. McMaster, Mrs. J. H. Spence, and Mrs. M. H. Ludwig, all of whom were present and received some 150 guests upon entering in the ball room, which was quite tastefully adorned with huge flags of the various allied nations.

After the eighth dance the guests took themselves downstairs to the supper room where Coles had made ample supply for the hungry aspirant lawyer and their fair

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Major W. Stewart Wallace, B.A. University College, 1906 and a lecturer in history at McMaster University has been appointed president of the Canadian Soldiers' College at Shorncliffe. Major Wallace went overseas in the Spring of 1916 with the 139th Battalion but owing to an accident to his knee has not been permitted to go to the front except on a short tour of inspection. Since his discharge from hospital he has been acting as an instructor at West Sandling.

Capt. A. G. Lough of Winnipeg, D.D.S. 1915, has transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in England, and for some little time has been doing patrol duty on the east coast. He enlisted as a private in C.A.D. attached to No. 2 Casualty Clearing Station, with which he served for three months in Belgium. Taking sick while on active service, he was sent back to England, and placed in charge of the C.A.D.C. in Bearwood Hospital, Wokingham, Birks., England in the Spring of 1917.

Pte. E. Dean Wilkins, Trinity College 1916, of 207 Wright Avenue, Toronto, has been mentioned in despatches. He enlisted as a private in the C.A.S.C. with a field ambulance.

2T1 DEBATING CLUB

At a joint meeting of the Women's and Men's Debating Clubs on Friday, the subject: "Resolved that Reciprocity with U.S. would be beneficial to Canada" was decided upon for the inter-club debate. The ladies oppose this resolution and have agreed to engage in friendly combat next Friday at 3 p.m.

At to-day's regular meeting, representatives of the men will be chosen to champion reciprocity, after which an interesting debate is anticipated on "Resolved that the middle man is responsible for the high cost of living." Messrs. Green and Finlay support the affirmative and are opposed by Messrs. Stewart and Laughlin. This promises to be a very interesting meeting. Come and spend that spare time before drill

PROF. W. R. TAYLOR WILL ADDRESS MENORAH SOCIETY

Prof. W. R. Taylor will address the Menorah Society at 8 o'clock sharp to-night at the University "Y". He will lecture on one of the "liveliest" topics of to-day, namely, "The Literature of Zionism, Ancient and Modern." As Prof. Taylor is one of the most qualified of the scholars able to treat a subject of this nature, all those interested should not miss this opportunity. A musical programme has also been arranged.

PROF. J. W. BAIN JOINS CANADIAN WAR MISSIONS

Prominent Professor in Appl. Science to Act as Chemical Adviser

Graduate of 1896, Well Liked in School

The Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering has been deprived of another of its members by the exigencies of the war. Professor J. W. Bain, B.A.Sc., Professor of Chemical Engineering, has been granted leave of absence by the Board of Governors till the end of the war. He goes to Washington on Sunday, Feb. 17th, to join the Canadian War Mission appointed to the United States by the Canadian Government. Mr. Harris, President of the Russell Motor Car Co. who is chairman of the Mission, has asked Prof. Bain to act as chemical adviser. Prof. Bain, when interviewed by THE VARSITY stated that he was yet somewhat vague as to what his particular duties would be.

In the United States, owing to war conditions, an embargo has been placed against the export of a great many goods, chiefly raw materials. Briefly, the duty of the War Mission is to obtain from the U.S. Government special licenses for the export of certain of these goods to firms in Canada, who require them. Needless to state, very urgent reasons must be given to show that the export of any such goods is essential to the successful prosecution of the war. The British, French and Italian governments have similar missions in the States.

Professor Bain, who is a graduate of the School in 1896, is a great favorite among the students. However, although heartily sorry to lose him for a time, they all wish him success in his work for the Empire.

U.C. ALUMNAE SCORE DISTINCT SUCCESS

All-Star Caste Pleases Big Audience at Conservatory

The Alumnae Association of University College, scored a distinct triumph in their presentation of "Blue Stockings" on Friday and Saturday evenings, in the Conservatory Music Hall. The choice of cast was a particularly happy one, including many who had made enviable records in the dramatic club of undergraduate days, and the supervision of Dr. F. H. Kirkpatrick insured the success which the appreciative applause of the audience confirmed.

Criticism of Caste.

Miss Edna Bach, as Henriette, by her wholesome charm, captured the sympathy of the audience in the first scene, and held it throughout the play. The ready wit and keen amusement at the rapture with which "les femmes savantes" greeted the sonnet of Tiresias, the conceited "wit", and above all her evident superiority in all her feelings, were well portrayed. Miss Mona Clark revealed the jealousy and shallowness of Armande to an amusing degree, and demonstrated unmistakably that she found little real comfort in "true philosophy."

Miss Isobel Jones' interpretation of Belise, was interesting, especially when her simpering coquetry and unmitigated conceit wherein "her modesty made a mighty effort," overwhelmed poor Citandre who in vain tried to solicit her aid in his love affair.

The part of Chrysale was played by Miss Isobel Cassidy and to those who have witnessed her former successes in similar roles, no comment is necessary.

Mrs. M. E. Laughton, as Philaminte made a most pedantic and intolerant devotee of philosophy. Her delightful inconsistencies and affectations, her overbearing hauteur and petty sarcasm, were cleverly portrayed. Citandre, lover of Henriette and former admirer of Armande, was Miss Margaret Boyla. His true devotion made a pleasing contrast to the

THE STUDENT AND THE PRESS

The newspaper is one of the great factors in the political life of to-day. It is difficult to realize, and few of us appreciate, the tremendous influence that is exerted by the daily press. A democratic government depends upon public opinion, and public opinion is magnified by the newspapers. No other profession has such great and direct responsibility in public affairs as that resting upon the profession of journalism.

Perhaps the most obvious field for the exercise of journalistic influence is in the conduct of municipal government. The stakes may be not so great as in the wider sphere of national politics, but from the very narrowness of the field the influence of the individual paper is magnified. Here much depends upon the attitude of the local publications. Does the journalist arouse the people to the existence of bad sanitary conditions? Does he campaign for better housing? Does he turn the white light of publicity on crookedness and bad administration when he knows them to exist? Or may his silence be bought by an advertisement, if indeed his paper is not owned by the forces that he should fight? As the author of "The American Commonwealth" pointed out, and as has been everywhere realized, the greatest failures of the American people have been in their municipal government. And in this respect what applies to the United States applies also to Canada. When it comes to the management of our cities, one may wonder whether we are fit for self-government. Now this condition is not to be changed in a day. We have no panacea for ills of long and far-spreading development. But this much may be said, that in civic affairs the greatest opportunities for doing good or ill lie with the journalist—and every opportunity has its correlative responsibility.

It is to this great field that we would direct the attention of University students. Here is a profession with almost unlimited possibilities, that calls for the exercise of the highest faculties of mind and strongest traits of character. Graduates in increasing numbers are recognizing the opportunities that it offers—and its greatest opportunity is that of service.

WORRY

"Never worry worry till worry worries you."

One of the greatest hindrances to good work is worry. The mistakes and omissions we have made are never corrected by worry. They are the cause of considerable uneasiness of mind, because of the peculiar situation in which they often place us. But why worry about it? We can never retract what we have done and the only thing sensible is to resolve not to allow a recurrence. But this does not require worry, merely quiet reasoning which is extremely effective.

But there are some people who can't stop worrying. They don't like to be in that peculiar state where the brain persists in pondering over a mishap but for some unknown reason they are mentally disturbed. These are the people who worry because they worry. The very fact that they do worry so much causes them great distress and immeasurably intensifies their inclination to do so.

There is another class of worriers who are very troublesome. They do not only worry themselves, but other people also. These are of the active species and create more misery by their unfortunate habit than can easily be estimated. Everything that is done, every new change or anticipated change is a source of great anxiety to them and they do not hesitate to show how agitated they are. This class is the most dangerous.

But the passive worrier frets and frets until he ultimately is seized with a nervous breakdown, and thus in the end causes great worry to other people. But he belongs to the class who should be sympathized with. He never worries "out loud" so to speak, but in trying to suppress his feelings in finally overcome by the stronger nervous system within him. He is usually of a very weak constitution and most conscientious and with adequate medical treatment he would soon overcome this habit.

To both these classes of worriers great consideration should be shown; yet the consideration itself should be qualified in order to obtain the best possible results. The class who worry "out loud" should be ignored whenever they start their little discourses on "the wrongs other people have done me." Very soon they will realize that their worry will avail them nothing and finally they will cease and instead of being considered bores they will be regarded as companionable beings.

The other class should be medically cared for, always have lots of sleep, and never be allowed to undertake anything which is liable to be a strain on their nervous system. The tendency to worry will always be there but it will be considerably dulled and subjugated by attention.

To-Day's Poem

THE SOLDIER.

If I should die, think only this of me:
That there's some corner of a foreign field
That is forever England. There shall be
In that rich earth a richer dust concealed;
A dust whom England bore, shaped, mad aware,
Gave, one, her flowers to love, her ways
to roam,
A body of England's, breathing English
air,
Washed by the rivers, blest by suns of home.

And think, this heart, all evil shed away,
A pulse in the eternal mind, no less,
Gives somewhere back the thoughts by England given;
Her sights and sounds; dreams happy as her day;
And laughter, learnt of friends; and gentleness,
In hearts at peace, under an English heaven.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS

Constance Kilborn as Agmar, the leader of the band, and of Miss Edyth Dyke as Slag, his servant.

"Helena's Husband"

"Helena's Husband", the last sketch, was a clever parody of the ancient Greek myth. Helen of Troy was there before us, "a daughter of the Gods, divinely tall and most divinely fair". Menelaus is represented as a peace-loving individual who, even after the abduction of his wife, does his best to keep out of war. He declares that the matter must be arbitrated and tops off his argument with the triumphant expression: "I am too proud to fight!" But Analytikas, his librarian, reminds him of the oaths taken in former years by himself, Ulysses and Agamemnon. "True" he gasps, "I had forgotten the triple alliance. But when Analytikas in a speech beginning, 'This war was thrust upon us . . .', one suspects that more than the ancient myth is being parodied. Encomium are due Miss Jean Keenlyside for her portrayal of "Helena" and Miss Grace Watt for her "Menelaus".

During the evening, several musical numbers were rendered by the University Orchestra much to everyone's delight. The proceeds of the entertainment, which gave three performances, will be given to the Army Medical Corps.

DR. WALLACE

poem on India, and others on Oxford in war-time brought home the glory and the pathos of the struggle. Humorous poems descriptive of army life, details of drill, richly described in "Form Fours," a delightful character sketch of a Scotch sergeant—with others caused many a laugh.

The well-known poem "In Flanders Field," by one of our own graduates, was read, as well as two most delightful poems by Trotter, who did graduate work here only two years ago, and who was killed last July. These charming poems "The Poplars" and "The Road to Tartary," ended Dr. Wallace's delightful reading. The audience joined very heartily in the vote of thanks tendered to Dr. Wallace, and went home with a fresh joy in poetry and a longing to know more of the charming poems produced in our own time.

LAW STUDENTS' AT HOME

friends. One of the most unique features of the "At-Home" were the numerous sitting-out rooms which the building so well afforded.

Students from the various faculties were present, but it is safe to say that University College was extremely well represented by her graduates in the classes of '17, '16, and '15, and also by her undergraduates in the second, third and fourth years.

Great credit is due to the committee consisting of Miss Majorie Bridgen, U.C. '17; Miss Vera Robinson, U.C. '17, Mr. W. N. Robertson, U.C. '17; Mr. H. Braden, and Mr. J. W. Butters, who worked hard for the success which they attained of making the dance one of the most worthy affairs which has ever been held at Osgoode Hall and one that will be long remembered

This is a pure, undiluted, straightforward and trustworthy story of an actual occurrence which came to pass in this city the other day concerning a stalwart member of the Medical class of the C.O.T.C. who is the proud wearer of two stripes. We might extol to some length on the merits and records of this worthy young pill distributor, but let it be sufficient for us to say that he is never missed at drill and that his watchword throughout his military career is "efficiency".

The other day as the strolled down town in search of—but we will not give him away, let it suffice that he was strolling down town without thought of harm to anyone, when he was suddenly accosted by a soldier with a white band on his sleeve with these mystifying letters M.P. thereon. This important-looking celebrity immediately grabbed our befuddled friend and led him hastily to Military Police Headquarters. Meanwhile senses had returned to our friend and he looked at himself to see what button was undone, when, horror of horrors, he found he had his belt on under his coat. But necessity is the mother of invention so when he reached headquarters, he secured permission to slip behind a swinging door for a minute, and when he came out his belt was fixed securely in the correct place, but his skilfully placed arms slyly concealed it from his captor. And so he was led before the officer in charge. The proud M.P. or P.M. clicked his heels and "aluted and said, "This man has no belt, sir." Our friend dropped his arms and stood perfectly at his ease, turned and walked out. We are sorry not to be able to print the rest of the story but it is enough to say that it was a very sheepish-looking M.P. who came out a few seconds later.

We all unite in congratulating this noble Med. He surely has a great future behind him.

engage our attention to-day, it is the proposed solution of the railway problem.

It is this subject that has been chosen by the Political Economy Club for its present study. Dr. Jackman, a recognized authority on matters of transportation, has consented to address the Club on the Canadian railway situation. Those who are interested in the great facts of current history should take advantage of this opportunity. The Club will meet in its Seminar, Room 1 of the Library Building, next Friday afternoon, Feb. 22nd, at 3 o'clock sharp. Visitors are cordially invited.

CRESCENTS SNOWED UNDER BY DENTS.

Dents Showed Their Usual Efficiency and Won by Score 9-3

Apparently the Dental Hockey Club will have the team to watch in the Allan Cup Series. They showed their championship calibre Saturday night when they walked away from Crescents. The Dents started with a rush which was unusual and what is more unusual they kept it up till the final gong rang. Dents shot wild and the score did not show the play.

Lafamme and Sheldon put up a stone-wall defence and Smillie checked back hard as usual. Jimmie Stewart was greatly improved and scored the neatest goal of the game.

The Crescent defence fell down badly and the forwards lacked the necessary punch. McCaffery was their star man. Farlow worked hard but lacked effectiveness while Glen Smith's spectacular rushes were conspicuous by their absence. On the whole the red shirts were a disappointment as they did not put up half the game expected of them.

First Period.

Dentials were off with a rush and sifted through the loose Crescents defence. Rennie kept the puck so long without scoring that Mac Sheldon had to come up and snap it in. This jarred the Crescents into life and a movement later Smith scored on a pass from McCaffery. After a few determined rushes Jerry Lafamme finally got through the defence only to fall in front of the goal. Nevertheless he swept the puck into the net with the toe of his stick making Collett look foolish. Milan scored another on a pass from Sheldon.

Second Period.

Crescents presented a new line-up when the gong rang. McCaffery going to centre and Smith to right wing, while Green took right defence. They evidently expected to "come back" and they started with a rush, but Dents met the attack easily and countered, with the result that Milan pushed in an easy rebound from Stewart's shot. Collett was again found napping when Smillie on a lone rush circled the defence and easily scored. McCaffery who had been playing a fine game at centre rushed the Dent citadel, but Stewart got in front of the shot. Merrick, who was on hand, bounced the rebound into the net. The rest of the period was spent in mixing it with a tendency toward rough play which never developed.

Third Period.

The Crescents again altered their team, this time going back to their original line-up with McCaffery and Farlow exchanging places. Smillie counted the next during a mix-up before the Crescent goal. Three minutes later both Jimmie Stewart and Rennie scored.

McCaffery and Smith were both benched for rough stuff and the whole Dental team swept down the ice, Smillie being the lucky man to score. A few minutes before the game ended McCaffery scored for Crescents on a long shot from outside the defence.

Dents—C. Stewart, Lafamme, Sheldon, Milan, Smillie, J. Stewart, Rennie.

Crescents—Collett, Smith, Merrick, Farlow, McCaffery, McLean, Green.
Referee—T. Munro.

VIC. TIES GROUP III DEFEATS JR. MEDS. (2)

Score 32-12

By defeating Jr. Meds (2) last Thursday Victoria tied up Group III of the Sifton Cup Series. The score 32-12 hardly indicates the superiority of Vic.

Vic. started out with a great burst of speed, running in three baskets within the first minute. Bull scored first, then Moot. Bull added another, followed half a minute later by Frid. Meds had very little of the play. Near the end of the half Meds secured the ball and scored twice. The half ended with the score 16-4.

Vic, knowing that they had the game safely tucked away cased up. Meds did much better and played fairly good combination at times. Vic's play was marked by hard checking, fast combination and accurate shooting. Final score 32-13.

Moot for Vic scored from every angle. Mutart was very effective both in passing and in shooting. Frid used his weight when necessary and was right there with the baskets. Bull and Gordon checked well and took part in the scoring.

Trackman and Morgan did most of the scoring for Meds. Buckley had little chance to do any shooting, but kept the Vic defence busy. Gordon and Temeo were the hardest worked men on the floor but could not stem the Vic attack.

By their play and from Vic look good for the Cup and will make any team in the series step some. A fast and thrilling game is looked for Friday night when they and U.C. meet to play off the tie.

Vic—Frid, Mutart, Moot, Bull, Gordon.
Jr. Meds (2)—Morgan, Buckley, Trackman, Gordon, Temeo.

STANDING OF TEAMS IN SIFTON CUP SERIES

Teams Tie in Each Group, Except IV, Where O.T.C. Are Winners

The Sifton Cup series is drawing to a close. Some fast basketball has been displayed and many surprises have been sprung.

In Group I, Jr. Meds (1) look to have the group won. There is another game to be played and if they defeat St. Mikes they win. Judging from the last game, St. Mikes will have to be beaten first. If St. Mikes win a tie will result.

In Group II Sr. Dents look like the group winners and are if Sr. Meds defaulted the last game. At present Dents do not know if they have the game by default. If the game is played a tie may result.

Perhaps the greatest surprise was in Group III. Vic was picked to win but U.C. has been travelling at fast pace and has completely upset all dope. Vic are a much heavier team and have the advantage of seasoned players. Four played in the finals last year. On the other hand U.C. men are all in the series for the first time, four being second year men and the other a first year man. The U.C. players are light but make up for it by their speed and combination. The best that can be said is that a fast game will be witnessed on Friday night.

In Group IV O.T.C. are winners. The have not lost a game, but on the other hand had no real hard teams to battle against.

Dartmouth—The eight annual Winter Carnival at Dartmouth was held on February 14th, 15th, and 16th, and the events included ski and snowshoe dashes and obstacle races, a cross-country ski race, a ski-joring contest, and competitive ski jumping. A large number of colleges and universities in the United States and Canada were present.

O. S. T. C.

A new status has been given to the Overseas Training Company. Henceforth, the training of Canadian infantry units, as laid down by General Gwatkins, one of the primary function of the Company will be that N.C.O.'s and men are now being sent to the various units throughout the province for this purpose. For instance, there are eight acting as bayonet and physical sergeants and twenty-two acting-sergeants and twenty-two acting musketry instructors with the 2nd Battalion, C.O.R.; four are assisting Col. Le Pan at the School of Infantry, Niagara-on-the-Lake; and seven others are training for instructors at the School of Musketry, Hart House. Of course these men are only on command temporarily, merely serving their "apprenticeship" with will ultimately return to proceed for Imperial commissions. With five on command at the British Admiralty in London and the above, the parade state of the Company shows 174 N.C.O.'s and men—slightly lower than usual.

A New Opportunity.

This low level is no doubt due to the fact that the Company has been limited, in enlisting to men under twenty years and militia officers. However, arrangements have been made with the authorities for men summed up under the M.S.A. to join the Company. On receiving his letter detailing him to report at a certain depot if a man wishes to join the Company, he must report to the depot, but he may then be permitted to transfer to the O.T.C. Of course, such men must be of the right type and measure up to the standard heretofore set by the Company.

Eleventh Draft.

The following members of the eleventh draft left several weeks ago and ought to be in England now: W. Adams (Trin.); A. E. Berry (S.P.S.); H. E. Bowes, Vic.; W. M. Bowes, Queen's; J. Burnside (from the Bahamas); S. W. Davidson, (U.C.); A. De Laporte (S.P.S.); H. G. Dyce, H. D. Heistrop, R. W. Hill (U.C.); K. L. Hunter (from S. Africa); J. S. Johnston (from the Bahamas); W. V. You Can "Bank" Upon It

Our illustrated catalogue shows watch No. B. 432,001. It is made specially for us and bears our name—we call it our "Century" watch because it really is special in quality and special in value, at the century price, $100.00. It is a man's watch, 18 Karat gold—delightfully "friendly" in appearance.

To copy the exact wording of our Catalogue:—

"Unique in all the qualities that go to make a watch of extreme accuracy and endurance, adjusted in all positions to isochronism and temperature, it maintains its precision in all climatic variations. Unaffected by vibrations it is equally dependable in drawing room or on horseback. With 21 Ruby jewels, highly finished throughout, it is a watch for a lifetime."

If you need a man's watch and are prepared to spend the necessary "Century" of dollars, you'll find a lifetime of gladness in it.

BIOLOGICAL CLUB.

"The Evolution of Parasitic Disease," on which Mr. Stone of third year B. and P. will address the Biological Club, will be the main feature of the next meeting which will be held in the Biological Building on Tuesday, February 19th, at 8 p.m. The place of meeting as previously announced is hereby changed.

Victoria

It was a pity that a larger number of students did not hear the very interesting debate on Tuesday night at the Household Science Building. Resolved that this war has done Canada good, which was won by the affirmative. The affirmative represented by Miss Nellie Evans and Miss Myra Smith of Victoria, succeeded in convincing the judges that their side of the argument was better than the negative, supported by Miss Mertis Donnelly and Miss Kathleen O'Brien of St. Mike's. Prof. Hume, chairman of the judges, expressed the feelings of the audience when he said, that all four speakers were splendid, but especially the second speaker for the negative, Miss O'Brien, who quite captivated the audience. The arguments were all ably presented but by way of friendly criticism, Prof. Hume said that three of the debaters mentioned too many details which were like hitting a man with a lot of snowballs. The second speaker on the negative dealt her arguments in the form of healthy bricks. The analogy was good.

Knox

Reports have been current that the theological students in Knox were moving out, as well as the rest of the students in Residence to make room for the wounded soldiers. This is not so. Room is being found in North House for the theological students and for those in Arts who intend going into the ministry, room in the academic part. Over one hundred men are making preparations to move out. A squad were out on Saturday looking for suitable rooms, with varying success.

LE CLUB POLITIQUE.

Le Club Politique will hold the final meeting of the year on Wednesday, February 20th, 2.15 p.m., room 6, Library Building. Prof. W. P. M. Kennedy will address the Club on a subject intimately connected with the duties of citizenship—and what more need be said? If you know Prof. Kennedy, if you know what the Club is for, what it is, and where it is, come out. If you don't, find out and then come. The chairman for the meeting will be Mr. H. G. Stapells of C.O.T.C. fame, and an invitation to be present is extended to the men of every year. Come on time,

W.U.A. TO HOLD LAST MEETING

The last meeting of the W.U.A. will be held in East Hall of University College at 4.15 on Tuesday next. Miss Winifred Harvey of the Department of Trades and Labour will speak on "National Service". Miss Harvey is one of the best informed women on this subject in Canada at the present time and an interesting address may be anticipated. Nominations will be held for next year's executive and on this account alone a full turn-out is looked for. Reports for the past year will also be read.

Education

F.O.E. took advantage of the last day of grace for evening entertainments in University buildings, to have a Valentine Party on the 13th in the University Schools. After the various members of the different "families" had united, all adjourned to the Assembly Hall, to listen to a program of songs and readings. The chief feature of this program was a spelling match in which Miss Gallies carried off the palm in the shape of a chocolate egg, spelling down her opponents by means of the terrifying, awe-inspiring word, "spheioicripitalsynchondiosis". Refreshments were then served in the library, after which many tripped the light fantastic, while those with Methodist feet indulged in games till the party broke up at midnight.

The second production of the F.O.E. Dramatic Society "The Mill" was staged by Section B, Thursday, February 14 in the Assembly Hall. Undaunted by their failure to obtain the desired play, the short time for preparation, as well as the unexpected departure of their leading lady to enter the fields of matrimony, the members of Section B are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. Tea was served at the close, the total proceeds going to the Red Cross.

DENTAL DANCE A BIG SUCCESS.

On Thursday evening the freshmen of the Dental College gave a number of the younger set a big treat in the form of a dance. Despite the inclemency of the weather, and the bad condition of the streets, a goodly number assembled, and the dancing began shortly after the appointed time. The evening's entertainment was enhanced by the presence of Dr. and Mrs. Pye, Dr. and Mrs. Thornton and Dr. and Mrs. Coon. Many were the expressions of regret when the time came to break up, and all appeared well satisfied with the evening's entertainment. The hope of the committee is that the water which pervaded the city streets did not prove disastrous to the pumps of the fairer sex.

pretended affection of Trissotin (Miss Erskine Keys) whose excessive gallantry and miserable conceit were only too well appreciated by Henriette, Trissotin, Clitandre and Vadius (Miss Jessie Reade) formed an interesting trio. The elaborate exchange of flatteries between Trissotin and Vadius, then their ardent abuse of each other and Philaminte's acceptance of Trissotin's ingratiating apology for such a war of words between Trissotin and Clitandre.

Miss Marjorie Fraser played the part of Cestre, Chrysale's brother, whose brilliant deception revealed all the characters in their true light. Perhaps the funniest character was Matline (Miss Helen Stewart) who in spite of being "fired" for not being able to talk Vangelue, turns up again in the last scene and airs her views on matrimony. Miss Norma Mortimer performed the three-fold function of notary, valet and lackey, and provoked much merriment.

The stage setting was most artistic, and the costuming admirably suited to the period in which the play was written. The furniture was kindly loaned by Marie Tripp, and the sculpture by Farmer Bros. Altogether the success of the play reflects great credit on the Alumnae Association and on the distinguished patronage under which it was produced.

The annual senior reception of Victoria College will be held in the College on Friday, March 1st at 7.30 p.m. Victoria graduates and undergraduates who have returned from overseas will be especially welcome.

In view of the present urgent demand for Canadian dentists, the R.C.D.S. decided to hold special junior and senior sessions during the summer of 1916, with a view of hastening the graduation date of those students who are willing to render patriotic service overseas as dental surgeons. Course began April 10.

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

Gentlemen.—

I value the training I have received with the Company, and I do not see how it could have been improved upon.

Your books have a real demand and you do not publish anything of a trashy nature.

Last summer's training in perseverance I am sure, helped me to earn a $300.00 scholarship in College, and fitted me for success this summer.

I have taken "Loyalty to the Company and Service to the Customer" as my guiding principles and I am sure they helped me toward success.

I feel that every student ought to canvass one or two summers—it would add so much to the character of our college men.

I shall always be thankful for the day I first heard of The Imperial Publishing Co., 144 Confederation Life Building, Toronto, as I made $736.80 profit in 49 days.

Sincerely yours,
(Sgd.) H. H. ARNOLD,

HAVE YOU SUBSCRIBED?

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT, 1917 EDITION, is now on the press, and will shortly be in circulation. The volume will surpass previous editions in treating with the war activities of the University of Toronto.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT will continue the general photographic roll of last year, together with an approximately complete Honor Roll of those who have fallen. It will also contain a supplementary list of those whose photographs it was impossible to secure and a complete list of honors to date.

The 1916 and 1917 Editions will be the same size and when bound together will give a complete record of our service since the outbreak of war.

The subscription price for the new volume will be 75c per copy. There are still a considerable number of the copies of the 1916 Edition available at 50c.

These books will become historical, and in the years to come will be of great value.

Truly, There's Spring-like Charm in These New Lingerie Blouses, Prices $3.25 to $8.50

Most girls are just about as tired of their winter clothes as they are of winter itself. They're longing for Spring; they're longing for Spring clothes.

We can't make any statement about the exact time when the much longed-for season will put in an appearance, but we can promise you immediate pleasure in the choosing of new spring clothes, for every department in the store is fairly a-flutter with the prettiest things that were ever designed for waiting femininity.

At $3.25—A plain White Lawn Blouse, cut on plain shirt lines, finely tucked both back and front, the collar buttoning up to chin.

At $4.50—A White Voile Blouse, the front ornamented with groups of fine tucks, the striking point being the new "Artist" collar of fancy madras, to which a tie and big bow of black ribbon give a chic finish.

Also at $4.50—A White Voile Blouse, the front tucked and trimmed on either side of closing with band of guipure lace, with a tiny frill of lace between. The collar is embroidered and further beautified with guipure insertion and Val edging.

At $8.50—Beautifully fine White Voile Blouse, the front charmingly embroidered and tucked, the collar made high with dainty turnover, which is trimmed with filet edging and insertion. A smart band and bow of black ribbon give the desired finish.

And there are scores of other models that are equally attractive.

LAST "T" MIXER AT "Y" TO-NIGHT

Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton Will Address Students

Eats To Be Above Par

Last Mixer of the Year will be Best Ever

To-night will see the close of a series of meetings which, it is hoped, have done much to create an "esprit de corps" among the faculties in an altogether different manner than hitherto attempted. The men of different faculties have rallied for their Alma Mater at the pre-war inter-collegiate games; but during the year they have come together in small numbers no doubt—but have come to mingle in an atmosphere of comradeship and thought and have made friends in other colleges.

The Speaker.

To-night the closing address at the Big "T" Mixer will be delivered by the Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton, Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario (High Court Division). With an experience of some thirty years in the legal profession, meeting men of every type, Mr. Justice Middleton must have an outlook and a vision which cannot help but touch every man present. He is well-known a throughout Ontario and recognized as one of the leading men in his profession.

The Subject.

To-night he will speak on "Success in Life—What it Means?" This is a subject which Mr. Justice Middleton can well handle. A successful man himself, he can give some helpful hints to those who are just beginning at the bottom of the ladder.

Remember this is your last opportunity. To-night is the last Mixer. For those immediately interested it might be mentioned that the "rats" will be above "par" this time. So come one, come all, and let us get an inspiration for the "Spring grind". Remember the time—6 o'clock sharp. Don't forget to bring your College yell with you.

PROF. KENNEDY WILL ADDRESS "LE CLUB POLITIQUE" TO-NIGHT

Final Meeting of Year—All Interested Are Welcome

This afternoon will see the final meeting of the year of Le Club Politique. Prof. W. P. M. Kennedy has kindly consented to deliver the "Requiescat in pace", and thus a fitting conclusion to the series of discussions may be anticipated. In his address, Prof. Kennedy will consider the share the University student should and will take in the political life of the country; a matter whose importance can hardly be overestimated. Do the University men realize that the study of current political problems is an integral part of the course in at least one prominent American university? Whether or not this is the case in other instances the writer is unable to say. Surely here is a hint for us.

When Le Club Politique was formed it was meant to fill a distinct need. The political life of the Dominion seems to have few attractions for our "best" men, and although many reasons may be offered for this, lack of interest is undoubtedly an important factor. Why cannot this be overcome? The founders and members of Le Club Politique believe that it can, and the Club is an attempt at an early stimulation into life and action of the qualities of true citizenship, which we believe only lie dormant.

Our aim, we think, must meet with your approval; if the time, possibly, is inopportune, but it depends entirely on the sentiment of University men as a whole. If they will support the Club now, and during the duration of the war, when encouragement is most needed, and a good beginning has been made—it is bound to be a success. The meeting this afternoon is open to every man of every year, and if at all interested, you are most cordially welcome. The chairman will be H. G. Stapells. Remember 2:15 p.m., room 6, Library building, and come on time.

SENATE CONFERS DEGREE ON PROF. H. F. DAVIES OF McMASTER UNIV.

Prof. Davies is Graduate of Univ. of Toronto—Thesis Went Down with Torpedoed Ship

At the last meeting of the Senate of the University of Toronto, the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred upon Mr. H. F. Davies, professor of Physics at McMaster University. He took Physics as his major subject and Mathematics as his minor, and submitted a thesis entitled "Image Formation by Crystalline Media," together with papers on "The Ionization by Collision in the Gases Helium and Argon" and "A Lens Refractometer".

Professor Davies comes from Woodstock and is a graduate of the University of Toronto. He was awarded the Woolston Research Scholarship and studied two years at Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, England, under the great physicist Sir J. J. Thomson of the Cavendish Laboratory.

An interesting incident occurred in connection with the degree. Three hundred copies of the thesis must be submitted to the library before it can be granted. These were sent for from England, but one portion never arrived and it is now considered that they have gone down to the bottom of the ocean on some torpedoed ship.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

An account of how Sergeant F. C. A. Houston, Applied Science, 1919, won the Distinguished Conduct Medal appeared in the Gazette for October 22. "For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty under exceptionally critical circumstances. Having gone forward to establish an outpost line, he was attacked by machine-gun fire and by a strong bombing party of the enemy. Having repulsed them once, he finally had to withdraw before overwhelming numbers, when his party was intercepted by a large number of the enemy, who opened upon him with machine gun and bombs. He immediately shot the gunner and two of the bombers, and took one prisoner, greatly inspiring his men throughout the operation by his splendid courage and determination." Sergeant Houston was Company Sergeant Major with the 201st Battalion, and when it was broken up, he was transferred to Colonel Sam Sharpe's unit, with which he was serving when he was wounded last August.

Lieut. John W. Boulter, B.A. (U.) 1915 has returned to Canada on leave. He took his training with the Royal Flying Corps in England, entering Christ Church College, Oxford, in October 1916, and later was at Thetford and Croydon. He went to France in April 1917 as a pilot to the 21st Squadron. After serving at the front for some months, he was sent back to England to act as an instructor. Lieut. Boulter was on the "Andania" on his way home, when it was torpedoed some weeks ago.

Private Arthur T. Brooke, son of the Rev. H. A. Brooke, Rector of Deer Park Anglican Church, has been invalided home. He was in his first year at Trinity College, when he enlisted with the 19th Battalion, going overseas with them. After sixteen months spent in the trenches of France and Belgium, he was wounded, and sent to England. He was under treatment there for about a year in various hospitals.

Lieut. James W. Gardner, Applied Science 1918, has come home on sick leave following an attack of trench fever. He went overseas with the 173rd Battalion. His home is in Hamilton.

NOTICE.

Applications for the position of General Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Administrative Council for the year commencing June 30, 1918, and ending June 30, 1919, will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918. Address: COLLIER C. GRANT, Varsity Office, University of Toronto

MISS HARVEY ADDRESSED W.U.A. IN INTEREST OF NATIONAL SERVICE WORK

Nominations for Next Year Took Place—Nominations on Thursday Next, Feb. 21

Training Class Has Been Formed Which Visited Eaton's Stables Saturday

The last meeting of the Women's Undergraduate Association for the year 1917-18 was held in East Hall on Tuesday, February 19. The meeting was called to order at 4.30 by the president, Miss Child.

After the reading of the minutes it was announced that Dr. Culis would address a mass meeting of the women of the University in the Physics Building on March 8th. The report of the Red Cross work for the Easter term was then read and pronounced both promising and encouraging. After the treasurer's report was given, the election of officers for the coming year was begun. The nominations were as follows:

Hon. President—Miss Middleton.
President—Nina Miln.
3rd Year Rep.—Nora Dignam Isabel Forin (withdrawn); Lorena Richardson, Irene Maul, Margaret Lawrence.
2nd Year—Janet Smith, Elizabeth Cringan, Jean Rae.
Elections will be held at the Union on February 21 at 12 to 2 o'clock.
Nominations for Women's Students Administrative Council:
4th year—Edith Cockburn, Helen Day, Constance Smith, Ruth Strachan.
3rd year—Miss Mitchell, Edith Dedman.
2nd year—Grace Tremere, Elizabeth MacLennan.

These elections will take place at the Union on Thursday, Feb. 21 from 12 to 2 o'clock.

An announcement was then read concerning the graduating year and graduates. At Varsity College there will be a course of intensive instruction in nursing, this summer, only open to graduates of accredited colleges of which the University of Toronto is one.

Miss Harvey, the speaker of the afternoon, was then called upon to speak in the interests of National Service Work. As a basis for her appeal for workers, Miss Harvey reminded us of the fact that both our own Government and the European Powers expect that the food production of Canada will this year be raised fifteen per cent. above our normal peace time output. Statistics were then quoted to show the differences between present-day and peace time production. It was shown that in wheat, peas, corn for husking, potatoes, carrots and such vegetables which are primarily for human consumption there has been a decrease in production. On the other hand, in such vegetable and grains as mangolds, oats, rye and silo corn—in fact all those which are food for stock, there has been a distinct increase in production. More land has been put into clover and hay, and still more into pasture land. Doubtless this was because of the lack of labour since such modes of using the land take less culture than any other. Both the call of the army and the high city wages have been responsible for this condition. Yet in the face of the still greater shortage in men which will be contingent upon the Military Service Act, we

PROF. COLEMAN EXHIBITS COL- LECTION OF WATER COLOURS

The exhibition of water-colours by Prof. A. P. Coleman, which was opened last week at 23 Prince Arthur Avenue, is one which no one who is interested in art should fail to see.

There are above a hundred pictures, selected from the very large number which our Professor of Geology has made during his travels in every quarter of the globe. The variety of colour and atmosphere shown in the present exhibition is very remarkable for Prof. Coleman's well-known skill in catching the effects of light and shadow, and his rare eye for colour, make these rapid impressions surprisingly attractive.

The exhibition will be open till the end of this week, daily from 10 to 6; the admission is free, and students are especially welcome to the rooms of the Art Association where it is being held.

PROF. TAYLOR DELIVERS BRILLIANT ADDRESS TO THE MENORAH SOCIETY

On "The Literature of Zionism Ancient and Modern"—Throws
New Light on Subject

At the third meeting of this term of the Menorah Society, which was held on Monday evening at the University "Y", Prof. W. R. Taylor, Head of the Department of Oriental Studies, delivered a very scholarly, lucid, and instructive address on the subject: "The Literature of Zionism—Ancient and Modern." The hall was filled to capacity with students from every faculty. In his lecture, Prof. Taylor endeavoured to show that the ideal of Zionism is by no means a modern "invention"; the ideal of Zionism goes back to the Ancient Literature. Secondly, that Zionism was not caused by anti-Semitism but by Romanticism in the Nineteenth Century Literature. And, thirdly, when Zionism has realized its goal it will go back again to the spiritualization of Zionism as in Zechariah and Ezekiel.

Ancient Literature.

"In the Ancient Literature," began Dr. Taylor, "we find Zionism, which really begins about 597 or 586 B.C. One of these early pieces of Zionism is found in

VARSAITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

The sad news has been received at the School of Science of the death while in Italy, of Lieut. Donald Gordon MacLean, Science 1919. Lieut. MacLean was born in Bridgeburg just 18 years ago. His family removed to London, Ontario, about five years ago, when his father was transferred from the Railway Mail Service Branch of the Postal Service to the Inspector's Department, as Assistant Inspector. Lieut. MacLean was educated at London Collegiate, and had completed his second year in Civil Engineering, when he enlisted with the Royal Flying Corps sailing for England on April 26th, 1917, to receive his training over there. He had only been in Italy ten days, when he was killed. The notification of his death came to his family the same day they received the first letter from Italy, dated January 24th, that being the same day he arrived there. He was the eldest of a family of five. A sister, Miss Mary MacLean is a student at Western University.

Capt. J. G. Scott.

The death is reported from England of Capt. James G. Scott, of St. Catharines who graduated from the University with honours in mechanical engineering the first year of the war. He took out a commission in the Imperial Navy and had been promoted to senior captain on January 9. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott, and a sister, are at present in England.

FINAL DEBATE OF I.C.D.U.

Newman Hall is to be the scene of the final debate of the I.C.D.U. The evening of Friday, February 22, has been selected as the night on which the ownership of the Kerr Shield for the coming year will be decided. Last fall two series of debates were run off and winners declared. The final debate will be between Osgood and S.P.S. The subject of the debate is "Resolved that the goods of alien countries be excluded from the British Empire after the war." Messrs. W. J. Browne and R. Haner, M.A. of S.P.S. are supporting the affirmative; whilst Messrs. W. Auger, B.A., and J. A. Grace, B.A. of Osgood Hall are for the negative. The subject is one of extreme interest to all Canadians and to students in particular. Newman Hall should be packed on Friday evening.

NOTICE.

Applications will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918, for the position of Editor in Torontensis, 1919. Address, Collier C. Grant, General Secretary-Treasurer, Students' Administrative Council, University of Toronto.

GRANTING OF YEAR BY FARM LABOUR TO BE DECIDED UPON

Will Probably Depend on Individual
Standing of Student.

It is hard to get any information re the granting of years to students working on farms during the summer months. A meeting was held last week at which the question was discussed. Nothg. definite in the way of a solution was arrived at. However a meeting is to be held next week which will decide the issue. Students are given the opportunity of petitioning for being allowed to go on farm work. The name of the person or persons urgently in need of the students' services is given, the size of the farm in question and other information of a vital character. The system employed last year is likely to be changed somewhat this year. The student last Spring was required to have his would-be employer send an application into the Department of Labour, Parliament Buildings, saying that the services of the student in question were urgently needed. The student, if a male, was required to be an "A.R." man. All students had to have satisfactory standing in all subjects, and in the case of a student in an Honour Course, his or her General Course subject were credited against her as supplemental if the student was working in a position which allowed her to come to Toronto to try the said Supplementals in September.

This year in the case of male students the situation is more favourable than that of last year. All such students are now presumed to be at the University, because they can be nowhere else. Hence no distinction can now be drawn between the of the men. Students, before placing an application with the Registrar for permission to go on farms, for which they expect to get their year, are asked first

OPINIONS AND PREJUDICES

We all have opinions. They may be our own opinions, in that they originated with us, which is unlikely; or they may be the opinions of others which we have adopted; or they may be simply opinions that are "in the air", so to speak, that everyone seems to accept and that nobody seems to question. At any rate, we all have opinions, however we came by them, and they cover almost every subject under the sun.

We also have prejudices; not all of us, be it observed, but the majority of us. They are not so general as are opinions, and they are usually more individual. This may or may not be a point in favour of prejudices; opinions, if general, at least have some basis of truth or reason for their existence, but prejudices are too often the fruit of some vagary of experience or association.

But prejudices are frequently the outgrowth of opinions. In this case, an opinion is to a prejudice what a living tree is to a petrified piece of wood. A prejudice is the fossil of an opinion. Now when the process of petrification begins, all growth has stopped. When our minds become possessed by prejudices there is not room left for thought.

Fixity of opinion may seem to have its advantages. It sometimes appears that those who accomplish the most spectacular things are those most impervious to thought, whose minds are so obsessed by one idea that they can see nothing else, and who consequently devote all the energy that is in them to the furthering of that idea. An axe may cut deeper than a finer tool, but for most purposes the axe is not a suitable instrument. Where we have to deal with intelligence, not ignorance, we must use reason, not argument. There is then no place for prejudice.

Few of us have the power to do the spectacular thing successfully, to wield the axe with effect. It therefore behooves us to avoid cluttering our little intellects with prejudices. We must all use the resources at our disposal, we must keep well abreast of the times, we must not blind ourselves to the truth because it is strange or unwelcome. Let us form our opinions tentatively, and remain receptive to any new light that may come to lighten the darkness of our ignorance. So we may hope to grow with the growth of knowledge, velut arbor aevum.

THE SAVING SENSE

"Why is it that some classes at McGill are so much more popular than others? One of the reasons is undoubtedly that the subject matter of the course is of more vital interest than that of others. It is natural that 'The University and the War' should make an appeal more nearly universal to all students than will 'A Treatise on the Philosophy of Ramezes.' No doubt there are some students of ancient Egypt and researchers in the realm of hieroglyphics, to whom the latter would be more interesting, but by and large, the great majority of the students would choose the former. Granted it is that this is an age of specialization and to each his speciality stands out above all others. It would be impossible to say which classes are the most popular, approaching the question from this angle.

"To make a fair case there must be chosen two subjects of approximately the same general importance to the average group of University students. When this premise is admitted, all technical addresses and lectures of deep scholarly research will be excluded. To make the matter entirely just, let us suppose that two instructors lecture on precisely the same subject. One lecture will be dry and dull; the other will be overflowing with absorbing interest. Why? Because one man does not possess that quality which appeals to all—humour. Lord Shaftesbury once remarked: 'It was the saying of an ancient sage that humour was the only test of gravity, and gravity of humour; for a subject that would not bear raillery was suspicious, and a jest that would not bear a serious examination was certainly false to it.'

"The serious we have ever with us, and deep the satisfaction when we can turn for a moment from the drab to a lighter side of life, and learn again to smile. Blessed is he with a sense of humour—and doubly blessed, if he be an instructor."—McGill Daily.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE VARSITY has lost another member of its Staff in the person of Mr. F. J. Sullivan, who has lately gone on active service. Mr. Sullivan has been Managing Editor of THE VARSITY during the Fall term of the past two years; and due to his experience and enthusiastic interest in the welfare of the paper, he has always been one of the mainstays of the Staff. He takes with him the best wishes of all on THE VARSITY for a safe and speedy return to the University.

This is a time for economy, for economy in everything we use or do. As a means of effecting economy, the daily press is advocating the nationalization of things in general. Let us therefore apply their precepts, and nationalize the newspapers. We could thereby eliminate most of them and much waste of paper. Anyway, they are:

"Minds with but a single thought,
And hearts that beat as one."

To-Day's Poem

RHYME, RHYTHM OR REASON

Out of the gloom into the misty sun,
Across these waters to brave worlds and free—

Adventurers of the morning, we are one
With sea and sky and sun,
One with the splendour of the old desire,
The glory of the unforgotten days;
Once more we grasp our proven sword, afire
To tread the perilous ways.

But once we turn, when that true blade is drawn,
Furn and salute the country of our love,
As thus she lies dew-laden in the dawn,
With white mists wreathed above,
Fresh from her moon-sweet slumbers of the night.
Golden with benediction, wakes the light
On wood and stream and hill.

The old grey town's astir. On silver wing
The scagulls wheel above the leaping foam;
And now, I think, the birds are twittering
Across the lawn at home;
And children, waking out of dreamless
sleep,
Rub drowsy eyes, and stare, and turn their heads.

To watch with solemn face the sunbeams creep
On tiptoe to their bed. . . .

The last cliff-sinks, the gleaming spires are lost,
The things we love fade into names again—
We pass for ever—Ah, how small the cost
For ever they remain.

Magazine.

BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

So hot shines the sun on the Nile's fertile shore,
The shade of the palms can protect us no more.

Then back to our homeland we fain would set forth,
Our squadrons assemble: "Away to the north!"

And there far below like a plain to our view
We see the green earth and the ocean so blue,
Where storm and unrest never cease, but on high
As free as the clouds of the heaven we fly.

Far up mid the mountains a vale is out-spread,
And there we alight and prepare us a be.
Our eggs near the Pole then are laid every one,
And hatched in the light of the midnight sun

But winter soon stands on the summer once more
And flaps his white wings with a thunderous roar,
The hare's fur grows white, too, the ash-berries glow,
Our squadrons assemble with—"South
we must go!"

Then fields that are verdant, and waves that are hot,
And shade-giving palm-trees are dear to our thought.

We rest there awhile from our journey, and then
We long for our world in the northland again.
—Eskate Tegner (tr. by Charles Wharton Stork).

A Slight Mistake.

Although perhaps unnoticed except by the Engineers, a joke appeared on the front page of a recent issue of THE VAR-SITY. An article which stated that 36 feet had been allowed for expansion in the Quebec Bridge whereas it should have read 36 inches.

Turning off an electric light causes sparking.

Turning off a gas light causes an increase of pressure.

An increase of pressure causes a lessening of the waste.

The Query Box

If it is in your power, kindly inform me through THE VARSITY as to whether examination fees have to be paid by students who enlist for overseas service.
Also, can a student, if he returns from the front, take an honour course on the standing he is granted on enlisting.

your questions and advise you to write to the Bursar stating your case fully as to first question and to the Registrar as to the second so as to get a concrete answer to find out if their work during the past year at College has been satisfactory.

Secondly, they must find out if their presence at home is absolutely essential before the first of May, when, of course, all students in Arts will be free to go where they please. The applications having been handed in, the committee will, if it is decided to go into the farm labour situation, go through the applications one by one, and those cases which appear the most urgent will be granted provided that the required qualifications in such cases exist. Meanwhile the meeting to be held next week re deciding definitely on the subject is awaited with interest. There is little doubt that the farm labour situation is more critical this year than last year.

The Little Things

Each day I touch the little things
That he was wont to use—
His pipe, his pen, the paper-knife
Carved with a comic mouse

How can it be that he is gone
When these so homely stay,
As much a part of him as
The night he went away?

Sometimes, I half forget, and at
The doorbell's eager ring,
I think how glad I'll be to hear
His word of welcoming.

And when it seems my heart must break
To grasp the cruel news—
Each day I touch the little things
That he was wont to use.

SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Lieut. John P. Magwood, son of Capt. J. W. Magwood, of St. George street, who went to France as chaplain with a Canadian infantry unit, has returned to the front from England, where he was recuperating at the home of friends, and is again with his old brigade of the Royal Field Artillery in France. He was 18 years old when he gave up his University course with year '17 at Victoria College, and went overseas as a private with the Eaton Machine Gun Battery. On reaching England, he transferred to the R.F.A. and qualified for a commission. In August, 1916, he was wounded and returned to Canada on leave from November till the following January, when he again went back to the front. French fever contracted last fall sent him for seven weeks to the Liverpool Merchants' Hospital at Etaples, of which he wrote glowing accounts, and later for a short time to England.

Lieut. Jack Boulter, son of Mr and Mrs. H. C. Boulter, 167 Roxborough street east, who started for Canada several weeks ago on a ship that was torpedoed and obliged to return to England, arrived home safely yesterday. Graduating from University in 1915, Lieut. Boulter had completed one year's work at Columbia University, when he returned to Toronto and enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps. He trained in England, entering Christ Church Oxford, early in 1916, and later going to Thetford and Croydon. Last April he crossed to France, but was sent back again to England after several months service on the west front. A brother, Capt. H. S. Boulter, of the 124th, was killed in action.

Mr. Andrew Park, of 461 Avenue road, was advised by cable this morning from Col. Perry, of Liverpool, England, that Capt. Frank S. Park, the former star outside wing player for University of Toronto rugby team, is now in Holland, having been released from confinement in Germany, where he has been for 22 months. Capt. Park was medical officer for the Fourth Mounted Rifles of Toronto, and was taken prisoner at Zillebeke on June 2nd, 1916. For ten months he was in charge of a German hospital at Minden, Westphalia. Before going overseas he practised at his home, 461 Avenue road, and was for twenty-one months at practice in the Hospital for Sick Children.

Lieut. M. Langdon Ellis, M.C., who was reported some time ago as severely wounded, has been invalided back to Canada and arrived to-day at the home of his father, Mr. M. C. Ellis, 15 Elm ave. A graduate in Arts of University College, 1911, he was in business with his father at the time of enlisting for overseas. Since going to France Lieut. Ellis has been acting as machine-gun officer, and took part in all the big engagements. The Military Cross was awarded him last month. A brother, Lieut. D. T. Ellis, was reported killed in an accident while flying in England only last week.

Pte. W. L. Cruthers, a student in Medicine at the University with class '20, is expected back in Canada on leave. He has been overseas a long time, having gone to France with the 1st Field Ambulance, C.A.M.C. A brother, who also enlisted, has been killed, and a sister is serving in France as a nurse with an American Red Cross unit. Pte. Cruthers' home is at Elmhurst, Ont.

Lieut. James G. Scott, a graduate of Applied Science, 1914, died suddenly on January 25th, 1918, while serving at a Royal Naval Depot. Lieut. Scott was serving in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. He was the only son of the late W. M. Scott, M.D., and Mrs. Scott and a grandson of the late Mr. Chaplin of St. Catharines.

Notices

NOTICE.

The last general meeting of the V.W.C.A. of the University College will be held at the Women's Union, Thursday afternoon, February 21 at 4.15 p.m. The central features are an address by Prof. Hooke on "The Need for Sincerity", and the nomination of candidates for the new Cabinet, 1918-19.

THIRD YEAR U.C.

There will be an important executive meeting in Room 4, Thursday, Feb. 21, at 12 p.m. Every member is requested to be present.

SUPPORT YOUR TEAM.

U.C. and Vic basketball teams play-off the tie for group honours in the Sifton Cup Series on Friday night at 4.15 in the gym of the Central "Y". This promises to be full of pep as keen rivalry has been displayed throughout the series. Victoria which has been well supported in all its games will have the whole College out to cheer. What about U.C.? All of U.C. are specially requested to come out and help their team to win. A few co-eds turned out before. Turn out in full force this time.

MENORAH SOCIETY

Psalm 137, 'By the Waters of Babylon'. There we are told 'If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, may my right hand forget its cunning'. In this you have the whole part of Zionism. It is natural that there grew up a sort of ideal admiration for the Holy Land. The ideal was spiritual in its character as found in Ezekiel. It was the garden of Eden in the land of Palestine. This ideal has continually shaped the thoughts of Zionism to the present stage.

Alexander Like the Kaiser.

Prof. Taylor then traced the history of the Jews, their literature, from 586 B.C. to the present, showing the various phases of Jewish thought and particularly emphasizing Zionism, and how it evolved. In speaking of Alexander the Great, Dr. Taylor compared him with the Kaiser. "Alexander was like the Kaiser. He had conceived the idea that to create a stolid ideal of national brotherhood was to have one Kultur, and one language." He then touched upon the Maccabees, their heroism. The apocalyptic movement, brought forth a series of books telling the signs of the Times. There arose a new belief, namely, in Immortality. The Jews believed in immortality for two reasons. Firstly, they had suffered severe persecutions. Men asked themselves if the whole nation would perish rather than break the law, would they not receive a reward for their sacrifice? Secondly, they were influenced by Greek thought. About the second century before Christ you have the books Ben Sira and the Wisdom of Solomon, both being diametrically opposed in viewpoint. About the beginning of the Christian era Zionism splits into two lines. There was Judaism—looking for a Jewish state—Zionism, and Christian Judaism, looking for super-mundane Zionism.

The Real Beginning of Zionism.

For 1000 years after Christ you have little Zionism. The real beginning of the revival of Zionism starts in the eighteenth century. Judaism was then beginning to shake itself and look out to the world. You have the period of enlightenment—an attempt to re-examine the miracles, tearing religion to pieces. The Jews were greatly affected by this. Moses Mendelssohn struck a blow at the Jewish hopes. He said that Judaism was just a religion and that it had no connection with land and nation. There was the Haskallah Movement in Russia. But the real beginning of Zionism was when Romanticism struck the world. Now, anti-Semitism was not the cause of Zionism. The Jew is a practical man. He knows what's possible and what's not. This we can see throughout the history of the Jews. When the occasion comes he realizes its significance. The occasion came in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. For the first time the Jew began to produce a literature of his own.

The Conditions in Russia.

Dr. Taylor then spoke about the Jews in Russia, their poets, authors. He dealt on the works of L. Gordon, Smolenzkin, Ahad Ha'am, Bialik and many others, showing their conception of Zionism. He concluded: "When Zionism has realized its goal it will go back again to the spiritualization of Zion as seen in the writings of Zechariah and Ezekiel."

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Dr. Taylor in appreciation both of his brilliant address, and of his work in the interests of the Society. Mrs. (Dr.) M. A. Pollock favoured the audience with an excellent vocal selection. The meeting was concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

Think and Smile

LEON TROTSKY.—The rain is beautiful. It not only softens the snow, but also the hearts of everyone. I cannot find words to express my feelings. Long live the kaiser!

MR. SKATING ICE.—This is awful. I am all broken up.

A LUL' PEI!

Bill—"I threw a kiss at a girl yesterday."

Tom—"What did she say?"
Bill—"She said I was the laziest boy she ever saw."

Friend—"Some pup you have there. Where do you keep him?"
Sophomore Bill—"In my room, of course."

Friend—"But it ain't healthy to keep a dog in your room."
Sophomore Bill—"Well, he's a strong dog, and seems to stand it pretty well."

A NEW ONE.

Stude—"What is a parabola?"
Prof.—"An ellipse with the other end in infinity."

MISS I. GILES WILL GIVE ADDRESS ON FARADAY

Regular Meeting of M. & P. Society Thursday in Physics Building

Every student desirous of learning something about England's great work in science should not miss the address on "Faraday" to be given by Miss I. Giles, '19, on Thursday afternoon. This will be given at the regular meeting of the Mathematical and Physical Society in room 43, Physics Building at 4:15 p.m.

Another paper, "The Mathematics and Physics Courses at the Royal College of Science, London," will be presented also.

271 THEATRE PARTY

Arrangements have been completed for Thursday night's party at the Allen Theatre, and tickets may be obtained from members of the executive in ones, twos, threes, etc. Consult one of these for details of the party. Refreshments will be served at the Women's Union commencing about 10.30, so if you wish to see the whole picture, be on hand in good time. The executive are held responsible by the Students' Administrative Council for the good conduct of the party and no disturbances will be tolerated.

THE ORATORICAL CONTEST

A meeting of the Literary Organizations Committee of the Students' Administrative Council was held in THE VARSITY office yesterday afternoon at 3 p.m. It was unanimously decided to dispense with the Annual Oratorical Contest for this Academic year.

MISS HARVEY ADDRESSED

ily. Every worker is guaranteed $1 per day, rain or shine. Besides this all small fruit may be picked on the "piece-work" plan. So that any fair worker should make $1.50 per day.

Moreover, the Food Controller has taken over the question of the prices of vegetables. This coming year merchants must be licensed before they can sell them. No wholesale fruit man may sell fruit to another wholesale fruit man. This eliminates the raising of prices through the fruit passing through the hands of several middlemen. Besides, definite rules have been laid down to safeguard prices so that no girls may feel that her work is going to lead only to undue profits for middlemen. Besides a fair wage, it is expected that there will be a one-cent railway fare for National Service workers.

Training Class.

Now, it may be asked how city girls are going out to take such positions on farms. Will the farmer allow her to handle his expensive implements and horses? To guard against this, there has been established a training class of girls who contemplate going on farms. Last Saturday Eaton's stables were visited and the girls were given a lesson in grooming, harnessing and driving horses. After the lesson each girl bedded down and fed her horse. This training shows the girls just enough to act as a working basis for further knowledge when she gets to the farm. Here, she learns the fundamentals which will gain the farmer's confidence. This knowledge also will safeguard her from an entire summer of hoeing, for once one knows how to harness and care for a horse it is an easy matter to learn to harrow, run a seeding machine or some such machine. The next lesson the girls will get will be in milking and the general care of cows.

At the end of April the Government is planning to give a consecutive course of three weeks at such training so that as many as possible can and may give up a part or the whole summer to this work.

Registration cards may be received from Miss Wong and all women are asked earnestly to consider the matter. The singing of Toronto brought the meeting to a close.

271 DEBATING CLUB DISCUSSED FOOD PROBLEM

Chose Representatives for Co-Ed. Debate

Monday afternoon the 271 History Debating Club witnessed a debate royal. The subject of discussion was "Resolved that the middleman is responsible for the high cost of living". The leader of the affirmative, Mr. Findlay, brought out some splendid points. Mr. Stewart, leader of the negative then refuted Mr. Findlay's arguments, and put forth his own.

Mr. Green was the second speaker of the affirmative. Mr. Laughlin of the negative criticized the stand of his opponents in a neat speech. Mr. Findlay replied and the debate was over. The judges decided that their decision was for the affirmative, although the score was even, 160 points each. Prof. Brown then gave a short criticism of the debate.

Mr. Green and Mr. Stewart were elected as representatives of the Club in the debate with the co-eds on Friday afternoon. The meeting closed and everyone scuttled off to drill, satisfied that the food problem was settled.

An Average Man?

He is surrounded by a litter of unabsorbed learning. He possesses an over-supply of books and under-supply of assimilated information. He desires to be well-read but lacks the will power for the mental training to enforce systematic and sustained application. He takes a peck at poetry, a squirt at science, a dip into the drama, a bite of biography, a peep at political economy, a frantic gobble at current fiction. He is quite content to range no further afield in letters than the "Handy Volume" compresses, which condenses the life of genius to an illegible inch of italic type, and serve up sliced passages from the illustrious one's production. Shrouding himself in the pages of the latest popular magazines, he falls asleep mentally and dreams that he is keeping in tune with the best literature of his day.—Life.

A meeting of the Literary Society was held on the evening of Friday, February 15th. The main feature was a debate on the subject "Resolved that even if the farmers will not come to terms concerning an increase in wages, the University women should work on their farms this summer", which resulted in a victory for the affirmative. Great interest was shown in a matter which is at present a popular subject of discussion among the women of the University and several splendid arguments were put forth on both sides. However the plea of the affirmative that since this is a crisis in the fortunes of the Allies and since every effort must be used in order to prevent a world famine, remuneration should be a small object of consideration, proved unanswerable.

The speakers on the affirmative were Miss A. Burwash, '19 and Miss B. Turner, '19, while the negative was upheld by Miss E. Dixon, '21 and Miss H. Grant, '21. During the withdrawal of the judges a piano solo by Miss E. Dixon was enjoyed by all. After this an informal debate was held on the subject "Resolved that it is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all". Several impromptu speeches of a rather amusing character were given on both sides of the argument but it was decided by a general vote that the negative was more ably supported.

SOCIAL SERVICE STUDENTS' TEA

Declaring an armistice in their attack on social problems the Social Service Students' Organization spent Saturday afternoon in entertaining at tea the Staff and Alumni of the Department as well as many of the social workers whom they have met during the past term.

The flower decked, candlelit rest room and library of the department made a pretty setting and the students were charming hostesses. Social service in its varying aspects proved itself an absorbingly interesting topic of conversation.

VACATION WORK FOR GIRLS

An Interesting Letter from One Girl.

January 31st, 1918.

Gentlemen:

Having completed a summer selling for your company I am writing to say that I enjoyed the work very much.

The outside work is valuable to anyone and the business experience gained surpasses a college course in my opinion. The money made is probably more than a person could possibly obtain at any other work.

Your publications are excellent sellers and just what the public wants.

I can recommend the work of your company to any ambitious person desiring to get ahead.

It has been my experience that your company gives an excellent training, is business-like and gives an square deal to all.

Thanking you for your interest in me and hoping to be of service in the future.

I am,

Yours sincerely,

SEMINAR IN BOTANY PAPER ON WEISMANN'S GERM PLASM HEREDITY

His Theory Denies Transmission of Acquired Characteristics

THEORY MOSTLY SPECULATIVE

All Present Did Not Accept This Theory as the Correct One

At the regular seminar in botany held last Friday afternoon in the Forestry and Botany building an excellent paper on Weismann's Germ Plasm Theory of Heredity was given by Miss M. E. Currie. A résumé of the paper is given here.

Weismann was born at Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1834. His early work was largely concerned with purely zoological investigation, but owing to impaired eyesight he was forced to give up his microscopical studies and turn to wider problems of biological inquiry. His celebrated theory of heredity with its accompanying denial of the transmission of acquired characteristics is based on what he calls the "continuity of the germ plasm."

It is an almost entirely speculative conception there being but little experimental evidence on which to base it. His writings on the subject were first published in an English translation in 1880. He draws a sharp distinction between the products of the fertilized ovum—the germ cells containing the propagation substance which will give rise to successive generations—the hereditary forces and the somatic cells which build up the organism—the expression of the hereditary forces. The chromatin of the nucleus was recognized by him to be the actual hereditary substance, the bearer of all hereditary tendencies and for it he adopted the term idiomplasm. His elaborate hypothesis involves a great complexity of structure in the germ plasm. There are the ultimate vital units or biophors which are composed of molecules whose chemical combination and arrangement are such that they give rise to the phenomena of life, groups of biophors are determinants, groups of determinants are idls and idants are chromosomes. These are all living entities, growing by the absorption of food and multiplying by division.

Germ cells are considered as unicellular organisms which multiply by fission and periodically when they chance to meet a mate conjugate so the cytoplasm as well as the nucleoplasm is continuous from generation to generation. The soma may be regarded as an appendage thrown off from the germ cells. It has little if any

PROF. W. T. JACKMAN WILL ADDRESS POL. ECON. CLUB

Subject "What Shall be Done with Canadian Railways"

The Canadian railways, what shall be done with them?

That question is the one of most immediate and lasting importance in internal policy that confronts Parliament and the people to-day. The decision must permanently affect the greatest industry of the nation, and through that decision will be the influence of the present decision will be transmitted to every thread of the economic fabric. No subject more urgently demands serious and open-minded study.

To provide the basis for such study Dr. W. T. Jackman will deliver an address on the Canadian Railway Situation before the Political Economy Club this afternoon. The Club will meet at three-thirty o'clock sharp in its Seminar, Room 1 of the Library Building. After the address, the subject will be open for discussion. All who are interested in this question are urged to be present.

VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT WILL BE ON SALE TO-DAY

Most of Articles Written by Heads of Colleges and Faculties

The 1917-18 edition of THE VARSITY Magazine Supplement, which has just come off the press in the past week, will be on sale to-day (Friday) at noon.

The Supplement contains introductions by His Excellency the Governor-General, the Prime Minister of Canada, the Prime Minister of Ontario, the President and the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University.

There then follow the thirty-five pages of the Honour Roll, which contain the names of the 346 men who had fallen up to December, 1917. A second photographic section of 25 pages inscribed "On Active Service", contains the photographs of 1,344 members of the University now on service. This list is supplementary to the Active Service section containing 2,072 photographs of the 1916-17 Supplement. In addition the names of 540 men, whose photographs it was impossible to obtain, are printed. Together the two Supplements thus show a total enlistment of approximately 3,400 men.

The majority of the articles are written by the Heads of the different colleges and faculties of the University and tell of the effect of the war on their respective College or Faculty. Such articles of course have a direct interest to the students, but they are closely followed by other articles such as "Women Students on 'Active Service'"; the "U. of T. Hospital Supply Association"; "The Connaught Laboratories"; "Varsity in Flanders"; and the articles on the University Overseas Units.

Another feature of the Supplement is the long list of military honours gained by members of the University—a list which covers two pages. To summarize this list as it appears—two have won the Victoria Cross; 11 have been made C.M.G.; 2 have been made C.B.; 46 have won the D.S.O.; 161 the Military Cross; 6 the D.S.C.; 9 the D.C.M.; 14 the Military Medal and 31 have won foreign decorations. Also 124 have been "Mentioned in Despatches" and 47 "Mentioned for Valuable Services". The above made a grand total of about 453 military honours won up to December 1917.

The Supplement, in brief, is a record of the University at war and, on account of the character of its articles, this Supplement will make a greater appeal to all members of the University, and all those who have a deep interest in the University. This year's Supplement in every way

PROF. KENNEDY GIVES "REQUIESCAT IN PACE" TO LE CLUB POLITIQUE

Criticism Must be Learned and Education Must be Given Prominent Place

Last Wednesday afternoon, when Prof. W. P. M. Kennedy spoke to a score or more of University students upon the share that the University student should take in the political life of the country, the activities of Le Club Politique were concluded for this academic year. Mr. H. G. Stapells was chairman of the meeting and after a few words of introduction called upon Prof. Kennedy to deliver the "Requiescat in pace". Symbolic of what he had to speak of, Prof. Kennedy said, were the two great catastrophes of history—Titanic and Birkenhead. The cases of the third officer on board the huge Titanic, and of the Middlesex Regiment on the wrecked Birkenhead, were examples of "playing the game". In the first chapters of the history of citizenship, the whole stress had been thrown on nations with the result that nationality had been stressed too much altogether. Society, rather, must be found together by the science of citizenship, by the presence of a common denominator which is to be found in the presence of humanitarian principles. All science is begun in the abstract, the concrete, arising from the conception of abstract principles. At present, the science of citizenship is but in the abstract, but after the war there is every hope that the science will become one of practical value, of concrete results.

Influence of 19th Century.

The influence of the 19th century had been one of profoundness. For the greater part of that period individualism had been the dominant force in England. It developed a man into an industrial asset, into a falsely called efficient citizen, who was really nothing more than an efficient machine, whose mind was dulled, life shortened, and soul destroyed. The result was that the average life of workers in Birmingham factories was 51 years, in the molten works of England 39 years.

"Are we responsible for any of that suffering, hardship?" Prof. Kennedy asked.

President Wilson has stated that democracy must be saved for the world. But Prof. Kennedy frankly stated "as I see democracy, democracy has lost its human side, if it ever had it—a human machine to govern human lives". Democracy should mean a real and emphatic place to each man and woman, in the government of the country. A tremendous trust lay in the vote which had been flooded in Canada. A lever had been given to the people which they thought would produce happiness. But as the franchise is widened, so the garden is widened, the soil for the exploiter becomes also widened. If the case of prohibition is taken, in one particular case the police court oath had come to be a lie.

Prof. Kennedy declared that if democracy is to be saved for the world, if the human, the heart and soul element is to displace mechanic influences, two things must be stressed heavily. Firstly, criticism must be learned so that a critical faculty and a skilled mind be developed. The university student must criticize in the face of opposition from the newspapers, the press in general. It does not represent the people, it cannot represent public opinion because it fears the public interests which support it. Everything must be brought to the bar of reason and analysed without bias or prejudice. In

Wrong Honorary President
by Acclamation

Thursday afternoon for the last time under the old regime, the members of the Y.W.C.A. of U.C. assembled at the Women's Union. Reports from the different committees were read summarizing the various activities of the Association during the years. New features were noticed in the co-operation of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., and in the greatly increased membership. One unpleasant item, however, is the empty money bag. There are obligations to be met. We are helping to support a foreign secretary, one of our own graduates, Miss Margaret Anderson. In the hope of solving the money problem a canvass will be made in the College next week. The question of a constitution was brought up, and one similar to that of the W.U.A. adopted. The nomination of candidates for the new Cabinet resulted in Miss Wrong being elected by acclamation as honorary president for next year. Elections for the other offices will be held at the Union from 12 to 2 on Monday.

Need For Sincerity.

Business over, Professor Hooke was called upon to give an address on "The Need for Sincerity." Forcible indeed was his text from Plato, "The unexamined life is unlivable by any real man". We soon realized how closely it applied to University life, a life which may be considered in three aspects: mental, moral and aesthetic.

Swallowing of Information.

To the average student the acquisition of knowledge means books and lectures. They indeed bring us into contact with the thought of the world, but all too easy is the habit of swallowing information without question. The note-book carries us safely through the ordeals of examinations. It is uncomfortable to examine knowledge. A little reflection would tell us that now is our best opportunity to search and choose for ourselves. It is a challenge to courage and energy in the rush of the college year.

Associated with our moral life is the word "ought". How often and how thoughtlessly we use it! To be sincere we must examine the why and wherefore of our morals. The roots of hypocrisy and meanness will be laid bare, but of one thing we shall be sure, moral standards are generally founded on truth; it is our motives in following them which are unworthy.

Beauty is another essential to the complete life. It is as necessary to the senses as knowledge is to the intellects. And here again we must discriminate. All the deepest things in life have their source in God, and it is to the senses that divinity is revealed. But a student who gazed in rapture at the masterpieces on the walls of our own college would be considered an oddity. Moving-pictures, cheap music, these are the proper pleasures!

A searching examination leads into unfathomable depths; from the ruins one must build the structure of his life. It will inevitable lead, however, to the cross. Not the philosophy of the ancients, but the unexamined, sacrificial life of Christ can yield a standard by which to measure our own insufficiency and unworthiness, a standard revealed not by superficial knowledge but by searching examination.

Professor Hooke's inspiring address was a fitting close to the Y.W.C.A. year.

220 U.C. CLASS PARTY

A meeting of the executive of 220 was held on Wednesday afternoon in Room 4, Main Building. It was decided to hold the next class party on Thursday evening, Feb. 28th, at the Women's Union. This will be the second last class party this term, and arrangements are being made to make it a fine success. A splendid musical program has been provided, and there will also be opportunity for those desiring to tread the light fantastic. Eats form the last, but not the least part of the program. Remember the date, and come prepared to spend a delightful evening, and have a general good time.

FINAL DEBATE OF I.C.D.U. AT NEWMAN HALL TO-NIGHT

S.P.S. Meet Osgoode Hall

To-night, Newman Hall will be the scene of the final debate of the Inter-College Debating Union of Toronto. The contesting teams are from Osgoode Hall and the Faculty of Applied Science, and both have already won two debates. The subject is one that is very interesting at the present time: "Resolved that the goods of enemy countries be excluded from the British Empire after the war."

Messrs. W. J. Browne and R. Hamer, M.A. of S.P.S. will support the affirmative and Messrs. W. Auger, B.A. and J. A. Grace, B.A. of Osgoode Hall, the negative side of the question.

Besides the debate, a musical program has been provided, included in which are several well-known artists.

The "Glee Club" of Loretto Abbey will be heard this evening.

A large audience is expected as much interest has been centered on the outcome of the debate.

MR. STONE ADDRESSED BIOLOGICAL CLUB ON PARASITIC DISEASES

Biology and Medicine Unite to Search
Out Parasitic Forms

"That a disease-producing parasite when introduced to a new host may give rise to a new disease, is the finding of scientists engaged in this particular line of research," declared Mr. Stone in the course of his address last Tuesday evening to the Biological Club on "The Evolution of Parasitic Disease."

The speaker dealt with three parasitic forms, Herpetonias, Crithidia, and Trypanosomes, all of which are lazellates. Empiric knowledge charges these parasites with the production of a number of ailments of the flesh, Leishmaniasis, Uta, and Tropical Ulcer, being among those mentioned.

A number of years ago a parasite was found in a number of the animals of Africa. This parasite was apparently causing no appreciable harm or inconvenience to its host. A few years later sleeping sickness appeared among the human species in Africa. This disease was found to be caused by the same parasite. The parasite was changed to a host for which it was not adapted and the death-dealing epidemic resulted. As it is not in the interest of the guest to slay the host, since the parasite soon disintegrates after the death of the animal, the conclusion was reached that the more virulent diseases are caused by parasitic forms as yet unadapted to their new environment. So by process of selection the host and parasite adapt themselves gradually to each other till the condition of the relation of the parasite previously mentioned to the wild animals of Africa is reached.

An epidemic of the disease leishmaniasis raged among the coolies of the tea gardens of a certain district of China, in which mud walls and thatch separate the population from the elements. This scourge was meting out death annually to almost 200 people in every 1,000. An American medical man studied and observed the disease for a period of nineteen years. By eliminating the improbable factors from the possible causes of this disease, he finally seized on the bed-bug as the culpable agent. However by careful isolation and segregation the ravages of this disease have been confined to the smallest possible areas.

So Biology and Medicine are uniting their efforts in the searching out of those organisms which are the bane of humanity, and finally in the employment of curative and preventive measures to localize, and eventually to stamp out the affections caused by those parasitic forms.

After a brief interchange of views, all turned their attention to the tasty refreshments provided, after which the meeting adjourned.

APPLICATIONS FOR EDITOR- SHIP OF "TORONTONENSIS"

Applications will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918, for the position of Editor in Torontonensis, 1919. Address: COLLIER C. GRANT, General Secretary-Treasurer, Students' Administrative Council, University of Toronto.

LAST BIG "T" MIXER HELD WEDNESDAY AT "Y" BETTER THAN EVER

Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton was Speaker of Evening

SUBJECT OF ADDRESS "SUCCESS"

Brought a Great Message to Every Student Present

The last "T" Mixer of this year was held Wednesday evening at the Central "Y" when the Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton delivered the speech of the evening. His address was upon "Success—What it is and how to obtain it"—a subject which concerns every University student who in a few years will be launching out into the world and coming up against its storms.

What Success is Not.

Mr. Justice Middleton's first maxim of success was this: "Think of yourself as highly as you can". University men should appreciate their possibilities because they are picked men, having advanced to their position in life which they now hold by means of their abilities. They are going to be the men of the future. The speaker then qualified his preceding statement by adding that a man must not think too highly of himself. He thought every man is bound to make a success in certain work. What constitutes success? he asked. Surely not what a certain man got as are ward to hard labour. Thomas Brown was remembered to posterity by the plain white tombstone which marked his last resting-place. In part it reads: "He won himself fame and great renown, Because he strove to keep the taxes down."

Is that the success which one should strive for? Or should we strive for the success which Bob Fitzsimmons received when he fought his last battle—"All in, well, I guess not". Is success a money success, is fame success?

The True and Only Success.

Neither in Mr. Justice Middleton's opinion was true success. He had found the only true answer in a poem which he had read. Success to him meant that success which a man feels when "he shall see the travel of his soul and be satisfied." John Mill had said that "nothing is worth while having except to promulgate the truth and advance humanity." But how to act to attain the only true success of life each man has to work out for himself. Mr. Justice Middleton's advice upon how to obtain that success was to work, ceaselessly work, and to joy in work. Every student should aim high, strive hard, keep the fine and childlike

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Captain L. Percy Sherwood, B.A., U.C., 1907, LL.B., 1910, son of Sir Percy Sherwood of Ottawa, has been awarded the Russian Order of St. Stanislas, 3rd Class (with swords). Captain Sherwood served first with the Royal Canadian Dragoons, the joining the 52nd Battalion as a captain in June 1916. Since January 1917, he has been military secretary to the Minister of Militia Overseas. He was mentioned for valued services last August.

Lieut. R. Douglas Galbraith, son of the late Dean Galbraith of the School of Science, has been promoted temporary captain with the Canadian Railway Troops. He is a B.A.Sc. 1915.

Lieut. E. R. C. Meredith, B.A., Victoria College 1916, has also been made a temporary captain. He is attached to a Vancouver battalion.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION

In order to meet the requirement respecting military or physical instruction a male student must attend at least 80 per cent. of the classes. Failure to reach this standard will mean the repetition of the work in the next session of attendance and will count as a condition. A student of the final year who fails to meet the requirement will not be admitted to his degree until he has complied with the regulation.

"THE VARSITY" MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

"The present issue of THE VARSITY Magazine Supplement, like its predecessor of 1916-17, is dedicated to those members of our Alma Mater who during the past three years have left behind the attractive haunts and pursuits of academic life and abandoned pleasant prospects of easy and honourable careers in their chosen professions for the chance of wounds or death. . . . To all our returned comrades we extend a hearty greeting and to those on service our hopes for a safe return."

The above are extracts from the opening paragraph of the Editor's Preface to the 1917 VARSITY Magazine Supplement, which is to be placed on sale to-day. The new Supplement continues the work which was begun in the Supplement that was published last year. The earlier Supplement brought forth words of praise, from all quarters, for the contribution which the members of this University, up to that time, had made to the Allied cause. And there is every reason to believe that when this new Supplement appears before the general public; when the articles by the Heads of the different Colleges and Faculties, on the effect of the war on their respective College and Faculty, are read; and when the pages which contain the pictures of those whose names are inscribed on the long Honour Roll, and also the pages which contain the supplementary list of those "On Active Service" are turned over—there is every reason to believe that the part played by the members of this University in the Great War will be even further recognized.

For this Supplement is a real University of Toronto Supplement. The pictures of the men of course form the prominent feature. The articles, moreover, with one or two exceptions, deal with some aspect of the effect of the war on the University as a whole; or with the effect of the war on some part of the University. There are articles concerning the different colleges and faculties; articles on the U. of T. Base Hospital; the University overseas units; Women Students "On Active Service" and similar subjects, all dealing with some aspect of "The University and the War". In fact the 1917 Supplement might well be termed a summary of the "war work" of the University.

To Mr. Sidney Childs, B.A., President of the Students' Administrative Council, Editor of the Supplement, and to all those who assisted him in the publication of the Supplement, THE VARSITY wishes to tender its congratulations. The preparation of such a book as the Supplement entails a great amount of detailed, exacting work; and the Editor and his assistants might well be proud of the success which they have attained.

A COMPULSORY FEE

Considerable dissatisfaction was felt last year among the women in the University owing to the fact that they did not receive as much notice as they desired in THE VARSITY. Consequently the Women's Student Council working in conjunction with the Students' Administrative Council provided that there be in future equal representation of the men and women on THE VARSITY Staff. At this time also a compulsory fee for the women was advocated in order that they might assume equal financial obligations as the men in supporting the paper. Unfortunately this proposal did not receive the approval of the Caput.

At the commencement of the Fall term the women of the University were represented on the Staff by an editress, managing editress and reporters. These women had very up-hill work in conducting their part in the production of the paper. On account of underhand forces working against them any help they sought was met by a flat refusal, and it was only after many weeks of strenuous effort and hard nerve-straining work that they began to find any pleasure in their work. But even then their pleasure was mixed with a considerable amount of pain, owing to the evident financial burden which they felt the women of the University should help to carry.

It was thought at the beginning of this year that with equal representation of men and women on the Staff the women would undertake to help finance THE VARSITY by a large subscription. Instead, out of the 1,100 women in attendance at the University, not one quarter subscribed. As a result the Women's Student Council deemed it advisable to canvass for subscriptions, but this also failed. The women could no longer plead non-representation for in some issues of THE VARSITY the women's news has crowded out that of the men. It is purely a lack of interest caused by the general disruption of College affairs on account of the war.

The only apparent way at present to overcome this lackadaisical attitude among the women is to impose a compulsory fee like that of the men. For $2.00 per year one would receive THE VARSITY during the undergraduate session and Torontonensis at the end of four years. In this way interest would be created in the University newspaper for it is an unquestioned fact that women are always interested in something they have to pay for—and thus relieve to a great extent the burden under which the representatives of the women are labouring.

D JOHN R. MOTT CALLS FOR DAY OF PRAYER

Mass Meeting in Knox College Chapel on Sunday

Do you realize the significance of the fact that this Sunday, February 24th, students all over the world will observe the Universal Day of Prayer for students?

Toronto University students will observe it by attending a special Mass Meeting in Knox College Chapel at 3 p.m. on Sunday afternoon next. Every student of this Canadian University, both men and women, should waive aside all other interests for this exceedingly important meeting when we are given the opportunity of proving the genuineness of our belief in the brotherhood of man by uniting with students of other lands in this Call to Prayer. This Call comes just once a year, and at this critical time when students are faced with problems and perplexities, with opportunities and privileges such as have never and perhaps will never face any generation of students, it is fitting that we should come together in this bond of union.

Mr. G. A. Warburton, General Secretary of the Toronto Y.M.C.A., has consented to speak briefly. Professor Hallam will conduct the meeting and lead in the devotional exercises.

SEMINAR IN BOTANY

influence on the germ cells except to provide nourishment and protection for them. Characters are transmitted from germ cell to germ cell owing to the continuity of the germ plasma. Having no means of communication between soma and germ cell, Weismann concludes that somatogenic characters acquired during the life-time of an individual can have no influence on the germ cells so are not inherited. The only characters transmitted are those which result as modifications of the germ plasma.

Weismann recognizes two sources of variation in organisms—amphimixis and germinal selection. Each species of plant and animal is characterized by the appearance of a constant and definite number of chromosomes during the process of mitosis, but at some period in the life cycle—in plants during spore formation and in animals during the maturation of ovum and sperm—the number is reduced to half by the separation of entire chromosomes into two groups one of which goes to one daughter cell the other to another. These mature germ cells then have only half the number of chromosomes and the full number is made up only by the union of male and female gametes. Weismann terms this union of gametes amphimixis and describes it as the chief cause of variation. The determinants of which are composed are differently situated as regards facilities for obtaining nourishment and a keen struggle for space and food goes on among them. The individual determinants vary on this account and as a result the cells which these determinants control will vary. He thus avoids the necessity of believing in the transmission of modifications resulting from the direct action of environment without denying that external influences especially nutrition may act on the germ plasma through the body and produce blastogenic modifications.

At the conclusion of the paper a good deal of discussion took place and it was apparent that Weismann's theory was not accepted by all present as the correct one.

ST. HILDA'S PUT VIC. OUT OF THE RUNNING

Score 2-0—Played in Standing Water

In the game up at St. Hilda's on Wednesday at 11:30 the Vic girls lost their last chance of keeping in the running for the hockey cup. The final score was 2-0.

The ice was very heavy which curtailed speed and the standing water all up one side of the cushion made the game at times assume the appearance of a regatta.

In the first half, St. Hilda's scored the initial goal by a shot from centre. Victoria was not able to get the puck off the ice on their shots. Score at end of first half 1-0.

Victoria girls tried hard to even up matters in the second half, but wild shooting and reinforcements in St. Hilda's goal prevented any scoring. St. Hilda's added another by an easy shot which passed through the Vic goal's skate.

Miss Pantton and Miss Tomi starred for St. Hilda's while Miss Flanders did good work for Victoria.

St. Hilda's—J. Pantton, D. Whittier, M. Tomi, H. Grant, D. Trapp, C. Talbot, K. Armstrong.

Victoria—J. Smith, N. Evans, B. Flanders, G. Magwood, L. Pearson, J. Edgington, D. Smith.

VIC AND U.C. MEET TO NIGHT

The tie in Group III will be played off between U.C. and Vic basketball teams to-night at 4:30 in the Central "Y" gym. Judging from the number asking about the time and place of the game, a record crowd will witness these old time rivals play. Both teams are in great shape and are confident. Moote will be back in the game.

NOTICE.

The next game of women's hockey is to be played Saturday between University College and St. Hilda's at 11:30 on Varsity ice.

With Vic. out of the running this is almost the deciding game of the series, so come out and support your team.

Victoria

The Union Literary Society will meet this evening at 7:30. There will be an open debate on "Resolved that the nationalization of the railways of Canada would be in the best interests of the country." Let everyone turn out and be ready to take part in the debate.

VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE.

Are you wondering "After college—What?" Many of the women undergraduates are. To open your eyes to the vistas of opportunity for work that will count there is to be a three day Vocational Conference at the Victoria Women's Union, the end of this week. Speakers of note will address each meeting. If you want to get in—come early.

To-night—at 8 o'clock. Mr. Crawford, for years on the editorial staff of the Globe, will speak on the openings which journalism offers to women. Then Miss Lillian Smith, Victoria 1910, who is now children's librarian in the College Street Library, will give an address on "Library Work."

Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. the meeting will be devoted to Social Service and the following addresses will be delivered:

On General Social Service—Mr. Burnett, who is connected with the Public Health Department of Social Service in the City.

On Medical Work—Miss Heyl.

On Y.M.C.A. Work—Miss Lane, who is doing Y.W.C.A. work in Toronto.

Saturday evening at 8 p.m. The meeting is given over to a consideration of Business Opportunities. The meeting will be addressed by Miss Wiseman, President of the Business Women's Club of Toronto, and Miss Mona McLaughlin, U.C. 1909, who is travelling government factory inspector; and Miss Harvey, who scarcely needs introduction to University women.

Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m., there will be a delightful talk on Missions by Miss Annie Allin '02, who has been doing extremely interesting work among the factory girls in Japan.

The Conference is under the auspices of the Women's Student Council who have been at great pains to secure prominent speakers. Any woman of the other colleges who are interested will be very welcome as long as the seating capacity lasts.

The monthly meeting of the Social Service Alumni will take the form of a luncheon to be held at the Peacock Inn, 112 Yonge Street, on Friday, February 22nd, at 12:45 noon. Dr. Winifred Cullis, London, England, will address the meeting.

O. S. T. C.

Last week-end the whole Company were nervously lounging "at ease" around their headquarters at Burwash Hall. You see Captain Eby the medical officer, was slated to pay them a visit to vaccinate them and give them their third inoculation. In view of the sore arms, etc., etc., they were given two days' leave in which to recuperate.

Although the subalterns are still Nethercott and Jamieson the N.C.O.'s are constantly changing as the drafts leave for England. The present N.C.O.'s are: Company Sergeant-Major Henderson; Sergeants Courtice, Brown, Hardy (Vic); Robbins (Queen's); McCroin (Vic); Mills (S.P.S.); Lance-Corporals Price and Phenister. J. E. Hossack of U.C. has just joined up with the Company, while Walte Bowles from Victoria as is seen above, may be congratulated as being promoted.

Conducting Officers.

A new "job" for which the members of the Company may qualify is that of conducting officer for the C.E.F. They are given temporary commissions in the 1st Depot Battalion, C.O.R. Already twelve have been appointed from this Company and left January 24. Ten were appointed to the Hamilton Depot and two here: they are as follows: Steve Butt, J. I. Boulton, L. D. Bickford, S. C. Dalton, A. C. McKenna, J. McKinnon, S. Pickup, J. A. Ryley, W. A. Young, R. B. Lyma, J. M. Burden, W. J. Brown. Each officer has charge of 100 privates, quite a responsibility. No precedent exists upon which may be estimated what will happen to these men when they arrive in England. It is thought, however, that they will be made cadets so as to qualify for commissions in the Imperial Army.

PROFESSOR KENNEDY

The second place education must be given prominence. Past education had been wrong because it was based on two false principles: (1) education is information (2) education prepares one for a place in life. Education is wisdom, and not information, as it were, in cold storage. It is not to prepare one for a place in life, but to prepare one for living.

Education should include the study of right and wrong. Emphasis should be placed upon the character of man. The urgent need of democracy to-day is a standard of right and wrong. As he stands, a selfish man is but an animal using his brain for animal purposes. A study of politics should also be prescribed so that the suffering in the world to-day which is due to maladjustment may be relieved. Prof. Kennedy maintained that "the man who does not take an active part in citizenship is a weak character".

Social Conditions.

A severe attitude should be taken on the social evil "which was eating the heart out of the American continent". University men must stand for the highest moral purity, eliminate the phrases "fallen" and "bad" women from their vocabulary, must rather pity the women, and come down with a heavy hand on the men making the women such as they are. Prof. Kennedy stated that he had it on good authority that the soldier population has 50 per cent. better in this matter than the civilian population of Toronto.

In the reconstruction after the war, the home life should be one of the first things tended to. The home was a national necessity, but its great defect, rather its primal defect, had been and is, the lack of authority. Liberty has become license, children rule the home, become grown up, parents become childish.

Prof. Kennedy said that he was not so much concerned with the subjects of a university course. What he wanted the University to turn out was thinking men who were graduates of "real culture".

The average student places altogether too much stress on the exams and not on the subjects. Sociology should be made a compulsory subject in Professor Kennedy's opinion. The new university of the future must come from the undergraduates. Out of smallness has grown the great things of life—out of a talk in England between a small group of university men grew the Christian Social Union which solved completely the problem of lead poisoning. A white-list of firms grew to an immense size which guaranteed that no sweated or poisoned work entered into the production of the manufactured goods.

The place of the university student in political life should be permanent. Salaries of members of Parliament should be increased, so as to enable such men to live on their position, thus giving their whole attention to legislation. The social service should be raised above either party, and the system of entry be by "competitive" rather than "qualifying" exams. The positions should be for life, and the holders only removable by impeachment. University men in particular should be eligible for these positions.

SCHOOL WILL HOLD DINNER.

S.P.S. Attention! A "School" dinner will be held this year, so save up a few shillings, dust your hands and faces and Be Ready. The banquet will be held at 7.15 p.m. on Thursday, February 28th, at the Carls-Rite Hotel. A fine list of speakers is being prepared and will be announced later. Among these are Amelia Jarvis, President Falconer and Mr. Cousins, Engineer on the Harbour Commission. Tickets may be secured from Messrs. C. McDonald or J. J. Weicker, or from your year president.

As there was no School dinner held last year it is expected that every last man will turn out this time. School expects every man to do his duty.

The "School" baby grand, (reported to be worth two and half million Chinese yen—two and half cents Canadian) which used to adorn the smoking room in the good old days before the R.F.C. invasion, had the time of its life this morning. Indeed, the old yellow ivories were so "tickled" that they screamed with joy. As cause and effect must never be dissociated, it is only fair to state that the cause was the non-appearance of a certain famous professor, but the effect proved the most interesting phenomenon. It is the recognized duty of professors to wait for their classes, but the cycle is usually non-reversible. But this class was true blue. Loyal to the core, and with minds thirsting for knowledge, they remained noble at their post—and proceeded to improve the shining hour with an impromptu cabaret performance.

The permutations and combinations of fox trot and one-step, hesitation and grapevine, as they were tangoed to the melodious strains from "baby" and the Xylophones, must have been highly pleasing to the Terpsichorean "fans". At any rate the applause was vociferous—if you know what that means. You don't? Well you see—vox, a voice, and ferrus meaning iron — vociferous—"voices of iron".

The lecture hour was a success and motions were passed to have it included in the curriculum.

"T" MIXER

heart. "If failure comes, the unattained keeps life worth living and the unfulfilled keeps the spirit strong."

After the address, the chairman, H. G. Stapells, spoke briefly to the hundred and fifty men present, upon the success that in his eyes the "T" Mixers had gained in their inauguration. He looked forward with keen interest to the meetings to be held next year, and felt that they would start with a gusto and attain even a greater degree of success than they had this year.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE HELD AT VICTORIA

Many Vital Questions Discussed by Eminent Speakers

Miss Harvey and C. H. Burnett
Spoke

The informal Vocational Conference held on Friday evening, February 22nd in the Victoria Women's Union

Mr. Crawford, the Irish-Canadian editor on the Globe staff, opened the Conference on Friday evening with a straightforward address on "Journalism," illustrated from his own experience in the newspaper world. In Mr. Crawford's opinion there is room for women in journalism. No special training is needed for the work—but only a desire for self-expression, and the consciousness of having something to say to the "multitudes that pass by." Mr. Crawford deprecates separate papers for men and women but drew attention to the fact that there is one well known general newspaper in England, owned and managed by a woman, Lady Bathurst. That paper is the Evening Post.

Mr. Crawford gave practical advice for hopeful journalists and pointed to such famous writers as St. Paul and Morley to support his contentions. To develop journalistic talents wide reading is advisable, and a knowledge of everything is really necessary. American papers have a decided trend toward "yellow journalism," which the speaker greatly deplored. But this very fact gives women her opportunity to sweeten and elevate it.

The address was very much enjoyed and the discussion which followed was most enlightening and helpful.

Miss Lilian Smith then spoke on her beloved library work with the children. Miss Smith, too, answered all the curious questions that the audience wished to ask her in the informal after-discussion.

Students from University College and St. Hilda's were present at the meeting and took part in the discussion.

Business Training.

At the Saturday evening session, Miss Wiseman, president of the Business Women's Club, Miss McLaughlin, factory inspector; and Miss Harvey of the Ontario Labour Bureau, were the speakers.

Miss Wiseman spoke to the students on the opportunities in business. She first gave a sketch of her own career. From that she turned to the need of training. In order to win success a woman must have training. Book-keeping and stenography are practically essential. The speaker also advised business French and Spanish in view of the South American trade that will open after the war. The students were cautioned against short courses.

A woman must be more valuable than a man to receive the same salary, as her employer always regards her as temporary. A woman must demand the highest standards from herself in whatever position she finds herself. She must learn to co-operate with other women and help to raise the whole standard of work.

As to openings, Miss Wiseman mentioned secretarial work, advertising, salesmanship of various kinds, insurance, accountancy.

Factory Legislation.

Miss M. G. McLaughlin spoke to the meeting on factory inspection, and factory service work. The speaker is one of the three women inspectors of factories employed in Ontario. These inspectors are concerned with the enforcing of factory legislation in regard to women and teen age employees. Factory women need leaders and there is an opening for college women who are willing to work in factories and so become leaders among the girls. They perhaps could educate the women to co-operate and so form unions to protect their interests.

At present there are employed Service Workers, acting as a bridge between the stockholders and the workers. Sometimes they are to look after the physical life of the employees. They may be engaged in nurse work, "follow-up" work, or in charge of a lunch or recreation room.

The requirements to fill such a position are many. Knowledge of economics is almost indispensable, some social training and work in dictis is desirable. The woman who understands games of various kinds has an advantage.

VARSITY ADVISORY BOARD HOLD MEETING

Several Resolutions Concerning
"The Varsity" Are Adopted

On Saturday morning the first meeting of THE VARSITY ADVISORY BOARD was held in the Varsity office. Those in attendance were Mr. McQueen of Medicine, Chairman of the Board; Mr. MacDougall of St. Michael's, Mr. Watson of Trinity, these two gentlemen representing the Students' Administrative Council; Miss O. V. Sparling, Victoria, and Miss Brodie, University College, representing the Women's Student Council; and Miss McCoy and Mr. Sampson of THE VARSITY.

The substance of the four resolutions carried by the Board was as follows. In the first place it was decided to have a meeting of the Board hereafter on the second Monday of every month during the period of publication of THE VARSITY. Secondly it was decided to limit future appointees to THE Varsity Staff to British citizens. Other students can make application for places on the Staff to the Board. Thirdly, it was decided to place on permanent record the tradition that no political articles are to appear in the news and editorial columns of THE VARSITY. Finally a recommendation asking for a ruling on the propriety of having political advertisements appear in the paper, was sent to the Executive of the Students' Administrative Council.

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Captain A. H. Caulfield has returned from England. He went overseas with No. 4 General Hospital and has been with several different units in England. He was an M.B. 1904, and a member of the staff in Medicine.

Captain the Rev. T. H. Stewart is returning shortly to Canada. He graduated in Arts in 1912, taking his M.A. degree in 1913, and was also a student at Wycliffe. Before going overseas he was pastor at St. Aidan's Church, Toronto. He went across with a Toronto unit, and then transferred to the C.M.R. He won the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in tending the wounded and dying.

Captain Frank S. Park, B.A., U.C. 1909, and M.B. 1911, who has been a prisoner of war since June, 1916, has been sent to Holland and is reported to have arrived at Rotterdam. Captain Park was serving with the 4th C.M.R. when he was taken, and when his appeal for release on the ground that he was a medical officer and a non-combatant was refused by the German Government, he requested to be sent to a military hospital, where his services could be utilized. He was removed to Minden and placed in charge of 2,000 prisoners of war of all nations.

Lieut. L. R. Andrews of the Royal Flying Corps has been gazetted a flight commander. He is a graduate of the Faculty of Forestry 1913.

Miss Ruth Moffatt, a recent graduate of Trinity College, '15, is leaving shortly for England to work as a V.A.D.

W.U.A. ELECTIONS

The results of the W.U.A. elections held at the Union on Thursday, February 21, were as follows:

GOVERNMENT'S RAILWAY POLICY SUBJECTED TO SEVERE CRITICISM

Prof. Jackman Examines Nationalization of C.N.R. Before
Political Economy Club

Method Adopted Wrong, and Whole Policy Inimical to National Interest

One of the best attended meetings that the Political Economy Club has held this year was that of Friday afternoon. The feature of the session was an address by Dr. W. T. Jackman on some aspects of the Canadian railway situation. The address centred in the action of the Government in taking over the C.N.R.

Financial Position of C.N.R.

Dr. Jackman dealt first of all with the financial position of the C.N.R. Last year the road produced a surplus of net earnings over operating expenses of $11,525,354. Its total fixed charges, the interest due on its securities, amounted to $14,405,613. Of this sum, interest to the amount of $4,514,507 had been guaranteed by the Dominion and Provincial Governments. If these Governments were to bear this charge, the C.N.R. would appear to have a surplus of nearly two millions on the year's operations. Surely the road would seem to be in a position to carry on. Sir Thomas White said that those most competent to judge regarded the C.N.R. as likely to be "a decidedly paying concern in time." "I feel quite optimistic with regard to the future of the C.N.R. system, once it gets over this trying period."

But the C.N.R., instead of devoting its net earnings to the payment of its interest charges, applied this eleven millions to the purchase of rolling stock, the improvement of its roadbed, structures and equipment—generally to the purpose of putting the line in shape to bear the rapidly expanding traffic that it was attracting, and that the business of the country required. As a result of this policy, the company was far behind with its interest payments, and would require some twenty million dollars to carry it through to the spring of 1918. It is because of this need for public assistance that the Government embarked on its venture for the nationalization of the line.

Two main courses were open to the Government for effecting this nationalization: expropriation of the property by foreclosure under section 24 of the Act of 1914; or second, the purchase of the common stock of the company at a price fixed by arbitration. This latter course is the one that has been adopted.

Arbitration.

In deciding upon arbitration proceedings, the Government is reverting to a method that was long ago found to be inimical to the public interest and was therefore discarded in favour of the now usual procedure before the courts. We can only speculate, said Dr. Jackman, on the reasons for this complete reversal of policy on the part of the Government; but some of its consequences are apparent. In the first place, a board of arbitration has been appointed to place a value on something that has been authoritatively stated to have no value. The Commission that presented its report last spring proved from three points of view that the common stock of the C.N.R. is valueless. The fact that the Commission left out of account two important items, cash on hand and lands still held by the company, does not reverse the original decision. Why should the Government arbitrate about the value of something which, it is almost universally admitted, has no value? The reasons, again, we can but guess. Second, why did the Government, in deciding upon arbitration, decide to limit the award that its tribunal might make? Is this not a confession of distrust in a course that it has itself deliberately adopted? Third, the government, in taking over the common stock at the price fixed by arbitration, becomes liable for the company's liabilities, which, at face value, amount to nearly $500,000,000. This sum includes $147,000,000 of unguaranteed securities, which the Government is asking Parliament to assume without regard to what the investor paid or to their market value, which is only 30 to 60 per cent. of par. The Minister of Finance argues that in buying the stock of the company the Government assumes neither its assets nor its liabilities; that the nation is in the position identical with that of the individual shareholder who enjoys limited liability. Such an argument is the merest quibbling. The Government becomes the sole owner of the C.N.R., assumes its whole burden of debt at par, and effects a great enhancement in value of its heretofore unguaranteed securities. The reason for the adoption of a course that would result in this great gain for the fortunate holders of these securities must, like so much else in this matter, be left to conjecture.

Foreclosure.

The other plan that the Government might have followed in nationalizing the C.N.R. is expropriation by foreclosure, as provided in section 24 of the Act of 1914. The procedure would be the same as in the foreclosure of the mortgage given by a private individual. In the latter case there is felt to be no particular injustice, as Premier Borden suggests there is if foreclosure were applied to the railway. If he deems such a method unjust, why did his Government incorporate it in the Act of 1914? By foreclosure, the C.N.R. would be taken over at the actual value of its properties, at the value placed upon them by the courts—an amount of probably about $300,000,000. Under the plans adopted by the Government, the road will cost the country $500,000,000. Parliament is the guardian of the public interest: why, then, does it pursue a course so obviously inimical to that interest?

Government Ownership.

In concluding his address, Dr. Jackman dealt briefly but decisively with the whole question of nationalization. That Government management of great enterprises is fraught with grave difficulties is generally recognized by those in a position to judge of its consequences. Premier Borden pointed this out to an important deputization that waited upon him just that week. Sir Thomas White admitted it when the C.N.R. proposals were submitted to Parliament, but he thought that nationalization must come because the majority of newspaper editors advocated it. In Dr. Jackman's opinion, direct public aid to the railways, and a continuance under strict regulation of private operation of the present transportation problem. All our railways have been built by the aid of large public grants; we could not have our present systems and our present national development without such assistance; the aid so given has been for value received.

An animated discussion, with many interrogations for Dr. Jackman, followed the address, and lasted until the closing of the building necessitated adjournment. The Club rendered the speaker the thanks of its members for the light that he had cast upon the problem.

APPLICATIONS FOR GEN. SEC. TREAS. OF S. A. COUNCIL

Applications for the position of General Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Administrative Council for the year commencing June 30, 1918, and ending June 30, 1919, will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918.

GOOD DEMAND FOR VARSITY SUPPLEMENT

Historical Value Recognized—Proceeds for Patriotic Purposes

The long awaited Varsity Magazine Supplement has at last made its appearance, and is now on sale. Some of the dealers have already exhausted their first allotments, but fresh supplies are rapidly being delivered from the binders.

The new Supplement is receiving even greater acclaim than its predecessor of 1916. Not only in University circles, but among the general public it is attracting warmly favourable comment. Many, too, are recognizing the historical value of the Supplements, and those who were not fortunate enough to secure copies of the 116 edition are buying them to preserve along with the new issue. It is understood that only a small number of copies of the earlier Supplement remain.

As was before the case, the proceeds from the sale of the Supplement are devoted to hospital and patriotic purposes. But in buying the book, one feels also that one is making an investment in a unique memorial record and a splendid example of the bookmaker's art. It is not always that patriotism and sheer delight are so pleasingly blended.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

The Military Cross has been awarded to Captain LeRoy Z. Wilson, son of Mrs. T. A. Wilson, Brampton. He is serving with the Canadian Railway Troops, and was given his captaincy about a year ago. He was wounded in October during the Passchendaele action. Captain Wilson is a graduate of School of Science, 1911. A brother, Lieut. M. A. Wilson, B.A., Victoria College, 1915, is attached to the Canadian Field Artillery.

Lieut. Geoffrey A. Wheale, Education, 1911-12 has also won the Military Cross. He was appointed to the 142nd Battalion, and went overseas with that unit from Camp Borden in October, 1916. In England he was with the 64th Infantry until he entered the C.M.S., Crowborough, in February 1917. On completing his course he was sent to France, and was wounded in November. He has spent the past three months in various hospitals in England.

Capt. Walter W. Wright has gone to France, to be attached to a field ambulance. He had been with the Military Hospital at Bramshott, Hants. He is a graduate in Medicine of 1904.

Lieut. Mordon B. Coyne, B.A., University College 1911, of St. Thomas, has been appointed O.C. of the C.A.S.C. Training Depot for this District.

Corporal Rochereau de al Sabliere, son of the French Consul in Toronto, has been awarded his commission and is to go into training for his lieutenantcy at St. Cyr. He joined the French army as a private and was later promoted a corporal. He won the Croix de Guerre. Last Spring he returned to this country on leave.

Sec.-Lieut. Henry Charles Quail

Word was received by the family on Friday last of the death in action of Sec. Lieut. Henry Charles Quail, B.A.Sc. 1915. He joined the O.T.C. as a private, and went overseas with the seventh draft from that unit in March 1917. He has been serving in France with a field company of the Royal Engineers.

MENORAH SOCIETY MEETING TO-NIGHT AT UNIVERSITY "Y"

A very important meeting of the Menorah Society will be held to-night, 8 o'clock sharp, at the University "Y". The club has been fortunate in securing Prof. W. R. Keys who will be the speaker of the evening. He will lecture on: "The Contributions of the Jews to English Literature." All interested in this subject are cordially invited. Nominations of officers for the year 1918-1919 will also be held. Turn out, one and all, and nominate the right people.

OSGOODE HALL WIN DEBATING HONOURS

Defeat S.P.S. by Narrow Margin in Finals of I.C.D.U.

Become Holders of Kerr Shield

The activities of the Inter-College Debating Union of Toronto came to a conclusion for this term on Friday evening, February 22, when Osgoode Hall defeated the Faculty of Applied Science in the final debate of the year. The subject was, "Resolved that the goods of enemy countries should be excluded from the British Empire after the war." Messrs. W. J. Browne and R. Hamer, M.A., of Applied Science supported the affirmative, and Messrs. J. A. Grace, B.A., and W. M. Unger, B.A. of Osgoode Hall, the negative. The judges were Rev. Prof. S. H. Wallace, Dr. T. H. Cotton, M.A., B.D., Hon. Justice H. T. Kelly. The chairman was Mr. L. Hallyard. The debate was very warm, the contestants had their subject well in hand and the work of the judges must have been a arduous. Indeed, the chairman of the judges, in giving the decision stated that the negative had won, but by a very small margin.

The hall was nearly filled when the chairman called the meeting to order and opened the programme with a few words about the debate. Miss Dorothy McGann then rendered a delicious vocal solo, after which the leader for the affirmative, Mr. W. J. Browne, began his address.

Germany Assailed

Mr. Browne began by defining the words "enemy countries", "excluded", and "after the war," in the wording of the debate. His definition of the last of these caused considerable argument later, for he took it to mean a term of years, not forever. When Germany went to war she had almost captured the world's markets. Now she appears in her true colours; her actions show her so devoid of humanity that nothing better is to be expected from her in the future. Mr. Browne went on to prove that German business centres in London and Paris had been also centres of intrigue and espionage. Her motto was to thrust out England. Present facts go to prove that Germany is even now storing merchandise against the time when she can again launch them at the world's markets. Hence the Allies have decided that they protect their own industries by manufacturing the goods necessary to their development, and not rely upon Germany. We are fighting for economic justice as well as the safeguarding of the world's peace, and we must not slip back into the old way after spending so many lives. He proceeded to quote English statesmen former advocates of free trade, who were now heart and soul for protection of home interests. "Statesmen such as these," said Mr. Browne, "do not change their policies overnight, without deep seated reason." Finally he pointed to the fact that the Germans are awake to the future; but with their sublime self-confidence, they believe their recuperation to be indispensable to the world. Mr. Browne gave many quotations from business men all over the British Empire who are demanding that German goods be excluded. He justified this policy of boycott by the necessity of the preservation of peace.

Boycott Unnecessary

Mr. J. A. Grace of the negative began by challenging Mr. Browne's definition of "after the war." Mr. Grace claimed it to mean for all time. He then pointed out that the reasons given by the affirmative were revenge and protection. He claimed that it would be impossible to boycott Germany's goods in the market. As her neutral neighbours have proved an inlet in war time so they would become the outlet in time of peace. German firms would also operate under assumed names. The opposition, he claimed, had a wrong conception of our aims in fighting Germany. We are fighting German militarism, not We are fighting German militarism, not seeking to starve women into the laundries. This is to be the last war—the launching of a commercial boycott would but provoke another with the peace-loving German people. England's failure to protect herself in the past was her own fault and she should not seek to punish Germany for it. Furthermore, such a policy is not necessary as, urged by necessity, England now produces goods formerly made in Germany. She can snap her

OUR PROBLEMS AND THEIR SOLUTION

Canada is, comparatively speaking, a new country. This fact is self-evident, and the above statement is often heard; but nevertheless it is important. Important in the sense that the institutions of the country are in the process of formation, and that, connected with these institutions, there are problems which are peculiarly Canada's own.

When attempts are made to solve these problems it is usual to have people point to the method which some other country has adopted in a similar connection. "They did such a thing in the United States. Would it not be well to do likewise in Canada?" "In the Old Country they have an admirable way of attending to such a question. Why can't we use it here?" These are but examples of what one hears in the ordinary course of conversation.

But, as has been said above, Canada's problems are its own; and these problems ought to be solved by Canadian methods. Englishmen or Americans or any other people may have found a means which has solved a question which is presented to Canadians; but it does not follow that the wholesale adoption of that means by Canada would lead to a satisfactory solution of her need. Some particular part of another country's system in dealing with a question, which at some time may have concern for Canadians, might well be incorporated; but the local circumstances of the case ought to be the first consideration. When this latter course is followed a happier solution generally follows.

To narrow the sphere of the application of this principle, our University, along with other Canadian Universities, has problems which are peculiarly its own. These questions ought to be solved by having attention paid, in the first place, to the circumstances which surround them. An attempt at solving these questions ought not to be made by incorporating into our Universities some method or theory which may feature the University system of some other country, but which would be out of place in our own country. We must not copy from others, but originate ourselves.

THE CITY AND ITS ILLS

The city presented a picture of happiness and prosperity. Visitors from distant isles, and traders from other cities, went away bearing tales of the wealth and industry and art that they had seen. And their praises were well bestowed.

The citizens, too, recognized their greatness. They viewed their City and its works, and all to them seemed good. They rested well content in the established order of things.

But certain of the citizens did not share these views. They said that men cared little for the true greatness of their City; that they ignored its laws, that they flouted its traditions and its virtues; that men loved not truth and justice, but only sought by what means they might enrich themselves, or achieve glory and fame in the eyes of their fellows.

And when these men expressed their doubts, and wondered at the future of their City, predicting dire things, then their compatriots ridiculed their misgivings, and directed them to consider all the wonders that had been wrought. They showed them the marvels of their ingenuity and industry, and the vastness of their wealth. They dwelt upon the wonders of their sculpture and architecture, on the brilliance of their music and literature. True, there might be some things that were not good—but had not these faults existed from the beginning of time? "The poor," said they, "and certain kinds of sinning, we have ever with us. But the poor are becoming less poor, and sin is becoming less sinful. Let us therefore continue in the way of our fathers, and time will heal all ills. It is not for us to trifle with what the gods have ordained."

"Not so," responded the few. "Does a man, being sick, await the slow-healing hand of time, or does he seek soothing herbs that may relieve his illness? Does he idly let his distemper run its course, in the hope that he may recover, but knowing that its course may end in death? Not so. Let us, therefore, seek wise men who may guide us—men who love not great riches nor the plaudits of fame—men whose vision is clear, that they may guide us aright in curing the evils that are sapping the life of our City."

And they directed their search toward the temple where many held forth in discourse with the wise men of the temple; but some among them prophesied that such men were not there to be found.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Yesterday was the most peaceful day THE VARSITY office has witnessed in the past week. Yesterday was Sunday.

The usual summary of last week's issues of THE VARSITY appeared in the Sunday World yesterday.

Though nearly two weeks have passed since THE VARSITY replied to the Queen's Journal about negro Medical students, the Journal has not seen fit to respond, nor has it the courage to print our answer. "In the good old days," it was more difficult "to down" the Journal than it seems to be in this case.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue of THE VARSITY you printed a report of Miss Harvey's address to the W.U.A. In the course of Miss Harvey's speech she is reported as saying that University women will be of great help in relieving the farm labour situation on mixed, dairy and fruit farms. University women have proven their worth in a most capable manner in the latter branch of farming, during the past summer, Miss Harvey in speaking of dairy farming, however, made some statements which I cannot accept in their entirety. Her statement that a hired man is expected to look after and milk 25 cows each day is somewhat erroneous, I think. I presume that Miss Harvey is speaking of a dairy farm where farm work, other than the task of looking after dairy cows is carried on. An average dairy cow gives from 10 to 11 quarts of milk twice a day at least. Instances are also common where from 8 to 9 quarts of milk is given three times a day. The milking of a cow occupies on the average, a period of fifteen minutes. At that rate, a hired man would milk four cows an hour, and would accomplish the work of milking 25 cows roughly in six hours or possibly a little less. From what Miss Harvey says, I am led to believe that the milking is to be done by hand, not by machine. Twice a day the work must be done, and a period of 12 hours or so would be taken up in this work. No time would be left for any other work on the farm. But granting that the man is solely engaged in this work it would be hard to go to a farm in any prosperous portion of Ontario where 25 cows are milked by hand night and morning. Where a farmer is able to feed and keep 25 cows, he is usually able to have a milking machine installed, which does work in a much less period of time. Where the milking of 25 cows would have to be done by hand (taking from 5 to 6 hours), the cows would no sooner be out to pasture, when they would be back in the stable again, literally, and at that the milking would have to be done early in the morning and late at night. However, I see no difficulty in a hired man looking after 25 cows when a milking machine is used, but from what I can gather from Miss Harvey's statement, the use of no such a machine is meant at all. Miss Harvey's citation of the case of a "dairyman" not many miles from Toronto, has it that the herd contains 70 cows and six milkers, and six general workers are required. If this man has not one or more milking machines installed in his stables and in use, then he is not a modern dairyman. Perhaps Miss Harvey in referring to the "six milkers" means that they would act in the capacity of strippers, who must in practically all cases finish up the cows after the milking machine has done its part. If that was meant, as I think it was not, then Miss Harvey has been speaking such that our degree of intellectual enlightenment will not allow us to comprehend just what she means.

Miss Harvey speaks of the training which certain girls received at Eaton's stables last Saturday as sufficient to enable the girl to go ahead with all the simple duties of farm labour. To know how to harness and care for a horse is not a very difficult matter, although arduous. To drive a horse is a more difficult matter. However, a girl should have little trouble in harrowing and horse-raking, etc. Farmers daughters in great numbers have done it from time immemorial, and more so since the war. But when Miss Harvey speaks of running

S.P.S. STUDENTS HEAR INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS

Mr. Grierson Lectures Before Engineering Society

A meeting of the Engineering Society was held in the C. & M. Building on Wednesday afternoon, February 20. The speaker for the afternoon was Mr. Grierson of the Imperial Oil Company, a School graduate of '14, the subject of whose address was "Lubricating Oils".

After the meeting was called to order, President Macdonald introduced Mr. Grierson to the Society. Mr. Grierson expressed his satisfaction at having the opportunity to be in the old School again. He stated that he had not the feeling of detachment from the School, which some people associate with graduation. The fabric of the School depended on the unity of the graduates and undergraduates. Passing on to the subject of his address, Mr. Grierson discussed the various properties of oils used for lubrication. The viscosity of an oil was the most important desideratum in selection for a special use. To illustrate the necessity for studying the problems of proper lubrication, Mr. Grierson stated that in an ordinary automobile engine, the surfaces of the pistons traveled over an area of more than 60 square feet per second. In this case the problem was to get an oil of the most suitable viscosity and to maintain a film of it on the surface of the piston.

Concluding, Mr. Grierson again expressed his great pleasure in being present. The thanks of the Society were conveyed to the speaker by President Macdonald.

Among those who attended the meeting were Dean Ellis and Professor C. H. C. Wright of Applied Science.

In all good-will to Miss Harvey and the great work she is promoting amongst University women and others. I remain, yours truly,

C. H. WEIR.

U.C. AND VIC STAGE
THRILLING BASKETBALLGame Undecided as Vic Claim
Score Tied

University College and Victoria staged a battle royal on Thursday afternoon in a basketball game to break the tie of the group, but it is left to the Basketball Association to decide the result. Towards the end of the game Lorrman shot two baskets, one of which the referee said was thrown after he had blown his whistle. However, as the referee had immediately centred the ball, the two scores marked down four points for U.C., thus bringing the final score 16-14 for U.C.; whereas Vic claim it should be only 14-14.

The game was extremely fast, checking was the main feature of the game and half the points were made by free throws. At the opening of the first half, Robinson secured a point for U.C. by a free throw. Mutart, however, soon put Vic in the lead by a pretty basket from right centre. Robinson for U.C. soon notched a basket for Arts and added another point on a free throw. Moote secured one point for Vic on a foul shot. Robinson again came through with a basket for U.C. and Moote again tallied one for U.C. Robinson scored two points for U.C. by free throws, Mutart for Vic soon added three points for his team, a basket and a free throw and the half ended U.C. 8; Vic 7.

SECOND HALF.

At the outset of this half Robinson notched one for U.C. on a free throw. Moote however by a beautiful shot notched a basket for Vic and added a free throw to the score. Parker for U.C. on a splendid basket put U.C. in the lead and Robinson again scored on a free throw. Mutart for Vic slipped one into the basket and Lorrman's two shots gained two baskets for U.C., one of which is disputed. Moote scored the last basket of the game.

For U.C. Stokes on the defence played strenuously and splendidly. Lorrman and Parker on the forward line showed up well. Borsook on the defence was very effective, while Robinson the U.C. centre was the most effective scorer.

For Vic it would be hard to choose a star, since the team all played together well and played very fast combination. Moote, however, was back in his old form and although the big fellow was closely watched, he showed his bursts of speed at the right time. Mutart played an exceedingly fast game and was very effective. Frid, while not a brilliant player, contributed greatly to Vic's good team work. Bull and Lang on the defence were good, the former especially so.

fingers at Germans. "The devil can be fought with fire". He sarcastically remarked that the opposition were evidently the sole remaining advocates of the policy and proceeded to prove that it was condemned by leading men the world over. Again England cannot afford to boycott Germany goods as she herself sells so much to that nation. He quoted Lloyd George and Laurier as having appealed to the people to have no "veiled war after this war."

England Just to Germany.

Mr. Hanter, the second speaker for the affirmative, lost no time in calmly appropriating most of the arguments used by the other side to strengthen his own position. "They admit the insidiousness of German methods—that their goods cannot be kept out—but I can show proofs to the contrary." He showed that England's slowness in the past was due to her desire to be just. Further, that it was not her policy to keep raw materials from Germany. It would not pay England to let Germany dump her merchandise on the market as she did in the past. Furthermore, many of these goods were of English origin, developed by English money and brain, then stolen by German agents and sold at low prices to capture the market. Much unemployment was thus caused in England by the ruin of manufacturing and night in the future cause anarchy. No, the only way to deal with Germany is to use harsh measures, it is the only code she understands. And these harsh measures are after all the most just—the Bible shows God's methods to be harsh at times. One quarter of the world's population is under the British flag and their interests and welfare must be looked after, even at the peril of being harsh to Germany till she learns her lesson.

Moral, Not Economic Standpoint.

Mr. Unger, the second speaker for the negative, opened with a volley of eloquence that left his audience dumb founded. He referred to the affirmative arguments as a "Hymn of Hate" and made a long flowery comparison to Mark Antony. One young lady was heard to exclaim that she would need an encyclopaedia to understand him. However, the spasm passed in time and he managed to get down to a few real points. He scored the other side for having a faulty line of argument—for speaking from an economic standpoint and ignoring the moral and ethical sides of the question. He declared the policy to be dictated by ill feeling and said that sentiment must have nothing to do with trade. Germany will not sign a peace that does not protect her own trade interests. The launching of an economic war would result in a counter boycott and the maintenance of navies and armies. The policy would be suicidal. Again, Germany has much raw material which we need. The British Labour Congress suggested a boycott of two years' duration, showing that trade is looked forward to in the near future after the war. He quoted Lloyd George who said, "Let us have no trade war."

The judges were out a considerable time; the awarding of points being no easy task. After they had reported the negative winners, the audience sang God Save the King.

2TO CLASS PARTY AT UNION THURS., FEB. 28

Thursday evening, February 28th at the Women's Union. Yes, that is when the sophomores of U.C. are going to get together for their second last class party. The Executive have arranged a delightful program, and it will be quite up to the standard of the previous events of the year. After the meeting the lovers of the Terpsichorean art will have a chance to excel. Refreshments will be served. Keep the date in mind, show the right class spirit, and make this party the success it should be.

S.P.S. TO HOLD DINNER

School men—get your tickets right away for the Dinner to be held at the Carls-Rite Hotel on Thursday, February 28th. This is the first School dinner to be held for two years and will probably be the last for two or three years to come. So don't miss this chance. Remember, a "School" dinner is, and always has been, one of the Big events in our College life.

The programme arranged by the committee is excellent, and as for menu—we cannot give away any secrets, but we guarantee that you'll have the "feed" of your life. A number of graduates are expected, so get your tickets now—they are limited in number.

2T1 THEATRE PARTY

Unfortunately indeed were those who were unable to attend the 2T1 Theatre Party on Friday evening last. The executive must be accredited for the pains they took in staging the affair—having obtained a reservation at the Allen. After the show, which, by the way, proved quite enjoyable, the party sojourned to the Union and spent a pleasant hour in dancing. Eats were then served and the party broke up noticeably into couples.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION

In order to meet the requirement respecting military or physical instruction a male student must attend at least 80 per cent. of the classes. Failure to reach this standard will mean the repetition of the work in the next session of attendance and will count as a condition. A student of the final year who fails to meet the requirement will not be admitted to his degree until he has complied with the regulation. THE REGISTRAR.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

The salaries are not high, but will probably grow as efficiency does. But there is the satisfaction of work worth while.

National Service

National Service was the subject of Miss Harvey's address. She reviewed the crop situation in Canada for the last three years, dealing especially in production of human food and the increase of pastureage, hay, etc. Thus with the world needing more food, we have been producing less. The Allies are asking Canada for fifteen per cent. of an increase on peace production and last year we produced less than in peace years.

Labour this year will be harder to get than last year. More men have gone to the front and men from the country are coming to the cities to procure the highly paid positions that are left vacant. The Government feels it cannot conscript farm labour; instead a huge educational scheme is being launched. People must be willing to go out on the land at any cost.

Ontario is the one province planning to use women. Classes in mixed farming will be established shortly. In mixed farming no girl is to get less than $15 per month with board and laundry, the average will probably be $20 per month. In these cases girls will be expected to do two hours' work daily, if necessary, in the house. In this way the farmers' wife, the most overworked person in Ontario, will be able to cater for the extra help. Where possible girls will live in separate houses. One thousand girls for mixed farming alone will be needed.

The fruit and vegetable crops require about five thousand girls. Very satisfactory arrangements as to pay have been made with the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association.

The schedule is small fruits $1 per day, rain or shine, for six days a week and after that piece rates as follows: Strawberries, 2c. per basket; raspberries, 3c. per basket; blackberries 2c. and gooseberries 2c. per basket. Black currants 40c. per 18 lb. cherries, 20c. per 15 lbs.

Vegetables, 15c. an hour for odd hours but for continuous work 80 per week.

Late fruit—$9 per week. Good pickers may be charged to 20c. an hour.

Board will be $1.50 per week, but there will be no dish washing. The growers' are to provide buildings and equipment. Dietitians are needed at $20 per month.

To be continued

Two sides.
Father (sternly)—"Young man, I saw you put your arm around my daughter last night."
Yough—"I suppose you noticed how she struggled, too."

Bill—"What a beastly smell of onions."
Jack—"Yes; they must be burning them at the steak."

Victoria

The regular meeting of the U.L.S. was held Friday evening in Alumni Hall. The vice-president, L. C. Harvey, occupied the chair and handled the meeting with great ability. Mr. W. Shaver rendered a solo in his usual excellent manner. The event of the evening was the final debate for the Rowell Trophy with subject, "Resolved that in the best interests of Canada the railways should be nationalized." L. C. White, C.T. and Harold Johnson, C.J. upheld the affirmative, opposed by R. T. S. Broughton 2T1 and M. J. Aycarst, 2T1. The affirmative was awarded the decision by a small margin. Next the "Bob" committee was approved, followed by the budget speech, very ably delivered by A. McGowan, 1T9. Unfortunately a quorum was lacking and despite the strenuous efforts of the chief whip, W. H. Bouck, to provide one, the house necessarily had to adjourn.

PROF. KEYS ADDRESSED THE MENORAH SOCIETY

Says Jews Have Greatly Contributed to English Literature

Nominations Held—Sol. Eisen
Elected by Acclamation as Head of Society

Prof. D. R. Keys, of the Department of English, delivered a very interesting and instructive address at the last meeting of the Menorah Society, which was held at the University "Y" on Monday evening last. Despite the inclement weather a fair proportion of the members were present. Those who "braved" that downpour of heaven's sweet milk were very well repaid by Prof. Keys' scholarly lecture on the subject: "The Contributions of the Jews to the English Literature." Prof. Keys treated the subject from two points of view, the subjective and objective; showing first the influence of the Hebrew Bible on English Literature, and secondly, in modern times, the contributions of the Jews themselves to English literature. Prof. Keys traced the history of the English literature from about 670 A.D. to the present time illustrating his subject by reference to the outstanding writers of the various periods in the English Literature, thereby showing how they were all influenced by the Hebrew Bible. After the lecture nominations of officers for 1918-19 were held.

Anglo-Saxon Literature.

"In the early stages of English Literature," began Professor Keys, "we find very fine poetry, about three-quarters of which is based on the Bible. Caedman became a great poet without any training. He wrote about the Bible. He paraphrased the history of the Old and New Testament. He sang the creation of the world, the history of Israel, the book of Daniel, and the like. Of the poetry that came after Caedman, Judith is one of the finest things in Anglo-Saxon literature. The one great poem is Beowulf, which is on the whole, a war story. Beowulf destroys in battle the hideous dragon Grendel, a man-fiend that devoured men, whose descent is traced back to Cain. In the subsequent literature we come to King Alfred, who wrote a number of books, mostly religious, representing the Hebrew literature of Moses. Aelfric was the first large translator of the Bible. He wrote many Homilies. And so it goes on into the Middle Ages."

The "Morning Star" of Eng. Lit.

The next period, the Morning Star of English Literature is Chaucer. Here we also see the Hebrew influences. But Chaucer represents that harsh spirit of dissonance that prevailed in the fourteenth century. In his time there was a feeling of bitterness towards the Jew. Christopher Marlowe's Jew of Malta is of the same type; it paints the passions of greed and hatred. Prof. Keys then dwelt on Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice and said that the Jew is described there better than the preceding writers. "The sympathy is great with Shylock. We remember those magnificent lines. You get in the Merchant of Venice a strong plea for the Jewish people. Shakespeare himself threw his most marvellous human sympathy into the play. He struck a note."

In the great Milton we find the influence of Hebrew Literature. In his famous poem Paradise Lost, "the whole Jewish Bible is turned into English verse." In Samson Agonistes, Samson's his blindness is described. He is called on to make sport for the Philistines, and overthrows them in the end.

Nineteenth Century—Subjective Side.

"Now up till the nineteenth century we have seen the objective side, that is, we have seen the English Literature permeated with the effects of the Bible, but in the nineteenth century we also see the subjective side—we meet with very distinguished Jewish writers."

Modern Jewish Writers.

Prof. Keys then spoke about Isaac Disraeli and his son Benjamin. "Benjamin is the outstanding example of the Great Jew in English Literature." In George Eliot's Daniel Deronda we have "one of the finest fictions in English Literature." Prof. Keys mentioned some of the greatest Jews in England who have greatly contributed to English Literature. To mention

LIST OF 'VARSITY'S FALLEN POSTED UP

The Number Increases—Artistic Lettering is Done by a Professional

On the surface of the four walls of the structure erected in the Rotunda of the Main Building a new description of cards bearing the names of the fallen graduates and undergraduates of the University of Toronto has been attached. The cards are of less width and length than the former ones, and are four hundred or thereabouts in number. This number continually grows, for instance, there is an increase of nearly a hundred cards since the last were put up. Formerly the letter work on the cards was done by School freshmen which work constituted part of their drafting. In almost every case the work was done well, but a certain non-conformity arose, no matter how well the individual work was done, which gave a rather unbalanced appearance to the cards as a whole. The work on the new cards has been done entirely by one man, who is a professional in ink work of this sort. In England this man was known as a law clerk, the duties of whom some will know what they are, and some will not. Law documents were formerly drawn up on parchment, and their contents had to be inscribed in writing.

VARSLITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Flight Lieut. Rudolf D. Delamere has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for reconnaissance work in East Africa. He is serving with the Royal Naval Air Service, and has been in East Africa for nearly two years. For a time he was attached to a sea-plane squadron at Zanzibar. He is a graduate of the School of Science, 1914.

Word has just been received of the winning, last fall, of the Military Cross, by Lieut. Arthur J. Cowan, a B.A. of University College 1915. Lieut. Cowan enlisted as a gunner with the 26th Battery in March, 1915, and was given his sergeant's stripes before leaving Canada. After some service at the front, he was given his commission, and returned to England for training. Later he rejoined the Canadian Field Artillery in France.

Captain Gerald Allison has returned to his home in Picton on six weeks' sick leave after three years on active service. Capt. Allison graduated in Medicine early in 1915, and crossed to England as a private with No. 2 Casualty Clearing Station. There he was given his commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps, and saw service at the Dardanelles, Gallipoli, Egypt and India, and later in France, where he was wounded and gassed in the fighting around Cambria in December.

Lieut. George A. Drew who was appointed O.C. of the Guelph Depot Battery in November, has been granted leave of absence from the battery for an indefinite period, to undergo another operation on his arm, and transferred to "D" Unit, Military Ho-pitals Commission. Lieut. Drew was wounded in May, 1916, and returned to Canada the following September. He was a member of the Class of 1917, U.C.

Captain P. B. Brown, of Manning Ave., has returned to Toronto after 20 months' service in India, Egypt, and Mesopotamia, with the Royal Army Medical Corps. In October, 1917, he was taken seriously ill with para typhoid fever, and later was sent to India to convalesce. Captain Brown graduated in 1916. He is at present attached to the Staff of the Daviville Orthopaedic Hospital.

ROYAL FLYING CORPS COURSES OF STUDY

Have Quarters at Burwash, Wycliffe,
Hart House and S.P.S. Building

Yesterday a representative of THE VARSITY called on the high officials of the Royal Flying Corps and was treated with the greatest of courtesy by every department, the result of which it is hoped will prove enlightening to the student body and especially so to those who have been contemplating signing up in the exceedingly interesting, exciting, and most important service.

Major Cruickshanks is at present the O.C. of the Royal Flying Corps, and his office is situated in the North Residence of Burwash Hall. The Corps have their quarters in different parts of the University, namely Burwash, Wycliffe, Hart House and the S.P.S. Building.

A great percentage of the men in the Royal Flying Corps it was stated are Varsity men. Many come from the O.S.T.C. into the Flying Corps. The men are trained in lots of 700 in courses of about 200. At present in Toronto there are about 800 here in training.

On signing up a cadet is sent to one of the Cadet Wings at Borden, Deseronto or Camp Mohawk to learn drill and discipline or in short, to learn to be a soldier. The course here lasts for eight weeks. When this is completed they come into the city to get technical training.

The school in the S.P.S. Building and in the Hart House is one of the best equipped schools in the world, and its success corresponds. The technical instruction is under Captain Cullis. The staff of technical instruction consists of a commandant, his adjutant, chief instructor, instructors and assistant instructor. This department is one of the most important of the various departments of training in the R.F.C. Here cadets are trained for pilots and equipment officers. They are put through a six weeks' course, covering thoroughly the technical and theoretical side of air-craft. Detailed instruction is given by means of courses in aerodynamics, rigging of machines, aerial gunnery and observations, bombing, types of bombs and reconnaissance. Photography and aerial observations are an important item as it is through the airplanes that the artillery gets its range. Lectures are given in theory of flight, map reading, cross-country flying, night flying, military law. The actual lecture hours are from 9.30 to 12.30 and from 2.15 to 5.15 and of course some night study is given. Every Saturday afternoon is free. This course lasts for six weeks when a written examination is given.

At the completion of this course the cadets go to North Toronto or some other wing where they get instruction in practical flying. The whole course in Canada lasts about four and half months. When the cadet reaches England he becomes a sub-lieutenant on probation. He takes about a six weeks' course here, before having his commission confirmed and proceeding to France.

If a cadet fails to make good at the discretion of his commanding officer he reverts to mechanic. There is no direct means of entering observer service. Only men who have seen service are allowed into this course. The training for observers is taken in England.

"In the winter time the cadets are sent to Texas and this element of their training is very commendable," said the captain.

2T1 MIXED DEBATE WON BY THE WOMEN'S CLUB

Freshettes Prove Too Strong for Freshies on National Subject

Friday afternoon last was indeed most memorable in the eyes of the Women's and Mens' Debating Clubs. Professor Brown announced the subject for debate: "Resolved that complete reciprocity with U.S. would be beneficial to Canada."

Mr. Green, for the affirmative, arose, and in a clear voice broke the silence. First he read the statutes showing that England was not opposed to Canada having reciprocity and showed how reciprocity in former times benefited Canada and how Canada objected to its repeal. Many points were added and frequently backed by historical extracts. Mr. Green's speech met with hearty applause.

"Canada's objection to the repeal was quite natural," said Miss Walker, for the negative, "but at the same time the U.S. was draining Canada of her resources. At that time Canada was dependent on the U.S. owing to transportation, but now Britain gives us preference; we have good Atlantic transportation. She needs our goods and we should give them to her, not to the United States."

"Canada protects her manufacturers with a tariff and reciprocity would be at the expense of the manufacturer and not worth the loss."

Mr. Stewart arose at a critical moment and struck forcibly. "My worthy opponent said reciprocity would be at expense of the manufacturer and not worth the loss. Why should we cater to such a minority? Why the same machine that Massey Harris sells for $75 in U.S. costs the Canadian $140. Besides, President Wilson says, 'there is hardly a tariff that hasn't been passed through the influence of manufacturers.'"—Applause.

Miss Spears (negative) spent little time on rebuttal, but launched straight ahead. "Canada at the present day," said she, "can't begin to compete with the U.S.; then how could she with reciprocity in?" besides it would mean a complete waste of our railways."

Prof. Dale first congratulated the clubs on their work and next on choice of subjects, saying that they mixed up university people in politics with a clear frame of mind. The decision was awarded to the Women's Club (negative) on the ground that the men laid too much stress on economic conditions and not enough on political and national. One consolation, however, is that the winners have to give the losers a social evening.

STUDENTS' ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL HELD MEETING

Regarding Question of U.C. and Medical Representation.

Recently certain students of University College and the Faculty of Medicine which represent their respective college and faculty on the Students' Administrative Council met to decide upon resolutions to be made to the Council when it next meets. The question of representation was discussed. The Medical representatives decided to stay by their present method of representation; the University College men, however, resolved on a recommendation to be made to the next meeting of the Council, if it is possible and plausible, they wished that the presidents of the different years be elected in the second week of February of each year, and that these men automatically become members of the Students' Administrative Council. Such was the substance of the recommendation as drawn up.

Gunner Roger Allan Macdonald of Stratford has been invalided to Canada. He was seriously wounded in May 1917, while serving with the Canadian Field Artillery.

Capt. H. E. Clutterbuck, M.D., C.M. (T) 1900, and a member of the Staff, has also returned to Canada. He was one of the few Canadians to reach France in the Fall of 1914.

Rev. Dr. R. J. Renison, B.A., '96, and rector of the Church of Ascension, Hamilton, is leaving immediately for overseas as chaplain. He preached his farewell sermon on Sunday.

VARSLITY STAFF DINNER.

An effort is being made to hold a Varsity Staff Dinner. A notice will appear in Friday's issue which will state whether or not it is possible to hold the Dinner this year.

ALUMNI OF COLUMBIA HEAR CAPT. H. WILLIAMS

A Former Member of History
Dept. Here Talks on Military Training

"Varsity students will be interested to read a report from the Columbia Spectator, of a speech which Captain Hodder Williams, a former member of the History Department, made to the Alumni of Columbia University.

"Students in the College will be required to take military training next year," said Captain Hodder Williams to an enthusiastic gathering of Alumni, after they had dined last evening in the Commons, celebrating Alumni Day. This statement was greeted with warm applause. The leader of the Columbia University Corps then explained that past efforts along military training lines had been in the experimental stage, but that now it was the unanimous opinion of those in touch with the situation, that required military training is the best system. That the gathered alumni regard this as the happiest solution of a vexing problem was evidenced by their cordial welcome to Captain Hodder Williams' remarks.

"It is abolutely necessary from the officers' point of view not to curtail athletics. Athletics are going to back military training and military training is going to back athletics."

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN THE FIELD

Major George A. Cline, D.S.O., has returned to England from France, and is at present in command of a Canadian Signalling Base there. Major Cline graduated from Victoria College in 1909, taking his M.A. degree in 1910, and attending the Faculty of Education during the session 1910 to 1911. He was a member of the Staff, when he joined the overseas forces as a captain in the Divisional Signallers. Besides winning the D.S.O., he has been decorated with the Legion of Honour, Croix de Chevalier, and was mentioned in Haig's despatches of January 1st.

Capt. Howard K. Harris.

Captain Howard K. Harris of Toronto was killed in action on February 22nd, while inspecting an advanced German post. Captain Harris went overseas in April 1915, and was granted his commission in the Essex Regiment. In February, 1917, just a year ago, he was promoted captain, and the following April won the Military Cross for carrying out a successful raid on the enemy line. Captain Harris was a graduate of University College 1909.

Missing.

Lieut. David Alexander Robinson Applied Science, 1918, of Leamington, is reported missing. He was given his commission with the 99th Battalion, but was transferred to a first division battalion on going to France.

Word has been received that Captain W. R. W. Haight, is has left Germany and was crossing Holland to England. Capt. Haight was taken prisoner while serving as M.O. with the 4th C.M.R. in June, 1918. He is an M.B. of 1911.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION

In order to meet the requirement respecting military or physical instruction a male student must attend at least 80 per cent. of the classes. Failure to reach this standard will mean the repetition of the work in the next session of attendance and will count as a condition. A student of the final year who fails to meet the requirement will not be admitted to his degree until he has complied with the regulation.

THE REGISTRAR.

WOMEN'S CONFERENCE HELD AT VICTORIA

Many Vital Questions Discussed by Eminent Speakers

Miss Allen Gave Vivid Analysis of Scope of Missionary Work

Missionary Service.

On Sunday afternoon a group of intensely interested women assembled to hear the address by Miss Allen on the subject "Missions."

Miss Allen presented a vivid analysis of the scope of missionary service in Japan, her chosen field. The factory problem in Japan where sixty per cent. of the operators are girls in their teens, working under most unfavorable conditions, offers great opportunities for missionary workers.

The educational situation is of vital importance. It is not to be disputed that in point of education the Japanese woman is much inferior to the Japanese man. The great problem of providing opportunities for women to fit themselves for their duties as wives and mothers, for other work must be coped with. Though the branches of missionary service are many, the aspirant must hold firmly before her the earnest desire to promote Christianity.

Miss Allen utterly dispelled any vision that the undergraduate mind might have conceived of a missionary as a female forever preaching.

This meeting closed the series of brilliant addresses on vocational opportunities.

Social Service.

On Saturday afternoon the Conference discussed the subject of social service in many of its aspects. Mr. A. H. Burnett Secretary of the Public Service Division of the Public Health Department of Toronto, introduced the subject. The social service worker must be in earnest, sympathetic, responsible human being, one who is extremely well-informed; preferably one who has been trained specifically for this work.

Mr. Burnett spoke of the charity worker. The visitor who enters the family that is the disheartened victim of adverse circumstances and by tact, finds her way to the central problem of that home, and with skill born knowledge helps that family to rehabilitate itself.

There is also the vastly important work of child welfare, carried on through the playgrounds and recreation centres.

Through the workers in our juvenile courts; through the big sisters; through the important work of the placing of orphan children and foundlings in suitable homes and in many other ways, social service is filling a large place in the life of our cities.

Mr. Burnett's final advice to the undergraduate who contemplates entering social service work is to specialize in either Philosophy or Economics while in college or, better still to take her B.A. in Philosophy and her M.A. or Ph.D. in Economics and then, to supplement that with a special course of training such as is provided by the University in its Social Service Department.

Medical Social Service.

Miss Julia Heyl gave an interesting account of the development of medical social service, and of the opportunities that it offers to college women. Medical Social Service started in Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, fourteen years ago. The work was so broad that need soon arose for specialization, e.g., in children's work, in work with heart cases, with tubercular patients and with those who are the victims of accidents.

Miss Heyl dwelt on the necessity of a broad educational foundation for medical social work. Economic knowledge is indispensable. The Medical Service worker must also understand industry and business from the standpoint of the employer. Psychology is also most valuable to the worker and will help her to understand many a patient and to assist in bringing about really permanent cures. She must be prepared also to bring needy patients in touch with local agencies of relief.

To prepare women for this work the Y.W.C.A. has organized training schools and courses. The Association in Canada has planned a short course which has already been held in Toronto, when

A CALL TO NATIONAL SERVICE

By the end of April most University students will have departed for their homes. Until that time their attention will be directed principally to preparation for examinations. When these are over the question will arise, how to spend the summer vacation? Doubtless all have decided to make the summer one of work, but the question, "What kind of work?" may remain open.

At this stage of the war, the situation in Canada is briefly this—we are manufacturing sufficient munitions; the men needed for the army are being obtained, in short the only place where there is a deficiency is in the production of foodstuffs. Every effort is being made to remedy this situation, as it is realized that a plentiful supply of foodstuffs may well prove to be the final factor in the victory of the Allied forces.

The latest development is that the Federal Government has decided to take a National Inventory of the possible labour supply of the Dominion. This inventory will contain information showing the work in which each person is engaged, and, with this information, every effort will be made to divert a sufficient labour supply to those industries and occupations which at present are under-manned. It can be almost taken for granted that the real purpose of this inventory is to put more men on the farms. This diversion will be carried on under the voluntary system, and herein arises an opportunity for students who are at the University to do national service work. Students who live in the country districts will have no difficulty in solving the problem which is presented. But students who reside in the cities and towns may hesitate. They hear that farmers are hard to please; that insufficient return is given, and that the work is hard. There is a considerable amount of truth in the foregoing statements, but in the face of these hindrances some hundreds of University women students went out on the farms last year and did noble service. Theirs is an example which no doubt many men will follow this year, and thus receive personal benefit and above all relieve the necessities of the country.

NECESSITY

Necessity is the mother of invention and how often not only of invention but inspiration, ambition and hard work. There are many people in this world who never developed the talents bestowed upon them by Providence until they were forced to make a livelihood by some manner or means. Then, and not till then, did they realize the gifts they had.

Too often one sees people with high social position and abundant finances leading a rather aimless and useless life, and how often we have said to ourselves: "If only I were in their place; how successful I should be." And yet, suppose you were in their position, most likely you would lead the same kind of life. The man who makes good is the man who makes use of the opportunities presented to him and does not waste time wishing he were someone else.

The opportunities which are presented to us daily will be grasped if necessity urges us, but if there is no particular reason why we should take advantage of what is presented we are apt to wait, "for something better", as we say; but really because we are too disinterested to trouble ourselves.

Nearly everyone knows of some person who has been bereft suddenly, perhaps by death, more often in these days by failure, of strong social and pecuniary supports. This person has been left without any profession or means of making a livelihood and too often sinks from our view because we do not feel their friendship worth while. Then suddenly we hear of some successful adventure they have made and we realize that necessity was only the necessary weapon to awaken latent talents in them.

In our University life do we not find that until necessity forces us we do not make full use of our opportunities? How often we hear a graduate say, "I do wish I had done such and such a thing while I was at College"; or perhaps they are sorry for the opportunities they had missed by neglecting to attend the meetings of the various societies of the University. For the women of this University there are many societies which offer great opportunities to the undergraduate and why should we wait for necessity to force us to take advantage of them. Much more will be gained if we start out right, get acquainted with the aims of the societies and take advantage of what they have to offer than if we wait until it is too late and sorrowfully realize what we have missed.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Rebel, in the course of a short editorial dedicated to THE VARSITY says:

"We have all read of the scornful-seeming knight of old time, who yet, when the young knight might answer a challenge to his honour, threw down his own glove beside that of his brother."

"The Rebel, having retrieved its gage, is glad in the support of its elder college contemporary."

tion a few, are Sir Sidney Lee, and Israel Zangwill. "The great reformer Zangwill is a very remarkable man. He has done more to give the English-speaking people a knowledge of the Jew than any other writer. He is one of those great reformers of note. His theory is that the Jew will centralize the whole race for humanity, whereas my view is that the English, and particularly we in Canada are the best people to be the solvent for Anglo-Saxon."

Nomination of Officers.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Miss B. B. Enshensky and seconded by Mr. J. Markus, in appreciation of Prof. Keys' splendid lecture. Nominations of officers were then held. A large percentage were elected by acclamation. The following are the results:

Hon. President—Sir Robert Falconer.
Hon. Vice-President—Prof. W. R. Taylor, M.A., Ph.D.

President—S. Eisen '18.

1st Vice-President—Charles Rotenberg, '19; H. Gorsook '21.

2nd Vice-President—Miss Bessie B. Enshensky '20.

General Secretary—Alec Greenbaum '19.

Recording Secretary—Miss Lilian C. Smith '20.

Treasurer—Frank A. Silverman '20; H. Borsook

REPRESENTATIVES:

Meds.—Miss M. Wladowski '21 and L. Jessel '22.

Dents.—T. L. Granovsky '21.

Arts (two to be elected) Harry Godolph '19; H. Borsook, Misses Mattie Levi, '21, C. Sereth, '21, R. L. Smilovitz, '21.

Intercollegiate Menorah Association—Miss Rae Levinsky.

The elections will be held on March 11 at the University "Y", where Prof. J. Gibson Hume, M.A., Ph.D., Head of the Department of Philosophy will address the Society.

Appreciation of Univ. "Y"

The Society unanimously expressed its appreciation of and indebtedness to the University Y.M.C.A. for permitting them to hold their meetings in the "Y" for the past year free of charge.

lectures at the Department of Social Service of the University of Toronto formed part of the required work of the course.

Next fall a somewhat similar course will be given in Montreal, when only twelve students will be received, owing to the expense involved in providing the practical work required.

The possibility of enlarged opportunities for co-operation between the Social Service Department of our University and the Y.W.C.A. was developed in the course of the general discussion which followed the three addresses.

Work With the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Lane, City Secretary for the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A., followed with a very interesting résumé of the field of secretarial work with the Young Women's Christian Association of Canada; Of these, sixteen out of thirty have general secretaries and physical directors, and four or five have several secretaries for different departments.

There are some specific openings along these lines at the present moment and one or two general secretaries are needed, as well as one or two "teen age" workers.

A general secretary should be a representative woman of strong personality and good educational background. She must know her community, she must know conditions of work and pay; she must understand the problems of both employer and employee. She must have initiative and

A GREAT CANADIAN WAR BOOK

The Varsity Magazine Supplement, the third of the series, has been issued in a splendor of typography and illustration worthy of the noble record which it enshrines. Every Canadian who peruses it must thrill with patriotic pride, and every member of the University of Toronto must feel bound to his Alma Mater by new ties of affection and gratitude. The faces of over three hundred of her sons who have made the great sacrifice look out from these pages; lives that were cut off in the fulness of promise, before their noonday. From such heroic examples Canadians should be inspired by a fresh concentration to the claims and tasks of the war.

The Editor's preface tells us there have been four thousand three hundred enlistments from the University of Toronto, graduates and undergraduates. They are fighting and serving in all the theatres of war where the British flag flies, even in far-off Mesopotamia. The present Supplement contains the photographs of one thousand three hundred and forty-four now on active service. These are supplementary to the two thousand and seventy-two photographs appearing in previous editions. The monumental labor, a labor of love, involved in the collection, engraving, and printing of this precious gallery of portraits is only one feature of the Supplement contains a number of well-written and beautifully-illustrated articles from noted contributors, among whom are the President of the University and the heads of the affiliated Colleges. This vivid, moving, and comprehensive record of war activities has the permanent material of history. From November, 1914 to December 1917, three hundred and forty-six members of the University died on active service. Their names have been inscribed on the Roll of Honour, which will be an imperishable memory and the most glorious tradition of their Alma Mater.

JR. MEDS (1) OVERWHELM ST. MIKE'S AT CEN. "Y"

Basketball Game Was Very Fast and Resulted in a Score of 28-16

On Saturday afternoon at the Central "Y", Jr. Meds (1) met and defeated St. Mike's by a score of 28-16, which placed them as winners of their group.

The game was very fast and intensely interesting from the blow of the whistle to the end of the game. The Meds were in strong numbers, to encourage their team which has made a splendid showing this season, and the "Epistaxis" yell was all times audible over the whole building.

The first half was probably the best exhibition of basketball this season. The Meds showed a terrific burst of speed and plenty of combination, which gave them almost the decision of the game, the score being 17-6.

The second half was a more defensive game for Jr. Meds, while the light and dark blue continually endeavoured to rally, but all in vain, the Meds being too strong.

There is no doubt that Urquhart was the star of the game, scoring most of Meds' points and always directing the play. He used a whole lot of grey matter, which no doubt was the winning factor.

Of the forwards, Kilgour and Dickson played an effective game, showing a great amount of speed and basketball ability.

On the defence, Markowitz and Ireland were very steady in holding their men from notching the sphere.

For St. Mike's G. and B. Carroll were the mainstay of the team. They checked, shot and used speed to a great advantage.

McPeak was also of great assistance to the Carrolls.

Jr. Meds (1) is no doubt the shining star in the series and it will take a great aggression to defeat them. Don't forget, Meds turn out in full force for the honour of your faculty. Semi-finals will be notified later.

Jr. Meds (1)—Kilgour, Dickson, Urquhart, Markowitz, Ireland.

St. Mike's—B. Carroll, W. Carroll, McPeak, O'Shaughnessy, Martin.

KNOX CELEBRATED FAREWELL NIGHT

Feasts, Fights and Marriages were Order of the Day

Last Tuesday evening Knox College held its farewell night. In fact everyone fared well and the evening will certainly live in the minds of each fellow for years—especially in the anatomy of those who over-ate. Promptly at 10 o'clock the cow-bell sounded from the depths of one of the famous hayseed bandmasters and soon over 100 fellows, all costumed, met in the rotunda. Cooks, niggers, 'lydies', prize-fighters, cow-punchers, hoboes, etc., then marched down led by the hay-seeders band struggling bravely to play Tipperary. Scandal was caused on the way down by Bridget Stewart's skirt coming unfashioned. Several of the gentlemen, Hezkel Thompson in particular, lent helping hands. After everyone had assembled in the gym, Sir Anthony de Trollip Stone as marshal, announced the cock and paper fights, betting was high and some interesting bouts were on hand. At this point scandal was devoted upon Miss Theda Bara Osborne, and Count-Me-Out Gowan, who were caressing in a corner. The next number on the program was a boxing bout between "Pop Mammy Stewart" and Cap. Columbus Cook, the social question was aired and although the popular navigator was supposed to have the better of the argument, the decision was a tie.

A wrestling bout between Jess Willard Graham and 'Pete' Forin proved very exciting. Pete bit Graham in the gymnasium and the bout was stopped. Cyrus Monteith and Kate Byers have quite fallen in love by now, and have decided to take lessons from "Red" Duncan. A tug-of-war between the four houses proved unusually exciting. Centre House eventually winning out. Bill Geddes as Charlie Chaplin proved very funny, he is so light on his feet, but very heavy on anyone else's. Louis Stewart, Silverthorn Wilkinson and Michal Skene contributed dog and ballet dances to the performances. At this juncture Parson Gloribee Boles, assisted by Rabbi Rabid Lillio united in the holy bunk of matrimony, Miss Bee Cummings, only daughter of Alexander Tufford, to Willie Chaser Waghorne, eldest son of Mr. Hee Hazz Nunn.

At this point "Jimmie" Hale began to get hungry and the gathering

KITCHENER AND DENTALS TIED GAME

In the First of the O.H.A. Finals — Score Four All

In the first of the O.H.A. finals, Kitchener held Dentals to a tie, four all, at the Arena last night. The game was exceedingly fast and was a great exhibition of our national winter pastime.

First Period.
Kitchener led off with a rush and in less than a minute Parkes scored; the Dentals retaliated and Smille scored in four minutes. Dents were now playing four men, the goalie being off and G. Stewart. The play was now lagging and it was not till eleven minutes after that Hiller scored. Laflamme, on an individual rush, made the score two all.

Second Period.
Dentals scoring was not done until Milani bulged the twice after 18 minutes play.

Third Period.
The play was fast and furious and in a mix-up before the Kitchener goal, Hainsworth for laying down, was sent off. Without the goalie, J. Stewart scored in six minutes. Karges evened it up in two minutes. Dentals also scored another and Kitchener came back with a tying goal in a minute and half to go.

Kitchener—Hainsworth, Trushinski, Karges, Hiller, Parkes, Solomon, Geroux.
Dentals—C. Stewart, Sheldon, Milani, Laflamme, Smille, J. Stewart, Rennie, Oleson.

marched up to the dining hall, where Pete Parker began eating before grace had been said. In the dining room a musical program had been arranged. The first number on the program, "Melody in Coal Minor" was rendered by Aubrey Purcell, when oyster soup was served. Apples, cake, ice cream and coffee completed the menu and then Sarah Cleopatra Eagles, and Mother Hubbard Kemp and Six Cylinder McLaughlin inflicted piano solos upon the ladies and gentlemen, and Lord Durham Graham, who became quite noisy toward the end of the evening, so much so that he went outside and sang to the stars. Miss Phyllis Neilson then charmed the audience with several songs and a dance, and received great applause and a bouquet. One minute speeches were called for and several of the more or less rough-necks, including P.C. Wylie, responded. It was expected that a marriage ceremony would be held between Cp. Cook and Winsome Mary, but owing to the absence of the bride, the affair was cancelled. Our genial friend "Scotty" gave a neat little address and received great applause. Reverend Michal Skene emitted a solo and was rewarded with great applause and a fern. At this point it was feared that Mr. Graham would have to be ejected from the ball, but he soon quieted down.

During the evening a flash-light photo of the lunch was taken and faculty yells were given and after a toast to old Knox, the party ended with the singing of the "Knox Doxology". The men then wended their way to the different houses, but the rampant spirit and carousing ended not until nearly dawn. During the evening over a dozen rooms were "set up" much to the owner's disgust, who had to chase all over the college for parts of their beds. Some of the men aren't going to straighten up their rooms, if they want a collar, etc., they will just pick through the pile till they come to one. However, it certainly was a grand night, in fact it has inspired us to poetry.

The alarm clock tolls the knell of coming day.
The tired bunch wind slowly up to bed,
The masquerader homeward plods his way,
And leaves for me a head-ache in my head.—(With apologies to Gray).

Captain Hodder Williams spoke more hopefully of Camp Columbia. "Out of fifty eight men at Camp Columbia last year", he said, "thirty-five have already entered the ranks. In other words we delivered the goods. This year we are going to do something bigger. We have worked out a scheme to give a nine weeks' officers' training course. We will accommodate 150 to 160. Funds will be required for the equipment of which four thousand dollars has already been subscribed."

The Spectator comments editorially as follows:

"Presenting a strong contrast with the spirit of Captain Hodder Williams' announcement at the Alumni Dinner Tuesday evening, word comes from Princeton that professional coaching is to cease at that university with the end of the present term. Captain Hodder Williams, statement that embodies the attitude with which Columbia is approaching similar questions was: "It is absolutely necessary from the soldiers' point of view not to curtail athletics. Athletics are going to back military training and military training is going to back athletics."

BROME LAKE CONFERENCE

Last year at the first Eastern Canadian Student Conference at Knowlton, Toronto University was represented by the largest delegation present. On stunt night, Toronto University also put on one of the best stunts ever seen at any conference on the North American continent in the shape of a minstrel show, including the famous "Mose and Sambo."

A poster with a few snapshots, and some information is on all bulletin boards. Consult this and also watch for a special pamphlet.

You should be at Brome Lake to hear the best men and to mix with the best students of other Canadian universities. Among the leaders expected are Dr. John R. Mott, Fletcher Brockman, Dr. J. Douglas Adam, Dr. Chang Po Ling, Capt. Rev. John MacNeil and many others. Make your plans now. Reserve this date. June 20-27.

VIC. SENIOR RECEPTION.

A war-time graduation reception has been planned for the Class of '18 Victoria. It will be held on Friday evening, March 1st at 7.30 in the College. Some very clever work has been done by the class historians and prophets, and an excellent program has been arranged. On this occasion winners of "V's" will receive their reward. It is anticipated that many of Victoria's veteran warriors, who have returned to Canada, will honour the Alma Mater with their presence. To crown the other attractions the University Orchestra has consented to provide the music, which means the hearts of the promenaders will simply be entranced.

A lady's bracelet watch must be more than an ornament—it must always tell the right time. Ryrie watches are dependable, durable and truthful. We've made it our business to see to that.

A good bracelet watch cannot be bought for a "song." The modern wrist watch is so small and dainty that it must be made right to go right.

For that reason we recommend our best ladies' gold bracelet watch, made right from the smallest screw in the movement to the springs in the bracelet. We call it our "Countess" movement, and in 14 kt. the price is $72.00.

Come in and try it on—you won't regret the price in the years to come.

MACISTE
The hero of Gabiria, in "THE WARRIOR."

Seven breathless reels of comedy, war and hair-raising thrills and spectacular action. The play duplicates the actual experience through which the Herculean Italian passed through at the outbreak of hostilities in Italy. The uprooting of a tree, the scaling of dizzy heights and crossing the yawning chasms is a matter of little moment to the Italian giant. See how he releases a band of his compatriots from an Austrian internment camp, and he overpowers two Austrian officers. With it all he possesses a smile, which for dazzling happiness and good nature is all his own.

The performance in the Winter Garden is the same as in Loew's Theatre.

Applied Science

The Engineering Society of the U. of T. is holding their 28th Annual Dinner at the Carls-Rite Hotel on Thursday, February 28. Mr. C. E. Macdonald is president and Mr. J. J. Weicker secretary of the society.

The Superintendents of the Provincial Highways, instead of holding their session at the Parliament Buildings, have been meeting in the Mining Building for discussion on practical road-building. Mr. W. A. McLean, in his official capacity, as deputy minister of highways has presided over the meetings.

Teachers are being trained in mechanical drafting, practical road-building, bed-side work, clay-modelling, etc., that they may fit themselves to instruct returned men along these lines.

Mr. Banting and Mr. Dyer are acting as instructors in mine surveying and assaying to a small number of veterans, who before the war had been practical miners.

Lieut. C. E. Gage of football fame, who is with the Railway Construction Batt. has cabled from Liverpool that he is on his way to our fair Queen City.

Knox

Another first year chemist at the School has displayed his chemistry for meeting emergencies. Hearing shrieks from a soph at work (?) in the Lab. on Monday, the Curator of the Chemical Club sped nobly to the rescue. Although confronted by a sea of flames he hesitated not, an instant. Aply assisted by members of the staff, he dragged the unfortunate soph to safety, and then plunged into the raging fire.

One could catch a glimpse of him for an instant, as the flames parted, struggling under the weight of a fire extinguisher, and cleverly directing its stream. His efforts were rewarded, however, for the blaze was finally overcome, and the fire extinguisher placed out on the window ledge to run down. He is now suffering from shock, but his physician assures us there is no danger of him contracting a swelled head.

It is said that a burning desire for knowledge on the part of the aforementioned soph was responsible for the conflagration. No lives were lost.

Wycliffe

Saturday morning last at 12.30 the Wycliffe College Chapter of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew held its regular meeting. The Director, Mr. Hugh Dickenson, opened the proceedings, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read. The speaker, Mr. Evelyn Macrae, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in Canada, was then introduced. His subject was, "Ideals and Future Hopes of the Brotherhood." A resume of his remarks is given here.

Since the beginning of the war the Brotherhood had met with many difficulties. One of these was the weakness, nominally, caused by enlistments. Of the 2,000 members in Canada, 70 per cent. had enlisted. Whole chapters were completely wiped out. One at Winnipeg of eighteen members had lost every member through the war. When it was found that 65 per cent. of the men at Exhibition Camp, Toronto, in the winter of 1915-16 were Anglicans, it was decided to direct the work towards their benefit. From the profits of the canteen, amounting to $20,000, entertainments were provided and one band equipped with instruments. Bible classes and services were held nightly.

Through the work of the Brotherhood large numbers of men were brought to Christ. Many who had never before cared for the Church, when they saw these men so zealously working in their welfare, had it brought very near to them. In leaving many soldiers desired that the prayers of the Brotherhood should go with them. The soldiers saw that the organization was worthy of their support, that it was a worthy representative of their Master.

In 1916 a working committee of four was appointed to keep in touch with the work in Canada. At a meeting of this committee, the General Council was urged to continue the work, that the Brotherhood was needed. It was found that the clergy had to be depended on for the support of the Chapters. When the minister encouraged the laymen in their work, then the Chapter was a success. When the minister showed himself cold towards them, there it was a failure. And, said Mr. Macrae, as the Brotherhood has failed in the past at times, due to this one condition, so it will fail in the future, if this is not complied with.

A hearty vote of thanks, moved by

178 GRADUATING DINNER

All details in connection with the dinner of the Fourth Year on Saturday, March 2nd at 7.30 p.m. to be held at Westminster Hotel, Jarvis Street, just below Carlton, have been completed. Nearly 100 members of the class have received tickets or signified their intention of doing so.

Through the kindness of Mr. J. Brodie, editor of Torontoensis, a novel form of place cards has been made possible. Several other pleasant surprises are also in store. Members of the class are urged to be punctual on Saturday evening so that the time allowed the guests may not be curtailed and that ample justice may be done to the excellent menu provided.

Mr. Lea and seconded by Mr. Gibson, was then tendered to the speaker for his kindness in informing the men of Wycliffe College of the work of the Brotherhood and of making them alive to the situation.

SIR ROBT. FALCONER AT UNIV. OF PENN.

Delivers Scholarly Address at the Quaker City

Awarded Degree of LL.D.

Subject: "A Distinctive Feature of English Speaking Universities Suggested by Washington"

The Daily Pennsylvanian reports the speech with the President delivered on the occasion of "University Day" at the University of Pennsylvania last week as follows:

"Before a capacity audience in the Academy of Music, Sir Robert A. Falconer, LL.D., Litt.D., president of the University of Toronto, yesterday delivered a learned oration on educational features and needs, as the principal address of the University Day exercises. Particularly appropriate, considering that University Day is also Washington's Birthday, was Sir Robert's address, 'A Distinctive Feature of the English-Speaking University Suggested by George Washington.' The noted Canadian educator's praise of Washington and the cause he fought for was unstinted. Dr. Falconer said: 'If the universities of Oxford and Cambridge had, in the eighteenth century, been imbued with these liberal ideas of education, which Washington advocated for the future American universities there would have been no need for the American Revolution.'"

"The speaker showed how the colleges and universities of England and America formerly bred a spirit of aristocracy. Then the dividing line between the classes of society was knowledge of Latin and Greek. George Washington instituted the practical democratic spirit of education; that which tolerates Science and liberal studies as well as Arts, and in which character, not Kultur or veneer, is acquired."

"The learned doctor voiced a warning, however, in which he said that technique and specialization of the professions is now being emphasized to the neglect of the development of real professional character. Admitting that, because of the size of our universities, this problem is a hard one to solve, Sir Robert claimed that the solution lies in the development of a set of educators composed wholly of 'big men,' who will mould the characters as well as the educations of the men whom they instruct."

"Sir Robert Falconer was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws as an honour from the University, because, as the Provost said, of his 'splendid success as an investigator, wise administration of the University of Toronto, and steady devotion to justice and right.'"

THE WESTERN UNIVERSITY OFFERS SUMMER COURSE

To Help Teachers Attain their degree.

The Western University is this summer offering a course to teachers desiring to comply with the new regulations that an Ambitions Department of Education has decreed, i.e., all teachers in high schools must have a B.A. degree. At present one quarter of the high schools in Western Ontario are without the Bachelor's degree and in order to permanently occupy their positions they must take this degree. Eighty per cent. of the continuation school teachers would be unable to qualify as high school teachers under this regulation and many of these will look to the summer course to improve their academic standing. In addition, many public school teachers are gradually working towards a degree while still teaching.

The conditions for Entrance will be the regular University matriculation. Courses will be in most departments.

VARSITY STAFF DINNER.

The Varsity Staff Dinner will be held on Monday evening March 4th at 6.30 p.m. sharp at the Diet Kitchen, 72 Bloor St. West. All members of the Staff are cordially invited to attend.

ROLL OF SERVICE.

It is proposed to issue later in the year a supplement to the Roll of Service giving all enlistments since August 16th, 1917. It is important that this list should be as complete and accurate as possible. Any member of the University who goes on Active Service during the later part of this session or the long vacation is asked to notify the Editor of the Roll, either personally in his office or by letter, giving academic standing, military unit, home address and next of kin.

PRISONERS OF WAR SOCIETY APPEALS TO ONTARIO CHURCHES

During Month of December—Lives of Many Prisoners in Germany Depends on Our Generosity

In the month of December the Prisoners of War Society, of which Principal Hutton, University College, is President, sent out to the churches of Ontario over two thousand circulars appealing for help in the great and necessary work of succoring the Allied prisoners of war, who by hundreds of thousands are suffering semi-starvation in the prison camps of Germany.

The generosity of the Canadian public enables the Red Cross to provide ample supplementary food supplies for the few thousand Canadian prisoners of war. Britain's forty thousand are also admirably cared for, but the four hundred thousand French and the great mass of Italians, Serbs and Belgians, are in a sad plight. The very lives of many of them depend on the rations sent to Germany from lands which still have food to spare. An adequate bread ration can be supplied for about two dollars per month, the bread being made in Switzerland and despatched to the prison camps by the Benne Bureau de Secours.

An appeal such as the Prisoners of War Society has made, cannot be ignored if we as a people are to prove worthy of the great spirited sons of Canada, who are offering their lives in the cause of freedom. Yet in the two months' since the Society's appeal was sent out to over two thousand Ontario churches, somewhat less than a hundred have responded, and the total of subscription received, including those from individuals, not quite $3,000.

Shall it be said of Ontario, which has been wonderfully generous in caring for the wounded, and the refugees, and the widows and orphans, and the dependents of men at the front, that an appeal for the prisoners of war, whose need is urgent, fall upon deaf ears? Surely there are tens of thousands of Ontario folk who can give from their abundance something for a cause so worthy. The Honorary Assistant Treasurer is Hugh Fletcher, 532 Huron Street, Toronto.

The above appeal should touch the students of Toronto University, as the plight of the prisoners of war is indeed a sorry one. A great good can be done by the students, who are unable to contribute themselves, when they return home for the holidays by promoting interest in the Prisoners of War Society and encouraging friends to help this great cause.

"VARSITY" STAFF DINNER

Better late than never! THE VARSITY Staff is to hold its annual Dinner on Monday evening next at 6.30 at the Diet Kitchen, 72 Bloor Street West. Every member of the Staff is asked to be present and those who can come are asked to have word to this effect at THE VARSITY office. Dinner will be over in time to study. Come and bring the year to a successful close.

The Rebel, Take Notice.

Seniors at the University of Illinois are now drawing up a petition to the effect that all Seniors who have made a "B" or higher in a course should not have to take an exam. Their hesitation was removed by the news that the University of Kansas recently granted that privilege.

SOLDIERS' RE-EDUCATION IS DR. BOTT'S SUBJECT

Outlines Course of Training for Civilian Life After War

The Re-education of Returned Soldiers, one of Canada's most vital problems to-day, was the subject of a talk by Dr. Bott to the Victoria Women's Association last Wednesday afternoon. The work among the returned soldiers is of two kinds, said the speaker, that of functional re-education which is purely curative, and that of vocational re-education. England and especially France, have been carrying on this work with great vigour. Canada has taken up the problem too, although to a lesser extent, and there are many places now where returned soldiers are cured or re-educated.

The soldiers' cure is either active or passive—that is he may help to cure himself by certain exercises, or he may undergo therapeutic treatments. "At Hart House," said Dr. Bott, "the soldier is cured by exercises, which are especially suited to restore the injured part to its normal state. In England, this is done chiefly in workshops, where a man with a stiff arm sews or hammers; but here the more direct method of physical exercises for the part affected, is employed. These exercises are simple enough to allow the soldier to practise them out of hours, and he is measured at certain periods, so that he may see how much he has benefited by the treatment. Co-operative work is also employed in the form of games, which are much enjoyed by the men. Soldiers with stiff legs, they dance the one-step. Dr. Bott also dealt with amputation cases and told of the wonderful appliances that may be fitted on to the stump so that the soldier can exercise the limb and prevent the loss of its use."

Before Dr. Bott spoke, Miss Vera Sparling, President of the Women's Students' Council talked of the various college societies and their activities, and Miss Edith Sheridan gave the audience a glimpse of her experience at the Students' Missionary Conference, recently held at Northfield. The meeting at Annesley Hall was well attended, and was much enjoyed by all.

RADICAL ELECTION CHANGE TO BE DISCUSSED AT CLASS MEET

Final Class Party of Third Year
U.C. at Women's Union
Next Wednesday

At the next and last third year U.C. class party to be held Wednesday evening, March 6th at 83 St. George Street, the question of electing the class executive for the following year in the Spring, as is now the custom in Science and Medicine. This change has been strongly recommended. Instead of waiting till a month or more of the Fall term has elapsed, before the executive has been elected, they would be ready to start work at the first of the term and perfect their organization much sooner than formerly. In addition it has been recommended that the President of the year automatically become a member of the Students' Administrative Council, instead, as formerly, of the year having a representative not in the class executive. If this be done it is preferable to have the election in the Spring.

It is anticipated there will be an extra large attendance at this meeting because if the decision of the class is to hold the election this Spring the nominations for the executive for 1918 will be held at the meeting and the elections a week later. Secondly, as it is the last meeting of the School year the executive are making great efforts to make the evening specially enjoyable.

APPLICATIONS FOR GEN. SEC. TREAS. OF S. A. COUNCIL

Applications for the position of General Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Administrative Council for the year commencing June 30, 1918, and ending June 30, 1919, will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918.

Address: COLLIER C. GRANT,
THE VARSITY OFFICE,
University of Toronto.

CARNEGIE CORPORATION HONOURS OLD Mc GILL

One Million Dollars Given as Recognition for War Work

As it was announced in the daily papers recently the Carnegie Corporation, "In recognition of the noble and devoted service and sacrifice of McGill towards Canada's part in the great war, upon which depends the rule of law among nations and the freedom not only of Canada, but of the United States and of the democracies," voted one million dollars for a special endowment fund for McGill University. The income will be applied to the uses and purposes of the University.

The resolution of the Board of Governors of the University in acceptance of this gift read as follows:

"Whereupon it was: 'Resolved that the Governors of McGill University accept with feelings of great gratitude the munificent gift of $1,000,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, and most willingly undertake that the grant shall be kept as a special endowment fund, and the income thereof applied to the uses and purposes of the University.'"

"Resolved further, that the Governors of the University express their glad and proud appreciation of the Corporation's generous recognition of the part which McGill University, in common with all universities throughout the British Empire, has been privileged to play in the Great War; and also their firm conviction that this act of large-hearted munificence by the representative body in the United States will not only prove a great stimulus and encouragement to further efforts in the great cause of freedom and right, in which that country and Canada stand united, but will also be hailed as a most generous, kindly, and neighbourly expression of those feelings of friendship and sympathy which form the strongest link in the tie that binds two kindred peoples."

QUEEN'S PRINCIPAL TO ADDRESS GRADUATION DINNER ON SAT.

Has Taken a Prominent Part in Canadian Education

Dr. Robert Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston, who is the guest of the fourth year at their graduation dinner at the Westminster Hotel Saturday evening, is a native of Glasgow and a graduate of Glasgow University. His first intention was to follow a legal career, but his mind took another turn and he entered the Glasgow College of the Free Church. After several changes in Great Britain, he came to Canada as the minister of Saint Paul's Church, Montreal. Since coming to Canada he has thrown himself unreservedly into Canadian life, and has recently identified himself with it in the most effective way by a period of service as a chaplain to our forces in France.

Dr. Taylor's achievements do not lie exclusively in the field of the Church. It was as an authority in Political Economy that he first won distinction and he at one time lectured in this subject. After entering theology, he devoted himself to the study of Orientals where he again met with great success.

Since coming to Canada, Dr. Taylor has become favourably known as a skilful yachtsman, and his marksmanship led to his services being used as musketry instructor by the military authorities in England.

Dr. Taylor comes to speak to us as a leader, a scholar and a man among men. The fourth year are to be congratulated on their success in securing him to address them at their graduation dinner.

APPLICATIONS FOR EDITOR- SHIP OF "TORONTONENSIS"

Applications will be received up until 12 noon, March 4, 1918, for the position of Editor in Torontonensis, 1919. Address: COLLIER C. GRANT, General Secretary-Treasurer, Students' Administrative Council, University of Toronto.

POLITICAL ECONOMY CLUB TO HOLD ELECTION MEETING

Next meeting of Political Economy Club will be held a week from next Wednesday, March 13th at 2.30 p.m. in Room 1, Library Building. The elections of officers for ensuing year will take place. A full meeting is requested.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION

In order to meet the requirement respecting military or physical instruction a male student must attend at least 80 per cent. of the classes. Failure to reach this standard will mean the repetition of the work in the next session of attendance and will count as a condition. A student of the final year who fails to meet the requirement will not be admitted to his degree until he has complied with the regulation.

SOCIAL SERVICE DEPT. ANNUAL LUNCHEON AT THE PEACOCK INN

Illness Prevents Dr. Cullis from Speaking—Impromptu Addresses the Order

Sudden indisposition preventing Dr. Cullis from speaking at the Social Service Alumni luncheon in the Peacock Inn last Friday, the disappointment of the many members present was mitigated by the kindness of three of the guests who gave brief addresses. Miss Bollert of Sherbourne House Club gave an account of the welfare work done in one of the great city stores. There children who have left school for an early plunge into industry are given instruction to supplement their scanty education. Older employees receive training in salesmanship and in textiles, colour and design and merchandise, this instruction being planned so that it may not only have practical value in making them more efficient, but also enhance their interest in their routine work. Welfare work in stores serves the dual purpose of making the employees more valuable to the store and of increasing the employees' individual equipment. One of the most important results is the inspirational stimulus which comes from increased zest and interest in daily work. "When you meet an indifferent, inefficient and discourteous salesperson," said Miss Bollert, "please conclude that he or she is new to the store and has not had the benefit of its training, but most of all," she added, "do remember that perhaps if customers too could be lined up and given training in the proper way to shop, store life would be easier and smoother for all concerned."

Miss Vera Parsons of Central Neighbourhood House, spoke on "The Neighbour at Our Door and We at Our Neighbour's Door." Central Neighbourhood House is in the heart of the Ward, where some of the streets are entirely Jewish, Italian or Chinese, and others a motley of all nationalities. Being an accomplished linguist, Miss Parsons possesses the key to many a lonely foreign heart and she smiled as she described the delight of the foreigner who finds that instead of using his two or three English words he can use his own voluble many.

Miss Foster of Memorial Institute spoke of neighbourhood work in the Western section of the downtown district. Particularly interesting was her description of their very active men's club. Prohibition meant the closing of twenty-one hotels and saloons in the vicinity of Memorial Institute and as these places formed the Clubs and social centres for many of the men in the district, their closing provided a great opportunity for wholesome social agencies.

These impromptu addresses were very enjoyable and the mutual good gained at these little gatherings is creating dreams of the day when Toronto will have its social workers' club house.

UNIVERSITY GRADUATES MAY NOW USE THE LIBRARY

There is a special ruling at the Library concerning the taking out of books by graduates, and of which, not many appear aware. The substance of the ruling is that on the payment of $2 a graduate may take out two books for any length of time required, without any fine being imposed, and with the increase of the deposit, a corresponding increase in books may be had. Of course these books shall not be those in general demand among the other students. Whenever the graduate has stopped taking out books, the entire deposit will then be refunded.

'VARSITY ATHLETICS STILL FLOURISHING

Inter-Faculty Events Win at Expense of Major Sports

No First "T's" Granted

Resume of Sports Shows Great Interest Evinced by All Faculties
During Season

The University academic year is drawing to a close and we seize this our last opportunity of recalling the various forms of sport which have flourished during the past year. The close of all intercollegiate sports owing to war conditions caused a greater interest to arise in interfaculty games. In all probability the abrupt ending of major sports made their loss felt and caused a great interest to be shown in the minor events. During the last two or three years this interest has been waning and as it decreases the number of our inter-faculty events is being cut down. In the past year only four series were played, namely rugby, soccer, basketball and hockey, while in 1916 nine popular branches of sport existed.

This condition is jeopardizing the University's future in athletic circles and the principle of cutting down sport in war time is creating a dangerous precedent for coming years. The idea of cutting all athletic activities is entirely wrong as it has been proved conclusively that the condition necessary for army life is most often found in the men who have been active in sports.

It is the older, not the younger men, who are drifting away from the College sport. The seniors ought to realize the imprudence of their course, as it does not show the proper spirit before the junior years. For some time men have been returning from the front to complete their courses and no doubt their numbers will increase. These men should hold the responsible positions and shape the destinies of college sport.

Tennis.

Sufficient interest was shown in tennis during the fall of 1917 to permit the holding of a tournament. This however did not take the form of an interfaculty series, but was held as a University event. The style of tennis played compared quite favourably with that of other seasons. D. Martin of Trinity was returned champion after defeating M. Rogers of U.C. the runner-up of last year.

Rugby

The rugby season got off to a fine start with many teams entered, and plenty of enthusiasm being shown. On the whole the brand of rugby was not of the same calibre as that of former years. The

FINAL FRESHMAN FROLIC TO BE HELD MARCH 19th

Election Question a Live Issue.

The final class party is set for Tuesday night, March 19th. Complete details will be posted in the rotunda, Main Building, next week.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Students' Administrative Council, the question of holding elections this term for 1918-19 will be brought before the class. If the class are in favor of it, nominations will be held on the spot, so come prepared.

More pins have been ordered and it is hoped to have these on sale at the party, for those who did not receive one or who desire additional pins.

The executive have not yet decided upon a class yell, but it is hoped to have a good one for the meeting. It is not too late to try for a 271 pin, but the yells must be handed in soon. Leave them at University post office addressed to the Secretary.

THE SIXTIETH ISSUE

With to-day's issue THE VARSITY completes its thirty-seventh volume and ceases publication for this term.

The greatest feature of this year was the granting of equal standing to the women students of the University on THE VARSITY Staff. Every facility has been accorded these lady members of the Staff; and it is not beyond the reach of imagination to say that the work which they have begun this year will be extended in years to come. They can hardly exert their full possible influence, however, until they are supported by the adoption of a compulsory fee for women students similar to that which the men pay.

It has not been the easiest task to edit THE VARSITY this year. Many college societies are dormant, ordinary activities have been at a minimum and college athletics have been greatly curtailed. Added to these handicaps was the fact that there were but few members of last year's Staff to form a nucleus for this year.

In the face of this situation too great praise cannot be expressed for the manner in which the members of the Staff have loyally stayed together "to see the thing through". This applies equally to all; but special mention might be made of those who have occupied the position of Managing Editor, and also for the men who have voluntarily sacrificed hours of leisure and time—the Local Editors. The majority of these men will, all being well, be back at the University next year; and the nucleus of an efficient Staff is accordingly assured.

In conclusion, THE VARSITY wishes to thank all others, outside of the Staff, who have in any way contributed to the publication of the paper. The assistance which Professor G. O. Smith, Editor of the Roll of Service by furnishing THE VARSITY with news concerning the men at the front, has rendered, has been especially appreciated.

"THE VARSITY" IN THE FUTURE

What of the future of THE VARSITY? The College newspaper is an essential feature of any University—it is the medium by which the various parts are brought into relation with one another. On account of this important function it is necessary that such a paper be placed on a strong financial basis, and that means be taken to maintain, at the necessary level, the efficiency of the Staff of the paper. Only when these measures are taken, can a College paper be in a position to conduct its work in the proper manner, and so command respect.

To come to THE VARSITY itself. Speaking from experience, one can only say that it would be well if THE VARSITY were on a strong financial position, and one where it would be independent of outside influences. The Students' Council already has a considerable surplus, and no doubt, as a result of the operations of this year, this surplus will be increased. This move is one in the right direction, and one which should be continued for some time yet to come. An increase in fees—as a result of the possible adoption of the compulsory fee for women students—may also be anticipated. If this regulation is adopted it would better THE VARSITY financially, and would also result in a decrease in the amount of space given to advertising.

As to securing the proper standard of efficiency plans to this end have been under way for some weeks past. An effort is being made that to be a member of THE VARSITY Staff will be considered an honour. Working on this basis there is every reason to believe that in the course of a few years the standard of THE VARSITY will gradually increase.

When these two ends have been achieved the way will then be open to make THE VARSITY a daily. This is an aim which the size of the University of Toronto makes desirable, and an aim which the present VARSITY Staff have in view.

The realization of these ideas necessarily depends on the length of the war—but "when the war is over" there is every reason to believe that they will be gained; and then the students will have a paper of which they may well be proud.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Attention of all student societies is called to the statement, concerning space rates for advertising functions in THE VARSITY, issued by the Business Manager.

The elections for the Students' Administrative Council will be held in the near future. The Council is the most important undergraduate body and as such demands that the most efficient men in the University be elected as members.

THE VARSITY cannot allow its year to close without expressing on behalf of the whole University a word of appreciation for the manner in which Captain Blake-Forster, and the Sergeant-Instructors, have conducted the C.O.T.C. drills this year. Efficiency and courtesy, on the part of the Captain and these Sergeants, have combined to win the hearty support and co-operation of the students.

VARSITY BUSINESS MGR. MAKES STATEMENT re ADVERTISING RATES

Local Functions Charging Admit- tance Must Pay in Future

In view of some misunderstandings that have arisen among Student Organizations as to advertising rates in THE VARSITY, the Business Manager begs leave to make the following statement:

All student functions at which an entrance fee is to be collected and for which publicity is sought through the columns of THE VARSITY are required to pay the following advertising rates:

For one insertion, 40 cents per inch.
For two insertions, 35 cents per inch per issue.

For three insertions and subsequent insertions, 30 cents per inch per issue.

Where the services of the editorial staff are required either for advance articles or for criticisms, one hundred words of reader may be inserted in the news column for every inch of advertising space purchased, provided that two complimentary tickets are placed at the disposal of the Editor-in-Chief. The business manager desires to emphasize the fact that the above rates apply only to student functions. All others come under the standard schedule of rates which are set forth in the official Varsity Rate Card.

The Business Manager solicits the hearty and continued co-operation of the student body in the extremely difficult task of financing a student newspaper during these hard war years, and urges every loyal undergraduate not only to read carefully the advertisements which are published in THE VARSITY, but to purchase exclusively from the advertisers.

Correspondence

To the Editor of THE VARSITY:

Dear Sir,—I understand that at one time there was a "Western Club" in connection with the University of Toronto. This was for the purpose of bringing together the students who came to this Eastern University from the "glorious west." There are, to my knowledge, many western students attending the University and I would like to see the Western Club resurrected and re-established.

Not only would it be a mutual pleasure for us to meet together in this distant country, but the associations and friendships formed would be of inestimable value in the future, when we return to take up our life's work. Perhaps also we would be able by our discussion to grasp the problems peculiar to the West and to arrive at the solutions.

If you can find space in your very helpful and interesting paper, please advise western students who are in sympathy with this idea to see me at the Physics Building.

RICHARD HAMER, M.A.

Washington.—A girls' debating society at the University of Washington recently decided against segregation of men and women on debating teams. The affirmative won on the argument that women and men were intelligently equal and that there was no reason for their separation in intellectual activities. An argument of the affirmative was the proven fact that non-segregation had often led to matrimony, thus rendering a great social service.

To-Day's Poem

Vampire II.

Oh Thou most mighty conqueror of fragile man,
Who oft has crowned him with a frying pan,
Who most affectionately waits for him each night,
Who would not sooner eat or sleep than fight.

To thee man courtage pays which knows no law,
And yet thou, cunning, bends him like a straw.
Till he is broke—then thou another seeks,
And him thou trainest till he scarcely speaks.

White fox and red thou wearst whilst 'tis warm
But scant raiment in mid-winter clads thy form.

On Yonge Street thou of thyself display doth make
And in Shea's lobby prearest thou thy bait.

Operas and cafes thou lovest to attend,
But when thy guy on thee doth his cash spend—
Thou givest him the once-over and dost look,
For other waters whence to cast thy hook.

RESEARCH SYSTEM TO BE INSTALLED FOR ALL TEACHERS

A system of co-operative research is being planned by the School of Philosophy of Education at the University of Texas, such that school men of the State may have the benefit of assistance from the department and from each other in working out their common problems.

This action is an outgrowth of the section of the State Teachers' Association that was formed for the study of the problems of the exceptional child in the public schools. The school superintendents presently requested that the University undertake a co-operative study to determine the causes and remedies of these conditions.

The initial effort will be confined to the school men who are primarily interested in problems of retardation, acceleration, elimination, and normal progress of children in the public schools.

It is thought that approximately one hundred schools will participate in the first work. The co-operative activity, however, will be open to every school that desires to take part.—Texas.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE GRADUATION DINNER

Received Fixture Promises to be a Most Successful Office

The Senior Year of University College is to hold its graduation dinner on Saturday evening. There are approximately one hundred and thirteen people in the year, and of these over a hundred have promised to attend. This dinner is the first of its kind in two years as the Class of 1917 graduated without this time-honoured ceremony, whose origin lies in the misty past, as old indeed as the Grey Tower.

Principal Hutton of University College has kindly consented to act in the capacity of toast master. Those of the class who have had the privilege of listening to Prof. Hutton at functions of this nature are looking forward with the keenest anticipation. Mr. R. A. Simpson, Editor-in-Chief of The Varsity will propose the toast to U.C. and Sir R. A. Falconer will reply. The President of the year will introduce the guest of the class. Dr. Taylor who makes his initial appearance at the University since his appointment at Queen's.

Mr. J. B. Brodie, Editor of Torontensis, will propose the toast to the "Ladies" and Miss M. Child, President of Women's Council of U.C. will reply. The toast to the "Class Overseas" will be proposed by Miss Dorothy McMillan and Gunter F. B. Houston, M. A., a former member of '18 will reply.

Professor J. S. Will will introduce the toast to the class in his own inimitable way.

A unique feature of the evening will be the preponderance of women over men. By the last reckoning each male member of the year will be expected to guide two fair co-eds through the maze of the menu. The class prophesies will create a precedent by prophesying Miss Park fills this arduous position and a prophesy of more than ordinary interest is expected. The greatest surprise of all is that a really original poem will be produced and read by Miss Lyon, class poetess.

The President of the University, Sir Robert Falconer, who has always exhibited a desire to maintain the ancient traditions of University College, has taken the keenest interest in the dinner. To him and the members of the year, who have so ably assisted in the preparation for the dinner, the executive of '16 desire to express their appreciation.

WOMEN STUDENTS OF U.C. DON'T FORGET.

Nominations for the new executive of the U.C. Women's Literary Society will be held in the Old Senate Chamber (Room 57 of the Main Building) this morning Friday, at twelve o'clock. A few minutes will suffice to conclude the business of every member makes a special effort to be there and to be there on time. The following are the officers arranged according to the years from which they are filled:

Literary Society.

Fourth Year — Honorary president, president, vice-president, 4th year representative, critic.

Third Year — Recording Secretary, treasurer, 3rd year representative.

Second Year — Corresponding secretary, 2nd year representative.

Grace Hall Library.

Fourth Year—President.
Third Year—Secretary-treasurer.

U.C. WOMEN'S LIT.

The Women's Literary Society of University College offers a programme of exceptional merit for its closing meeting to be held on Saturday, March 9th at the Women's Union. Prof. J. S. Will will lecture on "The War Novel in France", a subject of engrossing interest in the light of present day events. The tremendous stimulus of the war on the manifold aspects of literary production has been felt over the whole civilized world; it is to France that literature owes the most successful expression of this new spirit in prose. It is hoped that many will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing a topic of such vital and universal interest presented by an appreciative and sympathetic critic. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

CO-ED DINNER.

The Junior non-resident women will entertain the Senior non-resident women to a dinner, Tuesday evening at 7.30 in the Women's Union. The Committee in charge are Nina Mullen, Dorothy Smith, Anna Munroe, Marjorie Burgess, Marie Peterkin, Grace Brown, Hetty Hoffman. Toasts! Music! Song!!!

SEMINAR IN PHYSICS WAS HELD YESTERDAY

Dr. Chant Discussed Learnedly on an Astronomical Subject

The last Seminar in Physics for the Session 1917-18 was held yesterday afternoon, Thursday at 4.15. Three papers were presented.

Dr. Chant discussed Sir Oliver Lodge's attempt to explain the gain of forty seconds in a century by the planet mercury in its orbit. He dealt with the attempts to explain the motion by cosmic dust, inter-metrical planets and by the theory of relativity. He also stated the bearing these have on our views, physical or metaphysical of the relations between matter, time and space. Miss Foster presented a paper on gas analysis, which shows how the chemical industry is taking advantage of fine optical experiments.

Mr. McCordick explained the working of a high temperature thermostat, which could be regulated to work for 24 hours or more and also to give a gradual rise or fall of a few degrees or so during that time. The maximum variation at any time from the required temperature would not be more than one-tenth of a degree.

Y.M.C.A. NOTICES

The group pictures of the Federal Cabinet, University of Toronto Y.M.C.A. are ready at the University "Y" building, and any member wishing one should secure it immediately as there is a limited number.

Do not forget the dates of the "Brome Lake" conference for Canadian students of Eastern Canada and the Maritime Provinces. June 20-27, 1918. Be there.

The University Y.M.C.A. takes this opportunity of thanking all who have in any way contributed towards the success of the "Y" work this year, and in wishing every student the very best success in examinations and a pleasant and profitable summer's vacation.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE SOPHS HAVE ENJOYABLE PARTY

The class party of 2T0 U.C. held last night at the Women's Union was in every way a decided success. A good representation of the year was on hand, and the 2T0 spirit was quite evident throughout the evening. On account of the illness of the president, Mr. Tait, the vice-president, Miss Hewitt, acted as chairman.

The question of holding a spring election to elect a representative for the Students' Administrative Council was discussed. It was decided to hold the election for next year's executive now, as the president of the year become the representative on the Council. This closed the business for the evening.

Miss Cogrove gave a recitation in usual inimitable manner, and Miss Rankin rendered a piano solo, which was very much enjoyed. Then the floor was cleared for dancing, and soon was filled with merry couples. Time was found to serve refreshments and at 11 o'clock the party broke up with many manifestations of an enjoyable evening spent.

NEARLY 7,000 MEN FROM MICHIGAN ON SERVICE.

Michigan has sent more than 6,980 men to help the country in some branch of the service. Approximately 5,000 alumni have been called to the colours, according to a statement from Wilfred B. Shaw, secretary of the Alumni Association.

No accurate lists of the men now in the different branches of the service are available, due to the fact that the various colleges have failed to turn in a report. It is estimated that 131 faculty men and 1,851 students have left the University to enter the army and navy since war was declared. A majority of these were volunteers, although some were called by the draft.

In addition to the men already in the service, there are several hundred students, engineers, dentists, and medics enlisted in the various reserve corps. It is probable that these men will be transferred to active duty early in the spring, or immediately after the completion of their courses in the University.—Michigan Daily.

Victoria

Last week another of those popular class reunions was held at the Victoria Women's Union—this time the Class of '13 were celebrating. Seventeen people in all sat down to dinner in a cosy screened part of the large dining room. The tables with their centre-pieces of real spring flowers gave a thrill of pleasure at the first sight of them.

The usual toasts to King, Country, Alma Mater, and Our Men at the Front, were each responded to after the customary reply, by one verse of a fitting song, in which all joined heartily. Then flash-lights of the party were taken, to be enclosed in the letters written later in the evening to soldier classmates.

Upon re-assembling in the Common Room, Dr. "Reg." Smith gave an interesting account of his recent experiences at the front, and Mr. Murch sang in his usual splendid manner among the guests present were Miss Skinner, Miss M. L. Wilson and Mrs. Murch. The following members of the Class of 1913 were included in the reunion: Mrs. J. D. Robins, Mrs. A. Lloyd Smith, Misses Cora Eakins, E. Snider, A. L. Cook, Misses Spence, Ruth Neff, R. Evans, E. Henderson and Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, Messrs. J. D. Robins, N. Murch, Webster and Dr. "Reg." Smith.

The girls of '19 entertained the boys of their year on Wednesday night last in a manner which showed what good "sports" Victoria girls are, and especially the girls of '19. By eight o'clock most of the class members had met at the Women's Union and were ready to transact some class business. The election of the holders of the "men's senior stick" and the "women's stick" for next year was held with the honours falling on W. H. Bouck, better known as "Bill", and Miss C. Kilborn. H. G. Scott was elected for the fourth year representative on the "Bob" committee. Students' Council election followed, H. J. H. Smyth being appointed president and D. M. Stinson and L. C. Harvey, councillors.

The ladies had a surprise in store in the form of a mock trial. With much dignity Miss H. Carthy took the judge's seat of honour. The lawyers, Miss F. A. Smith and Miss N. Evans, looked the part of wisdom through gold-rimmed and tortoise-shelled glasses. The clerk, Miss Borden, started the ball rolling. The jurors were sworn in and a couple challenged, but found satisfactory. The judge called out Wood Jaber Hebrew Smyth, Darn Miss Stinson and Fusser Le Drew, charged with vagrancy or absent-mindedness during Prof. Hume's lecture. The prisoners were drawn into court by the constables, Miss Eastcott, Miss Roberts and Miss Riley, who yielded the rolling-pin and carving-knife in a very knowing manner. With much trembling and desperate backward glances they were sworn by Miss Stewart and finally entered the box where they pleaded "not guilty." After the case had been fully gone into the prisoners were found guilty and were made to give their "Philosophy class yell" as a penalty.

Next followed the trial of Socrates Aristotle Moote, Happy Optimist Bull and Willing Heeler Bouck charged with "importing (class) spirits into the college in violation of the O.T.A." The evidence was too strong against them and they too were found guilty and were made, as a penalty, to sing the class song which they did in a very wailing tone, much deliberation, encouraged by pokes from the police-women's domes—arms.

The inner man was next satisfied with sandwiches and cake and the rapid motion of the tongue molecules was slackened by liberal helpings of ice-cream. The evening ended as college doings usually do by college yells and songs.

PERMANENT EXECUTIVE, VIC '18.

The graduating Class of Victoria held a very successful class meeting on Friday afternoon at the Women's Union, and after engaging a delightful program got down to the serious business of electing their permanent executive. The elections were: President—R. W. Frid, Vice-President—Miss F. Watson, Secretary-Treasurer—Miss V. Sparling.

Texas is not alone in having such a few candidates for her track team. Colgate University is working under similar handicaps. Although there are only two letter men in school there, no more than twenty men have reported for practice.

VARSITY'S ROLL OF HONOUR

Lieut. Charles Russell is reported wounded. He was a student of Applied Science 1906, and he went overseas with the 120th Battalion. His home is in Hamilton.

Lieut. Harold O. Leach, B.A.Sc. 1915, has been awarded the Military Cross. He was originally with the infantry, but has transferred since going overseas to the Canadian Machine Gun Company.

Major John F. Lash, B.A. (U.) 1906, LL.B. 1909 of the firm of Blake, Lash, Anglin & Cassels, has been mentioned in Haig's despatches. Major Lash went to England as junior major of the 92nd Battalion, and was appointed Deputy Judge Advocate General to the Canadian Forces, with headquarters in London. He went to France about a year ago, and is attached to General Headquarters of the B.E.F.

Lieut. Charles E. Gage, the well-known Varsity rugby star, is returning to Canada on leave. He belonged to the class of 1916 Applied Science, and enlisted with the Divisional Ammunition Column of the 4th Brigade. He took out his commission however, and was appointed to the 228th Battalion, which was later named the 6th Battalion, Canadian Railway Troops.

Major Malcolm M. Crawford, M.B., 1898, Staff, is returning to Canada on special leave, on account of the death of his father. He has been serving with the Ontario Military Hospital at Orpington.

Two Faculty of Education are among the officers who have gone to France, on the breaking up of the 5th Division in England. They are Capt. A. B. Bikes, Ed. 1912-13, of the 198th Battalion; and Capt. F. N. Grandy, Ed. of the same year, who has been attached to the 5th Res. Bn., going to England as adjutant to the 157th Bn.

Education

On Sunday, February 24, the students of the Faculty of Education and the Normal School assembled at the Bloor St. Presbyterian Church to observe the Universal Day of Prayer for students. Dr. Keyes very ably acted as chairman. Miss Saunders and Dr. Eakin gave two very interesting addresses, which were greatly appreciated. Miss Saunders explained the Student Movement, dwelling particularly on the countries of Switzerland and India. Dr. Eakin's address was on "Prayer." After the addresses there was a period of silent prayer led by Miss Hummel. At the close of the service tea was served to accommodate those who came from a distance.

UNIVERSITY HAS FIVE ALIEN ENEMIES

Local registration of alien enemies shows five members of the faculty and student body. They are Ewald Boucke, professor of German; Anton Griener, assistant professor of mathematical engineering; W. C. R. Voigt, homeopathic graduate; Karl Richter, special engineer, and Fritz Marstall, 17E.

Professor Boucke said last evening that he had been a resident of the United States for the past 22 years and that, although he had never secured his first papers for citizenship, he applied for them in New York when he first came to this country. He said the reason he was not a citizen was not from any hostility to this country, but from merely postponing his application.

Assistant Professor Griener refused last evening to discuss the matter, but declared he would publish his reasons for not making application in a future edition.—Michigan Daily.

SCIENCE MEN ENJOY REPAST AT CARLS-RITE

Old Time Dinner Brings Out Old School Spirit

The Dinner held by the Faculty of Applied Science on Thursday evening, February 28th in the Carls-Rite Hotel was a distinct success. This was the first of these functions to be held for two years. In spite of small numbers, as compared with other days, the old School spirit was there in force, and the Dinner was all that could be desired.

After a most satisfying banquet a series of toasts was proposed and drunk. The toast to "The King" was, proposed by the President of the Engineering Society, Mr. C. McDonald. The other toasts, "The Army and Navy" was, proposed by W. L. Sagar of the fourth year; responded to by Commodore Acmilus Jarvis, D.S.O., and Lieut. C. S. L. Hertzberg, of '07 "Canada and the Empire," proposed by W. J. Browne of the third year; responded to by Mr. Justice Riddell. "The Profession," proposed by Professor H. E. Haultain; responded to by R. O. Wynne Roberts. "The Faculty and Alma Mater" proposed by E. W. McLeod of the fourth year; responded to by President Falconer and Dean Ellis.

A thorough enjoyable evening was spent by all and it is sincerely hoped that the dinner may, in future, continue as an annual function of the School.

BROME LAKE CONFERENCE TO BE AT KNOWLTON, P.Q.

Great Expectations Are Held for Success of This Annual Affair

Brome Lake Conference for all men students of Eastern Canada promises to live up to the highest expectations of everyone. Have you ever attended a Conference in an ideal location? No? Then reserve June 20-27 for the Brome Lake Conference and you will never miss another Canadian Conference.

Here is an ideal spot; here is an ideal atmosphere; here is an ideal gathering; here is an ideal purpose; here are ideal speakers and leaders from the North American continent; here is an ideal holiday; here is a profitable holiday; here is an enriching of your experiences and life.

Do you enjoy boating? Then here you have it on a lake whose phid surface reflects the sun's rays as a mirror. Do you enjoy bathing? Then here you have it to perfection. Do you enjoy hikes? Then here are presented some of the most ideal in America, along winding paths, around rugged hills and valleys, on islands and around lake shores. Do you enjoy picturesque scenery? Then here you will find your soul's delight. Do you play tennis? Then here is your chance to show your skill? Do you play baseball? Then here you have ample opportunity to twirl the horse-hide.

But do you enjoy mixing with Canadian students of other universities? Here you have it. Do you enjoy listening to and interviewing personally, men like Dr. John R. Mott, Fletcher Brockman, Dr. J. Douglas Adams? They are expected. Would you like to hear one of the outstanding leaders in Chinese thought who is a remarkable young man? Then come to Brome Lake and hear and talk with Dr. Chang Po-Ling.

Have you any problems you would like solved? Then here is your opportunity to talk them over with men who have spoken to thousands of students in all parts of the world.

Toronto students—last year we had the largest delegation present at "Brome Lake." This year we will uphold that standard and send a larger representation to this Canadian Conference. The problems of Canadian student life will be discussed, the real deep things of life will be given prominence.

You cannot afford to miss this. You want to be there. Now is the time to reserve this date, June 20-27, so that your summer plans will not conflict with it.

For further information, consult the University "Y", your college president, write Student Department, 120 Bay St., Toronto; or watch for circulars giving final information.

OVERSEAS MEN

The next gathering of members of the University who have returned from Active Service Overseas, will be held in the Faculty Union on Friday, March 15th at 4.30. As this is the last issue of THE VARSITY for this session, this notice is now inserted. All returned men now in attendance at the University are asked to keep this date in mind.

PROF. J. GIBSON HUME TO ADDRESS MENORAH

"The Jew as an Original Thinker" will be Subject of Lecture on March 11th

Are you a thinker? And if so wouldn't you like to hear what a great thinker says about other great thinkers. Of course you would. For you are here in this University not for the purpose of learning everything off by heart—the various laws and formulae—without fully comprehending their significance. You are to reflect and meditate very carefully over what you are studying, ask for the How and Why of everything. Therefore do not fail to grasp this, your last opportunity of the term, to hear Prof. J. Gibson Hume, M.A., Ph.D., Head of the Department of Philosophy, who will address the Menorah Society at their last meeting of the term on Monday evening, March 11th at the University Y.M.C.A. on the subject: "The Jew as an Original Thinker."

Professor Hume will first discuss the question, how much was borrowed from the literature and science of other peoples by the early writers of Hebrew literature. What was the special contribution made by the Hebrew writers in their own distinctive literature? What have been the influences that have moulded Jewish thought since the Great Dispersion. What may we regard as the outstanding characteristics of Jewish thinkers and what may we hope from them in the future? These questions are fundamental and to hear them discussed by one of the greatest masters of philosophy as Prof. Hume is, is indeed a great privilege.

Prof. Hume is well known by the Jewish people of Toronto as a sympathetic student and very able expositor of Spinoza. Rabbi Elzas attended the lectures during one session to study Spinoza under Prof. Hume's teaching. One of Professor Hume's pupils, the late Professor Blewett, took his Doctor's degree at Harvard on a thesis on Spinoza, which makes one of the most important parts of his book on "The Study of Nature and the Vision of God." Those who have been fortunate enough to hear Prof. Hume's recent address on "Why we are at War", know what a treat it is to hear him. So do not forget the date—March 11th. This is the last lecture of the series of lectures the Menorah has had. During this term the Society was addressed by the following: Sir Robert Falconer, Prof. G. M. Wrong, Prof. W. R. Taylor and Prof. D. Reid Keys.

During the Summer vacation all communications to the Society should be addressed to, either S. Eisen, president, 12 Bellevue Ave. or A. Greenbaum, general secretary, 55 Henry Street.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES SEEK REPRESENTATION IN CABINET

As a member of the National Association of American Universities, the University of Kansas has been asked to vote on the proposition of establishing a department of education in the federal government with a secretary in the President's cabinet. A special meeting of the University Senate has been called for Tuesday afternoon, immediately after a meeting of the College Faculty on the same afternoon, to decide on the question.

Two matters will be brought before the Senate. First, the opinion of the University on the organization of an emergency council of education composed of representatives from the members of the American Association of Universities during the war. The second, already mentioned, concerns the creation of a department of education as part of the administration.—Daily Kansan.

A Trapperess.

Miss Patsy Reese, California's only girl trapper, recently walked two hundred miles to enter the second semester at the university. She shipped her expense money on ahead of her. It consisted of pelts of two lynx, 25 coons, 18 skunks, 15 foxes, and 5 coyotes. Miss Reese expects the proceeds from the sale of these to pay her expenses for this semester in the School of Journalism.

M. & P. SOCIETY.

The last meeting of the H. Mathematical and Physical Society for the session 1917-1918 will be held on Thursday afternoon next in Room 43, Physics Building. Proceedings mostly business of the Society will start at 4.15 p.m. Members are expected to turn out in strength.

Oregon.—In addition to the usual military drill, the cadets of Oregon University will dig trenches complete with bays, traverses, and dugouts large enough for fifty men. Bayonet drill, grenade throwing, construction of barricades and entanglements and bridges also will be taught.

GREAT CANADIAN WAR BOOK

The Varsity Magazine Supplement is the third of the series, has been issued in a splendour of typography and illustration worthy of the noble record which it enshrines. Every Canadian who peruses it must thrill with patriotic pride, and every member of the University of Toronto must feel bound to his Alma Mater by new ties of affection and gratitude. The faces of over three hundred of her sons who have made the great sacrifice look out from these pages, lives that were cut off in the fullness of promise, before their noontide. From such heroic examples Canadians should be inspired by a fresh concentration of the claims and tasks of the war.

The Editor's preface tells us there have been four thousand three hundred enlistments from the University of Toronto, graduates and undergraduates. They are fighting and serving in all the theatres of war where the British flag flies, even in far-off Mesopotamia. The present Supplement contains the photographs of one thousand three hundred and forty-four now on active service. These are supplementary to the two thousand and seventy-two photographs appearing in previous editions. The monumental labour, a labour of love, involved in the collection, engraving, and printing of this precious gallery of portraits is only one feature of this superb souvenir. The letterpress of the Supplement contains a number of well-written and beautifully-illustrated articles from noted contributors, among whom are the President of the University and the heads of the affiliated Colleges. This vivid, moving, and comprehensive record of war activities has the permanent material of history. From November 1914, to December, 1917, three hundred and forty-six members of the University died on active service. Their names have been inscribed on the Roll of Honour, which will be an imperishable memory and the most glorious tradition of their Alma Mater.

"To keep the house unharmed
Their fathers built so fair,
Denying endurance armed
Better than brute despair,
They found the secret of the word
That saith
'Service is sweet, for all true life
Is death.'"—The Globe, Toronto

A SHINING RECORD

In the splendour of calendared paper, magnificent engravings and well-ordered type the Varsity Magazine Supplement for the current year sets forth in just pride the record achieved by the University of Toronto overseas. During the past year the list of dead has lengthened from 120 to 346 names.

Portraits are provided not only of the dead, wounded and missing, but of the whole 1,344 men on active service. Last year the number of portraits was 2,072. The Supplement makes it plain that ever since 1914 the University has been on a definite war footing. The wide variety of the work done by the men and women of this institution in active service and by those left behind is remarkable. For example, a University Base Hospital, No. 4 Canadian General, was established at Saloniki. In the Supplement Dr. C. K. Clarke, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, records the progress of the unit during the second summer of its establishment in "the worst climate in the world." The hospital had a daily average of 700 patients, and the death-rate was only .005.

Each of the departments of the University has been doing its bit, and here is the record, carefully compiled and authoritative. We quote from Mr. Balfour's address before convocation: "Believe me, the sacrifice made by these young men with all life before them is not merely service to their country and to the world, it is a direct service to the University which they have left for more dangerous and perilous methods of doing their duty in that station in the Empire to which they have been called. When the future generations come to this great seat of learning in order to equip themselves for the struggle in life which is before them, do not doubt that they will get inspiration by looking at that list of immortal heroes." The Supplement contains 184 pages of quarto size, and is a most creditable piece of bookmaking.—Toronto Daily News

NEW SUPPLEMENT APPEARS

Latest Varsity Magazine Shows that 4,300 Men have Enlisted—List of Dead Totals 346.

The Varsity Magazine supplement just off the press is a splendid record of the effect of the war upon the colleges and faculties, comprising the University of Toronto and of the various phases of the war work organized and carried on in connection with the University.

Since the publication of the Supplement a year ago the list of honoured dead has lengthened from 120 to 346 names. The honour roll and active service roll together show approximately 4,300 enlistments from the University. The Supplement contains the photographs, names, and colleges or faculties of 346 members of the University of Toronto who have died on active service since November, 1914, and up to December, 1917. A second photographic section of twenty-five pages inscribed "On Active Service", contains the photographs of 1,344 members of the University now on active service, these being supplementary to 2,072 photos of Varsity men on active service which appeared in the previous issue of the Supplement.

During the past year many of them have returned bearing the scars and honours of war; some to return again and "see the thing through", others incapacitated for further military service, to fit themselves once more for civilian life.

The articles on the University Hospital Supply Association and Women Student-Farmers indicate that the women of the University, no less than the men, have set a fixed purpose towards winning the war. "Toronto Star".

REMARKABLE PRODUCTION

A very remarkable publication is the 185-page folio Supplement to Varsity, being the war supplement of the Varsity Magazine, published by the students' association of Toronto University. It is the most elaborate and beautiful of all the war numbers which we have seen, the numerous photographic reproductions being extremely well printed. These include over 2,000 portraits of graduates and undergraduates of the University who are on active service, and there are also portraits of the hundreds of Varsity men who have given their lives for their country and the great cause. This publication will be cherished as a precious souvenir of the war in thousands of Canadian homes.—"Hamilton Herald".

VARSITY HONOURS SOLDIERS

Second Magazine War Supplement—
Memorial to Members at War.

The second Varsity Magazine War Supplement has made its very attractive appearance in a heavy white cover, on which, framed in grey, is pictured the Varsity student of yesterday and the Varsity soldier of to-day with the beautiful old main building as a background. This second number does not duplicate the first, except in the roll of honour, which includes all the University's heroic dead, now numbering 346 members. Of the nearly four thousand men who have enlisted from the University, 2,072 photographs appeared in the first issue of the Supplement. The present issue contains 1,344 additional pictures, and following this is a list of 540 members of the University on active service whose photographs the editor was unable to obtain. Other interesting features of the magazine are pictures of Varsity men now prisoners of war, also several listed as missing; news of Canadian officers at universities and colleges of the United States, an illustrated article on the University Base Hospital, and sketches of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps and the University of Toronto Overseas Training Company, which so many people mistakenly imagine to be one and the same. The war work of the different faculties and colleges combined in the University is outlined in the magazine section, which also contains messages from his Excellency the Governor-General, Sir Robert Borden, Sir Wm. Hearst, Sir Edmund Walker, and the president of the University. "Evening Telegram".

VARSITY SUPPLEMENT

We have received a copy of the Varsity Supplement, issued from the Toronto University, a well-printed and handsomely-got-up volume of 185 pages, copiously and beautifully illustrated throughout. The numerous portraits of members of the University on the Honour Roll and those on active service bear silent testimony to the great part this renowned educational institution is playing in the war, especially when it is remembered that these form but one of three similar lists. The text provides very entertaining and instructive reading, being mostly from the pens of the University professors. An article on Functional Re-education at Hart House is of special interest to Hamiltonians, on account of the connection with that institute of Mr. M. E. Blatz, of our city.—"Hamilton Spectator".

VARSITY SUPPLEMENT

Yearly Magazine Published by Toronto University Students is Wonderful Publication
This Year.

The yearly Supplement to the Varsity Magazine came to hand yesterday and is one of the most wonderful student publications ever issued. To call it a "student" publication seems entirely wrong, one should rather call it a patriots' number for the long lists of university men who have responded to the call to duty, and the list of those who have given up their lives in the service of the empire shows plainly that the students of Toronto University were trained not only in peace prosperity, but for whatever might fall to their lot in the world. And right nobly have those thousands come up to the standard of their Alma Mater!

The book is a 185-page magazine. Articles with pictures on the Balfour Convocation, the Connaught Laboratories, the Red Cross Society, the Varsity Girls' summer work and the Secours National as well as short messages from the president, and Sir Robert Borden, are part of the contents. Each affiliated college or faculty is given space and due credit for its achievements. Even other universities are given a write up. The book was got out by the Students' Administrative Council.—"Toronto World".

A MODEL MAGAZINE

In these days of rush and hurry and competition that too often is the death rather than the life of trade, it is refreshing to come across a Canadian publication which shows the highest form of art in its every department from cover to cover. The Varsity Magazine Supplement, just issued by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto, consists of 170 pages filled with high-class illustrations, excellent articles by well-known writers, and advertisements that are models in themselves. The work is a credit to the University of Toronto and to Canada. There are over two thousand portraits of the three thousand graduates who are scattered over the face of the Empire engaged in active war work, and one entire page is given up to names of those who have been specially honored for their services not only by Britain but by France and Italy as well.

There is no more valuable collection of information on the war and its problems extant to-day, and students of current events, whether or not directly interested in the University and what its graduates are doing, cannot do better than procure a copy and preserve it as a work for future reference.—Peterboro' Daily Review.

THE VARSITY MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT

The great response to Canada's call to her sons has perhaps never been so well represented as in the "Varsity Magazine Supplement", which pays a splendid tribute to the heroes of the University of Toronto, over 3,000 of whom have answered the summons to do or die in defence of their homeland. Their pictures are almost all portrayed in the beautiful work of art this magazine composes and the Honour Roll pays silent homage to the noble dead. From "over there" they have sent greetings, telling interesting tales of their experiences, which are reprinted in this splendid publication. It not only deals with the brave fellows that have gone, but also with the way in which the girls are ably and willingly doing their bit, both as nurses, engaged in Red Cross work, and out on the farms. Sir Robert Borden and Sir William Hearst have sent messages expressing their appreciation of the great sacrifice made, and many impressive articles appear, interspersed here and there with exquisite bits of poetry written by University men. Altogether the magazine is indeed a veritable work of art and is a fitting memorial to the gallant men who have "gone west" or still "carrying on" in this great world struggle.—"Niagara Falls Daily Record".

VARSITY'S WAR SUPPLEMENT

Contains An Article on the Record of Queen's.

From every standpoint the Varsity Magazine Supplement just issued by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto is a credit of the institution. Articles from the pens of eminent Canadians enrich the pages of the work and add to the general high standard of excellence therein. The patriotism of the University of Toronto is evident in every page and an account of the service which each faculty has done during the past few years of war is presented by the respective deans.

Prof. H. T. Wallace of Queen's University has contributed an article on the efforts of Queen's and her proud record is ably set forth.

The literary matter is set in a masterpiece of the printer's art and the magazine, which is offered to the public in order that money for war purposes may be raised, will be prized as a record of the achievements of one Canadian University.—"Daily British Whig", Kingston.

A SUPERB PUBLICATION

Different from previous editions in that it contains more historical matter, the latest issue of the "Varsity Magazine Supplement", published by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto is a worthy successor to the previous numbers and will rank as one of the finest publications of its kind ever issued in Canada.

It is of course primarily a war number, telling of the effects of the war on the University, but in addition to the war records it contains a sketch of each college and also of the Ontario Agricultural College and of Queen's University. Then in addition there is an illustrated article entitled, "The Response of British Universities to the German Menace", by Sidney Childs, B.A., making a complete record of University activities in the war.

As in the preceding numbers the most striking feature is the honour roll. Last year the number who had down their lives was 123. This year the roll has lengthened and contains 346 names. It takes 35 pages to print the pictures of these noble men. In addition to this there are 1,344 pictures in a list headed "On Active Service" and still another section containing 2,070 portraits of men serving with the Allied arms. An editorial note states that 540 pictures could not be secured which makes an approximate list of 4,300 men from the University, who have enlisted since the outbreak of the war.

That these "Varsity" men have been bringing honours back to the old school is shown by a lengthy list of men who have received decorations. In this list there are 2 V.C.'s, 11 C.M.G.'s, 2 C.B.'s, 51 D.S.O.'s, 167 M.C.'s, 6 D.C. Crosses, 14 Military Medals and also a number of foreign decorations and a list of officers and men mentioned in despatches.

Under several different heads the work of the Canadian Red Cross, in which the University of Toronto has entered very heartily, comes in for favourable comment and much interesting information is given about the work of the hospital units on active service. One especially fine article is by Dr. C. K. Clarke, of the University of Toronto Canadian General Hospital, and speaks of work in Saloniki.

Among the most notable contributors are: His Grace, the Duke of Devonshire, G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O.; Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada; Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario; Sir Edmund Walker and Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University. With these articles by men most prominent in public life in Canada, coupled with magnificent art and press work, together with a noble record of Canada's sons, who were UN-AFRAID, the Varsity Supplement is a publication that should be in everyone's hands. A large share of the credit for the fine appearance goes to the secretary of the Association, Mr. Collier C. Grant, of St. Marys, who is well known in Stratford.—"Stratford Daily Herald".

THE VARSITY WAR NUMBER

The Toronto University Magazine Supplement, containing a hundred and eighty-four large quarto pages of fine toned paper, and with a wealth of illustrations and short appreciations by the Governor-General, Premier Borden and Sir Robert Falconer, is a publication that will commend itself to thousands of Ontarians. The illustrations are works of art and the pictures of the men who have won a niche in the honour roll and those on active service are shown with photographic exactness and clearness. The editor, Mr. Sidney Childs, who may well be proud of the magazine, informs us that 346 University men have made the supreme sacrifice in this war and that there are 1,344 of the U. men on active service.

Those who wish to preserve a memento or memorial of the war will be well advised to procure a copy. The price is 75 cents.—"Hamilton Daily Times".

MOST CREDITABLE PRODUCTION

The Varsity Magazine Supplement for the current year has been issued and is a most creditable production, in fact it is unique in its character, both in regard to the letter press and the illustrations. The honour roll of 110 who have given themselves for their country is a leading feature, while altogether there are 1,500 portraits of those who have enlisted. The Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto, under whose direction it has been gotten out, have done their work in a worthy manner and friends of the University should be anxious to obtain a copy, which embraces 200 pages, and sells at 75 cents.—"Stratford Daily Beacon".

VICTORIA QUINTETTE
DEFEAT UNIV. COLL.Game Won by a Narrow Margin
After Close Struggle

On Thursday afternoon another ray of light was shed on the Sifton Cup Series when Victoria took the basketball game from U.C. by the score 17-12. All through the series these two teams have eyed each other anxiously and as the group was tied an extra game was required to decide it. The result of this was in dispute but U.C. in good sportsmanship, offered to play another game. Although the teams have always appeared about equal, yesterday the breaks went against U.C. and at times they appeared demoralised under the close back-checking of Victoria forwards. In this department the U.C. forwards fell short, but their defence played a brilliant game.

Robinson of U.C. was the best man on the floor and headed the score column with ten points. Moote was the most serviceable man in the Vic team and followed Robinson with nine points to his credit. Frid and Laing each scored two baskets and Borsook one. The Methodists seem a better balanced team and played (no pun intended) more methodically.

First Period.

Vic took the offensive and soon after play began led by several points. U.C. broke leisurely into the game, but alarmed by the rapid rise in the Vic score, they began to work frantically. However, once in the lead the Methodists refused to be headed and the period closed with Vic leading 10-7.

Second Period.

Both teams jumped into the fray in a do or die manner and U.C. appeared to have the best of the play. Some jinx seemed to rest on the ball, for each time the U.C. men coaxed it into the ring, it managed to crawl back out again and after ten minutes of misfortune, U.C. lost heart. Vic, sensing the trouble, played harder and soon established a comfortable lead which they held till the game closed with them on the long end of a 17-12 score.

Victoria — Moote, Frid, Muttart, Bull, Gordon, Laing.

U.C. — Robinson, Parker, Lorrman, Stokes, Borsook, Taylor.

UNIVERSITY Y.M.C.A.
DOES MUCH GOOD WORK

Locates and Records Suitable Rooms for Students

This year, the University "Y" had a list of about 200 rooms for the convenience of the incoming students. Duplicates of this list were in each College and Faculty and were very serviceable in assisting the Freshmen especially, as well as those of other years, to locate in good rooms.

Few realize possibly the amount of time and energy expended in securing this list, since every room is personally inspected by the "Y" Secretary, assistants or voluntary workers. Of course, the list is considerably augmented by names which come in by phone or by letter in answer to an advertisement in a daily paper, these latter cards, however, are marked "not inspected", to that an enquirer looking over the list will at once know that that room is not recommended by the "Y", although it may be a perfectly good room. If the enquirer wishes to investigate, he may inspect the room personally.

In order to facilitate matters for next year, a new plan is being adopted which calls for your co-operation if it is to be successful. In the course of a week or so, in one of your classrooms, some one will pass around cards or slips of paper and you will be asked to fill in the name of the landlady where you are rooming, the street and number, whether gas or electric light, 'phone or not, on what floor and the price per week.

In this way, you will be helping yourself and others in locating a suitable room for next academic year. We sincerely trust that you will assist us in every manner possible towards making this plan a decided success.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS.

The following are results of the elections for the Students' Council for 1918-19 in the faculties designated. No reports have been received from Dents, Vets or Forestry.

W. S. Watson—Trinity (re-elected).
G. V. Lewis—Wycliffe.
W. G. Gallagher—Knox.
A. O'Brien—St. Mikes.

In all other faculties results will not be known until a later date.

VIC. SOPHOMORES
DEFEAT FRESHIES

Score was 7-4

On Tuesday evening one of the most interesting games of the season was staged by the frosh and sophs of Victoria, at Little Vic rink. The sophs started with a series of rushes and through the first period succeeded in keeping the freshies busy on defence. The period ended with 2-0 leading 3-0. In the last two periods the freshmen came back strong and displayed better style. In both periods each team scored twice, making the final score 7-4 in favor of 2-0.

There was a large crowd of freshettes and sophettes present to see the game and cheer their men on to increased efforts. Thus encouraged, several of the freshmen showed unusual ability, however, they all sacrificed individual honours for team play. Murgatroyd and Roseborough worked together very effectively on defence, while Westman and Linton pulled some sensational plays on the forward line.

Johnson was the hardest working man on the sophomore team, but as usual Luke was the star of the game, netting the majority of the winner's goals. It was his spectacular, individual rushes which won the game for his team.

2T1—Ayearst, Murgatroyd, Roseborough, Graydon, Linton, Westman.

2T0—Muttart, Gordon, Luke, McKinney, Johnson, Maginley.

Referee—J. Lount.

Mulock Cup emblematic of the championship was won by the O.S.T.C. from Sr. Meds. There was a great absence of senior material such as has graced the ranks of Mulock Cup teams in former years.

Soccer.

Owing to the extremely late start, the soccer schedule was much shorter than usual and the teams did not have the opportunity for much practice before the series began. However, when the series was well under way, the turf-pounders displayed considerable zeal. The interest shown in the games might have been greater, but the few who turned out certainly gave their teams good support. Dents were declared winners of the cup after a close hard-fought series.

Basketball.

The Sifton Cup series was delayed by postponed games far longer than customary. Many of the games were won by default, and a few of the teams dropped out of the race. The group winners are: Victoria, O.T.C., Sr. Meds. and Jr. Meds. (1). The semi-finals will be played early in March.

Hockey

The University was favoured by the presence of many good players and could have supported a team in Jr. O.H.A. with no difficulty. The group winners were U.C., S.P.S. and Dents. U.C. drew the bye and with play the winner of the S.P.S.-Dent game for the cup.

ANGLICAN CLUB

An important, though rather poorly attended meeting of the Anglican Club was held on Tuesday afternoon at the Deaconess' Training School.

After some time spent in Red Cross work, the nominations for the officers for next year took place. The following is the result:

Hon. President—Mrs. Griffith Thomas.
Hon. Vice-President—Miss Watts.
President—Miss B. Irwin.
Vice-President—Miss K. Osman.
Treasurer—Misses I. Crey and R. Broadbridge.

Secretary—Misses Herbert and A. Webb.
It was decided to leave the positions of third and fourth year representatives, and also of faculty representative until next year.

The next meeting of the Club will take place on Tuesday afternoon, March 12th, at the home of Mrs. Griffith Thomas. All members are urged to be present, as elections will be held and it will be the last meeting this year.

IMPORTANT.

A special meeting of the Women's Literary Society for nominations for the incoming executive will be held to-day at 12 noon in the Old Senate Chamber. Everybody is requested to be present at 12 sharp.

Knox

It may be that before another issue of THE VARSITY, Knox College will be bereft of its student boarders who may vacate in favour of convalescent soldiers, and so a little discussion about the College as a whole would not be out of place. Knox College, which was completed in 1915, faces the front campus from the west side, the main entrance being on St. George St. The College has been built after the fashion of an English university. A spacious quadrangle is enclosed by three wings and at the north is situated the principal's residence and North House. The east wing consists of the professors' and theological class-rooms, while the north and south ends contains the library and beautiful chapel respectively. The Knox Chapel is considered one of the finest in Canada and a short service is held there every morning.

The elegant library contains many volumes and many original historical documents. The south wing of Knox is made up of the two houses, East and Centre. Centre House is the largest, but it is generally conceded that this year East House is the liveliest and noisiest, and that this condition is due to the heroic efforts of the house rips. The West Wing consists of West House, the common rooms, the dining room and commissary departments, which we may state has been striving heroically to fulfil the "obligations" of 125 students. The college is governed by a committee of house representatives, one from each house and each year, except in the case of East House, which requires two representatives, one to offset the other. Knox is fortunate indeed in having a splendid gymnasium, and such fine dormitories and in the event of the soldiers taking over the College, it will be an event of sorrow for the Knox bunch to be broken up, as it is we hope for the best. Knox College wishes to extend to the rest of the student body, the best of success in the exams and throughout the coming year.

Notices

A special and urgent meeting of the Modern Language Club is requested on Monday, March 4th at 12 o'clock in Room 51, Main Building, for the purpose of nominations. Please come promptly as there are many who wish to attend lectures at 12.10.

One "Best"

In buying a watch, as in most other articles, there's just one "best."

Consider this—for nearly half a century we've been trying to sell the best in watches, as in other goods. Like Ryrie diamonds, Ryrie watches are the best of their class. We've no doubt of that—neither will you upon investigation.

Best in timekeeping qualities, best in "looks." You can be the judge of the case, let us guide you about the "works."

For men's wear, let us suggest our "Century" movement in 18 Kt. gold case at $100.00. It will be your friend for life. Other Ryrie movements in gold-filled cases as low as $15.00.

ITALY'S ATHLETIC GIANT

MACISTE
The hero of Gabiria, in
"THE WARRIOR."

Seven breathless reels of comedy, war and hair-raising thrills and spectacular action. The play duplicates the actual experience through which the Herculean Italian passed through at the outbreak of hostilities in Italy. The uprooting of a tree, the scaling of dizzy heights and crossing the yawning chasms is a matter of little moment to the Italian giant. See how he releases a band of his compatriots from an Austrian internment camp, and he overpowers two Austrian officers. With it all he possesses a smile, which for dazzling happiness and good nature is all his own.

The performance in the Winter Garden is the same as in Loew's Theatre.

Arrangements are now being made by members of the sophomore class to hold an informal dance in the Oddfellows' Temple, Thursday evening, Feb. 7th. The committee in charge are making every effort to make the evening a success and it is expected that all the years will be well represented. Strathdee's Orchestra will supply the music. Tickets may be obtained from members of the At-Home Committee.

The inter-faculty dental hockey team in charge of Manager Hord, leave to-day for Guelph, where they will meet the Ontario Agricultural College team. After the game, which will be played during the afternoon, the Dents will be entertained by the members of the O.A.C. A dance and social evening will be held.

The annual elections of the various years of the R.C.D.S. will be held Friday, March 8th. Nominations have already been held and an exceedingly friendly spirit prevails amongst the students. Candidates have already begun their electioneering, and from all indications the coming election will be a closely contested and well managed one.

DECLARES GERMANY A MORAL FAILURE

"One of the greatest tragedies of the war is the moral failure of intellectual Germany," said Dean Willett of the University of Chicago in the Chapel to-day.

In discussing Germany before the war and in her present condition, the speaker showed how all the world had been taught by Germany in all the branches of science and art. He spoke of how highly the opportunities afforded American students to study in German universities were formerly regarded. "But after the war," he added, "it will be a long time before American students will attend those universities. Germany is a moral failure."

He went on to show how a rich and almost corrupt nation, not satisfied with her many industrial and material accomplishments, was obsessed by the vision of a larger place in the sun until it proved her undoing.—Columbia Spectator

Trinity

Trinity College Theological Society met in Room 9, Monday evening at 7:30, when a very excellent paper on "Spiritualism" was read by the Rev. Robert Axon, a spirited discussion followed in which many diverse views were expressed. No decision was reached, however, as to whether the Christian Church should accept or reject the theory of spiritualism as one of its doctrines.

The Provost of Trinity College held a tea in honour of Trinity Graduating Class and the Choir on Wednesday at 4:30. Among the guests present were the Rev. (Capt.) Frank Arthur Brooke '18, also returned.

The Toronto Street Railway have earned the thanks of the students of Trinity College by their action in changing the route of the Queen Street cars, thereby enabling them to get home early and escape the usual gate fines for tardiness.

South Carolina.—Baseball at the University of South Carolina depends this season on the raising of three hundred dollars by the student body. Baseball has always been played at a financial loss there, and this year, on account of prevailing conditions, the Governing Council thought it necessary that the season be begun on a sound financial basis.
